Ladies and Gentlemen:

Enclosed is a MDEG application reflecting a contemplated change in the ownership of U.S. Expediters, Inc. d/b/a CPAP.com (the "Company"). In addition to the contemplated change in ownership, the Company will transition from a Texas corporation to a Texas limited liability company, but it will retain the same Federal Tax ID Number. The Company operates one location in Texas and provides durable medical equipment to patients in certain other states.

Currently the stock of the Company is owned as follows:

- John W. Goodman – 41.5%
- John C. Goodman – 41.5%
- Zach Goodman – 17%

On or about December 20, 2021, the current stockholders of the Company expect to close on an F-Reorganization transaction, pursuant to which (i) Somnum Bene LLC will acquire 100% of the ownership interests in the Company and (ii) the Company name will transition to U.S. Expediters, LLC d/b/a CPAP.com. Both a pre- and a post-closing organization chart is included below for your reference.

There will be no significant changes in the Company's operations or its management team as a result of this transaction. The Company will continue to operate at the same location under the same Federal Tax ID Number.

Please note that the information included in the attached application will be effective on the date the anticipated transaction closes. In addition, the d/b/a of CPAP.com will be associated with U.S. Expediters, LLC in conjunction with the reorganization described above.

Request for Temporary License

Pursuant to instructions from the Board's counsel, we request a temporary license or permission to continue to operate while this new change of ownership application is pending approval.

We are happy to answer any questions that you have regarding the transaction or the ownership structure of the Company. Should you require additional documentation or information, please contact Carolyn Goodman at 713-351-3419 or via email at regulatorylicensing@cpap.com.

Sincerely,

John W. Goodman

Howdy,

There was a typo in my last answer, to be very clear:

No, I am not the subject of a court order for the support of a child.

Thanks,

Johnny

Section 2 Question 3.

All our discipline is a result of a single incident regarding the failure to file a timely zero report. This is summary. We are also attaching all documents, orders, agreements and a complete description.

On July 22, 2011 disciplinary action was taken against DrugSource, Inc. by the Colorado Board of Pharmacy. We submitted our "zero" report to their Electronic Prescription Drug Monitoring Program two (2) days late. Pharmacy violated sections 12-22-125(1)(c) and 12-22-708, C.R.S. Specifically, the Board found that the pharmacy failed to submit data to the Colorado Prescription Drug Monitoring Program for the June 16-25, 2011 reporting period. Drugsource agreed to pay a fine.

As a result of this issue, Hawaii found Drugsource failed to report the Colorado Order within thirty days. The agreement required DrugSource to pay a fine, but the Agreement specifically provided that DrugSource was not admitting any violation of Hawaii of law or rule.

However, Louisiana issued a letter of reprimand because we did not disclose the Hawaii settlement. Drugsource paid a fine

Illinois fined us based on the result of previously reported discipline in other states and is not the result of anything that occurred in the state of Illinois.

DrugSource is committed to following all applicable laws in the states where it is licensed and conducts its business and takes these disciplinary matters seriously. As a result, it has adopted internal procedures to make sure that these violations do not recur.

All our discipline is a result of a single incident regarding the failure to file a timely zero report.
This is summary. We are also attaching all documents, orders, agreements and a complete description.

On July 22, 2011 disciplinary action was taken against DrugSource, Inc. by the Colorado Board of Pharmacy. We submitted our "zero" report to their Electronic Prescription Drug Monitoring Program two (2) days late. Pharmacy violated sections 12-22-125(1)(c) and 12-22-708, C.R.S. Specifically, the Board found that the pharmacy failed to submit data to the Colorado Prescription Drug Monitoring Program for the June 16-25, 2011 reporting period. Drugsource agreed to pay a fine.

As a result of this issue, Hawaii found Drugsource failed to report the Colorado Order within thirty days. The agreement required DrugSource to pay a fine, but the Agreement specifically provided that DrugSource was not admitting any violation of Hawaii of law or rule.

However, Louisiana issued a letter of reprimand because we did not disclose the Hawaii settlement. Drugsource paid a fine

Illinois fined us based on the result of previously reported discipline in other states and is not the result of anything that occurred in the state of Illinois.

DrugSource is committed to following all applicable laws in the states where it is licensed and conducts its business and takes these disciplinary matters seriously. As a result, it has adopted internal procedures to make sure that these violations do not recur.

APPENDIX A

Disciplinary Matters as of June, 2018

In summary, DrugSource's three (3) disciplinary matters to date relate to a single disciplinary violation - its failure to timely file "zero" reports in 2011 with the Colorado Board of Pharmacy. To resolve that matter, DrugSource entered into a 2011 Stipulation and Final Agency Order issued by the Colorado State Board of Pharmacy ("Colorado Order") and paid a $5,000 fine. DrugSource reported the Colorado disciplinary action to the Hawaii Board of Pharmacy when DrugSource's license was next up for renewal. However, DrugSource was unaware of the fact that Hawaii law required it to report the Colorado discipline to Hawaii within thirty days of the disciplinary decision. Since DrugSource admittedly had failed to report that discipline to Hawaii within the thirty day period, DrugSource entered into a Settlement Agreement with the Hawaii Department of Commerce and Consumer Affairs ("Hawaii Settlement"), by which DrugSource agreed to pay a $1,000 fine. Because the documentation of the Hawaii Settlement used the term "Settlement" and nowhere used the term "Disciplinary Order", and because the Agreement contained language to the effect that DrugSource was not admitting to any violation of Hawaii law, DrugSource mistakenly did not believe that the Hawaii Settlement constituted disciplinary action. As a result, DrugSource erroneously failed to report the Hawaii Settlement on its 2017 renewal application with the Louisiana Board of Pharmacy. This resulted in DrugSource's entry into a Consent Agreement with the Louisiana Board of Pharmacy, whereby it agreed to pay a $5,000 fine for such error ("Louisiana Consent Agreement").

A more detailed discussion of those settlements and orders follows.

1. Colorado Order. $5,000 fine with 10% Surcharge and compliance terms. The Colorado Order was based on allegations that DrugSource failed to comply with the data submission requirements of Colorado's Electronic Prescription Drug Monitoring Program ("PDMP") for the reporting periods of January 1-10, 2011 and June 16-25, 2011 in that DrugSource failed to file a "zero" report with the PDMP indicating no dispensing transactions. DrugSource actually did file the required report, but it did so two (2) days late. DrugSource stipulated that such conduct was a violation of sections 12-22-125(1)(c) and 12-22-708, C.R.S. DrugSource paid the $5,000 fine and 10% surcharge imposed for that violation, and has thereafter fully complied with the data submission requirements of Colorado's PDMP.

2. Hawaii Settlement. DrugSource entered into a Settlement Agreement with the Hawaii Department of Commerce and Consumer Affairs on November 19, 2015. The Agreement required DrugSource to pay a $1,000 fine, but the Agreement specifically provided that DrugSource was not admitting to any violation of Hawaii of law or rule. The Hawaii Settlement resolved allegations by the Hawaii Department of Commerce and Consumer Affairs that DrugSource failed to timely report the Colorado Order within thirty days of that disciplinary decision, in violation of Hawaii Revised Statutes Sections 436B-19(13) and (15). Hawaii discovered this violation when DrugSource disclosed the existence of the Colorado Order on its next application for renewal of its Hawaii license after the entry of that Order.

3. Louisiana Consent Agreement. DrugSource entered into the Louisiana Consent Agreement in June 2018, and that Agreement imposed the following sanctions against DrugSource: a Letter of Reprimand, a $5,000 fine and a $250 charge for administrative costs. The Louisiana Consent Agreement settled allegations by the Louisiana Board of Pharmacy regarding DrugSource's failure to disclose the Hawaii Settlement on its 2017 Application for Renewal of Pharmacy Permit violated La. R.S. 37:1241(A)(1), (A)(2), (A)(6). (A)(7) and (A)(22). DrugSource had erroneously believed that the Hawaii Settlement was not reportable because it did not involve an admission of any violation of Hawaii law and at all times referred to a "settlement" as opposed to a "disciplinary order". Nevertheless, to avoid the cost and time associated with administrative and judicial proceedings, DrugSource consented to the Louisiana Consent Agreement and sanctions.

4. Illinois Consent Order. We have been disciplined by the Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation. Our Illinois License number is 054.016204. On February 18, 2020, the Acting Director of the Illinois Department of Financial and Professional Regulation, Cecilia Abundis, signed a Consent Order which reprimanded Drugsource, Inc. A copy of this consent order is attached.
This reprimand is the result of previously reported discipline in other states and is not the result of anything that occurred in the state of Illinois. In summary, DrugSource's disciplinary matters to date all relate to a single incident – its failure to timely file "zero" reports in 2011 with the Colorado Board of Pharmacy. The Colorado discipline, along with the resulting discipline in Hawaii and Louisiana, has been previously reported to your Board. The Illinois Board imposed essentially the same discipline that had been previously imposed against Drugsource, Inc. by the pharmacy boards of Colorado, Hawaii and Louisiana.

DrugSource is committed to following all applicable laws in the States where it is licensed and conducts its business and takes these disciplinary matters seriously. As a result, it has adopted internal procedures to make sure that these violations do not recur.

Case No. 2011-004984

STIPULATION AND FINAL AGENCY ORDER

IN THE MATTER OF THE DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDING REGARDING THE NON-RESIDENT PRESCRIPTION DRUG OUTLET REGISTRATION OF DRUGSOURCE INC., REGISTRATION NO. OSP 5070, RESPONDENT PHARMACY.

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED by and between the Colorado State Board of Pharmacy ("Board") and Drugsource Inc. ("Respondent Pharmacy"), to resolve all matters pertaining to Board Case Number 2011-004984 as follows:

1. On August 17, 1998, Respondent Pharmacy became registered by the Board as a non-resident prescription drug outlet in the State of Colorado and was issued Registration No. OSP 5070 ("Colorado Registration").

2. The Board has jurisdiction over Respondent Pharmacy, its Colorado Registration, and the subject matter of this Stipulation and Final Agency Order ("Final Agency Order") pursuant to the provisions of title 12, article 22, C.R.S. (2010), otherwise known as the Pharmaceuticals and Pharmacists Act.

3. Respondent Pharmacy's address of record with the Board and current location is 2020 Lunt Avenue, Elk Grove Village, IL 60007.

4. Respondent Pharmacy admits these findings and hereby waives any further proof in this or any other proceeding before the Board regarding the following facts.

5. On January 14, 2011, Board staff initiated a Complaint against Respondent Pharmacy because it failed to comply with the data submission requirements of Colorado's Electronic Prescription Drug Monitoring Program ("PDMP") for the reporting period of January 1 through January 10, 2011.

6. Respondent Pharmacy subsequently failed to submit the required data to the PDMP reporting dispensing transactions of controlled substances in the State of Colorado for the reporting period of June 16 through June 25, 2011, and did not submit a "zero" report indicating no dispensing transactions for said reporting period as required by Board rule.

7. Respondent Pharmacy admits that the conduct described above constitutes a violation of §§12-22-125(1)(c) and 12-22-708, C.R.S. and that such conduct provides grounds for disciplinary action against Respondent Pharmacy's Colorado Registration pursuant to Board Policy 30-8.

DISPOSITION

$5,000.00 Fine with 10% Surcharge and Terms

8. Fine with Surcharge. Respondent Pharmacy accepts the following discipline: Pursuant to §12-22-125.2(5), C.R.S. Respondent Pharmacy shall pay a fine of Five Thousand Dollars and No Cents ($5,000.00). Respondent Pharmacy understands and acknowledges that, pursuant to §24-34-108, C.R.S., the Executive Director of the Department of Regulatory Agencies shall impose an additional surcharge of 10% of this fine. Respondent Pharmacy shall therefore pay a total amount of Five Thousand, Five Hundred Dollars and No Cents ($5,500.00). The total amount shall be payable to the State of Colorado and shall be remitted in one lump sum to be included when Respondent Pharmacy submits this signed Final Agency Order to the Board.

9. Compliance with PDMP. At all times Respondent Pharmacy is registered with the Colorado State Board of Pharmacy, it shall comply with the data submission requirements of the PDMP. Respondent Pharmacy understands and acknowledges that future violations of PDMP reporting requirements, including failure to submit a "zero" report in the event of no dispensing transactions in Colorado during the relevant reporting period, shall lead to additional penalties pursuant to Board Policy 30-8.

10. Advisements and Waivers. Respondent Pharmacy enters into this Final Agency Order freely and voluntarily, after having had the opportunity to consult with its own legal counsel and/or choosing not to do so. Respondent Pharmacy acknowledges its understanding that it has the following rights:

    a. To have a formal notice of hearing and charges served upon it;

    b. To respond to said formal notice of charges;

    c. To have a formal disciplinary hearing pursuant to §12-22-125, C.R.S.; and

    d. To appeal this Board order.

    Respondent Pharmacy freely waives these rights, and acknowledges that such waiver is made voluntarily in consideration for the Board's limiting the action taken against it to the sanctions imposed herein.

11. Acknowledgments. The undersigned authorized agent of Respondent Pharmacy has read this Final Agency Order in its entirety and acknowledges, after having had the opportunity to consult with its own legal counsel and/or choosing not to do so, that Respondent Pharmacy understands the legal consequences and agrees that none of the terms or conditions herein is unconscionable. Respondent Pharmacy is not relying on any statements, promises or representations from the Board other than as may be contained in this Final Agency Order. Respondent Pharmacy further acknowledges that it is not entering into this Final Agency Order under any duress.

12. Other Requirements. Through its undersigned Authorized Representative, Respondent Pharmacy acknowledges and agrees that, as a condition of this Final Agency Order and probation, Respondent Pharmacy shall:

    a. promptly pay all its own fees and costs associated with this Final Agency Order;

    b. comply fully with this Final Agency Order; and

    c. comply fully with the Pharmaceuticals and Pharmacists Act, all Board rules and regulations, and any other state and federal laws and regulations related to pharmaceutical and pharmacists in the State of Colorado.

13. Violations. Time is of the essence to this Final Agency Order. It is the responsibility of Respondent Pharmacy to take all appropriate steps to comply fully with this Final Agency Order. Respondent Pharmacy acknowledges and agrees that any violation of this Final Agency Order may be sanctioned as provided under §12-22-125.2(4), C.R.S., and may be sufficient grounds for additional discipline, including but not limited to revocation of its registration. The pendency of any suspension or disciplinary action arising out of an alleged violation of this Final Agency Order shall not affect the obligation of Respondent Pharmacy to comply with all terms and conditions of this Final Agency Order.

14. Integration and Severability. Upon execution by all parties, this Final Agency Order shall represent the entire and final agreement of and between the parties in this case. In the event any provision of this Final Agency Order is deemed invalid or unenforceable by a court of law, it shall be severed and the remaining provisions of this Final Agency Order shall be given full force and effect.

15. Public Record. Upon execution by all parties, this Final Agency Order shall be a public record, maintained in the custody of the Board.

16. Effective Date. This Final Agency Order shall become effective upon signature of a Board member or representative.

Such waiver ceases if this Consent Order is rejected by the Board of Pharmacy ("Board") or Acting Director. Respondent acknowledges that Respondent has entered into this Consent Order freely and of Respondent's own will without threat or coercion by the Department or any person and has not relied upon any representation made by or on behalf of the Department other than those specifically included herein. Respondent acknowledges that the Department attorney may be requested to communicate with the Board or Acting Director in furtherance of the approval of this Consent Order. Respondent has been informed that this Consent Order will be presented to the Acting Director. All our discipline is a result of a single incident regarding the failure to file a timely zero report. This is summary. We are also attaching all documents, orders, agreements and a complete description.

On July 22, 2011 disciplinary action was taken against DrugSource, Inc. by the Colorado Board of Pharmacy. We submitted our "zero" report to their Electronic Prescription Drug Monitoring Program two (2) days late. Pharmacy violated sections 12-22-125(1)(c) and 12-22-708, C.R.S. Specifically, the Board found that the pharmacy failed to submit data to the Colorado Prescription Drug Monitoring Program for the June 16-25, 2011 reporting period. Drugsource agreed to pay a fine.

As a result of this issue, Hawaii found Drugsource failed to report the Colorado Order within thirty days. The agreement required DrugSource to pay a fine, but the Agreement specifically provided that DrugSource was not admitting any violation of Hawaii of law or rule.

However, Louisiana issued a letter of reprimand because we did not disclose the Hawaii settlement. Drugsource paid a fine.

Illinois fined us based on the result of previously reported discipline in other states and is not the result of anything that occurred in the state of Illinois.

DrugSource is committed to following all applicable laws in the states where it is licensed and conducts its business and takes these disciplinary matters seriously. As a result, it has adopted internal procedures to make sure that these violations do not recur.

Hello Maria,

One license is the manufacturer, Noven Pharmaceuticals Inc. and the other is the distributor, Noven Therapeutics LLC. They are both located at the same address since Noven Therapeutics is a virtual company that is only used as a distributor. Do we need both licenses? Or just for one company?

I appreciate the help, thank you in advance,

Hello Maria,

We use a 3PL company to distribute our products, therefore we do not ship to Nevada directly from our Miami location. We also have a third party contractor for our sales representative, none of which are employed by either company, Noven Pharmaceuticals or Noven Therapeutics. Here is a summary description of our operations:

- Noven Pharmaceutical is the manufacturer of drug products
- Noven Therapeutics dba Grove Pharmaceutical is the distributor
- We use a 3PL to distribute nationwide
- Neither company has a sales force, we use a third party company

I hope that helps, please feel free to reach back with any other questions. I'll do my best to answer them.

Hi Maria,

Yes, that is correct. Padagis US LLC only ships directly to the distribution center in South Carolina currently. It's set up as a wholesaler as back up in case of a catastrophic event.

Thanks,
Steph

Hi Steph,

Thank you for the quick response, however what you sent me is the certificate for the name change? We would need the one that has the updated name, dated within 6 months and states "in good standing".

Regards,
Maria H.

CHICAGO, IL, October 5, 2021 – Xeris Pharmaceuticals, Inc. ("Xeris"), a pharmaceutical company leveraging its novel formulation technology platforms to develop and commercialize ready-to-use injectable drug formulations, today announced that it has successfully completed the previously announced acquisition of Strongbridge Biopharma plc (Nasdaq: SBBP) ("Strongbridge"). Under the terms of the acquisition agreement, the businesses of Xeris and Strongbridge are now combined under Xeris Biopharma Holdings, Inc. ("Xeris Biopharma Holdings"). Strongbridge shares and Xeris shares ceased trading on the Nasdaq Global Select Market ("Nasdaq") at the close of business today. Shares of Xeris Biopharma Holdings are expected to begin trading on the Nasdaq under the ticker symbol "XERS" on October 6, 2021.

"We remain very enthusiastic about the combination. The new Xeris BioPharma will have two marketed products showing very positive growth, another potential commercial asset currently in front of the FDA that could launch in early 2022 and additional assets under development. With the close of the acquisition, we are ready to execute our integration plan and begin to realize the compelling strategic and financial benefits of the combination. In addition to highly differentiated products with multiple value inflection points, our pipeline, drug development talent and commercial infrastructure will enable us to accelerate product launches and drive further growth in the future as well," said Paul R. Edick, Chairman and CEO of Xeris BioPharma Holdings, Inc. "I want to thank the Xeris team who have worked diligently to get us to this point in our growth as a company and welcome the Strongbridge team to help drive our next phase of growth. I am extremely excited about what the future potential of Xeris Biopharma brings for all of us, our shareholders, and ultimately the patient communities we serve."

