ASTRAZENECA PHARMACEUTICALS LP PLEADS GUILTY TO HEALTHCARE CRIME; COMPANY AGREES TO PAY $355 MILLION TO SETTLE CHARGES

The United States Attorney's Office for the District of Delaware, the Department of Health and Human Services Acting Principal Deputy Inspector General Dara Corrigan, Terrell L. Vermillion, Director, Office of Criminal Investigations, Food & Drug Administration, and SAIC Edward T. Bradley of the Northeast Field Office for the Defense Criminal Investigative Service announced that AstraZeneca Pharmaceuticals LP ("AstraZeneca"), a major pharmaceutical manufacturer headquartered in Wilmington, Delaware, today pleaded guilty in federal district court in Wilmington, Delaware to a healthcare crime and agreed to pay $355,000,000 to resolve criminal charges and civil liabilities in connection with its drug pricing and marketing practices with regard to Zoladex, a drug sold by AstraZeneca Pharmaceuticals LP and used primarily for the treatment of prostate cancer. The general components of the global agreement are as follows:

AstraZeneca pleaded guilty to conspiring to violate the Prescription Drug Marketing Act ("PDMA") by causing to be submitted claims for payment for the prescription of Zoladex which had been provided as free samples to urologists. This criminal conduct caused losses of $39,920,098 to Medicare, Medicaid and other federally funded insurance programs. As part of the plea agreement, AstraZeneca agreed to pay a $63,872,156 criminal fine;

AstraZeneca agreed to settle its federal civil False Claim Act liabilities and to pay the U.S. government $266,127,844 to resolve allegations that the company caused false and fraudulent claims to be filed with the Medicare, TriCare, Department of Defense and Railroad Retirement Board Medicare programs as a result of AstraZeneca's fraudulent drug pricing schemes and sales and marketing misconduct;

AstraZeneca agreed to settle its civil liabilities to the Medicaid program by paying to the United States and the states a total of $24,900,000 to resolve allegations that it caused false and fraudulent claims to be filed with the states as a result of its drug pricing and marketing misconduct and that it failed to provide the state Medicaid programs AstraZeneca's best price for those drugs as required by law. The National Association of Medicaid Fraud Control Units has reached an agreement in principle to settle the state portion of these liabilities on behalf of the state Attorneys General; and AstraZeneca has agreed to comply with the terms of a corporate integrity agreement which ensures, among other things, that AstraZeneca will report to the Medicare and Medicaid programs the average sale price for drugs reimbursed by those programs and will promote, through internal training and other programs and policies, marketing and sales practices that are in full compliance with the law.

Zoladex is marketed by AstraZeneca primarily for the treatment of prostate cancer, as is the drug Lupron which is produced by TAP Pharmaceuticals, Inc. ("TAP"). In October 2001, TAP agreed to pay $875,000,000 to resolve civil and criminal liabilities in connection with its pricing and marketing of Lupron.

While Medicare does not pay for most drugs needed by Medicare beneficiaries, Medicare covers some drugs, such as Zoladex, that must be injected under the supervision of a physician.

In documents filed with this case, the United States alleged that from January 1991 through December 31, 2002, Astra Zeneca engaged in the following conduct involving the marketing, sale and pricing of Zoladex for the treatment of prostate cancer:

(i) Employees of AstraZeneca provided thousands of free samples of Zoladex to physicians knowing and expecting that certain of those physicians would prescribe and administer the free drug samples to their patients and thereafter bill those free samples to the patients and to Medicare, Medicaid, and other federally funded insurance programs;

(ii) In order to induce certain physicians, physicians' practices, and others to purchase Zoladex, AstraZeneca offered and paid illegal remuneration in various forms including free Zoladex, unrestricted educational grants, business assistance grants and services, travel and entertainment, consulting services, and honoraria;

(iii)Also in order to induce physicians to purchase Zoladex, AstraZeneca marketed a "Return-to-Practice" program to physicians. This Return-to-Practice program consisted of inflating the Average Wholesale Price ("AWP") used by Medicare and others for reimbursement of the drug , deeply discounting the price paid by physicians to AstraZeneca for the drug ("the discounted price"), and marketing the spread between the AWP and the discounted price to physicians as additional profit to be returned to the physician's practice from Medicare reimbursements for Zoladex;

(iv) AstraZeneca set the AWP for Zoladex at levels far higher than the majority of its physician customers actually paid for the drug. As a result, AstraZeneca's customers received reimbursement from Medicare and state Medicaid programs and others at levels significantly higher than the physicians' actual costs or the wholesalers' average price; and

(v) AstraZeneca misreported and underpaid its Medicaid rebates for Zoladex used for treatment of prostate cancer, i.e., the amounts that it owed to the states under the federal Medicaid Rebate Program. AstraZeneca was generally required on a quarterly basis to rebate to each state Medicaid program the difference between the Average Manufacturer Price ("AMP") and its "Best Price". AstraZeneca falsely reported the Best Price for Zoladex used for treatment of prostate cancer because AstraZeneca calculated its Best Prices for Zoladex without accounting for off-invoice price concessions provided in various forms including cash discounts in the form of grants, services and free goods contingent on any purchase requirement.

The investigation commenced after the filing of a civil False Claim Act suit by Douglas Durand who was employed as the Vice President of Sales for TAP Pharmaceutical Products, Inc. The civil False Claims Act allows for private individuals like Durand to file a whistleblower suit to bring the government information about wrongdoing. Where persons submit, cause others to submit, or conspire to submit false or fraudulent claims to the United States government, the government is entitled to recover treble damages and $5,500 to $11,000 for each false or fraudulent claim. If the government is successful in resolving or litigating its claims, the whistleblower may share in the recovery by receiving from 15 to 25% of the amount recovered. As part of this settlement, Durand will receive a 17% share of the civil recovery pursuant to the False Claims Act whistleblower provisions. This amounts to approximately $47.5 million.

Prior to today's guilty plea by AstraZeneca, three physicians have been charged, and two have pleaded guilty, for their role in conspiring to bill for Zoladex samples. Dr. Saad Antoun, a urologist practicing in Holmdel, New Jersey, was charged on January 15, 2002, and pleaded guilty to conspiracy on September 18, 2002. Dr. Stanley Hopkins, a urologist practicing in Boca Raton, Florida, was charged on September 30, 2002, and pleaded guilty to conspiracy on December 17, 2002. Dr. Robert Berkman, a urologist practicing in Columbus, Ohio, was charged on May 19, 2003.

"This prosecution of a pharmaceutical company demonstrates our resolve to protect federal health insurance programs when they are abused to enrich drug companies and doctors. We will pursue those whose criminal conduct imposes enormous expense on trust funds that the taxpayers fund to protect and preserve the health of our elderly, our poor, our military, and its dependents." said Associate Attorney General Robert D. McCallum, Jr. of the United States Department of Justice.

"The public has been well served by the investigators who uncovered the extent of this scheme and brought it to an end," said Commissioner of Food and Drugs Mark B. McClellan, M.D., Ph.D. "FDA will not tolerate criminal conduct that exploits patients, plunders the national treasury, and adds to the cost of health care."

"Today's settlement shows that the federal government is holding the pharmaceutical industry strictly accountable for improper conduct as well as those who conduct business with them." Department of Health and Human Services Acting Principal Deputy Inspector General Dara Corrigan stated. "The Office of Inspector General, along with our partners, will not tolerate this type of behavior, and we will continue to investigate allegations of illegal conduct concerning the pharmaceutical industry."

"Today's plea and settlement demonstrates our strong commitment to protecting the American public from corporate greed, in whatever form that it may occur", said SAC Bradley. "This commitment extends to all participants in the many healthcare systems in this country, including our brave service men and women and their dependents. This case sends a strong message to the pharmaceutical industry that fraudulent activity, such as the scheme perpetrated by AstraZeneca, will not be tolerated and will be investigated and prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

The entire amount of the nearly $64 million criminal fine paid by AstraZeneca will go to the Department of Justice's Crime Victims Fund. The Fund was established in 1984 by the Victims of Crime Act ("VOCA") and serves as a major funding source for victim services throughout the country. Victims of federal as well as state crimes are eligible to receive VOCA-funded services, and state Assistance programs use VOCA funds to provide or contract for services to victims of rape, drunk driving, child abuse, domestic violence, homicide, and other crimes.

The investigation has been conducted by the Office of Inspector General for the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, the Office of Criminal Investigations for the Food and Drug Administration, the Defense Criminal Investigative Service and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. On the criminal side, the investigation and prosecution are being handled by Assistant U.S. Attorney Beth Moskow-Schnoll. On the civil side, the investigation and prosecution are being handled by Assistant U.S. Attorney Virginia Gibson.

Subject: Regarding Your Recent Inquiry: Virtual Manufacture License [ref:_00DC016khO._5008y7F1WG:ref]

Good afternoon,

This email is in response to your correspondence and request whether your Company is required to obtain a license to distribute when it is not distributing itself, never touches the drug and uses a third party provide to distribute. 24 Del. C. §2540 of the Pharmacy Act states that persons who distribute medicine, drugs, toilet preparations, dentifrices or cosmetics must be registered with the Board of Pharmacy. Section (B) of this law further states that "person may not operate a pharmaceutical establishment to manufacture, pack, package, or distribute on a wholesale basis to persons other than the ultimate consumer any drugs, toilet preparations, dentifrices, or cosmetics without first obtaining from the Board a permit to operate a pharmaceutical establishment." Any third party distributor who distributes drugs into, through or from the state of Delaware would have to be licensed accordingly.

The Board of Pharmacy currently has no regulatory oversight of virtual manufacturers.

D. Risk Factors

Operating in the pharmaceutical sector carries various inherent risks and uncertainties that may affect our business. In this section, we describe the risks and uncertainties that we consider material to our business, in that they may have a significant effect on our financial condition, results of operations and/or reputation.

These risks have been categorised consistently with the "Risk Overview—Principal Risks" detailed on pages 56 and 57 of AstraZeneca's "Annual Report and Form 20-F Information 2023" included as exhibit 15.1 to this Form 20-F dated February 20, 2024, each of which are included below (in addition to other risks that we face). We believe that the forward-looking statements about AstraZeneca in this Form 20-F dated February 20, 2024, identified by words such as 'anticipates', 'believes', 'expects' and 'intends', are based on reasonable assumptions. However, forward-looking statements involve inherent risks and uncertainties such as those summarised below. They relate to events that may occur in the future, that may be influenced by factors beyond our control and that may have actual outcomes materially different from our expectations. Therefore, other risks, unknown or not currently considered material, could have a material adverse effect on our financial condition or results of operations.

Product pipeline risks	Impact
Failure or delay in the delivery of our pipeline or launch of new medicines
Our continued success depends on the development and successful launch of innovative new drugs. The development of pharmaceutical product candidates is a complex, risky and lengthy process involving significant resources. A project may fail at any stage of the process due to various factors, including: failure to obtain the required regulatory or marketing approvals; unfavourable clinical efficacy data; safety concerns; failure to demonstrate adequate cost-effective benefits to regulatory authorities and/or payers; and the emergence of competing products. Details of projects that have suffered setbacks or failures during 2023 can be found in the "Strategic Report—Therapy Area Review" on pages 16 to 31 of AstraZeneca's 'Annual Report and Form 20-F Information 2023' included as exhibit 15.1 to this Form 20-F dated February 20, 2024. Launch activities may be delayed by a number of factors, including: adverse findings in preclinical or clinical studies; regulatory demands; price negotiation; large-scale natural disasters or global pandemics; competitor activity; and technology transfer. In addition to developing products in-house, we continue to expand our portfolio through licensing arrangements and strategic collaborations which may not ultimately be successful.	Failure or delay in development of new product candidates could damage the reputation of our R&D capabilities and materially adversely affect our future business and results of operations. Delays to launches can lead to excess expenses in the manufacture of pre-launch inventories, marketing materials and sales force training. For the launch of products that are seasonal in nature, delays in regulatory approvals or manufacturing may delay launch to the next season which, in turn, may significantly reduce the return on costs incurred in preparing for the launch for that season. Furthermore, in immuno-oncology in particular, speed to market is critical given the large number of clinical trials being conducted by competitors. Delay of launch can also erode the term of patent exclusivity. Competition from other pharmaceutical companies means that we may have to pay a significant premium over book or market values for our acquisitions. Failure to complete collaborative projects in a timely, cost-effective manner may limit our ability to access a greater portfolio of products, intellectual property (IP), technology and shared expertise. In many cases we make milestone payments in advance of the commercialisation of the products, with no assurance of recouping costs.
Failure to meet regulatory or ethical requirements for medicine development or approval
We are subject to laws and regulations that control our ability to market our pharmaceutical products. Our development programmes must meet many standards to prove our products are safe, effective and of high quality. Health authorities, such as the FDA in the US and the European Medicines Agency in the EU, can refuse to approve our products or require us to conduct additional clinical trials or scientific testing before they will approve them for marketing. Many factors influence health authority decisions to approve or reject a marketing application for a pharmaceutical product. These include advances in science and technology; new laws, regulations and policies; and different standards for evaluating safety and effectiveness.	Delays in regulatory approvals could delay our ability to market our products and may adversely affect our revenue. Also, post-approval requirements, including additional clinical trials, could cause increased costs. We seek to manage these risks, but policymaking by governments and health authorities can be unpredictable and unforeseen circumstances, such as public health emergencies, may strain health authority resources and delay the approval of our products. Following approval, a health authority may require us to conduct additional clinical trials or scientific testing to address concerns raised after patients have used our products in the marketplace. New data may impact a product's approval status or lead to labelling changes that limit the use of a product.

D. Risk Factors continued

Commercialisation risks	Impact
Failures or delays in the quality or execution of the Group's commercial strategies
Maximising the commercial potential of our new products underpins the success of our strategy and the delivery of our short- and medium-term targets. We may ultimately be unable to achieve commercial success for various reasons, including > difficulties in manufacturing sufficient quantities of the product > any price control measures imposed by governments and healthcare authorities > patient access to healthcare > diagnosis rates > erosion of IP rights > failure to show a differentiated product profile > changes in prescribing habits. The ability to successfully carry out business in emerging markets can be more challenging than in established markets. Such challenges may include > volatility in economic or political climates > inadequate protection against crime (including counterfeiting, corruption and fraud) > inadvertent breaches of local and international law.	Failure to execute our commercial strategies or achieve the level of sales anticipated for a medicine could materially adversely impact our business or results of operations. Failure to leverage potential opportunities or appropriately manage risks in emerging markets may materially adversely affect our reputation, business or results of operations.
Pricing affordability, access and competitive pressures
Appropriate pricing, reimbursement and policy frameworks enable us to contribute significantly to patients, public health and health practice transformation. The global economic, political and social pressures are creating an ever more challenging environment in which we operate. As a result of global financial pressures there is increased evidence of cost containment measures including > drug pricing system reforms such as the Inflation Reduction Act (IRA) in the US > changes to reference pricing rules impacting prices in some markets > expedited approval of generic drugs and introduction of new laws regulations and policies.	Deterioration of, or lack of improvement in, socio-economic conditions could adversely affect supply and/or distribution in affected countries and the ability or willingness of customers to purchase our medicines, putting pressure on price and/or volumes. This could adversely affect our business or results of operations, for example, those health systems most severely impacted by downturn may seek alternative ways to settle their debts at a discount. Other customers may cease to trade, which may result in losses from writing off debts or a reduction in demand for products. Across the industry, a new government-run drug price-setting programme in the US could reduce the value of certain products sooner than planned and impact the R&D pipeline as companies seek to avoid investing in lower yield products.

Supply chain and business execution risks	Impact
Failure to maintain supply of compliant, quality medicines
We may experience challenges, delays or interruptions in the manufacturing and supply of our products for various reasons, including: > Supply shortages or delays in construction of facilities to support future demand of our products caused by significant unforecasted demand growth or supply chain disruptions (e.g. natural disasters, climate impacts, COVID-19, conflict or political unrest). > The inability to supply products due to a product quality failure or regulatory compliance action such as licence withdrawal, product recall or change of regulatory standards (e.g. nitrosamines, where regulators have been introducing new limits/expectations for regulatory filings). It is necessary for us to meet all regulations, including compliance with Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP) and Good Distribution Practices (GDP) and comparable regulatory dossier conditions of approval in all countries in which our products are licensed, manufactured or sold. We rely significantly on third parties for the timely supply of goods (e.g. active ingredients and packaging components), many of which are difficult to substitute in a timely manner or at all.	Supply chain difficulties may result in product shortages, which could lead to lost Product Sales and materially affect our reputation and results of operations. Failure to comply with all manufacturing regulations can result in negative regulatory inspection findings that could lead to the halt of manufacturing, and/or product seizure, debarment or recalls which could have an adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. In the event of insolvency of third-party suppliers, it would be difficult to substitute in a timely manner or at all.

Illegal trade in the Group's medicines

The illegal trade of pharmaceutical products, including counterfeiting, tampering, theft and illegal diversion (where products are found in a market where we did not send them and where they are not approved to be sold) may lead to a loss of public confidence in the integrity of medicines.

The incidence of illegal trade could materially adversely affect our reputation, financial performance and pose a direct risk to patient safety. In addition, concern about this issue may cause some patients to stop taking their medicines, with consequential risks to their health.

If we are found liable for breaches in our supply chains, authorities may take action, financial or otherwise, that could restrict the distribution of our products.

Reliance on third-party goods and services

A significant proportion of AstraZeneca's annual costs relates to spend with third-party suppliers. The level of spend supports the length of our value chain from discovery to manufacture and commercialisation of our medicines.

Many of our business-critical operations are outsourced to third-party providers. We are, therefore, heavily reliant on these third parties to get medicines to patients, comply with applicable laws and regulations, while also ensuring prudent use of AstraZeneca financial resources.

Failure to successfully secure, onboard and manage outsourced services, particularly with inflationary pressures increasing, or the failure of outsourced providers to deliver timely services, and to the required level of quality, could materially adversely affect our reputation, our financial condition and operating results as well as our ability to deliver medicines to patients.

Failure to effectively manage third-party suppliers when external factors, including geopolitical tensions, or raw materials and components shortages, place increased pressure on AstraZeneca's ability to purchase goods and services may lead to major business disruption.

Any breach of security, whether physical, cyber or data related, or failure of these third parties to operate in a way that is consistent with laws or regulations, may lead to regulatory penalties, materially affect the results of operations and adversely impact our reputation.

Failure in information technology or cybersecurity

IT systems enable critical business functions. Critical business processes and functions are increasingly dependent on partner and vendor IT stability and data integrity. IT systems provide our workforce with continuous access to collaboration environments, global communications channels, applications and data. High availability IT systems remain a business imperative. In addition to availability and reliability, IT systems must comply with provisions specified in data security, privacy and individual protection laws.

Data is a commodity that we prioritise continued access to and protection of. Data is often characterised as strictly confidential information. Examples of strictly confidential data include clinical trial records, personal information, IP, R&D data, and compliance information. AstraZeneca's IT systems and data are potentially vulnerable to service interruptions and security breaches via attacks by malicious third parties or intentional or inadvertent actions by our employees or vendors. Attempts to exploit AstraZeneca are increasingly sophisticated. Threat actors include organised criminal groups, 'hacktivists', nation states, employees and others.

The internet is our primary critical business transaction channel. Internet availability is increasingly at risk due to geopolitical tensions and conflict.

Privacy legislation includes obligations to report data protection breaches to regulators and affected individuals within expedited timeframes.

Disruption to these IT systems and/or the internet (including breaches of data security or cybersecurity, failure to integrate new and existing IT systems) or failure to comply with additional requirements under applicable laws, could harm our reputation and materially adversely affect our financial condition or results of operations. While we invest heavily in the protection of our data and IT, we may be unable to prevent hardware or software failures or breaches which could result in disclosure of confidential information, damage to our reputation, regulatory penalties or sanctions, or financial loss. The inability to back-up and restore data effectively could lead to permanent loss of data that could, in turn, result in non-compliance with applicable laws and regulations and otherwise harm our business.

Data loss could lead to public disclosure of confidential information which may damage our reputation, materially affect our business or results of operations, and expose us to legal risks and/or additional legal obligations. Public disclosure of sensitive information could materially adversely affect our reputation and business or operations results.

Cybersecurity insurance coverage limits may not protect against any future claim or claim proceeds may be delayed.

Failure to comply with regulatory disclosure requirements could cause reputational damage and a loss of public trust.

Failure of critical processes

Unexpected events and/or events beyond our control could result in the failure of critical processes within the Group or at third parties on whom we are reliant.

The business faces threats to business continuity from many directions. Examples of material threats include:

> Disruption to our business or the global markets if there is instability in a particular geographic region, including as a result of war, terrorism, pandemics, armed conflicts, riots, unstable governments, civil insurrection or social unrest.

> Natural disasters in areas of the world prone to extreme weather events which may increase in frequency or severity as a result of climate change.

> Cyber threats similar to those detailed in the 'Failure in information technology or cybersecurity' section above.

Crystallisation of such material threats may heighten certain other risks, such as those relating to the delivery of the pipeline, launch of new medicines, or the manufacture and supply of medicines, and may lead to loss of revenue and have a materially adverse impact on our financial results.

Failure to collect and manage data in line with legal and regulatory requirements and strategic objectives

Data is increasingly recognised as being AstraZeneca's most valuable commodity. There is an increasing range of legislative and regulatory requirements to manage data across all countries where we conduct business; these may impact certain types of data such as personal data, the way that we conduct business such as restricting the movement of data between countries or jurisdictional regions or how we make use of new technological capabilities such as artificial intelligence (AI). In addition, geopolitical changes may require changes to how AstraZeneca manages data.

Beyond legal and regulatory requirements, achieving strategic objectives will require good management of data across the enterprise. As our organisation increasingly relies on data, including sensitive data relating to health and genomics, a failure to properly understand personal and collective accountabilities for managing data to maximise its value, or failure to address data risks will reduce our ability to execute at pace and deliver strategic objectives.

AI technologies present significant opportunities and risks to our business. Harnessing AI's transformative potential may enable AstraZeneca to speed up the discovery and development of new drugs, optimise our manufacturing processes, drive efficiencies and productivity, and accelerate our growth. Failure to exploit these opportunities may put AstraZeneca at a competitive disadvantage.

AstraZeneca is investing significant resources into AI experimentation, development, and deployment across many parts of our business. As we scale our use of AI, it is possible not all investments will succeed.

AI technologies may exacerbate existing risks, like those risks associated with data privacy, cybersecurity and IP. AI also introduces new risks due to the autonomous nature of the technology, the ease at which AI-enabled decision making can be scaled up, and the commercial pressures to adopt AI. AI systems can amplify biased and discriminatory decision making, perform unreliably and malfunction, generate insights which are difficult to interpret and explain, and cause direct harm to individuals or groups. These risks may become more significant as we increasingly utilise AI to inform, augment and automate decision making and processes in sensitive areas (e.g. clinical trials, medical decision making).

The adoption and exploitation of AI is occurring under the backdrop of intense global media scrutiny, heightened political attention and low levels of public trust and understanding. There is also a range of new AI regulations being adopted and implemented worldwide, including in the EU, China and the US.

Despite taking measures designed to ensure compliance with applicable privacy- and AI-related laws and regulations by our personnel and our third parties, non-compliance has occurred and may occur again in the future. If future instances of non-compliance are deemed significant, these may attract material regulatory sanctions or fines and corresponding reputational damage, orders to stop certain processing of personal data, or legal action on behalf of impacted individuals. Further, failure to protect personal data could lead to a competitive disadvantage, loss of trust from our stakeholders, including patients, and prevent us from delivering our strategic objectives.

If the scope of data-related laws is expanded or if the interpretation or enforcement of existing laws change or new privacy laws are implemented, AstraZeneca and its third-party vendors may be required to change their business practices or data processing practices and policies. This may lead to substantial compliance-related costs or materially adversely impact our business and financial condition.

Our failure to use AI technologies in a way that maintains trust, quality and control in our business activities would pose reputational, legal, regulatory and financial risks to AstraZeneca. Investments in AI may not realise the benefits that were anticipated.

Failure to attract, develop, engage and retain a diverse, talented and capable workforce

We rely heavily on recruiting and retaining talented employees with a diverse range of skills and capabilities to meet our strategic objectives. Externally there is intense competition for well-qualified individuals, as the supply of people with certain skills or in specific geographic regions may be limited.

Ensuring our employees are continually developed and engaged with strategic objectives embeds commitment across the workforce.

The inability to attract and retain highly skilled personnel may weaken our succession plans for critical positions, impact the implementation of our strategic objectives and ultimately result in the failure of our business operations.

Failure to develop and engage our workforce could result in business disruption, a loss of productivity and higher turnover rates, all of which could materially adversely affect our business.

Focus in 2024 will be to look at our global footprint to ensure we are best positioned to support science and the business towards the 2030 Bold Ambition.

Legal, regulatory and compliance risks	Impact

Failure to meet regulatory or ethical expectations on environmental impact, including climate change

Environmental issues will become more material as healthcare systems embrace net-zero climate targets.

Our environmental targets and performance will have increased scrutiny by investors, governments and non-governmental organisations.

Environmental considerations are becoming embedded in the public procurement of goods and services, including medicinal products and devices.

Specific materials used to manufacture medicines, or used as excipients or propellants, are coming under increased regulation and may be subject to time-limited exemptions or potential phase-out.

The physical impacts of climate change could impact the resilience of our business operations and supply chain.

Investors are increasingly focusing on environmental issues. We continue to see an increased requirement to quantify the impact of specific environmental issues and to disclose our strategy, targets and performance.

Failure to maximise our environmental sustainability credentials could expose us to increased regulatory risk and put us at a commercial disadvantage relative to our peers. This could adversely impact our financial results and lead to reputational damage.

Failure to proactively manage the physical risks associated with climate change could impact the resilience of our operations and supply chain. This could result in supply interruptions, loss of stock and adversely impact our financial results.

Safety and efficacy of marketed medicines is questioned

Our ability to accurately assess, prior to launch, the eventual safety or efficacy of a new product once in broader clinical use can only be based on data available at that time, which is inherently limited due to relatively short periods of product testing and relatively small clinical study patient samples.

Any unforeseen safety concerns or adverse events relating to our products, or failure to comply with laws, rules and regulations relating to provision of appropriate warnings concerning the dangers and risks of our products that result in injuries, could expose us to large product liability claims, settlements and awards, particularly in the US. Adverse publicity relating to the safety of a product, or of other competing products, may increase the risk of product liability claims. Details of material product liability litigation matters can be found in "Financial Statements—Notes to the Group Financial Statements—Note 30—Commitments, contingent liabilities and contingent assets" on pages 204 to 210 of AstraZeneca's "Annual Report and Form 20-F Information 2023" included as exhibit 15.1 to this Form 20-F dated February 20, 2024.

Serious safety concerns or adverse events relating to our products could lead to product recalls, seizures, loss of product approvals, declining sales and interruption of supply, and could materially adversely impact patient access, our reputation and financial revenues. Significant product liability claims could also arise which could be costly, divert management attention, or damage our reputation and demand for our products.

Unfavourable resolution of such current and similar future product liability claims could subject us to enhanced damages, consumer fraud and/or other claims, including civil and criminal governmental actions. This could require us to make significant provisions in our accounts relating to legal proceedings and could materially adversely affect our financial condition or results of operations, particularly where such circumstances are not covered by insurance.

Adverse outcome of litigation and/or governmental investigations

Our business is subject to a wide range of laws and regulations around the world. We have been, and may continue to be, subject to various legal proceedings and governmental investigations.

Actual or perceived failure to comply with laws or regulations may result in AstraZeneca and/or its employees being investigated by government agencies and authorities and/ or in civil legal proceedings. Relevant authorities have wide-ranging administrative powers to deal with any failure to comply with laws, regulations or continuing regulatory oversight, and this could affect us whether such failure is our own or that of our contractors or external partners. In particular, the manufacturing, marketing, exportation, promotional, clinical pharmacovigilance and pricing practices of pharmaceutical manufacturers, as well as manufacturer interaction with regulatory agencies, purchasers, prescribers and patients, are subject to extensive regulation, litigation and governmental investigation. Moreover, such laws, rules and regulations are subject to change. Details of material litigations and governmental investigations can be found in 'Financial Statements—Notes to the Group Financial Statements—Note 30—Commitments, contingent liabilities and contingent assets' on pages 204 to 210 of AstraZeneca's 'Annual Report and Form 20-F Information 2023' included as exhibit 15.1 to this Form 20-F dated February 20, 2024.

Many companies, including AstraZeneca, have been subject to legal claims asserted by federal and state governmental authorities and private payers and consumers, which have resulted in substantial expense and other significant consequences. Governmental investigations or proceedings could result in civil or criminal sanctions and/or the payment of fines or damages. Civil litigation, particularly in the US, is inherently unpredictable, and unexpectedly high awards for damages can result from an adverse result. In many cases, litigation adversaries may claim enhanced damages in extremely high amounts. Government investigations, litigations, and other legal proceedings, regardless of the outcome, could be costly, divert management attention, or damage our reputation and demand for our products.

Unfavourable resolutions to current and similar future proceedings against us that could subject us to criminal liability, fines, penalties or other monetary or non-monetary remedies, including enhanced damages, require us to make significant provisions in our accounts relating to legal proceedings and could materially adversely affect our business or results of operations.

IP risks related to our products

IP protection provides the foundation for continued investment in developing innovative medicines to improve patient health. However, the pharmaceutical industry is experiencing pressure from governments and other healthcare payers to impose limits on IP protections in an effort to manage healthcare costs. Additionally, policymakers are progressively leveraging regulations to expedite the approval of generic drugs and encourage generic drug utilisation. These policies may drive accelerated utilisation of generic alternatives to our products following expiry or loss of our IP rights. We also recognise increasing use of compulsory licensing in some countries in which we operate.

We are subject to numerous patent challenges relating to various products or processes and assertions of non-infringement of our patents. A loss in any of these challenges could result in loss of patent protection on the covered product and a risk to the revenue generated by the product. We also face the risk that our products may be found to infringe patents owned or licensed by third parties and we may be subject to monetary damages or compelled to cease sales of the infringing product, resulting in a potential risk to revenue. These challenges threaten the value of our investment in pharmaceutical development. Details of material patent litigation matters can be found in 'Financial Statements—Notes to the Group Financial Statements—Note 30—Commitments, contingent liabilities and contingent assets' on pages 204 to 210 of AstraZeneca's 'Annual Report and Form 20-F Information 2023' included as exhibit 15.1 to this Form 20-F dated February 20, 2024.

If we are unable to obtain, defend and enforce our IP, we may experience accelerated and intensified competition. Also, if our products are found to infringe a third-party patent, we may be subject to monetary damages or compelled to cease sales of the infringing product. These negative outcomes could have an adverse material impact on our financial results.

Economic and financial risks	Impact
Failure to achieve strategic plans or meet targets or expectations
When we communicate our business strategy, targets or performance expectations, all such statements are forward-looking and based on assumptions and judgements, all of which are subject to significant inherent risks and uncertainties.	To achieve our strategic objectives, we must continue to develop commercially viable new products and successfully integrate new organisations we have acquired. There can be no guarantee that our strategy or expectations will materialise. Any failure to successfully implement our business strategy may frustrate the achievement of our financial targets, which may therefore materially damage our brand, business, financial position or results of operations.
Geopolitical and/or macroeconomic volatility disrupts the operation of our global business
Operating in more than 100 countries, we are subject to political, socio-economic and financial factors around the world. A sustained global economic downturn may adversely impact financial markets and/or exacerbate pressure from governments and other healthcare payers on medicine prices and other cost control measures in order to limit healthcare spending. Geopolitical tensions may lead to the imposition or escalation of trade controls, tariffs, taxes or other restrictions to market access which may increase our costs or reduce revenues.	A severe or prolonged economic downturn could result in a variety of risks to our business, including weakened demand for medicines and our ability to raise additional capital when needed or on favourable terms, if at all. A weak or declining economy could strain our suppliers, possibly resulting in supply disruption, or cause delays in payments for our services by third-party payers. Measures taken to limit healthcare spending may lead to lower than anticipated rates of growth in some markets and an adverse impact on revenues and profitability. Any escalation in barriers to the global free flow of medicines is likely to increase costs to serve affected markets which may lead to downward pressure on margins. While the introduction of severe sanctions is unlikely in relation to medicines, it could occur if matters escalate significantly and could impact processes for the commercialisation of medicines and levels of sales in affected markets. Any of the foregoing could harm our business and we cannot anticipate all of the ways in which the current economic climate and financial market conditions could adversely impact our business.
Failure in financial control or the occurrence of fraud
Effective internal controls assist in the provision of reliable Financial Statements and the detection and prevention of fraud. Testing of internal controls provides only limited assurance over the accuracy of Financial Statements and may not prevent or detect misstatements or fraud.	Significant resources may be required to remediate any deficiency in internal controls. Any such deficiency may trigger related investigations and may result in fines being levied against individual directors or officers. Serious fraud may lead to prosecution of senior management. Any of the foregoing could adversely affect our financial results and lead to reputational damage.

Unexpected deterioration in the Group's financial position

Movements in exchange rates against the US dollar, our reporting currency, impact our reported results. The key currencies of Product Sales and costs are: US dollar, Chinese renminbi, euro, Japanese yen, Swedish krona and pound sterling.

Most of our cash is invested in AAA credit-rated institutional money market funds, fixed income securities issued by government, financial and non-financial entities and collateralised and non-collateralised bank deposits. Our credit exposure is a mix of US, EU and rest of world default risk across these institutions.

We invest in many projects in an effort to develop a successful portfolio of approved products. Our Consolidated Statement of Financial Position therefore contains significant investments in intangible assets, including goodwill. Our ability to realise value on these investments depends on regulatory approvals, market acceptance, competition, and legal developments.

Our defined benefit post-retirement obligations (primarily in the UK and Sweden) can materially change in value but are largely backed by assets invested in growth and liability hedging portfolios, which hedge some of the risks inherent in liability valuations.

Although we maintain relevant insurance coverage for risks arising within the Group, we may not be able to maintain our insurance coverage at a reasonable cost or in sufficient amounts to protect us against losses.

Tax law is complex, leading to the risk of different interpretations. Revenue authorities can make conflicting claims to the profits taxed in individual countries leading to double taxation and the potential for fines and penalties. Tax laws can change following action by international bodies such as the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) or individual governments.

Foreign exchange rate movements may materially adversely affect our financial condition or results of operations.

In a sustained economic downturn, such institutions may cease to trade and there can be no guarantee that we will be able to access the full value of our investments.

We expect that some of our intangible assets will become impaired in the future. Impairment losses may materially adversely affect our financial condition or results of operations.

Solvency levels could fall, leading to higher contributions if there are: falls in assets; increases in liability valuations (from falls in bond yields, increases in inflation or lower mortality); or changes in regulations. As liability valuation risks are hedged to a material level, significant collateral may need to be posted, which in extreme circumstances could lead to a short-term liquidity risk in some pension schemes and a request to the Group to provide temporary liquidity.

Uninsured losses, or those where an insurer denies coverage, could materially adversely affect our financial condition.

The resolution of tax disputes can result in incremental tax costs, a reallocation of profits or losses between jurisdictions, or even double taxation, fines and penalties. They are costly, divert management attention and may adversely affect our reputation.

If tax treaties are withdrawn or amended, or Competent Authorities are unable to reach an agreement that eliminates double taxation, this could materially adversely affect our financial position. For details of our financial risk management policies, see "Strategic Report—Financial Review—Financial risk management" on page 71 and for details of current tax disputes, see "Financial Statements—Notes to the Group Financial Statements—Note 30—Commitments, contingent liabilities and contingent assets" on pages 204 to 210 of AstraZeneca's "Annual Report and Form 20-F Information 2023" included as exhibit 15.1 to this Form 20-F dated February 20, 2024.

Changes in tax regimes could result in a material impact on the Group's cash tax liabilities and tax charge, resulting in either an increase or a reduction in financial results.

ITEM 4. INFORMATION ON THE COMPANY

A. History and Development of the Company

AstraZeneca PLC was incorporated in England and Wales on June 17, 1992 under the Companies Act 1985. It is a public limited company domiciled in the UK. The Company's registered number is 2723534 and its registered office is at 1 Francis Crick Avenue, Cambridge Biomedical Campus, Cambridge CB2 0AA, UK (Tel: +44 (0)20 3749 5000). From February 1993 until April 1999, the Company was called Zeneca Group PLC. On April 6, 1999, the Company changed its name to AstraZeneca PLC.

The Company was formed when the pharmaceutical, agrochemical and specialty chemical businesses of Imperial Chemical Industries PLC were demerged in 1993. In 1999, the Company sold the specialty chemical business. Also in 1999, the Company merged with Astra of Sweden. In 2000, it demerged the agrochemical business and merged it with the similar business of Novartis to form a new company called Syngenta AG. In 2007, the Group acquired MedImmune, a biologics and vaccines business based in the US. In 2021, the Group acquired Alexion, a rare disease business based in the US.

In 1999, in connection with the merger between Astra and Zeneca, the Company's share capital was redenominated in US dollars. On 6 April 1999, Zeneca shares were cancelled and US dollar shares issued, credited as fully paid on the basis of one dollar share for each Zeneca share then held.

This was achieved by a reduction of capital under section 135 of the Companies Act 1985. Upon the reduction of capital becoming effective, all issued and unissued Zeneca shares were cancelled and the sum arising as a result of the share cancellation credited to a special reserve, which was converted into US dollars at the rate of exchange prevailing on the record date. This US dollar reserve was then applied in paying up, at par, newly created US dollar shares.

At the same time as the US dollar shares were issued, the Company issued 50,000 Redeemable Preference Shares for cash, at par. The Redeemable Preference Shares carry limited class voting rights, no dividend rights and are capable of redemption, at par, at the option of the Company on the giving of seven days' written notice to the registered holder of the Redeemable Preference Shares.

A total of 826 million Ordinary Shares were issued to Astra shareholders who accepted the merger offer before the final closing date, 21 May 1999. The Company received acceptances from Astra shareholders representing 99.6% of Astra's shares and the remaining 0.4% was acquired in 2000, for cash.

In 2021, in connection with the acquisition of Alexion, a total of 236 million Ordinary Shares (the majority of which were represented by new AstraZeneca ADRs) were issued to Alexion shareholders in part consideration for the acquisition.

PTC Therapeutics US, Inc.
500 Warren Corporate Center Drive
Suite A
Warren, NJ 07059

September 20, 2024

Mark Sedar
COO
Nevada State Board of Pharmacy
NEVADA STATE BOARD OF PHARMACY
985 Damonte Ranch Parkway, Suite 206
Reno, NV 89521

Dear Mr. Sedar:

PTC Therapeutics US, Inc. ("PTC US") hereby requests the issuance of a temporary permit pursuant to NAC 639.200.

- PTC Therapeutics, Inc. ("PTC Inc.") has been licensed in Nevada since January 23, 2019 (WH02530) when it began the sale of Emflaza. PTC Inc. recently formed a wholly-owned subsidiary, PTC US, which will take over sales and marketing activities and related personnel for PTC Therapeutics across the United States. This transition will occur on or about Oct 15, 2024.

- PTC Inc. is the corporate parent and the 100% owner of PTC US. PTC US is located at 500 Warren Corporate Center Drive, Suite A, Warren, NJ 07059.

