◈ Workshop ◈

18. Notice of Proposed Regulation Workshop Pursuant to NRS 233B.061(2) (FOR POSSIBLE ACTION)

C. Amendment to Nevada Administrative Code (NAC) 639. The proposed amendment removes various provisions relating to compounding which are in conflict with current United States Pharmacopeia compounding standards.

Joe Dodge, Inspector for the Nevada Board of Pharmacy, provided a timeline of USP events and discussions that took place prior to the publication of the revised USP Chapters 797.

Dave Wuest, Executive Secretary for the Nevada Board of Pharmacy, presented background on proposed regulation workshop item.

President Park opened the floor to public comment.

Mr. Wuest presented three written public comments to the Board.

Chad Baker, Senior Vice President of Government Relations at Flavor Rx, commented that statistics show that a large amount of Nevada pharmacies, along with multiple pharmacies across the country, provided medication flavoring to at least 2 million children's medications with no incidents of harm being reported, and that flavoring improves the taste of the medicine.

Lori Walmsley, Director of Pharmacy at Walgreens, is in support of Mr. Baker's comments. Ms. Walmsley believes that it is worthwhile to think about whether there should be other exclusions from USP 795 standards. Ms. Walmsley is concerned that products will not be available as much as they should be for patients. Her alternative thought was to adopt USP standards but create different categories, and referenced Mississippi's carve out as an example. From an operating standpoint, if flavoring becomes compounding, then you must have a patient-specific order from a prescriber.

Ken Kunke from the Nevada Pharmacy Alliance asked the Board that these changes can affect businesses compounding in Nevada. He encouraged the Board to take the implementation of the USP standards slowly, as any adaptation could cause pharmacies to be afraid of doing simple compounding and patient access may be harmed in the long run.

Matt Sarso, Owner of Solutions Specialty Pharmacy, references guidelines added to USP that could affect how much patients are charged for their medications.

Mr. Sarso read a patient letter into the record.

Mark Johnson, Pharmacist with CVS Health, commented that if flavoring becomes compounding, then the prescriber will have to authorize each compounding.

Liz MacMenamin from the Retail Association of Nevada agreed with the comments of those who spoke before her. She appealed to the Board to listen to the concerns, take the time to understand the impact, and look at the problems that have happened in California. The implementation of these standards could limit patient access, and specifically will limit medications for children.

Mr. Wuest commented that the USP standards have already been adopted, but that the Board staff's intent is to provide clarity, not just to race into implementation of the standards.

Mr. Dodge read the adopted USP standards on flavoring for clarification and shared why the USP has made the determination that flavoring is compounding. He cautioned the Board that if they were to make any exemptions that were less stringent than what USP has published, then there must be strong scientific evidence to support it.

Sean Barclay, Pharmacist at Meta Pharmacy Services, commented that the FDA already put this in motion, and they would determine whether pharmacies are following regulations. All changes will be difficult to institute flavoring and would be a re-training of prescribers.

Mr. Dodge commented that two new USP chapters went into effect that haven't been discussed. USP 800 was specific to hazardous compounding, and USP 825 was specific to radio pharmaceuticals.

Richard Tomasso was excused from the meeting at 9:59AM.

Gener Tejero, Pharmacist, entered two written letters into the record that he received via his email.

Richard Tomasso returned to the meeting at 10:03AM.

Mr. Tejero commented that the current USP interpretation may have additional safety measures for compounded, sterile products but believes that patient access to compounded medication will decrease.

Board discussion ensued.

Mr. Wuest will continue discussions and work on the language before bringing it back before the Board at a future meeting.

On February 17, 2023, The Utah Board of Pharmacy issued a citation for failure to timely notify the Board of the change in designated representative at the Baxter Byhalia, MS location. Baxter paid the fine and is waiting for the final signed order.

Utah, Pharmacy Class C License # 9451291-1710, 2022

On May 31, 2022, The Utah Department of Commerce issued a Citation and Order due to a failure to file a timely notification of the change in the designated representative at the Baxter - Hayward (W. Winton) location. Baxter resolved the matter and paid a reduced fine.

Idaho, Out of State Mail Service Pharmacy License # 36855MS, 2022

On March 3, 2022, The Idaho Board of Pharmacy issued an Order and Stipulation for violations stemming from an expired non-resident PIC registration. The registration has since been approved by the Board. Baxter has signed the Stipulation and paid the required fine.

Alabama, Permit #194460, 2022

On May 3, 2022, The Alabama Board of Pharmacy issued a citation for failure to notify the Board of the change in designated representative at the Baxter – Hayward (W. Winton location). Baxter resolved the matter and paid the required fine.

Georgia, Wholesaler Pharmacy License # PHWH001754, 2017

In January 2017, Baxter Healthcare Corporation (Baxter) agreed to resolve claims with the U.S. Department of Justice related to quality and manufacturing practices at Baxter's manufacturing facility in Marion, North Carolina in 2011-2012. Specifically, the government charged that between July 2011 and November 2012, Baxter did not follow cGMP requirements under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FDCA) when manufacturing certain large volume intravenous (IV) solutions. Briefly, a Baxter employee reported to plant personnel the presence of mold on HEPA filters installed in the ceiling, and Baxter continued to manufacture IV solutions while those filters remained in place. There was no evidence of any impact on the IV solutions. Copies of the settlement documents, which include a deferred prosecution agreement to resolve a single misdemeanor count of noncompliance with the FDCA, are available on the U.S. Department of Justice's website at https://www.justice.gov/opa/pr/baxter-healthcare-corporation-pay-more-18-million-resolve-criminal-and-civil-liability. The deferred prosecution agreement expired in July 2019, and the misdemeanor charge was dismissed with prejudice. This issue is unrelated to Baxter's pharmacy or wholesale activities.

Baxter disclosed this issue on a renewal application for a Georgia wholesale license for its Marion, NC facility, and in October 2017, the state of Georgia issued a disciplinary order against that license (PHWH001754) based on the disclosure.

Please note that this issue is unrelated to Baxter's pharmacy or wholesale activities.

Iowa, Nonresident Pharmacy License # 4127, 2014

The Iowa Board of Pharmacy (the "Iowa Board") issued a Stipulation for Baxter's Omaha, Nebraska pharmacy due to improperly delegating final verification of prescriptions for peritoneal dialysis solutions to a pharmacy technician. The Omaha facility is licensed in Nebraska under a Delegated Dispensing Permit, and utilized multiple quality checks, including retrospective pharmacist review, to ensure proper dispensing of peritoneal dialysis products to patients. Upon request by the Iowa Board, Baxter promptly modified its operations to ensure pharmacist verification of all orders. Baxter has signed the Stipulation and paid the required fine.

Montana, License #2152, 2010

The Montana Board of Pharmacy (the "Montana Board") issued a Stipulation for violations stemming from the failure of Baxter to notify the Montana Board in the requisite time frame of a change in the designated Person-in-Charge for the Waukegan, IL facility. Baxter has signed the Stipulation and paid the required fine.

Alabama, License #191639, 2009

The Alabama Board of Pharmacy found the Buford, GA facility was in violation of Code of Alabama (1975) Section 34-23-32. The facility continued distribution operations during the time between the valid license expired and when the expired license was renewed. Baxter Healthcare renewed the license, signed a Consent Order and paid the applicable fine.

Florida, Non-Resident Drug Manufacturer Permit No.: 26:4672, 2009

The Florida Department of Health (the "Florida Department") alleged that Baxter (Memphis, TN) sold prescription drugs to an unpermitted facility in Florida in violation of Section 499.005(15), F.S. Specifically, the Florida Department alleged that Baxter sold prescription drugs to Invivo at an unpermitted location. Baxter entered into a settlement agreement, whereby it neither admitted nor denied the allegations, and paid a fine.

Louisiana, License #3691, 2008

Louisiana Board of Wholesale Drug Distributors conducted a routine inspection of the facility operated by Baxter's third party logistics provider. Inspectors concluded Baxter (Round Lake, IL) violated Louisiana Administrative Code 46:XCI.311.D, which requires a licensee to maintain copies of current licenses for its customers who are authorized to obtain and possess legend drugs and devices. Baxter obtained customer licenses, signed a Consent Order, and paid the applicable fine.

Missouri, License #2005002668, 2005

The Missouri Board of Pharmacy (the "Missouri Board") issued a restricted drug distributor license to the facility located in Memphis, TN. The Missouri Board determined the facility violated Section 338.333.1 and 338.337.1 RSMo because the facility shipped legend drugs and/or medical devices into the state without being properly licensed. The proper license was obtained. The probationary period was successfully completed on October 21, 2007 and the restriction on the license was removed.

State Non-Disciplinary Settlements for Memphis Facility

Florida, License #s 26:506 (Memphis, TN) and 26:384 (Marion, NC), 2015

In June 2015, the Florida Department of Business and Professional Regulation (the "Department") sent Notices of Violation to Baxter alleging the shipment of prescription drugs to a Baptist Health South Florida, Inc. ("Baptist"), prior to Baptist receiving its permit to operate as a restricted prescription drug distributor – health care entity. Baxter had shipped products to the Baptist address under the valid medical license of the Medical Director, in reliance on a document evidencing the Medical Director's intent that he serve as the purchaser of the product. In August 2015, Baxter and the Department resolved this matter via a non-disciplinary settlement.

Other Actions: Dismissed Charge of Drug Law Violation

In January 2017, Baxter Healthcare Corporation (Baxter) agreed to resolve claims with the U.S. Department of Justice related to quality and manufacturing practices at Baxter's manufacturing facility in Marion, North Carolina in 2011-2012. Specifically, the government charged that between July 2011 and November 2012, Baxter did not follow cGMP requirements under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FDCA) when manufacturing certain large volume intravenous (IV) solutions. Briefly, a Baxter employee reported to plant personnel the presence of mold on HEPA filters installed in the ceiling, and Baxter continued to manufacture IV solutions while those filters remained in place. There was no evidence of any impact on the IV solutions. Copies of the settlement documents, which include a deferred prosecution agreement to resolve a single misdemeanor count of noncompliance with the FDCA, are available on the U.S. Department of Justice's website at https://www.justice.gov/opa/pr/baxter-healthcare-corporation-pay-more-18-million-resolve-criminal-and-civil-liability. The deferred prosecution agreement expired in July 2019, and the misdemeanor charge was dismissed with prejudice.

Please note that this issue is unrelated to Baxter's pharmacy or wholesale activities, or the facility that is the subject of this application.

499.015 Registration of drugs and devices; issuance of certificates of free sale.—

(1)(a) Except for those persons exempted from the definition of manufacturer in s. 499.003, any person who manufactures, packages, repackages, labels, or relabels a drug or device in this state must register such drug or device biennially with the department; pay a fee in accordance with the fee schedule provided by s. 499.041; and comply with this section. The registrant must list each separate and distinct drug or device at the time of registration.

(b) The department may not register any product that does not comply with the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, as amended, or Title 21 C.F.R. Registration of a product by the department does not mean that the product does in fact comply with all provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, as amended.

(2) The department may require the submission of a catalog and specimens of labels at the time of application for registration of drugs or devices packaged and prepared in compliance with the federal act, which submission constitutes a satisfactory compliance for registration of the products. With respect to all other drugs and devices, the department may require the submission of a catalog and specimens of labels at the time of application for registration, but the registration will not become effective until the department has examined and approved the label of the drug or device. This approval or denial must include written notification to the manufacturer.

(3) Except for those persons exempted from the definition of manufacturer in s. 499.003, a person may not sell any product that he or she has failed to register in conformity with this section. Such failure to register subjects such drug or device to seizure and condemnation as provided in s. 499.062, and subjects such person to the penalties and remedies provided in this part.

(4) Unless a registration is renewed, it expires 2 years after the last day of the month in which it was issued. Any product registration issued or renewed on or after July 1, 2016, shall expire on the same date as the manufacturer or repackager permit of the person seeking to register the product. If the first product registration issued to a person on or after July 1, 2016, expires less than 366 days after issuance, the fee for product registration shall be $15. If the first product registration issued to a person on or after July 1, 2016, expires more than 365 days after issuance, the fee for product registration shall be $30. The department may issue a stop-sale notice or order against a person that is subject to the requirements of this section and that fails to comply with this section within 31 days after the date the registration expires. The notice or order shall prohibit such person from selling or causing to be sold any drugs or devices covered by this part until he or she complies with the requirements of this section.

(5) A product regulated under this section which is not included in the biennial registration may not be sold until it is registered and complies with this section.

(6) The department may issue a certificate of free sale for any product that is required to be registered under this part.

(7) A product registration is valid only for the company named on the registration and located at the address on the registration. A person whose product is registered by the department under this section must notify the department before any change in the name or address of the establishment to which the product is registered. If a person whose product is registered ceases conducting business, the person must notify the department before closing the business.

(8) Notwithstanding any requirements set forth in this part, a manufacturer of medical devices that is registered with the federal Food and Drug Administration is exempt from this section and s. 499.041(6) if:

(a) The manufacturer's medical devices are approved for marketing by, or listed with the federal Food and Drug Administration in accordance with federal law for commercial distribution; or

(b) The manufacturer subcontracts with a manufacturer of medical devices to manufacture components of such devices.

(9) However, the manufacturer must submit evidence of such registration, listing, or approval with its initial application for a permit to do business in this state, as required in s. 499.01, and any changes to such information previously submitted at the time of renewal of the permit. Evidence of approval, listing, and registration by the federal Food and Drug Administration must include:

(a) For Class II devices, a copy of the premarket notification letter (510K);

(b) For Class III devices, a federal Food and Drug Administration premarket approval number;

(c) For a manufacturer who subcontracts with a manufacturer of medical devices to manufacture components of such devices, a federal Food and Drug Administration registration number; or

(d) For a manufacturer of medical devices whose devices are exempt from premarket approval by the federal Food and Drug Administration, a federal Food and Drug Administration registration number.

B. Subject to the contingency as to implementation in s. 11, ch. 2019-99, s. 8, ch. 2019-99, amends subsection (1), to read:

(1)(a) Except for those persons exempted from the definition of manufacturer in s. 499.003, any person who manufactures, packages, repackages, labels, or relabels a drug or device in this state must register such drug or device biennially with the department; pay a fee in accordance with the fee schedule provided by s. 499.041; and comply with this section. RE: Licensing activity related to Baxter Healthcare and the legal separation of its Kidney Care business, resulting in the attached Vantive US Healthcare LLC Medical Devices License Application

To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is intended to provide you with supporting background information for the attached Medical Devices for Vantive US Healthcare LLC.

In early 2023, Baxter International Inc. publicly announced the intention to separate its Kidney Care (renal and acute therapies) business into a new, independent, publicly traded company– the name of this new company is Vantive. The final separation is planned for mid-year 2024, subject to customary closing conditions and receipt of regulatory approvals.

A new legal entity, Vantive US Healthcare LLC, has been formed as a first step in the legal separation. Vantive US Healthcare LLC is currently a subsidiary of Baxter Healthcare Corporation, which is a subsidiary of Baxter International, Inc.. Vantive US Healthcare LLC will remain an indirect subsidary of Baxter International, Inc. until the final separation of the two companies mid year 2024. However, prior to that final separation and starting on February 1, 2024, sales for the Kidney Care products will be through Vantive US Healthcare LLC.[1]

Baxter Healthcare Corporation currently sells these theraputic products, which are used in the treament of end stage kidney disease, directly to patients at home. For this reason Baxter Healthcare Corporation is currently licensed in your state as a Medical Devices MP00799. The activities of Vantive US Healthcare LLC will be no different than those currently occurring with the existing Baxter Healthcare Corporation Medical Devices, therefore there should be no distinction between the existing Baxter Healthcare Corporation license and the attached application for Vantive US Healthcare, LLC.

We are providing this notification as we are requesting assistance by the state to ensure issuance of the attached license prior to February 1, 2024 in order to guarantee continuity of product supply to patients. Please contact me if there are any additional questions or concerns.

Sincerely,

LaToyia M. Martin
Manager, Quality Compliance

COMPLAINT OF DEBTOR-IN-POSSESSION TO AVOID AND RECOVER PREFERENCE TRANSFERS AND PURSUANT TO 11 U.S.C. §§ 547 AND 550; TO DISALLOW ANY AND ALL PROOFS OF CLAIMS FILED OR TO BE FILED BY DEFENDANT; AND FOR COSTS, REASONABLE ATTORNEY FEES AND OTHER RELIEF

NOW COMES GYPC, Inc., successor by merger to US Motivation, Inc., formerly known as General Yellow Pages Consultants, Inc. and formerly doing business as Marquette Group, the Chapter 11 Debtor-In-Possession ("Plaintiff" or "Debtor") herein, by and through counsel, and pursuant to Rule 7001 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, hereby brings this Complaint against the Defendant listed in the above caption ("Defendant") and states and avers as follows:

BACKGROUND OF THE CONTROVERSY

1. This Court has jurisdiction over this proceeding pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1334. This adversary proceeding arises under Title 11 of the United States Code and arises in or is related to the above-captioned Chapter 11 case now pending before the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of Ohio, Western Division at Dayton, and has been referred to this Court by the Standing Order of Reference entered in this District on July 30, 1984 pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157. This is alleged to be a core proceeding, inter alia, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(A), (E), (F), (H), and (O).

2. Defendant herein is subject to the personal jurisdiction of this Court and venue lies with the Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1409. Defendant's proper notice address for service is listed in the above caption.