The stock and contingent value rights ("CVRs") consideration payable in the transaction, when including the maximum aggregate amount payable under the CVRs, values Strongbridge at approximately $267 million based on the closing price of Xeris common stock of $[3.47] on May 21, 2021 and Strongbridge's fully diluted share capital. Under the terms of the transaction, each ordinary share of Strongbridge outstanding as of the close of the transaction has been converted into the right to receive a fixed exchange ratio of 0.7840 shares of Xeris Biopharma Holdings common stock and 1 non-tradeable CVR, worth up to an additional $1.00 payable in cash or Xeris Biopharma Holdings common stock (at Xeris Biopharma Holdings' election) upon achievement of the following triggering events: (i) the listing of at least one issued patent for KEVEYIS® in the U.S. Food & Drug Administration's Orange Book by the end of 2023 or at least $40 million in KEVEYIS® annual net sales in 2023 ($0.25 per ordinary share), (ii) achievement of at least $40 million in RECORLEV® annual net sales in 2023 ($0.25 per ordinary share), and (iii) achievement of at least $80 million in RECORLEV® annual net sales in 2024 ($0.50 per ordinary share). The minimum payment on the CVR per Strongbridge ordinary share is zero and the maximum payment is $1.00 in cash or Xeris Biopharma Holdings common stock, at Xeris Biopharma Holdings' election.

Following the close of the transaction, former Xeris shareholders own approximately 60% of Xeris Biopharma Holdings, while former Strongbridge shareholders own approximately 40%.

In conjunction with the close of the transaction, John H. Johnson, Strongbridge's former CEO, and Garheng Kong, M.D., PhD, MBA, Strongbridge's former Chairman of the board of directors of Strongbridge, will join the Board of Directors of Xeris Biopharma Holdings as new independent directors, increasing the size of the Board to eight members.

"On behalf of our Board of Directors, we welcome John and Garheng and their wealth of insights and experiences from across the industry, and specifically their intimate knowledge of Strongbridge Biopharma," said Paul R. Edick, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Xeris Biopharma Holdings. "As Xeris Biopharma continues to grow and evolve as a commercial company, we look forward to collaborating with them to shape our strategic plans and advance our mission."

Application and Agreement for Standby Letter of Credit

B. AGREEMENT

In consideration of SVB in its discretion issuing the Credit, each of Applicant and, if Applicant and Account Party are designated as jointly and severally obligated hereunder, Account Party (in which case Applicant and Account Party are collectively referenced herein, jointly and severally, as "Applicant"), agrees as follows:

1. Applicant agrees to pay to SVB, on demand, the amount of each draw on the Credit, together with interest accrued on any such amount calculated for each day such amount remains outstanding at a variable rate equal to SVB's Prime Rate plus 5% per annum; provided that if the Credit provides for the acceptance of a time draft or incurrence of a deferred payment obligation and if SVB notifies Applicant of such acceptance or incurrence at least one Business Day in advance of the maturity of such time draft or deferred payment obligation, then reimbursement shall be due one Business Day in advance of its maturity. The term "Prime Rate" means the fluctuating per annum rate announced from time to time by SVB as its "Prime Rate," such rate to be adjusted from time to time by SVB; provided that if the Prime Rate shall at any time be less than zero it shall be treated as zero for purposes of this Agreement. In addition, Applicant agrees to pay to SVB, on demand, all commissions, charges, fees, taxes, costs and expenses (including reasonable attorneys' fees) assessed against or incurred by SVB or any of its correspondents in connection with the Credit, this Application and Agreement, the administration of the Credit (including any amendments, modifications and extensions thereof), and the enforcement by SVB of its rights hereunder, including such fees and expenses as may be set forth from time to time in SVB's then current "Schedule of Fees." All such amounts are non-refundable upon payment (including in the instance a related Credit is cancelled prior to its expiration date) and, if not paid when due, shall bear interest at the variable rate set forth in the first sentence of this Section. Unless otherwise specified in SVB's then current "Schedule of Fees," all accrual computations of any commissions, fees or interest under this Agreement shall be based on a 360-day year for the actual number of days elapsed (including the first day and the last day, in the case of commissions and fees, and including the first day but excluding the last day, in the case of interest). All computations of commissions and fees based upon the available or face amount of the Credit at any time shall be calculated by reference to the greatest amount for which SVB may be contingently liable under any circumstances under the Credit at such time or thereafter, including, if the Credit by its terms provides for scheduled increases in the amount of the Credit, the amount of each such increase that has not yet taken effect. Applicant irrevocably authorizes SVB to charge any accounts maintained by Applicant with SVB and to make advances against any lines of credit extended by SVB to Applicant for payment of all such amounts set forth in this Application and Agreement. Applicant acknowledges that SVB is not obligated to charge such accounts or to make any such advances and the failure for whatever reason of SVB to do so will not relieve Applicant of its obligation to pay such amounts, including interest.

2. All amounts payable hereunder are payable in U.S. Dollars and in immediately available funds. If the Credit is issued in a foreign currency, unless SVB agrees otherwise in writing in its sole discretion, Applicant will pay the U.S. Dollar equivalent of the foreign currency amounts paid by SVB under the Credit at the then-prevailing rate of exchange in San Francisco, California, for sales of the foreign currency for transfer to the country issuing such foreign currency, as determined by SVB.

3. Applicant will indemnify and hold SVB and its affiliates, officers, directors, employees, agents and correspondents (collectively, the "Indemnified Parties") harmless from and against any and all claims, losses, liabilities, costs (including reasonable attorneys' fees) and damages (collectively, "Losses") arising out of or relating to (i) the Credit, any demand for payment, other presentation or request under the Credit, or the transaction(s) supported by the Credit, (ii) this Application and Agreement, (iii) any action or inaction of any Indemnified Party with respect to any of the foregoing, (iv) any act or omission, whether rightful or wrongful, of any present or future de jure or de facto government or governmental authority or any other cause beyond SVB's control with respect to any of the foregoing or (v) any indemnity or other undertaking that Applicant requests or authorizes SVB to issue to induce any other financial institution (including any branch or affiliate of SVB) to issue its own letter of credit, demand guarantee, or other undertaking in connection with the Credit, in each case other than such as are found in a final, non-appealable judgment by a court of competent jurisdiction to result directly from the gross negligence or willful misconduct of such Indemnified Party. If the beneficiary of the Credit or any transferee thereof ("Beneficiary") is a financial institution which, in reliance upon the Credit, has issued or is to issue its own letter of credit, guarantee or similar undertaking to a third party at Applicant's request (whether such request is communicated directly by Applicant or through SVB to such Beneficiary), Applicant will (i) reimburse SVB for all amounts paid by SVB to such Beneficiary (whether or not the Credit has expired) and (ii) indemnify each Indemnified Party for any Losses (including fees paid to such Beneficiary) arising out of or in connection with the Credit and such letter of credit, guarantee or other undertaking. Applicant will remain liable under this Application and Agreement and in respect of the Credit until each such Beneficiary expressly releases SVB from its obligations under the Credit.

4. (a) If any law or regulation or the interpretation thereof by any court or administrative or governmental authority shall (i) impose any reserve or similar requirement against letters of credit issued or assets held by, or deposits in or for the account of, SVB or (ii) impose on SVB any insurance premium or other condition regarding the Credit, and the result shall be to increase the costs of issuing or maintaining the Credit over that which SVB assumed in determining its pricing relating to the Credit, then Applicant shall pay to SVB from time to time upon demand such additional amounts as are sufficient to compensate SVB for such increased cost.

(b) If SVB determines that the introduction or effectiveness of, or any change in, any treaty, international agreement, law, rule or regulation or compliance with any directive, guideline or request from any central bank or other governmental or quasi-governmental authority (whether or not having the force of law), or any change in the interpretation of any of the foregoing, in each case after the date hereof, affects the amount of capital, liquidity, insurance or reserves

(including special deposits, deposit insurance or similar requirements) to be maintained by SVB or any corporation controlling SVB, or otherwise increases the costs of, or reduces the amount received or receivable by, SVB or any corporation controlling SVB, and SVB determines that the amount of such capital, liquidity, insurance or reserve or other increased cost or reduction, as the case may be, is increased or reduced by or based upon the existence of this Agreement or the Credit (excluding in each case any increased costs resulting from any taxes), then Applicant shall pay to SVB, promptly upon demand from time to time, such additional amounts as SVB may demand to compensate for the increase or reduction, as the case may be; provided that SVB computes all amounts due under this paragraph on a reasonable basis. (i) All requests, rules, guidelines or directives promulgated by the Bank for International Settlements, the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision (or any successor or similar authority) or the United States of America or foreign regulatory authorities, in each case pursuant to Basel III, and (ii) the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act and all requests, rules, guidelines or directives thereunder or issued in connection therewith shall, in each case, be deemed to be a change in law for purposes of this Section, regardless of the date enacted, adopted or issued. Failure or delay on the part of SVB to demand compensation pursuant to this Section shall not constitute a waiver of SVB's right to demand such compensation; provided that the Applicant shall not be required to compensate SVB pursuant to this Section for any increased costs or reductions incurred more than 180 days prior to the date that SVB notifies the Applicant of the introduction, effectiveness or change, as the case may be, giving rise to such increased costs or reductions and of SVB's intention to claim compensation therefor; provided, further, that, if the introduction, effectiveness or change, as the case may be, giving rise to such increased costs or reductions is retroactive, then the 180-day period referred to above shall be extended to include the period of retroactive effect thereof. As used herein, "Business Day" means any day that is not a Saturday, Sunday or other day on which commercial banks are authorized or required to close in San Francisco, California, or at such other place where SVB is obligated to honor a presentation or otherwise act under the Credit or this Agreement.

5. SVB may place a hold on any account pledged as collateral and may hold the collateral for up to 30 days following the expiration of the Credit and the payment by Applicant of its obligations hereunder.

6. (a) The obligation of Applicant hereunder to reimburse SVB for drawings under the Credit is absolute, irrevocable and unconditional under any and all circumstances and irrespective of any dispute, claim, set-off, counterclaim or defense which Applicant may have against SVB or any affiliated Person (as defined below), whether in connection with the Credit, this Application and Agreement or otherwise, including any of the same based upon or arising out of: (i) any lack of validity or enforceability of the Credit or any document issued or provided in connection with the Credit or this Application and Agreement; (ii) any allegation by Applicant or any other Person that any demand, statement or any other document presented under the Credit is forged, fraudulent, invalid or insufficient in any respect, or that any statement therein is inaccurate or incomplete in any respect or that variations in punctuation, capitalization, spelling or format were contained in the drafts or any statements presented in connection with any drawing; (iii) any amendment or waiver of or consent to departure from the terms of the Credit; (iv) the existence of any dispute, claim, set-off, counterclaim or defense or other right which Applicant or any other Person may have at any time against any Beneficiary (or any Person for whom any Beneficiary may be acting); (v) the presentation of a draft or other instrument by an assignee, transferee or successor-in-interest of the original or any subsequent Beneficiary; (vi) any exchange, release or non-perfection of any lien securing the obligations of Applicant hereunder or the release of any guarantor of such obligations; (vii) any delay, default or fraud in connection with the underlying transaction giving rise to the issuance of the Credit; (viii) any delay in giving or failure to give notice of any kind; (ix) any errors, omissions, neglect, default or delay in transmission of any messages by SVB, any affiliated Person or any advising bank in connection with the Credit; (x) the invalidity or insufficiency of any endorsements relating to the Credit; or (xi) any other circumstance that might, but for the provisions of this Section, constitute a legal or equitable discharge of or defense to the obligation of Applicant hereunder to reimburse SVB for drawings under the Credit. As used herein, "Person" means any natural person, corporation, limited liability company, trust, joint venture, association, company, partnership, government (including any subdivision, agency, court, central bank, or other entity exercising executive, legislative, judicial, taxing, regulatory or administrative powers or functions of or pertaining to government (including any supranational bodies such as the European Union or the European Central Bank)) or other entity.

(b) Nothing contained herein shall constitute a waiver by Applicant of any rights Applicant may have against SVB resulting from SVB's gross negligence or willful misconduct; provided that Applicant expressly agrees that (i) its right to exercise any such rights is conditioned upon Applicant having first made all payments required to be made by Applicant hereunder; (ii) it shall not constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct, and SVB in its discretion, (A) may honor any presentation that substantially or reasonably complies with the terms and conditions of the Credit even if the Credit requires strict or literal compliance by Beneficiary; (B) may honor a nonnegotiable or informal or unmarked demand or a demand by Beneficiary presented electronically even if the Credit requires that Beneficiary's demand be in the form of a draft and state that it is drawn under the Credit; (C) may honor a presentation without regard to any non-documentary conditions in the Credit; (D) may honor a presentation up to the amount available under the Credit against a draft or other documents claiming an amount in excess of the amount available; (E) may honor any presentation after the expiration date of the Credit (x) if presentation on or prior to such expiration date was prevented by an interruption of business or other cause beyond the control of SVB or strikes or lockouts, or (y) notwithstanding that a presentation was made on or prior to such expiration date and dishonored, if subsequently SVB or any court or other finder of fact determines such presentation should have been honored; (F) shall not be responsible for errors in interpretation of technical terms or in translation (and SVB may transmit Credit terms without translating them); (G) may replace a purportedly lost, stolen or destroyed original Credit with a replacement marked as such or waive a requirement for its presentation; (H) unless the Credit specifies the means of payment, may make any payment under the Credit by any means it chooses, including by wire transfer of immediately available funds, (I) may select SVB or any subsidiary, affiliate or branch thereof or any other bank to act as advising, transferring, confirming and/or nominated bank under the law and practice of the place where it is located (if the application for the Credit requested or authorized such advice, transfer, confirmation and/or nomination, as applicable); (J) may amend the Credit to reflect any change of address or other contact information of any Beneficiary; (K) shall not be obligated to examine, and may disregard for purposes of determining compliance of any presentation with the terms and conditions of the Credit, (x) any presented document not called for by the terms and conditions of the Credit and (y) that portion, if any, of any presented document called for by the terms and conditions of the Credit that contains data not called for by the terms and conditions of the Credit, regardless of whether such data conflicts with data in the Credit or any other presented document; (L) shall not be responsible for any other action or inaction taken or suffered by SVB under or in connection with the Credit, that is required or permitted under any applicable domestic or foreign law or letter of credit practice; and (M) may purchase or discount any accepted draft or deferred payment obligation incurred under the Credit without affecting the amount or timing of the reimbursement due from Applicant; and (iii) in no event shall SVB or any affiliated Person have any liability to Applicant or any other Person for any action taken, or any failure to act, with respect to the Credit or this Application and Agreement if done in good faith.

(c) Applicant will notify SVB in writing of any objection Applicant may have to SVB's issuance or amendment of the Credit, SVB's honor or dishonor of any presentation under the Credit, or any other action or inaction taken by SVB under or in connection with this Application and Agreement or the Credit. Applicant's notice of objection must be delivered to SVB within one week after Applicant receives notice of the action or inaction it objects to. Applicant's failure to give notice of objection within such period shall automatically waive Applicant's objection. Applicant's acceptance or retention beyond such period of any original documents presented under the Credit, or of any property for which title is conveyed by such documents or for which payment is made (in whole or in part) under such Credit, shall ratify SVB's honor of the applicable presentation(s).

(d) Applicant's ultimate responsibility for the final text of the Credit shall not be affected by any assistance SVB may provide such as drafting or recommending text, and Applicant assumes all risks that: (i) any non-documentary conditions stated in the Credit will be ignored when presentment is made, or may cause the Credit to be interpreted by a court as a dependent guarantee; (ii) any ambiguous or inconsistent provisions may be interpreted in a manner not intended by Applicant; (iii) any permitted payment or other action at a foreign location may invoke the application of foreign laws or rules; and (iv) the Credit does not satisfy Applicant's needs or intentions. SVB may, without incurring any liability to Applicant or impairing its entitlement to payment under this Application and Agreement, honor the Credit despite notice from Applicant of, and without any duty to inquire into, any purported defense to honor or any claim against any Beneficiary or any other Person.

(e) If the Credit is issued in transferable form, SVB shall have no duty to determine the identity of anyone appearing in any transfer request, draft or other document as transferee, or the validity or correctness of any transfer made pursuant to documents that appear on their face to be substantially in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Credit.

(f) Except as may be provided in the Credit or otherwise agreed to in writing by SVB in its sole discretion, SVB shall have no duty to (i) issue or refrain from issuing notice of (A) its election not to extend the Credit, (B) if the Credit by its terms permits it to do so, its election to terminate the Credit prior to its stated expiration date, or (C) its election not to reinstate the amount of any drawing under the Credit or (ii) otherwise amend or modify the Credit. If the Credit by its terms provides for automatic renewal or extension unless SVB notifies the Beneficiary of SVB's election not to renew or extend the Credit and if Applicant desires that SVB give such notice, then Applicant's request that SVB give such notice shall be given to SVB at least 30 days prior to the date that Applicant wishes that SVB give such notice (but SVB shall have no obligation to accede to such request).

(g) If Applicant or any other Person seeks to restrain any presentation under or honor of the Credit or takes any other action that has a similar effect or if any court shall do any of the foregoing or extend the term of the Credit, then, in each case, Applicant shall, at SVB's request, provide SVB with a bond or other collateral of a type and value reasonably satisfactory to SVB as security for all the Applicant's obligations (absolute or contingent) with respect to the Credit.

(h) SVB shall not be liable in contract, tort, or otherwise for any punitive, exemplary, consequential, indirect or special damages (including for any consequences of forgery or fraud by any Beneficiary or any other Person). Any claim by Applicant under or in connection with the Credit or this Application and Agreement shall be reduced by an amount equal to the sum of (i) the amount (if any) saved by Applicant as a result of the breach or other wrongful conduct complained of (such as where SVB's erroneous payment of the Credit results in Applicant's obtaining valuable property) and (ii) the amount (if any) of the loss that would have been avoided had Applicant taken reasonable steps to mitigate such loss.

7. Each Applicant waives: (i) any right at law or in equity to require SVB to (A) proceed against any Person, including any other Applicant or any guarantor, (B) proceed against or exhaust any collateral held for the obligations of Applicant hereunder, (C) pursue any other remedy in SVB's power or (D) make any presentment, demand for performance, or give any notice of nonperformance, protest, notice of protest or notice of dishonor in connection with such Applicant's obligations hereunder; and (ii) any defense arising by reason of (A) the incapacity, lack of authority, death or disability of, or other defense available to, Applicant or any other Person, including the insolvency or bankruptcy of any Applicant or any other Person, or any stay in connection with any such proceeding, or the failure of Beneficiary to file or enforce a claim against the estate (in administration, bankruptcy, or any other proceeding) of any Applicant or any other Person or (B) any act or omission by SVB which directly or indirectly results in or aids the discharge or release of any party obligated hereunder, any other Person, or any collateral. Each Applicant represents that each of the above waivers are made with full knowledge that events giving rise to any defense waived may adversely affect rights which Applicant otherwise may have against the other Applicant, SVB or other Persons or against any collateral.

8. Applicant represents and warrants to SVB that: (i) this Application and Agreement has been duly authorized, executed and delivered by Applicant and constitutes the valid and binding obligation of Applicant, enforceable against Applicant in accordance with its terms; (ii) Applicant's execution, delivery and performance of this Application and Agreement and its obtaining of

All rights and remedies of SVB and all obligations of Applicant under or in connection with this Application and Agreement and any other documents delivered in connection herewith are cumulative and in addition to those provided or available at equity, by law or under any other agreement.

11. Applicant understands that the final form of the Credit may vary from the wording specified in the Application, and Applicant authorizes SVB to make such changes not materially inconsistent with the Application as SVB deems necessary or appropriate. If Applicant includes in the Application any language describing events or conditions that would not be possible for SVB to verify solely from the documents required to be presented under the Credit, Applicant acknowledges and agrees that SVB has no obligation to verify compliance with such requirements or conditions. Applicant acknowledges and agrees that (i) SVB and its affiliates offer a wide range of financial and related services, which may at any time include back-office processing services on behalf of financial institutions, letter of credit beneficiaries, and other customers; (ii) some of these customers may be Applicant's counter-parties or competitors; and (iii) SVB and its affiliates may perform more than one role in relation to the Credit.

If the law of a state or country other than the State of New York has expressly been chosen to govern the Credit, Applicant shall be obligated to reimburse SVB for payments made under the Credit if such payment is justified under New York law or such other law.

(b) Applicant and SVB each submit to the exclusive jurisdiction of (i) the jurisdiction submitted to under any outstanding loan or credit agreement between Applicant and SVB, or (ii) if there is no such agreement, the State and Federal courts in the State of New York.