- PTC Inc. is transferring its sales and marketing activities, assets and personnel to PTC US, to optimize its overall corporate structure for purposes of efficient operation of its business. However, the business, capabilities and make-up of the PTC companies overall will not change as a result of this transfer.

- PTC US will be using a title model to distribute PTC Inc.'s proprietary product Emflaza, selling all product to its third party logistics provider (3PL), Integrated Commercialization Solutions ("ICS"), which is located in Reno, Nevada. ICS, in term, will sell Emflaza nationwide under its wholesale distributor license (WH02036). PTC Therapeutics is the sole supplier of Emflaza in the United States.

- PTC US has submitted an application for a Nevada Wholesale Distributor permit which was received by the Board on September 11, 2024. We are seeking this interim permit, until the Nevada State Board of Pharmacy can review and act upon our regular license application at its next scheduled meeting. As the sole distribution point is in Nevada, the failure to have a permit at the time of the switch will impact patients nationwide. The interim license will ensure that the supply of Emflaza to our patient population for Duchenne's Muscular Dystrophy (boys and men 2 years of age and older) will not be interrupted or delayed. This is critical for the welfare of these patients throughout the country.

Very truly yours,

Electronic Record and Signature Disclosure

ELECTRONIC RECORD AND SIGNATURE DISCLOSURE

From time to time, PTC Therapeutics, Inc. (we, us or Company) may be required by law to provide to you certain written notices or disclosures. Described below are the terms and conditions for providing to you such notices and disclosures electronically through your DocuSign, Inc. (DocuSign) Express user account. Please read the information below carefully and thoroughly, and if you can access this information electronically to your satisfaction and agree to these terms and conditions, please confirm your agreement by clicking the 'I agree' button at the bottom of this document.

Getting paper copies

At any time, you may request from us a paper copy of any record provided or made available electronically to you by us. For such copies, as long as you are an authorized user of the DocuSign system you will have the ability to download and print any documents we send to you through your DocuSign user account for a limited period of time (usually 30 days) after such documents are first sent to you. After such time, if you wish for us to send you paper copies of any such documents from our office to you, you will be charged a $0.00 per-page fee. You may request delivery of such paper copies from us by following the procedure described below.

Withdrawing your consent

If you decide to receive notices and disclosures from us electronically, you may at any time change your mind and tell us that thereafter you want to receive required notices and disclosures only in paper format. How you must inform us of your decision to receive future notices and disclosure in paper format and withdraw your consent to receive notices and disclosures electronically is described below.

Consequences of changing your mind

If you elect to receive required notices and disclosures only in paper format, it will slow the speed at which we can complete certain steps in transactions with you and delivering services to you because we will need first to send the required notices or disclosures to you in paper format, and then wait until we receive back from you your acknowledgment of your receipt of such paper notices or disclosures. To indicate to us that you are changing your mind, you must withdraw your consent using the DocuSign 'Withdraw Consent' form on the signing page of your DocuSign account. This will indicate to us that you have withdrawn your consent to receive required notices and disclosures electronically from us and you will no longer be able to use your DocuSign Express user account to receive required notices and consents electronically from us or to sign electronically documents from us.

All notices and disclosures will be sent to you electronically

Unless you tell us otherwise in accordance with the procedures described herein, we will provide electronically to you through your DocuSign user account all required notices, disclosures, authorizations, acknowledgements, and other documents that are required to be provided or made available to you during the course of our relationship with you. To reduce the chance of you inadvertently not receiving any notice or disclosure, we prefer to provide all of the required notices and disclosures to you by the same method and to the same address that you have given us. Thus, you can receive all the disclosures and notices electronically or in paper format through the paper mail delivery system. If you do not agree with this process, please let us know as described below. Please also see the paragraph immediately above that describes the consequences of your electing not to receive delivery of the notices and disclosures electronically from us.

PART I

Item 1. Business

Overview

We are a global biopharmaceutical company focused on the discovery, development and commercialization of clinically differentiated medicines that provide benefits to patients with rare disorders. Our ability to innovate to identify new therapies and to globally commercialize products is the foundation that drives investment in a robust and diversified pipeline of transformative medicines. Our mission is to provide access to best-in-class treatments for patients who have little to no treatment options. Our strategy is to leverage our strong scientific and clinical expertise and global commercial infrastructure to bring therapies to patients. We believe that this allows us to maximize value for all of our stakeholders.

Our Pipeline

We have a diversified therapeutic portfolio that includes several commercial products and product candidates in various stages of development, including discovery, research and clinical stages, focused on the development of new treatments for multiple therapeutic areas for rare diseases relating to neurology and metabolism. The chart and the disclosure directly below summarizes the status of our significant clinical-stage programs and commercial products as of the date of this report, including those with our strategic partners:

- Global Commercial Footprint
  - Global DMD Franchise – We have two products, Translarna™ (ataluren) and Emflaza® (deflazacort), for the treatment of Duchenne muscular dystrophy, or DMD, a rare, life threatening disorder. Translarna currently has conditional marketing authorization in the European Economic Area, or EEA, for the treatment of nonsense mutation Duchenne muscular dystrophy, or nmDMD, in ambulatory patients aged two years and older. On January 25, 2024, the Committee for Medicinal Products for Human Use, or CHMP, of the European Medicines Agency, or EMA, issued a negative opinion for the conditional marketing authorization following a re-examination procedure. In accordance with EMA regulations, the European Commission, or EC, has 67 days to adopt the opinion from the date of its issuance. If the EC adopts the negative opinion, Translarna would no longer have marketing authorization in the EEA. Translarna also has marketing authorization in Russia for the treatment of nmDMD in patients aged two years and older, and in Brazil for the treatment of nmDMD in ambulatory patients two years and older and for continued treatment of patients that become non-ambulatory, as well as in various other countries as described below. Emflaza is approved in the United States for the treatment of DMD in patients two years and older.

- Upstaza™ (eladocagene exuparvovec) – Upstaza, a gene therapy for the treatment of Aromatic L-Amino Decarboxylase, or AADC, deficiency, a rare central nervous system, or CNS, disorder is approved for the treatment of AADC deficiency for patients 18 months and older within the EEA and the United Kingdom. We expect to submit a biologics license application, or BLA, for Upstaza for the treatment of AADC deficiency in the United States to the United States Food and Drug Administration, or FDA, in March 2024.
- Tegsedi® (inotersen) and Waylivra® (volanesorsen) – We hold the rights for the commercialization of Tegsedi and Waylivra for the treatment of rare diseases in countries in Latin America and the Caribbean pursuant to our Collaboration and License Agreement with a subsidiary of Ionis Pharmaceuticals, Inc., or Ionis. Tegsedi has received marketing authorization in the United States, European Union, or EU, and Brazil for the treatment of stage 1 or stage 2 polyneuropathy in adult patients with hereditary transthyretin amyloidosis, or hATTR amyloidosis. Waylivra is approved in Brazil for the treatment of familial chylomicronemia syndrome, or FCS, and familial partial lipodystrophy, or FPL.
- Evrysdi® (risdiplam) – Evrysdi, a treatment for spinal muscular atrophy, or SMA, was approved by the FDA for the treatment of SMA in adults and children of all ages and by the EC for the treatment of 5q SMA in patients of all ages with a clinical diagnosis of SMA Type 1, Type 2 or Type 3 or with one to four SMN2 copies. Evrysdi has also received marketing authorization for the treatment of SMA in over 100 countries. Evrysdi is a product of our SMA program and our collaboration with F. Hoffman-La Roche Ltd. and Hoffman-La Roche Inc., which we refer to collectively as Roche, and the Spinal Muscular Atrophy Foundation, or SMA Foundation.

- Diversified Development Pipeline
  - Sepiapterin – We expect to submit a marketing authorization application, or MAA, to the EMA for sepiapterin for the treatment of phenylketonuria, or PKU, in the EEA in March 2024. We also expect to submit a New Drug Application, or NDA, to the FDA for sepiapterin for the treatment of PKU no later than the third quarter of 2024.
  - Splicing Platform – In addition to our SMA program, our splicing platform also includes PTC518, which is being developed for the treatment of Huntington's disease, or HD. We initiated a Phase 2 study of PTC518 for the treatment of HD in the first quarter of 2022, which consists of an initial 12-week placebo-controlled phase focused on safety, pharmacology and pharmacodynamic effects followed by a nine-month placebo-controlled phase focused on PTC518 biomarker effect. In June 2023, we announced interim data from the 12-week placebo-controlled phase. We expect to provide 12-month interim data from the Phase 2 study of PTC518 for the treatment of HD in the second quarter of 2024.
  - Ferroptosis and Inflammation Platform – The two most advanced molecules in our ferroptosis and inflammation platform are vatiquinone and utreloxastat. We announced topline results from a registration-directed Phase 3 trial of vatiquinone in children and young adults with Friedreich ataxia, called MOVE-FA, in May 2023. While the trial did not meet its primary endpoint, vatiquinone treatment did demonstrate significant benefit on key disease subscales, including the upright stability subscale, as well as on other disease relevant endpoints. In the first quarter of 2024, we met with the FDA, who expressed willingness to review an NDA for vatiquinone for the treatment of Friedreich ataxia based on the MOVE-FA trial as well as data from the ongoing open label extension study following the MOVE-FA trial, potentially allowing for the submission of an NDA in late 2024. In the first quarter of 2024, we also received scientific advice from the EMA on the MOVE-FA trial results, in which the EMA stated that the MOVE-FA data would likely not be sufficient for conditional authorization. We initiated a Phase 2 registration directed trial of utreloxastat for amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, or ALS, in the first quarter of 2022. We expect topline results from this trial in the fourth quarter of 2024.

- Pre-clinical Pipeline
  - We continue to invest in our pre-clinical product pipeline by committing significant resources to research and development programs to provide access to best-in-class treatments for patients who have an unmet medical need. Our pre-clinical efforts are focused on two scientific platforms: splicing and ferroptosis, two areas of science where PTC has significant expertise.

Global Commercial Footprint

Global DMD Franchise

Duchenne muscular dystrophy (DMD)

Muscular dystrophies are genetic disorders involving progressive muscle wasting and weakness. DMD is the most common and one of the most severe types of muscular dystrophy. DMD occurs when a mutation in the dystrophin gene prevents the cell from making a functional dystrophin protein. Dystrophin is a muscle membrane associated protein and is critical to the structural and membrane stability of muscle fibers in skeletal, diaphragm and heart muscle. The absence of normally functioning dystrophin results in muscle fragility, such that muscle injury occurs when muscles contract or stretch during normal use. As muscle damage progresses, connective tissue and fat replace muscle fibers, resulting in inexorable muscle weakness.

Because the dystrophin gene is located on the X chromosome, DMD occurs primarily in young boys, although approximately 10% of female carriers show some disease symptoms. DMD is rare, and estimates of occurrence include approximately 1 in every 3,500 live male births, according to the National Organization for Rare Diseases and approximately 1 in every 5,000 live male births according to Ryder (2017) in the European Journal of Human Genetics. We estimate that there are between approximately 10,000 to 15,000 DMD patients in the United States. Several different types of mutation in the dystrophin gene can result in DMD, including deletion, duplication and nonsense mutations. A test known as multiplex ligation-dependent probe amplification (MLPA) can detect large deletions and duplications, which account for approximately 75% of all mutations. However, gene sequencing is required to identify small mutations such as nonsense mutations. We estimate that nonsense mutations account for approximately 13% of cases of DMD. Without treatment, patients with DMD typically lose walking ability by their early teens, require ventilation support in their late teens, and eventually experience premature death due to heart and lung failure. Even with medical care, most people with DMD die from cardiac or respiratory failure before or during their 30s.

Marketing authorization matters

Translarna for the treatment of nonsense mutation Duchenne muscular dystrophy

European Economic Area

We received marketing authorization from the EC in August 2014 for Translarna for the treatment of nmDMD in ambulatory patients aged five years and older in the member states of the EEA, subject to annual renewal and other conditions. In July 2018, the EC approved a label-extension request to our marketing authorization for Translarna in the EEA to include patients from two to up to five years of age. In July 2020, the EC approved the removal of the statement "efficacy has not been demonstrated in non-ambulatory patients" from the indication statement for Translarna.

The marketing authorization is subject to annual review and renewal by the EC following reassessment by the EMA of the benefit-risk balance of continued authorization, which we refer to as the annual EMA reassessment. In September 2022, we submitted a Type II variation to the EMA to support conversion of the conditional marketing authorization for Translarna to a standard marketing authorization, which included a report on the placebo-controlled trial of Study 041 and data from the open-label extension as further described below. In February 2023, we also submitted an annual marketing authorization renewal request to the EMA. In September 2023, the CHMP gave a negative opinion on the conversion of the conditional marketing authorization to full marketing authorization of Translarna for the treatment of nmDMD and a negative opinion on the renewal of the existing conditional marketing authorization of Translarna for the treatment of nmDMD. On January 25, 2024, the CHMP issued a negative opinion for the renewal of the conditional marketing authorization following a re-examination procedure. In accordance with EMA regulations, the EC has 67 days to adopt the opinion. If the EC adopts the negative opinion, Translarna would no longer have marketing authorization in the member states of the EEA. We are exploring other potential mechanisms in which we may provide Translarna to nmDMD patients in the EEA if the negative opinion is adopted by the EC.

Marketing authorization is required in order for us to engage in any commercialization of Translarna in the EEA, which allows us to participate in pricing and reimbursement negotiations, on a country-by-country basis with each country in the EEA. Individual countries in the EEA have the ability to make Translarna available under early access programs, or EAP programs, or through similar styled programs. There is substantial risk that if the EC adopts the CHMP's negative opinion or we are otherwise unable to renew our EEA marketing authorization during any annual renewal cycle or we are unable to identify other potential mechanisms in which we may provide Translarna to nmDMD patients in the EEA should the CHMP's negative opinion be adopted by the EC or our product label is materially restricted, we would lose all, or a significant portion of, our ability to generate revenue from sales of Translarna in the EEA and other territories. For more information regarding the risks associated with the a potential EC adoption of the CHMP's negative opinion on Translarna's marketing authorization, see Item 1A. Risk Factors, "We may be unable to continue to commercialize Translarna for nonsense mutation Duchenne muscular dystrophy in the European Economic Area if the European Commission adopts the negative opinion issued by the Committee for Medicinal Products for Human Use of the European Medicines Agency for the renewal of the existing conditional authorization for Translarna."

See "Item 1. Business-Commercial Matters-Market Access Considerations" and "Item 1A. Risk Factors-Risks Related to the Development and Commercialization of our Product and our Product Candidates" and "-Risks Related to Regulatory Approval of our Product and our Product Candidates" for further information regarding the marketing authorization in the EEA, the market access process and related risks.

As the marketing authorization holder, we are obligated to monitor the use of Translarna for nmDMD to detect, assess and take required action with respect to information that could impact the safety profile of Translarna and to report this information, through pharmacovigilance submissions, to the EMA. Following its assessment of these submissions, the EMA can recommend to the EC actions ranging from the continued maintenance of the marketing authorization to its withdrawal.

United States

Translarna is an investigational new drug in the United States. During the first quarter of 2017, we filed an NDA for Translarna for the treatment of nmDMD over protest with the FDA. In October 2017, the Office of Drug Evaluation I of the FDA issued a Complete Response Letter, or CRL, for the NDA, stating that it was unable to approve the application in its current form. In response, we filed a formal dispute resolution request with the Office of New Drugs of the FDA. In February 2018, the Office of New Drugs of the FDA denied our appeal of the CRL. In its response, the Office of New Drugs recommended a possible path forward for our ataluren NDA submission based on the accelerated approval pathway. This would involve a re-submission of an NDA containing the current data on effectiveness and safety of ataluren with new data to be generated on dystrophin production in nmDMD patients' muscles. We followed the FDA's recommendation and collected, using newer technologies via procedures and methods that we designed, such dystrophin data in a new study, Study 045, and announced the results of Study 045 in February 2021. Study 045 did not meet its pre-specified primary endpoint. In June 2022, we announced top-line results from the placebo-controlled trial of Study 041, which was our 18-month, placebo-controlled trial, followed by an 18-month open-label extension, of Translarna in the treatment of ambulatory patients with nmDMD aged five years or older. Following this announcement, we submitted a meeting request to the FDA to gain clarity on the regulatory pathway for a potential re-submission of an NDA for Translarna. The FDA provided initial written feedback that Study 041 does not provide substantial evidence of effectiveness to support NDA re-submission. We held a Type C meeting with the FDA in the fourth quarter of 2023 to discuss the totality of Translarna data. Based on this discussion, the FDA suggested we request a pre-submission Type C meeting to discuss the specific contents of an NDA resubmission based on results from Study 041 and from our international drug registry study for nmDMD patients receiving Translarna. This meeting is scheduled for March 2024.

See "Item 1. Business-Government Regulation-The new drug and biologic approval process" below for further discussion with respect to the NDA process. See "Item 1. Business-Translarna (ataluren)" and "Item 1A. Risk Factors-Risks Related to the Development and Commercialization of our Product and our Product Candidates" and "-Risks Related to Regulatory Approval of our Product and our Product Candidates" for further detail regarding the results of our completed trials and studies of Translarna for the treatment of nmDMD, our regulatory strategy in the United States, our history with submissions to the FDA and the related risks to our business.

Other Territories

Translarna received marketing authorization for the treatment of nmDMD in Israel and South Korea in 2015, Chile in 2018, Brazil in 2019 and Russia in 2020, in addition to approvals from other countries, and these licenses are currently active. Many territories outside of the EEA, including Israel, South Korea and Chile, reference and depend on the determinations by the EMA when considering the grant of a marketing authorization. It is possible that we would not be able to maintain our marketing authorizations in these regions in the event the EMA decides not to renew or otherwise modifies or withdraws our marketing authorization in the EEA. In addition, Translarna is authorized in the United Kingdom and will undergo a national assessment. The marketing authorization for Translarna in Brazil and Russia are subject to renewal every five years. We have been pursuing and expect to continue to pursue marketing authorizations for Translarna for the treatment of nmDMD in other regions.

Emflaza for the treatment of Duchenne muscular dystrophy in the United States

Emflaza, both in tablet and suspension form, received approval from the FDA in February 2017 as a treatment for DMD in patients five years of age and older in the United States. In June 2019, the FDA approved our label expansion request for Emflaza for patients two to five years of age. We estimate that there are between approximately 10,000 and 15,000 DMD patients in the United States.

Emflaza received a seven-year marketing exclusivity period in the United States for its approved indications, commencing on the date of FDA approval, under the provisions of the Orphan Drug Act of 1983, or the Orphan Drug Act. We have previously relied on this exclusivity period to commercialize Emflaza in the United States. Emflaza's seven-year period of orphan drug exclusivity related to the treatment of DMD in patients five years and older expired in February 2024. We expect the expiration of this orphan drug exclusivity to have a significant negative impact on Emflaza net product revenue. Emflaza's orphan drug exclusivity related to the treatment of DMD in patients two years of age to less than five expires in June 2026. See "Item 1. Business-Government Regulation" for further discussion with respect to marketing protection we rely on.

Upstaza

Upstaza is a gene therapy for the treatment of AADC deficiency, a rare CNS disorder arising from reductions in the enzyme AADC that results from mutations in the dopa decarboxylase gene. In July 2022, the EC approved Upstaza for the treatment of AADC deficiency for patients 18 months and older within the EEA. In November 2022, the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency approved Upstaza for the treatment of AADC deficiency for patients 18 months and older within the United Kingdom. We are also preparing a BLA for Upstaza for the treatment of AADC deficiency in the United States. In October 2022, we held a Type C meeting with the FDA to discuss the details of a potential submission package for Upstaza. At that meeting, the FDA asked for additional bioanalytical data in support of comparability between the drug product used in the clinical studies and the commercial drug product. We completed these analyses and provided the results to the FDA for review. The FDA stated that the data that we provided were still not sufficient. However, the FDA also said that the available data from the ongoing clinical study in the United States assessing the safety of the drug delivery cannula for Upstaza could be used to support a BLA for accelerated approval based on biomarker data demonstrating a treatment-related increase in de novo dopamine production. At the FDA's suggestion, we held a pre-BLA meeting in December 2023. We expect to submit a BLA to the FDA for Upstaza for the treatment of AADC deficiency in March 2024.

AADC is the enzyme responsible for the conversion of L-dopa to dopamine. Dopamine is a key neurotransmitter that acts within the striatum (caudate and putamen), a component of the brain's deep grey matter, to modulate output of neurons that project to the motor and premotor cortices of the brain that plan and execute normal motor function. Dopamine is required in the brain for humans to develop and maintain proper motor function.

AADC deficiency is a monogenic disorder of neurotransmitter synthesis that manifests in young children and most commonly results in profound developmental delay, often seen as complete arrest of motor development. AADC deficiency generally causes the inability to develop motor control, resulting in breathing, feeding, and swallowing problems, frequent hospitalizations, and the need for life-long care. On average, patients with AADC deficiency die in the first decade of life due to profound motor dysfunction and secondary complications such as choking, hypoxia, and pneumonia. Currently, no treatment options are available for the underlying cause of the disorder, and care is limited to palliative options with significant burden on caregivers.

The prevalence of AADC deficiency has been estimated to be approximately 5,000 patients worldwide, with a live-birth incidence of up to 1 in 40,000 worldwide. While several diagnostic tests for AADC deficiency are available, we believe the condition remains largely undiagnosed or misdiagnosed and may be confused with cerebral palsy.

Upstaza is an adeno-associated virus, or AAV, gene therapy, which has been assessed in three completed clinical trials, AADC-1601, AADC-010 and AADC-011. The three completed trials included a total of 30 children with AADC deficiency who were treated with Upstaza during a single procedure in which the gene therapy was administered directly to the region of the brain, called the putamen, where dopamine is made and released. The targeted micro-dosing approach administering small amounts of gene therapy directly to focal regions of affected cells in the putamen has the benefit of keeping the supply requirements for materials low, improving access of the therapeutic gene to key cells, potentially limiting immune and complement-mediated responses and reducing the risk of off-target uptake and excretion of the gene therapy by the liver and kidneys. Results from these trials suggest that patients may have a gain of motor functions and improvement in cognitive scales following gene therapy administration and have shown significant increases in motor function, which contrasts with the published natural history.

AADC-1601, AADC-010 and AADC-011, were each single-arm, open-label, interventional trials. The primary and secondary objectives of these trials were to assess the safety and efficacy of Upstaza administered via bilateral putaminal-infusions in patients with severe AADC deficiency. Study enrollment required a diagnosis of AADC deficiency, defined as decreased homovanilic acid, or HVA, and 5-hydroxyindoleacetic acid, or 5-HIAA, and elevated levels of L-DOPA in the cerebrospinal fluid, or CSF, the presence of more than one DDC gene mutation, and the presence of clinical symptoms of AADC deficiency (including developmental delay, hypotonia, dystonia, and oculogyric crisis), and a patient age of older than 2 years.

Patients were evaluated monthly for safety assessments and every three months for efficacy assessments that included tests of motor developmental testing (Peabody Developmental Motor Scale, Second Edition, or PDMS-2, and Alberta Infant Motor Scale, or AIMS) through the first year after treatment with Upstaza and at periodic intervals thereafter through five years following treatment. The PDMS-2 and AIMS are validated scales used to assess motor skills in young children. Pharmacodynamic testing of CNS AADC activity over time included analyses of CSF neurotransmitter metabolites and F-DOPA PET imaging intervals, also through five years.

At baseline, patients had no functional movement and failed to achieve any motor milestones, including head control, sitting or standing capabilities, consistent with the published natural history of severe AADC deficiency. Compared to baseline, at one-year and at five-years after Upstaza administration, patients had objective evidence of de novo dopamine production as visualized by F-DOPA PET imaging of the brain, consistent with successful and stable gene expression and enzyme activity over time. Additionally, HVA levels, which is the major metabolite of dopamine metabolism, were measured at month 12 to determine if new dopamine was synthesized. HVA levels increased significantly from baseline at month 12, consistent with de novo dopamine synthesis.

Following administration of Upstaza, the combined group of patients showed significant improvements from baseline capabilities at one-year post-treatment in functional motor skills assessed with the PDMS-2 total score, as well as on the locomotion, grasping, visual-motor integration and stationary subscales. Significant improvements from baseline at one-year post-treatment were also observed for the combined group of patients on the AIMS total score and on the prone, supine, sit and stand subscales.

Compared to published natural history data, patients in these trials showed statistically significant improvements at both two- and five-year post-treatment in achievement of motor milestones of full head control (at 2 and 5 years), sitting unassisted (at 2 and 5 years), standing with support (at 5 years) and walking with assistance (at 5 years), reinforcing the clinical benefit and sustainability of functional motor improvements.

Surgical injection of Upstaza in the completed trials was well tolerated. Adverse events were generally associated with the disease state. The most frequent adverse event associated with Upstaza was dyskinesia and these events completely resolved over time. No serious adverse events have been attributed to Upstaza.

Patients from our completed trials have been offered to continue to follow up in Study 1602, which is intended to assess long-term safety and efficacy of Upstaza. Additionally, Study AADC-002, a multicenter, open-label trial to assess and efficacy of Upstaza, is ongoing. We have enrolled 13 patients in this study.

Upstaza for the treatment of AADC deficiency has orphan drug designation in the United States and EU, and rare pediatric disease designation in the United States, and upon BLA approval the FDA may grant us a priority review voucher, depending on the timing of the approval.

Due to its orphan medicinal product designation by the EMA, we rely on a ten-year exclusive marketing period for Upstaza in the EEA, which may potentially be extended for two additional years if we receive approval for a pediatric exclusivity incentive. If Upstaza for the treatment of AADC deficiency receives FDA approval, we expect that Upstaza would have a twelve-year exclusive marketing period in the United States for the approved indication, commencing on the date of FDA approval, under the provisions of the Biologics Price Competition and Innovation Act of 2009, or BPCIA, as well as a concurrent seven-year exclusive marketing period, which would commence on the date of FDA approval, under the provisions of the Orphan Drug Act. We expect to rely on the twelve-year BPCIA regulatory exclusivity and concurrent seven-year Orphan Drug Act exclusivity to commercialize Upstaza in the United States, if it is approved.

See "Item 1. Business-Government Regulation-The new drug and biologic approval process" below for further discussion with respect to the BLA process.

Tegsedi and Waylivra

In August 2018 we entered into a Collaboration and License Agreement with Akcea Therapeutics, Inc., or Akcea, a subsidiary of Ionis for the commercialization by us of Tegsedi, Waylivra and products containing those compounds in countries in Latin America and the Caribbean, or the PTC Territory. See "Item 1. Business-Our Collaborations, License Agreements and Funding Arrangements-Tegsedi and Waylivra" below for further discussion with respect to this collaboration and license agreement.

Tegsedi

Tegsedi, a product of Ionis' proprietary antisense technology, is an antisense oligonucleotide, or ASO, inhibitor of human transthyretin, or TTR, production. Tegsedi is the world's first RNA-targeted therapeutic to treat patients with hereditary transthyretin amyloidosis, or hATTR amyloidosis. In October 2019, it received marketing authorization from ANVISA, the Brazilian health regulatory authority, for the treatment of stage 1 or stage 2 polyneuropathy in adult patients with hATTR amyloidosis in Brazil. Our marketing authorization for Tegsedi in Brazil is subject to renewal every five years. It has also received marketing authorization in the United States and EU for the same indication.

hATTR amyloidosis is a progressive, systemic and fatal inherited disease caused by the abnormal formation of the TTR protein and aggregation of TTR amyloid deposits in various tissues and organs throughout the body, including in peripheral nerves, heart, intestinal tract, eyes, kidneys, central nervous system, thyroid and bone marrow. The progressive accumulation of TTR amyloid deposits in these tissues and organs leads to sensory, motor and autonomic dysfunction often having debilitating effects on multiple aspects of a patient's life. Patients with hATTR amyloidosis often present with a mixed phenotype and experience overlapping symptoms of polyneuropathy and cardiomyopathy.

Ultimately, hATTR amyloidosis generally results in death within three to fifteen years of symptom onset. Therapeutic options for the treatment of patients with hATTR amyloidosis are limited and there are currently no disease-modifying drugs approved for the disease. There are an estimated 50,000 patients with hATTR amyloidosis worldwide, including approximately 6,000 patients with polyneuropathic hATTR amyloidosis in Latin America.

Waylivra

Waylivra is an ASO that has received marketing authorization in the EU for the treatment of FCS, subject to certain conditions. The United States and EU regulatory agencies have granted orphan drug designation to Waylivra for the treatment of FCS. In connection with the marketing approval for Waylivra in the EU, the EC is requiring Akcea to provide results of a study based on a registry of patients to investigate how blood checks and adjustments to frequency of injections are carried out in practice and how well they work to prevent thrombocytopenia and bleeding in FCS patients taking Waylivra. In August 2021, ANVISA approved Waylivra as the first treatment for FCS in Brazil. Our marketing authorization for Waylivra in Brazil is subject to renewal every five years.

FCS is an ultra-rare disease caused by impaired function of the enzyme lipoprotein lipase, or LPL, and characterized by severe hypertriglyceridemia (>880mg/dL) and a risk of unpredictable and potentially fatal acute pancreatitis. Because of limited LPL function, people with FCS cannot break down chylomicrons, lipoprotein particles that are 90% triglycerides. In addition to pancreatitis, FCS patients are at risk of chronic complications due to permanent organ damage. They can experience daily symptoms including abdominal pain, generalized fatigue and impaired cognitions that affect their ability to work. People with FCS also report major emotional and psychosocial effects including anxiety, social withdrawal, depression and brain fog. There is no effective therapy for FCS currently available.

Additionally, we received approval of Waylivra for the treatment of FPL in Brazil in December 2022. FPL is a rare genetic metabolic disease characterized by selective, progressive loss of body fat (adipose tissue) from various areas of the body leading to ectopic fat deposition in liver and muscle and development of insulin resistance, diabetes, dyslipidemia and fatty liver disease. Individuals with FPL often have reduced subcutaneous fat in the arms and legs and the head and trunk regions may or may not have loss of fat. Conversely, affected individuals may also have excess subcutaneous fat accumulation in other areas of the body, especially the neck, face and intra-abdominal regions.

Evrysdi

Evrysdi was approved by the FDA in August 2020 for the treatment of SMA in adults and children two months and older and by the EC in March 2021 for the treatment of 5q SMA in patients two months and older with a clinical diagnosis of SMA Type 1, Type 2 or Type 3 or with one to four SMN2 copies. Evrysdi has also received marketing authorization for the treatment of SMA in over 100 countries. In May 2022, the FDA approved a label expansion for Evrysdi to include infants under two months old with SMA. In August 2023, the EC approved an extension of the Evrysdi marketing authorization to include infants under two months old in the EU. Evrysdi is a product of our SMA program and our collaboration with Roche and the SMA Foundation. For additional information, see "Item 1. Business – Our Collaborations, License Agreements and Funding Arrangements – Roche and the SMA Foundation."

SMA is a genetic neuromuscular disease characterized by muscle wasting and weakness. The disease generally manifests early in life. SMA is caused by mutation or deletion of the Survival of Motor Neuron 1, or SMN1, gene that encodes the survival of motor neuron, or SMN, protein. The SMN protein is critical to the health and survival of the nerve cells in the spinal cord responsible for muscle contraction. A second gene, Survival of Motor Neuron 2, or SMN2, is very similar to SMN1, contains a T nucleotide at position 6 in exon 7 and produces low, insufficient levels of functional SMN protein due to alternative splicing of exon 7. According to the SMA Foundation, SMA is the leading genetic cause of death in infants and toddlers. Approximately 1 in 10,000 children is born with the disease. We estimate that there are between 20,000 to 30,000 children and adults living with SMA in the United States, Europe and Japan.

Diversified Development Pipeline

Our pipeline includes a number of programs at various stages of development including sepiapterin, PTC518 and other programs from our splicing and ferroptosis and inflammation platforms. Additionally, we have ongoing clinical studies of our current commercial product for maintaining authorizations and enabling additional authorizations.

Sepiapterin

Sepiapterin is a precursor to intracellular tetrahydrobiopterin, which is a critical enzymatic cofactor involved in metabolism and synthesis of numerous metabolic products. Sepiapterin has been pursued as a possible treatment for orphan metabolic diseases associated with defects in the tetrahydrobiopterin biochemical pathways, including PKU. PKU is an inborn error of metabolism caused predominantly by mutations in the phenylalanine hydroxylase gene resulting in toxic buildup of the amino acid phenylalanine, or Phe, in the brain, and, if left untreated, severe and irreversible disabilities such as permanent intellectual disability, seizures, delayed development, behavioral problems and possibly psychiatric disorders can occur. We believe that there are approximately 58,000 PKU patients globally. In May 2023, we announced that the primary endpoint was achieved in our registration-directed Phase 3 trial for sepiapterin for PKU. The primary endpoint of the study was the achievement of statistically-significant reduction in blood Phe level. The primary analysis population included those patients who have a greater than 30% reduction in blood Phe levels during the Part 1 run-in phase of the trial. Sepiapterin demonstrated Phe level reduction of approximately 63% in the overall primary analysis population and Phe level reduction of approximately 69% in the subset for classical PKU patients. Additionally, sepiapterin was well tolerated with no serious adverse events. Following the placebo-controlled study, patients were eligible to enroll in a long-term open-label study, which is still ongoing and will evaluate long-term safety, durability and Phe tolerance. We expect to submit an MAA to the EMA for sepiapterin for the treatment of PKU in the EEA in March 2024. Additionally, we participated in a pre-NDA meeting with the FDA in the third quarter of 2023. At that meeting, the FDA stated that the sepiapterin clinical safety and efficacy data supported NDA submission for the treatment of pediatric and adult PKU patients. However, the FDA has requested that we complete a 26-week nonclinical mouse study to assess sepiapterin carcinogenicity potential prior to NDA submission. This nonclinical study was not initially required when we acquired sepiapterin, as the NDA submission was planned under the Section 505(b)(2) pathway. Given that sepiapterin is a novel therapy with distinct pharmacology, biodistribution, mechanism of action and differentiated efficacy, we subsequently decided to make the NDA submission under the Section 505(b)(1) pathway, which requires the 26-week study, which is considered a required NDA component needed to inform labeling and is typically completed prior to submission. Based on the timing to complete this study, we expect to submit an NDA to the FDA for sepiapterin for the treatment of PKU no later than the third quarter of 2024 and we intend to discuss with the FDA the potential for an earlier submission if we are permitted to submit the 26-week mouse study report during the NDA review process.

Splicing Platform

Our splicing platform focuses on the development of innovative therapies for diseases, such as SMA, that involve regulation of mRNA splicing in the cell.

In addition to Evrysdi and our SMA program, our splicing platform also includes PTC518, which is being developed for the treatment of HD. HD is a neurodegenerative and progressive brain disorder caused by a toxic gain-of-function triplet repeat expansion in the Huntingtin gene resulting in uncontrolled movements and cognitive loss. There are currently no disease-modifying therapies approved to delay the onset or slow the progression of HD. We believe that there are approximately 135,000 HD patients globally. PTC518 is an orally bioavailable molecule with broad central nervous system and systemic distribution that has been designed to target Huntingtin protein expression with high selectivity and specificity. We announced the results from our Phase 1 study of PTC518 in healthy volunteers in September 2021 demonstrating dose-dependent lowering of huntingtin messenger ribonucleic acid and protein levels, that PTC518 efficiently crosses blood brain barrier at significant levels and that PTC518 was well tolerated. We initiated a Phase 2 study of PTC518 for the treatment of HD in the first quarter of 2022, which consists of an initial 12-week placebo-controlled phase focused on safety, pharmacology and pharmacodynamic effects followed by a nine-month placebo-controlled phase focused on PTC518 biomarker effect. In June 2023, we announced interim data from the 12-week placebo-controlled phase. The study demonstrated dose-dependent lowering of Huntingtin, or HTT, protein levels in peripheral blood cells, reaching an approximate mean 30% reduction in mutant HTT levels at the 10mg dose level. In addition, PTC518 exposure in the cerebrospinal fluid was consistent with or higher than plasma unbound drug levels. Furthermore, PTC518 was well tolerated with no treatment-related serious adverse events. The Phase 2 study is actively ongoing outside the United States, while it has been paused within the United States as the FDA requested additional data to allow the Phase 2 study to proceed. We expect to provide 12-month interim data from the Phase 2 study of PTC518 for the treatment of HD in the second quarter of 2024. We expect to submit a safety data update to the FDA in the second quarter of 2024 to support lifting of the partial clinical hold on the program.

Ferroptosis and Inflammation Platform

Our ferroptosis and inflammation platform consists of small molecule compounds that target oxidoreductase enzymes that regulate oxidative stress and inflammatory pathways central to the pathology of a number of CNS diseases. Oxidation-reduction, or redox, reactions are an essential component of the generation and regulation of energy in living systems. These reactions are regulated through a set of enzymes known as oxidoreductase enzymes that uniquely require the transfer of an electron, or a redox chemical reaction, to affect their biological activity.

One of the advanced molecules in our ferroptosis and inflammation platform is vatiquinone. Vatiquinone is a small molecule orally bioavailable compound that has been in development for inherited mitochondrial diseases and related genetic disorders of oxidative stress. Vatiquinone targets 15-lipoxygenase, or 15-LO, a key regulator of oxidative stress, lipid-based neuro-inflammation, alpha-synuclein oxidation and aggregation and cell death. We are developing vatiquinone for the treatment of Friedreich ataxia. Friedreich ataxia is a rare and life-shortening neurodegenerative disease caused by a single defect in the FXN gene which causes reduced production of the frataxin protein. We believe that there are approximately 25,000 Friedreich ataxia patients globally. Vatiquinone has previously been studied in Friedreich ataxia patients in a Phase 2 trial that included a six-month placebo-controlled phase followed by an 18-month open label extension. In this trial, long-term vatiquinone treatment (18-24 months) was associated with an improvement in overall disease severity and neurological function relative to natural history. Vatiquinone has been generally well-tolerated in the clinic.

We announced topline results from our MOVE-FA trial, a registration-directed Phase 3 trial of vatiquinone in children and young adults with Friedreich ataxia, in May 2023. While the trial did not meet its primary endpoint of statistically significant change in modified Friedreich Ataxia Rating Scale, or mFARS, score at 72 weeks in the primary analysis population, vatiquinone treatment did demonstrate significant benefit on key disease subscales and secondary endpoints. In addition, in the population of subjects that completed the study protocol, significance was reached in the mFARS endpoint and several secondary endpoints, including the upright stability subscale. Furthermore, vatiquinone was well tolerated. In the first quarter of 2024, we met with the FDA, who expressed willingness to review an NDA for vatiquinone for the treatment of Friedreich ataxia based on the MOVE-FA trial as well as data from the ongoing open label extension study following the MOVE-FA trial, potentially allowing for the submission of an NDA in late 2024. In the first quarter of 2024, we also received scientific advice from the EMA on the MOVE-FA trial results, in which the EMA stated that the MOVE-FA data would likely not be sufficient for conditional authorization.

The other advanced molecule in our ferroptosis and inflammation platform is utreloxastat, a small molecule orally bioavailable compound that targets 15-LO and is in development for the potential treatment of adult CNS patients, including ALS. ALS is a rapidly progressing neurodegenerative disease caused by oxidative damage which leads to neuronal cell death and muscular atrophy. We believe that there are approximately 150,000 ALS patients globally. In the third quarter of 2021, we completed a Phase 1 trial in healthy volunteers to evaluate the safety and pharmacology of utreloxastat. Utreloxastat was found to be well-tolerated with no reported serious adverse events while demonstrating predictable pharmacology. We initiated a Phase 2 registration directed trial of utreloxastat for ALS in the first quarter of 2022. We expect topline results from this trial in the fourth quarter of 2024.

