THE SCHEME

1. Transfer of Scheme Shares

(A) Upon and with effect from the Effective Date, Eagle (and/or its nominee(s)) shall acquire all the Scheme Shares fully paid up with full title guarantee, free from all liens, equitable interests, charges, encumbrances, rights of pre-emption and any other third party rights of any nature whatsoever, and together with all rights attaching or accruing to such Scheme Shares at the Effective Date or thereafter attached thereto, including voting rights and the right to receive and retain, in full, all dividends and other distributions (if any) declared, made, paid or payable in respect of the Scheme Shares, or any other return of capital or value made after, in each case, the Effective Date in accordance with its terms.

(B) For the purposes of the Scheme, the Scheme Shares shall be transferred to Eagle (and/or its nominee(s)) and such transfer shall be effected by means of a form of transfer or other instrument or instruction of transfer, and to give effect to such transfer(s) any Acacia Director may be appointed as attorney and/or agent and shall be authorised as such attorney and/or agent on behalf of the relevant holder of Scheme Shares to execute and deliver as transferor a form of transfer or other instrument or instruction of transfer (whether as a deed or otherwise) of such Scheme Shares and every form, instrument or instruction of transfer so executed shall be as effective as if it had been executed by the holder or holders of the Scheme Shares thereby transferred. Each such form of transfer or other instrument or instruction of transfer shall be deemed to be the principal instrument of transfer and the equitable or beneficial interest in the Scheme Shares shall only be transferred to Eagle (and/or its nominee(s)), together with the legal interest in such Scheme Shares, pursuant only to such form of transfer or other instrument or instruction of transfer.

(C) With effect from the Effective Date and pending the registration of the transfer of the Scheme Shares pursuant to sub-clauses 1(A) and 1(B) of this Scheme and the updating of the register of members of Acacia to reflect such transfer, each Scheme Shareholder irrevocably:

(i) appoints Eagle (and/or its nominee(s)) as his, her or its attorney and/or agent to exercise on its behalf (in place of and to the exclusion of the relevant Scheme Shareholder) any voting rights attached to its Scheme Shares and any or all rights and privileges (including the right to requisition the convening of a general meeting of Acacia or of any class of its shareholders) attaching to its Scheme Shares;

(ii) appoints Eagle (and/or its nominee(s)) and any one or more of its directors or agents to sign on behalf of such Scheme Shareholder any documents, and do such things, as may in the opinion of Eagle and/or any one or more of its directors or agents be necessary or desirable in connection with the exercise of any votes or any other rights or privileges attaching to such Scheme Shareholder's Scheme Shares (including, without limitation, an authority to sign any consent to short notice of any general or separate class meeting of Acacia as attorney or agent for, and on behalf of, such Scheme Shareholder and/or to attend and/or to execute a form of proxy in respect of its Scheme Shares appointing any person nominated by Eagle and/or any one or more of its directors or agents to attend any general and separate class meetings of Acacia (or any adjournment thereof) and to exercise or refrain from exercising the votes attaching to the Scheme Shares on such Scheme Shareholder's behalf); and

(iii) authorises Acacia and/or its agents to send to Eagle (and/or its nominee(s)) any notice, circular, warrant or other document or communication which may be required to be sent to them as a member of Acacia in respect of such Scheme Shares (including any share certificate(s) or other document(s) of title issued as a result of conversion of their Scheme Shares into certificated form), such that from the Effective Date, no Scheme Shareholder shall be entitled to exercise any voting rights attached to the Scheme Shares or any other rights or privileges attaching to the Scheme Shares.

2. Consideration for the transfer of Scheme Shares

(A) In consideration for the transfer of the Scheme Shares to Eagle (and/or its nominee(s)) referred to in sub-clauses 1(A) and 1(B) of this Scheme, Eagle shall, subject as hereinafter provided, pay or procure that there shall be paid to or for the account of each Scheme Shareholder (as appearing on the register of members of Acacia at the Scheme Record Time):

for each Acacia Share €0.68 in cash and shall procure to be issued to, or for the account of each Scheme Shareholder (in accordance with clause 3 of this Scheme):

for each Acacia Share 0.0049 New Eagle Shares.

(B) If, prior to the Effective Date, any dividend and/or other distribution and/or other return of capital or value is announced, declared, made or paid by Acacia or becomes payable in respect of Acacia Shares. Eagle shall be entitled to reduce the consideration payable under the terms of this Scheme for each Scheme Share by an amount up to the amount of such dividend and/or distribution and/or other return of capital or value so announced, declared, made or paid per Scheme Share. In such circumstances, Acacia Shareholders would be entitled to retain any such dividend and/or other distribution and/or other return of capital or value.

(C) Subject always to sub-clause 2(D) of this Scheme, if Eagle exercises the right referred to in sub-clause 2(B) of this Scheme to reduce the consideration payable for each Scheme Share by all or part of the amount of dividend and/or other distribution and/or other return of capital or value that has not been paid but is payable by reference to a record date prior to the Effective Date:

(i) Scheme Shareholders shall be entitled to receive and retain that dividend and/or other distribution and/or other return of capital or value in respect of the Acacia Shares they hold;

(ii) any reference in this Scheme and this Document to the consideration payable under the Scheme shall be deemed to be a reference to the consideration as so reduced; and

(iii) the exercise of such rights shall not be regarded as constituting any revision or modification of the terms of this Scheme.

(D) To the extent that any such dividend and/or distribution and/or other return of capital or value is declared, made or paid or payable and: (i) the Scheme Shares are transferred pursuant to the Scheme on a basis which entitles Eagle to receive the dividend and/or distribution and/or return of capital or value and to retain it; or (ii) such dividend and/or distribution and/or other return of capital or value is cancelled, the consideration payable shall not be subject to change and shall not be reduced in accordance with this clause 2 of this Scheme.

3. Settlement of the Consideration

(A) Where, immediately prior to the Scheme Record Time, a Scheme Shareholder holds Scheme Shares in uncertificated form, settlement of the cash consideration to which such Scheme Shareholder is entitled will be paid by Acacia's Registrar, Equiniti, through CREST in Euros, as soon as practicable after the Effective Date (and in any event within 14 calendar days) after the Effective Date, in accordance with the CREST payment arrangements. As from the Scheme Record Time, each holding of Scheme Shares credited to any stock account in CREST will be disabled and all Scheme Shares will be rematerialised prior to the Scheme becoming Effective.

(B) Where, immediately prior to the Scheme Record Time, a Scheme Shareholder holds Scheme Shares in certificated form, settlement of cash consideration to which the Scheme Shareholder is entitled will be made by Acacia's Registrar, Equiniti, in Euros by cheque, provided that Acacia and Eagle reserve the right, where a person is entitled to a cash consideration of at least €150,000, to agree with such person to facilitate electronic payment of such consideration in lieu of a cheque. Cheques in respect of cash consideration will be despatched by first class post, or by international standard post if overseas, at the risk of the person entitled thereto as soon as practicable (and in any event within 14 calendar days) after the Effective Date. Cheques will be sent to Scheme Shareholders at the address appearing in Acacia's register of members at the Scheme Record Time or, in the case of joint holders, to the holder whose name appears first in such register of the joint holding concerned.

(C) Where, immediately prior to the Scheme Record Time, a Scheme Shareholder holds Acacia Shares in uncertificated form, Eagle shall procure that (i) the New Eagle Shares to which the holder of such Acacia Shares is entitled shall be issued to CREST International Nominees Limited in DTC; (ii) CREST International Nominees Limited will hold such interests as nominee for the CREST depository; and (iii) the CREST depository will then issue the Eagle CDIs in CREST to such shareholder as soon as practicable (and in any event within 14 calendar days) after the Effective Date.

(D) Where, immediately prior to the Scheme Record Time, a Scheme Shareholder holds Scheme Shares in certificated form, Eagle shall procure that the New Eagle Shares to which the holder of such Acacia Shares is entitled shall be issued by the Transfer Agent through DTC's DRS and the name and address of each such Scheme Shareholder will be entered as the registered owner of the relevant number of New Eagle Shares as soon as practicable (and in any event within 14 calendar days) after the Effective Date.

(E) Eagle reserves the right to pay any cash consideration to all or any Scheme Shareholder(s) who hold Scheme Shares in uncertificated form immediately prior to the Scheme Record Time in the manner referred to in sub-clause 3(A) and Eagle reserves the right to issue any New Eagle Shares to all or any Scheme Shareholder(s) who hold Scheme Shares in uncertificated form immediately prior to the Scheme Record Time in the manner referred to in sub-clause 3(C).

(F) All deliveries of notices, statements of entitlement and/or cheques required to be made under this Scheme shall be made by sending the same by first class post, or by international standard post if overseas, addressed to the person entitled thereto to the address appearing in the register of members of Acacia, and in the case of joint holders, to the address of the holder whose name stands first in such register in respect of the joint holding concerned at such time.

(G) All cheques shall be in Euros and drawn on a UK clearing bank and shall be made payable by Acacia's Registrar, Equiniti, to the Scheme Shareholder concerned or, in the case of joint holders, to all joint holders whose names appear in the register of members of Acacia in respect of the joint holding concerned at the Scheme Record Time and the encashment of any such cheque or the creation of any such assured payment obligation as is referred to in sub-clause 3(A) shall be a complete discharge to Eagle for the monies represented thereby.

(H) None of Acacia, Eagle, Equiniti, the Transfer Agent, or the person effecting or remitting any proceeds shall be responsible for any loss or delay in the transmission of the statements of entitlement, electronic payments or cheques sent to Scheme Shareholders in accordance with this clause 3, which shall be entirely at the risk of the Scheme Shareholders.

4. General

(A) All documents and remittances sent to Acacia Shareholders will be sent at the risk of the person(s) entitled thereto.

(B) In accordance with the Scheme, as from the Scheme Record Time, Acacia shall procure that each holding of Scheme Shares credited to any stock account in CREST shall be disabled. With effect from the Effective Date, Acacia shall procure that Euroclear is instructed to cancel or transfer the entitlements to Scheme Shares of holders of Scheme Shares in uncertificated form. Following cancellation of the entitlements to Scheme Shares of holders of Scheme Shares in uncertificated form, Acacia shall procure (if necessary) that such entitlements to Scheme Shares are rematerialised.

(C) Subject to the completion of the relevant forms of transfer or other instruments or instructions of transfer as may be required in accordance with the Scheme and if applicable, the payment of any UK stamp duty thereon, Acacia shall make, or procure to be made, the appropriate entries in its register of members to reflect the transfer of the Scheme Shares to Eagle and/or its nominee(s).

(D) Settlement of the consideration to which any Acacia Shareholder is entitled under the Scheme will be implemented in full in accordance with the terms of the Scheme free of any lien, right of set-off, counterclaim or other analogous right to which Eagle might otherwise be, or claim to be, entitled against such Acacia Shareholder.

(E) Clauses 2 and 3 shall take effect subject to any prohibition or condition imposed by law.

5. Fractional Entitlements

(A) Fractions of New Eagle Shares will not be allotted to Scheme Shareholders. Instead, all fractional shares which a holder of Acacia Shares would otherwise be entitled to receive will be rounded down, and such holder shall receive, in lieu of such fractional entitlements, cash in an amount in Euros (rounded down to the nearest cent) equal to such fractional amount multiplied by the last reported sale price of the shares of the common stock of Eagle on Nasdaq (as reported in The Wall Street Journal or, if not reported therein, in another authoritative source selected by Eagle) on the last Business Day prior to the Effective Date applying an exchange rate for the conversion of US dollars into Euros delivered from The Wall Street Journal based on the exchange rate as at close of business on the Business Day prior to the Effective Date. Payment of any amounts to which a Scheme Shareholder is entitled under this clause will be made in accordance with clause 3, as appropriate.

(B) The aggregate number of New Eagle Shares to which a Scheme Shareholder is entitled under clause 2 shall, in each case, be rounded down to the nearest whole number.

6. Overseas Shareholders Entitlements

The provisions of clauses 2 and 3 shall be subject to any prohibition or condition imposed by law. Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, if in the case of any Scheme Shareholder, Eagle is advised that the law of a country or territory outside the United Kingdom or Belgium precludes the allotment, issue or delivery to that Scheme Shareholder of New Eagle Shares under clause 2, Eagle may determine in its sole discretion that any such New Eagle Shares:

(A) shall not be allotted and issued to such Scheme Shareholder but instead the New Eagle Shares shall be allotted and issued to a nominee, appointed by Eagle, for such

Scheme Shareholder, on terms that the nominee shall be authorised on behalf of such Scheme Shareholder to procure that such New Eagle Shares shall, as soon as practicable following the Effective Date, be sold on behalf of such Scheme Shareholder; or

(B) shall be sold, in which event the New Eagle Shares shall be issued to such holder and Eagle shall appoint a person to act pursuant to this clause 6 and such person shall be authorised on behalf of such Scheme Shareholder to procure that any New Eagle Shares in respect of which Eagle has made such determination shall, as soon as practicable following the Effective Date, be sold.

Any sale under this clause 6 shall be carried out at the best price which can reasonably be obtained at the time of sale and the net proceeds of such sale (after the deduction of all expenses and commissions incurred in connection with such sale, including any value added tax or foreign exchange conversion fees payable on the processes of sale) shall be paid to such Scheme Shareholder by making a payment to such Scheme Shareholder in accordance with clause 3. In the absence of bad faith or wilful default, none of Acacia, Eagle or any broker or agent of either of them shall have any liability for any loss arising as a result of the timing or terms of any such sale.

7. Certificates in respect of Scheme Shares and cancellation of CREST entitlements

(A) With effect from the Effective Date:

(i) all certificates representing Scheme Shares shall cease to be valid as documents of title to the shares represented thereby and every holder of Scheme Shares shall be bound at the request of Acacia to deliver up the same to Acacia (or any person appointed by Acacia to receive such certificates), or, as it may direct, to destroy the same;

(ii) Acacia shall procure that Euroclear is instructed to cancel or transfer the entitlements to Scheme Shares of holders of Scheme Shares in uncertificated form; and

(iii) following cancellation of the entitlements to Scheme Shares of holders of Scheme Shares in uncertificated form, Acacia shall procure that such entitlements to Scheme Shares are rematerialised.

(B) As soon as practicable after the Effective Date, and subject to the completion of such forms of transfer or other instruments or instructions of transfer as may be required in accordance with clause 1 of this Scheme and if applicable, the payment of any UK stamp duty thereon, Acacia shall make, or procure to be made, the appropriate entries in its register of members to reflect the transfer of the Scheme Shares to Eagle and/or its nominee(s).

8. Mandates

All mandates and other instructions given to Acacia by Scheme Shareholders in force at the Scheme Record Time relating to Scheme Shares shall, as from the Effective Date, cease to be valid.

9. Operation of this Scheme

(A) This Scheme shall become effective as soon as a copy of the Scheme Court Order shall have been delivered to the Registrar of Companies.

(B) Unless this Scheme has become effective on or before 30 June 2022, it will lapse and this Scheme will never become effective (unless Eagle and Acacia otherwise agree).

10. Modification

Acacia and Eagle may jointly consent on behalf of all persons concerned to any modification of or addition to this Scheme or to any condition which the Court may approve or impose.

11. Governing law

This Scheme and all rights and obligations arising out of or in connection with it are governed by English law and are subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of English courts.

Good afternoon Maria,

I hope this email finds you well,

I sent you this response back in 5/20/2022, can you please respond the following:

Aero US Inc. is a fully owned subsidiary of Aerogen Ltd. and will be exclusively selling their Rx devices that are registered with the FDA with the UDI 0539151793. We were under the impression that a company selling the product of only a single manufacturer who is registered with the FDA is exempt from the Fingerprinting requirements and can submit a 25K bond in lieu of the 100K bond.

Is this information incorrect, or is an FDA-issued UDI not recognized as being "FDA registered?"

Your response to this email would be greatly appreciated.

Tania Andujar

State Disciplinary Actions – Baxter Healthcare Corporation

Georgia, Wholesaler Pharmacy License # PHWH001754, 2017

In January 2017, Baxter Healthcare Corporation (Baxter) agreed to resolve claims with the U.S. Department of Justice related to quality and manufacturing practices at Baxter's manufacturing facility in Marion, North Carolina in 2011-2012. Specifically, the government charged that between July 2011 and November 2012, Baxter did not follow cGMP requirements under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FDCA) when manufacturing certain large volume intravenous (IV) solutions. Briefly, a Baxter employee reported to plant personnel the presence of mold on HEPA filters installed in the ceiling, and Baxter continued to manufacture IV solutions while those filters remained in place. There was no evidence of any impact on the IV solutions. Copies of the settlement documents, which include a deferred prosecution agreement to resolve a single misdemeanor count of noncompliance with the FDCA, are available on the U.S. Department of Justice's website at https://www.justice.gov/opa/pr/baxter-healthcare-corporation-pay-more-18-million-resolve-criminal-and-civil-liability. The deferred prosecution agreement expired in July 2019, and the misdemeanor charge was dismissed with prejudice.

Baxter disclosed this issue on a renewal application for a Georgia wholesale license for its Marion, NC facility, and in October 2017, the state of Georgia issued a disciplinary order against that license (PHWH001754) based on the disclosure.

The Ohio Board of Pharmacy opened an investigation (case no. A-2018-0037) into this matter, but dismissed the case in November 2019 without taking any action. The Missouri Board of Pharmacy similarly opened and closed an investigation without taking disciplinary action, but issued a non-disciplinary letter of warning in August 2020 to Baxter that will remain a part of Baxter's licensing file.

Please note that this issue is unrelated to Baxter's pharmacy or wholesale activities.

Iowa, Nonresident Pharmacy License # 4127, 2014

The Iowa Board of Pharmacy (the "Iowa Board") issued a Stipulation for Baxter's Omaha, Nebraska pharmacy due to improperly delegating final verification of prescriptions for peritoneal dialysis solutions to a pharmacy technician. The Omaha facility is licensed in Nebraska under a Delegated Dispensing Permit, and utilized multiple quality checks, including retrospective pharmacist review, to ensure proper dispensing of peritoneal dialysis products to patients. Upon request by the Iowa Board, Baxter promptly modified its operations to ensure pharmacist verification of all orders. Baxter has signed the Stipulation and paid the required fine.

Montana, License #2152, 2010

The Montana Board of Pharmacy (the "Montana Board") issued a Stipulation for violations stemming from the failure of Baxter to notify the Montana Board in the requisite time frame of a change in the designated Person-in-Charge for the Waukegan, IL facility. Baxter has signed the Stipulation and paid the required fine.

Alabama, License #191639, 2009

The Alabama Board of Pharmacy found the Buford, GA facility was in violation of Code of Alabama (1975) Section 34-23-32. The facility continued distribution operations during the time between the valid license expired and when the expired license was renewed. Baxter Healthcare renewed the license, signed a Consent Order and paid the applicable fine.

Florida, Non-Resident Drug Manufacturer Permit No.: 26:4672, 2009

The Florida Department of Health (the "Florida Department") alleged that Baxter (Memphis, TN) sold prescription drugs to an unpermitted facility in Florida in violation of Section 499.005(15), F.S. Specifically, the Florida Department alleged that Baxter sold prescription drugs to Invivo at an unpermitted location. Baxter entered into a settlement agreement, whereby it neither admitted nor denied the allegations, and paid a fine.

Louisiana, License #3691, 2008

Louisiana Board of Wholesale Drug Distributors conducted a routine inspection of the facility operated by Baxter's third party logistics provider. Inspectors concluded Baxter (Round Lake, IL) violated Louisiana Administrative Code 46:XCI.311.D, which requires a licensee to maintain copies of current licenses for its customers who are authorized to obtain and possess legend drugs and devices. Baxter obtained customer licenses, signed a Consent Order, and paid the applicable fine.

Missouri, License #2005002668, 2005

The Missouri Board of Pharmacy (the "Missouri Board") issued a restricted drug distributor license to the facility located in Memphis, TN. The Missouri Board determined the facility violated Section 338.333.1 and 338.337.1 RSMo because the facility shipped legend drugs and/or medical devices into the state without being properly licensed. The proper license was obtained. The probationary period was successfully completed on October 21, 2007 and the restriction on the license was removed.

Ohio, Various Licenses (#010026050, 020830400, 010349000, 010010900), 1995

Baxter historically distributed home dialysis drugs to end-stage renal disease patients in their homes under a wholesale distributor model. The Ohio Board of Pharmacy (the "Ohio Board") maintained that terminal drug distributor licensure was required. The Ohio Board granted terminal drug distributor licenses, imposed a probationary period (which have since long expired), and imposed monetary penalties on Baxter. Only one of the licenses (02083044) remains active.

Other Actions: Dismissed Charge of Drug Law Violation – Baxter Healthcare Corporation

In January 2017, Baxter Healthcare Corporation (Baxter) agreed to resolve claims with the U.S. Department of Justice related to quality and manufacturing practices at Baxter's manufacturing facility in Marion, North Carolina in 2011-2012. Specifically, the government charged that between July 2011 and November 2012, Baxter did not follow cGMP requirements under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FDCA) when manufacturing certain large volume intravenous (IV) solutions. Briefly, a Baxter employee reported to plant personnel the presence of mold on HEPA filters installed in the ceiling, and Baxter continued to manufacture IV solutions while those filters remained in place. There was no evidence of any impact on the IV solutions. Copies of the settlement documents, which include a deferred prosecution agreement to resolve a single misdemeanor count of noncompliance with the FDCA, are available on the U.S. Department of Justice's website at https://www.justice.gov/opa/pr/baxter-healthcare-corporation-pay-more-18-million-resolve-criminal-and-civil-liability. The deferred prosecution agreement expired in July 2019, and the misdemeanor charge was dismissed with prejudice.

Please note that this issue is unrelated to Baxter's pharmacy or wholesale activities, or the facility that is the subject of this application.

SUMMARY

This comprehensive biennial inspection of a biological product and finished vaccine manufacturer was conducted per eNSpect OP ID Assignment 91957 and in accordance with CBER CP 7345.848: Inspection of Biological Products (Level II, PAC 45848D: Vaccines and 42848G: Plasma Derivatives). The Quality, Production, Facilities & Equipment, and the Laboratory Control Systems were selected for coverage of the biological drug products: HyQvia (rHuPH20 (Recominant Human Hyaluronidase); Prevnar-13 Conjugate Vaccine; Fluzone Q1V; PRT064445 (Recombinant modified Factor Xa); Sterile Water for Injection; and Heplisav (Adult Hepatitis B Vaccine).