(c) This Application and Agreement shall be binding upon Applicant and its successors and assigns when executed and delivered by Applicant, and shall inure to the benefit of and be enforceable by SVB and its successors and assigns. Applicant shall not transfer or otherwise assign any of its rights or obligations under this Application and Agreement without SVB's prior written consent. SVB may transfer or otherwise assign its rights and obligations under this Application and Agreement, in whole or in part, without the consent of Applicant. SVB may grant participations in its rights and obligations under this Application and Agreement or the Credit, in whole or in part, without the consent of Applicant; provided that (i) SVB's obligations under this Application and Agreement shall remain unchanged, (ii) SVB shall remain solely responsible to Applicant for the performance of such obligations and (iii) Applicant shall continue to deal solely and directly with SVB in connection with SVB's rights and obligations under this Application and Agreement. (d) None of the terms of this Application and Agreement may be waived, terminated or amended orally, by course of dealing, or otherwise, except in a writing signed by the party against whose interest the term is waived, terminated or amended; provided that the signature of Applicant shall also be binding upon each of its affiliates that at any time is bound by any of the provisions of this Application and Agreement. Forbearance, failure or delay by SVB in the exercise of a right or remedy shall not constitute a waiver, nor shall any exercise or partial exercise of any right or remedy preclude any further exercise of that or any other right or remedy. Any waiver or consent by SVB shall be effective only in the specific instance and for the specific purpose for which it is given.

Application and Agreement for Standby Letter of Credit

(e) This Application and Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the parties hereto concerning the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior or simultaneous agreements, written or oral, with respect to the subject matter hereof.

13. Applicant agrees that SVB may issue or amend the Credit or otherwise act on instructions received by facsimile transmission (a "Faxed Application") or scanned image transmitted by email (a "Scanned Application"). Applicant accepts all risks that any Faxed Application or Scanned Application is not genuine, accurate or authorized.

14. TO THE EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, APPLICANT AND SVB EACH WAIVE THEIR RIGHT TO A JURY TRIAL OF ANY CLAIM OR CAUSE OF ACTION ARISING OUT OF THE CREDIT, THIS APPLICATION AND AGREEMENT OR THE TRANSACTIONS CONTEMPLATED HEREBY, INCLUDING CONTRACT, TORT, BREACH OF DUTY AND ALL OTHER CLAIMS. THIS WAIVER IS A MATERIAL INDUCEMENT FOR BOTH PARTIES TO ENTER INTO OR RELY UPON THIS AGREEMENT. EACH PARTY HAS REVIEWED THIS WAIVER WITH ITS COUNSEL.

WITHOUT INTENDING IN ANY WAY TO LIMIT THE PARTIES' CHOICE OF LAW, SUBMISSION TO JURISDICTION OR AGREEMENT TO WAIVE THEIR RESPECTIVE RIGHT TO A TRIAL BY JURY, if the above waiver of the right to a trial by jury is not enforceable under the laws of the State of California (as finally determined by a court of competent jurisdiction in such State), the parties hereto agree that any and all disputes or controversies of any nature between them arising at any time shall be decided by a reference to a private judge, mutually selected by the parties (or, if they cannot agree, by the Presiding Judge of the Santa Clara County, California Superior Court) appointed in accordance with California Code of Civil Procedure Section 638 (or pursuant to comparable provisions of federal law if the dispute falls within the exclusive jurisdiction of the federal courts), sitting without a jury, in Santa Clara County, California; and the parties hereby submit to the jurisdiction of such court. The reference proceedings shall be conducted pursuant to and in accordance with the provisions of California Code of Civil Procedure Sections 638 through 645.1, inclusive. The private judge shall have the power, among others, to grant provisional relief, including without limitation, entering temporary restraining orders, issuing preliminary and permanent injunctions and appointing receivers. All such proceedings shall be closed to the public and confidential and all records relating thereto shall be permanently sealed. If during the course of any dispute, a party desires to seek provisional relief, but a judge has not been appointed at that point pursuant to the judicial reference procedures, then such party may apply to the Santa Clara County, California Superior Court for such relief. The proceeding before the private judge shall be conducted in the same manner as it would be before a court under the rules of evidence applicable to judicial proceedings. The parties shall be entitled to discovery, which shall be conducted in the same manner as it would be before a court under the rules of discovery applicable to judicial proceedings. The private judge shall oversee discovery and may enforce all discovery rules and orders applicable to judicial proceedings in the same manner as a trial court judge in such jurisdiction. The parties agree that the selected or appointed private judge shall have the power to decide all issues in the action or proceeding, whether of fact or of law, and shall report a statement of decision thereon pursuant to California Code of Civil Procedure Section 644(a). Nothing in this paragraph shall limit the right of any party at any time to exercise self-help remedies, foreclose against collateral, or obtain provisional remedies. The private judge shall also determine all issues relating to the applicability, interpretation, and enforceability of this paragraph.

15. The Applicant named on the face page of this Application and Agreement has the sole right to give instructions and make agreements and amendments with respect to this Application and Agreement and the Credit; provided that if Applicant and Account Party are designated as jointly and severally obligated hereunder, (i) such Applicant irrevocably agrees that Account Party has the sole right to give instructions and make agreements and amendments with respect to this Application and Agreement and the Credit and that such Applicant shall automatically be deemed to be in accord therewith and bound thereby and (ii) each Applicant and Account Party agrees that its obligations hereunder are primary, waives all discharge defenses available to a secondary obligor, and forgoes negotiation of a separate guaranty and security agreement providing for secondary liability to SVB.

16. Applicant and any other party hereto may execute this Application by electronic means and each party hereto recognizes and accepts the use of electronic signatures and records by any other party hereto in connection with the execution and storage hereof. Any references herein to "written" or "in writing" shall be deemed to include all modes of representing or reproducing words in visible form, including in the form of an "Electronic Record" as such term is defined in the Electronic Transactions Law (2003 Revision) of the Cayman Islands (the "Cayman Islands Electronic Transactions Law"). Any requirements herein as to delivery of any document include delivery in the form of an Electronic Record. Any requirements as to execution or signature can be satisfied in the form of an "Electronic Signature" as such term is defined in the Cayman Islands Electronic Transactions Law; provided, however, that Section 8 and 19(3) of such law shall not apply.

17. U.S. Federal laws require all financial institutions to obtain, verify and record information that identifies each Person who opens an account. Issuing the Credit is considered to be opening an account and will require compliance with these Federal laws. Applicant hereby acknowledges and agrees that it shall promptly submit documentation acceptable to SVB that complies with Customer Due Diligence Requirements for Financial Institutions (31 CFR 1010, 1020, 1023, 1024 and 1026) (the "CDD Attestation"), and provide SVB with prompt written notice of any changes to the information set out in the CDD Attestation. Applicant understands and acknowledges that SVB relies on such true, accurate and up-to-date beneficial ownership information to meet SVB's regulatory obligations to obtain, verify and record information about the beneficial owners of its legal entity customers. Applicant further agrees to provide SVB with any other documents requested by SVB if deemed necessary by SVB to enable SVB to comply with applicable law, including the Patriot Act, the Bank Secrecy Act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

SPECIAL CAUTIONARY NOTICE REGARDING FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

This Annual Report on Form 10-K includes statements that are, or may be deemed, "forward-looking statements." In some cases, these forward-looking statements can be identified by the use of forward-looking terminology, including the terms "believes," "estimates," "anticipates," "expects," "plans," "intends," "may," "designed," "could," "might," "will," "should," "approximately" or, in each case, their negative or other variations thereon or comparable terminology, although not all forward-looking statements contain these words. They appear in a number of places throughout this Annual Report on Form 10-K and include statements regarding our current intentions, beliefs, projections, outlook, analyses or current expectations concerning, among other things, our ongoing and planned manufacturing and commercialization of Twirla®, the potential market acceptance and uptake of Twirla®, the development of our other potential product candidates, the strength and breadth of our intellectual property, our ongoing and planned clinical trials, the timing of and our ability to make regulatory filings and obtain and maintain regulatory approvals for our potential product candidates, the legal and regulatory landscape impacting our business, the degree of clinical utility of our products, particularly in specific patient populations, expectations regarding clinical trial data, our results of operations, financial condition, liquidity, prospects, growth and strategies, the length of time that we will be able to continue to fund our operating expenses and capital expenditures, our expected financing needs and sources of financing, the industry in which we operate and the trends that may affect the industry or us.

By their nature, forward-looking statements involve risks and uncertainties because they relate to events, competitive dynamics, and healthcare, regulatory and scientific developments and depend on the economic circumstances that may or may not occur in the future or may occur on longer or shorter timelines than anticipated. Although we believe that we have a reasonable basis for each forward-looking statement contained in this Annual Report on Form 10-K, we caution you that forward-looking statements are not guarantees of future performance and that our actual results of operations, financial condition and liquidity, and the development of the industry in which we operate may differ materially from the forward-looking statements contained in this Annual Report on Form 10-K. In addition, even if our results of operations, financial condition and liquidity, and the development of the industry in which we operate are consistent with the forward-looking statements contained in this Annual Report on Form 10-K, they may not be predictive of results or developments in future periods.

Some of the factors that we believe could cause actual results to differ from those anticipated or predicted include:

- our ability to successfully commercialize Twirla, our only approved product;
- the rate and degree of market acceptance of Twirla by physicians, patients, third-party payors and others in the healthcare community;
- our ability to obtain adequate coverage and reimbursement for Twirla in the United States from private and public third-party payors;
- the size and growth of the markets for Twirla and our product candidates and our ability to serve those markets;
- the effects of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic on our commercialization efforts, clinical trials, supply chain, operations and the operations of third parties we rely on for services such as manufacturing, marketing support and sales support, as well as the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic on our potential customer base;
- regulatory and legislative developments in the United States and foreign countries, which could include, among other things, a government shutdown;
- our available cash and our ability to obtain additional funding to fund our business plan without delay and to continue as a going concern;
- the accuracy of our estimates regarding expenses, future revenues, capital requirements and needs for additional financing;

- our inability to timely obtain from our third-party manufacturer, Corium, sufficient quantities or quality of Twirla and our potential product candidates or other materials required for a clinical trial or other tests and studies;
- the ability of Corium to produce commercial supply in quantities and quality sufficient to satisfy market demand for Twirla;
- the performance and financial condition of Corium or any of the suppliers;
- our ability to design and successfully complete a post-marketing long-term, prospective observational safety study comparing risks for venous thromboembolism, or VTE, and arterial thromboembolism, or ATE, in new users of Twirla to new users of oral combined hormonal contraceptives, or CHCs, and new users of Xulane in U.S. women of reproductive age using CHCs and conduct a small post-marketing commitment, or PMC, study to assess the residual drug content of Twirla after use;
- our ability to maintain regulatory approval of Twirla and our ability to obtain regulatory approval of our potential product candidates, and the labeling under any approval we obtain;
- our ability to obtain and maintain intellectual property protection for Twirla and our product candidates;
- the success and timing of our clinical trials or other studies, including post-marketing studies for Twirla;
- our plans to develop our other potential product candidates;
- development of unexpected safety or efficacy concerns related to Twirla;
- our ability to continue to develop and maintain successful sales and marketing capabilities, including our ability to maintain an effective sales force or failure to build-out and implement an effective health care compliance program;
- our ability to retain key employees and recruit the additional personnel we will need to support our commercialization plan for Twirla; and
- our ability to successfully implement our strategy.

Risk Factor Summary

Our business is subject to numerous risks and uncertainties, including those described in Item 1A "Risk Factors." These risks include, but are not limited to, the following:

- We are significantly dependent on the commercial success of Twirla, our only approved product. If we are unable to successfully commercialize Twirla, our business, financial condition, results of operations, and prospects and value of our common stock will be materially adversely affected;
- It will be difficult for us to profitably sell Twirla if third-party coverage and reimbursement for such product is limited, and reimbursement and healthcare containment initiatives and treatment guidelines may constrain our future revenues;
- If we are unable to develop effective marketing and sales capabilities for Twirla or maintain our agreements with third parties to market and sell Twirla, we may be unable to generate product revenues;
- Twirla could develop unexpected safety, efficacy or quality concerns, which would likely have a material adverse effect on us;

- We face competition from other biotechnology and pharmaceutical companies and our operating results will suffer if we fail to compete effectively;
- Existing and future legislation may increase the difficulty and cost for us to commercialize Twirla and may affect the prices we may obtain;
- We have incurred operating losses in each year since our inception and expect to continue to incur substantial losses for the foreseeable future. Management has concluded that these factors raise substantial doubt about our ability to continue as a going concern.
- We will need to obtain additional financing to fund our operations and, if we are unable to obtain such financing, we may be unable to commercialize Twirla or to complete the development and commercialization of our other potential product candidates;
- We remain subject to substantial ongoing regulatory requirements related to Twirla, and failure to comply with these requirements could lead to penalties, including withdrawal from the market, suspension, or withdrawal of product approval;
- We have no manufacturing capacity and anticipate continued reliance on Corium, our third party manufacturer, for the commercialization of Twirla and development of our potential product candidates. We may not have or be able to obtain sufficient quantities of Twirla or our potential product candidates to meet our required supply for commercialization or clinical trials, which would could materially harm our business;
- We rely on third parties to conduct aspects of our clinical trials and post marketing studies. If these third parties do not successfully carry out their contractual duties, meet expected deadlines or comply with applicable regulatory requirements, we may not be able to maintain regulatory approval for Twirla or be delayed in obtaining or ultimately not be able to obtain marketing approval for our potential product candidates;
- We may not be able to protect our proprietary technology in the marketplace;
- We may infringe the intellectual property rights of others, which may prevent or delay our commercialization and product development efforts or increase the costs of commercializing Twirla or our potential product candidates, when and if approved;
- If we fail to develop and commercialize our current pipeline of additional potential product candidates, our prospects for future growth and our ability to reach or sustain profitability may be limited or never achieved;
- In order to establish our sales and marketing infrastructure, we will need to grow the size of our organization, and we may experience difficulties in managing this growth;
- If product liability lawsuits are brought against us, we may incur substantial liabilities and may be required to limit commercialization of Twirla or our potential product candidates, if approved; and
- We expect that our stock price may fluctuate significantly.

Any forward-looking statements that we make in this Annual Report on Form 10-K speak only as of the date of such statement, and we undertake no obligation to update such statements to reflect events or circumstances after the date of this Annual Report on Form 10-K. You should also read carefully the factors described in the "Risk Factors" section of this Annual Report on Form 10-K to better understand the risks and uncertainties inherent in our business and underlying any forward-looking statements. As a result of these factors, we cannot assure you that the forward-looking statements in this Annual Report on Form 10-K will prove to be accurate. Furthermore, if our forward-looking statements prove to be inaccurate, any such inaccuracy may be material. In light of the significant uncertainties in these forward-looking statements, you should not regard any of these statements as a representation or warranty by us or any other person that we will achieve our objectives and plans in any specified timeframe, or at all.

This Annual Report on Form 10-K includes statistical and other industry and market data that we obtained from industry publications and research, surveys and studies conducted by third parties. Item 1. Business

Overview

We are a women's healthcare company dedicated to fulfilling the unmet health needs of today's women. We have remained steadfast in our commitment to innovate in women's healthcare where there continues to be unmet needs – not only in contraception – but also in other meaningful women's health therapeutic areas.

Our first product, Twirla, which was approved in February 2020 and launched in early December 2020, is a once-weekly prescription combination hormonal contraceptive patch. It delivers a dose of estrogen consistent with commonly prescribed combined hormonal contraceptives, or CHCs, and lower than the estrogen dose found in other marketed contraceptive patches. We believe there is a market need for a contraceptive patch that is designed to deliver approximately 30 mcg of estrogen and 120 mcg of progestin in a convenient dosage form that may support compliance in a noninvasive fashion. Twirla leverages our proprietary transdermal patch technology called Skinfusion®. Skinfusion is designed to allow drug delivery through the skin while optimizing patch adhesion and patient comfort and wearability, which may help support compliance.

With the approval of Twirla we are now focused on our advancement as a commercial company. During 2021, we plan to continue implementing our commercialization plan for Twirla, with the goal of becoming a contraceptive market leader, and ultimately, pursuing opportunities to broaden our portfolio to address areas of unmet medical need in women's health.

Our Strategy

Our near-term goal is to establish an initial franchise in the multi-billion-dollar U.S. hormonal contraceptive market built on approval of Twirla in the U.S. Our resources are currently focused on the commercialization of Twirla. To that end, we completed the validation of the commercial manufacturing process for Twirla in accordance with our approved marketing application in the fourth quarter of 2020 and commenced shipment of product to wholesalers in early December 2020. During 2020, we also continued efforts to build out our commercial organization with a number of key hires and new contractual relationships. We entered into an agreement with inVentiv Commercial Services, a Syneos Health group company, which we refer to as Syneos Selling Solutions, to provide a contract sales force and related sales services for Twirla. In the third quarter of 2020, we hired and trained an initial sales team of 73 persons who are engaging with health care providers on Twirla through both in-person and virtual meetings. In April 2020, we entered into a commercial supply agreement with Corium for the manufacture and supply of Twirla, which replaced our former development agreement. We hired a Chief Medical Officer in August 2020, who is leading an evaluation of our existing pipeline including potential development costs and timelines. We also expect to explore possible expansion through business development activities, such as acquiring access to new products through in-licensing, co-promotion or other collabortive arrangements.

Our current priorities are as follows:

- Continue to implement our commercialization plans for Twirla to ensure a successful launch in the United States, including maintaining a sales and marketing team and implementing a healthcare compliance program;
- Expand coverage and reimbursement for Twirla in the United States from private and public third-party payors;
- Expand access to Twirla through multiple business channels including third-party payor contracts, retail and specialty pharmacies, telemedicine and government contracting;
- Maintain and manage the supply chain for Twirla to support commercialization of Twirla across the United States;
- Evaluate the advancement of our existing pipeline and its possible expansion through business development activities; and
- Complete and submit the proposed protocols for the two FDA-required post-marketing commitment studies.

It should be noted that current public health threats could adversely affect our ongoing or planned business operations. In particular, the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic has resulted in federal, state and local governments and private entities mandating various restrictions, including travel restrictions, access restrictions, restrictions on public gatherings, and stay at home orders. The effect of these orders, government imposed quarantines and measures we have taken, such as implementing work-at-home policies, may negatively impact productivity, disrupt our business and/or could adversely affect our commercialization plans and results. We cannot presently predict the scope and severity of any potential business shutdowns or disruptions, but if we or any of the third parties with whom we engage, including personnel at third-party manufacturing facilities and other third parties with whom we conduct business, were to experience shutdowns or other business disruptions, our ability to conduct our business in the manner and on the timeline presently planned could be materially and adversely impacted. It is unknown how long these conditions will last and what the complete effect will be on us. While to date we have been able to continue to execute our overall business plan, some of our business activities have been slowed and taken longer to complete and we continue to adjust to the challenges of operating in a largely remote setting with our employees. We have only recently launched our commercial activities for Twirla and begun engaging with healthcare providers to promote Twirla. We expect that as we broaden our sales detailing activities in some instances our sales force may encounter challenges engaging with healthcare providers during this on-going pandemic. Overall, we recognize the challenges of launching in a pandemic, will continue to closely monitor events as they develop and plan for alternative and mitigating measures that we can implement if needed.

Twirla

Twirla is our first and only approved product. Twirla received FDA approval on February 14, 2020 as a method of contraception for use in women of reproductive potential with a BMI < 30 kg/m^2 for whom a combined hormonal contraceptive is appropriate. Based on the reduced efficacy seen with increasing BMI in a Phase 3 clinical trial, Twirla's limitation of use instructs healthcare providers to consider Twirla's reduced effectiveness in women with a BMI ≥ 25 to <30 kg/m^2 before prescribing. Twirla is contraindicated in women with a BMI ≥ 30 kg/m^2 because compared to women with a lower BMI, women in this group had reduced effectiveness and may have a higher risk for VTEs. Twirla's label also includes the class-wide boxed warning, contraindications, and warnings and precautions applicable to all combined hormonal contraceptives, or CHCs.