Closing of Notes Offering

On September 5, 2024, McKesson Corporation (the "Company") entered into an Underwriting Agreement (the "Underwriting Agreement") with the several underwriters named therein (the "Underwriters"), pursuant to which the Company agreed to issue and sell $500,000,000 aggregate principal amount of its 4.250% Notes due 2029 (the "Notes"). On September 10, 2024, the Notes were issued pursuant to the Indenture, dated February 15, 2023 (the "Indenture"), between the Company and U.S. Bank Trust Company, National Association, as trustee (the "Trustee"), as amended and supplemented by an Officer's Certificate, dated September 10, 2024, setting forth certain terms of the Notes (the "Officer's Certificate").

The Notes will bear interest at the rate of 4.250% per year. Interest on the Notes is payable on September 15 and March 15 of each year, beginning on March 15, 2025.

Upon at least 10 days' and not more than 60 days' notice to holders of the Notes, the Company may redeem the Notes for cash in whole, at any time, or in part, from time to time, (x) prior to August 15, 2029, at a redemption price that includes accrued and unpaid interest and a make-whole premium that is calculated based on the Treasury Rate (as defined in the Officer's Certificate) plus 15 basis points and (y) on or after August 15, 2029, at par plus accrued and unpaid interest, in each case, as specified in the Indenture and the Officer's Certificate. The Indenture and the Officer's Certificate include certain covenants, including limitations on the Company's ability to create certain liens on its assets or enter into sale and leaseback transactions with respect to its properties, or consolidate, merge or sell all or substantially all of its assets, subject to a number of important exceptions as specified in the Indenture. The Notes are unsecured and unsubordinated obligations of the Company and rank equally with all of the Company's existing and future unsecured and unsubordinated indebtedness outstanding from time to time. The Indenture contains customary event of default provisions. In the event of the occurrence of both (1) a change of control of the Company and (2) a downgrade of the Notes below an investment grade rating by each of the Rating Agencies (as defined in the Officer's Certificate) within a specified period, unless the Company has previously exercised its optional redemption right with respect to the Notes in whole, the Company will be required to offer to repurchase the Notes from the holders at a price in cash equal to 101% of the then outstanding principal amount of the Notes, plus accrued and unpaid interest to, but not including, the date of repurchase.

The public offering price of the Notes was 99.946%% of the principal amount. The Company received approximately $498.0 million in net proceeds from the offering of the Notes, after deducting the underwriting discount but before deducting estimated offering expenses. The Company intends to use the net proceeds from the offering of the Notes, together with cash on hand, to fund the 2026 Notes Redemption (as defined below).

The Notes were offered and sold pursuant to the Company's automatic shelf registration statement on Form S-3 (Registration No. 333-269523) under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. The Company has filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") a prospectus supplement, dated September 5, 2024, together with the accompanying prospectus, dated February 2, 2023.

For a complete description of the terms and conditions of the Officer's Certificate, the Notes and the Underwriting Agreement, please refer to the Officer's Certificate, the form of Note and the Underwriting Agreement, which are incorporated herein by reference and attached to this Current Report on Form 8-K as Exhibits 4.1, 4.2, and 99.1, respectively.

Redemption of 2026 Notes

Concurrently with the launch of the offering of the Notes, on September 5, 2024, the Company issued a notice of redemption of all of its outstanding 5.250% notes due February 15, 2026 (the "2026 Notes"). The redemption of the 2026 Notes (the "2026 Notes Redemption") will be made in accordance with the terms of the Indenture, as amended and supplemented by the Officer's Certificate, dated February 15, 2023, setting forth certain terms of the 2026 Notes (collectively, the "2026 Notes Indenture"), which provides for a redemption price on or after February 15, 2024 equal to 100% of the principal amount of the 2026 Notes being redeemed plus accrued and unpaid interest thereon to, but not including, the redemption date. The foregoing description of the 2026 Notes Redemption is provided for informational purposes only, and this Current Report on Form 8-K does not constitute a notice of redemption of the 2026 Notes. The 2026 Notes Redemption will only be made in accordance with the provisions of the 2026 Notes Indenture.

ANNEX A

Pursuant to Section 2.3 of the Indenture, dated February 15, 2023 (the "Indenture"), between McKesson Corporation, a Delaware corporation (the "Issuer"), and U.S. Bank Trust Company, National Association, as trustee (the "Trustee"), the terms of a series of securities to be issued pursuant to the Indenture are as follows:

A. Designation. The designation of the securities is "4.250% Notes due 2029" (the "Notes").

B. Initial Aggregate Principal Amount. The Notes shall be limited in initial aggregate principal amount to $500,000,000 (except for Notes authenticated and delivered upon registration of transfer of, or in exchange for, or in lieu of, other Notes pursuant to Section 2.8, 2.9, 2.11, 8.5 or 12.3 of the Indenture).

C. Currency Denomination. The Notes shall be denominated in Dollars.

D. Maturity. The date on which the principal of the Notes is payable is September 15, 2029.

E. Rate of Interest; Interest Payment Date; Regular Record Dates. The Notes shall bear interest from September 10, 2024 at 4.250% per annum until the principal thereof is paid. Such interest shall be payable semi-annually in arrears on March 15 and September 15 of each year, commencing on March 15, 2025, to the persons in whose names the Notes are registered at the close of business on the immediately preceding March 1 and September 1, respectively, whether or not a Business Day. Interest on the Notes shall accrue from the most recent date to which interest has been paid, or if no interest has been paid, from September 10, 2024. Interest on the Notes will be computed on the basis of a 360-day year composed of twelve 30-day months. If any interest payment date would otherwise be a day that is not a Business Day, such interest payment date will be postponed to the next date that is a Business Day and no additional interest shall accrue. If the maturity date of the Notes falls on a day that is not a Business Day, the related payment of principal, premium, if any, and interest will be made on the next Business Day as if it were made on the date such payment was due, and no interest will accrue on the amounts so payable for the period from and after such date to the next Business Day. For the purposes of the Notes, "Business Day" is any day that is not a Saturday, Sunday or other day on which banking institutions in New York City or the place of payment on the Notes are authorized or required by law to close.

F. Place of Payment. Principal of, premium, if any, and interest on the Notes shall be payable, and the transfer of the Notes shall be registrable, at the office or agency of the Issuer to be maintained for such purpose in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, except that, at the option of the Issuer, interest may be paid by mailing a check to the address of the person entitled thereto as it appears on the Notes register; provided, however, that while any Notes are represented by a Registered Global Security, payment of principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the Notes may be made by wire transfer to the account of the Depositary or its nominee.

G. Optional Redemption.

Prior to August 15, 2029, the Issuer may redeem the Notes at its option, in whole or in part, at any time and from time to time, for cash, at a redemption price (expressed as a percentage of principal amount and rounded to three decimal places) equal to the greater of: (i) (a) the sum of the present values of the remaining scheduled payments of principal and interest thereon discounted to the redemption date on a semi-annual basis (assuming a 360-day year consisting of twelve 30-day months) at the Treasury Rate plus 15 basis points less (b) interest accrued to, but not including, the date of redemption; or (ii) 100% of the principal amount of the Notes being redeemed; plus, in either case, accrued and unpaid interest thereon to, but not including, the redemption date. On or after August 15, 2029, the Issuer may redeem the Notes at its option, in whole or in part, at any time and from time to time, for cash at a redemption price equal to 100% of the principal amount of the Notes being redeemed plus accrued and unpaid interest thereon to, but not including, the redemption date.

"Treasury Rate" means, with respect to any redemption date, the yield determined by us in accordance with the following two paragraphs.

The Treasury Rate will be determined by the Issuer after 4:15 p.m., New York City time (or after such time as yields on U.S. government securities are posted daily by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System), on the third Business Day preceding the redemption date based upon the yield or yields for the most recent day that appear after such time on such day in the most recent statistical release published by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System designated as "Selected Interest Rates (Daily)—H.15" (or any successor designation or publication) ("H.15") under the caption "U.S. government securities–Treasury constant maturities–Nominal" (or any successor caption or heading) ("H.15 TCM"). In determining the Treasury Rate, the Issuer will select, as applicable: (1) the yield for the Treasury constant maturity on H.15 exactly equal to the period from the redemption date to the maturity date (the "Remaining Life"); or (2) if there is no such Treasury constant maturity on H.15 exactly equal to the Remaining Life, the two yields – one yield corresponding to the Treasury constant maturity on H.15 immediately shorter than and one yield corresponding to the Treasury constant maturity on H.15 immediately longer than the Remaining Life – and will interpolate to the maturity date on a straight-line basis (using the actual number of days) using such yields and rounding the result to three decimal places; or (3) if there is no such Treasury constant maturity on H.15 shorter than or longer than the Remaining Life, the yield for the single Treasury constant maturity on H.15 closest to the Remaining Life. For purposes of this paragraph, the applicable Treasury constant maturity or maturities on H.15 shall be deemed to have a maturity date equal to the relevant number of months or years, as applicable, of such Treasury constant maturity from the redemption date.

If on the third Business Day preceding the redemption date H.15 TCM is no longer published, the Issuer will calculate the Treasury Rate based on the rate per annum equal to the semi-annual equivalent yield to maturity at 11:00 a.m., New York City time, on the second Business Day preceding such redemption date of the United States Treasury security maturing on, or with a maturity that is closest to, the maturity date, as applicable. If there is no United States Treasury security maturing on the maturity date but there are two or more United States Treasury securities with a maturity date equally distant from the maturity date, one with a maturity date preceding the maturity date and one with a maturity date following the maturity date, the Issuer will select the United States Treasury security with a maturity date preceding the maturity date. If there are two or more United States Treasury securities maturing on the maturity date or two or more United States Treasury securities meeting the criteria of the preceding sentence, the Issuer will select from among these two or more United States Treasury securities the United States Treasury security that is trading closest to par based upon the average of the bid and asked prices for such United States Treasury securities at 11:00 a.m., New York City time. In determining the Treasury Rate in accordance with the terms of this paragraph, the semi-annual yield to maturity of the applicable United States Treasury security shall be based upon the average of the bid and asked prices (expressed as a percentage of principal amount) at 11:00 a.m., New York City time, of such United States Treasury security, and rounded to three decimal places.

The Issuer's actions and determinations in determining the redemption price shall be conclusive and binding for all purposes, absent manifest error.

Notice of any redemption will be mailed or electronically delivered (or otherwise transmitted in accordance with the Depositary's procedures) at least 10 days but not more than 60 days before the redemption date to each Holder of the Notes to be redeemed.

Any notice of redemption may be given prior to the completion of any event or transaction, including any securities offering or other corporate transaction, and any redemption or notice of redemption may be subject to the satisfaction of one or more conditions precedent, including the completion of any such securities offering or corporate transaction. If any redemption or notice of redemption is subject to the satisfaction of one or more conditions precedent, the applicable notice of redemption will so state and will state that the redemption date may be delayed until such time as any or all of such conditions precedent have been satisfied, or such redemption may not occur and such notice of redemption may be rescinded in the event that any or all such conditions precedent have not been satisfied by the redemption date, or by the redemption date so delayed.

In the case of a partial redemption, selection of the Notes for redemption will be made pro rata, by lot or by such other method as the Trustee in its sole discretion deems appropriate and fair. No Notes of a principal amount of $2,000 or less will be redeemed in part. If any Note is to be redeemed in part only, the notice of redemption that relates to the Note will state the portion of the principal amount of the Note to be redeemed. A new Note in a principal amount equal to the unredeemed portion of the note will be issued in the name of the Holder of the Note upon surrender for cancellation of the original note. For so long as the Notes are held by DTC, the redemption of the Notes shall be done in accordance with the policies and procedures of the Depositary.

Unless the Issuer defaults in payment of the redemption price, on and after the redemption date interest will cease to accrue on the Notes or portions thereof called for redemption.

H. Change of Control. If a Change of Control Triggering Event (as defined below) occurs, unless the Issuer has previously exercised its right to redeem the Notes in whole as described above, Holders of the Notes will have the right to require the Issuer to repurchase all or any part (in integral multiples of $1,000 original principal amount) of their Notes pursuant to the offer described below (the "Change of Control Offer"); provided that the principal amount of any Note remaining outstanding after a repurchase in part shall be $2,000 or a higher integral multiple of $1,000. In the Change of Control Offer, the Issuer will be required to offer payment in cash equal to 101% of the then outstanding aggregate principal amount of Notes repurchased plus accrued and unpaid interest, if any, on the Notes repurchased, to, but not including, the date of repurchase (the "Change of Control Payment"). Within 30 days following any Change of Control Triggering Event, the Issuer will be required to mail a notice to Holders of the Notes describing the transaction or transactions that constitute the Change of Control Triggering Event and offering to repurchase the Notes on the date specified in the notice, which date will be no earlier than 30 days and no later than 60 days from the date such notice is mailed (the "Change of Control Payment Date"), pursuant to the procedures described herein and in such notice. The Issuer must comply with the requirements of Rule 14e-1 under the Exchange Act and any other securities laws and regulations thereunder to the extent those laws and regulations are applicable in connection with the repurchase of the Notes as a result of a Change of Control Triggering Event. To the extent that the provisions of any securities laws or regulations conflict with the Change of Control provisions herein, the Issuer will be required to comply with the applicable securities laws and regulations and will not be deemed to have breached its obligations under the Change of Control provisions herein by virtue of such conflicts.

On the Change of Control Payment Date, the Issuer will be required, to the extent lawful, to: (i) accept for payment all Notes or portions thereof properly tendered pursuant to the Change of Control Offer; (ii) irrevocably deposit with the Paying Agent, no later than 10:00 a.m., New York City time, an amount equal to the Change of Control Payment in respect of all Notes or portions thereof properly tendered; and (iii) deliver or cause to be delivered to the Trustee the Notes properly accepted together with an Officer's Certificate stating the aggregate principal amount of Notes or portions of Notes being repurchased.

The Paying Agent will promptly mail (or, in the case of Notes held in book-entry form, transmit electronically) to each Holder of the Notes properly tendered the repurchase price for such Notes, and the Trustee will promptly authenticate and mail (or cause to be transferred by book-entry) to each Holder a new Note equal in principal amount to any unrepurchased portion of any Notes surrendered; provided, that each new Note will be in a principal amount of $2,000 or an integral multiple of $1,000 thereafter.

The Issuer will not be required to make a Change of Control Offer upon the occurrence of a Change of Control Triggering Event if a third party makes such an offer in the manner, at the times and otherwise in compliance with the requirements for a Change of Control Offer made by the Issuer and the third party repurchases all Notes properly tendered and not withdrawn under its offer. In addition, the Issuer will not repurchase any Notes if there has occurred and is continuing on the Change of Control Payment Date an Event of Default, other than a default in the payment of the Change of Control Payment upon a Change of Control Triggering Event.

"Below Investment Grade Rating Event" means the Notes are rated below an Investment Grade Rating by each of the Rating Agencies (as defined below) on any date from the date of the public notice of an arrangement that could result in a Change of Control until the end of the 60-day period following public notice of the occurrence of the Change of Control (which 60-day period shall be extended so long as the rating of the Notes is under publicly announced consideration for possible downgrade by any of the Rating Agencies).

"Change of Control" means the occurrence of any of the following: (1) the direct or indirect sale, transfer, conveyance or other disposition (other than by way of merger or consolidation), in one or a series of related transactions, of all or substantially all of the properties or assets of the Issuer and its Subsidiaries taken as a whole to any Person other than the Issuer or one of its Subsidiaries; (2) the consummation of any transaction (including, without limitation, any merger or consolidation) the result of which is that any Person becomes the beneficial owner, directly or indirectly, of more than 50% of the then outstanding number of shares of the Issuer's voting stock; or (3) the first day on which a majority of the members of the Issuer's Board of Directors are not Continuing Directors. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a transaction will not be deemed to result in a Change of Control if (i) the Issuer becomes a wholly owned subsidiary of a holding company and (ii) the holders of the voting stock of such holding company immediately following that transaction are substantially the same as the holders of the Issuer's voting stock immediately prior to that transaction.

"Change of Control Triggering Event" means the occurrence of both a Change of Control and a Below Investment Grade Rating Event.

"Fitch" means Fitch Ratings Inc., a subsidiary of Hearst Corporation and Fimalac, S.A., or its successor.

"Investment Grade Rating" means a rating equal to or higher than Baa3 (or the equivalent) by Fitch or Moody's and BBB- (or the equivalent) by S&P.

"Moody's" means Moody's Investors Service, Inc., or its successor.

"Rating Agencies" means (1) each of Fitch, Moody's and S&P; and (2) if any one or more of Fitch, Moody's or S&P ceases to rate the Notes or fails to make a rating of the Notes publicly available for reasons outside of the Issuer's reasonable control, then, at the Issuer's election, either (x) each of the remaining agencies, as the case may be, or (y) each of the remaining agencies, as the case may be, and any "nationally recognized statistical rating organization" within the meaning of Section 3(a)(62) under the Exchange Act, selected by the Issuer (as certified by a Board Resolution) as a replacement agency for Fitch, Moody's or S&P, or all of them, as the case may be.

Orthopaedics and Spine

Orthopaedics products consist primarily of implants used in total joint replacements, such as hip, knee and shoulder, and trauma and extremities surgeries. We bring patients and physicians advanced implant designs and specialized instrumentation that make orthopaedic surgery and recovery simpler, faster and more effective. We support surgeons with the technology and services they need as they develop new surgical techniques. The Mako Robotic-Arm Assisted Surgical System was designed to help surgeons provide patients with a personalized surgical experience based on their specific diagnosis and anatomy. The Mako System currently offers three applications supporting Partial Knee, Total Hip and Total Knee procedures. Mako is the only robotic-arm assisted technology enabled by 3D CT-based pre-operative planning and, with AccuStop™ haptic technology, Mako provides surgeons the ability to know more about their patients' anatomy so they can cut less in bone preparation and implant placement with intra-operative haptic guidance.

Our spinal implant offering includes cervical and thoracolumbar systems that include fixation, minimally invasive and interbody systems used in spinal injury, complex spine and degenerative therapies. Our spine enabling technologies portfolio includes best in class imaging solutions, image-guided surgical technology, patient specific implants and digital health solutions supporting surgeons and their patients throughout the continuum of care.

Raw Materials and Inventory

Raw materials essential to our business are generally readily available from multiple sources; however, certain of our raw materials are currently sourced from single suppliers. Substantially all products we manufacture are stocked in inventory, while certain MedSurg products are assembled to order.

Patents and Trademarks

Patents and trademarks are significant to our business to the extent that a product or an attribute of a product represents a unique design or process. Patent protection of such products restricts competitors from duplicating these unique designs and features. We seek to obtain patent protection on our products whenever appropriate for protecting our competitive advantage. On December 31, 2023 we owned approximately 5,200 United States patents and approximately 7,700 patents in other countries.

Seasonality

Our business is generally not seasonal in nature; however, the number of orthopaedic implant surgeries is typically lower in the summer months, and sales of capital equipment are generally higher in the fourth quarter.

Competition

In each of our product lines we compete with local and global companies. The development of innovative products is important to our success in all areas of our business. Competition in research involving the development and improvement of new and existing products and processes is particularly significant. The competitive environment requires substantial investments in continuing research and maintaining sales forces.

We believe our commitment to innovation, quality and service and our reputation differentiates us in the highly competitive product categories in which we operate and enables us to compete effectively. We believe that our competitive position in the future will depend to a large degree on our ability to develop new products and make improvements to existing products.

Regulation

Our businesses are subject to varying degrees of governmental regulation in the countries in which we operate, and the general trend is toward increasingly stringent regulation. We are required to comply with the unique regulatory requirements of each country in which we market and sell our products.

In the United States the Medical Device Amendments of 1976 to the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act and its subsequent amendments and the regulations issued and proposed thereunder provide for federal regulation by the United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) of the design, manufacture and marketing of medical devices, including most of our products. In addition, state licensing requirements often apply to certain of our business operations and products. On the federal level, many of our new products fall into FDA classifications that require notification submitted as a 510(k) and review by the FDA before we begin marketing them. Certain of our products require extensive clinical testing, consisting of safety and efficacy studies, followed by pre-market approval applications for specific surgical indications. Certain of our products also fall under other FDA classifications, such as drugs and Human Cells, Tissues, and Cellular and Tissue-Based Products.

The FDA's Quality System regulations set forth standards for our product design and manufacturing processes, require the maintenance of certain records and provide for inspections of our facilities by the FDA. There are also certain requirements of state, local and foreign governments that must be complied with in the manufacture and marketing of our products.

The European Union enacted the European Union Medical Device Regulation in May 2017 with an original effective date of May 2021, which imposes stricter requirements for the marketing and sale of medical devices, including in the areas of clinical evaluation requirements, quality systems, labeling and post-market surveillance. Extended transition timelines were published in 2023 which range from May 2026 through December 2028 depending on the type of device and our implementation is on track to meet these timelines.

Initiatives to limit the growth of general healthcare expenses and hospital costs are ongoing in the markets we do business. These initiatives are sponsored by government agencies, legislative bodies and the private sector and include price regulation and competitive pricing. It is not possible to predict at this time the long-term impact of such cost containment measures on our future business. In addition, business practices in the healthcare industry are scrutinized, particularly in the United States, by federal and state government agencies. The resulting investigations and prosecutions carry the risk of significant civil and criminal penalties.

Environment

We are subject to various rules and regulation in the United States and internationally related to the protection of human health and the environment. Our operations involve the use of substances regulated under environmental laws, primarily in manufacturing and sterilization processes. We believe our policies, practices and procedures are properly designed to comply, in all material respects, with applicable environmental laws and regulations. We do not expect compliance with these requirements to have a material effect on purchases of property, plant and equipment, cash flows, net earnings or competitive position.

Employees

On December 31, 2023 we had approximately 52,000 employees globally, with approximately 27,000 employees in the United States. Our talented employees are an integral reason for our standing as a global leader in medical technologies where, together with our customers, we are driven to make healthcare better. Our company values of integrity, accountability, people and performance are a key component of that mission. Our people, as one of our core values, continue to be a key focus.

Our success depends on our ability to attract the best talent. To do so, we continue to focus on creating and maintaining a great workplace. We believe in attracting the right people, maintaining and building employee engagement and developing our employees. We believe when people are able to do what they do best, they will look forward to coming to work and, in turn, will deliver great business results.

Our leadership team and Board of Directors receive regular updates on our people and culture strategy and provide feedback on our strategy and goals, including alignment to our mission and values, peer benchmarking and stakeholder feedback.

Employee Development

Our employee development is extensive and exists at all levels of the organization, including company-wide training on our Code of Conduct, job-related technical training and management and leadership training. Our development programs include on-the-job learning, coaching and mentoring, management and leadership development courses, team building and collaboration training and immersive experiences with expert partners.

We encourage all employees to establish development objectives, in partnership with their manager, to help employees gain the needed development experience to grow their careers.

Employee Engagement

An engaged workplace culture that drives performance and business outcomes is central to our mission. Listening to and learning from our employees forms the foundation of an engaging culture. More than 90% of our employees participate in our annual engagement survey, which provides a valued platform for listening and allows us to take action based on the feedback collected.

We supplement our annual engagement survey with targeted pulse surveys to gather feedback on topics relevant to the current climate. In addition, we establish forums for collecting qualitative feedback to gain insights and identify actions we can take so that employees feel included, engaged and able to achieve their full potential.

We also provide tools and resources that enable managers and teams to act on the insights we gain from our surveys and to drive employee engagement and strong business outcomes.

Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DE&I)

An essential part of our culture is respecting each individual's strengths and values. Building on this foundation, we are focused on maintaining an inclusive, engaging work environment and prioritizing DE&I in keeping with our values of integrity and people. Our DE&I strategy is centered around these three commitments:

- Strengthen the diversity of our workforce
- Advance a culture of inclusion, engagement and belonging
- Maximize the power of inclusion to drive innovation and growth

We are advancing our commitments through the following actions, among others:

- Increasing access to talent through strategic partnerships and campaigns
- Growing and engaging talent with a range of opportunities to learn and develop
- Aligning our employee resource groups to focus on creating community and belonging

As of December 31, 2023 approximately 38.1% of our employees were women and 27.9% of our employees in the United States identified as racially or ethnically diverse.

ITEM 1A. RISK FACTORS.

This report contains statements that are not historical facts and are considered "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These statements are based on current projections about operations, industry conditions, financial condition and liquidity. Words that identify forward-looking statements include, without limitation, words such as "may," "could," "will," "should," "possible," "plan," "predict," "forecast," "potential," "anticipate," "estimate," "expect," "project," "intend," "believe," "may impact," "on track," "goal," "strategy" and words and terms of similar substance used in connection with any discussion of future operating or financial performance, an acquisition or our businesses. In addition, any statements that refer to expectations, projections or other characterizations of future events or circumstances, including any underlying assumptions, are forward-looking statements. Those statements are not guarantees and are subject to risks, uncertainties and assumptions that are difficult to predict. Therefore, actual results could differ materially and adversely from these forward-looking statements, historical experience or our present expectations. Some important factors that could cause our actual results to differ from our expectations in any forward-looking statements include:

- weakening of economic conditions, or the anticipation thereof, that could adversely affect the level of demand for our products;
- geopolitical risks, including from international conflicts and upcoming elections in the United States and other countries, which could, among other things, lead to increased market volatility;
- pricing pressures generally, including cost-containment measures that could adversely affect the price of or demand for our products;
- changes in foreign currency exchange markets;
- legislative and regulatory actions;
- unanticipated issues arising in connection with clinical studies and otherwise that affect approval of new products by the FDA and foreign regulatory agencies;
- inflationary pressures;
- increased interest rates or interest rate volatility;
- supply chain disruptions;
- changes in labor markets;
- changes in reimbursement levels from third-party payors;
- a significant increase in product liability claims;
- the ultimate total cost with respect to recall-related and other regulatory and quality matters;
- the impact of investigative and legal proceedings and compliance risks;
- resolution of tax audits;
- changes in tax laws and regulations;
- the impact of legislation to reform the healthcare system in the United States or other countries;
- costs to comply with medical device regulations;
- changes in financial markets;
- changes in our credit ratings;
- changes in the competitive environment;
- our ability to integrate and realize the anticipated benefits of acquisitions in full or at all or within the expected timeframes;
- our ability to realize anticipated cost savings;
- potential negative impacts resulting from climate change or other environmental, social and governance and sustainability related matters;
- the impact on our operations and financial results of any public health emergency and any related policies and actions by governments or other third parties;
- breaches or failures of our or our vendors' or customers' information technology systems or products, including by cyber-attack, data leakage, unauthorized access or theft; and
- other risks detailed in our filings with the SEC.

While we believe that the assumptions underlying such forward-looking statements are reasonable, there can be no assurance that future events or developments will not cause such statements to be inaccurate. All forward-looking statements contained in this report are qualified in their entirety by this cautionary statement. We expressly disclaim any intention or obligation to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statement to reflect any change in our expectations or in events, conditions or circumstances on which those expectations may be based, or that affect the likelihood that actual results will differ from those contained in the forward-looking statements.

Our operations and financial results are subject to various risks and uncertainties discussed below that could materially and adversely affect our business, cash flows, financial condition and results of operations. Additional risks and uncertainties not currently known to us or that we currently deem not to be material or that could apply to any company may also materially and adversely affect our business, cash flows, financial condition or results of operations. If any of the risks discussed below or other risks actually occur or continue to occur, our business, financial condition, operating results or cash flows could be materially adversely affected. Accordingly, you should carefully consider the following risk factors, as well as other information contained in or incorporated by reference in this report.

BUSINESS AND OPERATIONAL RISKS

We use a variety of raw materials, components, devices and third-party services in our global supply chains, production and distribution processes; significant shortages, price increases or unavailability of third-party services have in the past increased, and could in the future increase, our operating costs and could require significant capital expenditures or adversely impact the competitive position of our products: Our reliance on certain suppliers to secure raw materials, components and finished devices, and on certain third-party service providers, such as sterilization service providers, exposes us to product shortages and unanticipated increases in prices, whether due to inflationary pressure, regulatory changes, litigation exposure, geopolitical tensions or otherwise. For example, in the past we experienced limited product availability due to an electronic components shortage in certain product lines. If a similar shortage occurs in the future with respect to other raw materials or components, we may not be able to obtain them from our suppliers on a timely basis, or at all, or identify alternative suppliers. In addition, several raw materials, components, finished devices and services are procured from a sole source due to the quality considerations, unique intellectual property considerations or constraints associated with regulatory requirements. If sole-source suppliers or service providers are unable or unwilling to deliver these materials or services as a result of financial difficulties, acquisition by a third party, natural disasters or otherwise, we may not be able to manufacture or have available one or more products during such period of unavailability and our business could suffer. In certain cases, we may not be able to establish additional or replacement suppliers for such materials or service providers for such services in a timely or cost-effective manner, often as a result of FDA and other regulations that require, among other things, validation of materials, components and services prior to their use in or with our products. In certain instances we have been unable to meet demand due to supply chain challenges, which has led to loss of sales. Although the impacts have not been material to date, an inability to meet demand due to supply chain challenges in the future could materially adversely impact our reputation, the competitive position of our products and our business. Any of the foregoing risks could have a material adverse impact on our profitability and results of operations.

In addition, since 2022 the market has experienced increasing inflationary pressures in part due to global supply chain disruptions, labor shortages and other impacts following the COVID-19 pandemic. We expect these inflationary pressures will continue. Inflation in the United States and in many of the countries where we conduct business has resulted in, and may continue to result in, higher interest rates and increased capital, energy, shipping and labor costs, weakening or strengthening exchange rates against the United States Dollar and other similar effects. We have experienced, and may continue to experience, inflationary increases in manufacturing costs and operating expenses, as well as negative impacts from weakening or strengthening exchange rates against the United States Dollar. Although we have been able to pass certain cost increases on to our customers, we have not been able to pass along all cost increases and we cannot guarantee that we will be able to do so in the future. Inflation, higher interest rates or interest rate volatility may also cause our customers to reduce or delay orders for our products and services. Any of the foregoing could have a material adverse impact on our sales, profitability and results of operations.

We are subject to pricing pressures as a result of cost containment measures in the United States and other countries and other factors: Initiatives to limit the growth of general healthcare expenses and hospital costs are ongoing in the markets in which we do business. These initiatives are sponsored by government agencies, legislative bodies and the private sector and include price regulation and competitive pricing. For example, China has implemented a volume-based procurement process designed to decrease prices for medical devices and other products. This has already impacted our joint replacement and spine businesses on a national level, and our trauma and certain neurovascular products on a provincial level, and we expect further adoption of volume-based procurement provincially or nationally in China in 2024. Pricing pressure has also increased due to continued consolidation among healthcare providers, trends toward managed care, the shift toward governments becoming the primary payers of healthcare expenses, reduction in reimbursement levels and medical procedure volumes and government laws and regulations relating to sales and promotion, reimbursement and pricing generally. We have also reduced prices for certain products due to increased competition and if we further reduce prices, we could become less profitable. In addition, due to healthcare industry consolidation in recent years, competition to provide goods and services to industry participants has become, and may continue to become, more intense, and this consolidation has produced, and may continue to produce, larger enterprises with more bargaining power. Pricing pressures related to any of the foregoing or other factors have impacted and could in the future impact our results of operations and profitability.

We operate in a highly competitive industry in which competition in the development and improvement of new and existing products is significant: The markets in which we compete are highly competitive, and a significant element of our strategy is to increase revenue growth by focusing on innovation and new product development. New business models, products and surgical procedures are introduced on an ongoing basis and our present or future products could be rendered obsolete or uneconomical by internal or external technological advances, as we continue to innovate to address physician and patient needs, or by our existing competitors and new market entrants. Our existing competitors and new market entrants may respond more quickly to or integrate new or emerging technologies such as robotics, artificial intelligence and machine learning in their product offerings, undertake more extensive marketing campaigns, have greater access to clinical information to support ongoing product position in the market, have greater financial, marketing and other resources or be more successful in attracting potential customers, employees and strategic partners. There can be no assurance that any products now in development, or that we may seek to develop in the future, will achieve technological feasibility, obtain regulatory approval or gain market acceptance. If we are unable to develop and launch new products, our ability to maintain or expand our market position in the markets in which we participate may be negatively impacted.

We may be unable to maintain adequate working relationships with healthcare professionals: We seek to maintain close working relationships with respected physicians and medical personnel in healthcare organizations, such as hospitals and universities, who assist in product research and development. We rely on these professionals to assist us in the development and improvement of proprietary products. If we are unable to maintain these relationships due to regulatory restrictions, hospital access restrictions for non-patients or for other reasons, our ability to develop, market and sell new and improved products could be adversely affected. For example, China's National Health Commission has launched an anti-corruption campaign focused on investigating government officials and individuals employed by state-owned entities and public institutions in the healthcare sector, which has resulted in us seeing some limitations to physician and surgeon access. Although this has not had a material impact on our business, if other jurisdictions were to take this approach, our business could be adversely impacted.

We rely on indirect distribution channels and major distributors that are independent of Stryker: In many markets we rely on indirect distribution channels to market, distribute and sell our products. These indirect channels often are the main point of contact for the healthcare professionals and healthcare organization customers who buy and use our products. Our ability to continue to market, distribute and sell our products may be at risk if the indirect channels become insolvent, choose to sell competitive products, choose to stop selling medical technology, fail to adhere to Stryker requirements or are subject to new or additional government regulation.

We are subject to risks associated with our extensive global operations: We develop, manufacture and distribute our products globally. Our global operations are subject to risks and costs related to, among other things, changes in reimbursement; changes in regulatory requirements (such as the staggered phase-in period for manufacturers to comply with the European Union Medical Device Regulation (MDR) through December 2028); differing local product preferences and product requirements; diminished protection of intellectual property in some countries; tariffs and other trade protection measures, as well as increasing localization and protectionism policies in certain jurisdictions; international trade disputes and import or export requirements; difficulty in staffing and managing foreign operations; introduction of new internal business structures and programs; political and economic instability; current or potential geopolitical conflicts, such as the tensions between China and Taiwan and the wars in Ukraine and the Middle East, and related sanctions and other developments; disruptions of transportation, including port closures, increased border controls or border closures or reduced transportation availability, due to military conflicts, a global pandemic of contagious diseases like COVID-19 or otherwise; increased energy or transportation costs; fluctuations in currency exchange rates and financial markets; and increased security threats to our supply chain. Many of these risks are rapidly evolving and subject to an accelerating pace of change. Our business could be adversely impacted if we are unable to successfully manage these and other risks of global operations in an increasingly volatile environment. In addition, in many countries, the laws and regulations applicable to us or our industry are evolving, and we have in certain cases become subject to divergent and conflicting laws and regulations across our operations, which could increase risk over time.

We may be unable to capitalize on previous or future acquisitions: In addition to internally developed products, we invest in new products and technologies through acquisitions, including our acquisition of Cerus in 2023. Such investments are inherently risky, and we cannot guarantee that any acquisition will be successful or will not have a material unfavorable impact on us. The risks include the activities required and resources allocated to integrate new businesses, diversion of management time that could adversely affect management's ability to focus on other projects, the inability to realize the expected benefits, savings or synergies from the acquisition, the loss of key personnel, litigation resulting from the acquisition and exposure to unexpected liabilities of acquired companies. Certain acquisitions are subject to antitrust and competition laws, and antitrust scrutiny by regulatory agencies and changes to the regulatory approval process in the United States and foreign jurisdictions may cause approvals to take longer than anticipated to obtain, not be obtained at all, or contain burdensome conditions, which may jeopardize, delay or reduce the anticipated benefits of acquisitions to us and could impede the execution of our business strategy. In addition, we cannot be certain that the businesses we acquire will become or remain profitable.

We, our business partners or our third-party vendors could experience a material failure or breach of a key information technology system, network, process or site: We rely extensively on information technology (IT) systems to conduct business. In addition, we rely on networks and services, including internet sites, cloud and software-as-a-service solutions, data hosting and processing facilities and tools and other hardware, software (including open-source software) and technical applications and platforms, some of which are managed, hosted, provided and/or used by third parties or their vendors, to assist in conducting our business. Numerous and evolving cybersecurity threats have posed, and will continue to pose, risks to the security of our IT systems, networks and product offerings, as well as the confidentiality, availability and integrity of our data. Some of our products and services, and information technology systems, contain or use open-source software, which poses particular risks, including potential security vulnerabilities, licensing compliance issues and quality issues. We, our customers and third-party hosting services have experienced, and expect to continue to experience, security breaches of, or unauthorized access to, products or systems. While such breaches or unauthorized access have not been material to date, we cannot guarantee that any future breach or unauthorized access will not be material and any breach or unauthorized access could impact the use of such products and systems and the security of information stored therein. Although we have made investments and expect to continue to make investments seeking to address these threats, including monitoring of networks and systems, use of artificial intelligence, hiring of experts, employee training and security policies for employees and third-party providers, the techniques used in these attacks change frequently and may be difficult to detect for periods of time and we may face difficulties in anticipating and implementing adequate preventative measures.

When cybersecurity incidents occur, we follow our incident response protocols and address them in accordance with applicable governmental regulations and other legal requirements. Our response to these incidents and our investments to protect our product offerings and information technology infrastructure and data may not shield us from significant losses and potential liability or prevent any future interruption or breach of our systems. Moreover, given the increasing complexity and sophistication of the techniques used by threat actors to obtain unauthorized access or disable or degrade systems, a cyberattack could occur and persist for an extended period of time before being detected, and we may not anticipate these acts or mitigate them adequately or timely, which may compound damages before the incident is discovered or remediated. The extent of a particular cyber incident and the steps that we may need to take to investigate the incident may not be immediately clear, and it may take a significant amount of time before such investigation can be completed and full and reliable information about the incident is known. New regulations may require us to disclose information about a material cybersecurity incident before it has been resolved or fully investigated. Additionally, as threats continue to evolve and increase, and as the regulatory environment related to information security, data collection and use, and privacy becomes increasingly rigorous, we may be required to devote significant additional resources to modify and enhance our security controls and to identify and remediate any security vulnerabilities, which could adversely impact our net income. In addition, a significant number of our employees working remotely has exposed us, and may continue to expose us, to greater risks related to cybersecurity and cyber-liability. If our IT systems are damaged or cease to function properly, the networks or service providers we rely upon fail to function properly, or we or one of our third-party providers suffer a loss or disclosure of our business or stakeholder information due to any number of causes ranging from catastrophic events or power outages to improper data handling or security breaches or unauthorized access and our business continuity plans do not effectively address these failures on a timely basis, we may be exposed to reputational, competitive and business harm as well as litigation and regulatory action.

An inability to successfully manage the implementation of our new commercial global enterprise resource planning (ERP) system could adversely affect our operations and operating results: We are in the process of implementing a new commercial ERP system. This system will replace many of our existing operating and financial systems. The implementation is a major undertaking, both financially and from a management and personnel perspective. Any material disruptions, delays or deficiencies in the design and implementation of our new ERP system could adversely affect our ability to process orders, ship products, provide services and customer support, send invoices and track payments, fulfill contractual obligations or otherwise operate our business.