3. Debtor, as Debtor-In-Possession, has standing to bring this proceeding pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 547 and 550. The Debtor's mailing address is listed in the caption.

4. Debtor filed this Chapter 11 Bankruptcy case on March 30, 2017 (the "Petition Date").

5. Within ninety (90) days before the Petition Date, or, to the extent the Defendant is determined to be an "insider," within the one year before the Petition Date (the "Preference Period"), the Debtor transferred funds and/or property to or for the benefit of the Defendant. All transfers made at anytime to or for the benefit of the Defendant within the Preference Period are hereinafter referred to as the "Transfers."

6. The known Transfers are in the amount listed on Exhibit A attached hereto. The total of all Transfers from the Debtor to the Defendant is believed to be in excess of the known Transfers listed on Exhibit "A." Therefore, the Plaintiff alleges the Defendant is also liable for the amount of unknown Transfers in an amount to be determined through discovery in this matter.

7. At the time the Defendant received each of the Transfers, the Debtor was insolvent.

8. At the time the Defendant received each of the Transfers, the Defendant had actual or constructive knowledge of, or is estopped from denying having knowledge of, the Debtor's insolvency.

9. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF – SECTION 547 AVOIDANCE OF PREFERENCE TRANSFERS

10. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates the foregoing paragraphs as if fully rewritten herein.

11. The Plaintiff is entitled to avoid all transfers to the Defendant made during the Preference Period.

12. The Defendant is a pre-petition creditor of the Debtor.

13. Within the Preference Period, the Debtor made the Transfers, which were payments or other transfers of money or other things of value, constituting property in which the Debtor had an interest, to or for the benefit of the Defendant. The Transfers include all transfers of the Debtor's funds or property in which Debtor owned an interest to or for the benefit of the Defendant within the Preference Period.

14. The Transfers were each a "transfer" of an interest of the Debtor in property to or for the benefit of the Defendant within the meaning of 11 U.S.C. § 547(b).

15. The Transfers were made for or on account of antecedent debt(s) owed by the Debtor to the Defendant before the Transfers were made.

16. The Transfers were each made while the Debtor was insolvent.

17. The Transfers have enabled the Defendant to receive: (1) more than the Defendant would receive under Chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code; (2) if the Transfers had not been made; and (3) the Defendant received payment of such debts to the extent provided by Chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code.

18. As a direct and proximate result of the foregoing, Plaintiff is entitled to avoid all Transfers and recover same from the Defendant for the benefit of the estate, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 547 and 550, in the actual amount of the Transfers, to be determined through discovery, but being not less than the total amount set forth on Exhibit "A."

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF – OBJECTION TO ANY AND ALL PROOFS OF CLAIM FILED OR TO BE FILED BY DEFENDANT

19. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates the foregoing paragraphs as if fully rewritten herein.

20. Based on the foregoing, Plaintiff hereby objects, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502 and Rules 3007, 7001, and 9014 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, to any and all proof of claim filed or to be filed by the Defendant and asks the Court to disallow same. As used herein, the term "Claim" shall include without limitation, both pre and post-petition claims of Defendant, including any claimed administrative expense payable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 503.

21. Alternatively, based on the foregoing, Plaintiff hereby requests that the Court disallow any and all claims whatsoever of Defendant unless and until Defendant returns all monies due to Plaintiff, as provided by 11 U.S.C. § 502.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF – INTEREST, REASONABLE ATTORNEY FEES AND OTHER RELIEF

22. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates the foregoing paragraphs as if fully rewritten herein.

23. Plaintiff is entitled to recover from Defendant prejudgment interest and its costs and expenses incurred in connection with bringing this adversary proceeding, including all reasonable attorneys' fees as well as any other relief, legal or equitable, that this Court determines is appropriate.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff, based upon the foregoing, demands judgment against the Defendant on its claims for relief as follows:

A. On the First Claim for the Relief, for an Order declaring all Transfers to or for the benefit of the Defendant to be avoidable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 547 and ordering avoidance and repayment of said monies from the Defendant to the Plaintiff pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §550; and

B. On the Second Claim for Relief, for an Order pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 502 and Rule 3007 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure disallowing in full any and all claims of Defendant whatsoever, filed or unfiled, until the Defendant has returned to the estate all transfer that are avoidable under 11 U.S.C. §§ 547 and/or 548; and

C. On the Third Claim for Relief, prejudgment interest, attorney's fees and costs, the total amount of which is as yet undetermined.

Respectfully submitted,

You have 30 CALENDAR DAYS after this summons and legal papers are served on you to file a written response at this court and have a copy served on the plaintiff. A letter or phone call will not protect you. Your written response must be in proper legal form if you want the court to hear your case. There may be a court form that you can use for your response. You can find these court forms and more information at the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), your county law library, or the courthouse nearest you. If you cannot pay the filing fee, ask the court clerk for a fee waiver form. If you do not file your response on time, you may lose the case by default, and your wages, money, and property may be taken without further warning from the court.

There are other legal requirements. You may want to call an attorney right away. If you do not know an attorney, you may want to call an attorney referral service. If you cannot afford an attorney, you may be eligible for free legal services from a nonprofit legal services program. You can locate these nonprofit groups at the California Legal Services Web site (www.lawhelpcalifornia.org), the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), or by contacting your local court or county bar association. Puede encontrar estos formularios de la corte y más información en el Centro de Ayuda de las Cortes de California (www.sucorte.ca.gov), en la biblioteca de leyes de su condado o en la corte que le quede más cerca. Si no puede pagar la cuota de presentación, pida al secretario de la corte que le dé un formulario de exención de pago de cuotas. INSTRUCTIONS ON HOW TO COMPLETE THE COVER SHEET

To Plaintiffs and Others Filing First Papers. If you are filing a first paper (for example, a complaint) in a civil case, you must complete and file, along with your first paper, the Civil Case Cover Sheet contained on page 1. This information will be used to compile statistics about the types and numbers of cases filed. You must complete items 1 through 6 on the sheet. In item 1, you must check one box for the case type that best describes the case. If the case fits both a general and a more specific type of case listed in item 1, check the more specific one. If the case has multiple causes of action, check the box that best indicates the primary cause of action. To assist you in completing the sheet, examples of the cases that belong under each case type in item 1 are provided below. A cover sheet must be filed only with your initial paper. Failure to file a cover sheet with the first paper filed in a civil case may subject a party, its counsel, or both to sanctions under rules 2.30 and 3.220 of the California Rules of Court.

To Parties in Rule 3.740 Collections Cases. A "collections case" under rule 3.740 is defined as an action for recovery of money owed in a sum stated to be certain that is not more than $25,000, exclusive of interest and attorney's fees, arising from a transaction in which property, services, or money was acquired on credit. A collections case does not include an action seeking the following: (1) tort damages, (2) punitive damages, (3) recovery of real property, (4) recovery of personal property, or (5) a prejudgment writ of attachment. The identification of a case as a rule 3.740 collections case on this form means that it will be exempt from the general time-for-service requirements and case management rules, unless a defendant files a responsive pleading. A rule 3.740 collections case will be subject to the requirements for service and obtaining a judgment in rule 3.740.

To Parties in Complex Cases. In complex cases only, parties must also use the Civil Case Cover Sheet to designate whether the case is complex. If a plaintiff believes the case is complex under rule 3.400 of the California Rules of Court, this must be indicated by completing the appropriate boxes in items 1 and 2. If a plaintiff designates a case as complex, the cover sheet must be served with the complaint on all parties to the action. A defendant may file and serve no later than the time of its first appearance a joinder in the plaintiff's designation, a counter-designation that the case is not complex, or, if the plaintiff has made no designation, a designation that the case is complex.

Plaintiff perfected its security interest in the accounts receivable by two (2) UCC-1 Financing Statement filings with the California Secretary of State on May 20, 2012.

12. Plaintiff has demanded that defendants, and each of them, pay to plaintiff all of the amounts owed to Global Publishing, Inc. and/or GP Distribution, but defendants, and each of them, have refused to pay plaintiff.

13. As of October 31, 2012, defendant ALOM TECHNOLOGIES CORPORATION owes plaintiff the sum of $41,140.52, which sum has not been paid, in part or in full, and there is now due and owing to the plaintiff the sum of $41,140.52, plus interest at the rate of one percent (1%) per month until paid.

14. As of October 31, 2012, defendant DANA VIDEO MEDIA, INC. owes plaintiff the sum of $81,335.85, which sum has not been paid, in part or in full, and there is now due and owing to the plaintiff the sum of $81,335.85, plus interest at the rate of one percent (1%) per month until paid.

15. As of October 31, 2012, defendant MEDIA BLASTER, INC. owes plaintiff the sum of $102,916.00, which sum has not been paid, in part or in full, and there is now due and owing to the plaintiff the sum of $102,916.00, plus interest at the rate of one percent (1%) per month until paid.

16. As of October 31, 2012, defendant INNERWORKING, INC. owes plaintiff the sum of $45,089.00, which sum has not been paid, in part or in full, and there is now due and owing to the plaintiff the sum of $45,089.00, plus interest at the rate of one percent (1%) per month until paid.

17. Plaintiff is also entitled to costs and attorney's fees pursuant to the agreement.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Specific Performance)

18. Plaintiff repeats, re-alleges, and incorporates by reference, all other paragraphs.

19. On or about May 18, 2012, for valuable consideration, Global Publishing, Inc. executed a written Promissory Note in favor of plaintiff for a line of credit/loan up to the principal sum of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000.00), bearing interest at the rate of six percent (6%) per annum and requiring timely payments. To secure payment of the principal and interest as provided in the Promissory Note, the note is collateralized by all of the trade accounts receivable, including but not limited to all receivables of Global Publishing, Inc. and its subsidiary, GP Distribution Group.

20. Global Publishing, Inc. defaulted on the Note on August 30, 2012, which entitles plaintiff to collect the accounts receivable from defendants. Plaintiff perfected its security interest in the accounts receivable by two (2) UCC-1 Financing Statement filings with the California Secretary of State on May 20, 2012.

21. Plaintiff has demanded that defendants, and each of them, pay to plaintiff all of the amounts owed to either Global Publishing, Inc. and/or GP Distribution, a subsidiary of Global Publishing, Inc., but defendants, and each of them, have refused to pay plaintiff.

22. As of October 31, 2012, defendant ALOM TECHNOLOGIES CORPORATION owes plaintiff the sum of $41,140.52, which sum has not been paid, in part or in full, and there is now due and owing to the plaintiff the sum of $41,140.52, plus interest at the rate of one percent (1%) per month until paid.

23. As of October 31, 2012, defendant DANA VIDEO MEDIA, INC. owes plaintiff the sum of $81,335.85, which sum has not been paid, in part or in full, and there is now due and owing to the plaintiff the sum of $81,335.85, plus interest at the rate of one percent (1%) per month until paid.

24. As of October 31, 2012, defendant MEDIA BLASTER, INC. owes plaintiff the sum of $102,916.00, which sum has not been paid, in part or in full, and there is now due and owing to the plaintiff the sum of $102,916.00, plus interest at the rate of one percent (1%) per month until paid.

25. As of October 31, 2012, defendant INNERWORKING, INC. owes plaintiff the sum of $45,089.00, which sum has not been paid, in part or in full, and there is now due and owing to the plaintiff the sum of $45,089.00, plus interest at the rate of one percent (1%) per month until paid.

26. Plaintiff is also entitled to costs and attorney's fees pursuant to the agreement.

27. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law to enforce the foregoing security interest pursuant to the secured loans.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
(Declaratory Relief)

28. Plaintiff repeats, re-alleges, and incorporates by reference, all other paragraphs.

29. An actual controversy has arisen and now exists between plaintiff and defendants concerning their respective rights and duties in that plaintiff contends that defendants must pay to plaintiff all amounts owed by defendants to Global Publishing, Inc.

and/or its subsidiary GP Distribution Group, whereas defendants dispute these contentions and contend that they are not required to pay plaintiff said amounts owed.

30. Plaintiff desires a judicial determination of its rights and obligations, and a declaration that plaintiff is entitled to the full sums owed by defendants to Global Publishing, Inc. and its subsidiary GP Distribution Group as set forth herein.

31. A judicial declaration is necessary and appropriate at this time under the circumstances in order that plaintiff may ascertain its rights and obligations and to prevent such further losses of capital and interest on the monies owed, and the costs and fees incurred to collect said monies owed, and to settle all claims as between the parties hereto.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays for judgment against the defendants, and each of them, as follows:

1. For a judicial determination that plaintiff is entitled to all of the monies owed by the defendants, and each of them, to Global Publishing, Inc. and/or its subsidiary GP Distribution Group pursuant to the secured loans and California Commercial Code §9-406 and 9-607, and that such amounts owed are to be paid directly to plaintiff;

2. For judgment in favor of plaintiff in the principal sum of $41,140.52 against defendant ALOM TECHNOLOGIES CORPORATION;

3. For judgment in favor of plaintiff in the principal sum of $81,335.85 against defendant DANA VIDEO MEDIA, INC.;

4. For judgment in favor of plaintiff in the principal sum of $102,916.00 against defendant MEDIA BLASTER, INC.;

5. For judgment in favor of plaintiff in the principal sum of $45,089.00 against defendant INNERWORKING, INC.;

6. For the appointment of a receiver to collect any and all accounts payable by defendants for product supplied to defendants by Global Publishing, Inc. and/or its subsidiary GP Distribution Group in connection with the invoices submitted to defendants for the product delivered;

7. For interest on the monies owed;

8. For reasonable attorney's fees;

9. For costs of suit incurred herein; and

10. For such other and further relief as the court deems just and proper.

Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Information Packet

The person who files a civil lawsuit (plaintiff) must include the ADR Information Packet with the complaint when serving the defendant. Cross complainants must serve the ADR Information Packet on any new parties named to the action.

The Court strongly encourages the parties to use some form of ADR before proceeding to trial. You may choose ADR by:

- Indicating your preference on Case Management Form CM-110;
- Filing the Stipulation to ADR and Delay Initial Case Management Conference for 90 Days (a local form included with the information packet); or
- Agree to ADR at your Initial Case Management Conference.

Or visit the court's website at http://www.alameda.courts.ca.gov/adr

What Are The Advantages Of Using ADR?

- Faster – Litigation can take years to complete but ADR usually takes weeks or months.
- Cheaper – Parties can save on attorneys' fees and litigation costs.
- More control and flexibility – Parties choose the ADR process appropriate for their case.
- Cooperative and less stressful – In mediation, parties cooperate to find a mutually agreeable resolution.
- Preserve Relationships – A mediator can help you effectively communicate your interests and point of view to the other side. This is an important benefit when you want to preserve a relationship.

What Is The Disadvantage Of Using ADR?

- You may go to court anyway – If you cannot resolve your dispute using ADR, you may still have to spend time and money resolving your lawsuit through the courts.

What ADR Options Are Available?

- Mediation – A neutral person (mediator) helps the parties communicate, clarify facts, identify legal issues, explore settlement options, and agree on a solution that is acceptable to all sides.
  - Court Mediation Program: Mediators do not charge fees for the first two hours of mediation. If parties need more time, they must pay the mediator's regular fees.

Some mediators ask for a deposit before mediation starts which is subject to a refund for unused time.

- Private Mediation: This is mediation where the parties pay the mediator's regular fees and may choose a mediator outside the court's panel.

- Arbitration – A neutral person (arbitrator) hears arguments and evidence from each side and then decides the outcome of the dispute. Arbitration is less formal than a trial and the rules of evidence are often relaxed. Arbitration is effective when the parties want someone other than themselves to decide the outcome.

  - Judicial Arbitration Program (non-binding): The judge can refer a case or the parties can agree to use judicial arbitration. The parties select an arbitrator from a list provided by the court. If the parties cannot agree on an arbitrator, one will be assigned by the court. There is no fee for the arbitrator. The arbitrator must send the decision (award of the arbitrator) to the court. The parties have the right to reject the award and proceed to trial.

  - Private Arbitration (binding and non-binding) occurs when parties involved in a dispute either agree or are contractually obligated. This option takes place outside of the courts and is normally binding meaning the arbitrator's decision is final.

INSTRUCTIONS ON HOW TO COMPLETE THE COVER SHEET

To Plaintiffs and Others Filing First Papers. If you are filing a first paper (for example, a complaint) in a civil case, you must complete and file, along with your first paper, the Civil Case Cover Sheet contained on page 1. This information will be used to compile statistics about the types and numbers of cases filed. You must complete items 1 through 6 on the sheet. In item 1, you must check one box for the case type that best describes the case. If the case fits both a general and a more specific type of case listed in item 1, check the more specific one. If the case has multiple causes of action, check the box that best indicates the primary cause of action. To assist you in completing the sheet, examples of the cases that belong under each case type in item 1 are provided below. A cover sheet must be filed only with your initial paper. Failure to file a cover sheet with the first paper filed in a civil case may subject a party, its counsel, or both to sanctions under rules 2.30 and 3.220 of the California Rules of Court.

To Parties in Rule 3.740 Collections Cases. A "collections case" under rule 3.740 is defined as an action for recovery of money owed in a sum stated to be certain that is not more than $25,000, exclusive of interest and attorney's fees, arising from a transaction in which property, services, or money was acquired on credit. A collections case does not include an action seeking the following: (1) tort damages, (2) punitive damages, (3) recovery of real property, (4) recovery of personal property, or (5) a prejudgment writ of attachment. The identification of a case as a rule 3.740 collections case on this form means that it will be exempt from the general time-for-service requirements and case management rules, unless a defendant files a responsive pleading. A rule 3.740 collections case will be subject to the requirements for service and obtaining a judgment in rule 3.740.