Twirla is a prescription combined hormonal contraceptive patch that contains the active ingredients ethinyl estradiol, or EE, which is a synthetic estrogen, and levonorgestrel, or LNG, which is a type of progestin, both of which have an established history of efficacy and safety in currently marketed combination oral contraceptives. Twirla delivers approximately 30 micrograms of EE per day, a dose of EE consistent with the dose delivered by many commonly prescribed oral contraceptives. Twirla is the only contraceptive patch that contains LNG, a widely prescribed progestin.

Our Skinfusion technology allows Twirla to be the first approved patch capable of delivering a contraceptive dose of LNG across the skin. The patch is applied once weekly for three weeks, followed by a week without a patch. Twirla is packaged with three individually wrapped patches per carton to provide for one 28-day cycle of therapy.

Twirla's approval is primarily based on safety and efficacy data from the Phase 3 SECURE trial. The SECURE trial was a new approach to clinical trials, and was intentionally designed to include broad enrollment criteria and a patient population of women likely to use hormonal contraceptives. In this purposefully inclusive trial, efficacy and safety were evaluated in a diverse study population, one that is more representative of the demographics of women across the US likely to use hormonal contraception.

The SECURE trial was a multi-center, single-arm, open-label, 13-cycle trial that evaluated the safety, efficacy and tolerability of Twirla in 2,031 healthy women, aged 18 and over, at 102 experienced investigative sites across the United States. The trial was designed in consultation with the FDA, and incorporated a number of stringent trial design elements, including exclusion of treatment cycles not only for use of backup contraception but also for lack of sexual activity. SECURE had broad entry criteria, placed no limitations on body mass index, or BMI, or other demographic factors during enrollment, and enrolled a large and diverse population from the United States in order to allow for efficacy to be assessed across different groups. These entry criteria resulted in the inclusion of a substantial number of women with high BMIs, who have frequently been underrepresented in prior contraceptive studies. The efficacy measure for SECURE was the Pearl Index in an intent-to-treat population of subjects 35 years of age and under. The FDA also requested the inclusion of prespecified efficacy analyses related to BMI and body weight.

As part of Twirla's approval, and consistent with requirements for another recently approved CHC, the FDA is requiring us to conduct a long-term prospective, observational post-marketing study comparing the risks for VTE and ATE in new users of Twirla to new users of other CHCs. The final study report for the Twirla post-marketing study is scheduled to be submitted to the FDA in November 2032, with interim safety data reporting to the FDA due in November 2026. We have also agreed to a post-marketing commitment, or PMC, study to assess the residual drug content and strength of Twirla in a minimum of 25 women. The PMC study is similar to residual drug studies requested of patch developers in the FDA's November 2019 draft guidance entitled Transdermal and Topical Delivery Systems—Product Development and Quality Considerations.

Contraceptive Landscape and Market Opportunity

U.S. Hormonal Contraceptive Market Background

Contraceptive methods, other than sterilization, can be divided into non-hormonal and hormonal alternatives. Examples of non-hormonal products available in the United States include the diaphragm, male condom, female condom, and non-hormonal intrauterine device, or IUD. Hormonal contraceptives containing both estrogen and a progestin are referred to as CHCs, and contraceptives containing only progestin are referred to as P-only. There are several categories of hormonal contraception products available in the United States, including:

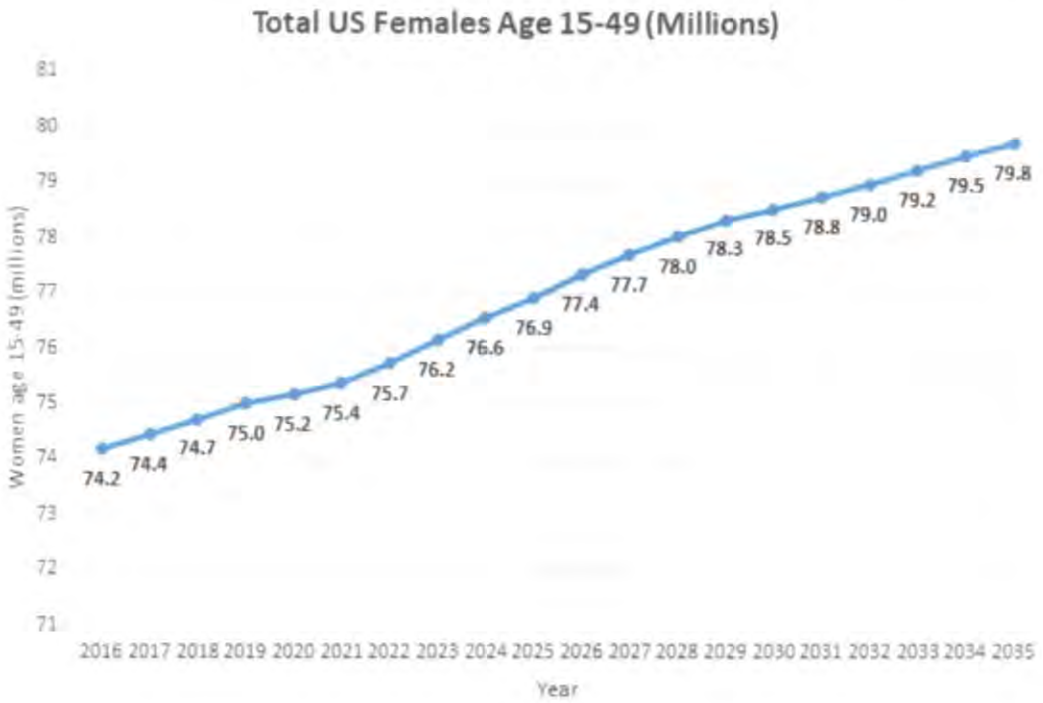
- oral contraceptive;
- vaginal ring;
- transdermal patch;
- hormonal IUD;
- subcutaneous implant; and
- injectable.

The U.S. hormonal contraceptive market is a multi-billion-dollar market. Data from 2017 to 2019 from the Centers for Disease Control, or CDC, indicate that approximately 28% of women aged 15 to 49 use some form of hormonal contraception, which amounts to approximately 20 million U.S. women. The CHC portion of the market, which includes pills, two transdermal patches, including Twirla, and two vaginal rings, generates significantly greater prescription volume and sales compared to the P-only portion of the market, consisting of hormonal IUDs, injectables, implants, and P-only pills.

The U.S. hormonal contraceptive market is a mature market, with many branded and generic products available. For the past 5 years, sales revenue in the CHC market has been essentially flat, at approximately $4 billion per year; with a drop in 2020 sales to $3.7 billion, largely due to the introduction of generics to Nuvaring, which was the market leader in 2019. Total prescription volume, or TRx, declined from 2016 to 2020 by 27%, from 90 million to 65 million; however the number of cycles dispensed (1 cycle = 1 month supply) declined by only 6% over the same time period, as the average TRx size (cycles/TRx) grew from 1.4 to 1.8 over the same time period. Therefore, the value of a TRx has grown significantly over the past 5 years, particularly for branded products, where the average revenue per TRx nearly doubled from $144.48 in 2016 to $277.81 in 2020.

Despite the availability of generic contraceptives for over 30 years, branded products have maintained a significant, though declining, share of CHC sales, with 40% of total sales in 2020. In the five years ended December 2020, the average annual price increase among the top branded products was 8.8%. The average price per cycle, referred to as the wholesale acquisition cost, or WAC, for a single 28-day cycle of the top branded products was $131.40 in 2016 and rose to $160.71 by December 2020. The branded CHC transdermal patch (Ortho Evra) was discontinued in October 2014 and the branded generic CHC transdermal patch (Xulane) is currently priced at $122.15 per cycle. We have established a WAC price for Twirla at $159.75. The other non-oral form of CHC, the monthly vaginal ring, is currently priced at $162.63 per cycle for the branded version, Nuvaring, and $138.24 and$148.32 for generic versions. We cannot predict how the manufacturers of branded or generic products will manage prices going forward.

The U.S. contraceptive population (defined by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention as women aged 15-49) is currently approximately 75 million women and is estimated to grow to nearly 80 million by 2035.



Source: U.S. Census Bureau, 2017 National Dataset (2016 is base population estimate for projections).

Contraceptive Pills

Based on 2017 to 2019 data from the CDC, of women who choose to use a hormonal contraceptive, approximately 55% use a contraceptive pill, vaginal ring or patch, the majority of whom use the contraceptive pill. The remaining 45% of women using hormonal contraception are split between using injectables, implants, or IUDs. Based on this information, we believe that contraceptive pills are the most popular choice because:

- patients and physicians are familiar with pills;
- pills were the first to market and have been aggressively promoted for a long period of time;
- historically, pills have been a covered benefit with good reimbursement in private and public healthcare plans; and
- pills are a non-invasive option.

However, compliance remains a significant draw-back with pills. Published studies have shown that the average woman who uses oral contraceptives misses approximately two to four pills per month, which increases the potential for unintended pregnancies. We believe that a patch can offer greater convenience than a pill, as it does not require daily administration and, for certain women, could lead to greater compliance and ease of use.

Contraceptive Patch Market Experience

The Ortho Evra® contraceptive patch, or Evra, was introduced in early 2002 and was the first FDA-approved contraceptive patch. The initial approved labeling for Evra indicated that it delivered a daily EE dose of 20 micrograms. Evra had rapid uptake in the contraceptive market and achieved a 10% share of the CHC market by September 2003. Following FDA approval of Evra, users of Evra began to report thrombotic and thromboembolic events to the FDA. Johnson & Johnson, the manufacturer of Evra, revised the Evra labeling in November 2005 to include information that EE exposure with Evra is 60% higher than that of an oral contraceptive containing EE of 35 micrograms, based on area under the curve, a commonly-used metric for measuring EE exposure in contraceptives. This information was ultimately included in an addition to the boxed warning that was unique to the Evra label. In 2020, the Xulane label was revised to reflect a contraindication in women with a BMI $\geq$ 30 kg/m^2 because of the reduced efficacy and increased potential risk for VTEs in this population. In making this revision, the information about increased estrogen exposure was removed from the boxed warning but remains in the warnings and precautions and pharmacokinetics sections of the label. The Evra market share declined rapidly following the 2005 labeling changes, from a peak share of 11% in 2005, to 4% by the end of 2006, to 1.4% by the end of 2013, where it stabilized, with a 1.5% share of the market based on combined prescriptions for Evra and its generic equivalent (Xulane®) in 2014. In more recent years, the Xulane share of the CHC market TRx has grown, from a 1.7% share in 2016 to a 2.8% share in 2020.

The FDA has maintained, in spite of the wording in the labeling for Evra, which has been discontinued, and its approved branded generic, that none of the epidemiologic studies provides a definitive answer regarding the relative risk of VTE with Evra compared to combined oral contraceptive use or whether the increased risk that some studies demonstrated is directly attributable to Evra. In spite of the labeling changes, and Johnson & Johnson ceasing promotion of Evra in 2007, the generic equivalent of Evra (Xulane) generated sales of $331.5 million in 2020. On February 26, 2021, Amneal Pharmaceuticals, Inc. announced that it had received approval by the FDA for Zafemy, a generic version of Ortho Evra.

With its approval on February 14, 2020, Twirla is now the only transdermal contraceptive option currently available to women that delivers a low dose of estrogen. We believe that the rapid uptake and acceptance of Evra upon its introduction and its (and Xulane's) continued sales over the past several years demonstrate a market opportunity for multiple choices in transdermal contraceptive patches.

Twirla Potential Market Share

Three of our market research studies have included an allocation exercise to estimate the potential uptake of Twirla and peak market share. In all of these studies, ObGyns and nurse practitioners, or NPs, indicated their allocation of contraceptive prescriptions before and after reviewing a product profile like Twirla that reflects the safety and efficacy results from our SECURE clinical trial. In the 2010 study, which was conducted prior to the implementation of the ACA, ObGyns estimated use of a product like Twirla in 17% of their CHC patients. A proprietary calibration model developed by the research firm was applied to the peak share estimate, to adjust for physician overstatement, resulting in an estimated peak market share of 9% of the CHC market. In the study completed in December 2016, ObGyns, NPs, and physicians assistants, or PAs, estimated use of Twirla in 22% of their CHC patients, which was also calibrated to adjust for overstatement, resulting in an estimated peak market share of 14% of the CHC market. This estimate was confirmed in our most recent study completed in September of 2019, in which ObGyns and NPs/PAs estimated use of Twirla in 20% of their CHC patients, calibrated to 14% of the CHC market.

We continue to evaluate the commercial opportunity for Twirla. We believe that the potential new CHC users who are within Twirla's approved indication represent a significant population of women. Based on the Company's market research, analysis of the current and expected future U.S. contraceptive market, and review of other product launches in the category, the Company estimates that Twirla can potentially achieve a peak market share of 5-8%. As we pursue the commercialization of Twirla, we will continue to analyze the contraceptive market and update our market research for Twirla.

Twirla Commercialization Strategy

Our top priority is the successful commercialization of Twirla. Promptly after approval by the FDA in February 2020, we began implementation of our plan to market Twirla. During 2020, we validated our commercial manufacturing process, initiated work with managed care and patient payors to gain market access for Twirla, hired and trained an initial sales team through our contract sales partner, Syneos Selling Solutions, entered into distribution agreements with the three largest wholesalers in the United States and commenced commercial shipments of product to wholesalers in December 2020. In 2021, we intend to continue implementation of our commercial strategy for Twirla with a focus on promotional activities and expanding market access through multiple business channels, including third-party payor contracts, retail and specialty pharmacies, telemedicine, and government contracts.

Twirla Promotion Strategy

We have a limited number of sales and marketing employees and primarily rely on third-party agencies with experience in commercializing pharmaceutical products to advance the commercialization of Twirla. Our marketing efforts are initially focused on Obstetrician-gynecologists in the United States, and we plan to use a significant number of samples in the early stage of commercial launch to gain patient trial and acceptance. We believe that we can deploy a focused sales force effort targeting the ObGyn, NP and PA prescribers who are responsible for approximately 70% of branded CHC prescriptions. In areas of the country where it is not efficient to deploy a sales representative, and/or depending on the evolution of the COVID-19 pandemic, remote promotion can be used to reach prescribers. We plan to complement these efforts by expanding the channels we utilize to drive awareness of Twirla during the pandemic and will focus on promotion with key prescribers and customers groups, including consumers and commercial managed care plans.

We plan to use both branded and unbranded campaigns to create awareness of Twirla and available contraceptive options among consumers. We believe there are cost-effective means to reach our target demographic of females ages 18 to 34 years, who tend to engage in online activities to a high degree and are more likely to seek health information online and through social networks. Traditional mass-market direct-to-consumer advertising on television may not be required to reach these consumers. Marketing tactics aimed at today's female consumer need to be optimized for mobile technology because smartphones and text messaging are the preferred means of communication. We believe that a focused consumer promotion plan that uses digital media, potential social media advertising, and other mass-market advertising vehicles will generate consumer awareness and demand for Twirla. In the third quarter of 2020, we launched our unbranded educational awareness campaign, entitled I'm So Done. We rolled out our branded campaign in early 2021.

Twirla Coverage and Reimbursement Strategy

After approval of Twirla by the FDA, we began meeting with formulary decision makers as appropriate to secure positions for Twirla that minimize access barriers for prescribers and patients, and since then we estimate that we have been able to achieve formulary access for approximately forty to forty-five percent (40-45%) of the estimated covered lives by commercial third-party payors. Third-party payors are increasingly challenging the prices charged for pharmaceutical products. The United States government and other third-party payors are increasingly limiting both coverage and level of reimbursement for new drugs, in addition to questioning their safety and efficacy. In this challenging environment, we plan to continue our efforts to expand formulary access to Twirla during 2021 through contracting strategies and engaging with formulary boards on the clinical profile of Twirla. We believe that it is important in this category for women to have equal access to all methods, dosing regimens and hormonal options so that they and their provider can select the choice that is the most appropriate to meet their lifestyle and family planning goals.

Our Pipeline: Twirla Line Extensions and Potential Product Candidates

Twirla is our first and only approved product, and, to date, substantially all of our resources have been committed to obtaining approval of Twirla and initiating our commercialization of Twirla. While seeking approval of Twirla and preparing for commercial launch, we halted all work on our pipeline. We have initiated a full evaluation of our pipeline to establish a plan to advance the development of Twirla line extensions and other potential product candidates.

Our potential product pipeline consists of two types of product candidates: Twirla line extensions and other transdermal contraceptive product candidates. These potential product candidates are designed to address market needs and offer additional non-daily contraceptive options. Prior market research conducted in December 2016 indicated our potential line extension product candidates may be commercially viable and could garner a share of the contraceptive market. We have conducted an Advisory Board meeting with contraceptive experts and initiated a new market research program to update our previous insights and to advise on the pipeline programs.

The hormonal contraceptive market has a long history of manufacturers successfully using line extensions to extend the lifecycle of a brand, often by gaining additional exclusivity periods for the product extension under the provisions of the Hatch-Waxman Act and/or with additional patents. Our lifecycle strategy with Twirla is to introduce line extensions that will have exclusivity for some time period, either due to our intellectual property estate, or due to Hatch-Waxman exclusivity. The line extensions in our pipeline include using our Skinfusion technology to allow a 28-day regimen where women will experience shorter, lighter withdrawal bleeding, as well as extending the cycle beyond the typical 28-day regimen to allow women to experience fewer withdrawal bleeds each year. In addition, the potential line extension product candidates in our pipeline will utilize a unique aspect in the regimen, where a smaller patch, or SmP, that delivers a lower dose of both EE and LNG will be worn during the final seven days of each cycle, rather than having a patch-free week, to allow for withdrawal bleeding while minimizing hormonal fluctuations and potentially the side effects that accompany changes in hormone levels. These regimens are protected by patents issued to us in 2015.

Our potential Twirla line extensions include the following:

- AG200-15 Extended Regimen (ER) is an 84-day extended cycle regimen utilizing our approved Twirla TDS product designed to allow a woman to have four (4) episodes of withdrawal bleeding per year. There are several currently approved oral contraceptives that provide an 84- or 91-day extended cycle regimen, and in 2020, these products totaled 5% of CHC cycles dispensed. However, there is no approved contraceptive patch product offering an extended cycle regimen. AG200-15ER is designed to address the limitations of the currently approved oral contraceptive extended regimens by providing a more convenient, weekly TDS dosing schedule. We are currently evaluating the required development plan required for FDA approval of this regimen.

- AG200-15 SmP is a 28-day regimen designed to provide users with shorter, lighter withdrawal bleeds and potentially improve contraceptive efficacy. AG200-15 SmP may also provide benefit in patients with sensitivity to abrupt changes in hormone levels. 28-day regimen CHCs that use a shortened hormone-free interval, or SHFI, by delivering hormones beyond the traditional 21 days comprised 16% of CHC-TRx volume and 43% of CHC sales in 2020, demonstrating high acceptability among patients and providers. AG200-15 SmP is designed to provide a simplified 28-day regimen through use of the same drug product as Twirla for the first three weeks of the cycle, and a smaller lower-dose patch, or SmP, in the fourth week, which will allow patients to continuously apply patches without interruption. AG200-15 SmP requires additional patch formulation development work on the SmP prior to potentially conducting a pharmacokinetic study.

- AG200-15 ER SmP is a 91-day extended cycle regimen utilizing our approved Twirla TDS and the SmP that is designed to allow a woman to have four (4) shorter, lighter withdrawal bleeding episodes per year. By extending the length of the contraceptive cycle, AG200-15 ER SmP is designed to potentially minimize breakthrough bleeding and spotting, which are commonly reported events with patients using an extended regimen contraceptive product. AG200-15 ER SmP utilizes the approved Twirla TDS during the 12-week (84-day) active phase of the cycle and the SmP during week 13 of the cycle. AG200-15 ER SmP requires additional patch formulation development work on the SmP prior to potentially conducting a pharmacokinetic study.