We may be unable to attract, develop and retain executives and key employees: Our sales, technical and other key personnel play an integral role in the development, marketing and selling of new and existing products. Our future performance also depends in large part on the continued services of our senior management. If we are unable to recruit, hire, develop and retain a talented, competitive work force in our highly competitive industry, or if we are unable to plan effective succession for the future, we may not be able to meet our strategic business objectives. Inflationary pressures, labor demand and shortages and other macroeconomic factors have increased and could further increase the cost of labor and could harm our ability to recruit, hire and retain talented employees. In addition, increased unionization could negatively impact our labor costs and ability to create an engaging, connected culture, which could adversely affect our ability to recruit, hire, develop and retain a talented, competitive workforce. Further, if we are unable to maintain competitive and equitable compensation and benefit programs, including incentive programs which reward financial and operational performance, our ability to recruit, hire, engage, motivate and retain talent could be negatively affected. Additionally, if we are unable to maintain an inclusive culture that aligns our diverse workforce with our mission and values, it could adversely impact our ability to recruit, hire, develop and retain key talent. Further, our remote and hybrid work practices, ability to provide flexible and alternative work arrangements, and our practices relating to corporate responsibility may not meet the needs or expectations of our employees, including senior management or other key employees, which could negatively impact our ability to attract and retain highly skilled employees, or may harm our culture and/or decrease employee engagement, which could adversely impact our ability to recruit, hire, develop and retain a talented, competitive workforce.

Effective succession planning is also important to our long-term success. Failure to ensure effective transfer of knowledge and smooth transitions involving executives and other key employees could hinder our strategic planning and execution. Changes in our management team may be disruptive to our business, and any failure to successfully integrate key new hires or promoted employees could adversely affect our business and results of operations. The loss of the services of any of our senior management or other key personnel, or our inability to attract highly qualified senior management and other key personnel, could harm our business. Our ability to execute our business strategy could be impaired if we are unable to replace such persons timely. In addition, recent legal and regulatory changes affect our ability to enforce post-termination obligations from certain employees with respect to non-competition, non-solicitation and protection of confidential information. This may negatively impact our ability to retain employees and protect our information and relationships with customers and other third parties.

Interruption of manufacturing operations could adversely affect our business: We and our suppliers have manufacturing and supply sites all over the world. However, the manufacturing of certain of our product lines is concentrated in one or more plants or geographic regions. We have principal manufacturing and distribution facilities in the United States in Arizona, California, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, New Jersey, Puerto Rico, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Washington, and outside the United States in China, France, Germany, Ireland, Mexico, the Netherlands, Poland, Switzerland and Turkey. Damage to our facilities, to our suppliers' or service providers' facilities, or to our central distribution centers as a result of natural disasters, fires, explosions or otherwise, as well as issues in our manufacturing arising from a failure to follow specific internal protocols and procedures, compliance concerns relating to the quality systems regulation, equipment breakdown or malfunction, IT system failures or cybersecurity incidents, environmental hazard incidents or changes to environmental regulations or other factors, could adversely affect the availability of our products. In the event of an interruption in manufacturing, we may be unable to move quickly to alternate means of producing and distributing affected products to meet customer demand. In the event of a significant interruption, we may experience lengthy delays in resuming production or distribution of affected products due to the need for regulatory approvals, and we may experience loss of market share, additional expense and harm to our reputation.

Our insurance program may not be adequate to cover future losses: We maintain third-party insurance to cover our exposure to certain property and casualty losses and are self-insured for claims and expenses related to other property and casualty losses, including product liability, intellectual property infringement and enforcement, environmental, and cybersecurity and data privacy losses. We manage a portion of our exposure to self-insured losses through a wholly-owned captive insurance company. Insurance coverage limits provided by third-party insurers and/or our captive insurance company may not be sufficient to fully cover certain losses we may experience.

We have experienced, and may continue to experience, a significant and unpredictable need to adjust our operations as market demand for certain of our products has shifted and continues to shift or as may be mandated by governmental authorities: Some of our products are particularly sensitive to reductions in elective medical procedures. Elective medical procedures were suspended or reduced at various times during the COVID-19 pandemic in many of the markets where our products are marketed and sold, which negatively affected our business, cash flows, financial condition and results of operations. It is not possible to predict whether elective medical procedures will again be suspended or reduced in the future and, to the extent individuals and customers are required to delay or cancel elective procedures, our business, cash flows, financial condition and results of operations could be negatively affected. Further, our customers have experienced, and could continue to experience, staffing shortages that may result in decreased demand for our products, which could negatively affect our business and financial results.

In addition, during the COVID-19 pandemic our products in certain divisions, such as Medical, experienced higher demand as our customers were focused on treating COVID-19 patients and preparing for future public health emergencies. Unpredictable increases in demand for certain of our products have exceeded in the past, and could exceed in the future, our capacity to meet such demand timely, which could adversely affect our customer relationships and result in negative publicity. In this regard, the accelerated development and production of products and services to address medical and other requirements could increase the risk of regulatory enforcement actions, product defects or related claims or reputational harm.

Pandemics and public health emergencies, and the fear thereof, have in the past materially adversely affected and could in the future materially adversely affect, our operations, supply chain, manufacturing, product distribution, customers and other business activities: In connection with COVID-19, governmental authorities and private enterprises implemented, and may in the future implement in connection with another pandemic or public health emergency (or in response to the fear thereof), measures, such as travel bans and restrictions, quarantines, shelter-in-place orders and shutdowns. Our customers, global suppliers, distributors and manufacturing facilities have in the past been, and could in the future be, materially affected by restrictive measures implemented in response to a pandemic or public health emergency, which has in the past caused and could in the future cause them to be unable to hire and retain employees, distribute or use our products or provide required services. We have as a result experienced, and could in the future experience, delays in, or the suspension of, our manufacturing operations, sales activities, research and product development activities, regulatory work streams, clinical development programs and other important commercial functions, which may result in our inability to satisfy consumer demand for our products in a timely manner or at all and which could harm our reputation, future sales and profitability. The extent of any future pandemic or public health emergency's effect on our business and industry will depend on, among other things, the severity of the disease, the successful development, distribution and acceptance of vaccines for diseases, future resurgences and/or the spread of disease variants, all of which are uncertain and difficult to predict. The COVID-19 pandemic materially impacted us, and any future pandemic or public health emergency could materially impact us and would heighten many of the other risks described in this report.

LEGAL AND REGULATORY RISKS

Current economic and political conditions make tax rules in jurisdictions subject to significant change: Our future results of operations could be affected by changes in the effective tax rate as a result of changes in tax laws, regulations and judicial rulings. We are continuing to evaluate the impact of tax reform in the countries in which we operate as new guidance is published and new regulations are adopted. In addition, further changes in the tax laws could arise, including as a result of the base erosion and profit shifting project undertaken by the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). The OECD, which represents a coalition of member countries, has put forth two proposed frameworks—Pillar One and Pillar Two—that revise the existing profit allocation and nexus rules and ensure a minimal level of taxation, respectively. On December 12, 2022, the European Union member states agreed to implement the Inclusive Framework's global corporate minimum tax rate of 15%, and various countries (both within and outside the European Union) have enacted new laws implementing Pillar Two or have proposed legislation. The OECD continues to release additional guidance on the two-pillar framework, with widespread implementation anticipated by 2024. These changes, and any additional contemplated changes, could increase tax expense.

We could be negatively impacted by future changes in the allocation of income to each of the income tax jurisdictions in which we operate: We operate in multiple income tax jurisdictions both in the United States and internationally. Accordingly, our management must determine the appropriate allocation of income to each jurisdiction based on current interpretations of complex income tax regulations. Income tax authorities regularly perform audits of our income tax filings. Income tax audits associated with the allocation of income and other complex issues, including inventory transfer pricing and cost sharing, product royalty and foreign branch arrangements, may require an extended period to resolve and may result in significant income tax adjustments.

The impact of healthcare reform legislation on our business remains uncertain: Several markets where we sell our products are making efforts to expand access to health care or health insurance coverage while decreasing costs. These efforts may have a direct or unintended negative impact on access to medical technology and could have a significant effect on our business. We cannot predict what healthcare programs and regulations could ultimately be implemented at the federal or state level or the effect that any future legislation or regulation in the United States may have on our business. Similarly, we cannot predict the impact that healthcare reform legislation in other countries where we sell our products may have on our business.

We are subject to extensive governmental regulation relating to the classification, manufacturing, sterilization, licensing, labeling, marketing and sale of our products: The classification, manufacturing, sterilization, licensing, labeling, marketing and sale of our products are subject to extensive and evolving regulations and rigorous regulatory enforcement by the FDA, state governments, European Union and other governmental authorities in the United States and internationally. These governmental authorities may impose additional requirements or limits on the methods, procedures or agents we use to manufacture and sterilize our products, which could have a negative impact on our business. In addition, the process of obtaining licenses, regulatory clearances and/or approvals to market and sell our products can be costly and time consuming and the clearances and/or approvals might not be granted timely. We have ongoing responsibilities under the laws and regulations applicable to the manufacturing of products within our facilities and those contracted by third parties that are subject to periodic inspections by the FDA, state Boards of Pharmacy and other governmental authorities to determine compliance with the quality system, medical device reporting regulations and other requirements. We incur significant costs to comply with regulations, including the MDR. If we fail to comply with applicable regulatory requirements, we may be subject to a range of sanctions, including substantial fines, warning letters that require corrective action, product seizures, recalls, import restrictions, the suspension of product manufacturing or sales, revocation of approvals, exclusion from future participation in government healthcare programs, substantial fines and criminal prosecution.

We are subject to federal, state and foreign healthcare regulations, including anti-bribery, anti-corruption, anti-kickback and false claims laws, globally and could face substantial penalties if we fail to comply with such regulations and laws: The relationships that we, and third parties that market and/or sell our products, have with healthcare professionals, such as physicians, hospitals, healthcare organizations and others, are subject to scrutiny under various state and federal laws often referred to collectively as healthcare fraud and abuse laws. In addition, the United States and foreign government regulators have increased the enforcement of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) and other anti-bribery and anti-kickback laws. We also must comply with a variety of other laws that impose extensive tracking and reporting related to all transfers of value provided to certain healthcare professionals and others. These laws and regulations are broad in scope and are subject to evolving interpretation and we have in the past been, and in the future could be, required to incur substantial costs to investigate, audit and monitor compliance or to alter our practices. Violations or alleged violations of these laws could result in litigation and we may be subject to criminal or civil penalties and sanctions, including substantial fines, imprisonment of current or former employees and exclusion from participation in governmental healthcare programs. In 2013 and 2018 we settled claims brought by the SEC related to the FCPA. Pursuant to these settlements, we paid fines and penalties and retained an independent compliance consultant. We continue to implement recommendations that resulted from the independent compliance consultant's review of our commercial practices to enhance our commercial business practices. In addition, we are currently investigating whether certain business activities in certain foreign countries violated provisions of the FCPA and have been contacted by the SEC, United States Department of Justice and certain other regulatory authorities. Although we are currently unable to predict the outcome of the investigations or the potential impact, if any, on our financial statements, the impacts could potentially be significant.

We are subject to privacy, data protection and data security regulations and laws globally, and could face substantial penalties if we fail to comply with such regulations and laws: We are subject to a variety of laws and regulations globally regarding privacy, data protection, and data security, including those related to the collection, storage, handling, use, disclosure, transfer and security of personally identifiable healthcare information. For example, in the United States, privacy and security regulations under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996, including the expanded requirements under the Health Information Technology for Economic and Clinical Health Act of 2009, establish comprehensive standards with respect to the use and disclosure of protected health information (PHI), by covered entities, in addition to setting standards to protect the confidentiality, integrity and security of PHI. Regulators are also imposing new data privacy and security requirements, including new and greater monetary fines for privacy violations. For example, the European Union's General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) established rules regarding the handling of personal data. Non-compliance with the GDPR may result in monetary penalties of up to 4% of total company revenue. Various U.S. states and other governmental authorities around the world have imposed or are considering similar types of laws and regulations, data breach reporting and penalties for non-compliance and increasing security requirements. These laws and regulations are broad in scope and are subject to evolving interpretation and we have in the past been, and in the future could be, required to incur substantial costs to monitor compliance or to alter our practices. As new privacy-related laws and regulations are implemented, the time and resources needed for us to comply with such laws and regulations, as well as our potential liability for non-compliance and reporting obligations in the case of data breaches, have increased and may further increase.

We may be adversely affected by product liability claims, unfavorable court decisions or legal settlements: We are exposed to potential product liability risks inherent in the design, manufacture and marketing of medical devices, many of which are implanted in the human body for long periods of time or indefinitely. We are currently defendants in a number of product liability matters, including those relating to our Rejuvenate and ABGII Modular-Neck hip stems, LFIT Anatomic CoCr V40 Femoral Heads and the product liability lawsuits and claims relating to Wright Medical Group N.V. (Wright) legacy hip products discussed in Note 7 to our Consolidated Financial Statements. These matters are subject to uncertainties and outcomes are not predictable. Further, the European Representative Actions Directive (the Collective Redress Directive), which became effective in 2023, mandates a class action regime in each EU member state to facilitate domestic and cross-border class actions in a wide range of areas, including product liability claims with medical devices. The Collective Redress Directive could result in additional litigation risks and significant legal expenses. In addition, we may incur significant legal expenses or reputational damage for product liability claims regardless of whether we are found to be liable.

Intellectual property litigation and infringement claims could cause us to incur significant expenses or prevent us from selling certain of our products: The medical device industry is characterized by extensive intellectual property litigation and, from time to time, we are the subject of claims of infringement or misappropriation. Regardless of the outcome, such claims are expensive to defend and divert management and operating personnel from other business issues. A successful claim or claims of patent or other intellectual property infringement against us could result in payment of significant monetary damages and/or royalty payments or negatively impact our ability to sell current or future products in the affected category.

Dependence on patent and other proprietary rights and failing to protect such rights or to be successful in litigation related to such rights may impact offerings in our product portfolios: Our long-term success largely depends on our ability to market technologically competitive products. If we fail to obtain or maintain adequate intellectual property protection, it could allow others to sell products that directly compete with proprietary features in our product portfolio. Also, our issued patents may be subject to claims challenging their validity and scope and raising other issues. In addition, currently pending or future patent applications may not result in issued patents.

MARKET RISKS

We have exposure to exchange rate fluctuations on cross border transactions and translation of local currency results into United States Dollars: We report our financial results in United States Dollars and approximately 25% of our net sales are denominated in foreign currencies, including the Australian Dollar, British Pound, Canadian Dollar, Euro and Japanese Yen. Cross border transactions with external parties and intercompany relationships result in increased exposure to foreign currency exchange effects. While we use derivative instruments to manage the impact of currency exchange, our hedging strategies may not be successful, and our unhedged exposures continue to be subject to currency fluctuations. In addition, the weakening or strengthening of the United States Dollar results in favorable or unfavorable translation effects when the results of our foreign locations are translated into United States Dollars.

Additional capital that we may require in the future may not be available to us or may only be available to us on unfavorable terms, which could negatively affect our liquidity: Our future capital requirements will depend on many factors, including operating requirements, current and future acquisitions and the need to refinance existing debt. Our ability to issue additional debt or enter into other financing arrangements on acceptable terms could be adversely affected by our debt levels, unfavorable changes in economic conditions or uncertainties that affect the capital markets. Changes in credit ratings issued by nationally recognized credit rating agencies could also adversely affect our access to and cost of financing. Higher borrowing costs or the inability to access capital markets could adversely affect our ability to support future growth and operating requirements. In addition, we have experienced, and could in the future experience, loss of sales and profits due to delayed payments or insolvency of healthcare professionals, hospitals and other customers and suppliers facing liquidity issues due to the current macroeconomic environment, type and number of conditions being treated or for other reasons. As a result, we may be compelled to take additional measures to preserve our cash flow, including through the reduction of operating expenses or suspension of dividend payments.

ENVIRONMENTAL, SOCIAL AND GOVERNANCE RISKS

We could be negatively impacted by corporate responsibility and sustainability-related matters: Governments, investors, customers, employees and other stakeholders have been increasingly focused on corporate responsibility practices and disclosures, and expectations in this area continue to rapidly evolve. On occasion, we announce new initiatives, including goals, under our corporate responsibility framework. This framework is aligned with our areas of interest, which include environment and sustainability, social impact, diversity, equity and inclusion and supply chain management, among others. Implementation of these goals and initiatives involves risks and uncertainties, requires investments and depends in part on third-party performance or data that is outside our control. We cannot guarantee that we will achieve our announced corporate responsibility goals and initiatives. The criteria by which our corporate responsibility practices are assessed may change due to the quickly evolving landscape, which could result in greater regulatory requirements or expectations of us and cause us to undertake costly initiatives to satisfy such new criteria. Moreover, the increasing attention to corporate responsibility initiatives could also result in reduced demand for our products, reduced profits and increased investigations and litigation. If we are unable to satisfy evolving criteria, investors and other stakeholders may conclude that our policies and/or actions with respect to corporate responsibility matters are inadequate. If we fail or are perceived to have failed to achieve previously announced initiatives or goals, comply with corporate responsibility laws and regulations, meet evolving expectations or accurately disclose our progress, we could face legal and regulatory proceedings and our reputation, business, financial condition and results of operations could be adversely impacted.

Physical effects of climate change or legal, regulatory or market measures intended to address climate change could adversely affect our operations and operating results: Risks associated with climate change are subject to increasing societal, regulatory and political focus in the United States and globally. Shifts in weather patterns caused by climate change are expected to increase the frequency, severity or duration of certain adverse weather conditions and natural disasters, such as hurricanes, tornadoes, earthquakes, wildfires, droughts, extreme temperatures or flooding, which could cause more significant business and supply chain interruptions, damage to our products and facilities as well as the infrastructure of hospitals, medical care facilities and other customers, reduced workforce availability, increased costs of raw materials and components, increased liabilities and decreased revenues than what we have experienced in the past from such events. In addition, increased public concern over climate change has resulted in certain, and could result in additional, new legal or regulatory requirements designed to mitigate the effects of climate change, which could include the adoption of more stringent environmental laws and regulations or stricter enforcement of existing laws and regulations. Such developments could result in increased compliance costs and adverse impacts on raw material availability and sourcing, manufacturing operations and the distribution of our products, which could adversely affect our operations and operating results.

ITEM 1C. CYBERSECURITY.

RISK MANAGEMENT AND STRATEGY

We review cybersecurity risk as part of our overall enterprise risk management program. This ensures that cybersecurity risk management remains a top priority in our business strategy and operations.

MANAGEMENT'S ROLE IN MANAGING RISK

Primary management responsibility for assessing, monitoring and managing our cybersecurity risks rests with our chief information security officer ("CISO"). Our current CISO has over 30 years of experience in information technology including over 20 years in cybersecurity and oversees a team of cybersecurity professionals with over 140 security, risk, and compliance certifications. The CISO is regularly informed about recent developments in cybersecurity, including potential threats and innovative risk management techniques.

The CISO implements and oversees processes for the regular monitoring of our information systems. We use various tools and methodologies to manage cybersecurity risk that are tested regularly. We also monitor and evaluate our cybersecurity posture and performance on an ongoing basis through regular vulnerability scans, penetration tests and threat intelligence feeds. In addition, we engage third-party consultants to conduct annual cybersecurity assessments and to conduct audits for compliance with regulatory, Sarbanes-Oxley Act, Service Organization Control Type 2 and International Organization for Standardization standards. We also engage third parties to assess our cybersecurity maturity and risk management programs.

We use a cross-departmental approach to addressing cybersecurity risk, with our cybersecurity, product security and legal teams presenting quarterly on key topics to a committee of leaders in finance, regulatory, and corporate affairs functions. This leadership committee meets quarterly to ensure that we have input and oversight from critical stakeholders into our cybersecurity program and evolving issues.

The CISO oversees a training and awareness program for employees to take part in protecting the Company against cybersecurity risks. We have implemented annual mandatory security education to help employees understand cybersecurity risks and comply with our cybersecurity policies. Additionally, we provide frequent communications around pertinent cybersecurity topics and policies to all employees. We also provide additional cybersecurity and data protection training to employees in certain roles.

As part of our cybersecurity risk management program, we also conduct cybersecurity and privacy assessments on all third parties who integrate with Stryker's data, network, systems and products. We use a combination of internal and external tools to confirm that these third parties meet our security requirements. We leverage standard industry threat model and privacy impact assessment concepts to confirm that data minimization and adequate data protections are in place. We perform supplemental reviews as necessary, commensurate with the risk associated with each vendor.

In the event of a cybersecurity incident, we have an incident response plan that includes immediate actions to mitigate the impact and long-term strategies for remediation and prevention of future incidents. The cybersecurity and product security teams routinely practice this plan with functions across the organization. We conduct tabletop exercises with senior management, during which we practice the procedures in place to ensure that potentially material cybersecurity risks and incidents are escalated to management and the Board of Directors where applicable.

GOVERNANCE

Cybersecurity risks are overseen by the full Board of Directors and the Audit Committee. The Audit Committee is central to the Board of Directors' oversight of cybersecurity risks and bears the primary responsibility for overseeing cybersecurity risk. The Audit Committee actively participates in strategic decisions related to cybersecurity, offering guidance and approval for major cybersecurity initiatives. This involvement ensures that cybersecurity considerations are integrated into our broader strategic objectives.

Our CISO provides comprehensive updates to the Audit Committee quarterly and the full Board of Directors at least annually. These briefings include a range of topics, including:

- Current cybersecurity landscape and emerging threats;
- Status of ongoing cybersecurity initiatives and strategies;
- Incident reports and learnings from any cybersecurity events;
- Metrics demonstrating company and industry-standard prevention of common threats; and
- Regulatory changes impacting cybersecurity requirements and strategy.

The Board of Directors is aware of the critical nature of managing risks associated with cybersecurity threats and is actively engaged in our cybersecurity risk management strategy.

RISKS FROM CYBERSECURITY THREATS

Although cybersecurity risks have not materially affected us, including our business strategy, results of operations or financial condition, to date, we face numerous and evolving cybersecurity threats in our business. For more information about the cybersecurity risks we face, see the risk factor entitled "We, our business partners or our third-party vendors could experience a material failure or breach of a key information technology system, network, process or site" in Item 1A. Risk Factors.

ITEM 2. PROPERTIES.

We have approximately 28 company-owned and 294 leased locations worldwide including 43 manufacturing locations. We believe that our properties are in good operating condition and adequate for the manufacture and distribution of our products. We do not anticipate difficulty in renewing existing leases as they expire or in finding alternative facilities.

ITEM 3. LEGAL PROCEEDINGS.

We are involved in various proceedings, legal actions and claims arising in the normal course of business, including proceedings related to product, labor and intellectual property, and the matters described in more detail in Note 7 to our Consolidated Financial Statements.

ITEM 4. MINE SAFETY DISCLOSURES.

Not applicable.

ITEM 5. MARKET FOR THE REGISTRANT'S COMMON EQUITY, RELATED STOCKHOLDER MATTERS AND ISSUER PURCHASES OF EQUITY SECURITIES.

Our common stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol SYK.

Our Board of Directors considers payment of cash dividends at its quarterly meetings. On January 31, 2024 there were 2,501 shareholders of record of our common stock.

We did not repurchase any shares in the three months ended December 31, 2023 and the total dollar value of shares that could be acquired under our authorized repurchase program at December 31, 2023 was $1,033.

In the fourth quarter 2023 we issued 5 shares of our common stock as performance incentive awards to employees. These shares were not registered under the Securities Act of 1933 based on the conclusion that the awards were not events of sale within the meaning of Section 2(a)(3) of the Act.

The following graph compares our total returns (including reinvestment of dividends) against the Standard & Poor's (S&P) 500 Index and the S&P 500 Health Care Index. The graph assumes $100 (not in millions) invested on December 31, 2018 in our common stock and each of the indices.

ITEM 7. MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS.

About Stryker

Stryker is a global leader in medical technologies and, together with our customers, we are driven to make healthcare better. We offer innovative products and services in MedSurg, Neurotechnology, Orthopaedics and Spine that help improve patient and healthcare outcomes. Alongside our customers around the world, we impact more than 150 million patients annually. Our goal is to achieve sales growth at the high-end of the medical technology (MedTech) industry and maintain our long-term capital allocation strategy that prioritizes: (1) Acquisitions, (2) Dividends and (3) Share repurchases.

Macroeconomic Environment

The global economy continues to experience increased inflationary pressures in part due to global supply chain disruptions, labor shortages and other impacts of the macroeconomic environment which we anticipate will continue. Higher interest rates and capital costs, higher shipping costs, increased costs of labor, fluctuating foreign currency exchange rates and the military conflicts in Russia and Ukraine and the Middle East create additional economic challenges and uncertainties. These conditions may cause our customers to decrease or delay orders for our products and services, and the higher interest rates may impact deal mix for our capital products.

Overview of 2023

In 2023 we achieved reported net sales growth of 11.1%. Excluding the impact of acquisitions and divestitures, sales grew 11.5% in constant currency. We reported net earnings of $3,165 and net earnings per diluted share of $8.25. Excluding the impact of certain items, we achieved adjusted net earnings[1] of $4,066 and adjusted net earnings per diluted share[1] of $10.60 representing growth of 13.5%.

We continued our capital allocation strategy by investing $390 in acquisitions and paying $1,139 in dividends to our shareholders.

In May 2023 we acquired Cerus for net cash consideration of $289 and up to $225 in future milestone payments. Cerus designs, develops and manufactures neurovascular products used for the treatment of hemorrhagic stroke. Cerus is part of our Neurovascular business within MedSurg and Neurotechnology. Refer to Note 6 to our Consolidated Financial Statements for further information.

During 2023 we made payments of $850 to extinguish the remaining balance on the $1.5 billion term loan scheduled to mature February 22, 2025.

In August 2023 we issued €500 of floating rate senior notes due November 16, 2024. The notes bear interest at a rate based on the three-month Euro Interbank Offered Rate (EURIBOR) plus 0.3%. The notes are callable at February 16, 2024, May 16, 2024 or October 16, 2024 either by us or at the option of the notes holders.

In November 2023 we repaid the outstanding €550 principal amount of 1.125% senior unsecured notes due November 30, 2023 and in December 2023 we repaid the outstanding $600 principal amount of 0.600% senior unsecured notes due December 1, 2023. We subsequently issued $600 of 4.850% senior unsecured notes due December 8, 2028 and €600 of 3.375% senior unsecured notes due December 11, 2028.

Precision care is expected to drive continued demand and the need for novel technologies and future innovation, as healthcare providers and researchers seek new solutions and tools for managing existing and new care pathways. The pursuit of precision care opportunities significantly expands our addressable industries to include integrated diagnostics, AI and machine learning-based clinical decision support, highly personalized therapies enabled by more precise diagnostics, and remote patient monitoring. The scale and breadth of our portfolio, combined with our innovation capabilities, position us to be a leading enabler of precision care.

Our customers are healthcare providers and researchers, including public, private, and academic institutions. We are organized into four business segments that are aligned with the industries we serve: Imaging, Ultrasound, Patient Care Solutions ("PCS"), and Pharmaceutical Diagnostics ("PDx"). Our portfolio of solutions addresses the biggest challenges facing healthcare providers and patients today, including helping to drive better patient outcomes and improved productivity for customers. These qualities foster strong trust, loyalty, and partnership with our global customer base.

GE HealthCare Technologies Inc. is a Delaware corporation with corporate headquarters in Chicago, Illinois. Refer to Note 1, "Organization and Basis of Presentation" for further information regarding the Spin-Off.

OUR SEGMENTS

We develop, manufacture, and market a broad portfolio of products, services, and complementary digital solutions used in the diagnosis, treatment, and monitoring of patients. We have a large, global installed base of medical imaging, ultrasound, and patient monitoring systems.

Our business is comprised of four segments:

IMAGING.

GE HealthCare is a global leader in medical imaging with a comprehensive portfolio of scanning devices, clinical applications, service capabilities, and digital solutions. Our Imaging portfolio spans the care continuum and provides critical tools for physicians, from initial screening and diagnosis, through therapeutic decision-making and monitoring of patient progression. Our products support providers in the delivery of care for a broad spectrum of clinical specialties, including oncology, cardiology, neurology, nuclear medicine, orthopedics, women's health, pediatrics, and surgery.

Our Imaging portfolio is comprised of six product lines and associated service capabilities: Molecular Imaging, Computed Tomography, Magnetic Resonance, Image-Guided Therapies, Women's Health, and X-ray. We manage our Molecular Imaging and Computed Tomography product lines together ("MI/CT") and our Women's Health and X-ray product lines together ("WH/XR").

- Molecular imaging ("MI") enables the visualization, characterization, and quantification of functional processes taking place at the cellular and subcellular levels within patients. The images produced by MI systems allow clinicians to study the cellular and molecular pathways and mechanisms of disease in patients. We offer a complete MI solution from cyclotrons, chemistry synthesis, positron emission tomography ("PET"), computed tomography ("PET/CT"), PET/MR, and nuclear medicine to advanced digital solutions. Our Molecular Imaging team works closely with the PDx segment and their innovations and collaborations with pharmaceutical companies.
- Computed tomography ("CT") scans render 3D anatomical images of structures, such as bone, soft tissue, and air cavities using an X-ray tube that rotates around a patient. The images are used in a wide variety of applications, including the detection of tumors or lesions, blocked blood vessels in the brain, abnormal heart conditions, complex bone fractures, and internal injuries from trauma. Our comprehensive Computed Tomography portfolio includes multi-purpose and specialty scanners.

- Magnetic resonance ("MR") is a non-invasive imaging technology that produces detailed anatomical images of almost every internal structure in the human body, such as the brain, spinal cord, heart, breast, kidneys, muscles, ligaments, and tendons. MR can also be used for functional imaging, and it is well-suited for disease detection, diagnosis, and treatment monitoring of a variety of conditions, including stroke, cancer, trauma, aneurysm, multiple sclerosis, cardiomyopathy, and congenital disorders. Our Magnetic Resonance portfolio includes scanners for a range of clinical capabilities through different bore sizes, magnetic field strengths, and scalable platforms.
- Our Image-Guided Therapies business provides technologies that assist clinicians and surgeons during open surgeries and minimally-invasive endovascular procedures. Intraoperative imaging systems are used to visualize procedures that involve implants and devices, such as stents, balloons, pacemakers, and artificial joints. Our Image-Guided Therapies business includes two business lines: interventional systems and surgery systems. Our interventional systems are comprised of a broad portfolio of products that provide real-time advanced X-ray imaging and integrate with other imaging and diagnostic technologies that support clinicians in planning, guiding, and assessing minimally-invasive procedures. Our surgical systems are comprised of a broad portfolio of mobile surgical C-arms that meet the varying clinical and environmental needs for surgical imaging around the world.
- Women's Health products use X-ray technology to help clinicians screen for and diagnose breast cancer as well as bone and metabolic diseases in women. The product portfolio includes imaging and biopsy positioning systems designed to image the breast and dual energy X-ray absorptiometry scanners designed to image bones with low mineral density.
- X-ray systems are used by clinicians to perform first-line diagnostic imaging examinations of anatomical structures in the body, such as bones, lungs, and the gastrointestinal tract. Our X-ray product portfolio includes systems for three distinct clinical situations: fixed room radiography products installed in hospitals and imaging centers; mobile radiography products used for bedside or other point-of-care imaging needs; and fluoroscopy products installed in hospitals for dynamic or "moving" X-ray imaging in applications like gastrointestinal examinations.

We also offer a suite of software and applications that help radiology teams improve productivity, address staff shortages, and deliver better patient outcomes. These software solutions and applications are upgradable through the lifecycle of the equipment and are especially beneficial for multi-site, multi-disciplinary networks that have complex operations. We also offer Picture Archiving and Communication Systems and Radiological Information Systems to manage the storage and reporting of radiology images.

In addition to our core products, digital solutions, and service offerings, we provide complementary enterprise solutions, such as education and training and data integration services. Our broad enterprise solutions used along the imaging continuum enable us to drive connectivity across healthcare systems and throughout the product lifecycle.

ULTRASOUND.

GE HealthCare is a global leader in ultrasound medical devices and solutions with a broad portfolio that spans the continuum of care, including screening, diagnosis, treatment, and monitoring of certain diseases. Our Ultrasound business' focus is on designing solutions that are aligned by specialties or care areas for specific clinical workflows to better serve the unique needs of our customers and improve patient outcomes, while lowering the overall cost of care. We continue to deliver innovative ultrasound probes, consoles, and digital and AI solutions that increase diagnostic accuracy and simplify clinical and operational workflows.

Our Ultrasound equipment portfolio, digital and AI solutions, and associated service capabilities serve customers across five clinical areas: Radiology and Primary Care, Women's Health, Cardiovascular, Point of Care and Handheld, and Surgical Visualization and Guidance:

- Radiology and Primary Care Ultrasound is comprised of systems that produce images to support precise diagnoses and treatment across the whole body, including liver, thyroid, renal, breast, vascular, and transcranial applications. Our systems combine high image quality with comprehensive clinical tools, including measurement quantification, workflow automation, cross-modality networking, portability, and cloud-based technologies.
- Women's Health Ultrasound is comprised of obstetrics, gynecology, assisted reproductive medicine, and supplemental breast cancer screening. These care areas require specially-designed ultrasound products that account for patient comfort and workflow constraints to enable practitioners to provide higher-quality screening, exams, and procedural care.
- Cardiovascular Ultrasound is used in the diagnosis, treatment, and monitoring of patients with suspected or known heart disease. Diagnostic exams assess the structure and function of the heart. Our Ultrasound solutions are also used for guidance during interventional, electrophysiology, and surgical procedures.
- Point of Care and Handheld Ultrasound technologies are portable devices that produce high-quality images, whether in a hospital, ambulance, or remote geographic location. Clinicians use our Point of Care and Handheld Ultrasound devices to diagnose, monitor, and treat patients' conditions throughout various care pathways to help improve outcomes while also reducing procedure time and required resources. Our portfolio contains consoles, laptops, and handheld devices.

- Our suite of Surgical Visualization and Guidance products helps surgeons visualize anatomy and lesions, guide interventions, and navigate inside the human body. Intraoperative imaging expands the use of ultrasound beyond diagnostics by providing real-time information throughout surgical procedures that can be used to confirm or amend surgical plans, monitor progress, and validate the execution of a procedure.

Each clinical area is supported with our digital and AI Ultrasound solutions that are designed to deliver optimal, simplified, and scalable clinical and operational workflows. They are designed to increase efficiencies that support higher scan volume and billing opportunities by: providing AI-guided ultrasound to help experienced to novice clinicians acquire quality diagnostic images; eliminating keystrokes to shorten exam time; and providing clinical decision support tools. Clinicians are further supported by our broad probe portfolio which includes specialized probes for surgical intervention and transesophageal procedures. Our equipment, digital, and AI solutions are complemented by service offerings that are highly regionalized according to local requirements, varying customer needs, and cross-modality service strategies.

PATIENT CARE SOLUTIONS.

The Patient Care Solutions business is a leading global provider of medical devices, consumables, services, and digital solutions that acquire and transform complex clinical data into real-time visualization and clinical decision support to ease the way to more confident patient care and improve patient outcomes. Our devices, digital solutions, and service solutions form a broad and integrated portfolio that support patient care needs and care teams within and beyond most acute healthcare environments.

Our portfolio is comprised of Patient Monitoring, Anesthesia Delivery and Respiratory Care, Diagnostic Cardiology, Maternal Infant Care, and Consumables and Services connected by and differentiated with our digital solutions.

- Our flexible Patient Monitoring solutions enable clinicians to flex care based on a patient's acuity and across all the acute care continuum. Our portfolio ranges from spot-check to continuous patient monitoring, including comprehensive multi-parameter monitors; central stations; continuous, wearable, and mobile monitors; transport monitors; cardiac telemetry solutions; spot-check monitors; and visualization, alarm distribution, and care team collaboration solutions. Our Patient Monitoring business includes proprietary parameters and complementary consumables as well as original equipment manufacturer ("OEM") parameters that are integrated into our monitoring fleet, of which a significant portion represents recurring revenue streams.
- Anesthesia and Respiratory Care products offer life support solutions via ventilation technology. Products in our Anesthesia portfolio are used by anesthesiologists and nurse anesthetists to ventilate and deliver general anesthetic drugs to patients during surgeries. Our products are installed in many operating rooms, non-operating room anesthesia environments and ambulatory surgical centers across the world. Our respiratory devices are designed to ventilate critically ill patients, generally in ICUs.
- In Diagnostic Cardiology, we offer electrocardiogram ("ECG" or "EKG") solutions, that are usually the first diagnostic tool to detect cardiovascular disease, a leading cause of death across the world. We provide resting ECG devices, stress ECG devices, and ECG management digital solutions, including interpretation algorithms. Our ECG ecosystem obtains, interprets, and stores ECGs captured from devices in both hospital and home settings, supporting patients and clinicians along the continuum of care for cardiology.
- Our Maternal Infant Care products are used in the labor and delivery department to monitor important maternal and fetal parameters, and in neonatal intensive care to assist in critical care for newborns. Our product portfolio includes neonatal incubators, infant warmers, resuscitation devices, phototherapy equipment, maternal and fetal monitors, and digital offerings, such as maternal and fetal heart rate surveillance software. Our products have added innovation in design, including integrated scales, hands-free alarm silencing, angled radiant heating, and thermoregulation.
- Our Consumables and Services portfolio consists of approximately 1,000 consumables that are used primarily with our monitoring solutions patient parameters, such as blood pressure, ECG, pulse, temperature, respiratory rate, blood oxygen level, and brain activity, and are used throughout the hospital. Our service offerings are flexible and can range from preventative maintenance to comprehensive, onsite biomedical service engineering contracts. Both our consumables and services provide our customers with ongoing clinical impact and protect their capital investment while providing us with recurring revenue streams.

The Patient Care Solutions portfolio also includes digital solutions that provide timely and accurate clinical decision support in acute and other care settings, simplifying clinical and operational workflows to drive efficiencies and improving delivery of precision medicine and patient outcomes. These solutions aggregate and integrate clinical data from various devices across care settings in real time and simplify visualization to guide clinical and operational decisions, enabling efficient care team collaboration, virtually. These solutions are interoperable and vendor-agnostic to integrate with customer environments in a multi-vendor setting and provide a recurring revenue stream.

Our broad product and digital solution portfolio is complemented by a comprehensive suite of service offerings, including parts, labor, and training, as well as emerging data, analytics, and networking solutions to aid our customers in improving uptime and efficiency of their medical technology fleets.

PHARMACEUTICAL DIAGNOSTICS.

GE HealthCare is a leading supplier of diagnostic agents to the global radiology and nuclear medicine industry. These diagnostic agents help clinicians assess patients to enable more precise diagnoses and better therapy selection. We distribute products globally, providing on-time delivery of quality products that help meet patient and procedural needs across a multitude of modalities. PDx's diagnostic agents are complementary to the imaging and ultrasound devices we offer, including CT, angiography and X-ray, MR, single-photon emission computed tomography ("SPECT") and PET, and are also compatible with systems from other equipment vendors.

PDx operates within a strictly regulated industry with unique operational needs. Diagnostic agents require a sophisticated supply chain for manufacturing, supported by a global infrastructure of commercial, marketing, medical affairs, market access, application, regulatory, and pharmacovigilance teams that help monitor products. Customers require timely and reliable supply of diagnostic agents as shortages or delays can be highly disruptive to workflows and even cause exam cancellations.