The previous inspection conducted by Team Biologics in May 2016 was classified as VAI for deficiencies cited within the Quality, Production, Facilities & Equipment and Materials Management Systems including: There is a failure to thoroughly review any unexplained discrepancy whether or not the batch has been already distributed. Specifically, Event PR# 869559 was initiated 5/4/15 for product rHuPH20 (Recombinant Human Hyaluronidase), 20 mL vial, batch 927204 exceeding the upper control limit for critical defects due to 11 glass particles observed during 100% manual inspection; (2) Adequate written procedures have not been established for production and process control designed to assure that the drug products you manufacture have the identity, strength, quality, or purity they purport or are represented to possess. Specifically, there is a lack of assurance that visual inspection procedures ensure removal of defects as intended: and (3) Certificates of testing of closures are accepted in lieu of testing without establishing the reliability of the supplier's test results through appropriate validation of the test results at appropriate intervals.

The current inspection continued to find the firm operating as a contract manufacture of parenteral products (small molecule and biological therapeutics). The Quality, Production, Facilities & Equipment and the Laboratory Control Systems were selected for coverage. At the close of the inspection on May 23, 2018, an FDA-483, List of Inspectional Observations was issued to Ms. Easton for the following deficiency observed during the inspection: (1) Procedures designed to prevent microbiological contamination of drug products purporting to be sterile do not include adequate re-qualification of the sterilization process. Specifically, there was a failure to adequately perform all aseptic interventions associated with media fills performed on filling Line 7 (FM18) Building D where Fluzone QIV-IM Pediatric, Fluzone QIV-IM Adult and Prevnar vaccines are filled. The sterilizing filter flush is conducted on step 5.7 of the Fluzone QIV-IM set up/filling process. The sterilizing filter flush simulation was evaluated as high risk per SOP 04-01-056-8 Intervention Risk Management Program however, this filter flush sample was not documented in the media fill batch record as having been collected or incubated; (2) Media fill batch manufacturing record 930381 executed to simulate the manufacturing process for Fluzone QIV-IM and Prevnar on Line 7 (Building D) is not written contemporaneously in that an operator performed one critical intervention in each of two high risk intervention categories (replacement of the insertion rod and replacement of the insertion tube) on 25 April 2017. On 08 May 2017, 13 days later, the operator updated the media fill BMR noting 6 additional interventions in each of the two high risk intervention categories; (3) There is no written testing program designed to assess the stability characteristics of drug products. Specifically, A stability program designed to assess the characteristics of the drug product rHuPH20 (Recombinant Human Hyaluronidase) has not been established. Baxter Analytical Request (BAR) Project Plan Amendment 1 lists analytical tests to be performed as Potency, Purity, Particulate Matter (performed in triplicate) and another test for Particulate Matter; the plan does not list specifications required for each test performed on stability and the results are not correlated to the Baxter Analytical Request QC Master Document that lists the specifications and results for analytical tests that are performed; and (4) There is a failure to thoroughly review the failure of a batch or any of its components to meet any of its specifications whether or not the batch has already been distributed. Specifically, an overall corrective action and preventative action plan has not been initiated to address the receipt of complaints referencing leaking containers for Fluzone QIV-IM. The firm has received complaints from October 2016 to May 2018 for various reasons including: when pushing on the plunger rod product leaked out; product leaking out around the luer lock and luer lock loosening after tip cap removal. Per the Quality Agreement the CMO is responsible for investigating potentially linked to the manufacturing operations.

Management committed to respond to the listed deficiencies in writing within 15 days. I informed management, the final decision determining the classification of a firm is at the discretion of the Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research (CBER), Office of Compliance after review of the Establishment Inspection Report (EIR), response to the FDA-483 and any other supporting documentation if applicable. No samples were collected and no refusals were encountered during the inspection.

MANUFACTURING/DESIGN OPERATIONS
Inspectional Coverage

Quality System

(Written by Investigator SP)

The assessment of the QA system was accomplished through review of the firm's quality operations to determine if the Quality Control Unit is operating in a state of control by documenting, reviewing and approving all aspects of manufacturing, ensuring quality control and quality assurance have established approved procedures, and those procedures are suitable for their intended use. Coverage also included but was not limited to Standard Operating Procedures adherence, non-conformance investigation reports, out of specification reports, annual product review reports, Quality Agreement Contracts, deviation reports (planned/unplanned), CAPA program; Product Specifications, consumer complaints, analytical testing, batch manufacturing records, destruction paperwork Prevnar-13 batch 932222, rejected product, sterility analysis, analytical data and stability studies.

(Written by Investigator SJ)

Coverage of the Quality System included the review of the following elements: deviation investigations (nonconformance reports), corrective and preventative actions, change controls, and annual product reviews for product Fluzone covering the periods August 2015 - December 2016 and January 2017- December 2017. In addition, the written procedures governing each of these elements were also reviewed.

Since the previous inspection in 2016, there has been no sterility test failures. The firm does perform the sterility testing on site for all products filled at Baxter Pharmaceutical Solutions (BPS).

Production System

(Written by Investigator SP)

Coverage of this system was accomplished through review of for example, batch manufacturing records, an assessment of procedures that are written and approved to ensure biological drug products are manufactured via a process that consistently produces product meeting its pre-determined specifications and operates in a state of control, manufactured in an environment that is free from contamination through appropriate validation and verification activities, procedures are in place to control and maintain a clean environment, and components and container closures are suitable for their intended use in the processing of an biological drug product so that the strength, identity, purity and quality is maintained and product is stable. The reviewed included as assessment of manufacturing process flow, visual inspection standard operating procedures, operator qualification of manual visual inspection, process validation reports, aseptic process simulation reports, airflow pattern qualification, and growth promotion of media studies.

Product rHuPH20 (Recombinant Human Hyaluronidase) is a sterile liquid vial for use as an adjuvant to increase the absorption and disposition of other drugs, for hypodermoclysis, and as an adjunct in subcutaneous urography for improving the resorption of radiopaque agents. It is co-packaged at another site with HYQVIA and is manufactured for Baxalta under BLA 125402 and was approved by CBER on 9/12/14. Fluzone Q1V is a vaccine for protection against 4 different strains of the flu: 2 strains for virus A and 2 strains for virus B packaged in a syringe. Recombinant modified Factor X manufactured in a vial and is designed for patients receiving a Factor Xa inhibitor who may suffer a major bleeding episode. Heplisav produced as a syringe is an adults Hepatitis B Vaccine. Prevnar-13 Conjugate Vaccine presented in a vial and a syringe is not currently manufactured for the U.S., the last batch was in November 2011.

(Written by Investigator SJ)

The current inspectional coverage of the Production System included but was not limited to the review of the following elements: process flow as it relates to Fluzone, media fill procedures, media fill batch records 930381,930947 and 928620, review of sections of Fluzone QIV-IM batch 931916, aseptic gowning procedures for operators, selected smoke studies in dynamic for filling line 6 & 7 (FM18) and lot release of finished batch record procedure.

During the inspection, the filling activities in building C line 6 and Building D line 7 was observed. The filling activities on each line was non CBER related products. The filling activities on line 7 was presentative of the fill set up for CBER related products.

Coverage of the Production System also included the review of environmental monitoring trends and the water for injection (WFI) trends as it relates to Building D. Located within Building D is the formulation area which include the sterile formulation area for Prevnar (non- US market product) and filling lines 7 & 8 on which CBER licensed products are aseptically filled.

Facilities and Equipment System

(Written by Investigator SP)

The limited review of documentation for this system included but was not limited to, written and approved procedures to ensure an appropriate environment is maintained for the process of manufacturing a biological drug product, qualification of the Eisai Automated inspection system, program has been initiated to ensure equipment used in the process remains in proper working order and will continue to function within the manufacture's specification.

Laboratory Control System

(Written by Investigator SJ)

Limited coverage of the Laboratory Control System included the review of the re-qualification of the sterility test method by membrane filtration for Fluzone. The sterility test method was requalified after a flu strain change in 2017. No objection was noted for Fluzone sterility test method re-qualification. The 2018 re-qualification of sterility test method for Fluzone was ongoing at time of this inspection.

The validation of the bacterial endotoxin test method for Portola finished product and stability was reviewed. Document No. 414-08-04-008-1 (BER15-08-002) was approved by Quality on 4/24/2018. The validation met the criteria for PPC recovery, pH neutrality and acceptable margin of safety. No objection was noted.

MANUFACTURING CODES

The manufacturing codes have remained the same since the last inspection.

COMPLAINTS

The firm does have written procedures in place that governs consumer complaints, complaints along with Adverse Event Reporting was reviewed under the Quality System and were found to be unremarkable.

RECALL PROCEDURES

There have been no recalls or market withdrawals and/or corrections since the last inspection.

OBJECTIONABLE CONDITIONS AND MANAGEMENT'S RESPONSE

Observations listed on form FDA 483

OBSERVATION 1 (Written by Investigator SJ)

Procedures designed to prevent microbiological contamination of drug products purporting to be sterile do not include adequate re-qualification of the sterilization process. Specifically,

There was a failure to adequately perform all aseptic interventions associated with media fills performed on filling Line 7 (FM18) Building D where Fluzone QIV-IM Pediatric, Fluzone QIV-IM Adult and Prevnar vaccines are filled. The sterilizing filter flush is conducted on step 5.7 of the Fluzone QIV-IM set up/filling process. The sterilizing filter flush simulation was evaluated as high risk per SOP 04-01-056-8 Intervention Risk Management Program however, this filter flush sample was not documented in the media fill batch record as having been collected or incubated.

A. Media Fill batch record 93081 date 25 -27 April 2017 executed on Line 7, bracketing the upper container size, documents that a sterile filter flush sample was collected by the Production Unit however, the Quality Control Unit documentation does not show reconciliation and incubation of the sterile filter flush sample.

B. Media Fill batch record 928620 date 29 April – 01 May 2016 executed on Line 7, bracketing upper container size, fails to document that a filter flush sample was collected.

Supporting Evidence and Relevance:

Exhibit SJ-1 is a copy of SOP 04-01-056-8 Intervention Risk Management Program, effective 12 October 2016. This SOP describes classification of high-risk media fill interventions and how the classification is made based on the top 1/3rd highest ranked interventions per filling line. The written procedure required that the top 1/3rd interventions be simulated in a media fill bi-annually. Per the criteria of SOP 04-01-056-8, the sterile filter flush is an intervention which is routine during product filling, and this intervention was classified as high risk and therefore was required to be performed every six months on filling line 7. The sterile filter flush is a routine intervention which is performed during the manufacture of Fluzone QIV-IM which is filled on line 7. Exhibit SJ-2 is a copy of Fluzone QIV-IM Adult batch record 931916. Section 5.7 of the record indicates that the flushing of the sterilizing filter was performed and this sample was incorporated in product reconciliation.

A. Exhibit SJ-3 is copy of batch record for media fill 930381, executed on Filling Machine 18 (FM18), line 7. This media fill was representative of the upper bracket container size which would be representative of Fluzone. The record indicates that the sterile filter flush which is simulated by the intervention replacing the sterile filter and retrieving a sample downstream of carboy/filter was executed by production operator at time "1103". Exhibit SJ-3 page 2 summarizes that the high-risk intervention of replacing the sterilizing filter was executed. Exhibit SJ-3 page 3, however only indicated the total number of containers incubated was 25,373, with 1 container found to be empty during inspection, a final container total of 25,372. In addition to the media fill containers, the media fill record indicates a total of zero samples were incubated. These samples are pulled during media fill and would be representative of the sterile filter flush sample. Therefore, although the media fill record indicates that the production unit operator performed a sterilizing filter flush there is no reconciliation by the Quality Unit that the sterilizing filter flush samples was received and incubated per standard operating procedure.

B. Exhibit SJ-4 is a copy of the media fill batch record 928620. This media fill was performed on filling line 7 (FM18) and is representative of the upper bracket for container size. CBER licensed products filled on this line include Fluzone and Prevnar 13. The record indicates that the sterile filter was changed and a flush sample was collected at time "0950" this intervention documented as "F". Exhibit SJ-4 page 2, this page describes the microbiological monitoring of media fills. The record does not indicate that a sterile filter flush sample was submitted to the microbiological laboratory for incubation and there is no result indicated for the filter flush sample after incubation. Page 2 indicates that 17,137 containers (syringes) were collected, incubated and a total of zero unit contaminated. There was no reconciliation for the filter flush sample and no documentation that the sample was incubated and the result having been no contamination.

Discussion with Management:

During my discussion with Michael Feske, Sterility Assurance Engineer and the firm's management Susan D. Easton, Business Operations Strategy and Stacia Jones, Quality Manager, I addressed my concern with media fill sterile filter flush intervention samples, a high-risk intervention, not being adequately reconciled, incubated and documented. The firm's management acknowledged the concerns. Michael Feske explained that as of 2018, media fill interventions were re-evaluated and based on this re-evaluation the sterile filter flush is no longer classified as high risk and therefore the sterile filter flush sample is only required to be performed once per year. I explained that media fills to requalify the aseptic process for 2016 and 207 should have been be performed per the written procedures.

It should be noted that a media fill simulating the upper bracket container size on line 7 (FM18) was ongoing at the time of this inspection.

OBSERVATION 2 (Written by Investigator SJ)

Media fill batch manufacturing record 930381 executed to simulate the manufacturing process for Fluzone QIV-IM and Prevnar on Line 7 (Building D) is not written contemporaneously in that an operator performed one critical intervention in each of two high risk intervention categories (replacement of the insertion rod and replacement of the insertion tube) on 25 April 2017. On 08

May 2017, 13 days later, the operator updated the media fill BMR noting 6 additional interventions in each of the two high risk intervention categories.

Supporting Evidence and Relevance:

During the review of the media fill record batch 930381 it was noted that pen and ink changes were made to the original media fill batch record 13 days after the media fill was executed to add check marks as evidence that the media fill interventions per hour were executed as required in the media fill written procedure. The check marked were added and signed for by the operators after the original execution of the media fill on 25 April 2017. Exhibit SJ-5 is a copy of media fill batch record 930381. Page 1 of the record indicates three incidences where additional interventions were added to the batch record on "5-8-17", 13 days after the execution of media fill 930381. In each incident, the batch record required "7 interventions but not more than 10 interventions per hour". The executed batch record indicated that at the time of the media fill the number of interventions did not meet the specification per the written record were not documented as having been performed.

Discussion with Management:

This observation was discussed with the firm's management Susan D. Easton, Business Operations Strategy and Stacia Jones, Quality Manager.

OBSERVATION 3 (Written by Investigator SP)

There is no written testing program designed to assess the stability characteristics of drug products. Specifically,

A stability program designed to assess the characteristics of the drug product rHuPH20 (Recombinant Human Hyaluronidase) has not been established. Baxter Analytical Request (BAR) Project Plan Amendment 1 lists analytical tests to be performed as Potency, Purity, Particulate Matter (performed in triplicate) and another test for Particulate Matter; the plan does not list specifications required for each test performed on stability and the results are not correlated to the Baxter Analytical Request QC Master Document that lists the specifications and results for analytical tests that are performed.

A. There is no consistency for analytical tests performed for stability in that;

   i. Baxter Analytical Request (BAR) Project Plan Amendment 1 lists analytical tests to be performed as Potency, Purity, Particulate Matter (performed in triplicate) and another test for Particulate Matter for an analysis performed in November 2017, likewise, another Project Plan Amendment 1 lists test requested as Appearance and Description, pH, Protein Concentration, Potency, Osmolality, Particulate Matter, Bacterial Endotoxin, Sterility and Purity for an analysis performed in March 2018.

B. The Second Amend and Restated Quality Agreement between Baxalta US Inc. and Baxter Pharmaceuticals Solutions LLC for rHuPH20 and BAX2923, dated 04Aug2016 does not clearly define the roles and responsibilities for performing stability testing.

Supporting Evidence and Relevance:

A. The BAR plan does not list specifications required for each test performed on stability. and The Baxter Analytical Request (BAR) Project Plan Amendment 1 lists analytical tests to be performed as Potency, Purity, Particulate Matter (performed in triplicate) and another test for Particulate Matter. Exhibit SP7 details analyses for rHuPH20 lot 927750 performed in November 2017 as Potency, Purity, Particulate Matter (performed in triplicate) and another test for Particulate Matter. Exhibit SP8 details the analyses for rHuPH20 lot 924591, lot 924592 and lot 924593 performed in March 2018 as Appearance and Description, pH, Protein Concentration, Potency, Osmolality, Particulate Matter, Bacterial Endotoxin, Sterility and Purity. The results are not correlated to the Baxter Analytical Request QC Master Document that lists the specifications and results for analytical tests that are performed.

B. Exhibit SP9 The Second Amend and Restated Quality Agreement between Baxalta US Inc. and Baxter Pharmaceuticals Solutions LLC for rHuPH20 and BAX2923, dated 04Aug2016 does not clearly define the roles and responsibilities for performing stability testing.

Discussion with Management:

Management will formally respond to the observation in writing.

OBSERVATION 4 (Written by Investigator SP)

There is a failure to thoroughly review the failure of a batch or any of its components to meet any of its specifications whether or not the batch has already been distributed. Specifically, an overall corrective action and preventative action plan has not been initiated to address the receipt of complaints referencing leaking containers for Fluzone QIV-IM. The firm has received complaints from October 2016 to May 2018 for various reasons including: when pushing on the plunger rod product leaked out; product leaking out around the luer lock and luer lock loosening after tip cap removal. Per the Quality Agreement the CMO is responsible for investigating potentially linked to the manufacturing operations.

Supporting Evidence and Relevance:

The firm has received complaints from October 2016 to May 2018 for various reasons including: when pushing on the plunger rod product leaked out; product leaking out around the luer lock and luer lock loosening after tip cap removal for the manufactured product FLuzone supplied in either syringes or vials. An overall corrective action and preventative action plan has not been initiated to address the receipt of complaints referencing leaking containers for Fluzone. Exhibit SP10 is the complaint list representing complaints from May 2016 to May 2018. Per the Quality Agreement the CMO is responsible for investigating potentially linked deficiencies to the manufacturing operations. Exhihit SP11 is the GMP Contract Manufacturing of Medicinal Products, Investigational Medicinal Products and Vaccines dated September 2015 detailing the responsibilities of the license holder and the contract manufacture.

Discussion with Management:

Management will formally respond to the observation in writing.

REFUSALS

No refusals were encountered during the inspection.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

There is no additional information noted for the firm during the current inspection.

SAMPLES COLLECTED

No samples were collected during the inspection.

VOLUNTARY CORRECTIONS

(Written by Investigator SP)

The corrective actions from the previous FDA-483 from the inspection in December 2015 were reviewed and found to adequate except for the repeat Observation listed as the only observation from the current inspection. The corrections for the current inspection should be reviewed during the next inspection.

(Written by Investigator SJ)

The corrective action to the previous FDA 483 Observation #3 issued 05/12/2016 was reviewed. The corrective action as it relates to testing to establish the reliability of the supplier for incoming lots of vial stoppers is ongoing in that one lot was tested in 2017 and one lot to date was tested in 2018.

Disciplinary Explanation

Boxout, LLC (f.k.a. WBC Group, LLC) has never been formally charged with a violation of a law of any state relating to drugs, liquor, poisonous substances, or any felony offense. Boxout, LLC has had the following contacts from licensing boards or agencies from other states regarding their licensure requirements:

Arkansas. On November 9, 2009, WBC Group, LLC received communications from the Arkansas State Board of Pharmacy regarding the shipment of prescription drugs into the State of Arkansas in response to the applications for wholesale distributor license permits for its Ohio and California facilities. WBC Group, LLC informally resolved this matter without an admission of guilt to the satisfaction of the Board by signing Consent Agreements and paying monetary penalties of $1000.00 each for the Ohio (WD03777) and California (WD05096) facilities. There was no disciplinary action.

Alabama. On April 27, 2018, WBC Group, LLC received communications from the Alabama State Board of Pharmacy regarding a complaint of distribution of prescription medical devices into the State of Alabama without first renewing the Ohio (194118) and Florida (194218) permits issued by the Board. WBC Group, LLC informally resolved this matter without an admission of guilt to the satisfaction of the Board by signing Consent Agreements and paying monetary penalties of $2500.00 each for the Ohio and Florida facilities. There was no disciplinary action.

Colorado. On or about August 04, 2020, Boxout, LLC received a communication from the Colorado Board of Pharmacy regarding its applications to change company name being filed beyond the Board prescribed period of thirty days. This notice was received for Boxout's licenses held by the Ohio (Colorado license number: WHO.8341) and California (Colorado license number: WHO.8407) facilities. Boxout signed Final Agency Orders with the Colorado Board of Pharmacy to resolve the matter and agreed to pay fines of $1,150.00 per license. The Orders were fully executed with the Board on September 30, 2020.

Alabama. The Alabama Board initiated a complaint against Boxout on January 13, 2021. Boxout received the notice of complaint in early March of 2021. The complaint was regarding a failure to disclose the Colorado Final Agency Orders on the Alabama permit renewal for the Ohio facility (Alabama license number: 194118). This was an honest error caused by a misunderstanding of a question on the renewal in the regulatory questions section. The Colorado Orders had been previously disclosed to the Alabama Board at the time the Orders were signed and fully executed. Boxout entered into a Consent Order with the Alabama Board of Pharmacy to resolve the matter and agreed to pay a $1,000.00 fine. The Consent Order was signed by the Board and was fully executed on March 30, 2021.

Ohio. On March 24, 2021, Boxout, LLC received communications from the Ohio State Board of Pharmacy regarding an illegal sale of a non-controlled dangerous drug (ketorolac) to a clinic at a time that the clinic's Board issued Terminal Distributor of Dangerous Drugs license was lapsed (January 7th, 2020). Boxout provided evidence to the Board that the issue that caused this occurrence had previously been identified and corrected. Boxout entered into a Settlement Agreement with the Board to resolve the matter. Boxout agreed to pay a fine of $125.00 and that the Settlement Agreement would become a matter of public record to be disclosed on new license applications and on license renewals. The Settlement Agreement was signed by the Board and was fully executed on April 23, 2021.

It is affirmed that all information provided herein is true and correct and it is recognized that providing false information may result in disciplinary action.

Re: Pending Application – Endo Pharmaceuticals, Inc., 1400 Atwater Drive, Malvern, PA 19355

Dear Ms. Herrera:

This letter is being submitted on behalf of Endo Pharmaceuticals, Inc. with additional information as requested for our application. Please see the requested information below:

- List containing each employee Pursuant to NRS 639.500 (2).
    - For this facility, Joe Burke and the 3 Corporate Officers (see attached listing) are located at this facility. I am located at the Woodcliff Lake facility and travel to the Malvern facility on an as needed basis. As we have gone to a permanent remote office policy, the only individual who is on-site daily and overseas the operations would be Joe Burke. We have some contractors on-site but, they are not employees of Endo and their roles are restricted to the mailroom and facility maintenance. Since our bankruptcy announcement in August, 2022 we have had a significant reduction in staff at all of our facilities and only essential personnel are required in the office. As such, this office has only 4 Endo employees.
- Based on the description of duties the DR provided, they do not meet the qualifications in dispensing and distribution of, and recordkeeping relating to, prescription drugs. pursuant to NAC639.5005 2.(a) Therefore are you able to provide an individual who can meet these qualifications?
    - Although your license is an Out-of-State Wholesaler, we are in fact a Virtual Manufacturer. We do not handle any products. All physical manufacturing activities are handled by contracted 3PL's as provided in the original application. All distribution activities are handled by our contracted 3PL, UPS Supply Chain Solutions, Inc. in Memphis, TN. All transaction of sale records are stored electronically. All licensing is centrally located and handled thru my office in our Woodcliff Lake facility. Any returns, recalls or damaged products are sent directly to a contracted vendor, Inmar. Our 1400 Atwater Drive location is strictly a "paper only" office. Joe Burke currently serves as the Designated Representative for 1400 Atwater Drive. He is currently the Designated Representative for Endo Pharmaceuticals and Endo Aesthetics. Endo Aesthetics is also a virtual manufacturer which is currently licensed in NV under license# WHO3067 and Joe Burke is the Designated Representative on that license.