Our other potential product candidate is a progestin-only (P-only) contraceptive patch described below:

- AG890 is a P-only contraceptive patch, intended for use by women of reproductive potential to prevent pregnancy. The intended population would be women who are unable or unwilling to take estrogen, including those who are breastfeeding or who are at greater risk of VTE, such as women who smoke, are over 35 years of age, or who are obese. Currently, the P-only market consists of pills and several non-oral options, including IUS/IUDs, implants, and injections. AG890 is intended to fulfill an unmet medical need for a non-daily, easily reversible form of contraception in the P-only target population. Previously, we conducted a Phase 1 clinical trial with AG890 containing LNG. In addition, the National Institutes of Health, through a clinical trial agreement with us, conducted a Phase 1/2 trial with LNG-containing AG890. This Phase 1/2 study was a multicenter study to evaluate the pharmacokinetics, safety, and mechanisms of potential contraceptive efficacy of AG890. We are evaluating our analysis of the data from this trial as well as other potential progestins to be utilized for further development. Additional formulation development work for progestin and dose selection is required, along with additional studies to determine the optimal formulation and dose to advance to Phase 3.

We do not expect to be required to conduct preclinical toxicology studies for any of these potential product candidates. Based upon a number of factors, including, but not limited to, our available capital resources and feedback from the FDA, we continue to review the clinical path and the budgetary requirements for each of these three potential product candidates.

Competition

The industry for contraceptive products is characterized by intense competition and strong promotion of proprietary products. We face potential competition from many different sources, including large pharmaceutical companies, specialty pharmaceutical and generic drug companies, and medical device companies. Any product candidates that we successfully develop and commercialize will compete with existing products and new products that may become available in the future.

We face competition from a variety of non-permanent birth control products. There are non-hormonal barrier methods, such as the contraceptive sponge, diaphragm, cervical cap or shield and condoms. Then, there are hormonal methods, which is the category for Twirla and our potential product candidates, such as oral contraceptives, injections, implants, hormonal IUDs and vaginal ring and transdermal contraceptive products.

The following table is the FDA Birth Control Chart, which outlines the 18 unique forms of birth control and compares the effectiveness of each method.

BIRTH CONTROL GUIDE

If you do not want to get pregnant, there are many birth control options to choose from. No one product is best for everyone. Some methods are more effective than others at preventing pregnancy. Check the pregnancy rates on this chart to get an idea of how effective the product is at preventing pregnancy. The pregnancy rates tell you the number of pregnancies expected per 100 women during the first year of typical use. Typical use shows how effective the different methods are during actual use (including sometimes using a method in a way that is not correct or not consistent). The only sure way to avoid pregnancy is not to have any sexual contact. Talk to your healthcare provider about the best method for you.

Although there are more than 250 CHC products currently available, including brands and generics, just 14 branded products make up approximately 40% of total market revenue. Our potential competitors include large, well-established pharmaceutical companies, and specialty pharmaceutical sales and marketing companies. The branded products with established market presence include Nuvaring®, marketed by Merck, and Annovera®, marketed by Therapeutics MD, the Loestrin® franchise, marketed by Allergan (formerly known as Actavis), consisting of three oral contraceptives, Minastrin® 24, LoLoestrin® and Taytulla®, and Beyaz®, Yaz®, Yasmin® and Natazia® marketed by Bayer. Xulane, a branded generic to Ortho Evra, generated $331.5 million in sales for Mylan in 2020. On February 26, 2021, Amneal Pharmaceuticals, Inc. announced that it had received approval by the FDA for Zafemy, a second generic version of Ortho Evra. Additionally, several generics manufacturers currently market and continue to introduce new generic contraceptives, including Sandoz, Glenmark, Lupin, Amneal, Mylan, Aurobindo, Xiromed, and Afaxys. Based on the market experience of other non-oral CHC dosage forms, including Evra and Nuvaring, we believe there is a continuing demand for an innovative transdermal contraceptive patch that can provide convenience in a low-dose transdermal format.

There are other contraceptive products recently approved or in development that may compete with Twirla and our other potential product candidates. Phexxi®, a prescription non-hormonal vaginal gel approved for use as an on-demand contraceptive, was developed by Evofem and launched in August of 2020. Nextstellis™, a combined oral contraceptive containing drosperinone and a new form of estrogen, estetrol (E4), was developed by Mithra Pharmaceuticals and is licensed to Mayne Pharmaceuticals for marketing in the U.S. and Australia. Mayne has indicated they will recruit a new women's health team in the U.S. and expect to launch Nextstellis in the first half of 2021. The Population Council has a transdermal gel contraceptive and a vaginal ring contraceptive, both containing segesterone acetate (the same progestin contained in Annovera) and ethinyl estradiol in Phase 2 development. Bayer has an IUD containing both LNG and an NSAID (a non-steroidal anti-inflammatory), to reduce pain upon insertion in Phase 2. Bayer also signed a license agreement in January of 2020 with Dare Bioscience for U.S. commercial rights to Ovaprene, a hormone-free monthly contraceptive vaginal ring, which is in Phase 2 development. Allergan has a P-only patch for which they received a CRL from the FDA in 2013.

We are aware of only one other CHC transdermal patch, which is not approved in the U.S. Apleek was developed by Luye Pharma and Bayer, and it was approved in the United Kingdom in 2014. Luye acquired the global rights to Apleek from Bayer AG in August 2018. Apleek contains the active ingredients EE and gestodene, a third-generation progestin. There are no contraceptives containing gestodene approved in the U.S. We believe that if this product were to obtain FDA approval, the approved labeling is likely to contain the same language that products containing third generation progestins contain, which language states that these contraceptives have a two-fold increase in risk of VTE as compared with contraceptives containing second generation progestins.

Manufacturing

We do not own any manufacturing facilities and rely on Corium for all aspects of the manufacturing of Twirla. We, along with Corium, have made a significant investment in a proprietary process to manufacture Twirla. We believe we have developed a robust process to reliably manufacture Twirla on a commercial scale. We believe that the technical challenges and know-how involved in manufacturing, including proprietary chemistry, production to scale and use of custom equipment and reproducibility, present significant barriers to entry for other pharmaceutical companies who might potentially want to replicate our Skinfusion technology.

Strategic Agreements

Agreement with Corium

In April 2020, we entered into a manufacturing and commercialization agreement with Corium, which we refer to as the Corium Agreement, and which replaced our previous development agreement. Pursuant to the Corium Agreement, Corium will manufacture and supply all of our product requirements for Twirla at certain specified rates. Under the terms of the Corium Agreement, Corium is to be the exclusive supplier of Twirla for ten years. The Corium Agreement includes a quarterly minimum purchase commitment and a fixed price per unit for two years depending on annual purchase volume.

The Corium Agreement terminates automatically after ten years, but may be terminated for any reason upon the written mutual agreement of both parties; provided, however, that the parties must confer in good faith regarding possible mutual termination. In the event of such termination, we may still effect purchase orders after the notice of termination is given and until the time any such termination becomes effective.

Agreement with Syneos Selling Solutions

In April 2020, we entered into a project agreement with inVentiv Commercial Services, LLC, or inVentiv, a Syneos Health Group Company, which we refer to as the Syneos Agreement, under our Master Services Agreement with inVentiv. Pursuant to the Syneos Agreement, inVentiv, through its affiliate Syneos Selling Solutions, will provide a field force of sales representatives to provide certain detailing services, sales operation services, compliance services and training services with respect to Twirla to us in exchange for an up-front implementation fee and a fixed monthly fee.

The Syneos Agreement terminates automatically on the second anniversary of the date of the first activity undertaken by Syneos Selling Solutions to detail Twirla, referred to as the Deployment Date, unless earlier extended upon the mutual written agreement of both parties. We may terminate the Syneos Agreement for any reason upon timely notice after the first anniversary of the Deployment Date; provided, however, that if we terminate the Syneos Agreement prior to the eighteen month anniversary of the Deployment Date, we will be obligated to pay Syneos Selling Solutions a termination fee, the amount of which varies depending on the date of termination.

Pricing and Reimbursement

In the United States, decisions regarding the extent of coverage and the amount of reimbursement to be provided for pharmaceutical products are made on a payor-by-payor basis. The principal decisions about reimbursement for new medicines by the U.S. Government are typically made by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), an agency within the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. As a result, coverage determinations are often a time-consuming and costly process that requires companies to provide scientific and clinical support for the use of approved products to multiple stakeholders which may include Group Purchasing Organizations (GPO's), Pharmacy Benefit Managers (PBM's), individual payer health plans, as well as government payors and federal purchasers including CMS, the Veterans Administration, Department of Defense and state Medicaid managed and Fee For Service plans, with no assurance on the level of coverage or that adequate reimbursement will be obtained. Third-party payors are increasingly challenging the prices charged for pharmaceutical products.

Net prices for drugs may be reduced by mandatory discounts or rebates required by government healthcare programs or private payors and by any future relaxation of laws, enforcement policies or administrative determinations with respect to the importation of drugs into the United States from other countries where they may be sold at lower prices.

In the United States, third-party payors include federal health care programs, such as Medicare, Medicaid, TRICARE, and Veterans Health Administration programs; managed care providers, private health insurers and other organizations. Several of the U.S. federal health care programs require that drug manufacturers extend discounts or pay rebates to certain programs in order for their products to be covered and reimbursed. For example, the Medicaid Drug Rebate Program requires pharmaceutical manufacturers of covered outpatient drugs to enter into and have in effect a national rebate agreement with the federal government as a condition for coverage of the manufacturer's covered outpatient drug(s) by state Medicaid programs. The amount of the rebate for each product is based on a statutory formula and may be subject to an additional discount if certain pricing increases more than inflation. State Medicaid programs and Medicaid managed care plans can seek additional "supplemental" rebates from manufacturers in connection with states' establishment of preferred drug lists. A further requirement for Medicaid coverage is that the manufacturer enter into a Federal Supply Schedule, or FSS, agreement with the Secretary for Veterans Affairs to extend discounted pricing to the VA, DOD and other agencies.

Similarly, in order for a covered outpatient drug to receive federal reimbursement under the Medicaid programs or to be sold directly to U.S. government agencies, the manufacturer must extend discounts on the covered outpatient drug to entities that are enrolled and participating in the 340B drug pricing program, which is a federal program that requires manufacturers to provide discounts to certain statutorily-defined safety-net providers. The 340B discount for each product is calculated based on certain Medicaid Drug Rebate Program metrics that manufacturers are required to report to CMS.

There has been recent negative publicity and increasing legislative and public scrutiny around pharmaceutical drug pricing in the U.S. Moreover, U.S. government authorities and third-party payors are increasingly attempting to limit or regulate drug prices and reimbursement. These dynamics may give rise to heightened attention and potential negative reactions to pricing decisions for Twirla and products for which we may receive regulatory approval in the future, possibly limiting our ability to generate revenue and attain profitability.

The United States government and other third-party payors are increasingly limiting both coverage and level of reimbursement for new drugs, in addition to questioning their safety,efficacy and clinical value. Consolidation among managed care entities has increased the negotiating power of these entities. Third-party payors increasingly use closed formularies, which might not include all of the approved products for a particular indication, to control costs by negotiating discounted prices in exchange for formulary inclusion. Third-party payors have traditionally used differential co-pays to attempt to drive patients to use either generic products or products for which they have a contract with the manufacturer. Typically, a third-party payor's formulary is organized into between three and six tiers. Each tier is then associated with a set range of co-pay amounts or a percent of the drug costs, with products in the lower tiers having a lower co-pay.

Reimbursement for female contraceptive products was changed by the enactment of the the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA), which was signed into law on March 23, 2010 and further updated on March 30,2010 to become the Affordable Care Act (ACA). On January 20, 2012, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services announced a final rule on health insurance coverage that provided for no cost sharing for FDA-approved contraceptives and contraceptive services for women of reproductive age if prescribed by health care providers, as part of women's preventive health services guidelines adopted by the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) for the ACA. The final rule applied to all new health insurance plans in all states beginning August 1, 2012.

In May 2015, several government agencies, including the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, or HHS, the Department of Labor, or DOL, and the U.S. Department of Treasury, or Treasury, jointly issued a clarification in the form of an FAQ which clarified the requirements for coverage of contraceptives under the ACA. This clarifying guidance went into effect in January 2016. The FAQ states that plans and issuers must cover without cost-sharing at least one form of contraception in each of the 18 current methods that the FDA has identified for women in its current Birth Control Guide. The patch is identified as a specific method in the FDA Birth Control Guide, and therefore insurers must cover at least one patch product with no cost-sharing to the patient. Under the FAQ, health plans are allowed to utilize reasonable medical management techniques within a method to control costs, such as covering a generic at no cost but charging a copay for the equivalent brand. However, if using medical management techniques within a method, plans must have a transparent waiver process where, if a provider determines that a particular FDA-approved item, including contraception, is medically necessary for an individual, then the plan must cover that item without cost sharing. While the FAQ is clear that a waiver process is required, plans have implemented the requirement inconsistently on a national basis.

On January 20, 2017, the Trump administration signed an Executive Order directing federal agencies with authorities and responsibilities under the ACA to waive, defer, grant exemptions from, or delay the implementation of any provision of the ACA that would impose a fiscal or regulatory burden on states, individuals, healthcare providers, health insurers, or manufacturers of pharmaceuticals or medical devices, among others. The Biden administration revoked the Trump administration Executive Order on January 28, 2021. Congress also could consider subsequent legislation to repeal and replace elements of the ACA. Additionally, in October 2017, the Department of Health and Human Services, jointly with the Department of Labor and the Treasury, issued two interim final rules outlining exemption processes for employers not wanting to offer contraceptive coverage based on their religious beliefs or sincerely held moral convictions. In July 2020, the Supreme Court reversed lower court injunctions applicable to these rules, effectively permitting implementation. However, the Biden administration potentially may elect to exercise its authorities under ACA differently from the previous administration, and it is, therefore, difficult to determine the full effect of the ACA or any other healthcare reform efforts on our business.

Before the ACA was passed, many states had enacted contraceptive equity laws that required plans to treat contraceptives in the same way they covered other services. In addition, since the ACA was passed, a number of states have enacted laws that basically codify in state legislation the ACA benefit rules (requiring all plans regulated by the state to cover, without cost-sharing, each of the 18 FDA-approved contraceptive methods and in some cases have gone further and required coverage of all FDA approved contraceptives). Federal law applies to all plans while state law applies to only individual plans and fully-insured group plans. Currently, 30 states and the District of Columbia require insurance plans to cover contraceptives, with a wide range of coverage and cost-sharing requirements, and exemptions among these mandates. We continue to monitor healthcare reform efforts and agency implementation as well as state contraceptive legislation.

Government Regulation

Government authorities in the United States, at the federal, state and local level, and in other countries extensively regulate, among other things, the research, development, testing, manufacture, packaging, storage, recordkeeping, labeling, advertising, promotion, distribution, marketing, import and export of pharmaceutical products such as those we are developing. The processes for obtaining regulatory approvals in the United States and in foreign countries, along with subsequent compliance with applicable statutes and regulations, require the expenditure of substantial time and financial resources.

FDA Regulation

In the United States, the FDA regulates drugs under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, or FDCA, and its implementing regulations. FDA has also issued many guidance documents which outline its interpretation of its governing laws and regulations. Over the last year, the number of guidance documents has increased, as FDA issued a number of guidances, which are continually evolving, to assist companies navigating the COVID-19 pandemic. The process of obtaining regulatory approvals and subsequent compliance with appropriate federal, state, local and foreign statutes and regulations requires the expenditure of substantial time and financial resources. Failure to comply with the applicable U.S. requirements at any time during the product development process, approval process or after approval, may subject an applicant to a variety of administrative or judicial sanctions, such as the FDA's refusal to approve pending NDAs, withdrawal of an approval, imposition of a clinical hold or termination, issuance of Warning, Untitled, or Cyber Letters, requests for product recalls, product seizures or detention, total or partial suspension or restriction of production, marketing or distribution, injunctions, fines, debarment, refusal to allow the import or export of product, adverse publicity, modification of promotional materials or labeling, refusals of government contracts, exclusion from participation in federal and state healthcare programs, restitution, disgorgement, imprisonment, consent decrees and corporate integrity agreements, or civil or criminal penalties.

The process required by the FDA before a drug may be marketed in the United States generally involves the following:

- Completion of preclinical laboratory tests, animal studies and formulation studies in compliance with the FDA's Good Laboratory Practice, or GLP, regulations;

- Submission to the FDA of an Investigational New Drug Application, or IND, which must become effective before human clinical trials may begin;
- Approval by an independent Institutional Review Board, or IRB, for each clinical site before each trial may be initiated;
- Performance of human clinical trials, including adequate and well-controlled clinical trials, in accordance with Current Good Clinical Practices, or cGCPs to establish the safety and efficacy of the proposed drug product for each indication;
- Submission to the FDA of an NDA;
- Satisfactory completion of an FDA advisory committee review, if applicable;
- Satisfactory completion of an FDA inspection of the manufacturing facility or facilities at which the product is produced to assess compliance with FDA requirements for product manufacturing and to assure that the facilities, methods and controls are adequate to preserve the drug's identity, strength, quality and purity, as well as the potential for completion of an FDA inspection of selected clinical sites to determine cGCP compliance; and
- FDA review and approval of the NDA.

Preclinical Studies and IND Submission

Preclinical studies include laboratory evaluation of drug substance chemistry, pharmacology, toxicity and drug product formulation, as well as animal studies to assess potential safety and efficacy. An IND sponsor must submit the results of the preclinical tests and preclinical literature, together with manufacturing information, analytical data and any available clinical data or literature, among other things, to the FDA as part of an IND, unless the sponsor is relying on prior FDA findings of safety or efficacy of the drug product, in which case, some of the above information may be omitted. Some preclinical testing may continue even after the IND is submitted. An IND automatically becomes effective 30 days after receipt by the FDA, unless before that time the FDA raises concerns or questions related to one or more proposed clinical trials and places the trial on a clinical hold. In such a case, the IND sponsor and the FDA must resolve any outstanding concerns before the clinical trial can begin. As a result, submission of an IND may not result in the FDA allowing clinical trials to commence.

Clinical Trials

Clinical trials involve the administration of an investigational new drug to human subjects under the supervision of qualified investigators in accordance with cGCP requirements, which includes the requirements that all research subjects provide their informed consent in writing for their participation in any clinical trial, and the review and approval of the study by an IRB. Clinical trials are conducted under protocols detailing, among other things, the objectives of the trial, the trial procedures, the parameters to be used in monitoring safety and the efficacy criteria to be evaluated and a statistical analysis plan. A protocol for each clinical trial and any subsequent protocol amendments must be submitted to the FDA as part of the IND. In addition, an IRB for each clinical trial site participating in the clinical trial must review and approve the plan for any clinical trial before it commences, and the IRB must continue to oversee the clinical trial while it is being conducted, including any changes.

Human clinical trials are typically conducted in three sequential phases, which may overlap or be combined. In Phase 1, the drug is initially introduced into healthy human subjects or subjects with the target disease or condition and tested for safety, dosage tolerance, absorption, metabolism, distribution, excretion and, if possible, to gain an initial indication of its effectiveness. In Phase 2, the drug typically is administered through controlled studies to a limited subject population with the target disease or condition to identify possible adverse effects and safety risks, to preliminarily evaluate the efficacy of the drug for specific targeted diseases or conditions and to determine dosage tolerance and optimal dosage. In Phase 3, the drug is administered to an expanded subject population, generally at geographically dispersed clinical trial sites, in two adequate and well-controlled clinical trials to generate enough data to statistically evaluate the efficacy and safety of the product candidate for approval, to establish the overall risk-benefit profile of the product candidate and to provide adequate information for the labeling of the product candidate. In the case of a 505(b)(2) NDA, which is a marketing application in which sponsors may rely on investigations that were not conducted by or for the applicant and for which the applicant has not obtained a right of reference or use from the person by or for whom the investigations were conducted, some of the above-described studies and preclinical studies may not be required or may be abbreviated. Bridging studies may be needed, however, to demonstrate the applicability of the studies that were previously conducted by other sponsors to the drug that is the subject of the marketing application. In addition to the above traditional kinds of data required for the approval of an NDA, the 21st Century Cures Act provides for FDA acceptance of additional kinds of data such as such as patient experience data, real world evidence for already approved products, and, for appropriate indications sought through supplemental marketing applications, data summaries.