Our PDx business is comprised of two business lines: Contrast Media and Molecular Imaging.

- Contrast media are pharmaceuticals that are administered to a patient prior to certain diagnostic scans in order to increase the visibility of tissues or structures during imaging exams. Contrast media increase the diagnostic value of imaging and can be critical in the visualization of small or nuanced areas of diagnostic interest, such as cancer lesions or vascular structures, and to plan medical interventions, such as angioplasties, biopsies, or radiation therapy. We offer contrast media to three imaging modality groups: (1) CT, angiography, and X-ray, (2) MR, and (3) Ultrasound. Our Contrast Media business also includes contrast injection devices that are automated devices used to monitor and control the injection of contrast into patients, providing valuable productivity benefits in the imaging suite. We offer contrast injectors through collaborations with third-party original equipment manufacturers.
- Molecular imaging agents, or radiopharmaceuticals, are molecular tracers labeled with radioisotopes that are injected into a patient prior to a diagnostic imaging scan. These agents work by accumulating in an area of diagnostic interest, such as a tumor, and emitting energy that is detected by a SPECT or PET scanner. Because they have specific molecular targets, they allow visualization and assessment of cell function, providing a more detailed dimension of biological activity. Our radiopharmaceuticals support diagnosis and therapy selection in various care areas, such as neurology, cardiology, and oncology, and are also used by pharmaceutical companies and researchers in selecting target populations for clinical trials.

Our strong portfolio of diagnostic agents and advanced global supply chain, combined with our imaging, cyclotron, and advanced visualization software, positions our Company to grow in existing markets as well as emerging adjacencies.

ACQUISITIONS

Our business strategy includes the acquisition of technologies and businesses that expand or complement our existing business. Refer to Note 8, "Acquisitions, Goodwill, and Other Intangible Assets" for information about our acquisitions.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT ACTIVITIES

Our research and development ("R&D") efforts focus on creating new products and solutions, developing new applications for products, and enhancing our existing products to help improve outcomes for customers and their patients. We employ approximately 10,300 engineers and scientists worldwide, including hardware, systems, and software engineers and personnel focused on clinical research. We engage in and sponsor clinical research and product development through collaborations with universities, medical centers, and other organizations. We occasionally enter into agreements with third parties related to collaboration on R&D activities associated with the development of new or innovative products. See Note 18, "Supplemental Financial Information" for further information.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

We have a substantial portfolio of IP. We rely on a combination of patent, design, utility model, trademark, copyright, trade secret and regulatory exclusivity period protections, as well as confidentiality agreements to protect our IP. Our IP team collaborates with our R&D and product teams to develop product-line-focused IP strategies and secure IP rights as appropriate. We generally file patent applications in the United States and foreign countries that have strong technology patent protections. We also license from third parties a variety of IP that complements our internal R&D efforts and our product offerings. While, in aggregate, our patents and other IP are vital to our operations, we do not consider any single IP asset or group of assets to be of material importance to any segment or to the business as a whole; rather, we believe understanding our customers' needs, technology expertise, and manufacturing know-how are critical for our business.

We rely on confidentiality agreements with colleagues, contractors, consultants, and third parties to help protect our trade secrets, proprietary technology, and other confidential information. We also monitor development and commercialization activities of third parties so our IP rights are not infringed upon. In addition, we make infrastructure investments to secure our IP assets and conduct audits to assess the effectiveness of our IP protection program.

We believe that invention leads to value for our customers and stakeholders, and that a culture of innovation across GE HealthCare is a core element of our business.

As part of the Spin-Off from GE, we secured IP specific to our business, and GE granted us a license to use other IP required for our business of which GE retained ownership. We also entered into a long-term trademark license with GE that enables GE HealthCare to continue building upon our brand.

COMPETITORS

The global medical technology industry is highly competitive and comprised of global and regional participants of all sizes that can vary by product line. Because of the diversity of our products and offerings, we face a wide variety of competitors, including a broad range of manufacturers, third-party distributors, and service providers. In the industries we serve, we believe our primary global competitors include Siemens Healthineers, Philips Healthcare, Canon, Mindray, and United Imaging, among others. In our PDx business segment, we primarily compete with Bayer, Bracco, Guerbet, Lantheus, and Curium.

While key competitive factors and trends vary among our segments, these typically include value, quality and performance, safety, delivery speed, service and support, technology and innovation, software offering, and brand reputation. For a further discussion of risks related to competition, please refer to Item 1A. "Risk Factors."

HUMAN CAPITAL

We are a purpose-driven global workforce of approximately 51,000 colleagues with a significant average tenure reflecting a strong, engaged culture. Our colleagues are committed to serving our customers and enabling them to provide the highest quality patient care. Our values emphasize safety for patients, customers, and colleagues; servant leadership with unyielding integrity; and fostering an inclusive culture and diverse team with a mission to deliver precision care innovation. We monitor our human capital priorities throughout the year, including as a part of our monthly business operating reviews. Our senior leadership is a diverse and global team of industry veterans with the skills and expertise required to lead a large, publicly listed medical technology, pharmaceutical diagnostics, and digital solutions company. We embrace a diverse workplace where every voice makes a difference and every difference builds a healthier world.

Below are our human capital priorities:

- Protect the health and safety of our workforce: Safety is integrated into everything we do, from manufacturing to installation, operation, and service. We are committed to prioritizing safety over delivery and cost. We have established and maintain health and safety standard protocols across our businesses that are designed to align with regulatory requirements, industry practices, and company values. Our efforts extend to promoting the mental and emotional health and wellness of our workforce.

- Transform our culture: Our senior management team is leading our company through a transformational period having completed the Spin-Off in January 2023 and now executing on our next phase of growth. We have aligned the organization around Cultural Operating Principles, which represent a shared understanding of how we expect colleagues to work with each other and interact with stakeholders to enable our growth strategy, deliver on our purpose, and create value for our colleagues, customers, patients, shareholders, and communities. These Cultural Operating Principles are:
    - Serve our people, patients, and customers;
    - Lead with a lean mindset;
    - Empower entrepreneurial spirit;
    - Deliver the future of healthcare; and
    - Win together and have fun.

- Attract, develop, and cultivate our talent: GE HealthCare's approach to talent management is to cultivate strong individual and company performance. A key pillar of our talent strategy is senior management-led annual organization and talent reviews focused on critical roles, succession plans, and talent development. Learning and the professional development of our colleagues continue to be foundational priorities for the organization as a whole.

- Retain, motivate, and reward our talent: GE HealthCare's approach to total rewards is underpinned by a philosophy designed to provide programs that attract, retain, and motivate our people to fulfill our purpose to create a world where healthcare has no limits. Our philosophy is further supported by four principles that guide the total rewards we provide, which are:
    - Business-focused and differentiated by performance;
    - Ownership-oriented;
    - Competitive, motivating, and fair; and
    - Simple and transparent.

- Promote inclusion and diversity across the enterprise: We believe in the value of each person's unique identity, background, and experiences. We are committed to fostering an inclusive culture in which all colleagues feel empowered to do their best work because they feel accepted, respected, and a sense of belonging.

We have approximately 16,700 colleagues in the United States and approximately 7,300 colleagues in China, our next largest geography. We have approximately 1,000 union-represented manufacturing colleagues in the United States, approximately 700 of whom are covered by four-year collective bargaining agreements that were ratified in 2023 and expire in June 2027. GE HealthCare's relationship with employee-representative organizations outside the United States takes many forms, including in Europe where GE HealthCare engages the representative bodies for colleagues, such as works councils and trade unions, in accordance with local law. We strive to unlock the ambition of all our people so they can innovate, grow, and reach their full potential. Our well-established colleague development strategy allows us to attract and retain innovative leaders, which is instrumental to our long-term success.

ENVIRONMENTAL, SOCIAL, AND GOVERNANCE

GE HealthCare is committed to delivering products and solutions that build a healthier and more sustainable world for this and future generations. We have an ESG program and governance structure that is aligned with our business strategy, the priorities of our stakeholders, our goals and ambitions, and our need to adapt to changes in societal, environmental, and regulatory expectations.

The Board of Directors oversees management's establishment and execution of corporate strategy, along with our ESG program and activities. Our Enterprise Stewardship Program Committee, a committee of our management team, works in partnership with all segments, regions, and functions to support GE HealthCare's ongoing goals in connection with environmental stewardship, corporate social responsibility, human capital, governance, and sustainability. It proactively identifies, assesses, and responds to risks and opportunities that could impact the company's business and operations, and has begun implementing GE HealthCare's ESG strategy, including priorities, initiatives, goals, and disclosures, while maintaining transparent and open communication with stakeholders.

We have five focus areas that build upon our long-standing commitments to innovation, product quality, and integrity. They are:

- Expanding access to healthcare;
- Promoting inclusion and diversity across the enterprise;
- Mitigating our climate impact and improving resiliency;
- Advancing the circular economy and environmental design; and
- Protecting patient data and cybersecurity

More information on our ESG program can be found in our annual Sustainability Report available on our website (which is not incorporated by reference herein).

SALES AND DISTRIBUTION MODEL

GE HealthCare deploys a global multi-channel commercial model consisting of approximately 9,900 sales professionals and a network of approximately 5,000 indirect third-party partners. Our reach into top hospitals and health systems is evidenced by our long-standing collaborations with leading institutions around the world. Our commercial model is organized according to the needs of our customers and includes global and regional marketing, regional inside sales teams, field-based sales teams, and sales agents and distributors. Our equipment sales representatives partner closely with their service sales counterparts to position both equipment contracts and long-term maintenance agreements along with system upgrades and software as a service ("SaaS") agreements. We complement our direct and indirect sales channels with end-to-end virtual sales teams. Our direct and indirect channel mix helps us expand our market coverage, increase customer satisfaction, and win more business in broad geographies and emerging markets. In developed markets, we supplement our commercial model with strategic account executive and collaboration teams that bring the depth and breadth of our overall portfolio to the senior leadership of our top customers to deliver long-term commercial collaborations, which can be tied to specific outcomes.

GLOBAL INTEGRATED SUPPLY CHAIN, SOURCING, AND LOGISTICS

Our sourcing, production, and distribution network is managed globally while our products are manufactured at and distributed by facilities serving specific regions. We believe our global scale, complemented by local focus, allows us to provide our customers with improved supply chain security, reduced costs, and compliance with regional or national trade and marketing requirements. We have manufacturing, assembly, and pharmaceutical production in 43 facilities across 17 countries. We use globally managed and coordinated quality assurance programs across our manufacturing and distribution facilities, and we regularly inspect and audit our sites. We hold our suppliers to the same rigorous operating standards.

REGULATION

The development, manufacturing, marketing, sale, promotion, and distribution of medical devices and pharmaceutical products are subject to stringent government regulation globally. We commit extensive resources to maintain compliance with these regulations.

The U.S., European Union ("EU"), and China are our most significant regions based on revenue and the regulatory landscape within these regions. Sales of medical devices and pharmaceuticals outside of these regions are subject to requirements that vary from country to country. Our ability to market and sell our products globally depends upon our compliance with the laws and regulations in each jurisdiction. This requires, among other things, receiving specific marketing authorization from the appropriate regulatory authorities, and maintaining our Quality Management System, which is compliant with the applicable local regulatory requirements, and ISO 13485 certification that is recognized by many regulators. Complying with requirements imposed on our products and business is an ongoing process as we introduce additional products and/or product modifications and seek to comply with changing legal and regulatory requirements. The time required to obtain authorization to market and sell products varies by country. The ability to comply with global post-market requirements requires extensive and ongoing resources.

The International Medical Device Regulators Forum, which includes a number of country regulators, has implemented a global approach to auditing medical device manufacturers. The Medical Device Single Audit Program ("MDSAP") provides for a single annual audit of a medical device manufacturer by a MDSAP-recognized auditing organization to satisfy the requirements of ISO 13485 and the regulatory requirements of the authorities that participate in MDSAP (currently the U.S., Canada, Australia, Brazil, and Japan). While the U.S. Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") accepts MDSAP audit reports as a substitute for routine agency inspections, it considers the following types of inspections to fall outside the scope of MDSAP: for-cause or compliance follow-up inspections; pre-approval or post-approval inspections; and inspections to assess compliance with Electronic Product and Radiation Control regulations, which apply to Molecular Imaging, X-ray, Women's Health, Interventional, and Surgery products.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

Food and Drug Law
Under the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act ("FDCA"), we must comply with regulations governing the design, development, testing, manufacturing, packaging, labeling, distribution, import/export, sale, servicing, and marketing of medical products, including medical devices and pharmaceuticals. U.S. FDA product approvals and clearances may be withdrawn or suspended if compliance with regulations is not maintained or if product issues are discovered. Some of our products are also subject to the Radiation Control for Health and Safety Act and the Electronic Product and Radiation Control Regulations, administered by the FDA, which imposes performance standards, record keeping, reporting, product testing, and product labeling requirements on radiation-emitting electronic products, such as X-ray devices. We must also comply with the Mammography Quality Standards Act for our mammography products. Further, clinical studies of medical devices and pharmaceuticals are subject to regulation and inspection. In addition, we are subject to applicable laws and regulations of state and local authorities.

Devices
The FDCA classifies medical devices into three classes based on risk, including Class I (lowest risk), Class II (moderate risk), and Class III (highest risk), with more stringent regulatory requirements applicable to higher-risk devices. Commercial sales of our Class II (except for Class II exempt devices) and Class III medical devices in the U.S. must be preceded by either a pre-market notification filing pursuant to Section 510(k) of the FDCA for Class II or the granting of a premarket approval for Class III. The development of a medical device typically requires extensive non-clinical testing and, for some of our devices, clinical testing involving human subjects.

For all our medical devices, we must comply with the FDA's requirements governing, among other things, device site registration and listing, labeling, post-market record keeping and reporting, and the Quality System Regulation. These requirements are detailed, comprehensive, and require extensive investment and resources to comply with legal and regulatory requirements.

Pharmaceutical Products
Our pharmaceutical products are subject to the FDA's pre-market approval process. The pharmaceutical product development and approval process typically begins with extensive pre-clinical R&D, followed by approval of an Investigational New Drug ("IND"), and then, upon successful completion of several phases of clinical trials, the filing and request for FDA approval of a New Drug Application. We also are subject to the FDA's requirements, including drug establishment registration and listing, labeling and advertising, and current Good Manufacturing Practice ("cGMP") regulations, which set forth minimum requirements for the methods, facilities, and controls used in manufacturing, processing, and packing pharmaceutical products. Post-approval, we must maintain and submit to the FDA reports of product quality defects and adverse events. The FDA's generic drug program requires filing of an Abbreviated New Drug Application for a generic drug application that does not include preclinical or clinical data to establish safety and effectiveness, but must demonstrate equivalency to the innovator drug.

EUROPEAN UNION.

Devices
There is no pre-market approval of medical devices in the EU. All new medical devices placed on the market or put into service in the EU must be compliant with and meet the requirements of the Medical Device Regulation, which was implemented on May 26, 2021. Devices that conform to these requirements can be affixed with a CE marking and commercialized throughout the European Economic Area ("EEA") and in Switzerland. Prior to affixing a CE marking, manufacturers must demonstrate that their products comply with minimum standards of performance, safety, and quality, through a conformity assessment procedure that depends on the product's classification. The classification of a medical device is determined by its intended purpose. Devices are classified from lowest to highest, as either Class I, IIa, IIb, or III. Classification is dependent on a variety of factors, including duration of use, whether the device is invasive or non-invasive, and whether the device is considered "active." The competent authorities of the EU countries are responsible for regulating clinical investigations of medical devices and post-market surveillance of devices once they are placed on the market.

Pharmaceutical Products
Our pharmaceutical products are regulated by the European Medicines Agency ("EMA"), or the national competent authorities of the EU/EEA countries where our products are marketed. The EMA, acting through the Committee for Medicinal Products for Human Use ("CHMP"), is responsible for the scientific evaluation of pharmaceutical products developed by pharmaceutical companies for use in the EU and submitted for assessment through the EU centralized procedure. If the CHMP concludes that all requirements for quality, safety, and efficacy are met, it issues a positive opinion that the EMA forwards to the European Commission, which takes the final decision on the granting of a marketing authorization.

CHINA.

We must comply with medical device and pharmaceutical product laws and regulations and standards governing the design, development, testing, manufacturing, packaging, labeling, distribution, import/export, sale, servicing, and advertising and promotion of our products in China. The chief pharmaceutical product and medical device regulator is the National Medical Products Administration ("NMPA"), which enforces these laws and has the power to issue fines, seize products, withdraw or suspend an approval or a registration for serious non-compliances, and refer cases for criminal prosecution. These national laws and regulations are also supplemented by provincial and other local-level rules and enforcement policies.

Devices
Medical devices are strictly regulated by the NMPA and various provincial, city, and county regulators and are classified into three risk-based classes from lowest to highest, Class I, II, and III. Approved products are subject to post-market requirements for reporting adverse events and recalls, as well as regular risk assessments of devices and potentially re-evaluation reports of the safety and effectiveness of the device based on more significant safety signals.

In addition to product licenses, manufacturing and distribution facilities that handle Class II and III devices require licenses or notifications and must comply with cGMP requirements and good supply practices. The NMPA regularly conducts inspections of manufacturing facilities in China (as part of a pre-market submission review, routine or for-cause inspections, or unannounced inspections) as well as periodic inspections of overseas manufacturers for compliance with China medical device cGMP requirements. The NMPA inspects distributors and user facilities and conducts annual national and provincial sampling inspections and testing to ensure compliance with labeling, licensing, mandatory standards, and other related requirements. In addition, the NMPA conducts regular and for-cause good clinical practice audits of clinical sites that provide data and clinical trial reports for product registration.

Pharmaceutical Products
Our pharmaceutical products are strictly regulated by the NMPA and various provincial, city, and county regulators. Significant changes were recently made to the China Drug Administration Law with more to follow regarding new regulatory requirements and technical guidelines. All our pharmaceutical products require pre-market approval from the NMPA before they can be marketed in China, and those marketing applications must be supported by clinical data, which typically comes from a multi-phase study in China or by relying on clinical data generated abroad that meets the NMPA's requirements.

DATA PRIVACY LAWS.

Due to our extensive global footprint and handling of personal data as both a data controller (on our own behalf) and data processor (on behalf of third parties, primarily customers), we are also subject to an extensive collection of global laws and regulations protecting the privacy, security and integrity of the personal data, sensitive personal data, and patient health information that we create, receive, use, and maintain as a business.

Among the most relevant and material to our business, based on the volume and sensitivity of the data at issue, are: the U.S. Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996, as amended by the Health Information and Technology for Economic and Clinical Health Act (collectively "HIPAA"); the EU General Data Protection Regulation (Regulation (EU) 2016/679) ("GDPR"), similar U.K. legislation resulting from the European Union (Withdrawal) Act of 2018 ("U.K. GDPR"), and other EU country-level laws; the Lei Geral de Proteção de Dados Pessoias ("Brazil LGPD"); and the various laws and accompanying regulations in China governing data privacy and cybersecurity (e.g., the Cybersecurity Law of the People's Republic of China, Personal Information Protection Law ("China PIPL")). In addition, there are also various U.S. state-level laws (e.g., the California Consumer Privacy Act), country regional laws, and proposed legislation that we monitor for applicability and impact to our business. These laws present a continuing challenge to businesses to structure their data collection, storage, use, and cross-border transmission in a compliant manner.

Many of these laws impose a significant compliance burden on organizations within their scope, and failure to comply can result in a variety of sanctions, including administrative fines for the most serious compliance failures up to 4-5% of a company's total annual revenue of the preceding fiscal year (e.g., GDPR, U.K. GDPR, China PIPL). While there have been some recent enforcement actions by EU country-level data protection authorities resulting in substantial fines pursuant to GDPR, there remains uncertainty as to how data protection authorities throughout the rest of the globe will choose to interpret and enforce violations of applicable privacy and cybersecurity laws and regulations (e.g., Brazil LGPD, China PIPL). Furthermore, these laws and regulations are continuously evolving, and further clarification in the form of implementing rules, guidelines, and related guidance from the data protection authorities is necessary to paint a full picture of the compliance obligations imposed on businesses within their scope.

REGULATION ON ADVERTISING, MARKETING, AND PROMOTION.

The advertising, marketing, and promotion of our products must be truthful and non-misleading, consistent with our regulatory clearances and approvals, and supported by adequate and reasonable scientific data. We may not promote or advertise our products for uses not within the scope of our intended use statement in our regulatory clearances or approvals or make unsupported safety and effectiveness claims. With limited exceptions, we may not market, promote, or sell regulated products prior to health authority clearance or approval. For our pharmaceutical products, health authorities regulate labeling and advertising. For our device products, health authorities regulate the labeling and, for certain devices, advertising in coordination with other enforcement agencies. A failure to comply with these regulations could expose the Company to legal liability, such as enforcement actions, investigations by a governmental authority, civil fines or criminal actions, lawsuits brought by competitors or company whistleblowers, or other actions. We must also comply with advertising, marketing, and promotion rules in all countries in which we market our products.

GLOBAL HEALTHCARE COMPLIANCE.

The marketing, promotion, and sale of medical devices, drugs, and services are regulated by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services and comparable U.S. state and non-U.S. agencies responsible for reimbursement and regulation of the delivery of healthcare items and services, representing government's interest in regulating the quality and cost of healthcare. Similar regulations are imposed in many global markets in which we do business. Industry trade associations (such as Advanced Medical Technology Association ("AdvaMed") and MedTech) increasingly provide guidance on, and compliance with, applicable laws and regulations.

U.S. federal healthcare laws apply when we or our customers submit claims for items or services that are reimbursed under Medicare, Medicaid, or other federally funded healthcare programs, including laws related to kickbacks, false claims, self-referrals, and healthcare fraud and abuse. Similar state false claims, anti-kickback, anti-self-referral, and insurance laws also apply to state-funded Medicaid and other healthcare programs and private third-party payers. Any failure to comply with these laws and regulations could subject us or our officers and colleagues to criminal and civil financial penalties and expose us to civil liability and risk of further enforcement action under the U.S. Anti-Kickback Statute ("AKS"), the False Claims Act ("FCA"), or other healthcare fraud and abuse laws. In addition, as a manufacturer of U.S. FDA-cleared and -approved devices and drugs reimbursable by federal healthcare programs, we are subject to the U.S. federal Physician Payments Sunshine Act (the "Sunshine Act"), which requires us to annually track and report to the federal government certain payments and other transfers of value we make to U.S.-licensed physicians and other healthcare professionals or U.S. teaching hospitals.

The U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, the U.K. Bribery Act of 2010, and similar anti-corruption and anti-bribery laws in other jurisdictions generally prohibit companies from making corrupt payments to or otherwise engaging in bribery of government officials. These laws apply to many of our customer interactions, as healthcare professionals in other countries are often considered government officials, and in some cases lay out requirements of how to operationalize compliance with the legal requirements. Failure to comply with these laws may expose us to criminal and civil enforcement actions, monetary fines and penalties, and reputational harm.

PART I

ITEM 1. BUSINESS

Overview

AbbVie or "the company" refer to AbbVie Inc., or AbbVie Inc. and its consolidated subsidiaries, as the context requires. AbbVie is a global, diversified research-based biopharmaceutical company positioned for success with a comprehensive product portfolio that has leadership positions across immunology, oncology, aesthetics, neuroscience and eye care. AbbVie uses its expertise, dedicated people and unique approach to innovation to develop and market advanced therapies that address some of the world's most complex and serious diseases. AbbVie was incorporated in Delaware on April 10, 2012. On January 1, 2013, AbbVie became an independent, publicly-traded company as a result of the distribution by Abbott Laboratories (Abbott) of 100% of the outstanding common stock of AbbVie to Abbott's shareholders.

Segments

AbbVie operates as a single global business segment dedicated to the research and development, manufacturing, commercialization and sale of innovative medicines and therapies. This operating structure enables the Chief Executive Officer, as chief operating decision maker (CODM), to allocate resources and assess business performance on a global basis in order to achieve established long-term strategic goals. Consistent with this structure, a global research and development and supply chain organization is responsible for the discovery, development, manufacturing and supply of products. Commercial efforts that coordinate the marketing, sales and distribution of these products are organized by geographic region or therapeutic area. All of these activities are supported by a global corporate administrative staff. The determination of a single business segment is consistent with the consolidated financial information regularly reviewed by the CODM for purposes of assessing performance, allocating resources and planning and forecasting future periods. See Note 16, "Segment and Geographic Area Information" to the Consolidated Financial Statements included under Item 8, "Financial Statements and Supplementary Data" and the sales information related to AbbVie's key products and geographies included under Item 7, "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations."

Imbruvica currently is approved for the treatment of adult patients with blood cancers such as chronic lymphocytic leukemia (CLL), as well as certain forms of non-Hodgkin lymphoma. In addition, Venclexta is approved in combination with azacitidine, or decitabine, or low-dose cytarabine to treat adults with newly-diagnosed acute myeloid leukemia who are 75 years of age or older or have other medical conditions that prevent the use of standard chemotherapy.

Epkinly. Epkinly (epcoritimab) is a product used to treat adults with certain types of diffuse large B-cell lymphoma (DLBCL) and high-grade B-cell lymphoma that has recurred or that does not respond to previous treatment after receiving two or more treatments. Epkinly is administered as a subcutaneous injection.

On November 14, 2022, the FDA granted accelerated approval for the treatment of adult patients with FRα positive, platinum-resistant epithelial ovarian, fallopian tube, or primary peritoneal cancer, who have received one to three prior systemic treatment regimens. Continued approval may be contingent upon verification and description of clinical benefit in a confirmatory trial.

Other eye care. Other eye care products include Refresh/Optive, Xen and Durysta.

Other key products. AbbVie's other key products include, among other things, treatments for patients with hepatitis C virus (HCV), metabolic and hormone products that target a number of conditions, including exocrine pancreatic insufficiency and hypothyroidism, as well as endocrinology products for the palliative treatment of advanced prostate cancer, treatment of endometriosis and central precocious puberty and for the preoperative treatment of patients with anemia caused by uterine fibroids. These products are:

Mavyret/Maviret. Mavyret (glecaprevir/pibrentasvir) is approved in the United States and European Union (Maviret) for the treatment of adult and pediatric patients (12 years and older or weighing at least 45 kilograms) with chronic HCV genotype 1-6 infection without cirrhosis and with compensated cirrhosis (Child-Pugh A). It is also indicated for the treatment of adult and pediatric patients (12 years and older or weighing at least 45 kilograms) with HCV genotype 1 infection, who previously have been treated with a regimen containing an HCV NS5A inhibitor or an NS3/4A protease inhibitor, but not both.

Creon. Creon (pancrelipase) is a pancreatic enzyme therapy for exocrine pancreatic insufficiency, a condition that occurs in patients with cystic fibrosis, chronic pancreatitis and several other conditions.

Lupron. Lupron (leuprolide acetate), which is also marketed as Lucrin and Lupron Depot, is a product for the palliative treatment of advanced prostate cancer, treatment of endometriosis and central precocious puberty and for the preoperative treatment of patients with anemia caused by uterine fibroids. Lupron is approved for daily subcutaneous injection and one-month, three-month, four-month and six-month intramuscular injection.

Linzess/Constella. Linzess (linaclotide) is a once-daily guanylate cyclase-C agonist used in adults to treat irritable bowel syndrome with constipation (IBS-C) and chronic idiopathic constipation. The product is marketed as Linzess in the United States and as Constella outside of the United States.

Synthroid. Synthroid (levothyroxine sodium tablets, USP) is used in the treatment of hypothyroidism.

AbbVie has the rights to sell Creon and Synthroid only in the United States.

Marketing, Sales and Distribution Capabilities

AbbVie utilizes a combination of dedicated commercial resources, regional commercial resources and distributorships to market, sell and distribute its products worldwide. AbbVie directs its primary marketing efforts toward securing the prescription, or recommendation, of its brand of products by physicians, external experts and other health care providers. Managed care providers (for example, health maintenance organizations and pharmacy benefit managers), hospitals and state and federal government agencies (for example, State Medicaid programs, the United States Department of Veterans Affairs and the United States Department of Defense) are also important customers. AbbVie also markets directly to consumers themselves, although in the United States many of the company's products must be sold pursuant to a prescription. Outside of the United States, AbbVie focuses its promotional and market access efforts on external experts, payers, physicians and health systems. AbbVie also provides patient support programs closely related to its products.

AbbVie's products are generally sold worldwide directly to wholesalers, distributors, government agencies, health care facilities, specialty pharmacies and independent retailers from AbbVie-owned distribution centers and public warehouses. Certain products (including aesthetic products and devices) are also sold directly to physicians and other licensed healthcare providers. Although AbbVie's business does not have significant seasonality, AbbVie's product revenues may be affected by end customer and retail buying patterns, fluctuations in wholesaler inventory levels and other factors.

In the United States, AbbVie distributes pharmaceutical products principally through independent wholesale distributors, with some sales directly to retailers, pharmacies, patients or other customers. In 2023, three wholesale distributors (McKesson Corporation, Cardinal Health, Inc. and AmerisourceBergen Corporation) accounted for substantially all of AbbVie's pharmaceutical product sales in the United States. No individual wholesaler accounted for greater than 39% of AbbVie's 2023 gross revenues in the United States. Outside the United States, AbbVie sells products primarily to wholesalers or through distributors, and depending on the market works through largely centralized national payers systems to agree on reimbursement terms.

Certain products are co-marketed or co-promoted with other companies. AbbVie has no single customer that, if the customer were lost, would have a material adverse effect on the company's business. No material portion of AbbVie's business is subject to renegotiation of profits or termination of contracts at the election of the government. Orders are generally filled on a current basis and order backlog is not material to AbbVie's business.

Competition

The markets for AbbVie's products are highly competitive. AbbVie competes with other research-based pharmaceuticals and biotechnology companies that discover, manufacture, market and sell proprietary pharmaceutical products, therapies and biologics. For example, AbbVie's immunology products compete with anti-TNF products, JAK inhibitors and other competitive products intended to treat a number of disease states, and AbbVie's oncology products compete with BTK inhibitors and other competitive products intended to treat certain cancers. In addition, in the past few years, a number of other companies have started to develop, have successfully developed and/or are currently marketing products that are being positioned as competitors to Botox. The search for technological innovations in pharmaceutical products is a significant aspect of competition. The introduction of new products by competitors and changes in medical practices and procedures can result in product obsolescence. Price is also a competitive factor. In addition, the substitution of generic and biosimilar pharmaceutical products for branded pharmaceutical products creates competitive pressures on AbbVie's products that do not have patent protection. New products or treatments brought to market by AbbVie's competitors could cause revenues for AbbVie's products to decrease due to price reductions and sales volume decreases.

Biosimilars. Competition for AbbVie's biologic products is affected by the approval of follow-on biologics, also known as "biosimilars." Biologics have added major therapeutic options for the treatment of many diseases, including some for which therapies were unavailable or inadequate. The cost of developing and producing biologic therapies is typically dramatically higher than for small molecule medications, and many biologic medications are used for ongoing treatment of chronic diseases, such as rheumatoid arthritis or inflammatory bowel disease, or for the treatment of previously untreatable cancer. Significant investments in biologics infrastructure and manufacturing are necessary to produce biologic products.

Humira is facing direct biosimilar competition globally, and AbbVie will continue to face competitive pressure from these biologics and from orally administered products.

In the United States, the FDA regulates biologics under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (the FFDCA), the Public Health Service Act (PHSA) and the regulations implementing these statutes. The enactment of federal health care reform legislation in March 2010 provided a pathway for approval of biosimilars under the PHSA, but the approval process for, and science behind, biosimilars is complex. Approval by the FDA is dependent upon many factors, including a showing that the biosimilar is "highly similar" to the original product and has no clinically meaningful differences from the original product in terms of safety, purity and potency. The types of data that could ordinarily be required in an application to show similarity may include analytical data, bioequivalence studies and studies to demonstrate chemical similarity, animal studies (including toxicity studies) and clinical studies.

Furthermore, the law provides that only a biosimilar product that is determined to be "interchangeable" will be considered by the FDA as substitutable for the original biologic product without the intervention of the health care provider who prescribed the original biologic product. To prove that a biosimilar product is interchangeable, the applicant must demonstrate that the product can be expected to produce the same clinical results as the original biologic product in any given patient, and if the product is administered more than once in a patient, that safety risks and potential for diminished efficacy of alternating or switching between the use of the interchangeable biosimilar biologic product and the original biologic product is no greater than the risk of using the original biologic product without switching. The law continues to be interpreted and implemented by the FDA. As a result, its full ultimate impact, implementation and meaning remains subject to uncertainty.

Intellectual Property Protection and Regulatory Exclusivity

Generally, upon approval, products may be entitled to certain kinds of exclusivity under applicable intellectual property and regulatory regimes. AbbVie's intellectual property is materially valuable to the company, and AbbVie seeks patent protection, where available, in all significant markets and/or countries for each product in development. In the United States, the expiration date for patents is 20 years after the filing date. Given that patents relating to pharmaceutical products are often obtained early in the development process and given the amount of time needed to complete clinical trials and other development activities required for regulatory approval, the length of time between product launch and patent expiration is significantly less than 20 years. The Drug Price Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act of 1984 (commonly known as the Hatch-Waxman Act) permits a patent holder to seek a patent extension, commonly called a "patent term restoration," for patents on products (or processes for making the product) regulated by the FFDCA. The length of the patent extension is roughly based on 50 percent of the period of time from the filing of an Investigational New Drug Application (NDA) for a compound to the submission of the NDA for such compound, plus 100 percent of the time period from NDA submission to regulatory approval. The extension, however, cannot exceed five years and the patent term remaining after regulatory approval cannot exceed 14 years. Biological products licensed under the PHSA are similarly eligible for terms of patent restoration.

Pharmaceutical products may be entitled to other forms of legal or regulatory exclusivity upon approval. The scope, length and requirements for each of these exclusivities vary both in the United States and in other jurisdictions. In the United States, if the FDA approves a conventional drug product that contains an active ingredient not previously approved, the product is typically entitled to five years of non-patent regulatory exclusivity. Specific conditions of use approved for individual products may also be entitled to three years of exclusivity if approval was based on the FDA's reliance on new clinical studies essential to approval submitted by the NDA applicant. If the NDA applicant studies the product for use by children, the FDA may grant pediatric exclusivity, which extends by 180 days all existing exclusivities (patent and regulatory) related to the product. For products that are either used to treat conditions that afflict a relatively small population or for which there is not a reasonable expectation that the research and development costs will be recovered, the FDA may designate the pharmaceutical as an orphan drug and grant it seven years of exclusivity. Other types of regulatory exclusivity may also be available, such as Generating New Antibiotic Incentives Now (GAIN) exclusivity, which can provide new antibiotic or new antifungal drugs an additional five years of exclusivity to be added to certain exclusivities already provided for by law.

Applicable laws and regulations dictate the scope of any exclusivity to which a product or particular characteristics of a product is entitled upon approval in any particular country. In certain instances, regulatory exclusivity may offer protection where patent protection is no longer available or for a period of time in excess of patent protection. It is not possible to estimate for each product in development the total period and scope of exclusivity to which it may become entitled until regulatory approval is obtained or sometimes even later. However, given the length of time required to complete clinical development of a pharmaceutical product, the periods of exclusivity that might be achieved in any individual case would not generally be expected to exceed a minimum of three years and a maximum of 14 years. These estimates do not consider other factors, such as the difficulty of recreating the manufacturing process for a particular product or other proprietary knowledge that may delay the introduction of a generic or other follow-on product after the expiration of applicable patent and other regulatory exclusivity periods.

Biologics may be entitled to exclusivity under the Biologics Price Competition and Innovation Act, which was passed on March 23, 2010 as Title VII to the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act. The law provides a pathway for approval of biosimilars following the expiration of 12 years of regulatory exclusivity for the innovator biologic and a potential additional 180 day-extension term for conducting pediatric studies. Biologics are also eligible for orphan drug exclusivity, as discussed above. The law also includes an extensive process for the innovator biologic and biosimilar manufacturer to litigate patent infringement, validity and enforceability. The European Union has also created a pathway for approval of biosimilars and has published guidelines for approval of certain biosimilar products. The more complex nature of biologics and biosimilar products has led to close regulatory scrutiny over follow-on biosimilar products, which can reduce the effect of biosimilars on sales of the innovator biologic as compared to the sales erosion caused by generic versions of small molecule pharmaceutical products.

AbbVie owns or has licensed rights to a substantial number of patents and patent applications. AbbVie licenses or owns a patent portfolio of thousands of patent families, each of which includes United States patent applications and/or issued patents and may also contain the non-United States counterparts to these patents and applications.

These patents and applications, including various patents that expire during the period 2024 to the mid 2040s, in aggregate are believed to be of material importance in the operation of AbbVie's business. However, AbbVie believes that no single patent, license, trademark (or related group of patents, licenses, or trademarks), are material in relation to the company's business as a whole.

In addition, the following patents, licenses and trademarks are significant: those related to ibrutinib (which is sold under the trademark Imbruvica), those related to risankizumab (which is sold under the trademark Skyrizi) and those related to upadacitinib (which is sold under the trademark Rinvoq). The United States composition of matter patent covering ibrutinib is expected to expire in 2027, with pediatric regulatory exclusivity then extending until May 2028. However, no generic entry for any ibrutinib product is expected prior to March 30, 2032. The United States composition of matter patent covering risankizumab is expected to expire in 2033. And the United States composition of matter patent covering upadacitinib is expected to expire in 2033.

AbbVie may rely, in some circumstances, on trade secrets to protect its technology. AbbVie seeks to protect its technology and product candidates, in part, by confidentiality agreements with its employees, consultants, advisors, contractors and collaborators. These agreements may be breached and AbbVie may not have adequate remedies for any breach. In addition, AbbVie's trade secrets may otherwise become known or be independently discovered by competitors. To the extent that AbbVie's employees, consultants, advisors, contractors and collaborators use intellectual property owned by others in their work for the company, disputes may arise as to the rights in related or resulting know-how and inventions.

Licensing, Acquisitions and Other Arrangements

In addition to its independent efforts to develop and market products, AbbVie enters into arrangements such as acquisitions, option-to-acquire agreements, licensing arrangements, option-to-license arrangements, strategic alliances, co-promotion arrangements, co-development and co-marketing agreements and joint ventures. The acquisitions and option-to-acquire agreements typically include, among other terms and conditions, non-refundable purchase price payments or option fees, option exercise payments, milestones or earn-outs and other customary terms and obligations. The licensing and other arrangements typically include, among other terms and conditions, non-refundable upfront license fees, option fees and option exercise payments, milestone payments and royalty and/or profit sharing obligations. See Note 5, "Licensing, Acquisitions and Other Arrangements—Other Licensing & Acquisitions Activity," to the Consolidated Financial Statements included under Item 8, "Financial Statements and Supplementary Data."

Third Party Agreements

AbbVie has agreements with third parties for process development, product distribution, analytical services and manufacturing of certain products. AbbVie procures certain products and services from a limited number of suppliers and, in some cases, a single supply source. In addition, AbbVie has agreements with third parties for active pharmaceutical ingredient and product manufacturing, formulation and development services, fill, finish and packaging services, transportation and distribution and logistics services for certain products. AbbVie does not believe that these manufacturing-related agreements are material because AbbVie's business is not substantially dependent on any individual agreement. In most cases, AbbVie maintains alternate supply relationships that it can utilize without undue disruption of its manufacturing processes if a third party fails to perform its contractual obligations. AbbVie seeks to maintain sufficient inventory of product to minimize the impact of any supply disruption.