      On December 6, 2022, Endo International plc, our parent company, made the announcement that we have ceased production and sale of our Qwo product. This was the only product being manufactured under the banner of Endo Aesthetics. While there is no activity under the name of Endo Aesthetics currently taking place, there is product in the market that does not expire until January, 2025; as such all licensing will remain in effect until that time. In the meantime, we are asking the Board to allow Joe Burke to serve as the Designated Representative for both companies as Endo Pharmaceuticals as an active entity and Endo Aesthetics as a quasi-inactive entity. A copy of the newswire has been provided for you.

- (MDEG) Administrator form must be completed if the business will wholesale medical devices, equipment, supplies, gases, including hypodermic devices. (NAC 639.6957).
    - We do not produce medical devices, equipment or gases.

- If providing a Medical Devices, Equipment and Gases (MDEG), supply a copy of proof of insurance (NAC 639.6957). The MDEG wholesaler shall maintain liability insurance of at least one million dollars ($1,000,000.00).
    - Not applicable.

Additionally, I am enclosing a replacement check #3003323 for the criminal background check as the previous check that was submitted to the Board has expired. Please note that our checks are only valid for 90 days. We request that you please process them as soon as possible. We ask that you kindly shred check# 3002893 as it is null and void. We do not need to have the check returned to us.

If you have any questions or concerns regarding this submission or any licensing related matters, please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

MaryLou Schoonover (she/her/hers)

Current Date: 23-FEB-2021
Labeler DUNS: 117439769
Labeler Name: Evergreen Theragnostics, Inc.
Labeler Code Assigned: 81617

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has assigned the above Labeler Code to your firm. The number cannot be used until you have confirmed the assignment. Please revise and resubmit your Labeler Code Request SPL to include the assigned number above to complete the process. To do this, open the previous Labeler Code Request SPL file and fill in the new information (your assigned Labeler Code) without changing the other existing information. Fill in a new root id and new version number with the original set id and the appropriate effective time.

For CDER Direct Users: Open the previously submitted and accepted Labeler Code Request, click Create New Version, enter the Labeler Code assigned in the field for "Labeler Code", and Submit SPL.

This Labeler Code should be used to create the NDC (National Drug Code) assigned to all drugs you manufacture or distribute for U.S. commercial distribution. The assignment of NDC is extensively discussed in Title 21 of Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) 207.35. The NDC for each drug must be submitted as part of drug listing information submitted to FDA. Per 21 CFR Part 207, owners or operators of an establishment entering into the manufacture or processing of a drug or drugs shall drug list, every drug in commercial distribution within 5 days after the beginning of operation. Labeler Codes are assigned by FDA and may be inactivated at any time upon violation of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act.

Note that receipt of this letter is not to be construed as Federal Government endorsement or approval of the establishment or its products.

For additional information please visit Drug Registration and Listing System or reply back to this email (edrls@fda.hhs.gov).

Good Morning Maria,

Thank you for taking the time to review Phoenix Assurance, LLC, 4755 Southpoint Drive, Suite 101, Memphis, TN 38118 Wholesale/MDEG License Application. I am responding to a request for additional information.

- Rita Parks residence address is in Corinth, MS. However, our facility is right on the Tennessee/Mississippi state line and Rita Parks residence is less than 75 miles from the 4755 Southpoint Drive, Suite 101, Memphis, TN 38118 facility. Rita is physically present in the facility for day-to-day operations. This has been Rita Parks daily commute for more than 15 years and is very common for this area.
- I have attached a current certificate of existence from Tennessee.

If you have any questions, please let me know.

WARNING - This email originated from outside the State of Nevada. Exercise caution when opening attachments or clicking links, especially from unknown senders.

Dear Maria,

I hope you are doing well. I just wanted to follow up on this e-mail below to see if there is any additional clarification on the cities listed. Unfortunately, California does not really make a distinction between Santa Clarita and Valencia and tend to use these interchangeably. Valencia is a neighborhood in Santa Clarita located within Los Angeles County, California. You may find this Wikipedia article helpful: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Valencia,_Santa_Clarita,_California#:~:text=Valencia%20is%20a%20neighborhood%20in%20Santa%20Clarita%20located,the%20city%20of%20Santa%20Clarita%20in%201987.%20

Should you need anything additional to move forward with processing this pending Wholesale Distributor application, please let us know.

Thank you in advance for your time and assistance.

Maria

I am not sure to which two documents you are referring. That being said, in California the community of Valencia is part of the incorporated city of Santa Clarita. In the state of California, the use of Valencia or Santa Clarita on documents is equivalent. It is common practice in California even on legal documents to use either the community designation or the actual city name interchangeably. For instance, Hollywood, CA (which everyone in America knows) is actually part of the city of Los Angeles.

AMI Based on records available to it and to the best of its knowledge, AMI, the prospective licensee, has not been charged or convicted of a felony or gross misdemeanor (including by way of a guilty plea or no contest plea) since 2004. Abbott In May 2012, Abbott, the parent company of the prospective licensee identified in Section 9 of the Wholesaler Application Addendum, pleaded guilty to one misdemeanor violation of the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act for misbranding as part of a settlement with U.S. federal and 49 state authorities, plus the District of Columbia, to resolve all outstanding issues regarding an investigation of past sales and marketing practices relating to its neurologic medication Depakote. Abbott and the Department of Justice, as reflected in the plea agreement, agreed that the conduct that gave rise to the conviction relates solely to the research-based pharmaceutical business that later became part of Abbvie, and that, from the time of the separation of Abbvie, Abbott no longer had any obligations under the plea agreement, nor would the Department of Justice treat Abbott as having a conviction under the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. Effective January 2, 2013, Abbott separated that research-based pharmaceutical business, including its U.S. pharmaceutical business, the business responsible for Depakote, into a new, independent publicly traded company, Abbvie

Abbott In May 2022, Abbott agreed to enter into a consent decree with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) related to its Sturgis, Michigan infant formula plant. The decree is an agreement between FDA and Abbott on the steps necessary to resume production and maintain the

Dear Department of Financial and Professional Regulation,

My company is in the process of applying for distribution licenses in various states. We have been requested to obtain and provide a letter from the Department of Financial and Professional Regulation letterhead that states that Illinois does not require companies in the state of Illinois to have a license to warehouse and/or distribute product in or out of the State of Illinois.

Could we obtain a letter on your letterhead that includes the language below or similar language?

"The Illinois Dept. of Financial and Professional Regulation states that no licensing is required in order to warehouse and/or distribute such product in or out of the State of Illinois. The requirements of licensure and practice are provided by the Act and Rules in Administrative Code, 68 Ill. Adm. Code 1510.10. Definitions of "wholesale distribution" and "prescription drug" do not include medical devices."

Please do not hesitate to contact me directly should you have any questions. I greatly appreciate your consideration.

Best Regards,
Dragan

PART I

ITEM 1. BUSINESS

GENERAL DEVELOPMENT OF BUSINESS

Abbott Laboratories is an Illinois corporation, incorporated in 1900. Abbott's* principal business is the discovery, development, manufacture, and sale of a broad and diversified line of health care products.

NARRATIVE DESCRIPTION OF BUSINESS

Abbott has four reportable segments: Established Pharmaceutical Products, Diagnostic Products, Nutritional Products, and Medical Devices.

Established Pharmaceutical Products

These products include a broad line of branded generic pharmaceuticals manufactured worldwide and marketed and sold outside the United States in emerging markets. These products are generally sold directly to wholesalers, distributors, government agencies, health care facilities, pharmacies, and independent retailers from Abbott-owned distribution centers and public warehouses, depending on the market served. Certain products are co-marketed or co-promoted with, or licensed from, other companies.

The principal products included in the broad therapeutic area portfolios of the Established Pharmaceutical Products segment are:

- gastroenterology products, including Creon™, for the treatment of pancreatic exocrine insufficiency associated with several underlying conditions, including cystic fibrosis and chronic pancreatitis; Duspatal™ and Dicetel™, for the treatment of irritable bowel syndrome or biliary spasm; Heptral™, Transmetil™, and Samyr™, for the treatment of intrahepatic cholestasis (associated with liver disease) or depressive symptoms; and Duphalac™, for regulation of the physiological rhythm of the colon;
- women's health products, including Duphaston™, for the treatment of many different gynecological disorders; and Femoston™, a hormone replacement therapy for postmenopausal women;
- cardiovascular and metabolic products, including Lipanthyl™ and TriCor™, for the treatment of dyslipidemia; Teveten™ and Teveten™ Plus, for the treatment of essential hypertension, and Physiotens™, for the treatment of hypertension; and Synthroid™, for the treatment of hypothyroidism;
- pain and central nervous system products, including Serc™, for the treatment of Ménière's disease and vestibular vertigo; Brufen™, for the treatment of pain, fever, and inflammation; and Sevedol™, for the treatment of severe migraines; and
- respiratory drugs and vaccines, including the anti-infective clarithromycin (sold under the trademarks Biaxin™, Klacid™, and Klaricid™); and Influvac™, an influenza vaccine.

The Established Pharmaceutical Products segment directs its primary marketing efforts toward building strong brands with key stakeholders, including consumers, pharmacists, physicians, and other healthcare providers. Government agencies are also important customers.

Competition in the Established Pharmaceutical Products segment is generally from other health care and pharmaceutical companies. In addition, the substitution of generic drugs for the brand prescribed and introduction of additional forms of already marketed established products by generic or branded competitors may increase competitive pressures.

* As used throughout the text of this report on Form 10-K, the term "Abbott" refers to Abbott Laboratories, an Illinois corporation, or Abbott Laboratories and its consolidated subsidiaries, as the context requires.

Diagnostic Products

These products include a broad line of diagnostic systems and tests manufactured, marketed, and sold worldwide. These products are generally marketed and sold directly to blood banks, hospitals, commercial laboratories, clinics, physicians' offices, retailers, government agencies, alternate care testing sites, and plasma protein therapeutic companies from Abbott owned distribution centers, public warehouses or third party distributors.

The principal products included in the Diagnostic Products segment are:

- core laboratory systems in the areas of immunoassay, clinical chemistry, hematology, and transfusion medicine, including the Alinity® family of instruments, ARCHITECT®, ABBOTT PRISM®, and Cell-Dyn®, with assays used for screening and/or diagnosis for cancer, cardiac, metabolics, drugs of abuse, fertility, general chemistries, infectious diseases such as hepatitis and HIV, therapeutic drug monitoring, and a suite of SARS-CoV-2 serology assays;
- molecular diagnostics polymerase chain reaction (PCR) instrument systems, including Alinity® m and m2000™ that automate the extraction, purification, and preparation of DNA and RNA from patient samples, and detect and measure infectious agents including HIV, hepatitis, HPV, sexually transmitted infections, and SARS-CoV-2; and products for oncology with the Vysis® FISH product line of genomic-based tests;
- point of care systems, including the i-STAT® and next-generation i-STAT® Alinity® and cartridges for testing blood gas, chemistry, electrolytes, coagulation and immunoassay;
- rapid diagnostics lateral flow testing products in the area of infectious diseases, including respiratory viruses such as SARS-CoV-2 and influenza, HIV, hepatitis, and tropical diseases such as malaria and dengue fever; molecular point-of-care testing for HIV, including the m-PIMA® HIV-1/2 Viral Load Test, and for SARS-CoV-2 and influenza A & B, RSV and strep A, including the ID NOW® rapid molecular system; cardiometabolic testing, including Afinion® and Cholestech™ platforms and tests; a toxicology business for drug and alcohol testing; and remote patient monitoring and consumer self-testing; and
- informatics and automation solutions for use in laboratories, including laboratory automation systems, the RALS® point of care solution, and AlinIQ®, a suite of informatics tools and professional services.

The Diagnostic Products segment's products are subject to competition in technological innovation, price, convenience of use, service, instrument warranty provisions, product performance, laboratory efficiency, long-term supply contracts, and product potential for overall cost-effectiveness and productivity gains. Some products in this segment can be subject to rapid product obsolescence or regulatory changes. Although Abbott has benefited from technological advantages of certain of its current products, these advantages may be reduced or eliminated as competitors introduce new products.

Nutritional Products

These products include a broad line of pediatric and adult nutritional products manufactured, marketed, and sold worldwide. These products are generally marketed and sold directly to consumers and to institutions, wholesalers, retailers, health care facilities, government agencies, and third-party distributors from Abbott-owned distribution centers or third-party distributors.

The principal products included in the Nutritional Products segment are:

- various forms of prepared infant formula and follow-on formula, including Similac®, Similac Pro-Advance®, Similac® Advance®, Similac® Advance® Non-GMO, Similac Pro-Sensitive®, Similac Sensitive®, Similac Sensitive® Non-GMO, Go&Grow by Similac®, Similac® NeoSure®, Similac® Organic, Similac® Special Care®, Similac Total Comfort®*, Similac® For Supplementation, Isomil® Advance®, Isomil®, Alimentum®, Gain™, Grow™, Similac En Mei Li™, and Eleva™;
- adult and other pediatric nutritional products, including Ensure®, Ensure Plus®, Ensure® Enlive®, Ensure® (with NutriVigor®), Ensure® Max Protein, Ensure® High Protein, Glucerna®, Glucerna Hunger Smart®, ProSure™, PediaSure®, PediaSure SideKicks®, PediaSure® Peptide, EleCare®, Juven®, Abound™, Pedialyte® and Zone Perfect®; and

- nutritional products used in enteral feeding in health care institutions, including Jevity®, Glucerna® 1.2 Cal, Glucerna® 1.5 Cal, Osmolite®, Oxepa®, Freego™ (Enteral Pump) and Freego™ sets, Nepro®, and Vital®.

* These products are available with 2'-FL HMO (Human Milk Oligosaccharide) in several markets.

Primary marketing efforts for nutritional products are directed toward consumers or to securing the recommendation of Abbott's brand of products by physicians or other health care professionals. In addition, certain nutritional products sold as Similac®, Gain™, Grow™, Eleva™, PediaSure®, PediaSure SideKicks®, Pedialyte®, Ensure®, Zone Perfect®, and Glucerna® are also promoted directly to the public by consumer marketing efforts in select markets where appropriate.

Competition for nutritional products in the segment is generally from other diversified consumer and health care manufacturers. Competitive factors include consumer advertising, formulation, packaging, scientific innovation, price, retail distribution, and availability of product forms. A significant aspect of competition is the search for ingredient innovations. The introduction of new products by competitors, changes in medical practices and procedures, and regulatory changes can result in product obsolescence. In addition, private label and local manufacturers' products may increase competitive pressure.

Medical Devices

These products include a broad line of rhythm management, electrophysiology, heart failure, vascular and structural heart devices for the treatment of cardiovascular diseases, and diabetes care products for people with diabetes, as well as neuromodulation devices for the management of chronic pain and movement disorders. Medical devices are manufactured, marketed and sold worldwide. In the United States, depending upon the product, medical devices are generally marketed and sold directly to wholesalers, hospitals, ambulatory surgery centers, physicians' offices, and distributors from Abbott-owned distribution centers and public warehouses. Outside the United States, sales are made either directly to customers or through distributors, depending on the market served.

The principal products included in the Medical Devices segment are:

- rhythm management products, including Assurity MRI® and Endurity MRI® pacemaker systems; Ellipse®, Fortify Assura®, and Gallant™ implantable cardioverter defibrillators and Gallant and Quadra Assura MP® implantable cardioverter defibrillator with cardiac resynchronization therapy and MultiPoint® Pacing technology; and Confirm Rx® implantable cardiac monitor;
- electrophysiology products, including the TactiCath® family of ablation catheters and FlexAbility® irrigated ablation catheters; Ampere® RF ablation generator; EnSite® family of cardiac mapping systems; and the Advisor® HD Grid mapping catheter;
- heart failure related products, including the HeartMate™ left ventricular device family and the CardioMEMS® HF System pulmonary artery sensor, a heart failure monitoring system;
- vascular products, including the XIENCE™ family of drug-eluting coronary stent systems developed on the Multi-Link Vision® platform; StarClose SE® and Perclose ProGlide® vessel closure devices, TREK® coronary balloon dilatation products, Hi-Torque Balance Middleweight Universal II® guidewires, Supera® Peripheral Stent System, a peripheral vascular stent system; Acculink®/Accunet® and Xact®/Emboshield NAV6®, carotid stent systems; and the OPTIS® integrated system with the Dragonfly OPTIS® imaging catheter and PressureWire® fractional flow reserve measurement systems;
- structural heart products, including MitraClip®, a percutaneous mitral valve repair system; Trifecta® Valve with Glide™ Technology, a surgical tissue heart valve; Portico® transcatheter aortic heart valve; Regent™ mechanical heart valve; Amplatzer® PFO occluders; Amplatzer Amulet® occluder devices; the Tendyne® Transcatheter Mitral Valve Implantation (TMVI) system; and the TriClip® Transcatheter Tricuspid Valve Repair System;
- continuous glucose and blood glucose monitoring systems, including test strips, sensors, data management decision software, and accessories for people with diabetes, under the FreeStyle® brand such as the FreeStyle Libre® system; and

- neuromodulation products, including spinal cord stimulators Proclaim® Elite and Proclaim® XR Recharge-free implantable pulse generators (IPG) and Prodigy MRI® IPG, each with BurstDR® stimulation, and Proclaim® DRG IPG, a neurostimulation device designed for dorsal root ganglion therapy, for the treatment of chronic pain disorders; and the Infinity® Deep Brain Stimulation System with directional lead technology for the treatment of movement disorders.

These products are subject to competition in technological innovation, price, convenience of use, service, product performance, long-term supply contracts, and product potential for overall cost-effectiveness and productivity gains. Some products in this segment can be subject to rapid product obsolescence or regulatory changes. Although Abbott has benefited from technological advantages of certain of its current products, these advantages may be reduced or eliminated as competitors introduce new products.

INFORMATION WITH RESPECT TO ABBOTT'S BUSINESS IN GENERAL

Sources and Availability of Raw Materials

Abbott purchases, in the ordinary course of business, raw materials and supplies essential to Abbott's operations from numerous suppliers in the United States and around the world. There have been no recent significant availability problems or supply shortages for raw materials or supplies.

Patents, Trademarks, and Licenses

Abbott is aware of the desirability for patent and trademark protection for its products. Accordingly, where possible, patents and trademarks are sought and obtained for Abbott's products in the United States and countries of interest to Abbott. Abbott owns or has licenses under a substantial number of patents and patent applications. Principal trademarks and the products they cover are discussed in the Narrative Description of Business on pages 1 through 4. These, and various patents which expire during the period 2021 to 2041, in the aggregate, are believed to be of material importance in the operation of Abbott's business. Abbott believes that no single patent, license, or trademark is material in relation to Abbott's business as a whole.

Seasonal Aspects, Customers, and Renegotiation

There are no significant seasonal aspects to Abbott's business. Abbott has no single customer that, if the customer were lost, would have a material adverse effect on Abbott. No material portion of Abbott's business is subject to renegotiation of profits or termination of contracts at the election of a government.

Environmental Matters

Abbott believes that its operations comply in all material respects with applicable laws and regulations concerning environmental protection. Regulations under federal and state environmental laws impose stringent limitations on emissions and discharges to the environment from various manufacturing operations. Abbott's capital and operating expenditures for pollution control in 2020 were not material and are not expected to be material in 2021.

Abbott has been identified as one of many potentially responsible parties in investigations and/or remediations at several locations in the United States, including Puerto Rico, under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act, commonly known as Superfund. Abbott is also engaged in remediation at several other sites, some of which are owned by Abbott, in cooperation with the Environmental Protection Agency or similar agencies. While it is not feasible to predict with certainty the final costs related to those investigations and remediation activities, Abbott believes that such costs, together with other expenditures to maintain compliance with applicable laws and regulations concerning environmental protection, should not have a material adverse effect on Abbott's financial position, cash flows, or results of operations.

Human Capital

The sustainability of Abbott's business depends on attracting, engaging and developing talented people with diverse backgrounds who share Abbott's mission to help people live their healthiest possible lives. Abbott provides its employees opportunities to grow and develop their careers, market competitive compensation and benefit programs, and the satisfaction of being part of a global company dedicated to improving health in more than 160 countries.

As of December 31, 2020, Abbott employed approximately 109,000 people, 70% of whom were employed outside of the U.S. Women represented 47% of Abbott's U.S. workforce, 45% of its global workforce, and 39% of its managers.

Health and Safety

The health, safety and wellness of its employees is an Abbott priority embedded at every level of its business. Abbott's integrated Environmental, Health and Safety organization governs health, safety and wellness at Abbott's facilities. Abbott also maintains global policies and standards for managing employee health and safety.

Abbott takes a holistic approach to employee well-being. Abbott's global wellness programs are designed to meet the unique needs of employees across businesses and geographies and offer a wide range of programs, including supporting the mental, financial and physical health of employees and their families. For example, for over 20 years, Abbott has annually offered Exercise Across Abbott, which is a four-week physical wellness program that encourages employees to team up with colleagues and track how many minutes they exercise each day. Over 22,000 Abbott employees across 72 countries took part in 2020.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, Abbott has taken aggressive steps to limit exposure and enhance the safety of facilities for its employees, including implementing mandatory temperature screening and social distancing, providing and requiring the use of personal protective equipment, and at most U.S. facilities, onsite COVID-19 testing.

Talent Management

Abbott has an integrated global talent management process that is designed to identify and assess talent across the organization and provide equal and consistent opportunities for employees to develop their skills. All levels of employees participate in Abbott's annual performance management process to create development plans that support their particular career objectives, and Abbott provides a broad range of training, mentoring and other development opportunities to help its employees meet these objectives. The board of directors conducts an annual Talent Management Review, focusing on development of talent, diversity, and succession planning for critical positions. Similar reviews take place at every level of Abbott to develop talent and diversity across the organization.

Diversity and Inclusion

Abbott is committed to developing a workplace that is inclusive for all. Abbott ties executive compensation to human capital management, including diversity outcomes, to sustain an inclusive culture and the fair and balanced treatment of Abbott's employees.