To Parties in Complex Cases. In complex cases only, parties must also use the Civil Case Cover Sheet to designate whether the case is complex. If a plaintiff believes the case is complex under rule 3.400 of the California Rules of Court, this must be indicated by completing the appropriate boxes in items 1 and 2. If a plaintiff designates a case as complex, the cover sheet must be served with the complaint on all parties to the action. A defendant may file and serve no later than the time of its first appearance a joinder in the plaintiff's designation, a counter-designation that the case is not complex, or, if the plaintiff has made no designation, a designation that the case is complex.

Superior Court of California, County of Alameda
Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Information Packet

The person who files a civil lawsuit (plaintiff) must include the ADR Information Packet with the complaint when serving the defendant. Cross complainants must serve the ADR Information Packet on any new parties named to the action.

The Court strongly encourages the parties to use some form of ADR before proceeding to trial. You may choose ADR by:

- Indicating your preference on Case Management Form CM-110;
- Filing the Stipulation to ADR and Delay Initial Case Management Conference for 90 Days (a local form included with the information packet); or
- Agree to ADR at your Initial Case Management Conference.

Or visit the court's website at http://www.alameda.courts.ca.gov/adr

What Are The Advantages Of Using ADR?

- Faster –Litigation can take years to complete but ADR usually takes weeks or months.
- Cheaper – Parties can save on attorneys' fees and litigation costs.
- More control and flexibility – Parties choose the ADR process appropriate for their case.
- Cooperative and less stressful – In mediation, parties cooperate to find a mutually agreeable resolution.
- Preserve Relationships – A mediator can help you effectively communicate your interests and point of view to the other side. This is an important benefit when you want to preserve a relationship.

What Is The Disadvantage Of Using ADR?

- You may go to court anyway – If you cannot resolve your dispute using ADR, you may still have to spend time and money resolving your lawsuit through the courts.

What ADR Options Are Available?

- Mediation – A neutral person (mediator) helps the parties communicate, clarify facts, identify legal issues, explore settlement options, and agree on a solution that is acceptable to all sides.
  - Court Mediation Program: Mediators do not charge fees for the first two hours of mediation. If parties need more time, they must pay the mediator's regular fees.

Some mediators ask for a deposit before mediation starts which is subject to a refund for unused time.

- Private Mediation: This is mediation where the parties pay the mediator's regular fees and may choose a mediator outside the court's panel.

- Arbitration – A neutral person (arbitrator) hears arguments and evidence from each side and then decides the outcome of the dispute. Arbitration is less formal than a trial and the rules of evidence are often relaxed. Arbitration is effective when the parties want someone other than themselves to decide the outcome.

  - Judicial Arbitration Program (non-binding): The judge can refer a case or the parties can agree to use judicial arbitration. The parties select an arbitrator from a list provided by the court. If the parties cannot agree on an arbitrator, one will be assigned by the court. There is no fee for the arbitrator. The arbitrator must send the decision (award of the arbitrator) to the court. The parties have the right to reject the award and proceed to trial.

  - Private Arbitration (binding and non-binding) occurs when parties involved in a dispute either agree or are contractually obligated. This option takes place outside of the courts and is normally binding meaning the arbitrator's decision is final.

During the time period relevant to this Complaint, DEFENDANTS were an employer of PLAINTIFF in that DEFENDANTS employed PLAINTIFF to provide services for wages and exercised control over PLAINTIFF'S wages, hours, and working conditions, as defined and regulated by the Labor Code, the IWC Wage Order, California common law, and within the meaning of FEHA.

18. DEFENDANTS required PLAINTIFF to follow the date/time schedules devised by its supervisors (including but not limited to DARIO, MANPREET, and JUANITA) and perform work at the locations designated by its supervisors/managers (including but not limited to DARIO, MANPREET, and JUANITA). At all times, PLAINTIFF made his best efforts to adhere to the strict standards, policies, and practices established by DEFENDANTS; at all times, DEFENDANTS, by its supervisors (including but not limited to DARIO, MANPREET, and JUANITA, carried out strict oversight with respect to the minute details of PLAINITFF'S daily duties and Plaintiff's adherence to that DEFENDANTS' strict standards, policies, and practices. PLAINTIFF lacked authority or discretion to exercise independent judgment beyond the strict standards, policies, practices, schedules, assignments, and duties set forth by DEFENDANTS.

19. DEFENDANTS' uniform practices and/or treatment of PLAINTIFF required that PLAINTIFF frequently work regular and overtime hours without compensation. Throughout the time period relevant to this Complaint, PLAINTIFF often worked beyond eight (8) hours per day and/or (40) hours per week without legally-required compensation for all of that time, let alone at the overtime rate for all of those hours. Among other things that occurred: (a) one or more of DEFENDANTS' authorized agents instructed PLAINTIFF to perform work "off-the-clock" prior to, during and/or subsequent to his scheduled shift; (b) one or more of each of the DEFENDANTS' authorized agents required PLAINTIFF to perform essential job functions while he was punched-out for his meal, such that PLAINTIFF performed work "off-the-clock." In addition, DEFENDANTS routinely deprived PLAINTIFF of his rightful wages, including overtime pay. On information and belief, PLAINTIFF alleges that DEFENDANTS had the ability to monitor and did monitor the hours worked by PLAINTIFF; DEFENDANTS, therefore, knew or should have known that the PLAINTIFF routinely worked substantial time without compensation, let alone at an overtime rate.

20. During the time period relevant to this Complaint, DEFENDANTS failed to pay PLAINTIFF for all hours worked and paid PLAINTIFF a lower wage than contractually promised and legally required. At all times relevant to this Complaint, DEFENDANTS directly and/or indirectly paid PLAINTIFF less than minimum wage for all times suffered or permitted to work for DEFENDANTS, particularly when evaluating the PLAINTIFF'S hourly wage against his actual work hours and considering hours worked "off-the-clock." DEFENDANTS failed to satisfy minimum wage requirements by secretly paying PLAINTIFF a lower wage while purporting to pay the wage designated by agreement/contract between the parties; this occurred, inter alia, when DEFENDANTS failed to pay the PLAINTIFF for all hours worked, i.e. "off-the-clock" work that was incidental to PLAINTIFF'S daily duties and responsibilities, and DEFENDANTS routinely deprived PLAINTIFF of his rightful wages, including overtime pay.

21. At all times relevant to this Complaint, PLAINTIFF regularly worked sufficient hours to require that he be provided with off-duty meal breaks. However, DEFENDANTS lacked and/or failed to consistently implement a policy requiring that PLAINTIFF be relieved of all duty for an uninterrupted 30-minute off-duty meal period, and PLAINTIFF often lacked an opportunity for a 30-minute, uninterrupted, off-duty meal period during the first 5 hours of his shift with DEFENDANTS. DEFENDANTS, by and through one or more of its supervisors and/or managers, impeded PLAINTIFFS' ability to take an a 30-minute, uninterrupted, off-duty meal period and required PLAINTIFF to perform necessary job functions instead of allowing him the chance to take such meal breaks. Compounding matters, DEFENDANTS consistently deducted time from PLAINTIFF'S wages for an off-duty meal break – even though PLAINTIFF often did not receive a full, 30-minute off-duty meal break - and this improper deduction of time led to further unpaid hours worked, including hours beyond 8 in a day which should have been compensated at any overtime rate. Additionally, DEFENDANTS failed to provide PLAINTIFF with a second 30-minute meal break when PLAINTIFF worked ten (10) or more hours in a day.

22. At all times relevant to the Complaint, PLAINTIFF regularly worked sufficient hours to require that PLAINTIFF be provided with off-duty rest breaks. However, DEFENDANTS lacked and/or failed to consistently implement a policy requiring that PLAINTIFF be relieved of all duty for an uninterrupted 10-minute off-duty rest period, and PLAINTIFF often lacked an opportunity for a 10-minute, uninterrupted, off-duty rest period during the course of his shift, let alone multiple off-duty rest periods on days exceeding 6 hours. DEFENDANTS, by and through its agents, including without limitation supervisors/managers, impeded PLAINTIFF'S ability to take an a 10-minute, uninterrupted, off-duty rest period and required PLAINTIFF to perform necessary job functions instead of allowing him the chance to take such rest periods.

23. At all times relevant to the Complaint, DEFENDANTS required PLAINTIFF to bear necessary job expenses and failed to indemnify or reimburse PLAINTIFF for such expenses. This includes but is not limited to: (b) the cost of cell phone service which was required of PLAINTIFF to perform his daily job duties.

24. During times relevant to the Complaint, flowing from its failures with respect to the compensation and indemnification of PLAINTIFF, as herein alleged, DEFENDANTS regularly failed to timely issue complete and accurate wage statements to PLAINTIFF. Likewise, DEFENDANTS failed to timely remit final payments in full to PLAINTIFF, who no longer works for the DEFENDANTS.

25. PLAINTIFF alleges on information and belief that DEFENDANTS' acts and omissions, as described in this Complaint, violate the Civil Code, Labor Code and the applicable Wage Order. PLAINTIFF on information and belief alleges that DEFENDANTS knew or should have known of the unlawful nature of its acts and omissions, as described in this Complaint – and that such conduct reflects a deliberate scheme to lower payroll costs and gain an unfair workforce advantage, contrary to public policy.

26. PLAINTIFF further alleges on information and belief that such acts and omissions constitute unlawful business practices and amount to policies in violation of FEHA given that they occurred in a continuing and systematic manner over a substantial period of time to the detriment of PLAINTIFF and other employees. Examples of such unlawful acts and omissions that occurred within four (4) years prior of the filing of this Complaint include, without limitation, DEFENDANTS' failure to (i) pay proper wages, including that of overtime wages, "all hours worked," "off-the-clock" hours, and payment of wages at the rate designated by statute or by contract; (ii) indemnify and reimburse expenses incurred in discharging duties; (iii) provide all required code-compliant meal and rest breaks; (iv) pay timely wages upon termination of employment; (v) maintain accurate records and provide and maintain accurate itemized wage statements; (vi) prevent harassment, discrimination and retaliation against persons who engage in protected activities; (vii) prevent harassment, discrimination and retaliation against persons who are members of a protected class; (viii) offer reasonable accommodations of restrictions in light of employee work restrictions; and (ix) prevent discrimination and retaliation against persons who present a medical condition or disability which requires accommodation.

27. PLAINTIFF repeatedly complained to his supervisor, DARIO, MANPREET, and JUANITA, about him not being able to take his rest and lunch breaks; not being able to use his sick leave; the injuries he suffered while working for DEFENDANTS along with the pain associated with those injuries; and not being reimbursed for the use of his cell phone. However, DEFENDANTS never addressed these issues.

28. On or about February 23, 2021, PLAINTIFF injured his left shoulder and lower back while lifting a pallet weighing about 80 lbs. PLAINTIFF reported this incident to his manager, DARIO, immediately. DEFENDANTS failed to refer PLAINTIFF to see a worker's compensation clinic; open a worker's compensation claim; or provide PLAINTIFF with accommodations/modified duties. Rather than providing accommodations/modified duties to PLAINTIFF for the above injuries, DEFENDANT fired PLAINTIFF the day after his injury. PLAINTIFF is still experiencing daily pain and numbness due to the injuries referenced above.

29. DEFENDANTS failed to engage in a good-faith interactive process with PLAINTIFF to explore the accommodation of his medical condition/injury. Instead, PLAINTIFF alleges on information and belief that DEFENDANTS, by and through its respective agents, discriminated against PLAINTIFF and treated him less favorably due to his injury-related disability, work restrictions, and insistence on reasonable accommodation. PLAINTIFF's workplace injuries affected his ability to perform his duties. PLAINTIFF sought an accommodation from DEFENDANTS in order to continue to carry out the core functions of his job without risking further injury.

30. PLAINTIFF is informed and believes that, as a result of PLAINTIFF'S status in a protected class (i.e., injury-related disability/medical condition) and engagement in multiple protected activities, as herein described and including reporting workplace safety and public health issues, DEFENDANTS, by and through one or more of its agents, discriminated against and retaliated against PLAINTIFF. PLAINTIFF asserts on information and belief that PLAINTIFF faced retaliation – specifically termination of his employment – as a direct result of (a) reporting workplace injuries and seeking medical treatment, and (b) subsequently seeking reasonable accommodations and to receive a good-faith interactive process. PLAINTIFF alleges that the aforementioned retaliation was a primary driver of PLAINTIFF's termination.

31. At all times relevant to this Complaint, DEFENDANTS maintained unlawful employment policies and practices for financial gain. During the time period relevant to this Complaint, PLAINTIFF observed, reported, and attempted to prevent unlawful conduct committed by, at the direction of and/ or under the control and supervision of each of the DEFENDANTS. This includes, without limitation: (a) complaining about a lack of proper rest and/or meals breaks; (b) complaining about unpaid hours including overtime; and (c) asserting the right to receive medical care and reasonable accommodations in conjunction with disability/medical conditions resulting from a workplace injury. Examples of such harassment, discrimination, and retaliation include, without limitation:

a) Refusing to provide PLAINTIFF with medical care for his workplace injuries;

b) Refusing to engage in an interactive dialogue with PLAINTIFF to determine what reasonable accommodations he required as a result of his workplace injuries;

c) Failing to provide PLAINTIFF with opportunities for legally-compliant meal and rest breaks;

d) Demanding that PLAINTIFF perform work off-clock;

e) Retaliating against PLAINTIFF by terminating his employment; and

f) Refusing to allow Plaintiff to use his sick leave days.

32. PLAINTIFF alleges, on information and belief, that he was targeted for termination and terminated by DEFENDANTS – despite the fact that he had been a reliable and hardworking employee– due to his protected status (workplace injury-related medical condition/disability) and engagement in multiple protected activities. Throughout his employment, PLAINTIFF performed the duties of his work assignments in a competent and proficient manner; he was at all times ready, willing and able to perform his tasks reliably and capably.

33. PLAINTIFF alleges on information and belief that DARIO, MANPREET, and JUANITA and others acted within the scope of employment and pursuant to the authority given by DEFENDANTS as PLAINTIFF'S managers/supervisors within the meaning of FEHA – and, further, acted for their own personal motives, based on personal bias against PLAINTIFF on the basis of PLAINTIFF'S medical condition/disability, and engagement in protected activities (i.e. advocating for reasonable accommodation, complaining about unlawful policies and practices, reporting unsafe working conditions) – while undertaking the actions and omissions herein alleged.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

Failure to Pay Wages & Overtime Wages (Violation of Labor Code §§ 510, 1194, 1198 and IWC Wage Order "Hours and Days of Work" Section)
(Alleged by PLAINTIFF against DEFENDANTS, and all applicable DOES 1-30)

34. PLAINTIFF re-alleges and incorporates herein by this reference the allegations in each and every paragraph above, as though fully set forth herein.

35. At all relevant times hereto, PLAINTIFF was a non-exempt employee of DEFENDANTS under the laws of the State of California within the meaning of the Labor Code and Wage Order.

36. Labor Code § 510 provides in pertinent part: "Eight hours of labor constitutes a day's work. Any work in excess of 8 hours in one workday and any work in excess of 40 hours in any one workweek and the first eight hours worked on the seventh day of work in any one workweek shall be compensated at the rate of no less than one and one-half times the regular rate of pay for an employee. Any work in excess of 12 hours in one day shall be compensated at the rate of no less than twice the regular rate of pay for an employee. In addition, any work in excess of eight hours on any seventh day of a workweek shall be compensated at the rate of no less than twice the regular rate of pay of an employee."

37. Labor Code § 1198 states: "The maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor fixed by the commission shall be the maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor for employees. The employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful."

38. The "Hours and Days of Work" section of the applicable Wage Order provides as a standard of conditions of labor that employees be paid at least the applicable overtime wage for all hours suffered or permitted to work respectively.

39. Labor Code § 1194 states "Notwithstanding any agreement to work for a lesser wage, any employee receiving less than the legal minimum wage or the legal overtime compensation applicable to the employee is entitled to recover in a civil action the unpaid balance of the full amount of his minimum wage or overtime compensation, including interest thereon, reasonable attorney's fees and costs of suit."

40. DEFENDANTS' uniform practices and/or treatment of PLAINTIFF required that PLAINTIFF frequently work regular and overtime hours without compensation. Throughout the time period relevant to this Complaint, and during PLAINTIFF'S employment period, PLAINTIFF often worked beyond eight (8) hours per day and/or (40) hours per week without legally-required compensation for all of that time, let alone at any overtime rate. Among other things that occurred: (a) one or more of DEFENDANTS' authorized agents instructed PLAINTIFF to perform work "off-the-clock" prior to, during and/or subsequent to his scheduled shift; (b) one or more of each of the DEFENDANTS' authorized agents required PLAINTIFF to perform essential job functions while he was punched-out for his meal, such that PLAINTIFF performed work "off-the-clock." In addition, DEFENDANTS routinely deprived PLAINTIFF of his rightful wages, including overtime pay. On information and belief, PLAINTIFF alleges that DEFENDANTS had the ability to monitor and did monitor the hours worked by PLAINTIFF; DEFENDANTS, therefore, knew or should have known that the PLAINTIFF routinely worked substantial time without compensation, let alone at an overtime rate.