In addition, under the Pediatric Research Equity Act, or PREA, an NDA or supplement to an NDA for a new active ingredient, indication, dosage form, dosage regimen or route of administration must contain data that are adequate to assess the safety and efficacy of the drug for the claimed indications in all relevant pediatric subpopulations, and to support dosing and administration for each pediatric subpopulation for which the product is safe and effective. The FDA may, on its own initiative or at the request of the applicant, grant deferrals for submission of some or all pediatric data until after approval of the product for use in adults, or full or partial waivers from the pediatric data requirements. We have obtained a waiver from the conduct of a PREA study.

The manufacture of investigational drugs for the conduct of human clinical trials is subject to FDA product manufacturing requirements. Investigational drugs and active pharmaceutical ingredients imported into the United States are also subject to regulation by the FDA relating to their labeling and distribution. Further, the export of investigational drug products outside of the United States is subject to regulatory requirements of the receiving country as well as U.S. export requirements under the FDCA.

Progress reports detailing the results of the clinical trials must be submitted at least annually to the FDA and the IRB and more frequently if serious adverse events occur. Information about certain clinical trials, including a description of the study and study results, must be submitted within specific timeframes to the National Institutes of Health, or NIH, for public dissemination on their ClinicalTrials.gov website. Failure to submit the required information to ClinicalTrials.gov can result in monetary penalties. Marketing application applicants must also report certain investigator financial interests to the FDA.

Phase 1, Phase 2 and Phase 3 clinical trials may not be completed successfully within any specified period, or at all. Furthermore, the FDA or the sponsor may suspend or terminate a clinical trial at any time on various grounds, including a finding that the research subjects are being exposed to an unacceptable health risk. Similarly, an IRB can suspend or terminate approval of a clinical trial at its institution if the clinical trial is not being conducted in accordance with the IRB's requirements or if the drug has been associated with unexpected serious harm to subjects. Additionally, some clinical trials are overseen by an independent group of qualified experts organized by the clinical trial sponsor, known as a data safety monitoring board or committee. This group regularly reviews accumulated data and advises the study sponsor regarding the continuing safety of trial subjects, potential trial subjects, and the continuing validity and scientific merit of the clinical trial. We may also suspend or terminate a clinical trial based on evolving business objectives or competitive climate.

U.S. Marketing Approval

Assuming successful completion of the required clinical testing, the results of the preclinical and clinical studies, including negative or ambiguous results as well as positive findings, together with detailed information relating to the product's chemistry, manufacture, controls and proposed labeling, among other things, are submitted to the FDA as part of an NDA requesting approval to market the product for one or more indications. In most cases, the submission of an NDA is subject to a substantial application user fee. These user fees must be filed at the time of the first submission of the application, even if the application is being submitted on a rolling basis. A user fee for the Twirla contraceptive patch was submitted with the original NDA. Application resubmissions by the same applicant do not require a new application fee. Under the PDUFA guidelines that are currently in effect, the FDA has agreed to certain performance goals regarding the timing of its review of an application. The FDA's standard review goal is to act on 90% of all Non-New Molecular Entity applications within ten months of FDA receipt of the application. These time periods may be extended by the FDA should an applicant submit new information to the agency during the course of the FDA's review of the marketing application. The time period is also only a goal and may not be met by the FDA.

The FDA conducts a preliminary review of all original NDAs within the first 60 days after submission, before accepting them for filing, to determine whether they are sufficiently complete to permit substantive review. The FDA may request additional information rather than accept an NDA for filing. In this event, the application must be submitted again with the additional information and is also subject to review before the FDA accepts it for filing.

Once the submission is accepted for filing, the FDA begins an in-depth substantive review to determine, among other things, whether the drug is safe and effective and whether the facility in which it is manufactured, processed, packaged or held, as well as the manufacturing processes and controls, meet standards designed to ensure the product's continued safety, quality and purity.

The FDA may refer a marketing application to an external advisory committee for questions pertaining to issues such as clinical trial design, safety and efficacy, and public health questions. An advisory committee is a panel of independent experts, including clinicians and other scientific experts, that reviews, evaluates and provides a recommendation as to whether the application should be approved and under what conditions. The FDA is not bound by the recommendations of an advisory committee, but it typically follows such recommendations and considers such recommendations carefully when making decisions.

Before approving an NDA, the FDA will inspect the facility or facilities where the product is manufactured, referred to as a Pre-Approval Inspection. The FDA will not approve an application unless it determines that the manufacturing processes and facilities are in compliance with the FDA's requirements for product manufacturing and adequate to assure consistent production of the product within required specifications by the manufacturer and all of its subcontractors and contract manufacturers. Additionally, before approving an NDA, the FDA will typically inspect one or more clinical trial sites to assure compliance with cGCP. Also, as part of its regulatory review, the FDA verifies the data contained in the NDA.

The testing and approval process for a drug product requires substantial time, effort and financial resources, and may take several years to complete. Data obtained from preclinical and clinical testing are not always conclusive and may be susceptible to varying interpretations, which could delay, limit or prevent regulatory approval. The FDA may not grant approval of a marketing application on a timely basis, or at all.

After evaluating the NDA and all related information, including the advisory committee recommendation, if any, and inspection reports regarding the manufacturing facilities and clinical trial sites, the FDA may issue an approval letter, or, in some cases, a CRL. A CRL indicates that the review cycle of the application is complete, and the application is not ready for approval. A CRL generally contains a statement of specific conditions that must be met in order to secure final approval of the drug product and may require additional clinical or preclinical testing, or other information in order for the FDA to reconsider the application.

If an application receives a CRL, the applicant may resubmit the application, addressing all of the FDA-cited deficiencies, withdraw the application, or request the opportunity for a hearing. If the applicant resubmits the application, the application is subject to an initial FDA review. Within 30 days of receipt, the FDA will review a resubmission to determine whether it constitutes a complete response that addresses all deficiencies identified in a complete response letter. The agency then issues a letter to the applicant, stating whether the agency agrees that the resubmission is a complete response. If the FDA does not agree that the resubmission is a complete response, the review clock will not start until a complete response is received. If the agency agrees that the resubmission is a complete response, the FDA will classify the resubmission as either Class 1 or 2. The FDA aims to review Class 1 resubmissions within two months of receipt or Class 2 resubmissions within six months of receipt. Class 1 resubmissions are resubmissions of an NDA following a complete response letter that include minor updates or data reanalysis. Class 2 resubmissions include more complex or extensive updates to the NDA. As with the PDUFA timelines for original submissions, these are also subject to extension if the sponsor submits new information. Resubmitted applications may also be subject to FDA inspection of clinical and manufacturing sites, as well as review by FDA advisory committees. Following its review of a resubmitted NDA, the FDA may issue an approval letter or another CRL.

Even if an applicant resubmits with the required additional information, the FDA ultimately may decide that the application does not satisfy the regulatory criteria for approval. If and when those conditions have been met to the FDA's satisfaction, the FDA may issue an approval letter. An approval letter authorizes commercial marketing of the drug with specific prescribing information for specific indications.

Even if the FDA approves a product candidate, it may limit the approved indications for use of the product candidate and require that contraindications, warnings or precautions be included in the product labeling, including a boxed warning. The FDA also may not approve the inclusion of labeling claims necessary for successful marketing. Moreover, the FDA may require that post-approval studies, including Phase 4 clinical trials, be conducted to further assess certain aspects of a drug's safety and efficacy after approval, require testing and surveillance programs to monitor the product after commercialization, or impose other conditions, including distribution restrictions or other risk management mechanisms. For example, the FDA may require a risk evaluation and mitigation strategy, or REMS, as a condition of approval or following approval to mitigate any identified or suspected serious risks and ensure safe use of the drug. The REMS plan could include medication guides, physician communication plans, assessment plans, and elements to assure safe use, such as restricted distribution methods, patient registries or other risk minimization tools. A REMS could materially affect the potential market and profitability of the product. The FDA may prevent or limit further marketing of a product based on the results of post-marketing studies or surveillance programs. After approval, some types of changes to the approved product, such as adding new indications, manufacturing changes, and additional labeling claims, are subject to further testing requirements, submission of a supplemental application, and FDA review and approval. Further, should new safety information arise, additional testing, product labeling or FDA notification may be required.

Hatch-Waxman Act

Section 505 of the FDCA describes three types of marketing applications that may be submitted to the FDA to request marketing authorization for a new drug. A Section 505(b)(1) NDA is an application that contains full reports of investigations of safety and efficacy. A 505(b)(2) NDA is an application that contains full reports of investigations of safety and efficacy but where at least some of the information required for approval comes from investigations that were not conducted by or for the applicant and for which the applicant has not obtained a right of reference or use from the person by or for whom the investigations were conducted. This regulatory pathway enables the applicant to rely, in part, on the FDA's prior findings of safety and efficacy for an existing product, or published literature, in support of its application. Section 505(j) establishes an abbreviated approval process for a generic version of an approved drug product through the submission of an Abbreviated New Drug Application, or ANDA. An ANDA provides for marketing of a generic drug product that has the same active ingredients, dosage form, strength, route of administration, labeling, performance characteristics and intended use, among other things, to a previously approved product. ANDAs are termed "abbreviated" because they are generally not required to include preclinical (animal) and clinical (human) data to establish safety and efficacy. Instead, generic applicants must scientifically demonstrate that their product is bioequivalent to, or performs in the same manner as, the innovator drug through in vitro, in vivo, or other testing. The generic version must deliver the same amount of active ingredients into a subject's bloodstream in the same amount of time as the innovator drug and can often be substituted by pharmacists under prescriptions written for the reference listed drug. In seeking approval for a drug through an NDA, applicants are required to list with the FDA each patent with claims that cover the applicant's drug or a method of using the drug. Upon approval of a drug, each of the patents listed in the application for the drug is then published in the FDA's Approved Drug Products with Therapeutic Equivalence Evaluations publication, commonly known as the Orange Book. Drugs listed in the Orange Book can, in turn, be cited by potential competitors in support of approval of an ANDA or 505(b)(2) NDA. In an effort to clarify which patents must be listed in the Orange Book, in January 2021, Congress passed the Orange Book Transparency Act of 2020, which largely codifies FDA's existing practices into the FDCA.

Upon submission of an ANDA or a 505(b)(2) NDA, an applicant must certify to the FDA that: (1) no patent information on the drug product that is the subject of the application has been submitted to the FDA; (2) such patent has expired; (3) the date on which such patent expires; or (4) such patent is invalid or will not be infringed upon by the manufacture, use or sale of the drug product for which the application is submitted. Generally, the ANDA or 505(b)(2) NDA cannot be approved until all listed patents have expired, except where the ANDA or 505(b)(2) NDA applicant challenges a listed patent through the last type of certification, also known as a Paragraph IV certification. If the applicant does not challenge the listed patents or indicate that it is not seeking approval of a patented method of use, the ANDA or 505(b)(2) NDA application will not be approved until all of the listed patents claiming the referenced product have expired.

If the ANDA or 505(b)(2) NDA applicant has provided a Paragraph IV certification to the FDA, the applicant must send notice of the Paragraph IV certification to the NDA and patent holders within a specified timeframe. The NDA and patent holders may then initiate a patent infringement lawsuit in response to the notice of the Paragraph IV certification. If the Paragraph IV certification is challenged by an NDA holder or the patent owner(s) asserts a patent challenge to the Paragraph IV certification, the FDA may not make an approval effective until the earlier of 30 months from the receipt of the notice of the Paragraph IV certification, the expiration of the patent, when the infringement case concerning each such patent was favorably decided in the applicant's favor or settled, or such shorter or longer period as may be ordered by a court. This prohibition is generally referred to as the 30-month stay. In instances where an ANDA or 505(b)(2) NDA applicant files a Paragraph IV certification, the NDA holder or patent owner(s) regularly take action to trigger the 30-month stay, recognizing that the related patent litigation may take many months or years to resolve. Thus, approval of an ANDA or 505(b)(2) NDA could be delayed for a significant period of time depending on the patent certification the applicant makes and the reference drug sponsor's decision to initiate patent litigation.

The Hatch-Waxman Act establishes periods of regulatory exclusivity for certain approved drug products, during which the FDA cannot approve (or in some cases accept) an ANDA or 505(b)(2) application that relies on the branded reference drug. For example, the holder of an NDA, including a 505(b)(2) NDA, may obtain five years of exclusivity upon approval of a new drug containing new chemical entities, or NCEs, that have not been previously approved by the FDA. A drug is a new chemical entity if the FDA has not previously approved any other new drug containing the same active moiety, which is the molecule or ion responsible for the therapeutic activity of the drug substance. During the exclusivity period, the FDA may not accept for review an ANDA or a 505(b)(2) NDA submitted by another company that contains the previously approved active moiety. However, an ANDA or 505(b)(2) NDA may be submitted after four years if it contains a certification of patent invalidity or non-infringement.

The Hatch-Waxman Act also provides three years of marketing exclusivity to the holder of an NDA (including a 505(b)(2) NDA) for a particular condition of approval, or change to a marketed product, such as a new formulation for a previously approved product, if one or more new clinical studies (other than bioavailability or bioequivalence studies) was essential to the approval of the application and was conducted/sponsored by the applicant. This three-year exclusivity period protects against the FDA making an ANDA and 505(b)(2) NDA approval effective for the condition of the new drug's approval. As a general matter, the three-year exclusivity does not prohibit the FDA from approving ANDAs or 505(b)(2) NDAs for generic versions of the original, unmodified drug product. Five-year and three-year exclusivity will not delay the submission or approval of a full NDA; however, an applicant submitting a full NDA would be required to conduct or obtain a right of reference to all of the preclinical studies and adequate and well-controlled clinical trials necessary to demonstrate safety and efficacy.

Our NDA for Twirla was submitted under Section 505(b)(2), and we expect that some of our other drug candidates will utilize the Section 505(b)(2) regulatory pathway. Even though several of our drug products utilize active drug ingredients that are commercially marketed in the United States in other dosage forms, we need to establish the safety and efficacy of those active ingredients in the formulation and dosage forms that we are developing. All approved products, both innovator and generic, are listed in the FDA's Orange Book.

Recently, Congress, the Trump administration, and administrative agencies took certain measures to increase drug competition and thus, decrease drug prices. By example, in 2019, the FDA introduced a proposed rule and in 2020 the FDA finalized guidance to facilitate drug importation. Congress also passed a bill requiring sponsors of NDA approved products to provide sufficient quantities of drug product on commercially reasonable market based terms to entities developing generic and similar drug products. This bill also included provisions on shared and individual REMS for generic drug products.

Combination Drug/Device Regulation

Twirla and our potential product candidates are considered to be drug-device combination products by the FDA. While our potential product candidates, as a whole, are subject to the NDA approval process, drug-device combination products require compliance with additional FDA regulations. For instance, drug-device combination products must comply with the drug cGMPs, as well as some of the device Quality System Regulations, or QSRs. These dual requirements will require additional effort, FDA reporting, and monetary expenditure to ensure that Twirla and our potential product candidates comply with all applicable regulatory requirements.

U.S. Post-Approval Requirements

Drugs manufactured or distributed pursuant to FDA approvals are subject to pervasive and continuing regulation by the FDA, including, among other things, requirements relating to manufacturing recordkeeping, periodic reporting, product sampling and distribution, advertising and promotion, reporting of adverse experiences with the product and drug shortages, and compliance with any post-approval requirements imposed as a condition of approval, such as Phase 4 clinical trials, REMS and surveillance to assess safety and efficacy after commercialization. After approval, most changes to the approved product, such as adding new indications or other labeling claims are subject to prior FDA review and approval. There are also continuing, annual prescription drug program user fee requirements for any approved products. In addition, drug manufacturers and other entities involved in the manufacture and distribution of approved drugs are required to register their establishments with the FDA and state agencies, and list drugs manufactured at their facilities with the FDA. Recently, the information that must be submitted to FDA regarding manufactured products was expanded through the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security, or CARES, Act to include the volume of drugs produced during the prior year.

Drug sponsors and manufacturers are subject to periodic announced and unannounced inspections by the FDA and these state agencies for compliance with FDA and state requirements for product manufacturing and other requirements. Changes to the manufacturing process are strictly regulated and often require prior FDA approval before being implemented, or FDA notification. FDA regulations also require investigation and correction of any deviations from FDA requirements for product manufacturing and impose reporting and documentation requirements upon the sponsor and any third-party manufacturers that the sponsor may decide to use. Accordingly, manufacturers must continue to expend time, money and effort in the area of production and quality control to maintain FDA requirements for product manufacturing compliance.

Once an approval is granted, the FDA may withdraw the approval if compliance with regulatory requirements and standards is not maintained or if problems occur after the product reaches the market.

Later discovery of previously unknown problems with a product, including adverse events of unanticipated severity or frequency, or with manufacturing processes, or failure to comply with regulatory requirements, may result in mandatory revisions to the approved labeling to add new safety information; imposition of post-market studies or clinical trials to assess new safety risks; or imposition of distribution or other restrictions under a REMS program. Other potential consequences include, among other things:

- Restrictions on the marketing, distribution or manufacturing of the product, complete withdrawal of the product from the market or requests for product recalls;
- Fines, or Untitled, Cyber or Warning Letters or holds on or termination of post-approval clinical trials;
- Refusal of the FDA to approve pending NDAs or supplements to approved NDAs, or suspension or revocation of product license approvals;
- Product seizure or detention, or refusal to permit the import or export of products;
- Injunctions or the imposition of civil or criminal penalties including disgorgement, restitution, fines and imprisonment;

- Consent decrees, corporate integrity agreements or exclusion from federal healthcare programs;
- Debarment;
- Mandated modification of promotional materials and labeling and the issuance of corrective information; or
- The FDA or other regulatory authorities may issue safety alerts, Dear Healthcare Provider letters, press releases or other communications containing warnings or other safety information about the product.

The FDA strictly regulates marketing, labeling, advertising and promotion of products that are placed on the market. Although physicians, in the practice of medicine, may prescribe approved drugs for unapproved indications, pharmaceutical companies and third parties engaged on their behalf to promote their drug products are prohibited from marketing or promoting their drug products for uses outside the approved label, a practice known as off-label promotion. The FDA and other agencies enforce the laws and regulations prohibiting the promotion of off-label uses, and a company that is found to have improperly promoted off-label uses may be subject to significant liability, including criminal and civil penalties under the FDCA and False Claims Act, exclusion from participation in federal healthcare programs, mandatory compliance programs under corporate integrity agreements, debarment and refusal of government contracts.

In addition, the distribution of prescription pharmaceutical products, including samples, is subject to the Prescription Drug Marketing Act, or PDMA, which regulates the distribution of drugs and drug samples at the federal level and reporting regarding drug samples. Both the PDMA and state laws limit the distribution of prescription pharmaceutical product samples and impose requirements to ensure accountability in distribution.

Moreover, the Drug Quality and Security Act imposes obligations on manufacturers of pharmaceutical products related to product tracking and tracing. Among the requirements of this legislation, manufacturers are required to provide certain information regarding the drug product to individuals and entities to which product ownership is transferred, are required to label drug product with a product identifier and are required to keep certain records regarding the drug product. The transfer of information to subsequent product owners by manufacturers is also required to be done electronically. Manufacturers must also verify that purchasers of the manufacturers' products are appropriately licensed. Further, under this legislation, manufactures have drug product investigation, quarantine, disposition, and FDA and trading partner notification responsibilities related to counterfeit, diverted, stolen and intentionally adulterated products, as well as products that are the subject of fraudulent transactions or which are otherwise unfit for distribution such that they would be reasonably likely to result in serious health consequences or death. Other persons and entities within the drug supply chain are also subject to Drug Quality and Security Act requirements.

FDA's requirements with respect to drug manufacturing, marketing and distribution are continually evolving. FDA and Congress may pass new laws, regulations, and policies, as was done in March 2020 with the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act, or CARES Act. The CARES Act included various provisions regarding FDA drug shortage reporting requirements, as well as provisions regarding supply chain security, such as risk management plan requirements, and the promotion of supply chain redundancy and domestic manufacturing. This and any future changes in law may require that we change our internal processes and procedures to ensure continued compliance.