Abbott's employee networks play an important role in building an inclusive culture across all Abbott operations. A member of Abbott's senior management serves as a sponsor for each of these networks, helping to align their objectives with Abbott's business strategies. Abbott has ten such networks, which are: Advancing Professionals Network (supporting early career employees), Asian Leadership and Cultural Network, Black Business Network, Flex Network (employees with part-time and flexible schedules), LA VOICE Network (supporting Hispanic and Latino employees), People with Disabilities Network, PRIDE (supporting LGBTQ employees), Veterans Network, Women Leaders of Abbott, and Women in STEM.

Abbott offers professional development programs, which provide recent college graduates the opportunity to rotate through different areas of Abbott, often with the chance to work outside their home country. In 2020, 52% of the participants were women. Also, Abbott hosts hundreds of college students for paid internships. In 2020, 55% of the U.S. interns were women and 39% were minorities. Further, Abbott has operated a STEM internship program for high school students in the U.S. since 2012. The program's objective is to increase the number of students pursuing STEM-related careers and contribute to a more diverse talent pipeline for Abbott. In 2020, 58% of the STEM interns were women and 71% were minorities.

Compensation and Benefits

Abbott is committed to building, retaining, and motivating a diverse talent pipeline that can meet the current and future needs of its businesses. To that end, Abbott provides market competitive compensation, healthcare benefits, pension and/or retirement savings plans, and several programs to facilitate employees building an ownership stake in Abbott, including a global long-term incentive program for employees generally beginning at the manager level. Abbott also has procedures and processes focused on providing employees equitable compensation, regardless of race or gender or other personal characteristics.

Regulation

The development, manufacture, marketing, sale, promotion, and distribution of Abbott's products are subject to comprehensive government regulation by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and similar international regulatory agencies. Government regulation by various international, supranational, federal and state agencies addresses (among other matters) the development and approval to market Abbott's products, as well as the inspection of, and controls over, research and laboratory procedures, clinical investigations, product approvals and manufacturing, labeling, packaging, supply chains, marketing and promotion, pricing and reimbursement, sampling, distribution, quality control, post-market surveillance, record keeping, storage, and disposal practices. In addition, Abbott's clinical laboratories and associated testing services are subject to comprehensive government regulation, including registration, certification, and licensure, by federal, state, and local agencies, such as the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, and their respective foreign counterparts. Certain of these agencies require our clinical laboratories to meet quality assurance, quality control, and personnel standards and undergo inspections.

During the COVID-19 public health emergency, many pandemic-related products (including diagnostic tests) were authorized by regulators for emergency use solely during the pandemic. In addition, many governments enacted policies to expedite or promote access to health care in order to slow or stop the spread of the virus. Examples include expansion of telehealth coverages and increased reimbursements for diagnostic testing. It is uncertain when the public health emergency will end and to what extent these policies will continue or revert back to previous policies.

Abbott's international operations are also affected by trade and investment regulations in many countries. These may require local investment, restrict Abbott's investments, or limit the import of raw materials and finished products.

Abbott's laboratory facilities and home monitoring services, which provide services, related products and medical devices to consumers, are subject to additional laws and regulations applicable to health care providers and suppliers that submit claims for reimbursement to third-party payors. In the United States, Medicare, Medicaid, and other third-party payors may from time to time conduct inquiries, claims audits, investigations, and enforcement actions relating to the claims or enrollment criteria.

Abbott is subject to laws and regulations pertaining to health care fraud and abuse, including state and federal anti-kickback, anti-self-referral, and false claims laws in the United States. Prescription drug, nutrition, and medical device manufacturers such as Abbott are also subject to taxes, as well as application, product, user, establishment, and other fees. Governmental agencies can also invalidate intellectual property rights.

Compliance with these laws and regulations is costly and materially affects Abbott's business. Among other effects, health care regulations and significant changes thereto (such as the introduction of the Medical Device Regulation and the In Vitro Diagnostic Medical Device Regulation in the European Union) substantially increase the time, difficulty, and costs incurred in developing, obtaining and maintaining approval to market, and marketing newly developed and existing products. Abbott expects this regulatory environment will continue to require significant technical expertise and investment to ensure compliance. Failure to comply can delay the release of a new product or result in regulatory and enforcement actions, the seizure or recall of a product, the suspension or revocation of the authority necessary for a product's production and sale, suspension or revocation of billing privileges, and other civil or criminal sanctions, including fines and penalties. Similarly, compliance with the laws and regulations governing clinical laboratories and testing services requires specialized expertise. Failure to comply with these regulatory requirements can result in sanctions, including suspension, revocation, or limitation of a laboratory's certification, which is necessary to conduct business, as well as significant fines or criminal penalties.

Abbott's business can also be affected by ongoing studies of the utilization, safety, efficacy, and outcomes of health care products and their components that are regularly conducted by industry participants, government agencies, and others. These studies can call into question the utilization, safety, and efficacy of previously marketed products. In some cases, these studies have resulted, and may in the future result, in the discontinuation of marketing of such products in one or more countries, and may give rise to claims for damages from persons who believe they have been injured as a result of their use.

Access to human health care products continues to be a subject of investigation and action by governmental agencies, legislative bodies, and private organizations in many countries. A major focus is cost containment. Efforts to reduce health care costs are also being made in the private sector, notably by health care payors and providers, which have instituted various cost reduction and containment measures. Abbott expects insurers and providers will continue attempts to reduce the cost or utilization of health care products. Many countries control the price of health care products directly or indirectly, through reimbursement, payment, pricing, or coverage limitations. Budgetary pressures on health care payors may also heighten the scope and severity of pricing pressures on Abbott's products for the foreseeable future. In the United States, the federal government regularly evaluates reimbursement for medical devices, diagnostics, supplies, and other products, as well as the procedures in which these products may be used. The government follows a diagnosis-related group (DRG) payment system for certain institutional services provided under Medicare or Medicaid and has implemented a prospective payment system (PPS) for services delivered in hospital outpatient, nursing home, and home health settings. DRG and PPS entitle a health care facility to a fixed reimbursement based on the diagnosis and/or procedure rather than actual costs incurred in patient treatment, thereby increasing the incentive for the facility to limit or control expenditures for many health care products. Other payment methodology changes have been proposed and implemented from time to time. For example, Medicare implemented a competitive bidding system for certain durable medical equipment (including diabetes products), enteral nutrition products, and supplies. Additionally, the Protecting Access to Medicare Act established a new payment system for clinical laboratory tests in 2018.

The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (the Affordable Care Act) includes provisions known as the Physician Payments Sunshine Act, which requires manufacturers of drugs, devices, and medical supplies covered under Medicare and Medicaid to record any transfers of value to physicians and teaching hospitals and to report this data to the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services for subsequent public disclosure. In October 2018, the Substance Use Disorder Prevention that Promotes Opioid Recovery and Treatment for Patients and Communities Act significantly expanded the types of healthcare providers for which reporting is required, beginning with reports filed in 2022. Similar reporting requirements have also been enacted on the state level domestically, and an increasing number of governments worldwide either have adopted or are considering similar laws requiring transparency of interactions with health care professionals. Failure to report appropriate data may result in civil or criminal fines and/or penalties.

Policy changes or implementation of new health care legislation could result in significant changes to health care systems. In the United States, this could include potential modification, including expansion or repeal of all or parts of the Affordable Care Act.

The regulation of data privacy and security, and the protection of the confidentiality of certain personal information (including patient health information, financial information and other sensitive personal information), is increasing. For example, the European Union, various other countries, and various U.S. states (e.g., California) have enacted stricter data protection laws that contain enhanced financial penalties for noncompliance. Similarly, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has issued rules governing the use, disclosure, and security of protected health information, and the FDA has issued further guidance concerning cybersecurity for medical devices. In addition, certain countries have issued or are considering "data localization" laws, which limit companies' ability to transfer protected data across country borders. Failure to comply with data privacy and security laws and regulations can result in business disruption and enforcement actions, which could include civil or criminal penalties. Transferring and managing protected information will become more challenging as laws and regulations are enacted or amended, and Abbott expects there will be increasing complexity in this area.

Governmental cost containment efforts also affect Abbott's nutritional products business. In the United States, for example, under regulations governing the federally funded Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children, all states must have a cost containment program for infant formula. As a result, through competitive bidding states obtain rebates from manufacturers of infant formula whose products are used in the program.

Abbott expects debate to continue at all government levels worldwide over the manufacture, quality assurance requirements, marketing authorization processes, post-market surveillance requirements, availability, method of delivery, and payment for health care products and services, as well as data privacy and security. Abbott believes that future legislation and regulation in the markets it serves could affect the timing and expense associated with bringing health care products or services to market, access to health care products and services, increase rebates, reduce prices or reimbursements or the rate of price increases for health care products and services, change health care delivery systems, create new fees and obligations for the pharmaceutical, nutrition, diagnostic, and medical device industries, or require additional reporting and disclosure. It is not possible to predict the extent to which Abbott or the health care industry in general might be affected by the matters discussed above.

ITEM 1A. RISK FACTORS

In addition to the other information in this report, the following risk factors should be considered before deciding to invest in any of Abbott's securities. Additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to Abbott, or risks Abbott currently considers immaterial, could also affect Abbott's actual results. Abbott's business, financial condition, results of operations, or prospects could be materially adversely affected by any of these risks.

Business and Operational Risks

Abbott may acquire other businesses, license rights to technologies or products, form alliances, or dispose of or spin-off businesses, which could cause it to incur significant expenses and could negatively affect profitability.

Abbott may pursue acquisitions, licensing arrangements, and strategic alliances, or dispose of or spin-off some of its businesses, as part of its business strategy. Abbott may not complete these transactions in a timely manner, on a cost-effective basis, or at all, and may not realize the expected benefits. If Abbott is successful in making an acquisition, the products and technologies that are acquired may not be successful or may require significantly greater resources and investments than originally anticipated. Abbott may not be able to integrate acquisitions successfully into its existing business or transition disposed businesses efficiently, and could incur or assume significant debt and unknown or contingent liabilities. Abbott could also experience negative effects on its reported results of operations from acquisition or disposition-related charges, amortization of expenses related to intangibles and charges for impairment of long-term assets. These effects could cause a deterioration of Abbott's credit rating, result in increased borrowing costs and interest expense, and decrease liquidity.

Abbott depends on sophisticated information technology systems and maintains protected personal data, and a cyber attack or other breach affecting these information technology systems or protected data could have a material adverse effect on Abbott's results of operations.

Similar to other large multi-national companies, the size and complexity of the information technology systems on which Abbott relies for both its infrastructure and products makes them susceptible to a cyber attack, malicious intrusion, breakdown, destruction, loss of data privacy, or other significant disruption. These systems have been and are expected to continue to be the target of malware and other cyber attacks. In addition, third party hacking attempts may cause Abbott's information technology systems and related products, protected data, or proprietary information to be compromised or stolen. A significant attack or other disruption could result in adverse consequences, including increased costs and expenses, manufacturing challenges or disruption, problems with product functionality, damage to customer relations, lost revenue, and legal or regulatory penalties.

Abbott also collects, manages and processes protected personal data, including protected health information, in connection with certain medical products and service offerings. Abbott is subject to certain regional and local data protection laws that prohibit or restrict the transfer of protected data across country borders. For additional information concerning data privacy and security regulation, see the discussion in "Regulation" under Item 1. "Business." A breach of protected personal information could result in adverse consequences, including regulatory inquiries or litigation, increased costs and expenses, reputational damage, lost revenue, and fines or penalties.

Abbott invests in its systems and technology and in the protection of its products and data to reduce the risk of an attack or other significant disruption, and monitors its systems on an ongoing basis for any current or potential threats and for changes in technology and the regulatory environment. There can be no assurance that these measures and efforts will prevent future attacks or other significant disruptions to any of the systems on which Abbott relies or that related product issues will not arise in the future. Similarly, there can be no assurance that third party information technology providers with whom Abbott contracts will not suffer a significant attack or disruption that impacts customers like Abbott. Any significant breach, attack or other disruption involving Abbott's systems or products could have a material adverse effect on Abbott's business.

Abbott's research and development efforts may not succeed in developing commercially successful products and technologies, which may cause Abbott's revenue and profitability to decline.

To remain competitive, Abbott must continue to launch new products and technologies. To accomplish this, Abbott commits substantial efforts, funds, and other resources to research and development. A risk of failure is inherent in the research and development of new products and technologies. Abbott must make ongoing substantial expenditures without any assurance that its efforts will be commercially successful. Failure can occur at any point in the process, including after significant funds have been invested.

Promising new products and technologies may fail to reach the market or may only have limited commercial success because of efficacy or safety concerns, failure to achieve positive clinical outcomes, inability to obtain necessary regulatory approvals, limited scope of approved uses, excessive costs to manufacture, failure to establish or maintain intellectual property rights, or infringement of the intellectual property rights of others. Even if Abbott successfully develops new products or enhancements or new generations of Abbott's existing products, they may be quickly rendered obsolete by changing customer preferences, changing industry or regulatory standards, or competitors' innovations. Innovations may not be accepted quickly in the marketplace because of, among other things, entrenched patterns of clinical practice or uncertainty over third-party reimbursement. Abbott cannot state with certainty when or whether any of its products under development will be launched, whether it will be able to develop, license, or otherwise acquire compounds or products, or whether any products will be commercially successful. Failure to launch successful new products or technologies, or new indications or uses for existing products, may cause Abbott's products or technologies to become obsolete, causing Abbott's revenues and operating results to suffer.

The manufacture of many of Abbott's products is a highly exacting and complex process, and if Abbott or one of its suppliers encounters problems manufacturing products, Abbott's business could suffer.

The manufacture of many of Abbott's products is a highly exacting and complex process, due in part to strict regulatory requirements. Problems may arise during manufacturing for a variety of reasons, including equipment malfunction, failure to follow specific protocols and procedures, problems with raw materials, natural disasters, and environmental factors. In addition, single suppliers are currently used for certain products and materials. If problems arise during the production of a lot or batch of product, those products may have to be discarded. If problems are not discovered before the product is released to the market, recall and product liability costs may also be incurred. Any of these events could, among other things, lead to increased costs, lost revenue, damage to customer relations, time and expense spent investigating the cause and, depending on the cause, similar losses with respect to other lots, batches or products. To the extent Abbott or one of its suppliers experiences significant manufacturing problems, this could have a material adverse effect on Abbott's revenues and profitability.

Abbott has significant indebtedness, which could adversely affect its business, including decreasing its business flexibility.

As of December 31, 2020, Abbott's consolidated indebtedness was approximately $18.7 billion. This consolidated indebtedness could have the effect, among other things, of reducing Abbott's flexibility to respond to changing business and economic conditions, and reducing funds available for working capital, capital expenditures, acquisitions, and other general corporate purposes.

Further, Abbott may be required to raise additional financing for working capital, capital expenditures, future acquisitions or other general corporate purposes. Abbott's ability to arrange additional financing or refinancing will depend on, among other factors, Abbott's financial position and performance, as well as prevailing market conditions and other factors beyond Abbott's control. Consequently, Abbott cannot assure that it will be able to obtain additional financing or refinancing on terms acceptable to Abbott or at all, which could adversely impact Abbott's ability to make scheduled payments with respect to its consolidated indebtedness and its profitability and financial condition.

Additionally, further borrowing could cause a deterioration of Abbott's credit ratings. Abbott's credit ratings reflect each credit rating agency's then opinion of Abbott's financial strength, operating performance, and ability to meet its debt obligations. Adverse changes in Abbott's credit ratings may result in increased borrowing costs for future long-term debt or short-term borrowing facilities and may limit financing options, including access to the unsecured borrowing market. Abbott may also be subject to additional restrictive covenants that would reduce flexibility.

Legal and Regulatory Risks

Abbott is subject to numerous governmental regulations and it can be costly to comply with these regulations and to develop compliant products and processes.

Abbott's products are subject to rigorous regulation by the FDA and numerous international, supranational, federal, and state authorities. The process of obtaining regulatory approvals to market a drug, medical device, or diagnostic product can be costly and time-consuming, and approvals might not be granted for future products, or additional indications or uses of existing products, on a timely basis, if at all. Delays in the receipt of, or failure to obtain, approvals for future products, or new indications and uses, could result in delayed realization of product revenues, reduction in revenues, and substantial additional costs.

In addition, no assurance can be given that Abbott will remain in compliance with applicable FDA and other regulatory requirements once approval or marketing authorization has been obtained for a product. These requirements include, among other things, regulations regarding manufacturing practices, product labeling, and advertising and postmarketing reporting, including adverse event reports and field alerts. Many of Abbott's facilities and procedures and those of Abbott's suppliers are subject to ongoing regulation, including periodic inspection by the FDA and other regulatory authorities. Abbott must incur expense and spend time and effort to ensure compliance with these complex regulations. Possible regulatory actions for non-compliance could include warning letters, fines, damages, injunctions, civil penalties, recalls, seizures of Abbott's products, and criminal prosecution.

These actions could result in, among other things, substantial modifications to Abbott's business practices and operations; refunds, recalls, or seizures of Abbott's products; a total or partial shutdown of production in one or more facilities while Abbott or Abbott's suppliers remedy the alleged violation; the inability to obtain future pre-market approvals or marketing authorizations; and withdrawals or suspensions of current products from the market. Any of these events could disrupt Abbott's business and have a material adverse effect on Abbott's revenues, profitability and financial condition.

Laws and regulations affecting government benefit programs could impose new obligations on Abbott, require Abbott to change its business practices, and restrict its operations in the future.

Abbott's industry is subject to various international, supranational, federal, and state laws and regulations pertaining to government benefit program reimbursement, price reporting and regulation, and health care fraud and abuse, including anti-kickback and false claims laws, and international and individual state laws relating to pricing and sales and marketing practices. Violations of these laws may be punishable by criminal and/or civil sanctions, including, in some instances, substantial fines, imprisonment, and exclusion from participation in government health care programs, including Medicare, Medicaid, and Veterans Administration health programs in the U.S. These laws and regulations are broad in scope and they are subject to evolving interpretations, which could require Abbott to incur substantial costs associated with compliance or to alter one or more of its sales or marketing practices. In addition, violations of these laws, or allegations of such violations, could disrupt Abbott's business and result in a material adverse effect on Abbott's revenues, profitability, and financial condition.

Changes in the health care regulatory environment may adversely affect Abbott's business.

Both in the U.S. and internationally, government authorities may enact changes in regulatory requirements, make legislative or administrative reforms to existing reimbursement programs, make adverse decisions relating to Abbott's products' coverage or reimbursement, or make changes to patient access to health care, all of which could adversely impact the demand for and usage of Abbott's products or the prices that Abbott's customers are willing to pay for them.

Further, in the U.S., a number of the provisions of the Affordable Care Act and the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act of 2010 address access to health care products and services. These provisions may be modified, expanded, repealed, or otherwise invalidated, in whole or in part. Future rulemaking could affect rebates, prices or the rate of price increases for health care products and services, or required reporting and disclosure. Abbott cannot predict the timing or impact of any future rulemaking or changes in the law.

For additional information concerning health care regulation, see the discussion in "Regulation" under Item 1, "Business."

The expiration or loss of patent protection and licenses may affect Abbott's future revenues and operating income.

Many of Abbott's businesses rely on patent and trademark and other intellectual property protection. Although most of the challenges to Abbott's intellectual property have come from other companies, governments may also challenge intellectual property protections. To the extent Abbott's intellectual property is successfully challenged, invalidated, or circumvented or to the extent it does not allow Abbott to compete effectively, Abbott's businesses could suffer. To the extent that countries do not enforce Abbott's intellectual property rights, Abbott's future revenues and operating income could be reduced. Any material litigation regarding Abbott's patents and trademarks is described in the section captioned "Legal Proceedings."

Significant safety concerns could arise for Abbott's products, which could have a material adverse effect on Abbott's revenues and financial condition.

Health care products typically receive regulatory approval based on data obtained in controlled clinical trials of limited duration. Following regulatory approval, these products will be used over longer periods of time in many patients. Investigators may also conduct additional, and perhaps more extensive, studies. If new safety issues are reported, Abbott may be required to amend the conditions of use for a product. For example, Abbott may be required to provide additional warnings on a product's label or narrow its approved intended use, either of which could reduce the product's market acceptance. If serious safety issues arise with an Abbott product, sales of the product could be halted by Abbott or by regulatory authorities. Safety issues affecting suppliers' or competitors' products also may reduce the market acceptance of Abbott's products.

In addition, in the ordinary course of business, Abbott is the subject of product liability claims and lawsuits alleging that its products or the products of other companies that Abbott promotes have resulted or could result in an unsafe condition for, or injury to, patients. Product liability claims and lawsuits, safety alerts or product recalls, and other allegations of product safety or quality issues, regardless of their validity or ultimate outcome, may have a material adverse effect on Abbott's business and reputation and on Abbott's ability to attract and retain customers. Consequences may also include additional costs, a decrease in market share for the products, lower income or exposure to other claims. Product liability losses are self-insured. Product liability claims could have a material adverse effect on Abbott's profitability and financial condition.

Economic and Industry Risks

Abbott is subject to risks related to public health crises, such as widespread outbreaks of infectious diseases like the COVID-19 pandemic.

As a global healthcare company, public health crises, such as the widespread outbreaks of infectious diseases like the COVID-19 pandemic, may negatively impact Abbott's operations. Health concerns and significant changes in political or economic conditions caused by such outbreaks can cause significant reductions in demand for routine diagnostic testing and medical device procedures or increased difficulty in serving customers, disrupt manufacturing and supply chains, and negatively affect our operations as well as the operations of our suppliers, distributors and other third-party partners. Furthermore, such widespread outbreaks may impact the broader economies of affected countries, including negatively impacting economic growth, the proper functioning of financial and capital markets, foreign currency exchange rates, and interest rates.

With regard to the COVID-19 pandemic, the FDA issued Emergency Use Authorizations (EUAs) for several COVID-19 related products in 2020, including Abbott diagnostic tests. EUAs are authorized for the duration of the COVID-19 public health emergency unless sooner terminated or revoked. Abbott is actively pursuing the FDA's customary regulatory approval process for these diagnostic tests which has uncertainty as discussed in "Abbott is subject to numerous governmental regulations and it can be costly to comply with these regulations and to develop compliant products and processes." in "Legal and Regulatory Risks" under "Item 1A. Risk Factors."

Due to the unpredictability of the duration and impact of the current COVID-19 pandemic, the extent to which the COVID-19 pandemic will have a material effect on Abbott's business, financial condition or results of operations is uncertain. A more detailed discussion on the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on Abbott's business is contained in the "Financial Review" section in Item 7. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations of this report.

Abbott is subject to cost containment efforts that could cause a reduction in future revenues and operating income.

In the United States and other countries, Abbott's businesses have experienced downward pressure on product pricing. Cost containment efforts by governments and private organizations are described in greater detail in the section captioned "Regulation." To the extent these cost containment efforts are not offset by greater patient access to health care or other factors, Abbott's future revenues and operating income will be reduced.