41. During the time period relevant to this Complaint, DEFENDANTS failed to pay PLAINTIFF for all hours worked and paid PLAINTIFF a lower wage than contractually promised and legally required. At all times relevant to this Complaint, DEFENDANTS directly and/or indirectly paid PLAINTIFF less than minimum wage for all times suffered or permitted to work for DEFENDANTS, particularly when evaluating the PLAINTIFF'S hourly wage against his actual work hours and considering hours worked "off-the-clock." DEFENDANTS failed to satisfy minimum wage requirements by secretly paying PLAINTIFF a lower wage while purporting to pay the wage designated by agreement/contract between the parties; this occurred, inter alia, when DEFENDANTS failed to pay PLAINTIFF for all hours worked, i.e. "off-the-clock" work that was incidental to PLAINTIFF'S daily duties and responsibilities and DEFENDANTS routinely deprived PLAINTIFF of his rightful wages.

42. By its conduct during the applicable statutory period, including but not limited to the conduct herein described (which includes but is not limited to matters alleged on information and belief), DEFENDANTS failed and refused to pay PLAINTIFF proper compensation for all hours worked, including without limitation overtime compensation for all overtime hours worked, and in the manner required by California law, in violation of Labor Code §§ 510, 1194, and 1198 as well as the applicable Wage Order.

43. As a direct result of DEFENDANTS' violations, as herein alleged, PLAINTIFF has suffered and continues to suffer substantial losses including, but not limited, to the use and enjoyment of such wages, lost interest on such monies and expenses and attorney's fees and costs in seeking to compel DEFENDANTS to fully perform on its obligations under state law, all to his damage in amounts according to proof at trial and within the jurisdictional limitations of this Court.

44. PLAINTIFF seeks to recover in a civil action to the fullest extent permissible all available remedies including but not limited to all monies that DEFENDANTS should have lawfully paid, penalties, interest, reasonable attorney's fees and costs of suit, and any other permitted remedies including those permitted pursuant to the Labor Code §§510, 1194, 1198 and Code of Civil Procedure §§ 1021.5. The exact amount of the applicable penalties is an amount to be shown according to proof at trial and within the jurisdictional limits of the Court.

WHEREFORE, PLAINTIFF prays for judgment as hereinafter set forth.

(Violation of Labor Code §§223,1197, 1198 and IWC Wage Order "Hours and Days of Work" and "Minimum Wage" Sections)
(Alleged by PLAINTIFF against DEFENDANTS, and all applicable DOES 1-30)

45. PLAINTIFF re-alleges and incorporates herein by this reference the allegations in each and every paragraph above, as though fully set forth herein.

46. At all relevant times hereto, PLAINTIFF was a non-exempt employee of DEFENDANTS under the laws of the State of California within the meaning of the Labor Code and Wage Order.

47. Labor Code § 223 provides, "Where any statute or contract requires an employer to maintain the designated wage scale, it shall be unlawful to secretly pay a lower wage while purporting to pay the wage designated by statute or by contract."

48. Labor Code § 1197 states, "The minimum wage for employees fixed by the commission is the minimum wage to be paid to employees, and the payment of a less wage than minimum wage so fixed is unlawful."

49. Labor Code § 1198 states, "The maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor fixed by the commission shall be the maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor for employees. The employment of any employee for longer hours than those fixed by the order or under conditions of labor prohibited by the order is unlawful."

50. The "Minimum Wages" section and the "Hours and Days of Work" section of the applicable Wage Order provides as a standard of conditions of labor that employees be paid at least the applicable minimum wage and overtime wages for regular time and overtime time suffered or permitted to work respectively.

employee receiving less than the legal minimum wage or the legal overtime compensation applicable to the employee is entitled to recover in a civil action the unpaid balance of the full amount of his minimum wage or overtime compensation, including interest thereon, reasonable attorney's fees and costs of suit."

52. At all relevant times hereto, DEFENDANTS were PLAINTIFF'S employer within the meaning of Labor Code who violated or caused to be violated the relevant sections of the Labor Code and other provisions regulating hours and days of work per the applicable Wage Order; as such, DEFENDANTS is subject to the payment of the underpaid wages and penalties to PLAINTIFF, who was affected by DEFENDANTS' violation of this section.

53. DEFENDANTS' uniform practices and/or treatment of PLAINTIFF required that PLAINTIFF frequently work regular and overtime hours without compensation. Throughout the time period relevant to this Complaint, and during PLAINTIFF'S employment period, PLAINTIFF often worked beyond eight (8) hours per day and/or (40) hours per week without legally-required compensation for all of that time, let alone at any overtime rate. Among other things that occurred: (a) one or more of DEFENDANTS' authorized agents instructed PLAINTIFF to perform work "off-the-clock" prior to, during and/or subsequent to his scheduled shift; (b) one or more of each of the DEFENDANTS' authorized agents required PLAINTIFF to perform essential job functions while he was punched-out for his meal, such that PLAINTIFF performed work "off-the-clock." In addition, DEFENDANTS routinely deprived PLAINTIFF of his rightful wages, including overtime pay. On information and belief, PLAINTIFF alleges that DEFENDANTS had the ability to monitor and did monitor the hours worked by PLAINTIFF; DEFENDANTS therefore, knew or should have known that the PLAINTIFF routinely worked substantial time without compensation, let alone at an overtime rate.

54. During the time period relevant to this Complaint, DEFENDANTS failed to pay PLAINTIFF for all hours worked and paid PLAINTIFF a lower wage than contractually promised and legally required. At all times relevant to this Complaint, DEFENDANTS directly and/or indirectly paid PLAINTIFF less than minimum wage for all times suffered or permitted to work for DEFENDANTS, particularly when evaluating PLAINTIFF'S hourly wage against his actual work hours and considering hours worked "off-the-clock." DEFENDANTS failed to satisfy minimum wage requirements by secretly paying PLAINTIFF a lower wage while purporting to pay the wage designated by agreement/contract between the parties; this occurred, inter alia, when DEFENDANTS failed to pay PLAINTIFF for all hours worked, i.e. "off-the-clock" work that was incidental to PLAINTIFF'S daily duties and responsibilities and DEFENDANTS routinely deprived PLAINTIFF of his rightful wages.

55. By their conduct during the applicable statutory period, including but not limited to the conduct herein described (which includes but is not limited to matters alleged on information and belief), DEFENDANTS directly and/or indirectly underpaid wages to PLAINTIFF for all times suffered or permitted to work for DEFENDANTS, failed to pay overtime wages, failed to satisfy minimum wage requirements, failed to pay wages required by contract and/or law, and secretly paid a lower wage while purporting to pay the wage designated by agreement/contract between the parties in violation of Labor Code §§ 223, 1197, 1198 and the applicable Wage Orders.

56. As a direct result of DEFENDANTS' violations alleged herein, PLAINTIFF has suffered and continues to suffer, substantial losses including but not limited to the use and enjoyment of such unpaid wages, lost interest on such monies and expenses and attorney's fees and costs in seeking to compel DEFENDANTS to fully perform its obligation under state law, all to PLAINTIFF'S damage in amounts according to proof at trial and within the jurisdictional limitations of this Court.

57. PLAINTIFF seeks to recover in a civil action to the fullest extent permissible all available remedies including but not limited to all monies that DEFENDANTS should have lawfully paid, penalties, interest, reasonable attorney's fees and costs of suit, and any other permitted remedies including those permitted pursuant to the Labor Code §§ 223, 510, 1194, 1194.2, 1197, 1198 and Code of Civil Procedure § 1021.5. The exact amount of the applicable penalties is an amount to be shown according to proof at trial and within the jurisdictional limits of the Court.

WHEREFORE, PLAINTIFF prays for judgment as hereinafter set forth.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION

Failure to Pay Minimum Wage

(Violation of Labor Code § 1194.2)

(Alleged by PLAINTIFF against DEFENDANTS, and all applicable DOES 1-30)

58. PLAINTIFF re-alleges and incorporates herein by this reference the allegations in each and every paragraph above, as though fully set forth herein.

59. At all relevant times hereto, PLAINTIFF was a non-exempt employee of DEFENDANTS under the laws of the State of California within the meaning of the Labor Code and Wage Order.

60. California Labor Code § 1194.2(a) provides:

> In any action under Section 98, 1193.6, 1194, or 1197.1 to recover wages because of the payment of a wage less than the minimum wage fixed by an order of the commission or by statute, an employee shall be entitled to recover liquidated damages in an amount equal to the wages unlawfully unpaid and interest thereon.

61. DEFENDANTS' uniform practices and/or treatment of PLAINTIFF required that PLAINTIFF frequently work regular and overtime hours without compensation. Throughout the time period relevant to this Complaint, and during PLAINTIFF'S employment period, PLAINTIFF often worked beyond eight (8) hours per day and/or (40) hours per week without legally-required compensation for all of that time, let alone at any overtime rate. Among other things that occurred: (a) one or more of DEFENDANTS' authorized agents instructed PLAINTIFF to perform work "off-the-clock" prior to, during and/or subsequent to his scheduled shift; (b) one or more of each of the DEFENDANTS' authorized agents required PLAINTIFF to perform essential job functions while he was punched-out for his meal, such that PLAINTIFF performed work "off-the-clock." In addition, DEFENDANTS routinely deprived PLAINTIFF of his rightful wages, including overtime pay. On information and belief, PLAINTIFF alleges that DEFENDANTS had the ability to monitor and did monitor the hours worked by PLAINTIFF; DEFENDANTS therefore, knew or should have known that the PLAINTIFF routinely worked substantial time without compensation, let alone at an overtime rate.

62. During the time period relevant to this Complaint, DEFENDANTS failed to pay

PLAINTIFF for all hours worked and paid PLAINTIFF a lower wage than contractually promised and legally required. At all times relevant to this Complaint, DEFENDANTS directly and/or indirectly paid PLAINTIFF less than minimum wage for all times suffered or permitted to work for DEFENDANTS, particularly when evaluating PLAINTIFF'S hourly wage against his actual work hours and considering hours worked "off-the-clock." DEFENDANTS failed to satisfy minimum wage requirements by secretly paying PLAINTIFF a lower wage while purporting to pay the wage designated by agreement/contract between the parties; this occurred, inter alia, when DEFENDANTS failed to pay PLAINTIFF for all hours worked, i.e. "off-the-clock" work that was incidental to PLAINTIFF'S daily duties and responsibilities and DEFENDANTS routinely deprived PLAINTIFF of his rightful wages.

63. By its conduct during the applicable statutory period, including but not limited to the conduct herein described (which includes but is not limited to matters alleged on information and belief), DEFENDANTS directly and/or indirectly underpaid wages to PLAINTIFF for all times suffered or permitted to work for DEFENDANTS, failed to pay overtime wages, failed to satisfy minimum wage requirements, failed to pay wages required by contract and/or law, and secretly paid a lower wage while purporting to pay the wage designated by agreement/contract between the parties in violation of Labor Code §§ 223, 1197, 1198 and the applicable Wage Orders.

64. As a result, DEFENDANTS failed to pay PLAINTIFF at least the required minimum wage for all hours worked and overtime. DEFENDANTS' conduct violates California law.

65. DEFENDANTS have intentionally, improperly and in bad faith failed to make payment of minimum wages, overtime compensation and other benefits to PLAINTIFF in violation of the Labor Code, applicable regulations, and the IWC Wage Orders.

66. As a result of DEFENDANTS' failure to pay to PLAINTIFF the minimum wages for all hours worked, DEFENDANTS owe to PLAINTIFF all unpaid minimum wages due, plus liquidated damages in an amount equal to the minimum wages owed, plus interest thereon, pursuant to Labor Code § 1194.2, in amounts according to proof at trial and within the jurisdictional limitations of this Court.

67. Accordingly, PLAINTIFF is entitled to all unpaid minimum wages due, plus a liquidated damage equal to the amount of the minimum wage unpaid, plus interest thereon, pursuant to Labor Code § 1194.2, all to PLAINTIFF'S damages in the amounts according to proof at trial and within the jurisdictional limitations of this Court.

WHEREFORE, PLAINTIFF prays for judgment as hereinafter set forth.

(Violation of Labor Code §§ 2802)
(Alleged by PLAINTIFF against DEFENDANTS, and all applicable DOES 1-30)

68. PLAINTIFF re-alleges and incorporates herein by this reference the allegations in each and every paragraph above, as though fully set forth herein.

69. At all relevant times hereto, PLAINTIFF was a non-exempt employee of DEFENDANTS under the laws of the State of California within the meaning of the Labor Code and Wage Order.

Labor Code § 2802(a) provides that "[a]n employer shall indemnify his or her employee for all necessary expenditures or losses incurred by the employee in direct consequence of the discharge of his or her duties, or of his or her obedience to the directions of the employer, even though unlawful, unless the employee, at the time of obeying the directions, believed them to be unlawful."

71. California Code of Regulations Title 8, § 111400, paragraph 9, subdivision (A), further states that "When uniforms are required by the employer to be worn by the employee as a condition of employment, such uniforms shall be provided and maintained by the employer." DEFENDANTS have violated this regulation by failing to provide and maintain the employees' uniforms.

72. Pursuant to Labor Code § 2804 any contract or agreement, express or implied, made by any employee to waive the benefits of Section 2802 or any part thereof, is null and void.

73. At all times relevant to the Complaint, DEFENDANTS required PLAINTIFF to bear necessary job expenses and failed to indemnify or reimburse PLAINTIFF for such expenses. This includes but is not limited to: (a) the cost of cell phone service which was required of PLAINTIFF to perform his daily job duties.

74. Through DEFENDANTS' conduct during the applicable statutory period including, but not limited to, the conduct set forth herein, including that alleged on information and belief, DEFENDANTS required PLAINTIFF to pay for certain expenses and employment-related costs that are the responsibility of DEFENDANTS to pay and failed to indemnify PLAINTIFF as required by Labor Code § 2802.

75. Any agreement or contract made by PLAINTIFF to waive the benefits of Labor Code § 2802 is null and void.

76. Labor Code § 2802(c) states that "[f]or purpose of [2802], the term 'necessary expenditures or losses shall include all reasonable costs, including, but not limited to attorney's fees incurred by the employee enforcing the rights granted by [2802]."

78. PLAINTIFF seeks to recover in a civil action to the fullest extent permissible all available remedies including but not limited to unpaid balance of the indemnification from DEFENDANTS' violations, interest thereon permitted by Labor Code § 2802(b), recovery of penalties, reasonable attorney's fees and costs of suit, injunctive relief, and any other permitted remedies including those permitted pursuant to the Labor Code §§ 2802, 2804 and Code of Civil Procedure § 1021.5. The exact amount of the applicable penalties is an amount to be shown according to proof at trial and within the jurisdictional limits of the Court.

WHEREFORE, PLAINTIFF prays for judgment as hereinafter set forth.

FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Failure to Provide Meal Periods

(Violation of Labor Code §§ 226.7, 512, and IWC Wage Order "Meal Periods" Section)

(Alleged by PLAINTIFF against DEFENDANTS, and all applicable DOES 1-30)

79. PLAINTIFF re-alleges and incorporates herein by this reference the allegations in each and every paragraph above, as though fully set forth herein.

80. At all relevant times hereto, PLAINTIFF was a non-exempt employee of DEFENDANTS under the laws of the State of California within the meaning of the Labor Code and Wage Order.

81. Labor Code § 512 provides "[a]n employer may not employ an employee for a work period of more than five hours per day without providing the employee with a meal period of not less than 30 minutes, except that if the total work period per day of the employee is no more than six hours, the meal period may be waived by mutual consent of both the employer and employee. An employer may not employ an employee for a work period of more than 10 hours per day without providing the employee with a second meal period of not less than 30 minutes, except that if the total hours worked is no more than 12 hours, the second meal period may be waived by mutual consent of the employer and the employee only if the first meal period was not waived."

82. The "Meal Period" section of the applicable Wage Order provides as a standard of condition of labor that an employee working more than five hours be provided a meal period of not less than 30 minutes, except when a work period of not more than six hours will complete the day's work and the meal period is waived by mutual consent of the employee and employer.

83. Labor Code § 226.7 provides "[a]n employer shall not require an employee to work during a meal or rest or recovery period mandated pursuant to an applicable statute, or applicable regulation, standard, or order of the Industrial Welfare Commission, the Occupational Safety and Health Standards Board, or the Division of Occupational Safety and Health."

84. Pursuant to Labor Code § 226.7(c) and "Meal Period" section of the applicable Wage Order, if an employer fails to provide an employee a meal period in accordance with a state law, the employer shall pay the employee one hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation for each workday that the meal period is not provided.

85. Through DEFENDANTS' conduct during the applicable statutory period including, but not limited to, the conduct set forth herein, including that alleged on information and belief, DEFENDANTS lacked a policy which directly and/or indirectly relieved PLAINTIFF'S of all duty for timely uninterrupted 30-minute periods at all times suffered or permitted to work for DEFENDANTS, and, in fact, had practices and procedures that impeded PLAINTIFF from taking such meal breaks. At all times relevant hereto, PLAINTIFF has not been allowed all timely meal breaks.

86. As a direct result of DEFENDANTS' violations alleged herein, PLAINTIFF has suffered and continues to suffer, substantial losses related to the failure to receive proper meal breaks, including the use and enjoyment of unpaid premiums wages from missed meal breaks, lost interest on such monies and expenses, and attorney's fees and costs in seeking to compel DEFENDANTS to fully perform on its obligations under state law, all to PLAINTIFF'S damages in amounts according to proof at trial and within the jurisdictional limitations of this Court.