AbbVie is also party to certain collaborations and other arrangements, as discussed in Note 5, "Licensing, Acquisitions and Other Arrangements—Other Licensing & Acquisitions Activity," to the Consolidated Financial Statements included under Item 8, "Financial Statements and Supplementary Data."

Sources and Availability of Raw Materials

AbbVie purchases, in the ordinary course of business, raw materials and supplies essential to its operations from numerous suppliers around the world. In addition, certain medical devices and components necessary for the manufacture of AbbVie products are provided by unaffiliated third party suppliers. AbbVie has robust business continuity and supplier monitoring programs.

Research and Development Activities

AbbVie makes a significant investment in research and development and has numerous compounds (and complementary devices) in clinical development, including potential treatments for complex, life-threatening diseases. AbbVie's ability to discover and develop new compounds is enhanced by the company's use of integrated discovery and development project teams, which include chemists, biologists, physicians and pharmacologists who work on the same compounds as a team. AbbVie also partners with third parties, such as biotechnology companies, other pharmaceutical companies and academic institutions to identify and prioritize promising new treatments that complement and enhance AbbVie's existing portfolio. AbbVie also supplements its research and development efforts with acquisitions.

The research and development process generally begins with discovery research which focuses on the identification of a molecule that has a desired effect against a given disease. If preclinical testing of an identified compound proves successful, the compound moves into clinical development which generally includes the following phases:

- Phase 1— involves the first human tests in a small number of healthy volunteers or patients to assess safety, tolerability and doses for later phases.
- Phase 2— tests different doses of the drug in a disease state in order to assess efficacy.
- Phase 3— tests a drug that demonstrates favorable results in the earlier phases in a significantly larger patient population to further demonstrate efficacy and safety in order to meet requirements to enable global approval.

Preclinical data and clinical trials from all of the development phases provide the data required to prepare and submit an NDA, a Biological License Application (BLA) or other submission for regulatory approval to the FDA or similar government agencies outside the United States. The specific requirements (e.g., scope of clinical trials) for obtaining regulatory approval vary across different countries and geographic regions.

The research and development process from discovery through a new drug launch typically takes 8 to 12 years and can be even longer. The research and development of new pharmaceutical products has a significant amount of inherent uncertainty. There is no guarantee when, or if, a molecule will receive the regulatory approval required to launch a new drug or indication.

In addition to the development of new products, delivery devices and new formulations, research and development projects also may include Phase 4 trials, sometimes called post-marketing studies. For such projects, clinical trials are designed and conducted to collect additional data regarding, among other parameters, the benefits and risks of an approved drug.

Regulation—Discovery and Clinical Development

United States. Securing approval to market a new pharmaceutical product in the United States requires substantial effort and financial resources and takes several years to complete. The applicant must complete preclinical tests and submit protocols to the FDA before commencing clinical trials. Clinical trials are intended to establish the safety and efficacy of the pharmaceutical product and typically are conducted in sequential phases, although the phases may overlap or be combined. If the required clinical testing is successful, the results are submitted to the FDA in the form of an NDA or BLA requesting approval to market the product for one or more indications. The FDA reviews an NDA or BLA to determine whether a product is safe and effective for its intended use and whether its manufacturing is compliant with current Good Manufacturing Practices (cGMP).

Compliance with regulatory requirements is assured through periodic, announced or unannounced inspections by the FDA and other regulatory authorities, and these inspections associated with clinical development may include the sponsor, investigator sites, laboratories, hospitals and manufacturing facilities of AbbVie's subcontractors or other third-party manufacturers. Failure to comply with applicable regulatory requirements can result in enforcement action by the FDA, including rejection of an NDA or BLA.

Even if an NDA or a BLA receives approval, the applicant must comply with post-approval requirements. For example, holders of an approval must report adverse reactions, provide updated safety and efficacy information and comply with requirements concerning advertising and promotional materials and activities. Also, quality control and manufacturing procedures must continue to conform to cGMP after approval, and certain changes to the manufacturing procedures and finished product must be submitted and approved by the FDA prior to implementation. The FDA periodically inspects manufacturing facilities to assess compliance with cGMP, which imposes extensive procedural and record keeping requirements. In addition, as a condition of approval, the FDA may require post-marketing testing and surveillance to further assess and monitor the product's safety or efficacy after commercialization, which may require additional clinical trials, patient registries, observational data or additional work on chemistry, manufacturing and controls. Any post-approval regulatory obligations, and the cost of complying with such obligations, could expand in the future. Further, the FDA continues to regulate product labeling, and prohibits the promotion of products for unapproved or "off-label" uses along with other labeling restrictions.

Outside the United States. AbbVie is subject to similar regulatory requirements outside the United States for approval and marketing of pharmaceutical products. AbbVie must obtain approval of a clinical trial application or product from applicable supervising regulatory authorities before it can commence clinical trials or marketing of the product in target markets. The approval requirements and process for each country can vary, and the time required to obtain approval may be longer or shorter than that required for FDA approval in the United States. For example, AbbVie may submit marketing authorizations in the European Union under either a centralized or decentralized procedure. The centralized procedure is mandatory for the approval of biotechnology products and many pharmaceutical products and provides for a single marketing authorization that is valid for all European Union member states. Under the centralized procedure, a single marketing authorization application is submitted to the European Medicines Agency. After the agency evaluates the application, it makes a recommendation to the European Commission, which then makes the final determination on whether to approve the application. The decentralized procedure provides for mutual recognition of individual national approval decisions and is available for products that are not subject to the centralized procedure.

In Japan, applications for approval of a new product are made through the Pharmaceutical and Medical Devices Agency (PMDA). Japan-specific trials and/or bridging studies to demonstrate that the non-Japanese clinical data applies to Japanese patients are usually required. After completing a comprehensive review, the PMDA reports to the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare, which then approves or denies the application.

Similarly, applications for a new product in China are submitted to the Center for Drug Evaluation of the National Medical Products Administration for technical review and approval of a product for marketing in China. Clinical data in Chinese subjects are usually required to support approval in China, requiring the inclusion of China in global pivotal studies, or a separate China/Asian clinical trial.

The regulatory process in many emerging markets continues to evolve. Many emerging markets, including those in Asia, generally require regulatory approval to have been obtained in a large developed market (such as the United States or Europe) before the country will begin or complete its regulatory review process. Similar to the requirements in Japan and China, certain countries (notably South Korea, Taiwan, India and Russia) also generally require that clinical studies that include data from patients in those countries be conducted in order to support local regulatory approval.

The requirements governing the conduct of clinical trials and product licensing also vary. In addition, post-approval regulatory obligations such as adverse event reporting and cGMP compliance generally apply and may vary by country. For example, after a marketing authorization has been granted in the European Union, periodic safety reports must be submitted and other pharmacovigilance measures may be required (such as Risk Management Plans).

Regulation—Commercialization, Distribution and Manufacturing

The manufacturing, marketing, sale, promotion and distribution of AbbVie's products are subject to comprehensive government regulation. Government regulation by various national, regional, federal, state and local agencies, both in the United States and other countries, addresses (among other matters) inspection of, and controls over, research and laboratory procedures, clinical investigations, product approvals and manufacturing, labeling, packaging, marketing and promotion, pricing and reimbursement, sampling, distribution, quality control, post-marketing surveillance, record keeping, storage and disposal practices. AbbVie's operations are also affected by trade regulations in many countries that limit the import of raw materials and finished products and by laws and regulations that seek to prevent corruption and bribery in the marketplace (including the United States Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and the United Kingdom Bribery Act, which provide guidance on corporate interactions with government officials) and require safeguards for the protection of personal data. In addition, AbbVie is subject to laws and regulations pertaining to health care fraud and abuse, including state and federal anti-kickback and false claims laws in the United States. Prescription drug manufacturers such as AbbVie are also subject to taxes, as well as application, product, user and other fees.

Compliance with these laws and regulations is costly and materially affects AbbVie's business. Among other effects, health care regulations substantially increase the time, difficulty and costs incurred in obtaining and maintaining approval to market newly developed and existing products. AbbVie expects compliance with these regulations to continue to require significant technical expertise and capital investment to ensure compliance. Failure to comply can delay the release of a new product or result in regulatory and enforcement actions, the seizure or recall of a product, the suspension or revocation of the authority necessary for a product's production and sale and other civil or criminal sanctions, including fines and penalties.

In addition to regulatory initiatives, AbbVie's business can be affected by ongoing studies of the utilization, safety, efficacy and outcomes of health care products and their components that are regularly conducted by industry participants, government agencies and others. These studies can lead to updates to the data regarding utilization, safety and efficacy of previously marketed products. In some cases, these studies have resulted, and may in the future result, in the discontinuance of, or limitations on, marketing of such products domestically or worldwide, and may give rise to claims for damages from persons who believe they have been injured as a result of their use.

Access to human health care products continues to be a subject of oversight, investigation and action by governmental agencies, legislative bodies and private organizations in the United States and other countries. A major focus is cost containment. Efforts to reduce health care costs are also being made in the private sector, notably by health care payers and providers, which have instituted various cost reduction and containment measures. AbbVie expects insurers and providers to continue attempts to reduce the cost of health care products. Outside the United States, many countries control the price of health care products directly or indirectly, through reimbursement, payment, pricing, coverage limitations, or compulsory licensing. Political and budgetary pressures in the United States and in other countries may also heighten the scope and severity of pricing pressures on AbbVie's products for the foreseeable future.

United States. Specifically, U.S. federal laws require pharmaceutical manufacturers to pay certain statutorily-prescribed rebates to state Medicaid programs on prescription drugs reimbursed under state Medicaid plans, and the efforts by states to seek additional rebates may affect AbbVie's business. Similarly, the Veterans Health Care Act of 1992, as a prerequisite to participation in Medicaid and other federal health care programs, requires that manufacturers extend additional discounts on pharmaceutical products to various federal agencies, including the United States Department of Veterans Affairs, Department of Defense and Public Health Service entities and institutions. In addition, recent legislative changes would require similarly discounted prices to be offered to TRICARE program beneficiaries. The Veterans Health Care Act of 1992 also established the 340B drug discount program, which requires pharmaceutical manufacturers to provide products at reduced prices to various designated health care entities and facilities.

In the United States, most states also have generic substitution legislation requiring or permitting a dispensing pharmacist to substitute a different manufacturer's generic version of a pharmaceutical product for the one prescribed. In addition, the federal government follows a diagnosis-related group (DRG) payment system for certain institutional services provided under Medicare or Medicaid and has implemented a prospective payment system (PPS) for services delivered in hospital outpatient, nursing home and home health settings. DRG and PPS entitle a health care facility to a fixed reimbursement based on the diagnosis and/or procedure rather than actual costs incurred in patient treatment, thereby increasing the incentive for the facility to limit or control expenditures for many health care products. Medicare reimburses Part B drugs based on average sales price plus a certain percentage to account for physician administration costs, which have been reduced in the hospital outpatient setting. Medicare enters into contracts with private plans to negotiate prices for most patient-administered medicine delivered under Part D.

Under the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act and the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act (together, the Affordable Care Act), AbbVie pays a fee related to its pharmaceuticals sales to government programs. In addition, AbbVie provides a discount of 70% for branded prescription drugs sold to patients who fall into the Medicare Part D coverage gap, or "donut hole."

The Affordable Care Act also includes provisions known as the Physician Payments Sunshine Act, which require manufacturers of drugs and biologics covered under Medicare and Medicaid to record any transfers of value to physicians and teaching hospitals and to report this data to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services for subsequent public disclosure. Similar reporting requirements have also been enacted on the state level in the United States, and an increasing number of countries worldwide either have adopted or are considering similar laws requiring disclosure of interactions with health care professionals. Failure to report appropriate data may result in civil or criminal fines and/or penalties.

The Inflation Reduction Act of 2022 (the IRA) requires: (i) the government to set prices for select high expenditure Medicare Part D drugs (prices effective beginning in 2026) and Part B drugs (prices effective beginning in 2028) that are more than nine years (for small-molecule drugs) or 13 years (for biological products) from their FDA approval, (ii) manufacturers to pay a rebate for Medicare Part B and Part D drugs when prices for those drugs increase faster than inflation beginning in 2022 for Part D and 2023 for Part B, and (iii) a Medicare Part D redesign replacing the current coverage gap provisions and establishing a $2,000 cap for out-of-pocket costs for Medicare beneficiaries beginning in 2025, with manufacturers being responsible for 10% of costs up to the $2,000 cap and 20% after that cap is reached. In August 2023, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, through the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (the CMS), selected Imbruvica as one of the first 10 medicines subject to government-set prices beginning in 2026. The price-setting process will conclude by August 1, 2024, and on September 1, 2024, the CMS will publish prices that will be applicable to the 10 drugs in the Medicare program beginning January 1, 2026. It is possible that more of our products, including products that generate substantial revenues, could be selected in future years, which could, among other things, accelerate revenue erosion prior to expiration of intellectual property protections. The effect of reducing prices and reimbursement would significantly impact revenues for certain of our products.

European Union. The European Union has adopted directives and other legislation governing labeling, advertising, distribution, supply, pharmacovigilance and marketing of pharmaceutical products. Such legislation provides mandatory standards throughout the European Union and permits member states to supplement these standards with additional regulations. European governments also regulate pharmaceutical product prices through their control of national health care systems that fund a large part of the cost of such products to consumers. As a result, patients are unlikely to use a pharmaceutical product that is not reimbursed by the government. In many European countries, the government either regulates the pricing of a new product at launch or subsequent launch through direct price controls or reference pricing. In recent years, many countries have also imposed new or additional cost containment measures on pharmaceutical products. Differences between national pricing regimes create price differentials within the European Union that can lead to significant parallel trade in pharmaceutical products.

Most governments also promote generic substitution by mandating or permitting a pharmacist to substitute a different manufacturer's generic version of a pharmaceutical product for the one prescribed and by permitting or mandating that health care professionals prescribe generic versions in certain circumstances. Many governments are also following a similar path for biosimilar therapies. In addition, governments use reimbursement lists to limit the pharmaceutical products that are eligible for reimbursement by national health care systems.

Japan. In Japan, the National Health Insurance system maintains a Drug Price List specifying which pharmaceutical products are eligible for reimbursement, and the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare sets the prices of the products on this list. The government generally introduces price cut rounds every other year and also mandates price decreases for specific products. New products judged innovative or useful, that are indicated for pediatric use, or that target orphan or small population diseases, however, may be eligible for a pricing premium. The government has also promoted the use of generics, where available.

Emerging Markets. Many emerging markets take steps to reduce pharmaceutical product prices, in some cases through direct price controls and in others through the promotion of generic/biosimilar alternatives to branded pharmaceuticals.

Since AbbVie markets its products worldwide, certain products of a local nature and variations of product lines must also meet other local regulatory requirements. Certain additional risks are inherent in conducting business outside the United States, including price and currency exchange controls, changes in currency exchange rates, limitations on participation in local enterprises, expropriation, nationalization and other governmental action.

Regulation – Medical Devices

Medical devices are subject to regulation by the FDA, state agencies and foreign government health authorities. FDA regulations, as well as various U.S. federal and state laws, govern the development, clinical testing, manufacturing, labeling, record keeping and marketing of medical device products agencies in the United States. AbbVie's medical device product candidates, including AbbVie's breast implants, must undergo rigorous clinical testing and an extensive government regulatory clearance or approval process prior to sale in the United States and other countries. The lengthy process of clinical development and submissions for clearance or approval, and the continuing need for compliance with applicable laws and regulations, require the expenditure of substantial resources. Regulatory clearance or approval, when and if obtained, may be limited in scope, and may significantly limit the indicated uses for which a product may be marketed. Cleared or approved products and their manufacturers are subject to ongoing review, and discovery of previously unknown problems with products may result in restrictions on their manufacture, sale and/or use or require their withdrawal from the market.

United States. AbbVie's medical device products are subject to extensive regulation by the FDA in the United States. Unless an exemption applies, each medical device AbbVie markets in the United States must have a 510(k) clearance or a Premarket Approval Application (PMA) in accordance with the FFDCA and its implementing regulations. The FDA classifies medical devices into one of three classes, depending on the degree of risk associated with each medical device and the extent of controls that are needed to ensure safety and effectiveness. Devices deemed to pose a lower risk are placed in either Class I or Class II, and devices deemed by the FDA to pose the greatest risk, such as life-sustaining, life-supporting or implantable devices, or a device deemed to be not substantially equivalent to a previously cleared 510(k) device, are placed in Class III. In general, a Class III device cannot be marketed in the United States unless the FDA approves the device after submission of a PMA, and any changes to the device subsequent to initial FDA approval must also be reviewed and approved by the FDA. The majority of AbbVie's medical device products, including AbbVie's breast implants, are regulated as Class III medical devices. A Class III device may have significant additional obligations imposed in its conditions of approval, and the time in which it takes to obtain approval can be long. Compliance with regulatory requirements is assured through periodic, unannounced facility inspections by the FDA and other regulatory authorities, and these inspections may include the manufacturing facilities of AbbVie's subcontractors or other third-party manufacturers. Failure to comply with applicable regulatory requirements can result in enforcement action by the FDA, which may include any of the following sanctions: warning letters or untitled letters; fines, injunctions and civil penalties; recall or seizure of AbbVie' products; operating restrictions, partial suspension or total shutdown of production; refusing AbbVie' request for 510(k) clearance or PMA approval of new products; withdrawing 510(k) clearance or PMA approvals that are already granted; and criminal prosecution.

A clinical trial is almost always required to support a PMA application and is sometimes required for a 510(k) premarket notification. Clinical trials generally require submission of an application for an investigational device exemption (IDE), which must be supported by appropriate data, such as animal and laboratory testing results, showing that it is safe to test the device in humans and that the testing protocol is scientifically sound. A study sponsor must obtain approval for its IDE from the FDA, and it must also obtain approval of its study from the institutional Review Board overseeing the trial. The results of clinical testing may not be sufficient to obtain approval of the investigational device.

Once a device is approved, the manufacture and distribution of the device remains subject to continuing regulation by the FDA, including Quality System Regulation requirements, which involve design, testing, control, documentation and other quality assurance procedures during the manufacturing process. Medical device manufacturers and their subcontractors are required to register their establishments and list their manufactured devices with the FDA and are subject to periodic unannounced inspections by the FDA and certain state agencies for compliance with regulatory requirements. Manufacturers must also report to the FDA if their devices may have caused or contributed to a death or serious injury or malfunctioned in a way that could likely cause or contribute to a death or serious injury, or if the manufacturer conducts a field correction or product recall or removal to reduce a risk to health posed by a device or to remedy a violation of the FFDCA that may present a health risk. Further, the FDA continues to regulate device labeling, and prohibits the promotion of products for unapproved or "off-label" uses along with other labeling restrictions.

European Union. Medical device products that are marketed in the European Union must comply with the requirements of the Medical Device Regulation (the MDR), which came into effect in May 2021. The MDR provides for regulatory oversight with respect to the design, manufacture, clinical trials, labeling and adverse event reporting for medical devices to ensure that medical devices marketed in the European Union are safe and effective for their intended uses. Medical devices that comply with the MDR are entitled to bear a Conformité Européenne marking evidencing such compliance and may be marketed in the European Union. Failure to comply with these domestic and international regulatory requirements could affect AbbVie's ability to market and sell AbbVie's products in these countries.

Environmental Matters

AbbVie believes that its operations comply in all material respects with applicable laws and regulations concerning environmental protection. Regulations under federal and state environmental laws impose stringent limitations on emissions and discharges to the environment from various manufacturing operations. AbbVie's capital expenditures for pollution control in 2023 were approximately $16 million and operating expenditures were approximately $43 million. In 2024, capital expenditures for pollution control are estimated to be approximately $22 million and operating expenditures are estimated to be approximately $45 million.

Abbott was identified as one of many potentially responsible parties in investigations and/or remediations at several locations in the United States, including Puerto Rico, under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act, commonly known as Superfund. Some of these locations were transferred to AbbVie in connection with the separation and distribution, and AbbVie has become a party to these investigations and remediations. Abbott was also engaged in remediation at several other sites, some of which have been transferred to AbbVie in connection with the separation and distribution, in cooperation with the Environmental Protection Agency or similar agencies. While it is not feasible to predict with certainty the final costs related to those investigations and remediation activities, AbbVie believes that such costs, together with other expenditures to maintain compliance with applicable laws and regulations concerning environmental protection, should not have a material adverse effect on the company's financial position, cash flows, or results of operations.

Employees

AbbVie employed approximately 50,000 employees in over 70 countries as of January 31, 2024. Outside the United States, some of AbbVie's employees are represented by unions or works councils. AbbVie believes that it has good relations with its employees.

Human Capital Management

Attracting, retaining and providing meaningful growth and development opportunities to AbbVie's employees is critical to the company's success in making a remarkable impact on people's lives around the world. AbbVie leverages numerous resources to identify and enhance strategic and leadership capability, foster employee engagement and create a culture where talent is productive and engaged. AbbVie invests in its employees through competitive compensation, benefits and employee support programs and offers best-in-class development and leadership opportunities. AbbVie has developed a deep talent base through ongoing investment in functional and leadership training and by sourcing world-class external talent, ensuring a sustainable talent pipeline. AbbVie continuously cultivates and enhances its working culture and embraces equality, diversity and inclusion as fundamental to the company's mission.

Attracting and Developing Talent. Attracting and developing high-performing talent is essential to AbbVie's continued success. AbbVie implements detailed talent attraction strategies, with an emphasis on STEM skill sets, a diverse talent base and other critical skillsets, including drug discovery, clinical development, market access and business development. AbbVie also invests in competitive compensation and benefits programs. In addition to offering a comprehensive suite of benefits ranging from medical and dental coverage to retirement, disability and life insurance programs, AbbVie also provides health promotion programs, mental health awareness campaigns and employee assistance programs in several countries, financial wellness support, on-site health screenings and immunizations in several countries and on-site fitness and rehabilitation centers. AbbVie has on-site health care clinics at certain locations, offering convenient and affordable access to quality healthcare, flu shots and vaccines. In addition, the AbbVie Employee Assistance Fund (a part of the AbbVie Foundation) supports two programs for global employees: the AbbVie Possibilities Scholarship for children of employees, which is an annual merit-based scholarship for use at accredited colleges, universities or vocational-technical schools; and the Employee Relief Program, which is financial assistance to support short term needs of employees when faced with large-scale disasters (e.g. a hurricane), individual disasters (e.g. a home fire) or financial hardship (e.g. the death of a spouse). Finally, AbbVie empowers managers and their teams with tools, tips and guidelines on effectively managing workloads, managing teams from a distance and supporting flexible work practices, including "Where We Work", AbbVie's hybrid work model, offering eligible employees predictable flexibility.

New AbbVie employees are given a tailored onboarding experience for faster integration and to support performance. One of AbbVie's mentorship programs allows employees to self-nominate as mentors or mentees and facilitates meaningful relationships supporting employees' career and development goals.

AbbVie also provides structured, broad-based development opportunities, focusing on high-performance skills and leadership training. AbbVie's talent philosophy holds leaders accountable for building a high-performing organization, and the company provides development opportunities for all levels of leadership. AbbVie's Learn, Develop, Perform program offers year-long, self-directed leadership education, supplemented with tools and resources, and leverages leaders as role models and teachers. In addition, a foundational success factor to AbbVie's leadership pipeline is the company's Professional Development Programs, which attract graduates, postgraduates and post-doctoral talent to participate in formal development programs lasting up to three years, with the objective of strengthening functional and leadership capabilities.

Culture. AbbVie's shared principles of transforming lives, acting with integrity, driving innovation, embracing diversity and inclusion and serving the community form the core of the company's culture. AbbVie articulates the behaviors associated with these values in the Ways We Work, a core set of working behaviors that emphasize how the company achieves results is equally as important as achieving them. The Ways We Work are designed to ensure that every AbbVie employee is aware of the company's cultural expectations. AbbVie integrates the Ways We Work into all talent processes, forming the basis for assessing performance, prioritizing development and ultimately rewarding employees. AbbVie believes its culture creates strong engagement, which is measured regularly through a confidential, third-party all-employee survey, and this engagement supports AbbVie's mission of making a remarkable impact on people's lives.

Equity, Equality, Diversity & Inclusion (EED&I). A cornerstone of AbbVie's human capital management approach is to prioritize fostering an inclusive and diverse workforce. AbbVie's Equity, Equality, Diversity & Inclusion roadmap defines key global focus areas, objectives and associated initiatives, and includes implementation plans organized by business function and geography. AbbVie's senior leaders have adopted formal goals aligned with executing this strategy. Through December 2023, women represented 52 percent of management positions globally and in the United States, 37 percent of AbbVie's workforce was comprised of members of historically underrepresented populations, consistent with 2022. Further, AbbVie is committed to pay equity and conducts pay equity analyses annually. A critical component of AbbVie's strategy is to instill an inclusive mindset in all AbbVie leaders and employees, so the company continues to realize the full value of its workforce from recruitment through retirement. AbbVie's Employee Resource Groups also help the company nurture an inclusive culture by building community and creating connections. Additional information about AbbVie's Equity, Equality, Diversity and Inclusion efforts can be found on the company's website at: https://www.abbvie.com/who-we-are/equity-equality-inclusion-diversity.html.

ITEM 1A. RISK FACTORS

You should carefully consider the following risks and other information in this Form 10-K in evaluating AbbVie and AbbVie's common stock. Any of the following risks could materially and adversely affect AbbVie's results of operations, financial condition or cash flows. The risk factors generally have been separated into two groups: risks related to AbbVie's business and risks related to AbbVie's common stock. Based on the information currently known to it, AbbVie believes that the following information identifies the most significant risk factors affecting it in each of these categories of risks. However, the risks and uncertainties AbbVie faces are not limited to those set forth in the risk factors described below and may not be in order of importance or probability of occurrence. Additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to AbbVie or that AbbVie currently believes to be immaterial may also adversely affect its business. In addition, past financial performance may not be a reliable indicator of future performance and historical trends should not be used to anticipate results or trends in future periods.

If any of the following risks and uncertainties develops into actual events, these events could have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's business, results of operations, financial condition or cash flows. In such case, the trading price of AbbVie's common stock could decline.

Risks Related to AbbVie's Business

The expiration or loss of patent protection and licenses, including the loss of exclusivity for Humira and increased competition from biosimilars, may adversely affect AbbVie's revenues and operating earnings.

AbbVie relies on patent, trademark and other intellectual property protection in the discovery, development, manufacturing and sale of its products. In particular, patent protection is, in the aggregate, important in AbbVie's marketing of pharmaceutical products in the United States and most major markets outside of the United States. Patents covering AbbVie products normally provide market exclusivity, which is important for the profitability of many of AbbVie's products.

As patents for certain of its products expire, AbbVie could face competition from lower priced generic or biosimilar products. The expiration or loss of patent protection for a product typically is followed promptly by substitutes that may significantly reduce sales for that product in a short amount of time. If AbbVie's competitive position is compromised because of generics, biosimilars or otherwise, it could have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's business and results of operations. In addition, proposals emerge from time to time for legislation to further encourage the early and rapid approval of generic drugs or biosimilars. Any such proposals that are enacted into law could increase the impact of generic competition.

Large pharmaceutical companies and generics manufacturers of pharmaceutical products continue to expand into the biotechnology field and form partnerships to pursue biosimilars. Companies have developed and are developing biosimilars that compete with AbbVie's biologic products, including Humira. As competitors obtain marketing approval for biosimilars referencing AbbVie's biologic products, AbbVie's products may become subject to competition from such biosimilars, with the attendant competitive pressure and consequences. Expiration of or successful challenges to AbbVie's applicable patent rights could also trigger competition from other products, assuming any relevant exclusivity period has expired. As a result, AbbVie could face increased litigation and administrative proceedings with respect to the validity and/or scope of patents relating to its biologic products.

For example, Humira accounted for approximately 27% of AbbVie's total net revenues in 2023. Humira is facing competition from biosimilar products in the United States following the loss of exclusivity in 2023, which AbbVie anticipates will continue to cause a significant decline in Humira's revenue and could adversely affect AbbVie's revenues and operating earnings.

AbbVie's principal patents and trademarks are described in greater detail in Item 1, "Business—Intellectual Property Protection and Regulatory Exclusivity" and Item 7, "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations—Results of Operations," and litigation regarding these patents is described in Item 3, "Legal Proceedings."

AbbVie's major products could lose patent protection earlier than expected, which could adversely affect AbbVie's revenues and operating earnings.

A significant portion of AbbVie's revenue and operating earnings are derived from several major products. Third parties or government authorities may challenge or seek to invalidate or circumvent AbbVie's patents and patent applications. For example, manufacturers of generic pharmaceutical products file, and may continue to file, Abbreviated New Drug Applications with the FDA seeking to market generic forms of AbbVie's products prior to the expiration of relevant patents owned or licensed by AbbVie by asserting that the patents are invalid, unenforceable and/or not infringed. In addition, petitioners have filed, and may continue to file, challenges to the validity of AbbVie's patents under the 2011 Leahy-Smith America Invents Act, which created inter partes review and post grant review procedures for challenging patent validity in administrative proceedings at the United States Patent and Trademark Office.

Although most of the challenges to AbbVie's intellectual property have come from other businesses, governments may also challenge intellectual property rights. For example, court decisions and potential legislation relating to patents, such as legislation regarding biosimilars, and other regulatory initiatives may result in further erosion of intellectual property protection. In addition, certain governments outside the United States have indicated that compulsory licenses to patents may be sought to further their domestic policies or on the basis of national emergencies, such as HIV/AIDS. If triggered, compulsory licenses may diminish or eliminate sales and profits from those jurisdictions and negatively affect AbbVie's results of operations.

AbbVie normally responds to challenges by vigorously defending its patents, including by filing patent infringement lawsuits. Patent litigation, administrative proceedings and other challenges to AbbVie's patents are costly and unpredictable and may deprive AbbVie of market exclusivity for a patented product. To the extent AbbVie's intellectual property is successfully challenged, circumvented or weakened, or to the extent such intellectual property does not allow AbbVie to compete effectively, AbbVie's business will suffer. To the extent that countries do not enforce AbbVie's intellectual property rights or require compulsory licensing of AbbVie's intellectual property, AbbVie's revenues and operating earnings will be reduced.

A third party's intellectual property may prevent AbbVie from selling its products or have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's profitability and financial condition.

Third parties may claim that an AbbVie product infringes upon their intellectual property. In addition, in its pursuit of valid business opportunities, AbbVie may be required to challenge intellectual property rights held by others that it believes were improperly granted. Resolving an intellectual property infringement or other claim can be costly and time consuming and may require AbbVie to enter into license agreements. AbbVie cannot guarantee that it would be able to obtain license agreements on commercially reasonable terms. A successful claim of patent or other intellectual property infringement could subject AbbVie to significant damages or an injunction preventing the manufacture, sale, or use of the affected AbbVie product or products. Any of these events could have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's profitability and financial condition.

AbbVie's research and development efforts may not succeed in developing and marketing commercially successful products and technologies, which may cause its revenues and profitability to decline.

To remain competitive, AbbVie must continue to launch new products and new indications and/or brand extensions for existing products. Such launches must generate revenue sufficient both to cover its substantial research and development costs and to replace revenues of profitable products that are lost to or displaced by competing products or therapies. Failure to do so would have a material adverse effect on AbbVie's revenue and profitability. Accordingly, AbbVie commits substantial effort, funds and other resources to research and development and must make ongoing substantial expenditures without any assurance that its efforts will be commercially successful. A high rate of failure in the biopharmaceutical industry is inherent in the research and development of new products, and failure can occur at any point in the research and development process, including after significant funds have been invested. Products that appear promising in development may fail to reach the market for numerous reasons, including failure to demonstrate effectiveness, safety concerns, superior safety or efficacy of competing therapies, failure to achieve positive clinical or pre-clinical outcomes beyond the current standards of care, inability to obtain necessary regulatory approvals or delays in the approval of new products and new indications, limited scope of approved uses, excessive costs to manufacture or the failure to obtain or maintain intellectual property rights, or infringement of the intellectual property rights of others.

Auburn Pharmaceutical Company
Notice of Prior Disciplinary Actions

Prior Actions

1. Oregon
On December 4, 2003, the Oregon Board of Pharmacy issued a Consent Order against Auburn on the grounds that Auburn, located in Troy, Michigan had been distributing drugs into Oregon from approximately 1998 to 2003 without complying with all registration requirements with the Oregon Board. Auburn was unable to locate historic registration materials, and agreed to a Consent Order with Oregon. Auburn's payment of a civil penalty of $1000 resolved the matter.

2. California
On October 22, 2013, the California State Board of Pharmacy issued a Citation and Fine of $2,500 against Auburn involving a pharmacy located in Santa Ana, California (the "Santa Ana Pharmacy") and a second Citation and Fine of $2500, arising out of the same allegation, against the Designated Responsible Party, Mark L. Rumble. On October 22, 2014, the California State Board of Pharmacy issued a Citation and Fine of $5,000 against Auburn involving a pharmacy in Orange, California (the "Orange Pharmacy") and a second Citation and Fine of $2,500, arising out of the same allegation, against the Designated Responsible Party, Mark L. Rumble. The California State Board of Pharmacy alleged that Auburn failed to report an unusual size and frequency of orders placed by the Santa Ana and Orange pharmacies. Auburn objected to and appealed both Citations and Fines because there was no prior substantial deviation or evidence of suspicious orders. Each month during the period examined, Auburn sold monthly dosage units to the Santa Ana and Orange pharmacies (which are located within a group of medical buildings) were substantially and dramatically below average pharmacy sale levels in California and nationally. Notwithstanding its objection and appeal, Auburn discontinued all sales to the Santa Ana and Orange pharmacies. Additionally, for expediency and settlement purposes, Auburn ultimately paid the Fines. All Citations and Fines have been resolved.

3. Kentucky
On March 20, 2014, the Kentucky Board of Pharmacy notified Auburn of its determination that Auburn, although issued a Controlled Substance License 16117 by the Kentucky Cabinet for Health and Family Services, unknowingly failed to apply for a second license from the Kentucky Board of Pharmacy. Pursuant to an Agreed Order dated on or about October 12, 2014, Auburn was fined $5,000 for an "unknowing violation", with a finding by the Kentucky Board of Pharmacy that "there shall be no suspension or revocation of license, probation, or restriction or other disciplinary action against [Auburn] on account of" the unknowing violation. Auburn remitted payment of the fine and the complaint has been resolved.

4. Michigan
On June 27, 2017, the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs ("LARA") issued an Administrative Complaint charging Auburn with failure to notify LARA "of a complaint filed by another state in which the Applicant is licensed for violations of that state's pharmacy laws, within 30 days of knowledge of the complaint." Specifically, LARA alleged that Auburn failed to provide timely notice of its Citation from the California State Board of Pharmacy (although such notice was thereafter provided) notwithstanding Auburn's appeal of that Citation which was still pending. For expediency and settlement purposes, pursuant to a Consent Order dated on or about December 13, 2017, Auburn voluntarily agreed to pay a fine of $5,000. Auburn has remitted payment of such fine to LARA in accordance with the Consent Order, thereby resolving the Administrative Complaint.

There were no additional or separate conduct violations by Auburn. Auburn has remitted payment of the $1,000 administrative fine to the Alabama Board, thereby resolving the complaint.

PROPOSED DECISION

Alan S. Meth, Administrative Law Judge, Office of Administrative Hearings, State of California, heard these matters that were consolidated for hearing on October 28, 2015, in San Diego, California.

Desiree I. Kellogg, Deputy Attorney General, represented the complainant Virginia Herold.

Tony J. Park and Ivan Petrzelk, Attorneys at Law, represented respondents Auburn Pharmaceutical Company and Mark L. Rumble.

The matter was submitted on October 28, 2015.

FACTUAL FINDINGS

Jurisdiction

1. On October 22, 2013, Virginia Herold, Executive Officer, Board of Pharmacy, Department of Consumer Affairs, State of California filed Citation No. CI 2013 58669 against respondent Auburn Pharmaceutical Company and Citation No. CI 2013 58670 against respondent Mark L. Rumble. Respondents filed timely Notices of Appeal.

On October 22, 2014, complainant filed Citation No. CI 2014 62909 against Auburn and Citation No. CI 2014 62910 against Mr. Rumble. Respondents filed timely Notices of Appeal.

Auburn is an out of state pharmaceutical wholesaler and Mr. Rumble is its designated representative in charge. The four citations allege that Auburn and Mr. Rumble failed to report to the Drug Enforcement Administration suspicious orders of controlled substances placed between August 2012 and November 2013 by a California corporation that owns two pharmacies licensed by the Board. The citations filed against Auburn imposed fines of $2,500 and $5,000. The first citation filed against Mr. Rumble imposed no fine; the second imposed a fine of $2,500.

2. On March 2, 2001, the Board issued Out of State Distributor License No. OSD 3887 to Auburn with an address of record in Troy, Michigan. Its president since August 10, 2000, is Jeffrey Farber. Mr. Rumble was the Designated Representative-in-Charge as of January 26, 2006.

Investigation

3. Christine Acosta is an inspector for the Board and in 2012 and 2013, was assigned to the diversion team. She is also a pharmacist. She began an investigation of Cabrillo Park Pharmacy on January 14, 2013, following an audit performed by another inspector who discovered that Cabrillo had dispensed a large amount of oxycodone 30 mg., a controlled substance, over a short period of time. The Board issued license number PHY 50066 to Cabrillo on September 1, 2009. James Gee is the pharmacist in charge.

Following an extensive investigation, Ms. Acosta determined that Cabrillo had violated numerous provisions of the laws and regulations governing the operation of licensed pharmacies. She found numerous instances of Cabrillo furnishing excessive amounts of controlled substances without a legitimate medical purpose and numerous erroneous and uncertain prescriptions. She found a troubling pattern of prescriptions for potent pain medications written by Dr. Michael Stream, a pediatrician.

On March 24, 2015, the Board filed a First Amended Accusation against Cabrillo and Mr. Gee alleging eleven causes for discipline. The first amended accusation is currently pending.

4. During the course of the investigation, on April 2, 2013, Ms. Acosta requested of Auburn the records of all sales of oxycodone 30 mg., hydromorphone 4 mg., alprazolam 2 mg., and hydromorphone/APAP 10 mg/325 mg. sold to Cabrillo between January 1, 2012, and April 2, 2013. Auburn provided invoices showing its sales of oxycodone 30 mg. to Cabrillo. The invoices showed that between August 2012 through April 2013, Auburn sold 12 bottles per month of oxycodone 30 mg. to Cabrillo. Each bottle contained 100 tablets. The total was 10,800 tablets.

Ms. Acosta contacted the Orange County office of the DEA and determined that no distributors had reported Cabrillo for excessive purchases of controlled substances.

5. Ms. Acosta determined from her investigation of Cabrillo that Yorba Park Pharmacy was under the same ownership and began an investigation of Yorba. Her investigation revealed that Yorba was a busier pharmacy than Cabrillo. She found numerous similar violations of the pharmacy laws and regulations, and the first amended accusation includes allegations against Yorba as well as Cabrillo.