Competitors' intellectual property may prevent Abbott from selling its products or have a material adverse effect on Abbott's future profitability and financial condition.

Competitors may claim that an Abbott product infringes their intellectual property. Resolving an intellectual property infringement claim can be costly and time consuming and may require Abbott to enter into license agreements. Abbott cannot guarantee that it would be able to obtain license agreements on commercially reasonable terms. A successful claim of patent or other intellectual property infringement could subject Abbott to significant damages or an injunction preventing the manufacture, sale or use of affected Abbott products. Any of these events could have a material adverse effect on Abbott's profitability and financial condition.

New products and technological advances by Abbott's competitors may negatively affect Abbott's results of operations.

Abbott's products face intense competition from competitive products. Competitors' products may be safer, more effective, more effectively marketed or sold, or have lower prices or superior performance features than Abbott's products. Abbott cannot predict with certainty the timing or impact of the introduction of competitors' products.

Fluctuation in foreign currency exchange rates may adversely affect our financial statements and Abbott's ability to realize projected sales and earnings.

Although Abbott's financial statements are denominated in U.S. dollars, a significant portion of Abbott's revenues and costs are realized in other currencies. Sales outside of the United States in 2020 made up approximately 62 percent of Abbott's net sales. Abbott's profitability is affected by movement of the U.S. dollar against other currencies. Fluctuations in exchange rates between the U.S. dollar and other currencies may also affect the reported value of Abbott's assets and liabilities, as well as its cash flows. Some foreign currencies are subject to government exchange controls. While Abbott enters into hedging arrangements to mitigate some of its foreign currency exposure, Abbott cannot predict with any certainty changes in foreign currency exchange rates or its ability to mitigate these risks.

Information on the impact of foreign exchange rates on Abbott's financial results is contained in the "Financial Review — Results of Operations" section in Item 7, Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations of this report. A discussion of the steps taken to mitigate the impact of foreign exchange is contained in Item 7A, Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures about Market Risk in Abbott's 2020 Form 10-K. Information on Abbott's hedging arrangements is contained in Note 12 to the consolidated financial statements in this report.

Deterioration in the economic condition and credit quality of certain countries may negatively affect Abbott's results of operations.

Unfavorable economic conditions in certain countries may increase the time it takes to collect outstanding trade receivables. Financial instability and fiscal deficits in these countries may result in additional austerity measures to reduce costs, including health care. Deterioration in the quality of sovereign debt, including credit downgrades, could increase Abbott's collection risk where a significant amount of Abbott's receivables in these countries are with governmental health care systems or where Abbott's customers depend on payment by government health care systems.

The international nature of Abbott's business subjects it to additional business risks that may cause its revenue and profitability to decline.

Abbott's business is subject to risks associated with managing a global supply chain and doing business internationally. Sales outside of the United States in 2020 made up approximately 62 percent of Abbott's net sales. Additional risks associated with Abbott's international operations include:

- differing local product preferences and product requirements;

- trade protection measures, including tariffs, import or export licensing requirements, and changes to international trade agreements;
- difficulty in establishing, staffing, and managing operations;
- differing labor regulations;
- potentially negative consequences from changes in or interpretations of tax laws;
- political and economic instability, including sovereign debt issues;
- restrictions on local currency conversion and/or cash extraction;
- price controls, limitations on participation in local enterprises, expropriation, nationalization, and other governmental action;
- inflation, recession, and fluctuations in interest rates;
- diminished protection of intellectual property; and
- potential penalties or other adverse consequences for violations of anti-corruption, anti-bribery, and other similar laws and regulations, including the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and the U.K. Bribery Act.

Events contemplated by these risks may, individually or in the aggregate, have a material adverse effect on Abbott's revenues and profitability.

Other factors can have a material adverse effect on Abbott's future profitability and financial condition.

Many other factors can affect Abbott's profitability and its financial condition, including:

- changes in or interpretations of laws and regulations, including changes in accounting standards, taxation requirements, product marketing application standards, product labeling standards, source and use laws, and environmental laws;
- differences between the fair value measurement of assets and liabilities and their actual value, particularly for pensions, retiree health care, stock compensation, intangibles, goodwill, and contingent consideration; and for contingent liabilities such as litigation, the absence of a recorded amount, or an amount recorded at the minimum, compared to the actual amount;
- changes in the rate of inflation (including the cost of raw materials, commodities, and supplies), interest rates, market value of Abbott's equity investments, and the performance of investments held by Abbott or Abbott's employee benefit trusts;
- changes in the creditworthiness of counterparties that transact business with or provide services to Abbott or Abbott's employee benefit trusts;
- changes in business, economic, and political conditions, including: war, political instability, terrorist attacks, the threat of future terrorist activity and related military action; global climate, extreme weather and natural disasters; the cost and availability of insurance due to any of the foregoing events; labor disputes, strikes, slow-downs, or other forms of labor or union activity; and pressure from third-party interest groups;

SUMMARY ORDER

NOW, on this 4th day of November, 2022, comes before the Kansas Board of Pharmacy (the "Board"), through its Executive Secretary, the matter of Ethicon, Inc. ("Applicant"), for application for registration as a manufacturer in the state of Kansas.

Pursuant to the authority granted to the Board by the Kansas Pharmacy Act, K.S.A. 65-1625, et seq., and in accordance with the provisions of the Kansas Administrative Procedure Act, K.S.A. 77-501, et seq., the Board enters this Summary Order in the above-captioned matter. After reviewing the application materials and being otherwise duly advised in the premises, the Board makes the following findings, conclusions, and order:

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. On October 14, 2022, the Board received Applicant's application for registration as a manufacturer in the State of Kansas ("Applicant's Application").

2. On Applicant's Non-Resident Supplemental S-350 form, Applicant answered "No" to the following question: "Has the facility listed on the application shipped drugs and/or devices into Kansas in the previous 12 months." The form directs that if the applicant answered "yes," the applicant should provide the specific drugs and/or devices sent in, the dates of shipment, and the locations they were sent in Kansas." However, Applicant indicated "See Attachment G."

3. In conjunction with Applicant's Application, Applicant provided requested copies of shipping records for products shipped into Kansas. Applicant reported shipping into Kansas on 251 unique days during the previous 12-month period.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

1. Pursuant to K.S.A. 65-1658, the Board may assess a civil fine not to exceed $5,000, after notice and an opportunity to be heard, to any registrant for violation of the pharmacy act of the state of Kansas or any other rules or regulations of the state board of pharmacy.

2. Pursuant to K.S.A. 65-1627(f)(6), the Board may take action against the application of any manufacturer provider upon a finding that the applicant has violated the pharmacy act of the state of Kansas or any regulation adopted by the Board.

3. Pursuant to K.S.A. 65-1643(g), it shall be unlawful for any person to manufacture any drugs or devices without first obtaining a registration from the Board.

4. Applicant's act of operating in Kansas prior to being registered as a manufacturer is a violation of K.S.A. 65-1643(g) and is a basis to take action against Applicant's Application pursuant to K.S.A. 65-1627(f)(6).

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing findings of fact and conclusions of law, Applicant's Application is hereby GRANTED but Applicant is ordered to pay a fine to the Board in the amount of $5,000. Applicant has 30 days from the date of this order to pay the fine and the registration shall be issued upon receipt.

Consideration Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

This annual report on Form 10-K contains, and our officers and representatives may from time to time make, "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the safe harbor provisions of the U.S. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Forward-looking statements can be identified by words such as: "anticipate," "intend," "plan," "goal," "seek," "believe," "continue," "project," "estimate," "expect," "strategy," "future," "likely," "may," "potential," "predict," "should," "will," or similar words or phrases, or the negatives of these words, may identify forward-looking statements, but the absence of these words does not necessarily mean that a statement is not forward looking. Examples of forward-looking statements include, among others, statements we make regarding:

- our expectations as to our future financial performance, results of operations, or other operational results or metrics;
- our expectations regarding the launch of new products or services;
- the benefits that we expect will result from our business activities and certain transactions we have completed, such as product introductions, increased revenue, decreased expenses, and avoided expenses and expenditures;
- our expectations of the effect on our financial condition of claims, litigation, contingent liabilities, and governmental investigations, proceedings, and regulations;
- our strategies or expectations for product development, market position, financial results, and reserves;
- our expectations regarding the outcome of the legal and regulatory proceedings related to our recently completed acquisition of GRAIL, Inc. (GRAIL) and other actions that may be taken or pursued by the European Commission, the Federal Trade Commission and/or other governmental or regulatory authorities in connection with such acquisition;
- the interim measures order imposed by the European Commission, its duration and impact on Illumina and GRAIL, and the appointment of a monitoring trustee to monitor our compliance with such order;
- our expectations regarding the integration of any acquired technologies with our existing technology; and
- other expectations, beliefs, plans, strategies, anticipated developments, and other matters that are not historical facts.

Forward-looking statements are neither historical facts nor assurances of future performance. Instead, they are based only on our current beliefs, expectations, and assumptions regarding the future of our business, future plans and strategies, projections, anticipated events and trends, the economy, and other future conditions. Because forward-looking statements relate to the future, they are subject to inherent uncertainties, risks, and changes in circumstances that are difficult to predict and many of which are outside of our control. Our actual results and financial condition may differ materially from those indicated in the forward-looking statements. Therefore, you should not rely on any of these forward-looking statements. Important factors that could cause our actual results and financial condition to differ materially from those indicated in the forward-looking statements include, among others, the following:

- the impact to our business and operating results caused by the COVID-19 pandemic;
- our expectations and beliefs regarding prospects and growth for our business and the markets in which we operate;
- the timing and mix of customer orders among our products and services;
- challenges inherent in developing, manufacturing, and launching new products and services, including expanding manufacturing operations and reliance on third-party suppliers for critical components;
- the impact of recently launched or pre-announced products and services on existing products and services;
- our ability to develop and commercialize our instruments and consumables, to deploy new products, services, and applications, and to expand the markets for our technology platforms;

- our ability to manufacture robust instrumentation and consumables;
- our ability to identify and acquire technologies, and integrate them into our products or businesses successfully;
- risks and uncertainties regarding the legal and regulatory proceedings relating to our recently completed acquisition of GRAIL and our ability to achieve the expected benefits of such acquisition and other actions that may be taken or pursued by the European Commission, the Federal Trade Commission and/or other governmental or regulatory authorities in connection with such acquisition;
- the interim measures order imposed by the European Commission, and its duration and impact on Illumina and GRAIL, which impact may include material and adverse effects on synergies and other benefits we expect to achieve as a result of the acquisition of GRAIL, additional costs or liabilities, loss of revenue and other adverse effects on our business, financial condition and results of operations;
- our compliance with the terms of the interim measures order, which is monitored by an appointed monitoring trustee, and which is burdensome to implement and administer, and the risk that the European Commission could impose or seek to impose fines and other penalties for alleged noncompliance with such terms;
- the assumptions underlying our critical accounting policies and estimates;
- our assessments and estimates that determine our effective tax rate;
- our assessments and beliefs regarding the outcome of pending legal proceedings and any liability that we may incur as a result of those proceedings;
- uncertainty, or adverse economic and business conditions, including as a result of slowing or uncertain economic growth in the United States or worldwide; and
- other factors detailed in our filings with the SEC, including the risks, uncertainties, and assumptions described in "Risk Factors" within the Business and Market Information section of this report, or in information disclosed in public conference calls, the date and time of which are released beforehand.

Any forward-looking statement made by us in this annual report on Form 10-K is based only on information currently available to us and speaks only as of the date on which it is made. We undertake no obligation, and do not intend, to publicly update any forward-looking statement, whether written or oral, that may be made from time to time, or to review or confirm analysts' expectations, or to provide interim reports or updates on the progress of any current financial quarter, in each case whether as a result of new information, future developments, or otherwise.

BUSINESS & MARKET INFORMATION

BUSINESS OVERVIEW

We are a global leader in sequencing- and array-based solutions for genetic and genomic analysis. Our products and services serve customers in a wide range of markets, enabling the adoption of genomic solutions in research and clinical settings. We were incorporated in California in April 1998 and reincorporated in Delaware in July 2000. Our principal executive offices are located at 5200 Illumina Way, San Diego, California 92122. Our telephone number is (858) 202-4500.

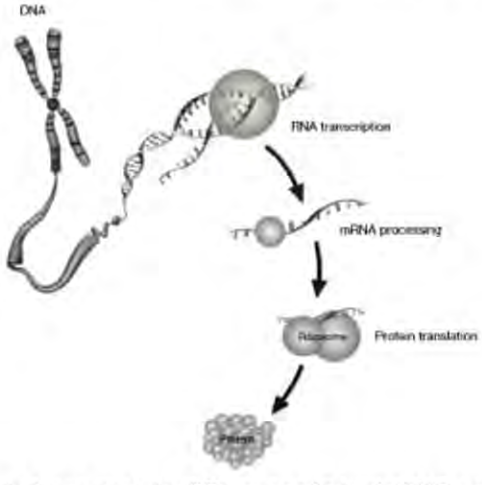
Our customers include leading genomic research centers, academic institutions, government laboratories, and hospitals, as well as pharmaceutical, biotechnology, commercial molecular diagnostic laboratories, and consumer genomics companies.

Our portfolio of integrated sequencing and microarray systems, consumables, and analysis tools is designed to accelerate and simplify genetic analysis. This portfolio addresses the range of genomic complexity, price points, and throughput, enabling customers to select the best solution for their research or clinical application.

On August 18, 2021, we acquired GRAIL, a healthcare company focused on early detection of multiple cancers. GRAIL's Galleri blood test detects various types of cancers before they are symptomatic. We believe our acquisition of GRAIL will accelerate the adoption of next-generation sequencing (NGS) based early multi-cancer detection tests, enhance our position in Clinical Genomics, and increase our directly accessible total addressable market. The results of operations of GRAIL have been included in our consolidated financial statements from the date of acquisition. The acquisition is subject to ongoing legal proceedings and pending the European Commission's ongoing merger review. GRAIL is currently being held and operated as a separate company, with oversight provided by an appointed, independent monitoring trustee during the European Commission's ongoing merger review. See note "4. Acquisitions, Goodwill and Intangible Assets" and note "8. Legal Proceedings" for further details.

Genetics Primer

The instruction set for all living cells is encoded in deoxyribonucleic acid, or DNA. The complete set of DNA for any organism is referred to as its genome. DNA contains small regions called genes, which comprise a string of nucleotide bases labeled A, C, G, and T, representing adenine, cytosine, guanine, and thymine, respectively. These nucleotide bases occur in a precise order known as the DNA sequence. When a gene is "expressed," a copy of a portion of its DNA sequence called messenger RNA (mRNA) is used as a template to direct the synthesis of a particular protein. Proteins, in turn, direct all cellular function. The illustration below is a simplified gene expression schematic.



Variations among organisms are due, in large part, to differences in their DNA sequences. Changes can result from insertions, deletions, inversions, translocations, or duplications of nucleotide bases. These changes may result in certain genes becoming overexpressed (excessive protein production), underexpressed (reduced protein production), or silenced altogether, sometimes triggering changes in cellular function. The most common form of variation in humans is called a single nucleotide polymorphism (SNP), which is a base change in a single position in a DNA sequence. Another type of variation, copy number variations (CNVs), occur when there are fewer or more copies of certain genes, segments of a gene, or stretches of DNA.

In humans, genetic variation accounts for many of the physical differences we see (e.g., height, hair, eye color, etc.). Genetic variations also can have medical consequences affecting disease susceptibility, including predisposition to complex genetic diseases such as cancer, diabetes, cardiovascular disease, and Alzheimer's disease. They can affect individuals' response to certain drug treatments, causing them to respond well, experience adverse side effects, or not respond at all.

Scientists are studying these variations and their consequences in humans, as well as in a broad range of animals, plants, and microorganisms. Such research takes place in government, university, pharmaceutical, biotechnology, and agrigenomics laboratories around the world, where scientists expand our knowledge of the biological functions essential for life. Beginning at the genetic level, our tools are used to elucidate the relationship between gene sequence and biological processes. Researchers who investigate human and non-human genetic variation to understand the mechanisms of disease are enabling the development of more effective diagnostics and therapeutics. They also provide greater insight into genetic variation in plants (e.g., food and biofuel crops) and animals (e.g., livestock and domestic), enabling improvements in crop yields and animal breeding programs.

By empowering genetic analysis and facilitating a deeper understanding of genetic variation and function, our tools advance disease research, drug development, and the creation of molecular diagnostic tests. We believe that this will trigger a fundamental shift in the practice of medicine and health care, and that the increased emphasis on preventive and predictive molecular medicine will usher in the era of precision health care.

Our Principal Markets

We target the markets and customers outlined below.

Life Sciences

Historically, our core business has been in the life sciences research market. This includes laboratories associated with universities, research centers, and government institutions, along with biotechnology and pharmaceutical companies. Researchers at these institutions use our products and services for basic and translational research across a spectrum of scientific applications, including targeted, exome, and whole-genome sequencing; genetic variation; gene expression; epigenetics; and metagenomics. NGS technologies are being adopted due to their ability to cost-effectively sequence large sample sizes quickly and accurately, generating vast amounts of high-quality data. Both private and public funding drive this research, along with global initiatives to characterize genetic variation.

Our products also serve various applied markets including consumer genomics and agrigenomics. For example, in consumer genomics, our customers use our technologies to provide personalized genetic data and analysis to individual consumers. In agrigenomics, government and corporate researchers use our products and services to explore the genetic and biological basis for productivity and nutritional constitution in crops and livestock. Researchers can identify natural and novel genomic variation and deploy genome-wide marker-based applications to accelerate breeding and production of healthier and higher-yielding crops and livestock.

Clinical Genomics

We are focused on enabling translational and clinical markets through the introduction of best-in-class sequencing technology. Further, we are developing sample-to-answer solutions to catalyze adoption in the clinical setting, including in reproductive and genetic health and oncology. In reproductive health, our primary focus is driving noninvasive prenatal testing (NIPT) adoption globally through our technology, which identifies fetal chromosomal abnormalities by analyzing cell-free DNA in maternal blood. Our NGS technology is also accelerating rare and undiagnosed disease research to discover the genetic causes of inherited disorders by assessing many genes simultaneously. Using NGS can reduce costs compared to traditional methods of disease diagnosis, which are often expensive and inconclusive while requiring extensive testing.

Cancer is a disease of the genome, and the goal of cancer genomics is to identify genomic changes that transform a normal cell into a cancerous one. Understanding these genomic changes will improve diagnostic accuracy, increase understanding of the prognosis, and enable oncologists to target therapies to individuals. Customers in the translational and clinical oncology markets use our products to perform research that may help identify individuals who are genetically predisposed to cancer and to identify molecular changes in a tumor. We believe that circulating tumor DNA (ctDNA) will become an important clinical tool for managing oncology patients during all stages of tumor progression. Our technology is being used to research the implications of ctDNA in treatment determination, treatment monitoring, minimal residual disease, and asymptomatic screening. For example, GRAIL's Galleri blood test for early-stage cancer detection is enabled by our sequencing technology.

Our Principal Products, Services, and Technologies

Our unique technology platforms support the scale of experimentation necessary for population-scale studies, genome-wide discovery, target selection, and validation studies (see Figure 1 below). Customers use our products to analyze the genome at all levels of complexity, from targeted panels to whole-genome sequencing. A large and dynamic Illumina user community has published hundreds of thousands of customer-authored scientific papers using our technologies. Through rapid innovation, we are changing the economics of genetic research, enabling projects that were previously considered impossible, and supporting clinical advances towards precision medicine.

Most of our product sales consist of instruments and consumables, which include reagents, flow cells, and microarrays, based on our proprietary technologies. We also perform various services for our customers. In 2021, 2020, and 2019, instrument sales represented 17%, 13%, and 15%, respectively, of total revenue; consumable sales represented 71%, 71%, and 68%, respectively, of total revenue; and services represented 12%, 16%, and 17%, respectively, of total revenue.

Sequencing

DNA sequencing is the process of determining the order of nucleotide bases (A, C, G, or T) in a DNA sample. Our portfolio of sequencing platforms represents a family of systems that we believe set the standard for productivity, cost-effectiveness, and accuracy among NGS technologies. Customers use our platforms to perform whole-genome, de novo, exome and RNA sequencing, and targeted resequencing of specific gene regions and genes.

Whole-genome sequencing determines the complete DNA sequence of an organism. In de novo sequencing, the goal is to sequence and assemble the genome of that sample without using information from prior sequencing of that species. In targeted resequencing, a portion of the sequence of an organism is compared to a standard or reference sequence from previously sequenced samples to identify genetic variation. Understanding the similarities and differences in DNA sequence between and within species helps us understand the function of the structures encoded in the DNA.

Our DNA sequencing technology is based on our proprietary reversible terminator-based sequencing chemistry, referred to as sequencing by synthesis (SBS) biochemistry. SBS tracks the addition of labeled nucleotides as the DNA chain is copied in a massively parallel fashion. Our SBS sequencing technology provides researchers with a broad range of applications and the ability to sequence even large mammalian genomes in a few days rather than weeks or years.

Our sequencing platforms can generate between 500 megabases (Mb) and 6.0 terabases (Tb) (equivalent to approximately 48 human genomes) of genomic data in a single run, depending on the instrument and application.

There are different price points per gigabase (Gb) for each instrument, and for different applications, which range from small-genome, amplicon, and targeted gene-panel sequencing to population-scale whole human genome sequencing. Since we launched our first sequencing system in 2007, our systems have reduced the cost of sequencing by a factor of more than 10,000. In addition, the sequencing time per Gb has dropped by a factor of approximately 12,000.

Illumina informatics products play a critical role in supporting our sequencing applications and customers' needs across a range of activities, including sample preparation, instrument control & management, and post-run analysis.

Our BaseSpace Informatics Suite integrates directly with our sequencing instruments, allowing customers to manage their biological sample and sequencing runs, process and analyze the raw genomic data, and derive meaningful results. It facilitates data sharing, provides data-storage solutions and streamlines analysis through a growing number of applications developed by us and the bioinformatics community. Our DRAGEN Bio-IT Platform is used for secondary analysis and analyzes sequencing data from a variety of experiment types, including whole genomes, whole exomes, germline and somatic datasets, and RNA sequencing experiments with industry leading accuracy, speed and efficiency. Additionally, Illumina Connected Analytics is an integrated bioinformatics solution that provides a comprehensive, private, cloud-based data platform that empowers customers to manage, analyze, and explore large volumes of multi-omic data in a secure, scalable, and flexible environment.

In 2021, 2020, and 2019, total sequencing revenue comprised 91%, 89%, and 87%, respectively, of total revenue.

Arrays

Arrays are used for a broad range of DNA and RNA analysis applications, including SNP genotyping, CNV analysis, gene expression analysis, and methylation analysis, and enable the detection of millions of known genetic markers on a single array. Arrays are the primary technology used in consumer genomics applications.