PLAINTIFF seeks to recover in a civil action to the fullest extent permissible all available remedies including but not limited to all monies that DEFENDANTS should have lawfully paid, penalties, interest, reasonable attorney's fees and costs of suit, and any other permitted remedies including those permitted pursuant to the Labor Code §§ 226.7, 510, 512 and Code of Civil Procedure § 1021.5. The exact amount of the applicable penalties is an amount to be shown according to proof at trial and within the jurisdictional limits of the Court.

WHEREFORE, PLAINTIFF prays for judgment as hereinafter set forth.

SIXTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Unfair Business Practices

(Business & Professions Code §§ 17200, et seq.)

(Alleged by PLAINTIFF against DEFENDANTS and all applicable DOES 1-30)

119. PLAINTIFF re-alleges and incorporates herein by this reference the allegations in each and every paragraph above, as though fully set forth herein.

PLAINTIFF alleges on information and belief that DEFENDANTS knew or should have known of the unlawful nature of their respective acts and omissions, as described in this Complaint – and that such conduct reflects a deliberate scheme to lower payroll costs and gain an unfair workforce advantage, contrary to public policy.

122. PLAINTIFF further alleges on information and belief that such acts and omissions constitute unlawful business practices and amount to policies in violation of FEHA given that they occurred in a continuing and systematic manner over a substantial period of time to the detriment of PLAINTIFF and other employees. Examples of such unlawful acts and omissions that occurred within four (4) years prior of the filing of this Complaint include, without limitation, DEFENDANTS' failure to (i) pay proper wages, including that of overtime wages, "all hours worked," "off-the-clock" hours, and payment of wages at the rate designated by statute or by contract; (ii) indemnify and reimburse expenses incurred in discharging duties; (iii) provide all required code-compliant meal and rest breaks; (iv) pay timely wages upon termination of employment; (v) maintain accurate records and provide and maintain accurate itemized wage statements; (vi) prevent harassment, discrimination and retaliation against persons who engage in protected activities; (vii) prevent harassment, discrimination and retaliation against persons who are members of a protected class; (viii) offer reasonable accommodations of restrictions in light of employee work restrictions; and (ix) prevent discrimination and retaliation against persons who present a medical condition or disability which requires accommodation.

127. PLAINTIFF is informed and believes, and on that basis alleges, that the illegal conduct herein alleged is continuing, and that there is no indication that DEFENDANTS will cease and desist from such activity into the future. (Violation of Cal. Labor Code §232.5)

(Alleged by PLAINTIFF against DEFENDANTS and all applicable DOES 1-30)

130. PLAINTIFF re-alleges and incorporates herein by this reference the allegations in each and every paragraph above, as though fully set forth herein.

131. At all relevant times herein, California Labor Code §232.5 was in effect and applied to DEFENDANTS. This includes, without limitation: (a) complaining about a lack of proper rest and/or meals breaks; (b) complaining about unpaid hours including overtime; (c) complaining of being unable to use sick leave days; and (d) asserting the right to receive medical care and reasonable accommodations in conjunction with disability/medical conditions resulting from a workplace injury. WHEREFORE, PLAINTIFF prays for judgment as hereinafter set forth.

ELEVENTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Wrongful Termination in Violation of Public Policy)
(Alleged by PLAINTIFF against DEFENDANTS and all applicable DOES 1-30)

139. PLAINTIFF re-alleges and incorporates herein by this reference the allegations in each and every paragraph above, as though fully set forth herein.

140. The public policy of the State of California, as codified, expressed and mandated in Labor Code§ 1102.5 and other applicable law is to prohibit employers from: (1) implementing policies preventing employees from disclosing reasonably based suspicions of violations of state or federal statutes; (2) retaliating against employees who have disclosed, or the employer believes the employee disclosed or may disclosed reasonably based suspicions of violations of state or federal statutes to government agencies, to a person with authority over the employee, or to another employee who has authority to investigate, discover, or correct the violation or noncompliance; and (3) retaliating against employees who refuse to participate in activities that would result in violations of state or federal statutes. Additionally, it is the policy of the State of California as expressed in the Labor Code and its enabling regulations that non-exempt employees, such as PLAINTIFF herein, cannot be required to work in excess of forty hours during a week or in excess of eight hours per day without any remuneration for all hours worked and at the designated rate, including overtime pay as mandated by California labor code sections. Employees such as PLAINTIFF are also entitled to meal and rest periods, within the required time period, reimbursement of expenses they incurred, and all other rights and benefits under Labor Codes and applicable Wage Order. Finally, employees cannot be terminated and/or harassed for complaining about an employer's refusal to comply with the provisions of Labor Code sections and other applicable labor laws. The public policy of the State of California prohibits employers from retaliating against their employees and discriminating against them for, inter alia: complaining about a discriminatory policy and/or practice; reporting and/or opposing a violation of statute and/or law making inquiries regarding payroll records; seeking the payment of unpaid, earned wages; reporting workplace injuries and seeking medical coverage for the treatment of such workplace injuries as permitted by workers compensation law. As a matter of public policy, California law recognizes the need to protect and safeguard the right and opportunity of all persons to seek and hold employment free from discrimination, harassment, and retaliation. These public policies of the State of California are designed to protect all employees and to promote the welfare and well-being of the community at large.

141. Additionally, the California Fair Employment and Housing Act (the "FEHA") [Gov. Code § 12900, et seq.] prohibits discrimination and harassment against an employee based the person's protected characteristic such as age and disability/ medical condition. As a matter of public policy, the FEHA recognizes the need to protect and safeguard the right and opportunity of all persons to seek and hold employment free from discrimination, harassment, and retaliation. [Gov. Code § 12920.] The California state legislature has directed that the FEHA be construed liberally so as to accomplish its purposes. [Gov, Code § 12993.] Moreover, the California Supreme Court has specifically held that one's right to be free from discrimination and harassment in the workplace is "fundamental." (See, e.g., Brown v. Superior Court (1984) 37 Cal.3d 477, 485.)

142. At all material times herein, up through the date of PLAINTIFF'S final day of work, DEFENDANTS' managing and supervisory employees, including but not limited to DARIO, MANPREET, and JUANITA, was acting within the course and scope of her/his employment with DEFENDANTS, was required to observe the public policy of this state, including those laws which prohibit discrimination based upon disability, and engagement in protected activities (e.g., California Government Code §§12940(a), 12940(h), 12941(a), and 12942) and violated those laws by undertaking the conduct and violations previously described in this Complaint. PLAINTIFF is further informed and believes that DEFENDANTS and its agents adhere to a secret policy to exit an employee prior to the time the employee actually wishes to leave employment if said employees are injured, and/or engaging in protected activities – as was the case with PLAINTIFF.

143. During the time period 2019-2021, PLAINTIFF was employed by DEFENDANTS to work. PLAINTIFF'S employment with DEFENDANTS ended on or about February 24, 2021, when DEFENDANTS fired his employment in retaliation for, among other things, seeking accommodations of his medical condition/disability caused by workplace injuries, as well as previous protected activities, set for the herein above.

144. PLAINTIFF is informed and believes, and on that basis alleges, that PLAINTIFF'S employment with DEFENDANTS ended in violation of fundamental public policies of the State of California, including, without limitation: (i) encouraging employees to make complaints/ raise concerns regarding DEFENDANTS' employment practice that the employees, such as PLAINTIFF herein, reasonably suspected to be unlawful and discriminatory conducts at workplace on the basis of disability/ medical condition, use/ request to use disability related-accommodation in violation of California's Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA) [Cal. Gov. Code § 12940(a)]; (ii) prohibiting employers from retaliating against employees for reporting a work-related injuries and making request for accommodation, medical coverage and medical treatments; (iii) prohibiting employers from discriminating and retaliating against employees for complaining and reporting information about employer's working conditions and/or making inquiries about payroll records and unpaid owed wages; (iv) encouraging employees who work in private businesses such as DEFENDANTS' business, herein, which in effect provides services to the public in general, to report suspected unsafe and dangerous conditions without fear of retaliation; (v) encouraging employees of private businesses such as DEFENDANTS' herein, which provide services to the public, to make complaints to their employers and/ or governmental agency regarding any suspected potential risk of exposure to injuries due to the unsafe and dangerous conditions at work without fear of retaliation; (vi) encouraging employees to exercise their rights to refuse to engage in conducts and/or to perform work under conditions where employer's violation of health and safety law would create a real and apparent hazard to employees without fear of retaliation and discrimination; and (vii) encouraging the right to prohibit employers from discriminating and retaliating against employees, who make inquiries into their payroll records, hours request payment of their unpaid earned wages or benefits, and further disclose information about employer's unsafe working conditions. These fundamental public policies insure to the benefit of the public, and not just the private interests of the employer and employee. DEFENDANTS knew or should have known that such policies and practices clearly run afoul of public policy.

145. PLAINTIFF alleges that he was subject to discrimination and retaliation for refusing to engage in conducts that violated fundamental public policy, to wit, DEFENDANTS retaliated against PLAINTIFF and terminated his employment, in part, due to: (i) PLAINTIFF'S status in a protected classes (injury-related disability); (ii) PLAINTIFF seeking medical treating for his workplace injury; (iii) asserting his right to receive reasonable accommodations in conjunction with a disability resulting from a workplace injury ; (iv) speaking out against DEFENDANTS' unlawful policies and practices with respect to failure to reimburse job related expenses; (v) opposing DEFENDANTS' employment practices which require their employees, such as PLAINTIFFS, to work long hours, and overtime hours per day at a rate less than the rate designated by the Statute and/ or by contract as promised and without enumeration for all overtime [violation of Labor Code Section/ wage and hour law]; (vi) PLAINTIFF'S complaints about a lack of proper rest and/or meals breaks; and (vii) refusing to engage in conducts that violated fundamental public policy, to wit, a private business, herein, which is in effect provides goods and services to public to be healthy, safe and free from hazard as evidenced by, but not exclusive of, the regulations found in California Health and Safety Code, Cal/DOSHA.

146. PLAINTIFF opposed and reported the above unlawful practice and abusive misconduct to the DEFENDANTS through his supervisors/managers and brought their concerns to the DEFENDANTS about the situation, which angered the DEFENDANTS. PLAINTIFF asked the DEFENDANTS to look into these matters and take corrective actions. DEFENDANTS ignored PLAINTIFF'S complaints and failed to take any corrective actions —and instead retaliated against him, as alleged hereinabove.

147. PLAINTIFF alleges, on information and belief, that he was targeted for termination and fired by DEFENDANTS – despite the fact that he had been a reliable and hardworking employee– due to his protected status (workplace injury-related disability) and engagement in multiple protected activities. Throughout his employment, PLAINTIFF performed the duties of his work assignments in a competent and proficient manner; he was at all times ready, willing and able to perform his tasks reliably and capably.

148. The actions and continuing course of the aforesaid conduct amounted to a systematic policy of discrimination and harassment, thereby constituting a continuing violation actionable under, among other things, Fair Employment Housing Act (FEHA) which reflects a fundamental public policy against discrimination in employment on account of age, disability/ medical condition and protected traits.

149. Instead of investigating PLAINTIFF'S respective reports of illegal/unlawful employment policies and practices and retaliatory/hostile work conditions, DEFENDANTS ratified illegal/unlawful employment policies and practices and retaliatory/hostile work conditions by retaliating against PLAINTIFF through, without limitation, refusing to engage in an interactive process, refusing to provide reasonable accommodations, and ultimately terminating PLAINTIFF.

150. In retaliating against and terminating PLAINTIFF for engaging in protected activities, DEFENDANTS violated the fundamental principles of the public policy of the State of California as reflected in its laws, objectives and policies, alleged above. Said laws, which establish these fundamental public policies include, without limitation: Cal. wage and hour law and laws and regulations pertaining to the public's safety, Cal. Labor Code §§ 232.5, 1102.5, 6410; Gov. Code § 12920; Gov. Code §12653; Gov. Code §12940 et seq.; Gov. Code § 12900, et seq., the California Constitution; California Fair Employment and Housing Act (the "FEHA"), California Family Rights Act ("CFRA") Division 4 of California Labor Code, worker's compensation and insurance, the Industrial Wage Commission promulgated by Division of Labor Standard Enforcement.

151. PLAINTIFF'S report of/opposition to/complaint about the work condition and DEFENDANTS' unlawful employment practices and policies at its businesses, including discrimination, unhealthy and unsafe work conditions, as alleged herein above, was a substantial motivating reason for PLAINTIFF being discriminated/ retaliated against and ultimately discharged.

152. On information and belief, DEFENDANTS knowingly subjected its employees/staff and the customers to whom it provided services to actual and potential harm deliberately terminating whistleblowers who reported unlawful and/or unsafe working conditions in order to avoid negative publicity and economic harm.

153. By the aforesaid acts and conduct, PLAINTIFF has been directly and legally caused to suffer actual damages pursuant to California Civil Code § 3333 including, but not limited to, loss of earnings and future earning capacity, medical and related expenses for care and procedures both now and in the future, attorney's fees, and other pecuniary loss not presently ascertained, for which PLAINTIFF will seek leave of court to amend when ascertained.

154. DEFENDANTS' conduct was a substantial factor in causing PLAINTIFF'S harm.

155. As a direct, foreseeable, and proximate result of each DEFENDANTS' conduct, PLAINTIFF is caused to suffer and continues to suffer substantial losses in earnings, employment benefits, employment opportunities, and PLAINTIFF has suffered from humiliation, anxiety, severe emotional distress, worry, fear, and special damages (to include lost wages) all to his special and general damage in an amount to be determined at time of trial and in excess of the jurisdictional minimum of this court.

156. PLAINTIFF is informed and believes that DEFENDANTS and its respective agents undertook the alleged retaliation intentionally, oppressively, and maliciously, with an evil and malevolent motive to injure PLAINTIFF and a willful and conscious disregard for PLAINTIFF'S rights, health, and safety. Each decision to terminate PLAINTIFF ran afoul of public policy; such termination can be accurately characterized as oppression, malice, and fraud – and ought not to be suffered by any member of the community. Moreover, the wrongful termination herein described was perpetrated by employees whom DEFENDANTS knew or should have known to be unfit and/or possessive of a conscious disregard or the rights of others. In this connection, PLAINTIFF alleges advance knowledge, conscious disregard, authorization, ratification, fraud and malice on the part of an officer, director or managing agent of DEFENDANTS – all entitling PLAINTIFF to recover exemplary and punitive damages in an amount to be determined at the time of trial.

157. TWELFTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Wrongful Termination [FEHA]
(Violation of Gov. Code §§12900 and 12940 et seq.)
(Alleged by PLAINTIFF against DEFENDANTS and all applicable DOES 1-30)

158. PLAINTIFFS re-allege and incorporate herein by this reference the allegations in each and every paragraph above, as though fully set forth herein.

159. At all times mentioned in this Complaint, FEHA and California Government Codes §§ 12900 et seq. and 12940 et seq., were in full force and effect and binding on each of the DEFENDANTS. These sections require DEFENDANTS to refrain from harassing, discriminating or retaliating against any employee on the basis of race, religious creed, color, national origin, ancestry, physical disability, mental disability, medical condition, marital status, sex, age, or sexual orientation. The statements and conduct on the part of the DEFENDANTS complained of herein represent a violation of the FEHA and California Government Codes §§ 12900, et seq., and 12940, et seq., which states, in part:

> 12940. It is an unlawful employment practice... (a) For an employer, because of the race, religious creed, color, national origin, ancestry, > physical disability, mental disability, medical condition, marital status, sex, age, or sexual orientation of any person, to refuse to hire or employ the person or to refuse to select the person for a training program leading to employment, or to bar or to discharge the person from employment or from a training program leading to employment, or to discriminate against the person in compensation or in terms, conditions, or privileges of employment.

160. During the time period 2019-2021, PLAINTIFF was employed by DEFENDANTS. PLAINTIFF'S employment with DEFENDANTS ended on or about February 24, 2021, when DEFENDANTS fired PLAINTIFF. PLAINTIFF alleges, on information and belief, that he was targeted for termination and fired by DEFENDANTS – despite the fact that he had been a reliable and hardworking employee– due to his protected status (workplace injury-related disability) and engagement in multiple protected activities. Throughout his employment, PLAINTIFF performed the duties of his work assignments in a competent and proficient manner; he was at all times ready, willing and able to perform his tasks reliably and capably.

161. At the time PLAINTIFF was subjected to DEFENDANTS' discrimination, retaliation and termination, PLAINTIFF was a member of several protected class under the California Government Code and the FEHA, as he suffered a medical condition/physical disability which required reasonable accommodation, as herein described.

162. DEFENDANTS are "covered employer" under the meaning of FEHA, as DEFENDANTS regularly employed five (5) or more persons during the relevant time period.

163. At the time of the discrimination and ultimate termination, PLAINTIFF was able to perform the essential job duties of his position following with a reasonable accommodation for his medical condition/disability.

164. Such reprehensible conduct by DEFENDANTS is in violation of the aforementioned Government Code sections and the FEHA.

165. As a proximate result of DEFENDANTS' conduct, PLAINTIFF has lost wages, benefits, other out of pocket losses and has suffered and continues to suffer humiliation, emotional distress, and mental and physical pain and anguish, all to his damages in a sum according to proof at time of trial.

166. As a further proximate result of DEFENDANTS' conduct and the consequences proximate caused by it, PLAINTIFF has suffered medical and related expenses in an amount according to proof at time of trial.