6. On July 2, 2014, Ms. Acosta requested records of Auburn of its sales of oxycodone 30 mg., alprazolam 2 mg., hydrocodone/APAP 10 mg/325 mg, and promethazine with codeine to Yorba between January 1, 2013, and December 3, 2013. Auburn furnished records to Ms. Acosta that showed that between February and November 2013, it had sold 204 bottles each containing 100 tablets of oxycodone 30 mg (total of 20,400 tablets), 60 bottles of promethazine with codeine manufactured by Actavis each containing 473 mls. (28,380 mls. total)[1], six bottles each containing 500 tablets of Norco 10/325 mg, and four bottles each containing 500 tablets of alprazolam 2 mg. (2,500 tablets total) to Yorba.

Ms. Acosta contacted the Orange County office of the DEA and determined that no distributors had reported Yorba for excessive purchases of controlled substances.

Federal Regulation

7. Title 21, Code of Federal Regulations, section 1301.74 (DEA Regulation), provides in part:

---

[1] Promethazine with codeine manufactured by Actavis is a cough suppressant. It has a sweet grape flavor. It was used by rap musicians as a recreational drug because of it sweet flavor. It is no longer available.

(b) The registrant shall design and operate a system to disclose to the registrant suspicious orders of controlled substances. The registrant shall inform the Field Division Office of the Administration in his area of suspicious orders when discovered by the registrant. Suspicious orders include orders of unusual size, orders deviating substantially from a normal pattern, and orders of unusual frequency.

Michigan Regulation

8. Michigan Administrative Code R. 338.493c provides in part:

(i) Wholesale distributors shall operate in compliance with applicable federal, state, and local laws and regulations and permit representatives of the board and other authorized federal, state, and local law enforcement officials to enter and inspect their premises and delivery vehicles and audit their records and written operating procedures at reasonable times and in a reasonable manner.

Auburn's System

9. Mr. Rumble is Auburn's vice president of operations and among his duties is the oversight of federal and state compliance. He has worked for Auburn for 22 years and was familiar with the DEA regulation requiring a system to disclose suspicious orders of controlled substance and disclosure to the DEA of suspicious orders.

10. Mr. Rumble testified at the hearing as follows:

Since 2006, Auburn has had in place an automated system to monitor orders of controlled substances to determine if a pharmacy is ordering excessive quantities of controlled substances. The system is called Suspicious Ordering Monitoring (SOMS). It is based on the ratio of the average purchases of controlled substances with non-controlled substances purchased. It allows roughly an 80 percent to 20 percent mix of non-controlled substances to controlled substances. To determine the amounts of drugs a pharmacy may purchase and to determine the ratio, Auburn requires each pharmacy to complete a questionnaire. After a questionnaire is received, Mr. Rumble conducts an investigation of the pharmacy. He goes on line and searches the name of the pharmacy to see if there is anything negative about it on file anywhere, whether the pharmacy actually exists, and the area where the pharmacy is located. Auburn does not open an account with a pharmacy unless the pharmacy has been approved by Mr. Rumble. He does not open an account for a pharmacy just to sell controlled substances and he does not base the decision as to the threshold assigned to a pharmacy solely on the basis of volume of purchases. A typical customer of Auburn's is an independent pharmacy or a small chain.

The SOMS system creates four levels based upon the total value of drugs sold and each level provides the pharmacy a maximum amount of controlled substances that it can purchase without triggering an investigation. Both Cabrillo and Yorba were considered Level D pharmacies and that permitted them, for example, to purchase a maximum of 12 bottles (1,200) tablets of oxycodone. The levels are reviewed annually or periodically and may change. In May 2013, the level assigned to Yorba changed from a Level D to a Level C, allowing it to purchase greater quantities of controlled substances.

The system provides that if a pharmacy exceeds its maximum of controlled substances, that is considered unusual and Auburn automatically suspends delivery of the controlled substances until Mr. Rumble or Mr. Farber investigates the orders to determine if they are valid. An investigation typically includes contacting the pharmacy to obtain additional information. Mr. Rumble considers what the average customer would use to determine if orders are unusually frequent or excessively large. If the order is determined to be suspicious, Auburn then cancels the order and contacts DEA and the local board of pharmacy where the pharmacy is located. Auburn has done this numerous times in the past. He noted that the regulation did not require a wholesaler to suspend shipments of orders.

Mr. Rumble has contacted the DEA and asked for guidance in interpreting the regulation but has received none. He has been told that there is no definitive number that makes an order suspicious. He has sought help from the Board and industry trade associations in interpreting the regulation. He has spoken to people in the pharmaceutical industry and learned that other wholesalers also use the dollar level as a starting point for the implementation of an automated system. He did not believe it was possible to individually examine every order received every day.

Neither the DEA nor the Michigan Board of Pharmacy has taken any action against Auburn in the past or in connection with its sales of controlled substances to Cabrillo and Yorba.

Mr. Rumble created a written policy that became effective on October 1, 2006, and has been revised over the years. A revision made on February 18, 2013, provides in relevant part:

> All incoming orders must qualify by meeting the standards of Auburn's DEA control program. All DEA controlled products and non-controlled items that have potential for abuse are part of this control program. If a customer places an order that exceeds the amount of product they are authorized, the order is suspended and must be reviewed by the Operations Manager. If an order is considered to be suspicious by nature of quantity ordered or items being ordered, the order will be canceled and the customer will be reported within 3 business days to the DEA. . . .

Mr. Rumble reviewed the sales figures for Yorba and Cabrillo and concluded they were well within Auburn's limits. When Yorba's sales increased, he conducted a review to determine if it would be permitted to move to the next level, and he permitted Yorba to move to the next level. He did not believe the orders were suspicious. He did not report the orders made by Cabrillo and Yorba to the DEA.

11. Jeffrey Farber is the President and owner of Auburn. He opened the business in 1993 with 12 employees; it now has about 100 employees and is licensed in 48 states. Mr. Farber testified at the hearing as follows:

He has never had any issues with any governmental entity until the Board filed the citations in this matter. He has had excellent relations with the DEA and the Michigan Board of Pharmacy. He believed that the time and expense that would be required in notifying every state of the action taken by the Board in this case, as well as the detrimental effect upon his reputation, required him to contest these citations. He believed that Auburn had a good system to detect suspicious transactions and it has, in fact, reported suspicious orders to the DEA. He admitted it was not a perfect system and it relied upon the honesty of his customers, but it was the best system "out there."

Auburn is active in the community by supporting local and national efforts to combat drug abuse. It has partnered with the Community Anti-Drug Coalitions of America, an organization that supports over 5,000 community anti-drug coalitions across the country. It supports Drug-Free Kids Campaigns and has contributed money to the Partnership for Drug-Free Kids and the Birmingham Bloomfield Community Coalition.

Expert Opinions

12. Ms. Acosta, as a licensed pharmacist and inspector for the Board, testified that in her opinion, the orders of controlled substances placed by Cabrillo and Yorba that Auburn filled were suspicious and should have been reported to the DEA. She pointed out that the oxycodone 30mg. was the highest strength that oxycodone came in and the orders placed by the two pharmacies came shortly after changes in lower-strength forms of the drug made the abuse potential for those strengths disappear. She also pointed out that the many of the prescriptions for controlled substances filled by the two pharmacies were written by a pediatrician who had no business writing these kinds of prescriptions for children. She added that the prescriptions for promethazine with codeine was solely for a form of that drug that was abused because of its taste, and the amount of the orders was suspicious. She stressed that to determine if orders are suspicious, the totality of the circumstances must be examined and a pharmacist had to exercise his or her professional judgment

13. Mr. Rumble testified that in his opinion, the orders placed by Cabrillo and Yorba were not suspicious and did not trigger an investigation based upon the quantities of the drugs orders. He believed SOMS properly detected suspicious orders.

14. Kevin Barnard is a retired police officer. He worked for 28 years for the San Diego Police Department. He served as a narcotics detective for four years and was on the San Diego Regional Pharmaceutical Narcotics Enforcement Team for two years. He worked as a Medicare Fraud investigator after he left the police department and for the last four years, was the regional compliance manager for H.D. Smith Wholesale. H.D. Smith is the fourth largest drug wholesaler in the country and acts as a primary or secondary wholesaler. While he served as the regional compliance manager, he conducted 400 investigations of suspicious orders.

At the request of the Board, Mr. Barnard reviewed the investigation report and Auburn's records. He testified at the hearing that oxycodone 30 mg., alprazolam 2 mg., hydrocodone/APAP 10 mg/325 mg, and promethazine with codeine were controlled substances that had a high potential for abuse, high street value and were frequently diverted.

Mr. Barnard was familiar with the requirement that a wholesaler develop a system to identify suspicious orders of controlled substances and report them to the DEA. He testified that there are different systems used by the various wholesalers but they typically start with the number of controlled substances ordered. He testified that pharmacies have unique circumstances and a wholesaler has to exercise due diligence to learn about its customers, including the type of business the pharmacy does, its community, and its prescribers.

Mr. Barnard examined Auburn's SOMS system and viewed it as a very general one and constituted minimal compliance with the requirement. He described it as a numbers system based on a pharmacy's book of business. He examined Auburn's standard questionnaire and believed it was insufficient, particularly the question asking for the number of controlled substance generic prescriptions filled daily by the pharmacy. He believed a wholesaler had to do a greater investigation.

Mr. Barnard viewed suspicious orders as those that were of high volume, frequent, and departing from normal dispensing patterns. Suspicious orders were those that focused on drugs that were highly abused and unbalanced. By that he meant that within a family of controlled substances such as oxycodone, the orders should include orders for different strengths of the drugs and not just the highest or most abused strength.

In the case of Cabrillo and Yorba, all the orders for oxycodone were for 30 mg. and they were for the same amounts every month. Oxycodone 30 mg. is an abused drug and the orders from the two pharmacies were only for that drug. He believed that was suspicious. He further believed that when Yorba doubled its orders for oxycodone 30 mg., that was suspicious. With respect to Yorba's orders for promethazine with codeine, it was his opinion that the orders were suspicious because they were only for Actavis and that was a drug that was abused. He found the prescriptions for alprazolam 2 mg. and hydrocodone/APAP 10 mg/325 mg. were suspicious because the prescriptions were solely for the highest strengths and the most abused drugs. He noted that alprazolam in combination with any opioid mimicked heroin for addicts.

Based upon the totality of the orders, it was Mr. Barnard's opinion that the orders were suspicious and required Auburn to investigate. He found no evidence in Auburn's files that it had investigated the orders and in fact found no customer files except the pharmacy questionnaires. He testified that the standard of practice in this area was for a drug wholesaler to maintain customer files in order to protect itself. Based upon the orders placed by Cabrillo and Yorba, and the absence of any investigation performed by Auburn, it was Mr. Barnard's opinion that Auburn should have reported the information to DEA and its failure to do so violated the DEA regulation. Indeed, in his view, this was a "no brainer." He stressed that a determination that an order is suspicious is not and should not be based solely upon numbers but rather, the numbers constituted merely a threshold and a wholesaler must look at those controlled substances that are abused and diverted.

Evaluation

15. The question presented by the DEA Regulation is whether the orders for controlled substance made by Cabrillo and Yorba were suspicious. To help determine if they are suspicious, the regulation suggests such matters as unusual size and frequency and deviation from a normal pattern be considered. In analyzing the orders submitted to Auburn by Cabrillo and Yorba, both Ms. Acosta and Mr. Barnard testified the totality of the circumstances must be considered, and they pointed to such factors as the potential for abuse of the drugs, the strength of the medication, and the presence or absence of orders for other controlled substances within the family of medications.

Of the three witnesses who offered expert testimony regarding the applicability of the DEA Regulation, Mr. Barnard was the most credible. He was an independent witness without any connection to the Board or Auburn. He had extensive experience in the enforcement of narcotics laws and worked for a large pharmaceutical wholesaler for years performing the analysis required by the DEA regulation. His testimony was well reasoned, particularly his testimony that a wholesaler cannot simply rely upon a number of tablets or bottles of a controlled substance generated by a dollar ratio. His testimony that a pharmacist must exercise his or her professional judgment in evaluating orders for controlled substances made sense.

Mr. Barnard's testimony that Mr. Rumble failed to properly exercise his professional judgment when he failed to investigate the suspicious orders for controlled substances submitted by Yorba and that Auburn should have reported those orders to the DEA was persuasive. Yorba ordered not only the highest strength of each drug, but ordered four different drugs that had a high potential for abuse. Yorba's orders for oxycodone 30 mg. and promethazine with codeine manufactured by Actavis were particularly suspicious. Then, when Yorba sought to increase the amount of controlled substances that it could order, Mr. Rumble in fact reviewed that request. It was no longer a question of an automated response to an order, but an opportunity for him to exercise his professional judgment. He should have exercised his judgment by concluding that an investigation and a report to the DEA were necessary and not simply permit the increase without question. His failure to report Yorba's suspicious orders of controlled substances to the DEA constituted a violation of the DEA regulation. The evidence against Auburn and respondent Rumble relating to its sales of controlled substances to Yorba was compelling.

The evidence against Auburn involving Cabrillo's orders of oxycodone 30 mg. was less compelling. While the evidence showed that oxycodone 30 mg., is the most abused drug within the oxycodone family and Cabrillo did not order any other strength of the drug, those considerations in and of themselves did not rise to the level of suspiciousness required by the DEA regulation. The orders were not of unusual size or frequency and did not deviate from the normal pattern. Accordingly, it was not established by a preponderance of the evidence that Auburn and Mr. Rumble violated the DEA regulation with respect to the orders from Cabrillo.

Mr. Barnard's testimony did not establish that Auburn failed to design and operate a system to disclose suspicious orders of controlled substances.

LEGAL CONCLUSIONS

1. Business and Professions Code section 4161 requires that a nonresident wholesaler maintain a valid, unexpired license, permit, or registration to conduct the business of the wholesaler in compliance with the laws of the state in which it is a resident.

2. In these citation matters, the burden of proof is on complainant to prove the allegations of violations of federal and state law by a preponderance of the evidence. Owen v. Sands (2009) 176 Cal. App. 4th 985, 989-93.

3. Cause to affirm Citation Numbers CI 2014 62909 and CI 2014 62910 was established. Business and Professions Code section 4161, subdivision (h) required Auburn as a nonresident wholesaler to comply with the laws of the state in which it is a resident. Michigan Administrative Code R. 338.493c, subdivision (i), required Auburn, as a Michigan resident, to comply with applicable federal laws and regulations. Title 21, Code of Federal Regulations, section 1301.74, subdivision (b), required Auburn to inform the DEA of suspicious orders of controlled substances. Mr. Barnard's testimony established that the orders for controlled substances made by Yorba during the period examined in this matter that were filled by Auburn were suspicious and should have been reported to the DEA. Mr. Rumble, as the Designated Representative-in-Charge of Auburn, was responsible for ensuring that Auburn complied with federal and state pharmacy laws and regulations.

4. Cause to affirm Citation Numbers CI 2013 58669 and CI 2013 58670 was not established. The evidence did not establish that the orders for controlled substances made by Cabrillo during the period examined in this matter that were filled by Auburn were suspicious and should have been reported to the DEA.

5. Respondents argue that section 1301.74, subdivision (b), is vague on its face and its application is arbitrary and capricious. Article III, section 3.5 of the California

Constitution provides that an administrative agency does not have the power to declare a statute unenforceable or to refuse to enforce a statute on the basis of it being unconstitutional. It is reasonable to conclude that an administrative agency likewise does not have the power to declare a federal regulation unenforceable or refuse to enforce it on the basis of it being unconstitutional. Respondents' arguments must therefore be rejected.

ORDER

1. Citation Number CI 2013 58669 issued by the Board against respondent Auburn Pharmaceutical Company is dismissed.

2. Citation Number CI 2013 58670 issued by the Board against respondent Mark L. Rumble is dismissed.

3. Citation Number CI 2014 62909 issued by the Board against respondent Auburn Pharmaceutical Company is affirmed. Respondent Auburn Pharmaceutical Company shall pay the fine of $5,000 to the Board within thirty (30) days of the effective date of this decision.

4. Citation Number CI 2014 62910 issued by the Board against respondent Mark L. Rumble is affirmed. Respondent Rumble shall pay the fine of $2,500 to the Board within thirty (30) days of the effective date of this decision.

If a request for hearing is not received within this 21-day period, the corporation's right to a hearing shall be considered waived.

Before the commencement of the hearing, the corporation will be given information on the procedures, right of representation and other rights of parties relating to the conduct of the hearing.

Please use and make copies of this page (if necessary) to provide information regarding any questions, 1-10, you have marked "YES" to in section 8 of the application. A signed statement of explanation for each event and a copy of all documents that identify the circumstance or contain an order, agreement or other disposition for the event must be provided.

This is in response to Question # 1 . Provide all the following where applicable:

Date of Event/Arrest	Disposition Date	State	City	County
10/2/2010	10/21/2010	MI	Roseville	Macomb
Case #		Governing, licensing, Arresting Presiding Body/Agency/Court
RV04673		Roseville Police Department
Reason/Charge
Operating - Impaired
Plaintiff/Defendant/Claimant/Respondent			Lawsuit/Arbitration/Bankruptcy
Name of Business/Industry/Entity

Provide explanation below:

In October 2010, I made the poor decision to drive after drinking. I was pulled over and arrested at the time, being charged with Operating While Intoxicated (this charge was dropped and lowered to the charge of Operating While Impaired, a misdemeanor). I was sentenced to Probation, which was completed. Obviously, this was a mistake and something I take very seriously. In the 14 years since, I have had a completely clean record.

Auburn Pharmaceutical Company
Notice of Disciplinary Action

1. California

Auburn Pharmaceutical Company ("Auburn") received a Citation and Fine from the Board of Pharmacy of the State of California for the reason that Auburn shipped a "drug or device that by federal or state law can be lawfully dispensed only on prescription" to a licensed pharmacy Pharmacist in California; however, the pharmacy accepted delivery by a pharmacy technician. The pharmacy had acknowledged and agreed in writing that, in accordance with the policy of Auburn, the delivery could only be signed for by a Licensed Pharmacist. Because the pharmacy violated this policy multiple times, Auburn (although not aware of the violations) received the Citation and Fine.

Subject: device manufacturer exemption and State of Arizona

[NOTICE] This message comes from a system outside of DBPR. Please exercise caution when clicking on links and/or providing sensitive information. If you have concerns, please contact your Knowledge Champion or the DBPR Helpdesk.

Hi Walter, good to chat with you today!

As we discussed, my client 3B Medical, Inc. d/b/a React Health is requesting confirmation from DBPR that it is exempt in Florida from the requirements to obtain a device manufacturer permit since all of its products are approved for marketing by or registered with the Federal Drug Administration. As I mentioned, the State of Arizona is requiring React Health to show proof of permit in its home state (which is Florida) as a condition of permitting in Arizona. However, Arizona is indicating it will waive the requirement if React Health can provide written confirmation from Florida DBPR of the statutory exemption and that, if React Health meets the requirements of the statutory exemption by having all of its products approved by or registered with the FDA, then React Health is de facto permitted in Florida and need not obtain permit from DBPR.

I have attached a letter from Adam Cooper, counsel to React Health, which explains further. We would greatly appreciate written confirmation from you to Adam Cooper. You can feel free to email me the written confirmation and I will pass along to Adam.

Thank you so much!
-James

Re: Florida Medical Device Manufacturer Permit

To Whom It May Concern:

K&L Gates LLP represents 3B Medical, Inc. d/b/a React Health ("React") in this request for clarity from the Florida Department of Business & Professional Regulation ("DBPR") regarding Florida regulations relating to the Device Manufacturer Permit. React is a Florida based medical device manufacturer that engages in the manufacture of medical devices that are approved for marketing by, and are registered with, the federal Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") in accordance with federal law for commercial distribution.

Florida statutes exempt a device manufacturer whose products are approved for marketing by or registered with the FDA from the requirement that the device manufacturer obtain a permit. See Fla. Stat. Ann. § 499.01(2)(o)(1)(b) (citing to Fla. Stat. Ann. § 499.015(8)).

React requests DBPR to confirm that the above interpretation is accurate – that a Florida based medical device manufacturer is exempt from the requirement that it obtain a Device Manufacturer Permit if all devices are approved by or registered with the FDA.

Please let us know if you have any questions, or need any additional information on our end. Thanks for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Adam Cooper

3B Medical,React - Letter to Florida re Manufacturer Permit_USW_Active01_506088989_1.pdf

James,

In response to your email below and the communication attached from K&L Gates, LLP; I am writing this email to confirm that a medical device manufacturer is not required to be permitted in Florida if all products manufactured are exempt from registration pursuant to s. 499.015(8), F.S. as provided below:

499.015 Registration of drugs and devices; issuance of certificates of free sale.–
(8) Notwithstanding any requirements set forth in this part, a manufacturer of medical devices that is registered with the federal Food and Drug Administration is exempt from this section and s. 499.041(6) if:

(a) The manufacturer's medical devices are approved for marketing by, or listed with the federal Food and Drug Administration in accordance with federal law for commercial distribution; or

(b) The manufacturer subcontracts with a manufacturer of medical devices to manufacture components of such devices.

Based on the communication provided from R&L Gates, LLP (attached), React Health is not required to be permitted as a medical device manufacturer in Florida as the devices they manufacture are approved for marketing by, and are registered with, the federal Food and Drug Administration in accordance with federal law for commercial distribution.

Please feel free to contact me directly at either number below if we can assist further or if we can provide additional clarification.

Sincerely,

WC

 Please note this is non-binding, informal direction and is subject to change. A Declaratory Statement is the sole means for obtaining a binding interpretation or opinion from the Division of Drugs, Devices and Cosmetics concerning the applicability of statutory provisions, rule or orders over which the Division has authority (Chapters 499, Florida Statutes and Chapter 61N-1, Florida Administrative Code). Refer to Section 120.565, Florida Statutes and Chapter 28-105, Florida Administrative Code, which sets out the requirements for a Petition for Declaratory Statement. ******

BOARD OF PHARMACY

DISCIPLINARY ACTIVITY: September, October, and December 2021

The Board took the following disciplinary action involving pharmacists during these meetings:

Anderson, Jared Joel, License # 119950. In 2013, Licensee self-reported to the Minnesota Health Professionals Services Program ("HPSP") due to alcohol use. Licensee was satisfactorily discharged from HPSP in 2016.

On February 7, 2018, Licensee contacted HPSP to report a relapse to alcohol use and enrolled in HPSP on February 7, 2018. At the time Licensee was employed as Operations Manager of a Minnesota hospital pharmacy ("Pharmacy"). On February 9, 2018, Licensee signed another three-year Participation Agreement with HPSP.

On June 26, 2020, Licensee falsified his urine screening documentation submitted to HPSP by whiting out the dates from his June 17, 2020 form and writing in June 26, 2020. The following day, Licensee notified HPSP of the falsification. Subsequent testing confirmed Licensee had not relapsed with alcohol.

Licensee was satisfactorily discharged from HPSP in February 2021. Subsequently, in February 2021, Licensee relapsed with alcohol.

On March 5, 2021 Licensee diverted an unknown quantity of diazepam 10 mg tablets from the Pharmacy. Licensee falsely reported that a retired medical doctor removed 10 tablets of diazepam 10 mg for a patient that had been discharged an hour prior to the time the diazepam was reported dispensed. Licensee diverted the diazepam for his own use, to offset the effects of his continued alcohol use. Diazepam is a schedule IV-controlled substance. During the month of March 2021, Licensee diverted additional quantities of diazepam 10 mg tablets from the Pharmacy, including on the dates of March 12, March 19, and March 22. On March 24, 2021, Licensee reported to work at the Pharmacy while under the influence of alcohol. In April 2021, Licensee self-reported to HPSP and entered into a four-year participation agreement.

Due to these facts, the Board adopted a Stipulation and Consent Order, suspending Dr. Anderson's license, staying the suspension, and ordering him to successfully complete his HPSP participation agreement.

Lindberg, Larry W. License # 112356. Licensee owns pharmacies licensed by the Board. Licensee and his staff engaged in sterile compounding in a manner that was not consistent with USP Chapter 797 standards. As a result, licensee signed Stipulations to Cease Sterile Compounding and Other Practices on May 31, 2016. However, licensee continued to compound allergen extracts, relying on guidelines within USP 797 that only applied to specially trained physicians. The Board directed Licensee to stop compounding the extracts. However, Licensee continued compounding them by leasing office space in a strip mall, moving compounding equipment into the office space, and instructing a pharmacy technician that had been in his employ to compound the extracts in that space. The hood that was used was not recertified after it was moved, the office space was not licensed by the Board as a pharmacy, and it did not meet USP Chapter 797 environmental standards. Consequently, the Board issued a Stipulation and Consent Order revoking his license.

Mulrooney, Deana L., License # 119041. On May 20, 2020, Licensee and the Board entered into a Stipulation and Consent Order ("Order"). The Order suspended Licensee's license to practice as a pharmacist in the State of Minnesota. The Order stayed the suspension and placed certain conditions upon Licensee's license to practice pharmacy, including that she:

a. Comply with all the terms and requirements set forth in her Participation Agreement and Monitoring Plan with the Health Professionals Services Program ("HPSP"); and,

b. Successfully complete her Participation Agreement with the HPSP and be discharged from any additional monitoring.

On August 24, 2021, Licensee was unsatisfactorily discharged from the HPSP for voluntary withdrawal. Licensee's unsatisfactory discharge from the HPSP for voluntary withdrawal is a violation of the May 20, 2020 Order. Consequently, the Board issued a Stipulation and Consent Order for Voluntary Surrender of her license.

The Board took the following disciplinary action involving pharmacy technicians during these meetings:

Drabant, Marissa Rayann, Registration # 738866. During the months of April and May, 2021, the Pharmacist-In-Charge of the pharmacy at which registrant worked, discovered shortages in various controlled substances, including hydrocodone/APAP. A review of the Pharmacy's security video shows that on May 13, 2021, Registrant can be seen removing a stock bottle of hydrocodone/APAP 7.5/325mg from the pharmacy shelf, opening the bottle, pouring an unknown quantity of tablets into her hand, and then placing her hand and the drugs into the pocket of her clothes. Consequently, the Board issued a Stipulation and Consent Order for Voluntary Surrender.

Hill, Constance, Registration # 744620. In or around December 2020, while working as a pharmacy technician at a community pharmacy ("Pharmacy") in Minnesota, registrant diverted from the Pharmacy 362 alprazolam one milligram tablets; 1,084 alprazolam two milligram tablets; and 250 diazepam two milligram tablets. Registrant failed to cooperate with the Board's investigation and failed to respond to any communication about this case. Consequently, the Board issued a Findings of Fact, Conclusions and Order, revoking her registration.

The Board took the following disciplinary action involving pharmacies during these meetings:

904 Prospect Pharmacy, Inc., d/b/a Boca Pharmacy, License # 265165. Licensee Boca Pharmacy is an assumed business name held by 904 Prospect Pharmacy, Inc., a New York State domestic business corporation. Jacob Jamron, R.Ph., is the Chief Executive Office and sole shareholder of 904 Prospect Pharmacy, Inc. and is the current Pharmacist-In-Charge ("PIC") for Licensee. Licensee employed an individual ("Individual 1") whose job responsibilities included submitting original and renewal pharmacy license applications to state boards of pharmacy, on behalf of Licensee. Individual 1 was authorized by Jacob Jamron to sign his name to documents, including pharmacy renewal applications, on behalf of Licensee. On May 28, 2019, and on behalf of Licensee, Individual 1 submitted to the Board a pharmacy renewal application ("2019 Application"). Individual 1 signed Jacob Jamron's name to the attestation/signature page of the 2019 Application, which read: "I, the undersigned, do hereby certify that all of the information contained in this renewal application is true and correct, and that the firm will be operated in compliance with all applicable laws and regulations."

On June 10, 2019, in response to the 2019 Application, the Board sent Licensee a deficiency letter requesting a copy of an inspection from the home state or a Board approved accreditation program that was not more than twenty-four months old, as required by Minn. Stat. § 151.19, subd. 1(f). On June 27, 2019, Licensee submitted to the Board a copy of a 2016 National Association of Boards of Pharmacy Verified Pharmacy Program Inspection report ("Report"). However, Individual 1 first modified the date of the Report, changing it to November 19, 2018. The date of the Report was modified to make it appear to have been issued within twenty-four months of Licensee's 2019 Application. Licensee admits the Board's approval of the 2019 Application was based in part upon intentionally misleading information submitted by Individual 1.

On June 26, 2020, Licensee submitted to the Board a pharmacy renewal application ("2020 Application"). Licensee failed to disclose within the 2020 Application, a denial of licensure by the Iowa Board of Pharmacy in February of 2020.Licensee submits it did not learn of the Iowa Board of Pharmacy's denial until July 2020, because of the use of an email address Licensee did not closely monitor.

Consequently, the Board issued a Stipulation and Consent Order, reprimanding Licensee and assessing a civil penalty in the amount of $5,000.

CVS Pharmacy #05992, License # 263341. On February 25, 2019, Licensee received a new electronic prescription for a 2-month-old pediatric patient ("Patient A") written for a quantity of 60 ml of ranitidine 75 mg/5 ml syrup ("Rx1"), with instructions to take 1 ml twice a day orally for 30 days and two refills. Licensee's pharmacy staff members incorrectly entered, filled, and labeled Rx1 with prednisolone 15 mg/5 ml solution. On March 23, 2019 and April 24, 2019, Rx1 was refilled, each time incorrectly filled, labeled, and dispensed as prednisolone 15 mg/5 ml solution. Licensee's processes for data entry certification, certification of a filled prescription, and quality assurance second-check, failed to discover and prevent each of the three dispensing errors for Rx1.

On March 14, 2019, Licensee received a new hard copy prescription for an adult patient ("Patient B") written for a quantity of twenty-four buprenorphine-naloxone 4-1 mg sublingual ("SL") films ("Rx2") with instructions to dissolve one film SL three times daily (6a, 12n, 6p), for a total daily dose ("TDD") of 12 mg buprenorphine. Licensee's pharmacy staff members incorrectly entered and filled Rx2 with the wrong strength of the medication, as buprenorphine-naloxone 8-2 mg SL films for a TDD of 24 mg buprenorphine. Licensee's processes for data entry certification, certification of a filled prescription, and quality assurance second-check, failed to discover and prevent the dispensing error for Rx2. Counseling was indicated for Rx2, which Patient B refused. Licensee's Pharmacy Counseling Documentation Log did not include documentation that Patient B refused counseling when Rx2 was initially dispensed, nor the reason counseling was refused.

On March 20, 2019, Licensee was notified by Patient B's clinic of the dispensing error for Rx2. Licensee re-dispensed to Patient B, Rx2 entered and filled with the correct medication strength of buprenorphine-naloxone 4-1 mg SL films, without obtaining a prescription to cover the original dispensing of Rx2 filled with the wrong strength. Licensee dispensed prescriptions to Patient B for the full quantity of two different strengths of buprenorphine-naloxone from one prescription.

Consequently, the Board issued a Stipulation and Consent Order, reprimanding Licensee and assessing a civil penalty in the amount of $5,000.

Polaris Pharmacy Services of Minnesota, LLC, License #265679. Licensee is a closed door, long-term care ("LTC") pharmacy that prepares sterile and non-sterile compounded drug products for dispensing. Licensee has two affiliated pharmacy locations in Florida, both licensed by the Board.

On or about March 19, 2019, two Board Surveyors visited Licensee for the purpose of completing a routine inspection, met with the pharmacist-in-charge, and identified the following:

c. Seven pharmacy technicians registered by the Board and employed by the affiliated Florida pharmacies, were living in Florida but listed their current physical address as Licensee's address in Minnesota.

d. During the inspection, the Board Surveyors cited Licensee for engaging in central services with the affiliated Florida pharmacies, by allowing pharmacy technicians working in Florida to remotely perform data entry of prescription drug information for Minnesota patients into Licensee's Frameworks LTC prescription processing and dispensing software system ("FW- LTC"), followed by verification of the data entry by Licensee's pharmacist staff members working in Minnesota ("Central Service").

Prior to beginning Central Service, Licensee failed to submit a copy of its policy and procedure manual and failed to obtain Board approval to participate in a Central Service arrangement with the affiliated Florida pharmacies. Licensee disputes that it was operating a "central services arrangement" as it understands that term to be commonly used within the industry. Licensee maintains that its use of remote order entry processes was necessary under the circumstances, due to a backlog of prescription orders that had accumulated due in large part to Licensee's inability to recruit and retain sufficient staff in Minnesota during its early months of operating in the State. Nonetheless, for purposes of this stipulation, Licensee acknowledges and understands the March 2019 citation.

Licensee's nonsterile compounding records failed to include an assigned beyond use date ("BUD") for the final compounded drug product, or included a BUD exceeding those recommended within United States Pharmacopeia, General Chapter 795 for Pharmaceutical Compounding - Nonsterile Preparations ("USP 795"), without documentation of a reference for literature or a stability study applicable to the specific drug product allowing for extension of the BUD. Licensee avers that it responded to these findings by providing education to its staff to ensure compounded components included lot numbers, expiration dates, and BUDs, along with noting the supporting reference sources. Licensee states that it is not aware of any other issues regarding its compliance with BUD requirements since 2019.

On or about March 20, 2019, the Board received a complaint alleging that Licensee was utilizing pharmacy technicians from outside of Minnesota to enter prescription data. On or about April 9, 2019, a Board Surveyor reminded Licensee, after expanding its operations to 24-hours, that pharmacy technicians working outside of its Minnesota location could not be used to help with covering the additional hours that the pharmacy is open, due to the lack of Board approved policies for Central Services with the affiliated Florida pharmacies. As noted above, Licensee disputes that it was operating a "central services arrangement" as it understands that term to be commonly used within the industry. Licensee maintains that its use of remote order entry processes was necessary under the circumstances, due to a backlog of prescription orders that had accumulated due in large part to Licensee's inability to recruit and retain sufficient staff in Minnesota during its early months of operating in the State. Nonetheless, for purposes of this stipulation, Licensee acknowledges and understands the Board's concern regarding the use of out-of-state technicians to enter prescription data.

On June 11, 2019, two Board Surveyors visited Licensee for the purpose of an investigation, met with representatives of the Licensee, and identified the following:

a. The pharmacist-in-charge stated that, as far as she was aware, the Florida affiliated pharmacies were the only two locations providing Central Services for Licensee.

b. Licensee utilized a company named IND Consulting ("IND") for emergency kit ("E-kit") billing and entry of patient information when pharmacy services are initiated in a new LTC facility. IND's website states its staff are able to provide services including, but not limited to, billing services, medical record entry, and data entry solutions, with guaranteed staffing in fully operational data centers that are open 24 hours a day and 365 days a year, located within or outside of the United States across the globe in Mexico, India, the Philippines, and Florida. During the conference with the Committee, Licensee admitted that IND consulting had been used to enter prescription data for prescription drug orders ultimately dispensed by its Minnesota pharmacy. Licensee cannot definitively state where individuals affiliated with IND were licensed or physically located when entering such data.

At the end of the visit, the Board Surveyor's provided an Investigative Report requesting additional information and reminding Licensee again that it cannot engage in Central Services without Board approval.

On February 12, 2020, two Board Surveyors visited Licensee for the purposes of an investigation, met with representatives of Licensee, and identified the following:

a. After arriving at 4:36 a.m., one of the Board Surveyors observed two of Licensee's pharmacy technicians were allowed badge access to the pharmacy entrance prior to the arrival of RPh 3 at around 5:55 a.m. One technician was found to be working in the sterile compounding area and another was logged into Licensee's computer. A representative of Licensee later stated that three pharmacy technicians had been given keys and passcodes to access Licensee's pharmacy. During its conference with the Committee, Licensee admitted that this allegation is true, but stated that senior management took corrective action upon learning of the situation, including immediately revoking the access code of all non-pharmacists and physically rekeying all doors within the pharmacy. Licensees avers that periodic security assessments confirm that no unauthorized persons have had access to the pharmacy since February 2020.

b. Six pharmacy technicians, including the IV pharmacy technician, were present in the "filling area" with only one pharmacist, who was the second pharmacist to arrive. Another pharmacist was in an "order entry" area, a distinctly different area separated by a wall and door. The Board Surveyors were told that additional pharmacy technicians were scheduled that morning to perform non-technician "staging or stocking" duties. However, the Board Surveyors observed that the additional pharmacy technicians that were supposedly scheduled to perform non-technician duties, were filling orders in the "filling area" to be checked by the one pharmacist.

Licensee avers that is does not have sufficient information to admit or deny the Board surveyors' observations, but that company policy requires compliance with required technician-to-pharmacist ratios.

Consequently, the Board issued a Stipulation and Consent Order, reprimanding the licensee and imposing a civil penalty of $50,000.

Challenges Polaris Faced in Minnesota

Polaris entered the Minnesota market in November 2018. The company operates only one pharmacy in Minnesota, which is located at 5220 Park Glen Road, St. Louis Park. Polaris' early experience in Minnesota was not without its challenges, but the company has made a good faith effort to address its challenges and is constantly looking to improve.

When Polaris entered the Minnesota market, it was surprised to find a labor market (particularly for pharmacy technicians) that was much tighter than other markets in which Polaris operates and experienced more staff turnover in Minnesota than it is accustomed to in other markets. The Covid-19 pandemic obviously put an incredible amount of stress on every stakeholder in the pharmacy industry, and Polaris was no exception. The pandemic made it even more difficult for Polaris to recruit, hire, and retain talented staff.

Polaris continues to believe it did not engage in central services by having Minnesota-licensed technicians located in Florida perform remote order entry tasks in connection with prescription orders filled in Minnesota. In letters to the Board dated July 19, 2019, Polaris explained why it began using Minnesota-licensed technicians based in Florida to assist Polaris Minnesota with order entry tasks.

In sum, during its initial months of operation, Polaris faced an unanticipated and unacceptable backlog of prescription orders that needed to be filled in Minnesota. The backlog resulted largely from Polaris' inability to recruit and retain enough capable pharmacy technicians in Minnesota during the early months of operation. To address the backlog and ensure the timely delivery of prescriptions to Minnesota patients, Polaris initially had Minnesota-licensed technicians based in Florida perform order entry services on behalf of Polaris Minnesota. These technicians were experienced technicians who were licensed in Minnesota before they performed order entry work for Polaris Minnesota. Further, while performing remote order entry work from a Polaris Florida location, these technicians were connected virtually to Polaris Minnesota's physical workspace through Polaris' FrameworkLTC software platform, which is commonly used across the long-term care pharmacy industry. At all times, the work of these technicians was overseen by a licensed pharmacist at the Florida pharmacy (where the data was entered into FrameworkLTC), as well as a Minnesota-licensed pharmacist in the Minnesota pharmacy, who ultimately controlled and was responsible for the technicians' work and any prescriptions filled in connection with data they entered into the system. Additionally, until May 2019, Polaris had IND Consulting and its "Team X" do some remote order entry work for Polaris Minnesota. Aside from the order entry function, Polaris Minnesota's prescription processing and filling functions have always taken place entirely in the Minnesota pharmacy. Polaris has at times relied on similar remote order entry processes in other states without triggering central service pharmacy requirements.

Accordingly, when Polaris started using this process to help deal with the Minnesota backlog, it did not anticipate that it might be triggering central services pharmacy requirements. For this reason, Polaris initially did not submit or seek approval from the Board for a central prescription drug processing policy or procedure. In March 2019, after Board staff expressed a view that Polaris' use of Minnesota-licensed technicians based in Florida to perform remote entry work constituted an unauthorized central service arrangement, Polaris took immediate steps to address the issue. Polaris initially flew Minnesota-licensed technicians from Florida to Minnesota, so they could be physically present in the Polaris Minnesota pharmacy while performing the same order entry functions they had been performing in Florida.