Our BeadArray technology combines microscopic beads and a substrate in a proprietary manufacturing process to produce arrays that can perform many assays simultaneously. This facilitates large-scale analysis of genetic variation and biological function in a unique, high-throughput, cost-effective, and flexible manner. Using our BeadArray technology, we achieve high-throughput analysis via a high density of test sites per array and the ability to format arrays in various configurations. To serve the needs of multiple markets and market segments, we can vary the size, shape, and format of the substrate into which the beads self-assemble and create specific bead types for different applications. Our iScan System and our NextSeq 550 System can be used to image arrays.

In 2021, 2020, and 2019, total array revenue comprised 9%, 11%, and 13%, respectively, of total revenue.

Consumables

We have developed various library preparation and sequencing kits to simplify workflows and accelerate analysis. Our sequencing applications include whole-genome sequencing kits, which sequence entire genomes of any size and complexity, and targeted resequencing kits, which can sequence exomes, specific genes, RNA or other genomic regions of interest. Our sequencing kits maximize the ability of our customers to characterize the target genome accurately and are sold in various configurations, addressing a wide range of applications.

Customers use our array-based genotyping consumables for a wide range of analyses, including diverse species, disease-related mutations, and genetic characteristics associated with cancer. Customers can select from a range of human, animal, and agriculturally relevant genome panels or create their own custom arrays to investigate millions of genetic markers targeting any species.

Services

We provide whole-genome sequencing, genotyping, NIPT, and product support services. Human whole-genome sequencing services are provided through our CLIA-certified, CAP-accredited laboratory. Using our services, customers can perform whole-genome sequencing projects and microarray projects (including large-scale genotyping studies and whole-genome association studies). We also provide NIPT services through our partner laboratories that direct samples to us on a test send-out basis in our CLIA-certified, CAP-accredited laboratory. In addition, we also offer support services to customers who have purchased our products.

GRAIL

GRAIL's multi-cancer early detection test, Galleri, is designed as a screening test for adults with an elevated risk for cancer, such as those aged 50 or older, and was commercially launched in 2021 as a laboratory developed test.

Intellectual Property

We have an extensive intellectual property portfolio. As of January 18, 2022, excluding GRAIL, we owned or had exclusive licenses to 1,019 issued U.S. patents and 789 pending U.S. patent applications, including 43 allowed applications that have not yet issued as patents. Our issued and pending patents cover various aspects of our arrays, assays, oligo synthesis, sequencing technology, instruments, digital microfluidics, software, bioinformatics, and chemical-detection technologies, and have terms that expire between 2022 and 2042. We continue to file new patent applications to protect the full range of our technologies. We have filed or have been granted counterparts for many of these patents and applications in foreign countries.

GRAIL owns certain patent applications and intellectual property and exclusively licenses certain patents, patent applications, and other intellectual property from third parties. GRAIL's patent portfolio broadly relates to methods, techniques and chemistry used to generate and analyze data using its proprietary bioinformatics and classifiers, including, for example, cfNA sequencing, marker panels, methylation signatures, bioinformatics techniques and biologically directed machine learning classifiers, which are incorporated into GRAIL's products. As of January 3, 2022, GRAIL has exclusive licenses to more than 400 issued or granted patents and more than 190 pending patent applications globally, including 36 issued U.S. patents. GRAIL also owns or co-owns more than 390 pending patent applications globally, including more than 110 pending U.S. non-provisional and provisional patent applications. GRAIL's patent portfolio includes patents and patent applications related to sequencing, library preparation and enrichment, marker panels, methylation profiling, and bioinformatic techniques and classifiers. GRAIL's licensed patents and patent applications will begin to expire in 2028. The patent applications that GRAIL owns, if issued as patents, would be expected to expire at the earliest in 2037.

We protect our trade secrets, know-how, copyrights, and trademarks. Our success depends in part on obtaining patent protection for our products and processes, preserving trade secrets, patents, obtaining copyrights and trademarks, operating without infringing the proprietary rights of third parties, and acquiring licenses for technology or products. In addition, we invest in technological innovation, and we seek beneficial licensing opportunities to develop and maintain our competitive position.

We are party to various exclusive and nonexclusive license agreements and other arrangements with third parties that grant us rights to use key aspects of our sequencing and array technologies, assay methods, chemical detection methods, reagent kits, and scanning equipment. We have additional nonexclusive license agreements with various third parties for other components of our products. In most cases, the agreements remain in effect over the term of the underlying patents, may be terminated at our request without further obligation, and require that we pay customary royalties.

Research and Development

We have historically made substantial investments in research and development. Our research and development efforts prioritize continuous innovation coupled with product evolution.

Research and development expense in 2021, 2020, and 2019 was $1,185 million, $682 million, and $647 million, respectively. We expect research and development expense to increase during 2022 to support business growth and continuing expansion in research and product-development efforts.

Marketing and Distribution

We market and distribute our products directly to customers in North America, Europe, Latin America, and the Asia-Pacific region. In addition, we sell through life-science distributors in certain markets within Europe, the Asia-Pacific region, Latin America, the Middle East, and Africa. We expect to continue increasing our sales and distribution resources during 2022 and beyond as we launch new products and expand our potential customer base.

Manufacturing

We manufacture sequencing and array platforms and reagent kits. In 2021, we continued to increase our manufacturing capacity, and we expect to increase our manufacturing capacity again in 2022 to meet customer demand. To address increasing product complexity and volume, we continue to automate manufacturing processes to accelerate throughput and improve quality and yield. We are committed to providing medical devices and related services that consistently meet customer and applicable regulatory requirements. We adhere to access and safety standards required by federal, state, and local health ordinances, such as standards for the use, handling, and disposal of hazardous substances. Our key manufacturing and distribution facilities operate under a quality management system certified to ISO 13485.

Raw Materials

Our manufacturing operations require a wide variety of raw materials, electronic and mechanical components, chemical and biochemical materials, and other supplies. Multiple commercial sources provide many of our components and supplies, but there are some raw materials and components that we obtain from single-source suppliers. To manage potential risks arising from single-source suppliers, we believe that, if necessary, we could redesign our products using alternative components or for use with alternative reagents or develop an internal supply capability. In addition, while we attempt to keep our inventory at minimal levels, we purchase incremental inventory as circumstances warrant to protect our supply chain. If the capabilities of our suppliers and component manufacturers are limited or stopped, due to the COVID-19 pandemic, disasters, quality, regulatory, or other reasons, it could negatively impact our ability to manufacture our products.

Competition

Although we believe that our products and services provide significant advantages over products and services currently available from other sources, we expect continued intense competition. Our competitors offer products and services for sequencing, SNP genotyping, gene expression, and molecular diagnostics markets. In some cases, we compete for the resources our customers allocate for purchasing a wide range of sequencing and non-sequencing products used to analyze genetic variation and biological function, some of which are complementary or adjacent to our own but not directly competitive; in other cases, our products face direct competition as customers choose among sequencing and non-sequencing products that are designed to address the same use case or answer the same biological question. Some of our competitors have, or will have, substantially greater financial, technical, research, and other resources than we do, along with larger, more established marketing, sales, distribution, and service organizations. In addition, they may have greater name recognition than we do in the markets we address, and in some cases a larger installed base of systems. We expect new competitors to emerge and the intensity of competition to increase. To compete effectively, we must scale our organization and infrastructure appropriately and demonstrate that our products have superior throughput, cost, and accuracy.

Segment and Geographic Information

We have two reportable segments, Core Illumina and GRAIL, as of January 2, 2022. On August 18, 2021, we acquired GRAIL and it operates as a separate reportable segment. We have included the results of operations of GRAIL in our consolidated statements of operations from the date of acquisition. Core Illumina relates to our core operations. Prior to the Helix deconsolidation on April 25, 2019, our reportable segments included Core Illumina and Helix. See note "11. Segments and Geographic Data" within the Consolidated Financial Statements section of this report for further information concerning our reportable segments.

We currently sell our products to a number of customers outside the United States, including customers in other areas of North America, Latin America, Europe, China, and the Asia-Pacific region. Shipments to customers outside the United States totaled $2,331 million, or 52%, of total revenue, in 2021, compared to $1,584 million, or 49%, and $1,684 million, or 48%, in 2020 and 2019, respectively. We consider the U.S. dollar to be the functional currency of our international operations due to the primary activities of our foreign subsidiaries. We expect that sales to international customers will continue to be an important and growing source of revenue. See note "1. Organization and Significant Accounting Policies" and note "2. Revenue" within the Consolidated Financial Statements section of this report for further information concerning our foreign and domestic operations.

Backlog

Our backlog was approximately $1,035 million and $816 million as of January 2, 2022 and January 3, 2021, respectively. Generally, our backlog consists of orders believed to be firm as of the balance sheet date. However, we may allow customers to make product substitutions as we launch new products. The timing of shipments depends on several factors, including agreed upon shipping schedules, which may span multiple quarters, and whether the product is catalog or custom. We expect approximately 89% of our backlog as of January 2, 2022, to be shipped in 2022, approximately 9% in 2023, and the remainder thereafter. Although we generally recognize revenue when control of our products and services is transferred to our customers, some customer contracts might require us to defer revenue recognition beyond the transfer of control.

Environmental Matters

As a global corporate citizen, we recognize the importance of the environment to a healthy, sustainable future for our business, our patients, and communities. We are committed to the protection of our employees and the environment with an approach to continuously strengthen our environmental stewardship. We believe that we are in material compliance with current applicable laws and regulations. However, we could be held liable for damages and fines should contamination of the environment or individual exposures to hazardous substances occur. In addition, we cannot predict how changes in these laws and regulations, or the development of new laws and regulations, will affect our business operations or the cost of compliance. In addition, climate change may impact our business by increasing operating costs due to additional regulatory requirements, physical risks to our facilities, energy limitations, and disruptions to our supply chain. These potential risks are accounted for in our business planning, including investment in reducing energy and water consumption, greenhouse gas emissions, and waste production. As part of our climate action plan, we established emission reduction targets in line with a 1.5 degree pathway and had those targets verified by the Sciences Based Target Initiative. In addition, we established Net Zero emission commitments by 2050 in our direct operations and value chain. Additional information is included in our annual CSR Report located on our website at www.Illumina.com/csr.

Government Regulation

As we expand product lines to address the diagnosis of disease, regulation by governmental authorities in the United States and other countries will become an increasingly significant factor in development, testing, production, and marketing. Products that we develop in the molecular diagnostic markets, depending on their intended use, may be regulated as medical devices or in vitro diagnostic products (IVDs) by the FDA and comparable agencies in other countries. In the United States, certain of our products may require FDA clearance following a pre-market notification process, also known as a 510(k) clearance, or premarket approval (PMA) from the FDA. The usually shorter 510(k) clearance process, which we used for the FDA-cleared assays that are run on our FDA-regulated MiSeqDx instrument, generally takes from three to six months after submission, but it can take significantly longer. The longer PMA process, which we used for our FDA-cleared RAS panel that is also run on our MiSeqDx instrument, is typically much more costly and uncertain. It can take from 9 to 18 months after a complete filing, but it can take significantly longer and requires conducting clinical studies that are generally more extensive than those required for 510(k) clearance. All of the products that are currently regulated by the FDA as medical devices and IVDs are also subject to the FDA Quality System Regulation (QSR). Obtaining the requisite regulatory approvals, including the FDA quality system inspections that are required for PMA approval, can be expensive and may involve considerable delay.

In the U.S., the products we develop for oncology and non-invasive prenatal testing will be regulated by the PMA process. We cannot be certain which of our other planned molecular diagnostic products will be subject to the shorter 510(k) clearance process, or which of will need to go through the PMA process.

The regulatory approval process for such products may be significantly delayed, may be significantly more expensive than anticipated, and may conclude without such products being approved by the FDA. Without timely regulatory approval, we will not be able to launch or successfully commercialize such products, which would adversely affect our earnings and competitive position. Many of the products that we are developing are the first of their kind, such as the Galleri test that has been developed by GRAIL. The regulatory approval pathways for such products, like the Galleri test, do not currently exist and therefore have a high degree of uncertainty. Core Illumina and GRAIL are separately collaborating with regulatory bodies to navigate this regulatory landscape.

Changes to the current regulatory framework, including the imposition of additional or new regulations, could arise at any time during the development or marketing of our products. This may negatively affect our ability to obtain or maintain FDA or comparable regulatory clearance or approval of our products. In addition, regulatory agencies may introduce new requirements that may change the regulatory requirements for us or our customers, or both.

If our products labeled as "For Research Use Only," or RUO, are used, or could be used, for the diagnosis of disease, the regulatory requirements related to marketing, selling, and supporting such products could be uncertain. This is true even if such use by our customers occurs without our consent. If the FDA or other regulatory authorities assert that any of our RUO products are subject to regulatory clearance or approval, our business, financial condition, or results of operations could be adversely affected.

Our products sold as medical devices or IVDs in Europe will be regulated under the In Vitro Diagnostics Directive (98/79/EC). A new regulation, the in vitro Diagnostic Medical Devices Regulation (EU) 2017/746, the IVDR, has been released and will become fully enforceable in May 2022. These regulations include requirements for both presentation and review of performance data and quality-system requirements.

Certain of our products are currently available through laboratories that are certified under the Clinical Laboratory Improvements Amendments (CLIA) of 1988. These products are commonly called "laboratory developed tests," or LDTs. For a number of years, the FDA has exercised its regulatory enforcement discretion not to regulate LDTs as medical devices if created and used within a single laboratory. However, the FDA is continually reexamining this regulatory approach and changes to the agency's handling of LDTs could impact our business in ways that cannot be predicted at this time. We cannot predict the nature or extent of the FDA's final guidance or regulation of LDTs, in general, or with respect to our or our customers' LDTs, in particular.

Certification of CLIA laboratories includes standards in the areas of personnel qualifications, administration, and participation in proficiency testing, patient test management, and quality control procedures. CLIA also mandates that, for high complexity labs such as ours, to operate as a lab, we must have an accreditation by an organization recognized by CLIA such as the College of Pathologists (CAP), which we have obtained and must maintain. If we were to lose our CLIA certification or CAP accreditation, our business, financial condition, or results of operations could be adversely affected. In addition, state laboratory licensing and inspection requirements may also apply to our products, which, in some cases, are more stringent than CLIA requirements.

RISK FACTORS

Our business is subject to various risks, including those described below. In addition to the other information included in this report, the following issues could adversely affect our operating results or our stock price.

Risks Relating to Research, Development, Marketing, and Sales of Products and Services

Our continued growth is dependent on continuously developing and commercializing new products.

Our target markets are characterized by rapid technological change, changes in customer needs, existing and emerging competition, strong price competition, and frequent new product introductions. Accordingly, our continued growth depends on developing and commercializing new products and services, including improving our existing products and services, in order to address evolving market requirements on a timely basis. If we fail to innovate or adequately invest in new technologies, we could lose our competitive position in the markets that we serve.

To the extent that we fail to introduce new and innovative products, or such products are not accepted in the market or suffer significant delays in development, our financial results may suffer. An inability, for technological or other reasons, to successfully develop and introduce new products on a timely basis could reduce our growth rate or otherwise have an adverse effect on our business.

In the past, we have experienced, and are likely to experience in the future, delays in the development and introduction of new products. There can be no assurance that we will keep pace with the rapid rate of change in our markets or that our new products will adequately meet the requirements of the marketplace, achieve market acceptance, or compete successfully with third-party technologies. Some of the factors affecting our ability to develop and successfully commercialize new products and services include:

- the functionality and performance of new and existing products and services;
- the timing of introduction of new products or services relative to competing products and services;
- availability, quality, and price relative to competing products and services;
- scientists' and customers' opinions of the utility of new products or services;
- citation of new products or services in published research;
- regulatory trends and approvals; and
- our ability to acquire or otherwise gain access to third party technologies, products, or businesses.

Our success depends upon the continued emergence and growth of markets for analysis of genetic variation, and continued substantial increases in the use of sequencing as the cost of sequencing declines.

The usefulness of our technologies depends in part upon the availability of genetic data and its usefulness in clinical, research, and consumer applications. We are focusing on markets for analysis of genetic variation or biological function, namely sequencing, genotyping, and gene expression profiling. These markets are relatively new and emerging, and they may not develop as quickly as we anticipate, or reach what we expect to be their full potential. Other methods of analysis of genetic variation and biological function may emerge and displace the methods we are developing. In addition, a reduction or delay in research and development budgets and government funding may adversely affect our business. For example, changes in the regulatory environment affecting life sciences and pharmaceutical companies, and budgetary pressures resulting in reduced allocations to government agencies that fund research and development activities, such as the U.S. National Institute of Health, or NIH, could adversely affect our business or results of operations.

The introduction of next-generation sequencing technologies, including ours, has reduced the cost of sequencing by a factor of more than 10,000 and reduced the sequencing time per Gb by a factor of approximately 12,000 over the last 20 years. Consequently, demand for sequencing-related products and services has increased substantially as new applications are enabled and more sequencing is done in connection with existing applications. If, as we expect, the cost of sequencing continues to fall, we cannot be sure that the demand for related products and services will increase at least proportionately as new applications are enabled or more sequencing is done in connection with

On March 23, 2021, we issued $500 million aggregate principal amount of term notes due 2023 (2023 Term Notes) and $500 million aggregate principal amount of term notes due 2031 (2031 Term Notes, together the Term Notes). We received net proceeds from the issuance of $992 million, after deducting discounts and debt issuance costs. The 2023 and 2031 Term Notes accrue interest at a rate of 0.550% and 2.550% per annum, respectively, payable semi-annually. Interest is payable on March 23 and September 23 of each year, beginning on September 23, 2021. The 2023 Term Notes mature on March 23, 2023 and the 2031 Term Notes mature on March 23, 2031.

We may redeem for cash all or any portion of the Term Notes, at our option, at any time prior to maturity. The 2023 Term Notes and, prior to December 23, 2030, the 2031 Term Notes are redeemable at make-whole premium redemption prices as defined in the applicable forms of note. After December 23, 2030, the 2031 Term Notes are redeemable at a redemption price equal to 100% of the principal amount of the notes to be redeemed, plus any accrued and unpaid interest up to, but excluding, the redemption date.

Interest expense recognized on the Term Notes was $14 million in 2021, which included amortization of debt discounts and issuance costs.

0% Convertible Senior Notes due 2023 (2023 Convertible Notes)

In August 2018, we issued $750 million aggregate principal amount of convertible senior notes due 2023 (2023 Convertible Notes). The net proceeds from the issuance, after deducting the offering expenses payable by us, were $735 million. The 2023 Convertible Notes carry no coupon interest and mature on August 15, 2023.

The 2023 Convertible Notes will be convertible into cash, shares of our common stock or a combination of cash and shares of our common stock, at our election, based on an initial conversion rate, subject to adjustment, of 2.1845 shares of common stock per $1,000 principal amount of notes (which represents an initial conversion price of approximately $457.77 per share of common stock), only in the following circumstances: (1) during any calendar quarter commencing after the calendar quarter ending on September 30, 2018 (and only during such calendar quarter), if the last reported sale price of our common stock for at least 20 trading days (whether or not consecutive) during a period of 30 consecutive trading days ending on, and including, the last trading day of the immediately preceding calendar quarter is greater than or equal to 130% of the conversion price in effect on each applicable trading day; (2) during the five business day period after any 10 consecutive trading day period (the "measurement period") in which the trading price per $1,000 principal amount of 2023 Convertible Notes for each trading day of the measurement period was less than 98% of the product of the last reported sale price of our common stock and the conversion rate on each such trading day; (3) if we call any or all of the notes for redemption, at any time prior to the close of business on the scheduled trading day immediately preceding the redemption date; or (4) upon the occurrence of specified corporate events described in the indenture. Regardless of the foregoing circumstances, the holders may convert their notes on or after May 15, 2023 until August 11, 2023.

It is our intent and policy to settle conversions through combination settlement; this involves repayment of an amount of cash equal to the "principal amount" and delivery of the "share amount" in excess of the conversion value over the principal amount in shares of common stock. In general, for each $1,000 in principal, the "principal amount" of cash upon settlement is defined as the lesser of $1,000 and the conversion value during the 20-day observation period. The conversion value is the sum of the daily conversion value, which is the product of the effective conversion rate divided by 20 days and the daily volume weighted average price (VWAP) of our common stock. The "share amount" is the cumulative "daily share amount" during the observation period, which is calculated by dividing the daily VWAP into the difference between the daily conversion value (i.e., conversion rate x daily VWAP) and $1,000.

We may redeem for cash all or any portion of the 2023 Convertible Notes, at our option, on or after August 20, 2021 if the last reported sale price of our common stock has been at least 130% of the conversion price then in effect (currently $595.10) for at least 20 trading days (whether or not consecutive) during any 30 consecutive trading day period (including the last trading day of such period) ending on, and including, the trading day immediately preceding the date on which we provide notice of redemption at a redemption price equal to 100% of the principal amount of the notes to be redeemed, plus any accrued and unpaid special interest to, but excluding, the redemption date.

The 2023 Convertible Notes are accounted for in accordance with authoritative guidance for convertible debt instruments that may be settled in cash upon conversion. The guidance requires the carrying amount of the liability component to be estimated by estimating the fair value of a similar liability that does not have an associated conversion feature. Because at issuance we had no outstanding non-convertible public debt, we determined that market-traded senior, unsecured corporate bonds represent a similar liability without a conversion option. Based on market data available for publicly traded, senior, unsecured corporate bonds issued by companies in our industry, and with similar maturities to the 2023 Convertible Notes, we estimated an implied interest rate of 3.7%, assuming no conversion option. Assumptions used in the estimate represent what market participants would use in pricing the liability component, including market interest rates, credit standing, and yield curves, all of which are defined as Level 2 observable inputs. The estimated implied interest rate was applied to the 2023 Convertible Notes, which resulted in a fair value of the liability component in aggregate of $624 million upon issuance, calculated as the present value of implied future payments based on the $750 million aggregate principal amount. The $126 million difference ($93 million, net of tax) between the aggregate principal amount of $750 million and the estimated fair value of the liability component was recorded in additional paid-in capital as the 2023 Convertible Notes are not considered redeemable.

As a policy election under applicable guidance related to the calculation of diluted net income per share, we have elected the combination settlement method as our stated settlement policy and apply the treasury stock method in the calculation of the potential dilutive impact of the 2023 Convertible Notes on net income per share each period. The 2023 Convertible Notes were not convertible as of January 2, 2022 and had no dilutive impact in 2021, 2020, and 2019. If the notes were converted as of January 2, 2022, the if-converted value would not exceed the principal amount.