167. The acts and omissions of DEFENDANTS, as alleged in this Complaint, were willful, wanton, malicious, intentional, oppressive, despicable, and done in willful and conscious disregard of the rights, welfare and/or safety of PLAINTIFF. PLAINTIFF alleges that such acts and omissions were carried out by the respective managerial agents of DEFENDANTS and/or with the express knowledge, consent, and ratification of managerial employees of DEFENDANTS – thereby justifying the awarding of punitive and exemplary damages in an amount to be determined at the time of trial.

168. PLAINTIFF seeks to recover attorneys' fees given that FEHA provides that, "the court, in its discretion, may award to the prevailing party reasonable attorney's fees and costs, including expert witness fees. . .". Cal. Gov't Code § 12965(b).

WHEREFORE, PLAINTIFF prays for judgment as hereinafter set forth.

THIRTEENTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Failure to Provide Reasonable Accommodation [FEHA]
(Violation of Cal. Gov. Code §§12940 (m), 12926(p); and Cal. Code Regs., Title 2 §11068)
(Alleged by PLAINTIFF against DEFENDANTS and all applicable DOES 1-30)

169. PLAINTIFF re-alleges and incorporates herein by this reference the allegations in each and every paragraph above, as though fully set forth herein.

170. PLAINTIFF is informed and believes, and thereupon allege, that Pursuant to California Government Code Sections 12926 (p) and 12940(m), California Code of Regulations, Title 2, Section 11068 promulgated by the Fair Employment Housing Act [FEHA], employers must make reasonable accommodations for employees with disabilities. Examples of reasonable accommodations include restructuring jobs, including reassigning or transferring an employee, developing part-time or modified work schedules, acquisition or modification of equipment or devices, and other similar accommodations for individuals with disabilities.

171. PLAINTIFF is informed and believes, and thereupon allege, that the Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA) requires employers to reasonably accommodate the medical condition and physical disabilities of any employee if the work environment could have been modified or adjusted in manner that would have enabled employee to perform essential functions of job.

172. At all material times described herein, PLAINTIFF was an individual with disabilities within the meaning of Section 12926(i) & (k) of the Government Code. PLAINTIFF was able to perform the essential job duties for the position he held, with a reasonable accommodation.

173. At all material times herein, DEFENDANTS has continuously been an employer within the meaning of FEHA [Government Code § 12926(d)], regularly employing five or more employees.

174. At all material times herein, DEFENDANTS' respective managerial agents, including DARIO, MANPREET, and JUANITA, among others, were acting within the scope of their employment and within authority given to them by the DEFENDANTS as supervisors/managers of PLAINTIFF within the meaning of FEHA.

175. At all material times herein, DEFENDANTS failed to provide reasonable accommodation to PLAINTIFF's known disabilities in violation of Sections 12940(m) and 12926(p) of the Government Code and 2 C.C.R. §11068.

176. As a direct, foreseeable, and proximate result of DEFENDANTS' acts, as hereinabove alleged, PLAINTIFF suffered injuries and damages in an amount which will be proven at trial.

177. The acts and omissions of DEFENDANTS, as alleged in this Complaint, were willful, wanton, malicious, intentional, oppressive, despicable, and done in willful and conscious disregard of the rights, welfare and safety of PLAINTIFF. PLAINTIFF alleges that such acts and omissions were carried out by managerial agents of DEFENDANTS and/or with the express knowledge, consent, and ratification of managerial employees of DEFENDANTS – thereby justifying the awarding of punitive and exemplary damages in an amount to be determined at the time of trial.

178. Plaintiff seeks to recover attorneys' fees given that FEHA provides that, "the court, in its discretion, may award to the prevailing party reasonable attorney's fees and costs, including expert witness fees. . .". Cal. Gov't Code § 12965(b).

WHEREFORE, PLAINTIFF prays for judgment as hereinafter set forth.

FOURTEENTH CAUSE OF ACTION

Failure to Engage in the Interactive Process [FEHA]
(Violation of Cal. Gov. Code §12940 (n))
(Alleged by PLAINTIFF against DEFENDANTS and all applicable DOES 1-30)

179. PLAINTIFF re-alleges and incorporates herein by this reference the allegations in each and every paragraph above, as though fully set forth herein.

180. At all material times herein, PLAINTIFF was employed by DEFENDANTS as a full-time employee, subject to the laws of the State of California, as set-forth in the Government Code, and was covered under one or more statutes and Regulations of the Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA).

181. At all times herein mentioned, FEHA, Cal. Gov't Code §§ 12900, et seq., was in full force and effect and was fully binding upon DEFENDANTS. Specifically, §12940(a) prohibits DEFENDANTS from harassing any of its employees, including PLAINTIFF on the basis of age, a medical condition, disability, invocation of a right to request/use disability-related accommodations, and reporting/opposition of discriminatory workplace conduct.

182. Cal. Gov. Code §12940 (n) provides the following, in pertinent part: "It shall be an unlawful employment practice ... (n) For an employer or other entity covered by this part to fail to engage in a timely, good faith, interactive process with the employee or applicant to determine effective reasonable accommodations, if any, in response to a request for reasonable accommodation by an employee or applicant with a known physical or mental disability or known medical condition."

183. At all material times herein, each of the DEFENDANTS has continuously been an employer within the meaning of FEHA [Government Code § 12926(d)], regularly employing five or more employees.

184. At all material times herein, DEFENDANTS' respective managerial agents, including DARIO, MANPREET, and JUANITA, among others, were acting within the scope of their employment and within authority given to them by the DEFENDANTS as supervisors/managers of PLAINTIFF within the meaning of FEHA.

185. PLAINTIFF is informed and believes, and on that basis alleges that at all times relevant hereto, DEFENDANTS (a) placed DARIO, MANPREET, and JUANITA, among others, in a position to supervise DEFENDANTS' day-to-day business operations and the work performances of their respective employees, including PLAINTIFF; and (b) empowered DARIO, MANPREET, and JUANITA, among others, to take tangible employment actions against PLAINTIFF to effect a significant change in PLAINTIFF'S employment status, including but not limited to actions substantially bearing on PLAINTIFF'S schedule and assignments, reported work hours, receipt of wages, record of disciplinary action, receipt of reasonable accommodations (or lack thereof), and employment status. In their respective roles as PLAINTIFF'S supervisor/manager, and as authorized agents for DEFENDANTS, DARIO, MANPREET, and JUANITA and others exercised unique authority over PLAINTIFF.

186. DEFENDANTS' conduct, as alleged herein, by and through their respective authorized agents, constitutes failure to engage in the interactive process, in violation of FEHA. As herein described, DEFENDANTS, by and through their respective authorized agents, failed to engage in a timely, good faith, interactive process with PLAINTIFF to determine effective reasonable accommodations, if any, in response to PLAINTIFF'S request for reasonable accommodation in connection with his known medical condition and related physical disability. In this connection, DEFENDANTS violated Government Code §12940 (n) as to PLAINTIFF.

187. DEFENDANTS' conducts, as alleged herein, by and through their authorized agents constitutes failure to engage in the interactive process, in violation of FEHA.

188. As a direct result of the unlawful employment practices of DEFENDANTS, as alleged above, PLAINTIFF has been deprived of a discrimination-free work environment, lost income and benefits, and suffered other damages to be determined at trial.

189. As a further and direct result of the unlawful employment practices of DEFENDANTS as alleged hereinabove, PLAINTIFF has suffered emotional distress, physical pain and suffering, and injuries in an amount to be proven at trial.

ZIMMER BIOMET HOLDINGS, INC. AND SUBSIDIARIES
NOTES TO INTERIM CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
(Unaudited)

1. Basis of Presentation

The financial data presented herein is unaudited and should be read in conjunction with the consolidated financial statements and accompanying notes included in our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2022.

In our opinion, the accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements include all adjustments, consisting of only normal recurring adjustments, necessary for a fair statement of the financial position, results of operations and cash flows for the interim periods presented. The December 31, 2022 condensed consolidated balance sheet data was derived from audited financial statements, but does not include all disclosures required by accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("GAAP"). Results for interim periods should not be considered indicative of results for the full year.

Amounts reported in millions within this Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q are computed based on the actual amounts. As a result, the sum of the components may not equal the total amount reported in millions due to rounding. In addition, certain columns and rows within tables may not sum to the totals due to the use of rounded numbers. Percentages presented are calculated from the underlying unrounded amounts.

Risks and Uncertainties - Our results have been and may continue to be impacted by the COVID-19 global pandemic. The vast majority of our net sales are derived from products used in elective surgical procedures which may get deferred due to precautions in certain markets if there is a surge in infections. Although the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic on our operating results continue to subside, the pandemic could still have an unfavorable effect on our financial position, results of operations and cash flows in the near term.

Spinoff - On March 1, 2022, we completed the previously announced separation of our spine and dental businesses into a new public company through the distribution by Zimmer Biomet of 80.3% of the outstanding shares of common stock of ZimVie Inc. ("ZimVie") to Zimmer Biomet's stockholders. We disposed of our remaining shares of ZimVie in February 2023. The historical results of our spine and dental businesses that were contributed to ZimVie in the spinoff have been reflected as discontinued operations in our condensed consolidated financial statements through the date of the spinoff in 2022 as the spinoff represented a strategic shift in our business that had a major effect on operations and financial results. The disclosures presented in our notes to the interim condensed consolidated financial statements are presented on a continuing operations basis.

The words "we," "us," "our" and similar words, "Zimmer Biomet" and "the Company" refer to Zimmer Biomet Holdings, Inc. and its subsidiaries. "Zimmer Biomet Holdings" refers to the parent company only.

We reclassified the loss on investment in ZimVie in the prior period condensed consolidated statement of cash flows to conform to the current period presentation.

2. Discontinued Operations and Related ZimVie Matters

On March 1, 2022, we completed the previously announced separation of our spine and dental businesses through the distribution of 80.3% of the outstanding shares of common stock of ZimVie to our stockholders at the close of business on February 15, 2022 (the "Record Date"). The distribution was made in the amount of one share of ZimVie common stock for every ten shares of our common stock owned by our stockholders at the close of business on the Record Date. Fractional shares of ZimVie common stock were not issued but instead were aggregated and sold in the open market with the proceeds being distributed pro rata in lieu of such fractional shares.

In the fourth quarter of 2021, ZimVie entered into a credit agreement with a financial institution providing for revolving loans of up to $175.0 million and term loan borrowings of up to $595.0 million. On February 28, 2022, prior to separation, ZimVie borrowed the entire $595.0 million available under the term loan. Approximately $540.6 million of this amount was paid by ZimVie to Zimmer Biomet in the form of a dividend at separation which is included in our cash flows from financing activities in the condensed consolidated statements of cash flows. We used proceeds from the dividend, along with cash on hand and proceeds from a draw on our revolving credit facility, to repay our 3.150% Senior Notes due 2022 which had an outstanding principal balance of $750.0 million.

In connection with the spinoff, we entered into definitive agreements with ZimVie that, among other things, set forth the terms and conditions of the separation and distribution. These agreements include a Transition Services Agreement (the "TSA"), a Transition Manufacturing and Supply Agreement (the "TMA"), a Reverse Transition Manufacturing and Supply Agreement (the "Reverse TMA"), and various other agreements each dated as of March 1, 2022.

Pursuant to the TSA, both we and ZimVie agree to provide certain services to each other, on an interim, transitional basis from and after the separation and the distribution. The services include certain regulatory services, commercial services, operational services, tax services, clinical affairs services, information technology services, finance and accounting services and human resource and employee benefits services. The remuneration to be paid for such services is generally intended to allow the company providing the services to recover all of its costs and expenses of providing such services. The TSA will terminate on the expiration of the term of the last service provided thereunder, which will generally be no later than March 31, 2025. However, we expect most TSA services will be completed by the end of 2023.

Pursuant to the TMA and the Reverse TMA, Zimmer Biomet or ZimVie, as the case may be, will manufacture or cause to be manufactured certain products for the other party, on an interim, transitional basis. Pursuant to such agreements, Zimmer Biomet or ZimVie, as the case may be, will be required to purchase certain minimum amounts of products from the other party. Each of the TMA and the Reverse TMA has a two-year term, with a one-year extension possible upon mutual agreement of the parties.

We recognize any gains or losses from the TSA and TMA agreements in the Acquisition, integration, divestiture and related line item in our condensed consolidated statements of earnings. Amounts included in the condensed consolidated statements of earnings related to these agreements for the three and six-month periods ended June 30, 2023 and 2022 were immaterial.

We initially retained approximately 5.1 million common shares of ZimVie in connection with the spinoff, representing approximately 19.7 percent of ZimVie's outstanding common shares on the separation date. Given our inability to exert significant influence over ZimVie, we recognized this investment at fair value in prepaid expenses and other current assets on our condensed consolidated balance sheet. Changes to the fair value of the investment were recognized in non-operating other (expense) income, net, in subsequent periods. We disposed of these shares in February 2023. In the six-month period ended June 30, 2023, we recognized a gain of $2.5 million related to our investment in ZimVie. In the three and six-month periods ended June 30, 2022, we recognized losses of $33.3 million and $84.3 million, respectively, related to our investment in ZimVie.

On August 31, 2022, we borrowed an aggregate principal amount of $83.0 million under a short-term credit agreement (the "Short-Term Term Loan") with a third-party financial institution, the proceeds of which were used to repay certain of our existing indebtedness. On September 1, 2022, we entered into a forward exchange agreement and pledge agreement (collectively the "Forward Exchange Agreement") with the same financial institution to deliver to them our 5.1 million shares of ZimVie common stock in the first quarter of 2023. We pledged our 5.1 million shares of ZimVie common stock to the financial institution as collateral for our obligations under the Short-Term Term Loan and the Forward Exchange Agreement.

In February 2023, we repaid in full the Short-Term Term Loan by transferring our ZimVie common shares to the financial institution counterparty to settle the Forward Exchange Agreement and by paying $33.9 million in cash, representing an amount determined by the difference between the average daily volume-weighted average price of the ZimVie shares over the outstanding term of the Forward Exchange Agreement and the principal amount of $83.0 million. The transfer of our ZimVie common shares as part of the settlement resulted in a $49.1 million noncash financing activity for the six-month period ended June 30, 2023.

The Forward Exchange Agreement was accounted for at fair value, with changes in fair value recognized in non-operating other (expense) income, net and was included in the net gain related to our investment in ZimVie for the six month-period ended June 30, 2023, as discussed above. The most significant input into the valuation of the Forward Exchange Agreement was the market price of the ZimVie shares. The fair value of the Forward Exchange Agreement as of December 31, 2022 was $1.1 million and was included within prepaid expenses and other current assets on our condensed consolidated balance sheet.

As discussed in Note 1, Basis of Presentation, the results of our spine and dental businesses have been reflected as discontinued operations through the date of the spinoff in the prior year period. Details of loss from discontinued operations included in our condensed consolidated statements of earnings are as follows (in millions):

	Six Months Ended June 30, 2022
Net Sales	$ 147.8
Cost of products sold, excluding intangible asset amortization	53.5
Intangible asset amortization	14.0
Research and development	10.5
Selling, general and administrative	89.4
Restructuring and other cost reduction initiatives	0.4
Acquisition, integration, divestiture and related	40.9
Other expense, net	0.3
Loss from discontinued operations before income taxes	(61.2)
Benefit for income taxes from discontinued operations	(2.4)
Loss from discontinued operations, net of tax	$ (58.8)

In a pro rata spinoff of consolidated subsidiaries, the distribution of the assets and liabilities are recognized through equity instead of net earnings. Accordingly, we recognized the distribution of net assets to ZimVie in retained earnings. Additionally, the dividend we received from ZimVie at the separation was also recognized in retained earnings.

3. Significant Accounting Policies

Use of Estimates - The accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements are prepared in conformity with GAAP, which requires us to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. We have made our best estimates, as appropriate under GAAP, in the recognition of our assets and liabilities. Actual results could differ materially from these estimates.

Accounting Pronouncements Not Yet Adopted - There are no recently issued accounting pronouncements that we have not yet adopted that are expected to have a material effect on our financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

This net sales presentation differs from our reportable operating segments, which are based upon our senior management organizational structure and how we allocate resources toward achieving operating profit goals. Each of our reportable operating segments sells all the product categories noted above. Accordingly, the only difference from the presentation above and our reportable operating segments are the geographic groupings.

5. Restructuring

In December 2021, our management approved a global restructuring program (the "2021 Restructuring Plan") intended to further reduce costs and to reorganize our global operations in preparation for the spinoff of ZimVie. The 2021 Restructuring Plan is expected to result in total pre-tax restructuring charges of approximately $185 million. The pre-tax restructuring charges consist of employee termination benefits; contract terminations for sales agents; and other charges, such as consulting fees and project management expenses. The following table summarizes the liabilities recognized related to the 2021 Restructuring Plan (in millions):

	Employee Termination Benefits	Contract Terminations	Other	Total
Expenses incurred in the three months ended June 30, 2023	$ 1.5	$ 1.9	$ 2.6	$ 6.0

Expense estimated to be recognized for the 2021 Restructuring Plan	$ 70.0	$ 80.0	$ 35.0	$ 185.0

In December 2019, our Board of Directors approved, and we initiated, a global restructuring program (the "2019 Restructuring Plan") with an objective of reducing structural costs to allow us to further invest in higher priority growth opportunities. The 2019 Restructuring Plan is expected to result in total pre-tax restructuring charges of approximately $350 million. The pre-tax restructuring charges consist of employee termination benefits; contract terminations for facilities and sales agents; and other charges, such as consulting fees, project management expenses and relocation costs, including costs to close a manufacturing facility. The following table summarizes the liabilities recognized related to the 2019 Restructuring Plan (in millions):

	Employee Termination Benefits	Contract Terminations	Other	Total
Expenses incurred in the three months ended June 30, 2023	$ (1.1)	$ -	$ 9.4	$ 8.3
Balance, December 31, 2022	$ 28.9	$ 9.0	$ 6.4	$ 44.3

Expense incurred since the start of the 2019 Restructuring Plan	$ 107.2	$ 35.0	$ 150.1	$ 292.3
Expense estimated to be recognized for the 2019 Restructuring Plan	$ 135.0	$ 35.0	$ 180.0	$ 350.0

We do not include restructuring charges in the operating profit of our reportable segments.