U.S. Fraud and Abuse, Data Privacy and Security and Transparency Laws and Regulations

In addition to FDA restrictions on marketing of pharmaceutical products, federal and state fraud and abuse laws restrict business practices in the biopharmaceutical industry. These laws include, among other things, anti-kickback, physician payment transparency and false claims laws and regulations as well as data privacy and security laws and regulations.

The federal Anti-Kickback Statute prohibits, among other things, any person or entity from knowingly and willfully offering, paying, soliciting or receiving any remuneration, directly or indirectly, overtly or covertly, in cash or in kind, to induce or in return for purchasing, leasing, ordering, or arranging for or recommending the purchase, lease, or order of any item or service reimbursable under Medicare, Medicaid or other federal healthcare programs. The term "remuneration" has been interpreted broadly to include anything of value. Additionally, the intent standard under the Anti-Kickback Statute and criminal healthcare fraud statutes was also amended by the ACA to a stricter standard such that a person or entity no longer needs to have actual knowledge of the statute or specific intent to violate it in order to have committed a violation. In addition, the ACA provided that the government may assert that a claim including items or services resulting from a violation of the federal Anti-Kickback Statute constitutes a false or fraudulent claim for purposes of the federal civil False Claims Act. The Anti-Kickback Statute has been interpreted to apply to arrangements between pharmaceutical manufacturers on one hand and prescribers, purchasers, and formulary managers on the other. There are a number of statutory exceptions and regulatory safe harbors protecting some common activities from prosecution. Practices that involve remuneration that may be alleged to be intended to induce prescribing, purchases, or recommendations may be subject to scrutiny if they do not qualify for an exception or safe harbor. Failure to meet all of the requirements of a statutory exception or regulatory safe harbor does not make the conduct per se illegal under the Anti-Kickback Statute. Instead, the legality of the arrangement will be evaluated on a case-by-case basis based on a cumulative review of all of its facts and circumstances. On December 2, 2020, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of Inspector General, or OIG, published further modifications to the federal Anti-Kickback Statute. Under the final rule, OIG removed safe harbor protections under the Anti-Kickback Statute for rebates paid from drug manufacturers to Medicare Part D prescription drug plan sponsors or their pharmacy benefit managers and added safe harbor protections under the Anti-Kickback Statute for certain coordinated care and value-based arrangements among clinicians, providers, and others. Pursuant to an order entered by the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, the portion of the rule eliminating safe harbor protection for certain rebates related to the sale or purchase of a pharmaceutical product from a manufacturer to a plan sponsor under Medicare Part D has been delayed to January 1, 2023. Implementation of the this change and new safe harbors for point-of-sale reductions in price for prescription pharmaceutical products and pharmacy benefit manager service fees are currently under review by the Biden administration and may be amended or repealed.

The federal civil False Claims Act prohibits, among other things, any person or entity from knowingly presenting, or causing to be presented, a false or fraudulent claim for payment to, or approval by, the federal government or knowingly making, using, or causing to be made or used a false record or statement material to a false or fraudulent claim to the federal government. A claim includes "any request or demand" for money or property presented to the U.S. government. Claims may be pursued by whistleblowers through qui tam actions, even if the government declines to intervene. Intent to deceive is not necessary to establish civil liability, which may be predicated on reckless disregard for the truth. The federal government continues to use the False Claims Act, and the accompanying threat of significant liability, in investigations against pharmaceutical and health care companies. These investigations have involved, for example, allegations of providing free product to customers with the expectation that the customers would bill federal programs for the free product, as well as the promotion of products for unapproved uses and reporting false pricing information. Potential liability under the federal False Claims Act includes treble damages and significant per claim penalties. The False Claims Act has been used to assert liability on the basis of kickbacks and other improper referrals, improperly reported government pricing metrics such as Best Price or Average Manufacturer Price, improper promotion of off-label uses not expressly approved by the FDA in a drug's label, and allegations as to misrepresentations with respect to the services rendered. The criminal federal False Claims Act imposes criminal fines or imprisonment against individuals or entities who make or present a claim to the government knowing such claim to be false fictitious or fraudulent. Additionally, the civil monetary penalties statute, which, among other things, imposes fines against any person who is determined to have presented, or caused to be presented, claims to a federal healthcare program that the person knows, or should know, is for an item or service that was not provided as claimed or is false or fraudulent.

The Affordable Care Act authorized the imposition of civil monetary penalties on manufactures participating in the 340B program for failure to charge the statutory ceiling price, and required HHS to promulgate regulations establishing the standards for implementing this Civil Monetary Penalty, or CMP, authority. CMS' final CMP rule went into effect January 1, 2019.

The Affordable Care Act included a provision requiring certain providers and suppliers of items and services to Federal Health Care Programs to report and return overpayments within sixty days after they are "identified" (the "Overpayment Statute"). The law prohibits a recipient of a payment from the government from keeping an overpayment when the government mistakenly pays more than the amount to which the recipient is entitled even if the overpayment is not caused by any conduct of the recipient. In 2014 and 2016, the CMS released regulatory guidance (in the form of final rules) to Medicare providers, suppliers and managed care and prescription drug plans regarding how to comply with the Overpayment Statute. Although these Medicare providers, suppliers and plans have faced federal False Claims Act liability since 2010 for failures to comply with the Overpayment Statute, these final rules interpreting the Overpayment Statute provide guidance regarding how to comply with applicable obligations, and guidance to government regulators and enforcement authorities regarding monitoring and prosecuting suspected violations. These final rules are not directly applicable to manufacturers, except if a manufacturer is a direct recipient of payment by an agency such as a research grant but may impact their customers and potential customers who are Medicare providers, suppliers, and plans.

The federal Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996, or HIPAA, also created federal criminal statutes that prohibit knowingly and willfully executing, or attempting to execute, a scheme to defraud or to obtain, by means of false or fraudulent pretenses, representations, or promises, any of the money or property owned by, or under the custody or control of, any healthcare benefit program, including private third party payors and knowingly and willfully falsifying, concealing or covering up by trick, scheme or device a material fact or making any materially false, fictitious or fraudulent statement in connection with the delivery of or payment for healthcare benefits, items or services relating to healthcare matters. Also, many states have similar fraud and abuse statutes or regulations that apply to items and services reimbursed under Medicaid and other state programs, or, in several states, that apply regardless of the payor.

In addition, we may be subject to data privacy and security regulation by both the federal government and the states in which we conduct our business. HIPAA, as amended by the Health Information Technology for Economic and Clinical Health Act, or HITECH, and their respective implementing regulations, including the final omnibus rule published on January 25, 2013, imposes specified requirements relating to the privacy, security and transmission of individually identifiable health information, known as protected health information. Among other things, HITECH makes security standards and certain privacy standards directly applicable to business associates, defined as persons or organizations of covered entities, other than members of the covered entity's workforce, that create, receive, maintain or transmit protected health information on behalf of a covered entity for a function or activity regulated by HIPAA. HITECH also strengthened the civil and criminal penalties that may be imposed against covered entities, business associates and individuals, and gave state attorneys general new authority to file civil actions for damages or injunctions in federal courts to enforce the federal HIPAA laws and seek attorneys' fees and costs associated with pursuing federal civil actions. In addition, other federal and state laws, such as the California Consumer Privacy Act, may regulate the privacy and security of information that we maintain, many of which may differ from each other in significant ways and may not be preempted by HIPAA. Further, a new California privacy law, the California Privacy Rights Act, or CPRA, was passed by California voters on November 3, 2020. The CPRA will create additional obligations with respect to processing and storing personal information that are scheduled to take effect on January 1, 2023 (with certain provisions having retroactive effect to January 1, 2022). Other federal and state laws may govern the privacy and security of health information in certain circumstances, many of which differ from each other in significant ways and may not have the same effect, thus complicating compliance efforts. For instance, the California Consumer Privacy Act may govern the privacy and security of health and other information in certain circumstances, many of which differ from each other in significant ways and may not be preempted by HIPAA, thus complicating compliance efforts. Other states, such as Virginia, also are enacting state specific privacy laws.

Additionally, federal physician payment transparency laws, including the federal Physician Payment Sunshine Act created under Section 6002 of the ACA and its implementing regulations, require that manufacturers of drugs for which payment is available under Medicare, Medicaid or the Children's Health Insurance Program, with certain exceptions, report annually to the government information related to payments or other "transfers of value" made or distributed to or at the request of covered recipients, such as, but not limited to, physicians (defined to include doctors, dentists, optometrists, podiatrists and chiropractors), physician assistants, nurse practitioners, clinical nurse specialists, and certified registered nurse anesthetists and teaching hospitals, as well as ownership and investment interests held by physicians and their immediate family.Manufacturers must submit reports by the 90th day of each calendar year. Disclosure of such information is made on a publicly available website.

There are also an increasing number of analogous state laws that regulate price increases, require manufacturers to file reports with states on pricing and marketing information, and to track and report gifts, compensation, other remuneration and items of value provided to healthcare professionals and healthcare entities. Many of these laws contain ambiguities as to what is required in order to comply with such laws. For example, several states have enacted legislation requiring pharmaceutical companies to, among other things, establish and implement commercial compliance programs, file periodic reports with the state, make periodic public disclosures on sales, marketing, pricing, clinical trials and other activities, or register their sales representatives. Certain state laws also regulate manufacturers' use of prescriber-identifiable data. These laws may affect our future sales, marketing and other promotional activities by imposing administrative and compliance burdens. In addition, given the lack of clarity with respect to these laws and their implementation, our reporting actions once we commercialize could be subject to the penalty provisions of the pertinent state and federal authorities.

If our operations are found to be in violation of any of the laws or regulations described above or any other laws that apply to us, we may be subject to a variety of penalties, depending upon the law found to have been violated, potentially including criminal and significant civil monetary penalties, damages, fines, imprisonment, exclusion from participation in government healthcare programs, corporate integrity agreements, refusal of government contracts, contract debarment and the curtailment or restructuring of our operations, any of which could adversely affect our ability to operate our business and our results of operations. To the extent that any of our products are sold in a foreign country, we may be subject to similar foreign laws and regulations, which may include, for instance, applicable post-marketing requirements, including safety surveillance, anti-fraud and abuse laws, and implementation of corporate compliance programs and reporting of payments or transfers of value to healthcare professionals.

Coverage and Reimbursement Generally

The commercial success of Twirla and our other potential product candidates and our ability to commercialize any approved product candidates successfully will depend in part on the extent to which governmental payor programs at the federal and state levels, including Medicare and Medicaid, private health insurers and other third-party payors provide coverage for and establish adequate coverage of and reimbursement levels for our potential product candidates. Government authorities, private health insurers and other organizations generally decide which drugs they will pay for and establish reimbursement levels for healthcare. In particular, in the United States, private health insurers and other third-party payors often provide reimbursement for products and services based on the level at which the government provides reimbursement through the Medicare or Medicaid programs for such products and services. In the United States, the E.U. and other potentially significant markets for our potential product candidates, government authorities and third-party payors are increasingly attempting to limit or regulate the price of medical products and services, particularly for new and innovative products and therapies, which often has resulted in average selling prices lower than they would otherwise be. Further, the increased emphasis on managed healthcare in the United States and on country and regional pricing and reimbursement controls in the E.U. will put additional pressure on product pricing, reimbursement and utilization, which may adversely affect our future product sales and results of operations. These pressures can arise from rules and practices of managed care groups, judicial decisions and governmental laws and regulations related to Medicare, Medicaid and healthcare reform, pharmaceutical coverage and reimbursement policies and pricing in general. Patients who are prescribed treatments for their conditions and providers performing the prescribed services generally rely on third-party payors to reimburse all or part of the associated healthcare costs. Sales of our potential product candidates will therefore depend substantially, both domestically and abroad, on the extent to which the costs of our products will be paid by health maintenance organizations, managed care, pharmacy benefit and similar healthcare management organizations, or reimbursed by government health administration authorities, such as Medicare and Medicaid, private health insurers and other third-party payors.

Third-party payors are increasingly imposing additional requirements and restrictions on coverage and limiting reimbursement levels for medical products, including pharmaceuticals. For example, federal and state governments reimburse covered prescription drugs at varying rates generally below average wholesale price. These restrictions and limitations influence the purchase of healthcare services and products. Third-party payors are developing increasingly sophisticated methods of controlling healthcare costs. Third-party payors may limit coverage to specific drug products on an approved list, or formulary, which might not include all of the FDA-approved drug products for a particular indication. Certain third-party payors routinely impose additional requirements before approving reimbursement of a prescription, including prior authorization and the requirement to try another therapy first. Third-party payors are increasingly challenging the price and examining the medical necessity and cost-effectiveness of medical products and services, in addition to their safety and efficacy. We may need to conduct expensive pharmacoeconomic studies in order to demonstrate the medical necessity and cost-effectiveness of our products, in addition to the costs required to obtain FDA approvals. Our potential product candidates may not be considered medically necessary or cost-effective.

Moreover, a payor's decision to provide coverage for a drug product does not imply that an adequate reimbursement rate will be approved. Adequate third-party reimbursement may not be available to enable us to maintain price levels sufficient to realize an appropriate return on our investment in drug development for a product candidate. Legislative proposals to reform healthcare or reduce costs under government insurance programs may result in lower reimbursement for our potential product candidates, exclusion of our potential product candidates from coverage or the requirement for payment of increased manufacturer rebates on units dispensed. The cost containment measures that healthcare payors and providers are instituting and any healthcare reform could significantly reduce our revenues from the sale of any approved product candidates. We cannot provide any assurances that we will be able to obtain and maintain third-party coverage or adequate reimbursement for our potential product candidates in whole or in part.

Healthcare Reform

Legislative proposals to reform healthcare or reduce costs under government healthcare programs may result in lower reimbursement for our potential product candidates or exclusion of our potential product candidates from coverage. There have been a number of legislative and regulatory changes to the healthcare system that could affect our ability to profitably sell our potential product candidates, if approved. Among policy makers and payors in the United States and elsewhere, there is significant interest in promoting changes in healthcare systems with the stated goals of containing healthcare costs, improving quality and expanding access. In the United States, the pharmaceutical industry has been a particular focus of these efforts and has been significantly affected by major legislative initiatives.

Since its enactment, there have been numerous judicial, administrative, executive, and legislative challenges to certain aspects of the ACA, and we expect there will be additional challenges and amendments to the ACA in the future. Various portions of the ACA are currently undergoing legal and constitutional challenges in the United States Supreme Court; the former Trump Administration issued various Executive Orders eliminating cost sharing subsidies and various provisions that would impose a fiscal burden on states or a cost, fee, tax, penalty or regulatory burden on individuals, healthcare providers, health insurers, or manufacturers of pharmaceuticals or medical devices; and Congress has introduced several pieces of legislation aimed at significantly revising or repealing the ACA. The United States Supreme Court is expected to rule on a legal challenge to the constitutionality of the ACA in early 2021. The implementation of the ACA is ongoing, the law appears likely to continue the downward pressure on pharmaceutical pricing, especially under the Medicare program, and may also increase our regulatory burdens and operating costs. Litigation and legislation related to the ACA are likely to continue, with unpredictable and uncertain results.

In addition, in August 2011, President Obama signed into law the Budget Control Act of 2011, as amended, which, among other things, created the Joint Select Committee on Deficit Reduction to recommend proposals in spending reductions to Congress. The Joint Select Committee on Deficit Reduction did not achieve its targeted deficit reduction of at least $1.2 trillion for the years 2013 through 2021, triggering the legislation's automatic reductions to several government programs. These reductions include aggregate reductions to Medicare payments to providers of 2% per fiscal year, which went into effect on April 1, 2013 and, as amended, will stay in effect through 2030. Pursuant to the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act, also known as the CARES Act, as well as subsequent legislation, these reductions have been suspended from May 1, 2020 through March 31, 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Proposed legislation, if passed, would extend this suspension until the end of the pandemic. These and other healthcare reform initiatives may result in additional reductions in Medicare and other healthcare funding, which could have a material adverse effect on our financial operations. We expect that additional state and federal healthcare reform measures will be adopted in the future, any of which could limit the amounts that federal and state governments will pay for healthcare products and services, which could further limit the prices we are able to charge, or the amounts of reimbursement available, for our potential product candidates if they are approved.

On January 20, 2017, the then-new administration signed an Executive Order directing federal agencies with authorities and responsibilities under the ACA to waive, defer, grant exemptions from, or delay the implementation of any provision of the ACA that would impose a fiscal or regulatory burden on states, individuals, healthcare providers, health insurers, or manufacturers of pharmaceuticals or medical devices among others. Additionally, in October 2017, the Department of Health and Human Services, jointly with the Department of Labor and the Treasury, issued two interim rules outlining exemption processes for employers not wanting to offer contraceptive coverage based on their religious beliefs or sincerely held moral convictions. In July 2020, the Supreme Court reversed lower court injunctions preventing implementation of these rules. Congress also could consider subsequent legislation to repeal and replace elements of the ACA that are repealed. Therefore, it is difficult to determine the full effect of the ACA or any other healthcare reform efforts on our business.

Congress has indicated that it will continue to seek new legislative and/or administrative measures to control drug costs. The FDA also released a final rule on September 24, 2020, which went into effect on November 30, 2020, providing guidance for states to build and submit importation plans for drugs from Canada. Further, on November 20, 2020, HHS finalized a regulation removing safe harbor protection for price reductions from pharmaceutical manufacturers to plan sponsors under Part D, either directly or through pharmacy benefit managers, unless the price reduction is required by law. The rule also creates a new safe harbor for price reductions reflected at the point-of-sale, as well as a safe harbor for certain fixed fee arrangements between pharmacy benefit managers and manufacturers. Although a number of these, and other proposed measures may require authorization through additional legislation to become effective, and the Biden administration may reverse or otherwise change these measures, Congress has indicated that it will continue to seek new legislative measures to control drug costs.

At the state level, legislatures have increasingly passed legislation and implemented regulations designed to control pharmaceutical product pricing, including price or patient reimbursement constraints, discounts, restrictions on certain product access and marketing cost disclosure and transparency measures, and, in some cases, designed to encourage importation from other countries and bulk purchasing.

The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act

The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, or FCPA, prohibits any U.S. individual or business from paying, offering, or authorizing payment or offering of anything of value, directly or indirectly, to any foreign official, political party or candidate for the purpose of influencing any act or decision of the foreign entity in order to assist the individual or business in obtaining or retaining business. The FCPA also obligates companies whose securities are listed in the United States to comply with accounting provisions requiring the company to maintain books and records that accurately and fairly reflect all transactions of the corporation, including international subsidiaries, and to devise and maintain an adequate system of internal accounting controls for international operations. Activities that violate the FCPA, even if they occur wholly outside the United States, can result in criminal and civil fines, imprisonment, disgorgement, oversight and debarment from government contracts.

Foreign Regulation

We currently have no plans to seek approval for Twirla outside of the United States. In order to market any product outside of the United States, we would need to comply with numerous and varying regulatory requirements of other countries regarding safety and efficacy and governing, among other things, clinical trials, marketing authorization, commercial sales and distribution of our products. Whether or not we obtain FDA approval for a product, we would need to obtain the necessary approvals by the comparable regulatory authorities of foreign countries before we can commence clinical trials or marketing of the product in those countries. The approval process varies from country to country and can involve additional product testing and additional administrative review periods. The time required to obtain approval in other countries might differ from and be longer than that required to obtain FDA approval. Regulatory approval in one country does not ensure regulatory approval in another, but a failure or delay in obtaining regulatory approval in one country may negatively impact the regulatory process in others.

Research and Development

Conducting research and development is central to our business model. We have invested and expect to continue to invest significant time and capital in our research and development operations. Our research and development expenses were $13.5 million, $9.9 million, and $9.8 million for the years ended December 31, 2020, 2019, and 2018, respectively. In 2021, we expect to continue to incur research and development expenses as we evaluate the advancement of our existing pipeline and its possible expansion.