0.5% Convertible Senior Notes due 2021 (2021 Convertible Notes)

In June 2014, we issued $517 million aggregate principal amount of convertible senior notes due 2021 (2021 Convertible Notes). The implied estimated effective rate of the liability component of the notes was 3.5%, assuming no conversion option. The 2021 Convertible Notes were convertible into cash, shares of common stock, or a combination of cash and shares of common stock, at our election, based on conversion rates as defined in the indenture. The 2021 Convertible Notes matured on June 15, 2021, by which time the principal had been converted and was repaid in cash. The excess of the conversion value over the principal amount was paid in shares of common stock.

The following table summarizes information about the conversions during 2021:

In millions	2021 Notes
Cash paid for principal of notes converted	$ 517
Conversion value over principal amount, paid in shares of common stock	$ 313
Number of shares of common stock issued upon conversion	0.7
Loss on extinguishment of debt	$ 1

Credit Agreement

On March 8, 2021, we entered into a credit agreement (the Credit Agreement), which provides us with a $750 million senior unsecured five-year revolving credit facility, including a $40 million sublimit for swingline borrowings and a $50 million sublimit for letters of credit (the Credit Facility). The proceeds of the loans under the Credit Facility may be used to finance working capital needs and for general corporate purposes.

Any loans under the Credit Facility will have a variable interest rate based on either the eurocurrency rate or the alternate base rate, plus an applicable spread that varies with the Company's debt rating. The Credit Agreement includes an option for us to elect to increase the commitments under the Credit Facility or to enter into one or more tranches of term loans in the aggregate principal amount of up to $250 million, subject to the consent of the lenders providing the additional commitments or term loans, as applicable, and certain other conditions.

The Credit Agreement contains financial and operating covenants. Pursuant to the Credit Agreement, we are required to maintain a ratio of total debt to annual earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization (EBITDA), calculated based on the four consecutive fiscal quarters ending with the most recent fiscal quarter, of not greater than 3.50 to 1.00 as of the end of each fiscal quarter. Upon the consummation of any Qualified Acquisition (as defined in the Credit Agreement) and us providing notice to the Administrative Agent, the ratio increases to 4.00 to 1.00 for the fiscal quarter in which the acquisition is consummated and the three consecutive fiscal quarters thereafter. The operating covenants include, among other things, limitations on (i) the incurrence of indebtedness by our subsidiaries, (ii) liens on our and our subsidiaries assets, and (iii) certain fundamental changes and the disposition of assets by us and our subsidiaries. The Credit Agreement contains other customary covenants, representations and warranties, and events of default.

The Credit Facility matures, and all amounts outstanding thereunder become due and payable in full, on March 8, 2026, subject to two one-year extensions at our option, the consent of the extending lenders and certain other conditions. We may prepay amounts borrowed and terminate commitments under the Credit Facility at any time without premium or penalty.

As of January 2, 2022, there were no borrowings outstanding under the Credit Facility, and we were in compliance with all financial and operating covenants.

Bridge Facility

In advance of the acquisition of GRAIL, we obtained a bridge facility commitment letter from Goldman Sachs Bank USA for a 364-day senior unsecured bridge loan facility, in an aggregate principal amount of $1 billion. The bridge facility commitment letter was subject to certain conditions, including consummation of the acquisition pursuant to the GRAIL Merger Agreement. On March 23, 2021, we terminated the bridge facility commitment letter in conjunction with the issuance of the 2023 and 2031 Term Notes.

Purchase Obligations

In the normal course of business, we enter into agreements to purchase goods or services that are not cancelable without penalty, primarily related to licensing and supply arrangements. For those agreements with variable terms, we do not estimate the total obligation beyond any minimum quantities or pricing as of the reporting date. Licensing agreements under which we commit to minimum royalty payments, some of which are subject to adjustment, may be terminated prior to the expiration of underlying intellectual property under certain circumstances. Annual minimum payments for noncancelable purchase obligations as of January 2, 2022 were not material.

6. STOCKHOLDERS' EQUITY

The 2015 Stock and Incentive Compensation Plan (the 2015 Stock Plan) and the New Hire Stock and Incentive Plan allow for the issuance of stock options, performance stock options, restricted stock units and awards, and performance stock units. As of January 2, 2022, approximately 3.4 million shares remained available for future grants under the 2015 Stock Plan. There is no set number of shares reserved for issuance under the New Hire Stock and Incentive Plan.

We caution you that the foregoing list may not include all of the forward-looking statements made in this Annual Report. Although management presently believes that the expectations reflected in such forward-looking statements are reasonable, it can give no assurance that such expectations will prove to be correct and you should be aware that actual results could differ materially from those contained in the forward-looking statements.

Forward-looking statements are subject to a number of risks and uncertainties including, but not limited to: our clinical development of resmetirom; enrollment and trial conclusion uncertainties, generally and in relation to COVID-19 shelter-in-place and social distancing measures and individual precautionary measures that may be implemented or continued for an uncertain period of time; our potential inability to raise sufficient capital to fund our ongoing operations as currently planned or to obtain financings on terms similar to those we have arranged in the past; outcomes or trends from competitive studies; future topline data timing or results; the risks of achieving potential benefits in studies that includes substantially more patients, and patients with different disease states, than our prior studies; the timing and outcomes of clinical studies of resmetirom; and the uncertainties inherent in clinical testing. Moreover, we operate in an evolving environment. New risks and uncertainties emerge from time to time and it is not possible for our management to predict all risks and uncertainties, nor can we assess the impact of all factors on our business or the extent to which any factor, or combination of factors, may cause actual future results to be materially different from those expressed or implied by any forward-looking statements.

Except as required by applicable law or the rules of the NASDAQ Stock Market, or NASDAQ, we assume no obligation to update any forward-looking statements publicly, or to update the reasons actual results could differ materially from those anticipated in these forward-looking statements, even if new information becomes available in the future. RISK FACTOR SUMMARY

The following is a summary of the principal risk factors that make an investment in our common stock speculative or risky. Before you invest in our securities, you should read the following summary together with the more detailed description of material risks described in the section entitled "Risk Factors" in Part I, Item 1A of this Annual Report and the other information contained in this Annual Report.

Risks Related to our Business

- We have limited operating history, we have incurred significant operating losses since inception and we expect to incur significant operating losses for the foreseeable future. We may never become profitable or, if achieved, be able to sustain profitability.
- Our business depends on the success of resmetirom, which is still in clinical development and has not completed a pivotal trial. If we are unable to obtain regulatory approval for and successfully commercialize resmetirom, or we experience significant delays in doing so, our business will be materially harmed.
- Clinical trials are very expensive, time-consuming and difficult to design and implement and involve uncertain outcomes. The results of preclinical studies and early clinical trials are not always predictive of future results. Any product candidate that we advance into clinical trials may not have favorable results in later clinical trials or receive regulatory approval.
- Because resmetirom has not yet received regulatory approval for any indication, it is difficult to predict the time and cost of development and our ability to successfully complete clinical development and obtain the necessary regulatory approvals for commercialization and our ability to realize a benefit, if any, from Fast Track designation or any Subpart H application may be limited or unavailable.
- If clinical trials or regulatory approval processes for our product candidates are prolonged, delayed or suspended, we may be unable to commercialize our product candidates on a timely basis, which would require us to incur additional costs and delay our receipt of any revenue from potential product sales.
- If we inadvertently fail to comply with foreign regulatory requirements governing human clinical trials and marketing approval for drugs, we could be prevented from selling our drug candidates in foreign markets.
- We depend on enrollment of patients in our clinical trials for our product candidates. If we encounter difficulties enrolling patients in our clinical trials, including those arising out of COVID-19, our clinical development activities could be delayed or otherwise adversely affected.
- Any product candidate in our current or future clinical trials may cause unacceptable adverse events or side effects or have other properties that may delay or prevent its regulatory approval or commercialization or limit its commercial potential.
- Our product candidates will remain subject to ongoing regulatory review even if they receive marketing approval, and if we fail to comply with continuing regulations, we could lose these approvals and the sale of any approved commercial products could be suspended.
- We operate in a highly competitive and rapidly changing industry, and our product candidates may become obsolete.
- If the FDA or other applicable regulatory authorities approve generic products that compete with any of our or any of our partners' product candidates, the sales of our product candidates would be adversely affected.
- If physicians and patients do not accept our future products or if the market for indications for which any product candidate is approved is smaller than expected, we may be unable to generate significant revenue, if any.

Table of Contents

- The continuation or worsening of the COVID-19 pandemic could affect our ability to complete our ongoing clinical trials, disrupt regulatory activities and delay or disrupt commercialization of resmetirom, and may have other adverse effects on our stock price and business operations.
- As we evolve from a company that is primarily involved in clinical development to a company that is also involved in commercialization, we may encounter difficulties in expanding our operations successfully.
- The uncertainty associated with pharmaceutical reimbursement and related matters may adversely affect our business.
- If we fail to develop and commercialize other product candidates, we may be unable to grow our business.
- Our internal computer systems, or those of our third-party collaborators, service providers, contractors or consultants, may fail or suffer security breaches, which could result in a material disruption of our development programs and have a material adverse effect on our reputation, business, financial condition or results of operations.

Risks Relating to Our Intellectual Property

- Our rights to develop and commercialize our product candidates are subject in part to the terms and conditions of a license to resmetirom granted to us by Hoffmann-La Roche.
- We may fail to comply with any of our obligations under agreements pursuant to which we license rights or technology, which could result in the loss of rights or technology that are material to our business.
- Our success depends on our ability to protect our intellectual property and our proprietary technologies.
- Claims by third parties that we infringe their proprietary rights may result in liability for damages or prevent or delay our developmental and commercialization efforts.
- We may be involved in lawsuits to protect or enforce our patents or the patents of our licensors, which could be expensive, time consuming, and unsuccessful. Further, our issued patents could be found invalid or unenforceable if challenged in court.
- We may not be successful in obtaining or maintaining necessary rights to our product candidates through acquisitions and in-licenses.
- We may not be able to protect our intellectual property rights throughout the world.

Risks Related to Our Financial Position and Need for Capital

- If we fail to obtain the capital necessary to fund all of our planned operations, we may be unable to successfully develop and commercialize resmetirom and other future product candidates.
- Our ability to use net operating loss and tax credit carryforwards and certain built-in losses to reduce future tax payments may be limited by provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.

Risks Relating to Ownership of Our Common Stock

- The price of our common stock has been, and may continue to be, volatile.
- A small number of our stockholders own a substantial amount of our outstanding common stock and may be deemed to have substantial control over us; therefore, your ability to influence corporate matters may be limited.

Table of Contents

- Anti-takeover provisions in our charter documents and under Delaware law could make an acquisition of our company, which may be beneficial to our stockholders, more difficult and may prevent attempts by our stockholders to replace or remove our current management.
- Future sales and issuances of our common stock or rights to purchase common stock could result in additional dilution of the percentage ownership of our stockholders and could cause our share price to fall.
- Sales of a significant number of shares of our common stock in the public markets or significant short sales of our common stock, or the perception that such sales could occur, could depress the market price of our common stock and impair our ability to raise capital.

Executive Overview

Our Focus. We are a clinical-stage biopharmaceutical company focused on the development and commercialization of innovative therapeutic candidates for the treatment of cardiovascular, metabolic, and liver diseases. Our lead product candidate, resmetirom, is a proprietary, liver-directed, selective thyroid hormone receptor-ß, or THR-ß, agonist being developed as a once-daily oral pill that can potentially be used to treat a number of disease states with high unmet medical need, including non-alcoholic steatohepatitis, or NASH.

Our Patient Market Opportunity. NASH is a serious inflammatory form of nonalcoholic fatty liver disease, or NAFLD. NAFLD has become the most common liver disease in the United States and other developed countries and is characterized by an accumulation of fat in the liver with no other apparent causes. NASH can progress to cirrhosis or liver failure, require liver transplantation and can also result in liver cancer. Progression of NASH to end stage liver disease will soon surpass all other causes of liver failure requiring liver transplantation. Importantly, beyond these critical conditions, NASH and NAFLD patients additionally suffer heightened cardiovascular risk and, in fact, die more frequently from cardiovascular events than from liver disease. NASH and NAFLD have grown as a consequence of rising worldwide obesity-related disorders. In the United States, NAFLD is estimated to affect approximately 25% of the population, and approximately 25% of those will progress from NAFLD to NASH. Current estimates place NASH prevalence at approximately 20 million people in the United States, or five to six percent of the adult population, with similar prevalence in Europe and Asia. The prevalence of NASH is also increasing in developing regions due to the adoption of a more sedentary lifestyle and a diet consisting of processed foods with high fat and fructose content.

Our Completed Studies. For NASH, we enrolled 125 patients in a Phase 2 clinical trial with resmetirom. We achieved the 12-week primary endpoint for this Phase 2 clinical trial and reported the results in December 2017, and we reported positive topline 36-week results at the conclusion of the Phase 2 clinical trial in May 2018. We also completed a 36-week, open-label extension study in 31 participating NASH patients from our Phase 2 clinical trial, which included 14 patients who received placebo in the main study.

On December 18, 2019 the Company announced it had opened for enrollment MAESTRO-NAFLD-1, a 52-week, non-invasive, multi-center, double-blind, placebo-controlled Phase 3 clinical study of patients with biopsy-confirmed or presumed NASH recruited from sites in the U.S. Key endpoints are safety, including safety biomarkers. Secondary endpoints include LDL cholesterol, lipid biomarkers, MRI-PDFF, NASH and fibrosis biomarkers. Except for serial liver biopsies, the study protocol is similar to the MAESTRO-NASH study (discussed below under "—Our Ongoing and Planned Studies"), with resmetirom doses of 80 mg or 100 mg or placebo. Enrollment objectives for this study were exceeded, with approximately 1,300 patients enrolled overall. The MAESTRO-NAFLD-1 study will help support the adequacy of the safety database at the time of NDA submission for Subpart H approval for treatment of NASH in patients with F2 or F3 fibrosis. In November of 2021, we reported data from the open label non-cirrhotic arm of MAESTRO-NAFLD-1, and in January 2022 we announced that we achieved primary and secondary endpoints for the double-blind portion of MAESTRO-NAFLD-1, as summarized in "- Key Developments" below.

We also completed a 116 patient Phase 2 clinical trial and announced results in February 2018 for the use of resmetirom in patients with heterozygous familial hypercholesterolemia, or HeFH. In addition to the NASH and HeFH Phase 2 clinical trials, resmetirom has also been studied in multiple completed Phase 1 trials in a total of more than 300 subjects. Resmetirom was well-tolerated in these trials, which included a single ascending dose trial, a multiple ascending dose trial, several drug interaction studies, a multiple dose mass balance study, a single dose relative bioavailability study of tablet formulation versus capsule formulation, a multiple dose drug interaction study, a multiple dose drug interaction with food effect study, and a hepatic impairment study.

Our Ongoing and Planned Studies. On March 28, 2019, the Company announced that it had initiated MAESTRO-NASH, a Phase 3 trial in NASH with its once daily, oral thyroid hormone receptor beta selective agonist, resmetirom. This double-blind, placebo-controlled study is being conducted at more than 230 sites in the United States and the rest of the world. Patients with liver biopsy confirmed NASH with stage 2 or 3 fibrosis are being randomized 1:1:1 to receive a single oral daily dose of placebo, resmetirom 80 mg or resmetirom 100 mg. A second liver biopsy at week 52 in the first 900 patients will be the basis of filing for accelerated approval under subpart H of applicable FDA regulations, which we refer to as subpart H-accelerated approval. The primary endpoint pertains to the percent of patients treated with either dose of resmetirom as compared with placebo who achieve NASH resolution on the week 52 liver biopsy, defined as the absence of hepatocyte ballooning (score=0), and minimal lobular inflammation (score 0-1), associated with at least a 2-point reduction in NAS (NAFLD Activity Score), and no worsening of fibrosis stage. Two key secondary endpoints are reduction in LDL-cholesterol and a 1-point or more improvement in fibrosis stage on the week 52 biopsy with no worsening of NASH. Patients will continue in the study for a total of approximately 54 months, and will be evaluated for a composite clinical outcome including cirrhosis on liver biopsy, or a liver related event such as hepatic decompensation. The total anticipated enrollment currently is approximately 2,000 patients, and will include up to 15% high risk F1 fibrosis stage NASH patients whose efficacy responses will be evaluated as exploratory endpoints. On June 30, 2021 we announced our achievement of the requisite enrollment of patients to support the planned Subpart H (Accelerated Approval of New Drugs for Serious or Life-Threatening Illnesses) submission to the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

On July 13, 2021 we announced first patient dosed in a planned 52-week open label active treatment extension study of MAESTRO-NAFLD-1, named MAESTRO-NAFLD-Open Label Extension (OLE). The OLE study allows patients who complete MAESTRO-NAFLD-1 to consent to 52 weeks of active treatment with resmetirom, making this treatment available to both patients who were assigned to placebo in MAESTRO-NAFLD-1 and patients who were on resmetirom in MAESTRO-NAFLD-1.

The following chart summarizes the status of our product candidate development programs for resmetirom:

Key Developments

In January 2022, Madrigal announced topline results from the Phase 3 MAESTRO-NAFLD-1 safety study of resmetirom. Madrigal reported that resmetirom demonstrated statistical significance for primary and key secondary endpoints summarized below, from the double-blind placebo-controlled 969-patient portion of the study. These endpoints indicated that resmetirom (1) was well-tolerated at 80 and 100 mg in patients treated for 52 weeks, (2) provided significant and clinically relevant reductions in liver fat as measured by MRI-PDFF and (3) significantly reduced atherogenic lipids, including LDLc, apolipoprotein B and triglycerides.

A total of 972 patients were randomized in the double-blind arms of the MAESTRO-NAFLD-1 study: 969 patients were included in the safety population and 943 patients in a modified intent-to-treat population for evaluation of key secondary and other endpoints. Important inclusion criteria included the presence of three risk factors of metabolic syndrome, a level of liver fibrosis (measured by FibroScan) consistent with a range of stages of liver fibrosis, and >=8% liver fat (measured by MRI-PDFF).

Adverse events observed in the MAESTRO-NAFLD-1 trial were generally mild to moderate in severity. The frequency of serious adverse events was similar across treatment arms and discontinuation for adverse events was low.

Consistent with published data, the most common adverse event reported with greater frequency in the resmetirom groups vs placebo was generally mild diarrhea or increased stool frequency at the beginning of therapy, which occurred in 9% and ~17% over the placebo rate in the 80 and 100 mg dose groups, respectively.

The following hierarchically-controlled key secondary endpoints were reported for both the 80 and 100 mg resmetirom dose groups. Resmetirom provided significant reductions in liver fat as measured by MRI-PDFF and reduced atherogenic lipids, including LDLc, apolipoprotein B and triglycerides. Open-label arm data is reported in the far left column below and double-blind arm data are reported in the remaining columns below. Although both arms were randomized in MAESTRO-NAFLD-1, lipid reductions were numerically greater in the 100 mg open label treatment arm compared to the 100 mg double-blind arm, and we believe this is due to greater visit and dose interruptions experienced by open-label arm patients during the height of the COVID-19 pandemic, as patients in the open-label active 100 mg treatment arm were less impacted by COVID-related dose interruptions than double-blind patients.

COVID-19 Pandemic Effects on Madrigal Phase 3 Trials

In April 2020 we announced that in response to guidance from regulatory agencies, measures for COVID-19 at impacted sites were put in place for our Phase 3 MAESTRO-NASH and MAESTRO-NAFLD-1 studies, allowing both studies to continue without changes to the protocol. Following a Data Monitoring Committee (DMC) meeting it was recommended that Phase 3 studies proceed without modification. The COVID-19 pandemic had no material adverse impact on our operating results, our conduct of the MAESTRO-NAFLD-1 study or our liquidity for previous periods. However, COVID-19 did introduce clinical trial and operational risks and uncertainties that are both general in nature and relate specifically to our MAESTRO-NASH study. In addition, at the height of COVID-19, MAESTRO-NAFLD-1 double blind patients had an average of two missed visits and two dose interruptions, with the dose interruptions primarily related to third-parties. These risks and uncertainties, which are beyond our control, are summarized in the section entitled "Risk Factors" in Part I, Item 1A of this Annual Report on Form 10-K.

Resmetirom Phase 2 Clinical Trial in NASH

As summarized above, the Company successfully completed its Phase 2 clinical trial in NASH in 2018. In this clinical trial, resmetirom demonstrated statistical significance in the primary endpoint (p<0.0001), the relative reduction of liver fat compared with baseline on magnetic resonance imaging-estimated proton density fat fraction, or MRI-PDFF, at 12-weeks which was reported in December 2017, and statistically significant results in multiple 36-week endpoints, including key secondary endpoints, reduction and resolution of NASH on liver biopsy as set forth in the table below, which was reported in May 2018. This clinical trial was published in the Lancet in November, 2019. Specific data from this study is as follows.

	Resmetirom	Resmetriom MRI-PDFF Responders(1)	Placebo
Number of patients with baseline and end-of-study liver biopsies(2)	73	46	34
>2 Point Decrease in NAS	56%	70%	32%
	p=0.02	p=0.001
NASH Resolution	27%	39%	6%
	p=0.02	p=0.001

(1) resmetirom MRI-PDFF Responders = resmetirom treated patients with >=30% relative fat reduction on Week 12 MRI-PDFF

(2) does not include one end-of-study liver biopsy that was inadequate

Table of Contents

Resmetirom treated patients with greater than or equal to 30% fat reduction on MRI-PDFF at 12-weeks demonstrated a higher percentage of nonalcoholic fatty liver disease activity score, or NAS, reduction and NASH resolution. In patients with NASH resolution, 35% of resmetirom treated patients and no placebo patients had a baseline NAS greater than or equal to five. In resmetirom patients with NASH resolution, fibrosis also resolved in 50% of such patients and was decreased statistically significantly relative to all placebo patients.

Further, 36-week results from our Phase 2 clinical trial in NASH showed:

- Sustained, highly statistically significant ($p<0.0001$) reduction in liver fat compared with placebo on 36-week MRI-PDFF and mean relative fat reduction of 37% with resmetirom treated patients in contrast with 8.5% with placebo patients;
- Sustained, statistically significant reductions ($p<0.0001$) in resmetirom compared to placebo treated patients in low-density lipoprotein cholesterol (LDL-C) and apolipoprotein B (ApoB) of more than 20%, triglycerides (TG) of 36% and lipoprotein(a) of 37%;
- Statistically significant reductions in liver enzymes (ALT, AST and GGT) relative to placebo (all $p=0.002$) and a 40% reduction in ALT in patients with elevated baseline levels ($p=0.01$);
- Statistically significant reductions in fibrosis biomarkers in resmetirom treated patients as compared with placebo patients;
- On liver biopsy, fibrosis was reduced by at least one point in 23% of placebo patients and 29% of resmetirom treated patients;
- Very good all subject tolerability: mostly mild and a few moderate adverse events, or AEs, which were balanced between drug treated patients and placebo patients; and
- An increase in incidence of a transient mild diarrhea at beginning of study, often a single episode, in resmetirom treated patients compared with placebo patients.