In our condensed consolidated statement of earnings, we report restructuring charges in our "Restructuring and other cost reduction initiatives" financial statement line item. We report the expenses for other cost reduction and optimization initiatives with restructuring expenses because these activities also have the goal of reducing costs across the organization. However, since the cost reduction initiative expenses are not considered restructuring, they have been excluded from the amounts presented in this note.

We had $15.7 million and $17.0 million of property, plant and equipment included in accounts payable as of June 30, 2023 and December 31, 2022, respectively.

8. Acquisitions

On February 14, 2023, we completed the acquisition of all the outstanding shares of Embody, Inc. ("Embody"), a medical device company focused on soft tissue healing, that expands our portfolio for the sports medicine market. Initial consideration consisted of the issuance of 1.1 million shares of our common stock valued at $135.0 million and $19.5 million of cash for a total value of $154.5 million. The fair value of our common stock was determined to be $127.34 per share, which represented the average of our high and low stock prices on the acquisition date. To minimize dilution from issuing shares for the Embody acquisition, we repurchased 1.9 million shares of our common stock in the three-month period ended March 31, 2023. The Embody acquisition includes additional consideration of up to $120.0 million in fair value of our common shares and cash, subject to achieving a future regulatory milestone after closing and commercial milestones based on sales growth over a three-year period. We assigned a fair value of $94.0 million for this contingent consideration as of the acquisition date. The estimated fair value of the contingent consideration liability was calculated based on the probability of achieving the specified regulatory milestone and by simulating numerous potential outcomes for the commercial milestones and discounting to present value the estimated payments.

On April 28, 2023, we completed the acquisition of all the outstanding shares of a privately held orthopedics medical device company that expands our portfolio in the orthopedics market ("April acquisition"). The initial consideration consisted of $15.0 million of cash and includes consideration of up to $8.0 million in cash, subject to achieving future regulatory milestones.

These acquisitions are collectively referred to in this report as the "2023 acquisitions". Refer to Note 11 for information regarding the issuance of common stock and cash payments related to the contingent consideration liabilities that have occurred subsequent to the acquisition dates.

The goodwill related to the 2023 acquisitions represents the excess of the consideration transferred over the fair value of the net assets acquired. The goodwill related to the 2023 acquisitions is generated from the operational synergies and cross-selling opportunities we expect to achieve from the technologies acquired. The goodwill related to the 2023 acquisitions is not expected to be deductible for tax purposes. The goodwill related to the Embody acquisition is included in the Americas operating segment and the Americas Orthopedics reporting unit. The goodwill related to the April acquisition is included in the Asia Pacific operating segment and reporting unit. The goodwill related to the 2023 acquisitions was the only significant activity related to our consolidated goodwill

Subject: RE: Medical Devices

Dear Andrew,

This Office goes by what the FDA classifies your devices as in terms of whether or not a NYS registration is required for you to do business.

A nonresident establishment must be registered with the NYS Board of Pharmacy if it ships, mails, delivers, invoices or provides samples of prescription drugs into NYS.

The NYS Board of Pharmacy reviews applications on a "case by case basis" for medical device distributors that ships, mails, delivers, invoices or provides samples of prescription devices that contain the Federal Law caution: 'Federal law prohibits dispensing without a prescription' .

If an establishment is wholesaling durable medical equipment (DME) or devices which do not require a prescription but instead contain a caution 'Federal law restricts this device to sale by or on the order of a physician', there is no registration requirement with the state of New York.

What does the product label say on these devices you wish to sell? That would be a good indicator as to whether or not a registration is required.

Sincerely,
Jeffrey Fisher
Administrative Assistant Trainee 1

Subject: Medical Devices

Good Afternoon,

I am reaching out for clarity on the registration requirements for medical device companies. We manufacture and sell dental bone grafts which are Class II FDA cleared devices under 510(k) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act. Other states specifically carve these federally cleared devices out of their Pharmacy regulations, but I wanted to check re: NY.

In the definition section 6800 and 6801 it says "This article applies to the profession of pharmacy" and says "Definition of practice of pharmacy. 1. The practice of the profession of pharmacy is defined as the administering, preparing, compounding, preserving, or the dispensing of drugs, medicines and therapeutic devices on the basis of prescriptions or other legal authority, and collaborative drug therapy management in accordance with the provisions of section sixty-eight hundred one-a of this article."

The Merck Manual defines therapeutic devices as orthoses, wheelchairs, walking aids, scooters and other items typically sold in a pharmacy. We are not a pharmacy, do not do business with any pharmacies and do not sell therapeutic devices, instead we sell bone grafts regulated by the FDA directly to dentists. We do not think that these regulations apply to us. Can someone there please confirm that we are not subject to these regulations. In searching for other business entities registered as Pharmacies, I cannot find similar medical device companies – but out of an abundance of caution, I wanted to ask. More broadly, are there other purely medical device companies that register under these regulations?

Thanks,

Andrew

Task 5 Extent of Outsourcing
Auditor: Victor M. Hernandez

I could determine the extent of outsourcing of processes through my review of the Supplier Assessment procedure MDSAP-1300, Rev. 1, that may affect the conformity of product with specified requirements.

I verified through review of the Supplier Assessment procedure MDSAP-1300, Rev. 1 and the Approved Vendor Classification Log MDSAP-1300-01, Rev. 1, that the proper documentation of controls in the quality management system. The manufacturer outsources the following processes: Production, Cleaning, Heat Treat, Material Testing, Sterile Packaging, Sterilization, Sterilization Validation, Labeling, and Laboratory Testing, to the subcontractors who have been verified as identified in Sec 7 and the list is current and accurate.

I verified that the company outsources approximately 64% of their process. The criticality (risk) of outsourced process and vendors was reviewed and found to be acceptable.

Australia (TGA):
I verified through review of the Quality Management System Manual MDSAP-QSM, Rev. 3, that as part of the conditions of marketing authorization (ARTG inclusion) require that Australian Sponsors have to undertake some regulatory activities including; customer complaint handling, the management and communication of technical files /technical documentation, adverse event reporting, conducting recalls, ensuring that the name and address of the Sponsor is provided with the device, the storage of devices, the keeping of complaint and distribution records, annual reporting for an initial period of three years, of specified information to the TGA for Class AIMD, Class III and Class IIb devices that are implantable, information about supply of specified IVDs, ensuring that some devices that would contravene Part 2 of the Poisons standards are not supplied.

I also verified that the manufacturer is not yet registered to sell product in Australia and thus, does not have a sponsor which provide services for the installation and servicing of a device on behalf of the Manufacturer and that if services are provided that the sponsor is treated as a supplier to the Manufacturer.

Canada (HC):
I verified through my review of the Quality Management System Manual MDSAP-QSM, Rev. 3, that the manufacturer is not yet registered to sell product in Canada and thus, the manufacturer does not yet utilize a regulatory correspondents, importers, distributors, or providers of a service.

I further verified through review of the Quality Management System Manual MDSAP-QSM, Rev. 3 and the Supplier Assessment procedure MDSAP-1300, Rev. 1, t, that the roles and responsibilities of any regulatory correspondents, importers, distributors, or providers of a service are required to be clearly documented in the organization's quality management system and are qualified as suppliers and controlled, as appropriate.

Section 11.2 - Process: Device Marketing Authorization and Facility Registration

☐ Not audited

Completed Audit Tasks (check all that apply)

☐ 1. Submission for Device Marketing Authorization and Facility Registration

☒ 2. Evidence of Marketing Clearance or Approval

☒ 3. Notification of Changes to Marketed Devices or to the QMS

Description of the audited process or activity, and area (physical or organizational) Task 2 Evidence of Marketing Clearance or Approval
Auditor: Victor M. Hernandez

Major changes observed? ○ Yes ◉ No

I confirmed through review of the FDA Establishment Registration & Device Listing 2431866 for Impladent, Ltd, that the organization has received appropriate marketing clearance or approval in the regulatory jurisdictions where the organization markets their devices. Currently, the manufacturer is only registered to sell product in the US.

Australia (TGA):
I verified that marketing authorization (inclusion in the Australian Register of Therapeutic Goods [ARTG]) has not been granted to the Australian Sponsor. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Australia, and thus the manufacturer does not have an Australian Sponsor. Nonetheless, the Medical Device Registration for Australia procedure MDSAP-4300, Rev. 1, defines the policy and practices employed by Impladent Ltd. to enter medical devices in Australia under the requirements of the Therapeutic Goods Medical Device Regulations.

I verified that the manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Australia, thus a Sponsor has not applied for marketing authorization since the Manufacturer has not completed a conformity assessment procedure that is relevant for the Class of the device. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Australia.

I verified that the Non-Australian Manufacturer has not assisted the Sponsor through the provision of information to support an application for marketing authorization and to meet the relevant conditions for on-going supply. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Australia.

I verified that the Sponsor has not been provided with a Certificate of Inclusion in the ARTG to identify the products that have been granted marketing authorization. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Australia.

I verified that the Sponsor has not imported, supplied, exported, or manufactured (in Australia) a medical device since the manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Australia. Nonetheless, the Medical Device Registration for Australia procedure MDSAP-4300, Rev. 1, provides requirements to comply with the essential principles. Since the manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Australia, the Manufacturer has not applied a relevant conformity assessment procedure, and the Sponsor has not included the device in the ARTG.

I confirmed through review of the Inquiry and Order Processing procedure MDSAP-0900, Rev. 2 and the Volusion Software used for shipment, that the organization procedures do ensure that product is not released for supply to the Australian market since the Sponsor has not been issued with a "Certificate of Inclusion in the Australian Register of Therapeutic Goods", that identifies each kind of medical device that has been approved for supply to the Australian market [TG Act s41FJ], or the Sponsor holds a relevant exemption (TG Act Part 4-7).

I verified through review of the Medical Device Registration for Australia procedure MDSAP-4300, Rev. 1, that as part of an application for marketing authorization the Sponsor commits to certain requirements that are identified in s41FD - "Matters to be certified". These matters include establishing a written agreement with the manufacturer about the provision of information and establishing effective communication channels for post-market activities.

Canada (HC):
I verified through review of the Health Canada website, that the company has not imported or sold medical devices since the manufacturer of the device does not hold a license in respect of that device or, if the medical device has been subjected to a change described in section 34, an amended medical device license [CMDR 26]. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Canada.

United States (FDA):
21 CFR 807.81- Premarket Notification:

I verified through review of the Establishment Registration and Device Listing 2431866, that each person who is required to register his establishment pursuant to 807.20 has submitted a premarket notification submission to the Food and Drug Administration at least 90 days before he proposes to begin the introduction or delivery for introduction into interstate commerce for commercial distribution of a device intended for human use which meets any of the following criteria:
(1) The device is being introduced into commercial distribution for the first time; that is, the device is not of the same type as, or is not substantially equivalent to, (i) a device in commercial distribution before May 28, 1976, or (ii) a device introduced for commercial distribution after May 28, 1976, that has subsequently been reclassified into class I or II.
(2) The device is being introduced into commercial distribution for the first time by a person required to register 21 CFR 814 – Premarket Approval A Premarket approval is required for any FDA class III device that was not on the market (introduced or delivered for introduction into commerce for commercial distribution) before May 28, 1976, and is not substantially equivalent to a device on the market before May 28, 1976, or to a device first marketed on, or after that date, which has been classified into class I or class II.

I verified the company does not have any PMA products and is meeting their requirement.

I gathered the information through my interview with Andrew Valen, President.
Clause and regulation: [ISO 13485:2016: 4.1.1, 4.2.1, 5.2, 7.2.1, 7.2.3

Task 3 Notification of Changes to Marketed Devices or to the QMS
Auditor: Victor M. Hernandez

I verified through review of the Quality System Document Control procedure MDSAP-1400, Rev. 2, that the organization is required to identify changes to marketed devices or the quality management system which require notification to regulatory authorities. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Australia.

I verified through my review of the change control process, that the manufacture has not made any of the above changes. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Australia.

Canada (HC):
I verified through review of the change control process, that the manufacturer has not made one or more changes and the manufacturer has not been required to submit to the Minister, in a format established by the Minister, an application for a medical device license amendment including the information and documents set out in section 32 that are relevant to the change [CMDR 34]. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Canada.

I confirmed through review of the Medical Device License for Heath Canada procedure MDSAP-4301, Rev. 1, that the manufacturer of a licensed medical device is required annually before November 1 and in a form authorized by the Minister, furnish the Minister with a statement signed by the manufacturer or by a person authorized to sign on the manufacturer's behalf describing any change to the information and documents supplied by the manufacturer with respect to the device, other than those to be submitted under section 34 or 43.1 [CMDR 43]. I verified the company has not made any changes since the previous audit. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Canada.

I verified through review of the Health Canada website, that the manufacturer is not the holder of a medical device license. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Canada.

I verified by reviewing the Medical Device License for Heath Canada procedure MDSAP-4301, Rev. 1, that the licensee is required to inform the Minister within 30 days after the discontinuance, to cancel the license at the time that the Minister is informed [CMDR 43(3)].

Subject to section 34, if a new or modified quality management system certificate is issued in respect of a licensed medical device, the manufacturer of the device shall submit a copy of the certificate to the Minister within 30 days after it is issued [CMDR 43.1].

I verified by reviewing the Medical Device License for Heath Canada procedure MDSAP-4301, Rev. 1, that the manufacturer procedure does meet the requirements specified for Canada.

I verified through my review of the change control process, that the manufacture has not made any of the above changes. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Canada.

I verified by reviewing the Medical Device License for Heath Canada procedure MDSAP-4301, Rev. 1, that if applicable the manufacturer has to notify the Minister of Health in Canada.

United States (FDA):
21 CFR 807 - Establishment Registration and Device Listing for Manufacturers and Initial Importers of Devices:
I verified through review of the Quality System Document Control procedure MDSAP-1400, Rev. 2, that the process requires update for the device listing information during each June and December or, at its discretion, at the time the change occurs.

The following were reviewed for changes that require updating and information to be submitted for each:
- Did the owner or operator introduces into commercial distribution a device identified with a classification name not currently listed by the owner or operator
- Did the owner or operator discontinues commercial distribution of all devices in the same device class
- If updated registration if changes in individual ownership, corporate or partnership structure, or location of at the time of annual registration, or by letter if the changes occur at other times. Changes to be submitted within 30 days.
-If Changes in the names of officers and/or directors of the corporation(s) must be filed with the establishment's official correspondent and must be provided to the Food and Drug Administration upon receipt of a written request for this information

I verified that the company has not made any of the above changes that would require a notification to the regulatory authority. The manufacturer only sells Class 2 (510k) devices in the US.

I verified by reviewing the Quality System Document Control procedure MDSAP-1400, Rev. 2, for 21 CFR 807.81- Premarket Notification: that the company completes or will complete a new 510(k) application for changes or modifications to an existing device, where the modifications could significantly affect the safety or effectiveness of the device, or the device is to be marketed for a new or different indication. All changes in indications for use require the submission of a 510(k).
The following were reviewed for changes that require a 510(k) submission:
- Sterilization method
- Structural material
- Manufacturing method
- Operating parameters or conditions for use
- Patient or user safety features
- Sterile barrier packaging material
- Stability or expiration claims
- Design

I verified by reviewing the change control process, that the company has not made any of the above changes that would require a notification to the regulatory authority.

21 CFR 814.39 – PMA Supplements
I verified by reviewing the Quality System Document Control procedure MDSAP-1400, Rev. 2, that the company shall submit a PMA supplement for review and approval by FDA before making a change affecting the safety or effectiveness of the device for which the applicant has an approved PMA. While the burden for determining whether a supplement is required is primarily on the PMA holder, changes for which an applicant shall submit a PMA supplement include, but are not limited to, the following types of changes if they affect the safety or effectiveness of the device:
I reviewed the following items for changes:
(1) New indications for use of the device
(2) Labeling changes
(3) The use of a different facility or establishment to manufacture, process, or package the device
(4) Changes in sterilization procedures
(5) Changes in packaging
(6) Changes in the performance or design specifications, circuits, components, ingredients, principle of operation, or physical layout of the device
(7) Extension of the expiration date of the device based on data obtained under a new or revised stability or sterility testing protocol that has not been approved by FDA

I verified through my review of the Quality System Document Control procedure MDSAP-1400, Rev. 2, that the manufacturer procedure does meet the requirements specified for USA. The manufacturer only sells Class 2 (510k) devices in the US.

I verified that the company has not made changes to registered devices that would require a notification to the regulatory authority.

Since an applicant may make a change in a device after FDA's approval of a PMA for the device without submitting a PMA supplement if the change does not affect the device's safety or effectiveness I verified reviewed if the company reported a change to the FDA in a post approval periodic reports required as a condition to approval of the device, (e.g., an editorial change in labeling which does not affect the safety or effectiveness of the device.) The manufacturer only sells Class 2 (510k) devices in the US.