Intellectual Property

We strive to protect the proprietary technologies that we believe are important to our business, including seeking and maintaining patent protection intended to cover our Skinfusion® technology, its methods of use, related technologies and other inventions that are important to our business. As more fully described below, our patents and patent applications are directed to our Skinfusion technology or aspects thereof including certain transdermal delivery systems having an active adhesive matrix and methods of using such transdermal delivery systems for controlling fertility. We also rely on manufacturing trade secrets and careful monitoring of our proprietary information to protect aspects of our business that are not amenable to, or that we do not consider appropriate for, patent protection.

Our success will depend significantly on our ability to obtain new patents and maintain existing patents and other proprietary protection for commercially important technology, inventions and know-how related to our business, defend and enforce our patents, preserve the confidentiality of our trade secrets and operate without infringing valid and enforceable patents and other proprietary rights of third parties.

A third party may hold intellectual property, including patent rights, which are important or necessary to the development of our potential product candidates. It may be necessary for us to use the patented or proprietary technology of third parties to commercialize our potential product candidates, in which case we would be required to obtain a license from these third parties on commercially reasonable terms. If we were not able to obtain a license on commercially reasonable terms, our business could be harmed, possibly materially.

We plan to continue to expand our intellectual property estate by filing patent applications directed to novel and nonobvious transdermal contraceptive products. The active pharmaceutical ingredients, or API, in our potential product candidates are generic and therefore our patents do not include claims directed solely to the API. We anticipate seeking additional patent protection in the United States and internationally for additional transdermal delivery systems and their methods of use.

The patent positions of pharmaceutical companies like us are generally uncertain and involve complex legal, scientific and factual questions. In addition, the coverage claimed in a patent application can be significantly reduced before the patent is issued, and the patent's scope can be modified after issuance. Consequently, we do not know whether any of our potential product candidates will remain protected by enforceable and valid patents. We cannot predict whether the patent applications we are currently pursuing will issue as patents in any particular jurisdiction or whether the claims of any issued patents will provide sufficient proprietary protection from competitors. Any patents that we hold may be challenged, circumvented or invalidated by third parties.

Because patent applications in the United States and certain other jurisdictions generally are maintained in secrecy for 18 months, and since publication of discoveries in the scientific or patent literature often lags behind actual discoveries, we cannot be certain of our entitlement to patent rights in the inventions covered in our issued patents and pending patent applications. Moreover, we may have to participate in interference proceedings declared by the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, USPTO, to determine priority of invention, or in post-grant challenge proceedings in the USPTO or foreign patent offices such as oppositions, reexamination, inter-partes review, post grant review, or a derivation proceeding, that challenge our entitlement to an invention or the patentability of one or more claims in our patent applications or issued patents. Such proceedings could result in substantial cost, even if the eventual outcome is favorable to us.

More specifically, Twirla® is a transdermal contraceptive hormone delivery system. The system is a patch for application to the skin and contains two API, the hormones LNG, which is a synthetic progestin, and EE, a synthetic estrogen. The API are formulated with a combination of skin penetration enhancers, which promote penetration through the dermis and into the bloodstream, such that effective blood levels of the active agents are achieved to suppress ovulation and thereby prevent pregnancy. One of our other potential product candidates, AG890, is similar to Twirla, except that it contains only a single API, LNG.

In both our Twirla product candidate line and in AG890, the active adhesive system consists of the active ingredients in a polyacrylate adhesive polymer matrix comprising the permeation enhancers dimethylsulfoxide, ethyl

Ms. Terri Shikany, President
Health Coalition, Inc.
4906 S.W. 72nd Avenue
Miami, Florida 33155

Dear Ms. Shikany:

Investigators of the Department of Health detected the following violations of Chapter 499, Florida Statutes (F.S.) and Florida Administrative Code Rule 10D-45, Regulation for Drugs Devices and Cosmetics during an inspection of your facility located at the above address and Jacob Fleishman & Sons, Inc., at 1177 N.W. 81 Street, Miami, on December 30, 1996.

Health Coalition, Inc., was wholesaling prescription drugs in an unpermitted establishment. Health Coalition, Inc., was storing its prescription drugs at Jacob Fleishman & Sons. Each establishment in which prescription drugs are held must be permitted. (See s. 499.01(1)(d), F.S.) This is a violation of s. 499.005(22), F.S. (Fine $750)

Health Coalition, Inc., purchased prescription drugs from a person not permitted by the department to engage in the wholesale distribution of prescription drugs. In 1995, Health Coalition, Inc., purchased prescription drugs from Univax Biologics, Inc., (a company that is no longer in business). However, at the time, Univax Biologics, Inc., was not permitted by the department as an out-of-state prescription drug wholesaler. This is a violation of ss. 499.012(2)(c) and (3)(a), F.S., and s. 499.005(14), F.S. (Fine $250)

It is your responsibility to ensure that your facility is in compliance with all requirements of the Florida Drug and Cosmetic Act and the rules adopted thereunder.

In order to resolve this matter, the department proposes the following alternatives, either of which must be accomplished by your firm within thirty (30) days of its receipt of this letter:

A. If your firm agrees with the findings in this letter and further agrees to waive its right to an administrative hearing pursuant to Florida law (s. 120.57, Florida Statutes and Rule 10-2.036, Florida Administrative Code), the department and Health Coalition, Inc., can resolve this matter by your execution of the attached Agreement, which includes payment of an administrative fine. You are also required to send the department supporting documentation describing the actions taken and the policies and procedures put into place to prevent the recurrence of these violations.

If you agree to this resolution, please sign and date the Agreement. Return the original signed Agreement and the original NOTICE OF VIOLATION, an attached cashier's check, certified check, or money order for One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) made payable to the Florida Drug, Device and Cosmetic Trust Fund, and your plan of corrective action to:

Bureau of Pharmacy Services
Department of Health

B. However, if you believe circumstances exist that the department should consider before concluding this investigation, you may provide the department, within fifteen (15) days of receipt of this letter, your rationale and evidence to support your position. If the department does not agree with the rationale and evidence submitted by your firm, or we cannot reach a satisfactory resolution of this matter, the department may, thirty (30) days after your firm's receipt of this letter, initiate appropriate legal action, including:

1. Filing and serving of an administrative complaint for a hearing pursuant to Chapter 120, F.S., which can result in the imposition of an administrative fine not to exceed Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) per violation per day. 2. Revocation or suspension of the firm's permit.
3. Seizure for destruction of adulterated or misbranded products.
4. Seeking an injunction in Circuit Court to obtain compliance.
5. Initiating any other remedy authorized by law.

Please note, UPS SCS's Colorado Out-of-State Wholesaler License # WHO-7462 was not and is not restricted, modified, revoked or limited in any way. UPS SCS has successfully completed the terms of the Iowa Order and Iowa Wholesale Drug License #5820 has not and is not restricted, modified, revoked or limited in any way. UPS SCS has a copy of the Iowa Case No. 2010-162 documentation on file with the UPS SCS Regulatory Affairs Department. Note: This Iowa matter is a spin-off of the Colorado matter summarized above. UPS SCS's Michigan licenses have not been restricted, modified, revoked, or limited in any way. Note: The Michigan Order is directly related to the Colorado matter summarized above. UPS SCS dispenses medical devices, including diabetes-related pumps, to consumers from its Kentucky licensed pharmacy facility. Not all states recognize the Durable Medical Equipment or Home Medical Equipment provider category for entities that dispense medical devices rather than drugs. Those states that do not recognize these categories require a non-resident or out of state pharmacy permit for dispensing medical devices. Accordingly, UPS SCS obtained a home-state pharmacy permit in Kentucky and numerous non-resident pharmacy permits and DME/HME permits in other states. On September 12, 2012, the Kentucky Board of Pharmacy ("KYBoP") and UPS SCS executed final Agreed Orders relating to minor violations under Kentucky Administrative Regulations 2:270 and Kentucky Revised Statutes Sec. 315.121(6) in connection with late filing of pharmacy technician registrations at UPS SCS's Louisville, Kentucky facility (the "Kentucky Orders"). UPS SCS and the KYBoP agreed to address the Kentucky Orders informally by entering in the aforementioned Agreed Orders in lieu of the KYBoP filing a formal complaint. UPS SCS self-reported this action to your agency on September 18, 2012. UPS SCS takes this and all regulatory matters seriously and has implemented corrective action. Moreover, UPS SCS has instituted internal safeguards to ensure that applicable regulatory compliance is maintained in the future. UPS SCS's Kentucky pharmacy license (Kentucky Pharmacy License #P07277) remains current and in good standing and was not and has not been restricted, modified, revoked, or limited in any way.

Final

On May 14, 2013, UPS SCS informed your agency of the Texas Board of Pharmacy's (TXBoP) action concerning UPS SCS Texas Class E Nonresident Pharmacy License #26160 and which became effective May 7, 2013. As already disclosed to you, on May 14, 2013, the Texas Board of Pharmacy (TXBoP) and UPS SCS executed a final Agreed Board Order (the "Texas Order") relating to the above-mentioned Kentucky Pharmacy License Agreed Orders. Pursuant to the Texas Agreed Board Order, the TXBoP reprimanded UPS SCS's Nonresident Pharmacy License. The Texas Board of Pharmacy did not levy a fine or any other penalty on the License. The License was not and is not restricted, modified, revoked or limited in any way. UPS SCS has a copy of the Texas Agreed Board Order # L-13-004 on file with the UPS SCS Regulatory Affairs Department. Note: The Texas Order is directly related to the Kentucky pharmacy license matter summarized above. It is based on the same underlying facts that gave rise to the Kentucky matter. It is not based on an independent set of facts.

Final

On April 22, 2014, UPS SCS informed your agency of the Consent Order and Stipulation between the Michigan Board of Pharmacy (BOP) and UPS SCS based on the Kentucky Order summarized above, which was adopted by the Michigan BOP on April 9, 2014 (the "Michigan Order"). As previously disclosed to you, pursuant to this Consent Order, UPS SCS paid a fine of two hundred fifty dollars. The Consent Order and Stipulation specifically provided that "no patient safety issues were involved," and the BOP did not impose any other penalty. UPS SCS's Michigan licenses have not been restricted, modified, revoked, or limited in any way. Note: The Michigan Order is directly related to the Kentucky matter summarized above. It is based on the same underlying facts that gave rise to the Kentucky matter. It is not based on an independent set of facts.

Provide explanation below:

In March of 2006, I was arrested for driving under the influence. I went out to dinner with friends and consumed a couple of drinks, then switched to drinking coffee. I thought I was okay to drive home. I was pulled over on the freeway and the officer asked me if I had been drinking. I replied that I had two drinks with dinner earlier in the evening and was asked to submit to a sobriety test. I failed the sobriety test and was arrested. I went to court in April of 2006 and was convicted of 23152(a) Driving Under the Influence. I was sentenced to probation and required to take some classes, which I completed successfully. I was also required to pay a fine, which has been paid in full.

Dear Sir or Madam,

Dentsply Sirona Inc., through its various subsidiary companies, is a medical device manufacturer of professional dental solutions that comprise a wide array of medical devices including dental filling and crown materials, implants, imaging devices, dental instruments, orthodontic devices, and the like. Dentsply North America LLC is a wholly owned subsidiary of Dentsply Sirona Inc. While Dentsply North America LLC primarily distributes prescription medical devices, we also make available to our customers a small number of prescription pharmaceutical products for dental use such as Xylocaine, Nupro Fluoride Rinse, and Topex Anesthetic Gel.

On June 8, 2021, we received a letter from the Georgia Board of Pharmacy indicating that Dentsply North America LLC's distribution of prescription pharmaceutical products triggered a requirement to possess a Drug Wholesale Distribution License in the State of Georgia. After receiving the letter from the Georgia Board of Pharmacy, Dentsply North America LLC placed all product shipment to the State of Georgia on hold and prepared our application for the State of Georgia's Drug Wholesale Distribution License. We submitted the application on June 17, 2021. Dentsply North America LLC also signed a Voluntary Cease and Desist Order dated July 6, 2021, (Docket No. 2021-0051) stating that we will voluntarily stop any practice requiring a Georgia license until licensed. The original letter and Order are attached.

On August 19, 2021, the State of Georgia Board of Pharmacy granted Dentsply North America LLC a license, Wholesaler Pharmacy License No. PHWH005100.

We made every effort to remedy this situation as soon as it was brought to our attention. We are not aware of any disciplinary or further action under consideration related to this lapse in licensure. If you have questions, please do not hesitate to call me at 717-585-8190 or email me at Michael.Weaver@dentsplysirona.com.

Sincerely,

Michael Weaver

Non-GAAP Financial Measures

In addition to results determined in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("US GAAP") the Company provides certain measures in this press release, described below, which are not calculated in accordance with US GAAP and therefore represent Non-GAAP measures. These Non-GAAP measures may differ from those used by other companies and should not be considered in isolation from, or as a substitute for, measures of financial performance prepared in accordance with US GAAP. The Company discloses these measures to allow investors to evaluate the performance of the Company's operations exclusive of certain items that impact the comparability of results from period to period and which may not be indicative of past or future performance of the normal operations of the Company. The Company believes that this information is helpful in understanding underlying operating results including net sales, operating income, and net income.

Organic Sales

The Company defines "organic sales" as the increase or decrease in net sales excluding: (1) net sales from acquired and divested businesses recorded prior to the first anniversary of the acquisition or divestiture, (2) net sales attributable to discontinued product lines in both the current and prior year periods, and (3) the impact of foreign currency translation, which is calculated by translating current period sales using the comparable prior periods currency conversion rates. Organic sales is an important internal measure for the Company. The Company's senior management receives a monthly analysis of operating results that includes organic sales and the performance of the Company is measured on this metric along with other performance metrics.

Adjusted Net Income (Loss) and Adjusted Earnings (Loss) Per Diluted Common Share

The adjusted net income (loss) attributable to Dentsply Sirona consists of net income (loss) attributable to Dentsply Sirona adjusted to exclude the following:

(1) Business combination related costs and fair value adjustments. These adjustments include costs related to consummating and integrating acquired businesses, as well as net gains and losses related to the disposed businesses. In addition, this category includes the subsequent impact roll-off to the consolidated statements of operations which results from fair value adjustments related to business combinations, except for amortization expense of purchased intangible assets noted below. Although the Company is regularly engaged in activities to find and act on opportunities for strategic growth and enhancement of product offerings, the costs associated with these activities may vary significantly between periods based on the timing, size and complexity of acquisitions and as such may not be indicative of past and future performance of the Company. They are therefore excluded to allow investors to better understand underlying operating trends.

(2) Restructuring program related costs and other costs. These adjustments include costs related to the implementation of restructuring initiatives as well as certain other costs. These costs can include, but are not limited to, severance costs, facility closure costs, lease and contract termination costs and related professional service costs, duplicate facility and labor costs associated with specific restructuring initiatives. Other costs include legal settlements, impairments of assets, and changes in accounting principle recorded within the period. The Company's restructuring programs usually require several years to fully implement and the Company is continually seeking to take actions that could enhance its efficiency. While restructuring charges are recurring, they are subject to significant fluctuations from period to period due to the varying levels of restructuring activity and the inherent imprecision in the estimates used to recognize the impairment of assets and the wide variety of costs and taxes associated with severance and termination benefits in the countries in which the restructuring actions occur.

(3) Amortization of purchased intangible assets. This adjustment excludes the periodic amortization expense related to purchased intangible assets recorded in purchase accounting. Although these costs contribute to revenue generation and will recur in future periods, their amounts are significantly impacted by the timing and size of acquisitions.

(4) Credit risk and fair value adjustments. These adjustments include both the cost and income impacts of adjustments in certain assets and liabilities including the Company's pension obligations, that are recorded through net income which are related to the changes in fair value and credit risk. Although this non-service component of pension expense is a recurring item, it is subject to significant fluctuations from period to period due to changes in actuarial assumptions, global financial markets (including stock market returns and interest rate changes), plan changes, settlements, curtailments, and other changes in facts and circumstances. These items can be variable and driven more by market conditions than the Company's operating performance.

(5) Income tax related adjustments. These adjustments include both income tax expenses and income tax benefits that are representative of income tax adjustments mostly related to prior periods, as well as the final settlement of income tax audits, and discrete tax items resulting from the implementation of restructuring initiatives and the vesting and exercise of employee share-based compensation. Income tax related adjustments may also include the impact to adjust the interim effective income tax rate to the expected annual effective tax rate. These adjustments are irregular in timing the variability in amounts may not be indicative of past and future performance of the Company and therefore are excluded for comparability purposes.

Both adjusted net income (loss) and adjusted EPS are important internal measures for the Company. The Company's senior management receives a monthly analysis of operating results that includes adjusted net income (loss) and adjusted EPS. The performance of the Company is measured on these metrics along with other performance metrics.

Adjusted Operating Income (Loss) and Margin

In addition to reporting operating income (loss) in accordance with US GAAP, the Company provides adjusted operating income (loss) and margin. The Company defines "adjusted operating income (loss)" as operating income (loss) in accordance with US GAAP excluding certain items noted above which are excluded on a pre-tax basis to arrive at adjusted operating income (loss), a Non-GAAP measure. The adjusted operating margin is calculated by dividing adjusted operating income (loss) by net sales. Both adjusted operating income (loss) and adjusted operating margin are important internal measures for the Company. The Company's senior management receives a monthly analysis of operating results that includes adjusted operating income (loss) and margin. The performance of the Company is measured on these metrics along with the adjusted net income (loss) and adjusted EPS metrics noted above as well as other performance metrics.

Pursuant to 2017 Wisconsin Act 278, beginning August 1, 2018, prior to submitting an application for a credential, an individual may apply to the Department for a determination of whether the individual would be disqualified from obtaining the credential due to his or her conviction record. To apply for a predetermination, please fill out Form #3085 and submit all required documentation specified on the form. Pursuant to Wis. Stat. § 111.335(4)(e), the offenses or kinds of offenses that may result in a refusal, bar, or termination of licensure are published under Additional Resources on the left side of this page.

License Information

Fee Reduction

Pursuant to 2017 Wisconsin Act 319, beginning August 1, 2018, an applicant for an initial credential may apply for a reduction of the initial credential fee that is equal to 10% of the initial fee. Qualification is based on the federal adjusted gross income being at or below 180% of the federal poverty guideline prescribed for the applicant's family household size by the United States Department of Health and Human Services. To determine eligibility please visit the United States Department of Health and Human Services website at https://aspe.hhs.gov/poverty-guidelines, prior to submitting Form 3217.

Per Wisconsin State Statutes 440.08 (2), the required renewal date for the Wholesale Distributor of Prescription Drugs credential is 05/31/even years. Should you receive your initial credential in the months leading up to this date, you are still required to renew your license by the statutorily defined date.

Requirements for Licensure

- A distributor's license authorizes a facility to sell prescription drugs or devices to pharmacists, pharmacies, researchers, hospitals, authorized agents of the federal government and other distributors. A distributor's license does not authorize a facility to dispense prescription drugs directly to patients pursuant to a prescriber's prescription order. Dispensing directly to patients under a prescription order requires a pharmacy license.
- Out-of-state or in-state wholesale distributors of prescription drugs are required to obtain a distributor's license in Wisconsin for each facility from which the prescription drugs are distributed.
- Submit Wholesale Distributor of Prescription Drugs Application (see below), including required documentation and fee(s).

Application Process

- A designated representative must be identified on the application.
- All designated representatives must be fingerprinted as described in the application materials.
- All distributors are required to submit a surety bond (Form #2819) or irrevocable letter of credit (Form #2824) with the application in the amount of $5,000.
- Meet Inspection Requirements (see below).
- Distributors must comply with any applicable federal track and trace pedigree system.
- Register with the Drug Enforcement Administration (if applicable).
- Determination to grant credential.

Prescription Medical Device Distributors

No longer need a wholesale distributor of prescription drug license to ship medical device products into Wisconsin. Print this web page for your records verifying no license is needed.

Prescription Medical Device or Drug Manufacturers

- Need to hold a WI Drug or Device Manufacturer license only if your facility is physically located in the state of WI. Print this web page for your records verifying no license is needed.