Resmetirom Phase 2 Clinical Trial in HeFH

In February 2018, we announced top-line results from our Phase 2 clinical trial in HeFH. In this trial, patients treated with resmetirom (placebo corrected) achieved highly significant ($p< 0.0001$) LDL-C lowering of 18.8%, and 21% LDL-C lowering in those patients receiving an optimal dose of resmetirom. LDL-C lowering was 28.5% in patients treated with resmetirom as compared to placebo in a prespecified group of patients who did not tolerate high intensity statin doses. Highly significant ($p<0.0001$) and numerically similar results were observed with ApoB. Highly significant ($p<0.0001$) TG (25-31%), apolipoprotein CIII (22.7%), and Lp(a) lowering (26-33%) were observed in all patients treated with resmetirom and certain prespecified subgroups, irrespective of statin treatment.

Resmetirom has been well-tolerated with mostly mild AEs and some moderate AEs, the numbers of which are balanced between placebo and drug-treatment groups. Fewer than seven percent of patients did not complete the study, and patients who discontinued for AEs, all mild to moderate, were balanced between drug-treated and placebo patients. There were two serious AEs in the study, both considered unrelated to treatment, one in a placebo and one in a drug-treated patient.

Lead Product Candidate—Resmetirom

We believe that resmetirom may be the first THR-agonist product candidate in development for NASH that selectively targets the THR-ß pathway. Active thyroid hormone, known as T3, interacts with two nuclear receptors, THR-α, which is the predominant receptor expressed in most human tissues, including heart and bone, and THR-ß, which has more restricted tissue expression, and is the predominant receptor responsible for metabolic actions in the liver, including both cholesterol- and TG-lowering. Selective activation of the THR-ß receptor in liver tissue is believed to favorably affect cholesterol and lipoprotein levels via multiple mechanisms, which may be complementary to those of other lipid-lowering therapies such as statin drugs. We believe that these characteristics of THR-ß activation by resmetirom will in turn lead to clinically meaningful reductions in LDL-C, and plasma and liver TGs.

We believe that resmetirom is the first selective small molecule THR-ß agonist compound. Resmetirom, along with MGL-3745, a potential backup compound to resmetirom, was discovered at Hoffmann-La Roche, or Roche, in Nutley, New Jersey, by utilizing a novel functional assay that, unlike a simple receptor binding assay, assessed the functional activity of compounds which interacted with thyroid hormone receptors. In a published study by Madrigal and Roche in the Journal of Medicinal Chemistry using this functional assay, resmetirom was shown to be highly selective for the THR-ß receptor, with almost no effect on THR-α, unlike other compounds purported in published studies to be ß -selective based on binding affinity, but which were shown to equally activate THR-α and THR-ß in the novel functional assay.

We believe that the ß-selectivity and liver-targeting properties of resmetirom are critically important for resmetirom's beneficial metabolic actions in the liver, and enable avoidance of safety issues associated with THR-α activation by thyroid hormone and/or less selective THR agonists in tissues such as heart and bone. In a variety of preclinical animal model studies, resmetirom showed enhanced safety relative to T3 or other thyroid agonists. In animal models, resmetirom demonstrated cholesterol lowering, liver TG lowering, and reduction of markers of NASH-related liver inflammation and fibrosis at drug levels similar to those that lowered LDL-C in human clinical trials, providing data to support the advancement of resmetirom into NASH and FH clinical trials. In chronic animal toxicology studies in dogs and rats, no effects on bone or cartilage histology were seen at any resmetirom dose in either species.

Resmetirom did not increase liver enzymes in Phase 1 studies and there were no bone and cartilage histologic findings in chronic animal toxicology studies.

Resmetirom Clinical and Non-Clinical Development Program

To date, we have completed a series of Phase 1 and 2 clinical studies, Phase 2-enabling preclinical good laboratory practice, or GLP, toxicology studies, and drug manufacturing studies to support further clinical development, including active pharmaceutical ingredient, or API, manufacturing and drug product development studies, drug metabolism studies, acute, subchronic and chronic animal toxicology studies, and other safety pharmacology and toxicology studies.

We have completed Phase 1 studies with resmetirom in a total of 252 subjects to evaluate the safety, tolerability, pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamic effects of resmetirom. Our Phase 1 studies included randomized, placebo-controlled, double-blind, single and 14-day multiple-dose escalation studies, drug-interaction studies with statins, with the antidiabetic agent pioglitazone, and with the antiplatelet agent clopidogrel. In addition, a study using radiolabeled resmetirom, a study of a tablet versus capsule formulation of resmetirom, and a multiple dose drug interaction and food effect study have also been completed. In Phase 1 studies, resmetirom was well-tolerated up to 200 mg once daily. The results of these studies suggest that resmetirom is suitable for once-daily oral dosing. Currently there is an ongoing Phase 1 hepatic impairment study to characterize the safety and pharmacokinetics of resmetirom in patients with hepatic impairment, a Phase 1 drug-interaction study with warfarin, and a drug interaction study of resmetirom and pravastatin and simvastatin.

In a Phase 1 multiple ascending dose study in healthy subjects, the effects of resmetirom on lipid parameters were assessed as initial markers of pharmacodynamic activity (Atherosclerosis 230:373-380, 2013). As illustrated in the figure below, daily doses of resmetirom ranging from 50 to 200 mg showed highly statistically significant reductions relative to placebo of up to 30% for LDL-C (range, p=.05-<0.0001), 28% for non-high-density lipoprotein cholesterol, or non-HDL-C (range, p =0.027-p<0.0001) and 24% for ApoB (range, p =0.008-0.0004), and statistical trends of up to 60% reduction in TG (range, p =0.13-0.016). The near maximal lipid effects were observed at a resmetirom dose of 80 mg once-daily. Resmetirom was well-tolerated at all doses, with no dose-related adverse events or liver enzyme, electrocardiography, or vital-sign changes. At the highest dose of resmetirom (200 mg), there was a reversible reduction of 20% in the level of a precursor hormone to T3, free T4, which was significantly different from placebo ($p < 0.0001$) that may be explained by increased liver metabolism of free T4. There was no change in thyrotropin, a pituitary hormone that regulates the level and production of thyroid hormone by the thyroid gland or T3, or other evidence of central thyroid axis dysfunction at any dose of resmetirom.

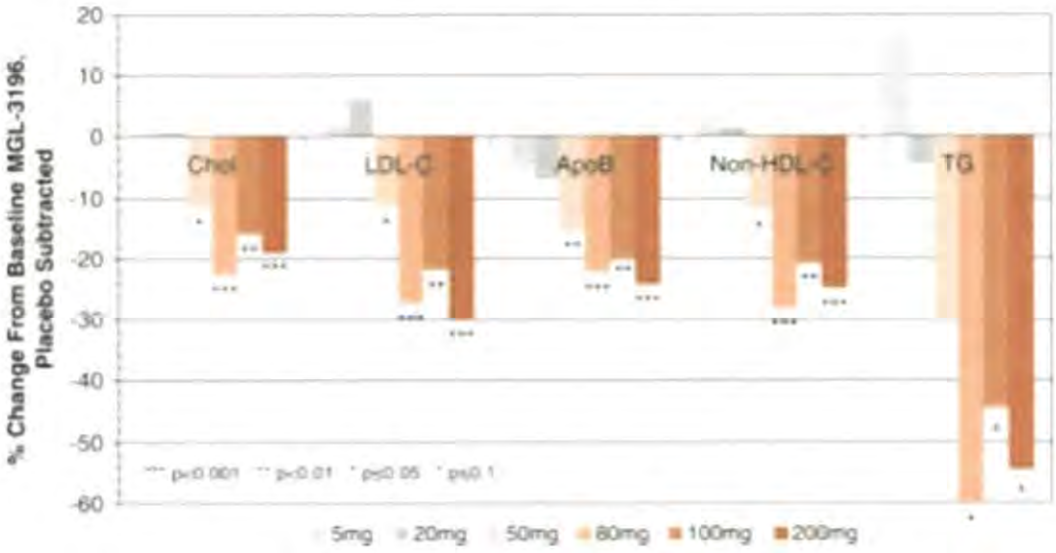
Change in Lipids After 14 Days



Change from Baseline (CFB) by mean % CFB calculated for each individual subject 24 h after 14th dose; baseline value obtained just prior to first dose; ApoB, apolipoprotein B; Chol, total cholesterol; LDL-C, LDL cholesterol directly measured; Non-HDL-C, non-HDL cholesterol; TG, triglycerides (median %CFB).

In a Phase 2 double-blind, placebo-controlled, multi-center clinical trial, 116 patients with HeFH who were not at their LDL-C goal were randomized in a 2:1 ratio to receive either resmetirom or placebo, in addition to their current cholesterol lowering regimen, which included approximately 75% taking high intensity statins (20/40 mg rosuvastatin or 80 mg atorvastatin), and about two-thirds of patients also taking ezetimibe. Compared to placebo, resmetirom treated patients achieved highly significant ($p< 0.0001$) LDL-C lowering of 18.8%, and 21% LDL-C lowering in those on an optimal dose of resmetirom. LDL-C lowering was 28.5% in resmetirom treated compared to placebo in a prespecified group of patients who did not tolerate high intensity statin doses. Highly significant ($p<0.0001$) and numerically similar results were observed with ApoB. Highly significant reductions ($p<0.0001$) in TG (25-31%), ApoCIII (22.7%) and Lp(a) (26-33%) were observed in all resmetirom treated patients and prespecified subgroups, irrespective of statin treatment.

In the NASH Phase 2 double-blind, placebo-controlled, multi-center clinical trial, 125 patients 18 years of age and older with liver biopsy-confirmed NASH were randomized at approximately 25 clinical sites in the United States. Patients were randomized to receive either placebo (N=41) or resmetirom (N=84). The starting dose in resmetirom-treated patients was 80 mg once a day. The study employed an adaptive dosing design whereby, in a blinded fashion, the dose could be adjusted by small amounts (i.e. 20 mg up or down) or remain at 80 mg in each resmetirom-treated patient based on a pharmacokinetic analysis of drug level performed in each patient at 2 weeks. The primary endpoint of the study was the reduction of liver fat at 12 weeks compared with baseline (relative change), assessed by MRI-PDFF, with efficacy confirmed at the end of the trial (36 weeks) by repeat MRI-PDFF and conventional liver biopsy to examine histological evidence for the resolution of NASH. Other secondary endpoints included changes in clinically relevant biomarkers at 12 and 36 weeks, improvement in fibrosis by at least one stage with no worsening of steatohepatitis, and safety and tolerability.

Resmetirom demonstrated statistical significance ($p<0.0001$) in the primary endpoint, the relative reduction of liver fat on MRI-PDFF at 12 weeks. At 36 weeks, statistically significant results were demonstrated in multiple histology endpoints including key secondary endpoints related to the reduction and resolution of NASH. At 36 weeks, resmetirom treated patients demonstrated sustained, statistically significant ($p<0.0001$) reductions compared to placebo treated patients in LDL-C and ApoB of more than 20%, TGs of 36% and Lp(a) of 37%. In addition, resmetirom demonstrated statistically significant reductions in liver enzymes (ALT, AST and GGT) relative to placebo (all $p=0.002$).

Published data showed that patients with >=30% PDFF reduction at Week 12 had a higher rate of NASH resolution and accompanying fibrosis reduction. A secondary analysis of the Phase 2 NASH clinical trial further supported the potential of PDFF to predict NASH response.

- Percentages of patients with NASH resolution at Week 36 increased with greater PDFF reduction (agreement between two independent pathologist central biopsy readers)
- In resmetirom-treated patients with ≥ 50% fat reduction at Week 12, 64% had NASH resolution with a component response driven primarily by ballooning and inflammation
- PDFF reduction ≥ 30 and ≥ 50% at Week 12 was associated with improvement in all NAS components including fibrosis reduction on subsequent liver biopsy and achievement of both endpoints: NASH resolution and ≥ 1 point fibrosis reduction PDFF reduction ≥ 30 and ≥ 50% at Week 12 was also associated with fibrosis reduction on subsequent liver biopsy

These findings support the pathogenicity of liver steatosis in NASH and fibrosis progression.

Our Strategy

Our goal is to become a leading biopharmaceutical company developing and commercializing innovative liver-directed, ß-selective thyroid hormone receptor agonists for the treatment of cardio-metabolic and liver disease, fibrosis and inflammation. A key element is building a multi-therapy NASH focused company. To achieve our goal, we plan to:

- Complete clinical development and seek regulatory approval of resmetirom in NASH. We successfully completed a Phase 2 clinical trial in NASH in 2018. NASH is a disease driven by the growing epidemic of obesity, with a significant unmet need for approved therapies that are effective and well tolerated. We believe resmetirom is an excellent candidate for the chronic treatment of NASH due to its safety profile and first-in-class pleiotropic actions in liver cells and potential to reduce cardiovascular risk in NASH patients.
- Establish commercial capabilities to market resmetirom as a leading treatment for NASH. If approved, we may choose either to establish a sales and marketing organization with technical expertise and supporting distribution capabilities to commercialize resmetirom, or to collaborate with one or more third parties to accomplish these tasks. Patients with NASH are primarily managed by a concentrated group of liver specialists in the United States and Europe. We believe this will enable us to launch resmetirom in NASH in a cost-effective, targeted manner.
- Grow our pipeline through additional indications for resmetirom potentially including orphan indications. We believe that resmetirom has the potential to be an effective treatment for other disease indications that are rare diseases or may be designated rare diseases and we may pursue orphan drug designation where possible.

McKesson Names LeAnn B. Smith as Next Chief Human Resources Officer

Tracy L. Faber to Retire After More Than a Decade at the Company

IRVING, TX, September 13, 2022 — (BUSINESS WIRE) — McKesson Corporation (NYSE:MCK) today announced that LeAnn B. Smith has been selected to become executive vice president and chief human resources officer (CHRO). Ms. Smith will succeed Tracy L. In her new role, Ms. Smith will report to Brian Tyler, chief executive officer (CEO), and serve as a member of the executive operating team. As McKesson continues to focus on people and culture as a strategic priority, Ms. Smith will have responsibility for all human resources disciplines, including attracting, developing and retaining talent across the company, championing employee diversity and inclusion initiatives, and leading transformational change.

"McKesson is committed to developing talent at all levels of the organization and we are pleased to promote LeAnn to the role of chief human resources officer," said Brian Tyler, CEO, McKesson. "In this dynamic time, we look forward to benefitting from her more than 20 years of experience as McKesson continues to address the changing needs of our employees, foster a diverse and inclusive culture and become the best place to work in healthcare."

Ms. Smith joined McKesson in 2021 and currently serves as senior vice president, talent management and development with responsibility for helping to advance McKesson's future growth plans and business performance. In this role, she has direct functional responsibility for leadership and executive development, performance and engagement, talent and succession planning, executive talent acquisition, organizational effectiveness and change management. Previously, Ms. Smith served as chief people leader, global corporate functions for Walmart, where she collaborated with C-Suite leaders on the company's corporate transformation strategy. Ms. Smith also served in a variety of human resources leadership roles at Accenture. Ms. Smith graduated from Saint Louis University with a Bachelor of Science in Health Information Management and earned an Executive Masters in Human Resource Management from Cornell University, ILR School.

"I would also like to congratulate Tracy Faber on such an accomplished career and offer my thanks for her significant contributions to McKesson," added Mr. Tyler. "As CHRO, Tracy led our human resources organization to establish new programs that have improved our employee experience, increased our commitment to diversity and inclusion, enhanced our leadership development efforts and helped attract top talent to our company. Tracy has also played a pivotal role over the past three years in helping our company to navigate through the COVID-19 pandemic. We are extremely grateful for her leadership in addressing the evolving workplace, health and safety needs of our employees and their families during such an uncertain and unpredictable period."

Medline Industries, L.P.
Disciplinary History

Date	Facility	Description of State Action	Corrective Actions
8/3/2005	1401 N. Universal Ave, Kansas City, MO 64120	FILE CLOSED 2010 Medline Industries' Kansas City, MO license (#2003031660) was disciplined for failure to renew on-time and for insufficient temperature control procedures. Medline was placed on probation for 5 years. Throughout the probationary period, the state conducted multiple inspections of the facility and found Medline to be in compliance with all requirements. The probationary period closed in August 2010.	Medline's Regulatory Affairs Department was significantly expanded to include a team of 7 Licensing Specialist that monitor and ensure each of our 200+ licenses are renewed on-time. A temperature control room was also constructed at the facility to ensure product is stored at the appropriate temperature and humidity levels. These control rooms are now a standard feature at our distribution centers, and we have worked closely with VAWD throughout our distribution network to ensure that our temperature control facilities and procedures align with industry best practices.
12/7/2006	9101 Riverside Parkway, Lithia Springs, GA 30122	FILE CLOSED 2008 Medline's Florida Certified Designated Representative at our Georgia facility resigned unexpectedly. The state of Florida suspended Medline's Florida Out of State Rx Drug Wholesale Distributor Permit (#23:1470) until a new licensed Designated Representative was hired at the facility.	To prevent a situation like this from occurring in the future, every Medline facility licensed in FL has multiple Florida Certified Designated Representatives on staff.
11/16/2007	10601 Southport Drive, Orlando, FL 32824 401 Commerce Blvd., Oldsmar, FL 34677 4750 118th Ave N Clearwater, FL 33762	FILE CLOSED 2008 Medline Industries was cited for several violations including: failure to pass and maintain a pedigree that met Florida's specific requirements; having the wrong type of permit for activities being performed (in addition to the manufacturing permit that we had, Florida required that we also have a repacker permit); distribution of saline to an unauthorized recipient; and an Rx drug item was found at an unlicensed raw materials storage facility. Several of the violations were challenged and reduced substantially or removed during the settlement process. Medline was assessed and paid a fine for these violations. All issues were addressed and resolved to the satisfaction of the FL DOH. After duly notifying state authorities, as required, we were fined by New York (Cal. No. 27278) for out-of-state professional misconduct. In 2010, Medline made an unrelated business decision to close the Oldsmar and Clearwater facilities.	To address the pedigree issues, Medline instituted a Florida specific pedigree system to ensure that any pedigree shipments within our distribution network with potential to end up in Florida have the required Florida specific documentation. (Note - these requirements have since been preempted by federal law). To address the issue of having the wrong permit type, Medline secured a repackaging permit, in addition to the manufacturing permit the facility already had. To address the sale of saline to an unauthorized person, Medline instituted a new procedure for obtaining and maintaining customer licenses for all Rx drug purchases; this procedure generates an automatic block of any Rx drug orders by an unlicensed customer in our SAP system. The Rx drug item unintentionally stored at our raw materials facility was properly disposed of, and our waste disposal procedures were updated to ensure that this mistake would not recur.
11/26/2007	2708 NE Waldo Rd., Gainesville, FL	FILE CLOSED 2008 Medline Industries' FL license (# 22:1022) was suspended for violations identified during a Florida BOP facility inspection. Medline, through Counsel, addressed the issues raised in the inspection and established that the suspension was unjustified. The suspension was lifted 3 days later on January 22, 2008 (Case # 2007-37412). In 2010, Medline made an unrelated business decision to close this facility.	After this inspection, Medline conducted a thorough review of its policies and procedures. Additionally, an internal auditing program was implemented to ensure that each distribution center is in compliance with internal policies and procedures, as well as state and federal regulations.
3/5/2008	149 New Camellia Blvd., Covington, LA 70433	FILE CLOSED 2008 Medline Industries' license #4318 was cited for failure to properly maintain copies of current customer licenses on site (Louisiana Administrative Docket #2008006). Medline was assessed and paid a fine. After duly notifying state authorities, as required, we were fined by New York (Cal. No. 27278) for out-of-state professional misconduct.	In addition to storing copies of our customers' licenses at headquarters, we now store these licenses digitally so they can be accessed by our distribution centers.
5/9/2008	5450 W. Stewart Ave., Wausau, WI	FILE CLOSED 2009 Medline Industries' license (# 1116-045) was cited and fined by the Wisconsin Department of Regulation & Licensing during an inspection. Medline managed a portion of a Wisconsin hospital's warehouse. The inspector cited Medline for failure to have a dividing fence between the Medline managed portion of the facility and the hospital portion of the facility - even though all of the products were owned by the hospital. Medline was also cited for failure to access several policies and procedures during the inspection. Corrections were made and the facility was re-inspected, to the satisfaction of the state (Case #08 PHM 037). After duly notifying state authorities, as required, we were fined by the states of Hawaii (Case #PHA 2009-7-L) and New York (Cal. No. 27278) out-of-state professional misconduct. . In 2010, Medline made an unrelated business decision to close this facility.	Immediately after the inspection, Medline and the owner of the facility erected a locked fence to divide the faculty. Medline also reviewed all of its other facilities to make sure no similar situations existed. In addition, training on where and how to access current policies and procedures was increased for distribution center personnel. This training is in addition to the training they receive on the policies and procedures themselves.
8/21/2008	94-1420 Moaniani St., Waipahu, Hawaii	FILE CLOSED 2013 Medline Industries' license (PWD 115) was fined $5000 and placed on probation for 5 years for failure to report the Florida and Missouri disciplinary actions within 30 days. While Medline filed the required reports, the 30 day deadline was missed. Probationary period ended August 2013. (Case # PHA 2008-17-L)	Medline takes this oversight very seriously and we have implemented a new process to notify the required boards of any future disciplinary actions within 10 days of a final action.
3/19/2010	1401 N. Universal Ave, Kansas City, MO 64120	FILE CLOSED 2010 Medline applied for a Colorado Out of State Wholesaler license for the Missouri distribution center and was issued a conditional license by the CO Board of Pharmacy until the facility's MO probation period ended (approximately 5 months). The CO BOP was informed when the MO probationary period was completed, and subsequently removed the encumbered status of this facility's CO license.	See above for corrective actions related to the underlying sanction.
1/6/2021	1501 Harris Rd, Libertyville, IL 60048	FILE CLOSED 2021 Medline Industries, Inc. License #01-1985050 received a fined $250 by the Ohio Board of Pharmacy for the sale of dangerous drugs to an unlicensed entity. Medline maintained a current and valid DEA license on file for the physician rather than the TDDD license for the facility. The facility's TDDD license at the time of the sale had expired, unbeknownst to Medline. Case No. A-2020-0054 I-2019-0972-B. The fine was paid on January 21, 2021 and the case was closed. After duly notifying state authorities, as required, we were fined $500 by The Alabama State Board of Pharmacy (Case No:21-L-0048) for the same underlying conduct as the Ohio matter. The fine was paid and the matter closed.	Medline takes this oversight very seriously. We reviewed our processes and updated our guidelines for the type of license required for business in Ohio to ensure proper type of licenses applied to the customer are valid and current. The TDDD Ohio licenses are reviewed on an annual basis to ensure compliance.