Finally, Polaris sought Board approval of several remote order entry variances, with the goal of being authorized to resume using Minnesota-licensed technicians based in Florida to perform remote order entry for Polaris Minnesota, and particularly to deal with emergencies or backlogs. When Board staff initially raised this issue in March 2019, Polaris did not believe it could immediately shift all order entry functions to its limited staff in Minnesota without compromising patient safety and welfare. At the time, Polaris was still working through the backlog, onboarding new care facilities, and working hard to locate, hire, train, and retain technicians and other staff in Minnesota in a challenging labor market. Under the circumstances, Polaris determined it was necessary to continue using Minnesota licensed, Florida-based technicians for a period of time in order to deal with the backlog and continue filling prescriptions in a timely manner for patients who needed them, while simultaneously building up its Minnesota workforce and making the changes necessary to meet the expectations of Board staff. As soon as Polaris was staffed and equipped to perform all order entry functions in Minnesota, it stopped utilizing technicians who were not physically located in Minnesota altogether. Accordingly, from June 2019 to the present, Polaris has only used Minnesota-licensed technicians physically located in the Polaris Minnesota pharmacy to perform order entry work on prescription orders filled in Minnesota. Polaris took concerns raised by Board staff over remote order entry issues seriously, and it believes it acted reasonably under the circumstances to address those concerns, while also maintaining high levels of patient care.

Polaris remained committed to working cooperatively with the Board to better understand what it must do in order to utilize remote order entry processes in the future. Polaris would always attempt to rely on technicians physically located in its Minnesota pharmacy to perform data entry and other prescription filling functions. The Board acknowledged granting variance requests to many pharmacy chains and health-systems that authorize the use of remote order entry processes. In March 2020, the Board also issued Covid-19 related guidance acknowledging that pharmacists and technicians could perform various prescription drug filling functions while working remotely—including data entry of prescriptions and orders; verifying prescriptions; certifying data entry and the finished prescriptions (i.e., the product check); conducting profile and prospective drug utilization reviews; and stage-checking for compounding—so long as affiliated pharmacies were using adequate computer software and hardware for the tasks being performed. While the Board's Covid-19 guidance evolved after Governor Walz's Peacetime Emergency declaration was rescinded, Polaris continues to believe remote order entry processes like those implemented during the first few months of Polaris' operations in Minnesota were safe, effective, and should have a place in the delivery of modern pharmacy services.

The Board approved the central services variance #265679-010 on July 13, 2022 between Polaris Pharmacy Services of Minnesota, LLC and both the Polaris Pharmacies located in Tampa and Ft. Lauderdale Florida for urgent or emergent needs.

BEFORE THE MINNESOTA

BOARD OF PHARMACY

In the Matter of Polaris Pharmacy Services of Minnesota, LLC
License No. 265679

STIPULATION AND CONSENT ORDER

STIPULATION

Polaris Pharmacy Services of Minnesota, LLC ("Licensee") and the Minnesota Board of Pharmacy Committee on Professional Standards ("Committee") agree the above-referenced matter may be resolved without trial of any issue or fact as follows:

I.

JURISDICTION

1. The Minnesota Board of Pharmacy ("Board") is authorized pursuant to Minnesota Statutes chapter 151 to license and regulate pharmacies and to take disciplinary action as appropriate.

2. Licensee holds a pharmacy license from the Board and is subject to the jurisdiction of the Board with respect to the matters referred to in this Stipulation and Consent Order.

II.

CONFERENCE

3. On August 18, 2021, Licensee met with the Committee to discuss the allegations described in a Notice of Conference. Board members Kendra Metz and Stuart Williams comprised the Committee. The Board's Executive Director, Cody Wiberg; Deputy Director, Jennell Bilek; and staff attorney, Brian Park, were also present. Alex Mountain, Assistant Attorney General, represented the Committee. Brian A. Dillon, of Lathrop GPM LLP, represented licensee and was accompanied by Licensee's Pharmacist-in-Charge, Neil Uitto; Polaris' Chief Operating Officer, Steven Baker; and Polaris' Executive Vice President of Operations, Todd Zisek.

III.

FACTS

4. On or about November 1, 2018, the Board licensed Licensee as a pharmacy in Minnesota.

5. Licensee is a closed door, long-term care ("LTC") pharmacy that prepares sterile and non-sterile compounded drug products for dispensing.

6. Licensee has two affiliated pharmacy locations in Florida, both licensed by the Board as follows:

a. On or about July 8, 2016, the Board issued Polaris Rx, located in Fort Lauderdale, Florida ("Pharmacy 1"), non-resident pharmacy license #265101.

b. On or about December 5, 2018, the Board issued Polaris Pharmacy Services of Tampa, located in Tampa, Florida ("Pharmacy 2"), non-resident pharmacy license #265721.

7. On or about March 19, 2019, two Board Surveyors visited Licensee for the purpose of completing a routine inspection, met with the pharmacist-in-charge, and identified the following:

a. Seven pharmacy technicians registered by the Board and employed by Pharmacy 1 and Pharmacy 2, were living in Florida but listed their current physical address as Licensee's address in Minnesota.

b. During the inspection, the Board Surveyors cited Licensee for engaging in central services with Pharmacy 1 and Pharmacy 2, by allowing pharmacy technicians working in Florida to remotely perform data entry of prescription drug information for Minnesota patients into Licensee's Frameworks LTC prescription processing and dispensing software system ("FW-LTC"), followed by verification of the data entry by Licensee's pharmacist staff members working in Minnesota ("Central Service").

c. Prior to beginning Central Service, Licensee failed to submit a copy of its policy and procedure manual and failed to obtain Board approval to participate in a Central Service arrangement with Pharmacy 1 and Pharmacy 2.

d. Licensee disputes that it was operating a "central services arrangement" as it understands that term to be commonly used within the industry. Licensee maintains that its use of remote order entry processes was necessary under the circumstances, due to a backlog of prescription orders that had accumulated due in large part to Licensee's inability to recruit and retain sufficient staff in Minnesota during its early months of operating in the State. Nonetheless, for purposes of this stipulation, Licensee acknowledges and understands the March 2019 citation.

e. Licensee's nonsterile compounding records failed to include an assigned beyond use date ("BUD") for the final compounded drug product, or included a BUD exceeding those recommended within United States Pharmacopeia, General Chapter 795 for Pharmaceutical Compounding - Nonsterile Preparations ("USP 795"), without documentation of a reference for literature or a stability study applicable to the specific drug product allowing for extension of the BUD. Licensee avers that it responded to these findings by providing education to its staff to ensure compounded components included lot numbers, expiration dates, and BUDs, along with noting the supporting reference sources. Licensee states that it is not aware of any other issues regarding its compliance with BUD requirements since 2019.

8. On or about March 20, 2019, the Board received a complaint alleging that Licensee was utilizing pharmacy technicians from outside of Minnesota to enter prescription data. On or about April 9, 2019, a Board Surveyor reminded Licensee, after expanding its operations to 24-hours, that pharmacy technicians working outside of its Minnesota location could not be used to help with covering the additional hours that the pharmacy is open, due to the lack of Board approved policies for Central Services with Pharmacy 1 and Pharmacy 2. As noted above, Licensee disputes that it was operating a "central services arrangement" as it understands that term to be commonly used within the industry. Licensee maintains that its use of remote order entry processes was necessary under the circumstances, due to a backlog of prescription orders that had accumulated due in large part to Licensee's inability to recruit and retain sufficient staff in Minnesota during its early months of operating in the State. Nonetheless, for purposes of this stipulation, Licensee acknowledges and understands the Board's concern regarding the use of out-of-state technicians to enter prescription data.

9. On June 11, 2019, two Board Surveyors visited Licensee for the purpose of an investigation, met with representatives of the Licensee, and identified the following:

a. The pharmacist-in-charge stated that, as far as she was aware, Pharmacy 1 and Pharmacy 2, both located in Florida, were the only two locations providing Central Services for Licensee.

b. Licensee utilized a company named IND Consulting ("IND") for emergency kit ("E-kit") billing and entry of patient information when pharmacy services are initiated in a new LTC facility. IND's website states its staff are able to provide services including, but not limited to, billing services, medical record entry, and data entry solutions, with guaranteed staffing in fully operational data centers that are open 24 hours a day and 365 days a year, located within or outside of the United States across the globe in Mexico, India, the Philippines, and Florida. During the conference with the Committee, Licensee admitted that IND consulting had been used to enter prescription data for prescription drug orders ultimately dispensed by its Minnesota pharmacy. Licensee cannot definitively state where individuals affiliated with IND were licensed or physically located when entering such data.

c. At the end of the visit, the Board Surveyor's provided an Investigative Report requesting additional information and reminding Licensee again that it cannot engage in Central Services without Board approval.

10. On February 12, 2020, two Board Surveyors visited Licensee for the purposes of an investigation, met with representatives of Licensee, and identified the following:

a. After arriving at 4:36 a.m., one of the Board Surveyors observed two of Licensee's pharmacy technicians were allowed badge access to the pharmacy entrance prior to the arrival of RPh 3 at around 5:55 a.m. One technician was found to be working in the sterile compounding area and another was logged into Licensee's computer. A representative of Licensee later stated that three pharmacy technicians had been given keys and passcodes to access Licensee's pharmacy. During its conference with the Committee, Licensee admitted that this allegation is true, but stated that senior management took corrective action upon learning of the situation, including immediately revoking the access code of all non-pharmacists and physically rekeying all doors within the pharmacy. Licensees avers that periodic security assessments confirm that no unauthorized persons have had access to the pharmacy since February 2020.

b. Six pharmacy technicians, including the IV pharmacy technician, were present in the "filling area" with only one pharmacist, who was the second pharmacist to arrive. Another pharmacist was in an "order entry" area, a distinctly different area separated by a wall and door. The Board Surveyors were told that additional pharmacy technicians were scheduled that morning to perform non-technician "staging or stocking" duties. However, the Board Surveyors observed that the additional pharmacy technicians that were supposedly scheduled to perform non-technician duties, were filling orders in the "filling area" to be checked by the one pharmacist.

Licensee avers that is does not have sufficient information to admit or deny the Board surveyors' observations, but that company policy requires compliance with required technician-to-pharmacist ratios.

IV.

LAWS

11. Licensee acknowledges the conduct described in section III above constitutes a violation of Minn. Stat. § 151.071, subd. 2(7), and warrants the disciplinary action described below.

V.

DISCIPLINARY ACTION

The parties agree the Board may take the following disciplinary action and require compliance with the following terms:

12. The Board REPRIMANDS Licensee and imposes a CIVIL PENALTY in the amount of $50,000 for the conduct described in section III above. The civil penalty shall be paid by cashier's check or money order made payable to the Minnesota Board of Pharmacy, c/o Cody Wiberg, Executive Director, 2829 University Avenue S.E., Suite 530, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55414, within 60 days of the date of entry of this Order.

13. The Board places the following CONDITION on Licensee's License: every six months, for a period of three years, Licensee's CEO must certify to the Board's Executive Director that Licensee's licensed pharmacies that provide services to Minnesota residents are in full compliance with all applicable Minnesota statutes and rules.

VI.

CONSEQUENCES FOR NONCOMPLIANCE OR ADDITIONAL VIOLATIONS

14. If Licensee fails to comply with or violates this Stipulation and Consent Order, the Committee may, in its discretion, seek additional discipline either by initiating a contested case proceeding pursuant to Minnesota Statutes chapter 14 or by bringing the matter directly to the Board pursuant to the following procedure:

a. The Committee shall schedule a hearing before the Board. At least 20 days before the hearing, the Committee must mail Licensee a notice of the violation(s) alleged by the Committee. In addition, the notice must designate the time and place of the hearing. Within ten days after the notice is mailed, Licensee shall submit a written response to the allegations. If Licensee does not submit a timely response to the Board, the allegations may be deemed admitted.

b. The Committee, in its discretion, may schedule a conference with Licensee prior to the hearing before the Board to discuss the allegations and to attempt to resolve the allegations through agreement.

c. Prior to the hearing before the Board, the Committee and Licensee may submit affidavits and written argument in support of their positions. At the hearing, the Committee and Licensee may present oral argument. Argument may not refer to matters outside the record. The evidentiary record must be limited to the affidavits submitted prior to the hearing and this Stipulation and Consent Order. The Committee will have the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that a violation has occurred. If Licensee has failed to submit a timely response to the allegations, Licensee may not contest the allegations, but may present argument concerning the appropriateness of additional discipline. Pursuant to this process, Licensee waives a hearing before an administrative law judge, discovery, cross-examination of adverse witnesses, and other procedures governing hearings pursuant to Minnesota Statutes chapter 14.

d. Licensee's correction of a violation before the conference, hearing, or meeting of the Board may be taken into account by the Board but does not limit the Board's authority to impose discipline for the violation. A decision by the Committee not to seek discipline when it first learns of a violation does not waive the Committee's right to later seek discipline for that violation, either alone or in combination with other violations, at any time while Licensee's license is in a suspended status.

e. Following the hearing, the Board will deliberate confidentially. If the allegations are not proved, the Board must dismiss the allegations. If a violation is proved, the Board may impose additional discipline, including conditions or limitations on Licensee's license, a period of suspension, conditions of reinstatement, or revocation of Licensee's license.

f. Nothing herein limits the Committee's or the Board's right to temporarily suspend Licensee's license as provided in Minnesota Statutes chapters 151 and 214, based on a violation of this Stipulation and Consent Order or based on conduct of Licensee not specifically referred to herein.

VII. ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

15. Licensee waives the contested case hearing and all other procedures before the Board to which Licensee may be entitled under the Minnesota and United States constitutions, statutes, or rules.

16. Licensee waives any claims against the Board, the Minnesota Attorney General, the State of Minnesota, and their agents, employees, and representatives related to the investigation of the conduct herein, or the negotiation or execution of this Stipulation and Consent Order, which may otherwise be available to Licensee.

17. This Stipulation and Consent Order, the files, records, and proceedings associated with this matter shall constitute the entire record and may be reviewed by the Board in its consideration of this matter.

18. Either party may seek enforcement of this Stipulation and Consent Order in any appropriate civil court.

19. Licensee has read, understands, and agrees to this Stipulation and Consent Order and has voluntarily signed the Stipulation and Consent Order. Licensee is aware this Stipulation and Consent Order must be approved by the Board before it goes into effect. The Board may either approve the Stipulation and Consent Order as proposed, approve it subject to specified change, or reject it. If the changes are acceptable to Licensee, the Stipulation and Consent Order will take effect and the order as modified will be issued. If the changes are unacceptable to Licensee or the Board rejects the Stipulation and Consent Order, it will be of no effect except as specified in the following paragraph.

20. Licensee agrees that if the Board rejects this Stipulation and Consent Order or a lesser remedy than indicated in this settlement, and this case comes again before the Board, Licensee will assert no claim that the Board was prejudiced by its review and discussion of this Stipulation and Consent Order or of any records relating to it. If the Board rejects this Stipulation and Consent Order, the parties agree that this Stipulation and Consent Order will not be admissible in any proceedings.

21. This Stipulation and Consent Order does not limit the Board's authority to proceed against Licensee by initiating a contested case hearing or by other appropriate means on the basis of any act, conduct, or admission of Licensee which constitutes grounds for disciplinary action, and which is not directly related to the specific facts and circumstances set forth in this document.

VIII.

DATA PRACTICES NOTICES

22. This Stipulation and Consent Order constitutes disciplinary action by the Board and is classified as public data pursuant to Minnesota Statutes section 13.41, subdivision 5. Data regarding this action will be provided to data banks as required by Federal law or consistent with Board policy. While this Stipulation and Consent Order is in effect, information obtained by the Board pursuant to this Order is considered active investigative data on a licensed health professional, and as such, is classified as confidential data pursuant to Minnesota Statutes section 13.41, subdivision 4.

Fresenius Kabi USA, LLC
(formerly known as APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC)
Description of Past Disciplinary Actions

Fresenius Kabi USA, LLC provides this summary of actions taken by other states against licenses held in the name of APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC ("APP"). The actions described below were made against the Bensenville, Illinois distribution facility only and resulted from late filing of various documents in the state licensing process and were not due to misconduct by APP. The delay in filing resulted from the 2007 reorganization and name change of APP, a complex corporate transaction of which each state was notified. None of the actions involved controlled substances or resulted in harm to any patient.

Please note that the Bensenville, Illinois facility that was the subject of these actions is no longer operated by Fresenius Kabi USA, LLC effective January 1, 2018. Fresenius Kabi USA, LLC currently maintains a valid license and is good standing in each state, as required. No disciplinary actions are pending.

Colorado License Denial and Subsequent Issuance*

Action: Although a license renewal and change of name were timely filed by APP in Colorado, the State of Illinois failed to provide a verification document in the required format. During the period between APP's filing and discovery of the inadequacy of the Illinois document, APP made a single shipment of prescription drugs to a Colorado pharmacy on or around December 17, 2007. As a result of that shipment, Colorado issued a Cease and Desist Order, effective September 7, 2008, at which time APP immediately ceased shipping prescription drugs into Colorado. At its next regular meeting on November 20, 2008, the Colorado Board of Pharmacy denied APP's Wholesaler application.

Outcome: On December 19, 2008, APP and the Colorado Board of Pharmacy entered into a Stipulation and Agreed Agency Order whereby APP was granted an Out-of-State Wholesaler License (#7467). The license is currently in the name of Fresenius Kabi, LLC.

Montana Disciplinary Action*

Action: After accepting APP's renewal application and issuing a Wholesale Drug Distributor License (#1187) effective as of March 8, 2008, the Montana Board of Pharmacy issued a board-generated complaint against APP dated May 19, 2008 alleging (a) the late renewal of a Wholesale Drug Distributor license and (b) unlicensed practice by APP in Montana that occurred between January 16 and March 7, 2008. The delay in filing the renewal application resulted from delays by the State of Illinois in processing the name change so that APP could file the required verification documents showing the APP name. It is important to note that during the period of alleged unlicensed practice, APP became the sole U.S. supplier of heparin products causing APP to ship heparin products into Montana on an emergency basis.

Outcome: On January 9, 2009, APP entered a Stipulation and a Final Order was executed by the Montana Board of Pharmacy under which APP's Wholesale Drug Distributor License (#1187) was affirmed. The license remained in effect until it was closed on May 7, 2018.

Michigan Administrative Action

Action: An Administrative Complaint was issued by the State of Michigan Dept. of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs on April 10, 2014, which alleged that Fresenius Kabi USA violated Michigan's Public Health Code based solely on disciplinary actions taken against Fresenius Kabi USA by the Colorado and Montana Boards of Pharmacy in 2008 and 2009, respectively. Importantly, under the Board's Complaint, Fresenius Kabi USA did not commit any violations of Michigan law that impacted the safety or healthcare needs of Michigan's citizens.

Outcome: On September 8, 2014 the Michigan Dept. of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs executed a Consent citing the Stipulation of Fresenius Kabi USA and imposing a monetary fine of $1,000.00 in resolution of the matter.

 These disciplinary actions occurred while operating under the name of APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC. On August 1, 2012, the company changed its name to Fresenius Kabi USA, LLC.

IN THE MATTER OF THE PROPOSED DISCIPLINARY TREATMENT OF THE LICENSE OF APP PHARMACEUTICALS, LLC Wholesale Drug Distributor License No. 1187	) Docket No. CC-09-0016-PHA) Complaint No. PHA-2008-0090) NOTICE OF PROPOSED BOARD ACTION AND OPPORTUNITY FOR HEARING

TO: Christina McGahan
Regulatory Affairs - Labeling,
Licensing and Registration
APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC
1501 East Woodfield Road
Suite 300 East
Schaumburg IL 60173

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE:

1. The State of Montana Board of Pharmacy (Board), has considered the complaint filed against APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC (Licensee) and has voted to initiate disciplinary action pursuant to its authority under §§37-1-131 and 37-1-136, Mont. Code Ann.

COPY

2. During its Screening Panel meeting, the Screening Panel of the Board reviewed all documentation regarding the above action and determined that there is reasonable cause to believe that Licensee violated one or more of the statutes or rules cited in paragraph one of this notice.

3. Accordingly, the Screening Panel directed that this Notice be served upon Licensee pursuant to Mont. Code Ann. §37-1-309.

FACT ASSERTIONS

1. At all times relevant to these proceedings, Licensee was and is a licensed Wholesale Drug Distributor, Montana License number 1187. This license was issued by the Montana Board of Pharmacy.

2. Board records indicate Licensee's license to practice as a wholesale drug distributor expired on January 15, 2008.

3. On March 11, 2008, the Board office sent Licensee a letter asking whether APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC has operated in the state of Montana since January 16, 2008.

4. On April 10, 2008, the Board office received Licensee's letter from the Board office dated March 11, 2008, answering in the affirmative that APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC has operated in the state of Montana since January 16, 2008. This information was affirmed and signed by Christina McGahan, Regulatory Affairs - Labeling, Licensing and Registration. Also included with the letter was documentation affirming that drugs were sold in Montana subsequent to the Licensee's license expiration.

5. On April 10, 2008 a board-generated complaint was filed against the Licensee for possible violations of the Board of Pharmacy rules and statutes in Montana.

6. The Board office received a response to the complaint authored by Christina McGahan, wherein she agrees that APP was late in filing for its renewed license in Montana but requested the Board to consider the following exigent circumstances:

A. Abraxis Bioscience, LLC. (ABI) went from being one company in the business of both generic drugs and nongeneric drugs to two separate businesses on November 14, 2007. The ABI facility licensed by Montana was retained by APP.

B. Although the Illinois licenses were applied for in a timely manner, they were only issued on January 18, 2008. The DEA license was awarded on February 21, 2008. Because these licenses are required for renewal, it was only after receiving these documents that the Licensee was able to apply for the renewal of the Montana license.

C. A total of 70 of the 76 shipments sent during the January to March time period in Montana were heparin. In December of 2007, supplies of heparin from a number of sources, including Baxter International, were found to be contaminated and were recalled, and a crisis situation was anticipated. However, APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC also sells heparin and was able to increase its manufacturing to replace much of the heparin no longer sold by Baxter and other suppliers. Without the APP-supplied heparin, many surgeries and dialysis procedures, to name a few, would not have been able to proceed.

7. The actions referred to in the above-referenced letter relate to the propriety of the practice or fitness to practice as a Wholesale Drug Distributor, specifically, the Licensee's license expired January 15, 2008, however, APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC remained in operation without current licensure until March 7, 2008.

VIOLATIONS

The information contained in the fact assertions herein indicate that APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC has committed unprofessional conduct.

Violation of Mont. Code Ann. §37-1-141:

(6)(b) A licensee who practices after a license has expired is considered to be practicing without a license.

Violation of Mont. Code Ann. §37-1-316:

The following is unprofessional conduct for a licensee or license applicant governed by this chapter:

(18) conduct that does not meet the generally accepted standards of practice.

Violation of Mont. Code Ann. §37-7-604:

(1) A person or distribution outlet may not act as a wholesale drug distributor without first obtaining a license from the board and paying the license fee.

Violation of Mont. Code Ann. §37-7-605:

(1) An out-of-state wholesale drug distributor may not conduct business in this state without first obtaining a license from the board and paying the license fee established by the board.

Violation of ARM 24.101.408 RENEWED, LAPSED, EXPIRED, OR TERMINATED LICENSES

(5) A licensee who practices after a license has expired is considered to be practicing without a license and is subject to discipline provided by statute or rule.

Alleged violation of 24.174.1201:

(1) Every person engaged in manufacturing, wholesale distribution, or selling of drugs, medicines, chemicals, poisons for medicinal purposes, medical gases, or legend devices other than to the consuming public or patient, in the state of Montana, shall be licensed annually by the board.

Alleged violation of ARM 24.174.2301:

(1) The board defines "unprofessional conduct" as follows:

(a) engaging in any activity which violates state and federal statutes and rules governing the practice of pharmacy.

UNIFORM PROFESSIONAL LICENSING AND REGULATION PROCEDURE

You are advised that the law provides:

37-1-309. Notice -- request for hearing. (1) If a reasonable cause determination is made pursuant to 37-1-307 that a violation of this part has occurred, a notice must be prepared by department legal staff and served on the alleged violator. The notice may be served by certified mail to the current address on file with the board or by other means authorized by the Montana Rules of Civil Procedure. The notice may not allege a violation of a particular statute, rule, or standard unless the board or the board's screening panel, if one has been established, has made a written determination that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the particular statute, rule or standard has been violated.

(2) A licensee or license applicant shall give the board the licensee's or applicant's current address and any change of address within 30 days of the change.

(3) The notice must state that the licensee or license applicant may request a hearing to contest the charge or charges. A request for a hearing must be in writing and received in the offices of the department within 20 days after the licensee's receipt of the notice. Failure to request a hearing constitutes a default on the charge or charges, and the board may enter a decision on the basis of the facts available to it.

37-1-312. Sanctions -- stay --costs --stipulations. (1) Upon a decision that a licensee or license applicant has violated this part or is unable to practice with reasonable skill and safety due to a physical or mental condition or upon stipulation of the parties as provided in subsection (3), the board may issue an order providing for one or any combination of the following sanctions:

(a) revocation of the license;

(b) suspension of the license for a fixed or indefinite term;

(c) restriction or limitation of the practice;

(d) satisfactory completion of a specific program of remedial education or treatment;

(e) monitoring of the practice by a supervisor approved by the disciplining authority;

(f) censure or reprimand, either public or private;

(g) compliance with conditions of probation for a designated period of time;

(h) payment of a fine not to exceed $1,000 for each violation. Fines must be deposited in the state general fund.

(i) denial of a license application;

(j) refund of costs and fees billed to and collected from a consumer.

(2) A sanction may be totally or partly stayed by the board. To determine which sanctions are appropriate, the board shall first consider the sanctions that are necessary to protect or compensate the public. Only after the determination has been made may the board consider and include in the order any requirements designed to rehabilitate the licensee or license applicant.

(3) The licensee or license applicant may enter into a stipulated agreement resolving potential or pending charges that includes one or more of the sanctions in this section. The stipulation is an informal disposition for the purposes of 2-4-603.

(4) A licensee shall surrender a suspended or revoked license to the board within 24 hours after receiving notification of the suspension or revocation by mailing it or delivering it personally to the board.

2-4-631(3). Licenses. Whenever notice is required, no revocation, suspension, annulment, withdrawal, or amendment of any license is lawful unless the agency gave notice by mail to the licensee of facts or conduct which warrant the intended action. If the agency finds that public health, safety, or welfare imperatively requires emergency action and incorporates a finding to that effect in its order, summary suspension of a license may be ordered pending proceedings for revocation or other action. These proceedings shall be promptly instituted and determined.

STATEMENT OF RIGHTS

APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC is entitled to a hearing on the proposed discipline against the license of APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC before an impartial and independent Hearing Examiner appointed by the Department of Labor and Industry as provided in the Montana Administrative Procedure Act. Mont. Code Ann. § 2-4-601, et seq., and § 37-1-121. APP Pharmaceuticals, LLC has a right to be represented by an attorney at such hearing and during related proceedings.

Case No. 2009-001737

STIPULATION AND FINAL AGENCY ORDER

IN THE MATTER OF DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS REGARDING THE LICENSE TO PRACTICE AS AN OUT-OF-STATE PRESCRIPTION DRUG WHOLESALER IN THE STATE OF COLORADO OF APP PHARMACEUTICALS, Wholesaler Applicant.

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED AND AGREED by and between the Colorado State Board of Pharmacy ("Board") and APP Pharmaceuticals ("Wholesaler Applicant") to resolve all matters pertaining to Board Case Number 2009-001737 as follows:

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

1. The Board has jurisdiction over Wholesaler Applicant, its application for registration as an out-of-state prescription drug wholesaler and the subject matter of this Stipulation and Final Agency Order ("Final Agency Order") pursuant to the provisions of the Pharmaceuticals and Pharmacists Act at Title 12, Article 22, C.R.S.

2. Wholesaler Applicant admits these findings and hereby waives any further proof in this proceeding before the Board regarding the following facts.

3. On December 17, 2007, Wholesaler Applicant distributed prescription drugs to a pharmacy in Colorado without having first registered as an out-of-state prescription drug wholesaler in the State of Colorado.

4. Wholesaler Applicant's conduct, as set forth above, constitutes violations of the following sections of the Colorado Revised Statutes:

Colorado Revised Statutes

12-22-125. Unprofessional conduct - grounds for discipline.

(1) The board may suspend, revoke, refuse to renew, or otherwise discipline any license or registration issued by it, after a hearing held in accordance with the provisions of this section, upon proof that the licensee or registrant:

(c) Has violated:

(I) Any of the provisions of this part 1, including but not limited to any acts in section 12-22-126;

(II) The lawful rules of the board; or

(III) Any state or federal law pertaining to drugs.

12-22-125.2. Disciplinary actions. (1) The board may deny or discipline an applicant, licensee, or registrant when the board determines that such applicant, licensee, or registrant has engaged in activities that are grounds for discipline.

* * *

12-22-802. Wholesaler license requirements. (1) A wholesaler that resides in this state shall be licensed by the board. A wholesaler that does not reside in this state shall be licensed in this state prior to engaging in the wholesale distribution of prescription drugs in this state...

* * *

5. On October 6, 2008, Wholesaler Applicant submitted an out-of-state prescription drug wholesaler application, which application was denied by the Board.

6. On December 3, 2008, Wholesaler Applicant submitted a written request asking that the Board accept its application by granting a conditional registration.

7. The Board finds and concludes, and Wholesaler Applicant agrees, that based upon Wholesaler Applicant's above-described violations of the Pharmaceuticals and Pharmacists Act and relevant rules and regulations, the following discipline is just and appropriate under the circumstances as a condition of its registration as an out-of-state prescription drug wholesaler.

DISPOSITION

Conditional Registration;
$5,000.00 Fine and Terms

8. Conditional Registration. Wholesaler Applicant shall be granted a registration as an out-of-state prescription drug wholesaler upon execution of this Final Agency Order and satisfaction of the terms and conditions set forth herein.

9. Fine with Surcharge. Wholesaler Applicant accepts the following discipline: Pursuant to §12-22-125.2(5), C.R.S., Wholesaler Applicant shall pay a fine of Five Thousand Dollars and No Cents ($5,000.00). Wholesaler Applicant understands and acknowledges, pursuant to §24-34-108, C.R.S., that the Executive Director of the Department of Regulatory Agencies shall impose an additional surcharge of 15% of this fine. Wholesaler Applicant shall therefore pay a total amount of Five Thousand, Seven Hundred Fifty Dollars and No Cents ($5,750.00). The total amount shall be payable to the State of Colorado and shall be remitted in one lump sum to be included when Wholesaler Applicant submits this signed Final Agency Order to the Board.

10. Compliance. Wholesaler Applicant shall at all times remain in compliance with §§12-22-801, et seq. C.R.S. and shall not at any time distribute prescription drugs into Colorado without being registered as an out-of-state prescription drug wholesaler in the State of Colorado at the time of distribution.

11. Advisements and Waivers. Wholesaler Applicant enters into this Final Agency Order freely and voluntarily, whether or not Wholesaler Applicant has consulted with legal counsel. Wholesaler Applicant acknowledges its understanding that it has the following rights:

    a. To have a formal notice of hearing and charges served upon it;
    b. To respond to said formal notice of charges;
    c. To have a formal disciplinary hearing pursuant to §12-22-125, C.R.S.; and
    d. To appeal this Board order.

    Wholesaler Applicant freely waives these rights, and acknowledges that such waiver is made voluntarily in consideration for Board's limiting the action taken against it to the sanctions imposed herein.

12. Acknowledgments. The undersigned authorized agent of Wholesaler Applicant has read this Final Agency Order in its entirety and acknowledges, whether or not Wholesaler Applicant has consulted with legal counsel, that Wholesaler Applicant understands the legal consequences and agrees that none of the terms or conditions herein are unconscionable.

13. Violations. Time is of the essence to this Final Agency Order. It is the responsibility of Wholesaler Applicant to take all appropriate steps to comply fully with this Final Agency Order. Wholesaler Applicant acknowledges and agrees that any violation of this Final Agency Order may be sanctioned as provided under §12-

22-125.2(4), C.R.S., and may be sufficient grounds for additional discipline, including but not limited to revocation of its registration. The pendency of any suspension or disciplinary action arising out of an alleged violation of this Final Agency Order shall not affect the obligation of Wholesaler Applicant to comply with all terms and conditions of this Final Agency Order.

14. Integration and Severability. Upon execution by all parties, this Final Agency Order shall represent the entire and final agreement of and between the parties. In the event any provision of this Final Agency Order is deemed invalid or unenforceable by a court of law, it shall be severed and the remaining provisions of this Final Agency Order shall be given full force and effect.

15. Public Record. Upon execution by all parties, this Final Agency Order shall be a public record, maintained in the custody of the Board.

16. Effective Date. This Final Agency Order shall become effective upon signature of a Board member or representative.

Case No. 2019-1831

STIPULATION AND FINAL AGENCY ORDER

IN THE MATTER OF DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS REGARDING THE OUT-OF-STATE PRESCRIPTION DRUG WHOLESALER REGISTRATION IN THE STATE OF COLORADO OF GENENTECH INC., REGISTRATION NO. WHO 7079, Respondent Outlet.

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED AND AGREED by and between the Colorado State Board of Pharmacy ("Board") and Genentech Inc., ("Respondent Outlet") to resolve all matters pertaining to Board Case Number 2019-1831, as follows:

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

1. The Board has jurisdiction over Respondent Outlet, its registration as an out-of-state prescription drug wholesaler, and the subject matter of this Stipulation and Final Agency Order ("Final Agency Order") pursuant to the Pharmacists, Pharmacy Businesses, and Pharmaceuticals Act at Title 12, Article 42.5, C.R.S. (2018).

2. Respondent Outlet was originally registered in the State of Colorado on or about December 22, 2006, being issued registration #WHO 7079, and has been so registered at all times relevant to this disciplinary action.

3. Respondent Outlet's address of record with the Board and current location is 1 DNA Way MS 241A in South San Francisco, California.

4. Respondent Outlet admits these findings and hereby waives any further proof in this proceeding before the Board regarding the following facts.

5. Respondent Outlet failed to timely submit to the Board an application detailing a change in designated representative and fee. In this case, 182 days transpired between August 15, 2018, the date the previous designated representative ceased the position, and February 13, 2019, the date the application and fee were received.

6. On or about March 14, 2019, the Board initiated a complaint against Respondent Outlet because of the delay of 182 days in submitting an application detailing a change in designated representative and fee.

7. Respondent Outlet's conduct, as set forth above, constitutes violations of the following sections of the Colorado Revised Statutes and Board Regulations:

Colorado Revised Statutes

12-42.5-123. Unprofessional conduct - grounds for discipline.

(1) The board may suspend, revoke, refuse to renew, or otherwise discipline any license or registration issued by it, after a hearing held in accordance with the provisions of this section, upon proof that the licensee or registrant:

(c) Has violated:

(II) The lawful rules of the board.

* * *

Pharmacy Board Rules and Regulations

15.01.14 Change of name, location, or ownership, or designated representative.

c. Any change in the designated representative of a wholesaler shall be reported to the Board on a form supplied by the Board within thirty calendar days of such change. The incoming designated representative must undergo the required background check.

TERMS OF DISCIPLINE

8. Fine with Surcharge. Pursuant to section 12-42.5-124(5)(a)(I), C.R.S., Respondent Outlet shall pay a fine of One Thousand Dollars and No Cents ($1,000.00). Respondent Outlet understands and acknowledges that, pursuant to section 24-34-108, C.R.S., the Executive Director of the Department of Regulatory Agencies may impose an additional surcharge of 15% of this fine. Respondent Outlet shall therefore pay a total amount of One Thousand One Hundred Fifty Dollars and No Cents ($1,150.00). The total amount shall be payable to the State of Colorado and shall be remitted in one lump sum to be included when Respondent Outlet submits this signed Final Agency Order to the Board.

9. Compliance. Respondent Outlet shall submit all future applications and appropriate fees to the Board detailing changes in designated representative within the required time frame specified by Board rule or statute in effect at the time of such designated representative change.

10. Other Requirements. Respondent Outlet acknowledges and agrees that, as a condition of this Final Agency Order, Respondent Outlet shall:

    a. promptly pay all Respondent Outlet's own fees and costs associated with this Final Agency Order;

    b. comply fully with this Final Agency Order; and

    c. comply fully with the Pharmacists, Pharmacy Businesses and Pharmaceuticals Act, all Board rules and regulations, and any other state and federal laws and regulations related to pharmacists and pharmaceuticals in the State of Colorado.

11. Advisements and Waivers. Through its undersigned Authorized Representative, Respondent Outlet enters into this Final Agency Order freely and voluntarily, after having the opportunity to consult with legal counsel and/or choosing not to do so. Respondent Outlet acknowledges its understanding that it has the following rights:

    a. to have formal notice of hearing and charges served upon it;

    b. to respond to said formal notice of charges;

    c. to have a formal disciplinary hearing pursuant to sections 12-42.5-123 and 12-42.5-124, C.R.S.; and

    d. to appeal this Final Agency Order.

    Respondent Outlet freely waives these rights, and acknowledges that such waiver is made voluntarily in consideration for the Board's limiting the action taken against Respondent Outlet to the sanctions imposed herein.

12. Acknowledgments. The undersigned Authorized Representative of Respondent Outlet has read this Final Agency Order in its entirety and acknowledges, after having the opportunity to consult with legal counsel and/or choosing not to do so, that Respondent Outlet understands the legal consequences and agrees that none of the terms or conditions herein is unconscionable. Respondent Outlet is not relying on any statements, promises or representations from the Board other than as may be contained in this Final Agency Order. Respondent Outlet further acknowledges that it is not entering into this Final Agency Order under any duress.

13. Violations. Time is of the essence in this Final Agency Order. It is the responsibility of Respondent Outlet to take all appropriate steps to comply fully with this Final Agency Order. Respondent Outlet acknowledges and agrees that any violation of this Final Agency Order shall constitute a willful violation of a lawful Board order, may be sanctioned as provided under section 12-42.5-124(4), C.R.S., and may be sufficient grounds for additional discipline, including but not limited to revocation of Respondent Outlet's registration. The pendency of any suspension or disciplinary action arising out of an alleged violation of this Final Agency Order shall not affect the obligation of Respondent Outlet to comply with all terms and conditions of this Final Agency Order.

14. Integration and Severability. Upon execution by all parties, this Final Agency Order shall represent the entire and final agreement of and between the parties. In the event any provision of this Final Agency Order is deemed invalid or unenforceable by a court of law, it shall be severed and the remaining provisions of this Final Agency Order shall be given full force and effect.

15. Public Record. Upon execution by all parties, this Stipulation and Final Agency Order shall be a public record, maintained in the custody of the Board.

16. Effective Date. This Final Agency Order shall become effective upon (a) mailing by first-class mail to Respondent Outlet at Respondent Outlet's address of record with the Board, or (b) service by electronic means on Respondent Outlet at Respondent Outlet's electronic address of record. Respondent Outlet hereby consents to service by electronic means if Respondent Outlet has an electronic address on file with the Board.