I gathered the information through my interview with Andrew Valen, President.

Task 3 Investigation of Nonconformity
Auditor: Victor M. Hernandez

(CA) I determined through my review of the Control of Nonconformities procedure MDSAP-1900, Rev. 2, that investigations are conducted to identify the underlying cause(s) of detected nonconformities, where possible.

I confirmed through review of the Nonconforming Material Report Log MDSAP-1900-04, Rev. 0 and NC-1-082721, that investigations are commensurate with the risk of the nonconformity.

I gathered the information above through my interview with Andrew Valen, President.

Auditor: Victor M. Hernandez

(PA) I determined through my review of the Control of Nonconformities procedure MDSAP-1900, Rev. 2, that investigations are conducted to identify the underlying cause(s) of potential nonconformities, where possible.

I confirmed through review of the only nonconformity reported since the previous assessment; NC-1-082721, that investigations are commensurate with the risk of the potential nonconformity.

Task 5 Correction, Corrective Action, and Preventive Action
Auditor: Victor M. Hernandez

I confirmed through my review of the Corrective and Preventive Action procedure MDSAP-0500, Rev. 2, that corrections, corrective actions, and preventive actions were determined, implemented, documented, effective, and did not adversely affect finished devices.

I ensured after reviewing the Corrective and Preventive Action Request Log MDSAP-0500-02, Rev. 1 and CAPA-21, CAPA-22, CAPA-23, CAPA-24, and CAPA-25, that corrective action and preventive action is appropriate to the risk of the non-conformities or potential nonconformities encountered. The company has issued no corrective actions and I sampled none, which provides an adequate overview of the effectiveness of the corrective action process. The company has issued five preventive actions and I sampled all five, which provides an adequate overview of the effectiveness of the preventive action process.

Task 10 Internal Audit
Auditor: Victor M. Hernandez

I verified through review of the Internal Quality Audits procedure MDSAP 0300, Rev. 1, that internal audits of the quality management system are being conducted according to planned arrangements.

I verified by reviewing the Internal Quality Audits procedure MDSAP 0300, Rev. 1 and the Internal Audit Plan MDSAP-0300-01, Rev. 1, dated 2022-01-03, that the company does have an Internal audit schedule that covers the entire process and documented procedures to ensure the quality management system is in compliance with the established quality management system requirements and applicable regulatory requirements, and to determine the effectiveness of the quality system.

I confirmed through the following auditor training records; Sharif King-Jones and Zachary Adler that the internal audits do include provisions for auditor training and independence over the areas being audited, corrections, corrective actions, follow-up activities, and the verification of corrective actions.

I reviewed the following audit records: 09292022-4, 09282022-1, 09092022-1, and 07072022-1, to verify applicable clauses of 13485:2016, and all applicable regulations were covered in the Internal audits. Internal audits occur on a quarterly basis throughout the year.

Task 12 Evaluation of Information from Post-Production Phase, Including Complaints
Auditor: Victor M. Hernandez

I confirmed through review of the Customer Complaint Handling procedure MDSAP-1700, Rev. 0, the Post Market Feedback System procedure MDSAP-3600, Rev. 0, the USA Recall procedure MDSAP-4400, Rev. 0, the Recall & Vigilance Medical Device Reporting Program for Canada procedure MDSAP-4401, Rev. 1, and the Recall & Vigilance Medical Device Reporting Program for Europe procedure MDSAP-4402, Rev. 1, that the manufacturer has made effective arrangements for gaining experience from the - post-production phase, - handling complaints, and - investigating the cause of nonconformities related to advisory notices with provision for feedback into the Measurement, Analysis and Improvement process.

I verified that information from the analysis of production and post-production quality data was considered for amending the analysis of product risk, as appropriate.

I verified that the company had had five complaints; 2022-001, 2022-002, 2022-03, 2022-04, and 2022-05 since the last assessment.

As part of my audit I sampled all five complaints which did represent the highest risk to the user or have the largest impact on the ability of the device to meet its essential design outputs.

Australia (TGA):
I verified through review of the Customer Complaint Handling procedure MDSAP-1700, Rev. 0 and the Post Market Feedback System procedure MDSAP-3600, Rev. 0, that the organization has procedures for a post-marketing system that includes a systematic review of post-production experience (e.g. from; expert user groups, customer surveys, customer complaints and warranty claims, service and repair information, literature reviews, post-production clinical trials, user feedback other than complaints, device tracking and registration schemes, user reactions during training, adverse event reports). As part of the audit, I verified that the company does have a proactive post market surveillance plan for devices manufactured.

The company has not had complaints and/or advisory notices in Australia. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell product in Australia.

I reviewed the Post Market Feedback System procedure MDSAP-3600, Rev. 0, and found it contained proactive elements. Post Market Surveillance is documented on the Risk Management Review for Production and Post production Activities yearly report and also presented during Management Review meetings.

Canada (HC):
I verified through review of the Customer Complaint Handling procedure MDSAP-1700, Rev. 0, that the manufacturer is required to maintain records of reported problems related to the performance characteristics or safety of a device, including any consumer complaints received by the manufacturer after the device was first sold in Canada, and all actions taken by the manufacturer in response to the problems referred to in the complaints [CMDR Section 57]. Currently, the manufacturer is not registered to sell product in Canada.

I verified that the manufacturer has established and implemented documented procedures: Recall & Vigilance Medical Device Reporting Program for Canada procedure MDSAP-4401, Rev. 1, that will enable it to carry out an effective and timely investigation of the problems reports through the customer complaints, and to carry out an effective and timely recall of the device [CMDR Section 58].

The company has not had complaints and/or advisory notices in Canada. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell product in Canada.

The company has not been required to file summary reports since the last audit. Currently, the manufacturer is not registered to sell product in Canada.

I verified by reviewing the Control of of Quality Records Retention procedure MDSAP-0200, Rev. 0, that the manufacturer has a procedure that does require record retention of the summary reports, the information used in the preparation of the reports, and any associated notification to the Minister for seven years after the day on which they are created. Currently, the manufacturer is not registered to sell product in Canada.

United States (FDA):
I verified through review of the Customer Complaint Handling procedure MDSAP-1700, Rev. 0, that procedures have been defined, documented, and implemented for receiving, reviewing, and evaluating complaints by a formally designated unit.
The procedures do ensure that:
(1) All complaints are processed in a uniform and timely manner
(2) Oral complaints are documented upon receipt
(3) Complaints are evaluated to determine whether the complaint represents an event which is required to be reported to FDA.

I found as part of my audit that the manufacturer had five complaints; 2022-001, 2022-002, 2022-03, 2022-04, and 2022-05, in the US and I sampled all five, which formed a statistical sample to verify the complaint process does meet the regulation.

I verified through the review of the Customer Complaint Handling procedure MDSAP-1700, Rev. 0, that the manufacturer does review and evaluate all complaints to determine whether an investigation is necessary. When no investigation is made, the manufacturer does maintain a record that includes the reason no investigation was made and the name of the individual responsible for the decision not to investigate.

I verified complaints of the failure of the device, labeling, or packaging to meet any of its specifications is reviewed, evaluated, and investigated, unless such investigation has already been made for a similar complaint and another investigation is not necessary.
I verified that any complaint that represents an event which must be reported to FDA must be promptly reviewed, evaluated, and investigated by a designated individual(s) and must be maintained in a separate portion of the complaint files or otherwise clearly identified. Records of investigation include a determination of:
(1) Whether the device failed to meet specifications
(2) Whether the device was being used for treatment or diagnosis
(3) The relationship, if any, of the device to the reported incident or adverse event
When an investigation is made, a record of the investigation is maintained by the formally designated unit.
The record of investigation must include:
(1) The name of the device
(2) The date the complaint was received
(3) Any unique identifier (UDI), or Universal Product Code(UPC) or any other device identification(s) and control number(s) used
(4) The name, address, and telephone number of the complainant
(5) The nature and details of the complaint
(6) The dates and results of investigation
(7) Any corrective action taken
When the manufacturer's formally designated unit is located at a site separate from the manufacturing establishment, the investigated complaint(s) and the record(s) of investigation are reasonably accessible to the manufacturing establishment [21 CFR 820.198].

I verified this through review of the following complaint records; 2022-001, 2022-002, 2022-03, 2022-04, and 2022-05. The records were found to be compliant and accessible

Task 13 Communications with External Parties Involved on Complaints
Auditor: Victor M. Hernandez

I verified that through review of the Customer Complaint Handling procedure MDSAP-1700, Rev. 0, that when an investigation determines that activities outside the organization contributed to a customer complaint, I verified that records show that relevant information was exchanged between the organizations involved.

The company has had complaints involving external parties.

This was verified through review of the following customer complaint records: 2022-001, 2022-002, 2022-03, 2022-04, and 2022-05.

I gathered the information above through my interview with Andrew Valen, President.

Task 14 Evaluation of Complaints for Adverse Event Reporting
Auditor: Victor M. Hernandez

I verify through review of the Post Market Feedback System procedure MDSAP-3600, Rev. 0 and the Medical Device Reporting procedure MDSAP-3100, Rev. 0, that the organization has defined and documented procedures for the evaluation of complaints for adverse event reporting.

I confirm adverse event reporting has not been needed to be performed through review of the following customer complaint records: 2022-001, 2022-002, 2022-03, 2022-04, and 2022-05, and that decisions to not report complaints were made according to established procedures and a documented rationale.

Task 15 Evaluation of Quality Problems for Advisory Notices
Auditor: Victor M. Hernandez

I confirmed through review of the USA Recall procedure MDSAP-4400, Rev. 0, the Recall & Vigilance Medical Device Reporting Program for Canada procedure MDSAP-4401, Rev. 1, the Recall & Vigilance Medical Device Reporting Program for Europe procedure MDSAP-4402, Rev. 1, and Recall & Vigilance Medical Device Reporting Program for Australia procedure MDSAP-4403, Rev. 1, that the manufacturer has made effective arrangements for the timely evaluation of quality problems involving distributed product for potential issuance and implementation of advisory notices.

The company has not had any quality problems for potential issuance of advisory notices.

I confirmed that a review of quality problems were evaluated for potential issuance of advisory notices. The following customer complaint records: 2022-001, 2022-002, 2022-03, 2022-04, and 2022-05, were reviewed which also included decision to not report and I confirmed that the organization has taken actions appropriate based upon risk and the organization has documented the rational for the decision to report or not to report. The company has not filed advisory notices.

I gathered the information above through my interview with Andrew Valen, President.

Major changes observed? ○ Yes ◉ No

I verified through review of the Post Market Feedback System procedure MDSAP-3600, Rev. 0 and the Medical Device Reporting procedure MDSAP-3100, Rev. 0, that the organization does have a process in place for identifying device-related events that may meet reporting criteria as defined by participating regulatory authorities.

I verified that the complaint process does have a mechanism for reviewing each complaint to determine if a report to a regulatory authority is required.

I confirmed by reviewing the Customer Complaint Handling procedure MDSAP-1700, Rev. 0, the Post Market Feedback System procedure MDSAP-3600, Rev. 0, the USA Recall procedure MDSAP-4400, Rev. 0, the Recall & Vigilance Medical Device Reporting Program for Canada procedure MDSAP-4401, Rev. 1, and the Recall & Vigilance Medical Device Reporting Program for Europe procedure MDSAP-4402, Rev. 1, that the organization's processes does meet the time frames required by each regulatory authority where the product is marketed.

Australia (TGA):
I verified through my review of the Post Market Feedback System procedure MDSAP-3600, Rev. 0, that the manufacture has implemented a post marketing system that includes the provision for adverse event reporting. Therapeutic Goods (Medical Devices) Regulations 2002 Schedule 3 Part 1 Clause 1.4(3)(c)(i).

I verified through review of the Recall & Vigilance Medical Device Reporting Program for Australia procedure MDSAP-4403, Rev. 1, that in the written agreement between Manufacturers and the Australian Sponsor [TG Act 41FD], events do have to be reported by the manufacturer to the TGA, or to the Sponsor in a timely manner to ensure that a Sponsor can meet their reporting obligations under the Therapeutic Goods (Medical Devices) Regulation 5.7 as follows:
-The manufacturer or other person becoming aware of an event that represents a serious threat to public health provided information as soon as practicable. The Sponsor is to report the event within 48 hours. This event has not occurred.
-The manufacturer or other person becoming aware of an event that led to the death or serious deterioration in the state of health of a patient, a user, or other person provided information as soon as practicable. The Sponsor is to report the event within 10 days. This event has not occurred.
-The manufacturer or other person becoming aware of an event that the recurrence of which might lead to the death or serious deterioration in the state of health of a patient, a user, or other provides information as soon as practicable. The Sponsor is to report the event within 30 days. This event has not occurred.

I verified that through review of Australia's TGA Recall Action Database, that Adverse events have not occurred since the previous audit. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Australia.

I verified through review of the Australian Register of Therapeutic Goods website, that the company has not included a device in the ARTG. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Australia.

The company does not distribute Class III and/or Implantable Class IIb products in Australia. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Australia.

Canada (HC):
Medical Device Regulations SOR/98-282, Section 59-61.1:
I verified through review of the Recall & Vigilance Medical Device Reporting Program for Canada procedure MDSAP-4401, Rev. 1, that the manufacturer and the importer of a medical device have a process in place that defines the process for making a preliminary and final report to the minister concerning any incident occurring inside Canada involving a Class II-IV device device sold in Canada or a Class I device sold inside or outside Canada including the applicable reporting times for Canada. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Canada.

The company has not had any reportable incidents since the previous audit. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Canada.

The manufacturer has not had reportable incidents in Canada related to a. and b. below.
a. Related to the failure of the device or deterioration in its effectiveness or any inadequacy in its labeling or in its directions for use.
b. Has led to death or serious deterioration in the state of health of a patient, user, or other person, or could do so if it were to occur [CMDR 59]. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell products in Canada.

I verified through review of the Recall & Vigilance Medical Device Reporting Program for Canada procedure MDSAP-4401, Rev. 1, that the manufacturer is required to made effective arrangements to submit preliminary reports to the Minister if required and that the reports shall contain [CMDR 60 (2)]:
(a) the identifier of any medical device that is part of a system, test kit, medical device group, medical device family or medical device group family;

United States (FDA):
21 CFR 803: Medical Device Reporting

I determined through review of the Medical Device Reporting procedure MDSAP-3100, Rev. 0, that the manufacturer has developed a process for reporting to FDA incidents involving device-related deaths, serious injuries, and reportable malfunctions that occur within and outside the United States if the same or similar device is marketed to the United States.

I confirmed through review of the Medical Device Reporting procedure MDSAP-3100, Rev. 0, that the manufacturer has developed, maintained, and implemented written medical device reporting (MDR) procedures for the following:
(a) Internal processes that provide for:
(1) Timely and effective identification, communication, and evaluation of events that may be subject to MDR requirements;
(2) A standardized review process or procedure for determining when an event meets the criteria for reporting; and
(3) Timely transmission of complete medical device reports to FDA
(b) Documentation and record keeping requirements for:
(1) Information that was evaluated to determine if an event was reportable;
(2) All medical device reports and information submitted to FDA
(3) Processes that ensure access to information that facilitates timely follow-up and audit.

I verified through review of www.FDA.gov for MedWatch, Recalls, Warning Letters, that the manufacturer has not had any incidents reportable to the US FDA.

I also verified that the process does require reports to be made within 30 calendar days after the day that the manufacturer receives or otherwise becomes aware of information, from any source, that reasonably suggests that a device that is marketed:
(1) May have caused or contributed to a death or serious injury; or
(2) Has malfunctioned and this device or a similar device that is marketed would be likely to cause or contribute to a death or serious injury, if the malfunction were to recur.

I confirmed through review of the Medical Device Reporting procedure MDSAP-3100, Rev. 0, that the manufacturer's MDR files will contain the following:
(1) Information (or references to information) related to the adverse event, including all documentation of deliberations and decision-making processes used to determine if a device related death, serious injury, or malfunction was or was not reportable to FDA.
(2) Copies of all MDR forms and other information related to the event submitted to FDA.

I gathered the information above through my interview with Andrew Valen, President.

(g) the name of each person to whom the affected device was sold by the manufacturer or importer and the number of units of the device sold to each person;
(h) a copy of any communication issued with respect to the recall;
(i) the proposed strategy for conducting the recall, including the date for beginning the recall, information as to how and when the Minister will be informed of the progress of the recall and the proposed date for its completion;
(j) the proposed action to prevent a recurrence of the problem; and
(k) the name, title and telephone number of the representative of the manufacturer or importer to contact for any information concerning the recall.

United States (FDA):
21 CFR 806: Medical Devices; Reports of Corrections and Removals
The company has issued no recalls in the United States since the last audit.

I verified through review of the USA Recall procedure MDSAP-4400, Rev. 0, that the manufacturer does have a process in place to notify FDA in the event of actions concerning device corrections and removals and to maintain records of those corrections and removals.

I verified through review of www.FDA.gov for MedWatch, Recalls, Warning Letters, that the manufacturer has not implemented corrections and removals that would require notification to the US FDA.

Task 16 Device master file
Auditor: Victor M. Hernandez

I determined by my review of DMR; MDSAP-2800-01, Rev. 3, that the manufacturer has established and maintained a file for each type of device that includes or refers to the location of device specifications, production process specifications, quality assurance procedures, traceability requirements, and packaging, labeling specifications and when applicable, requirements for installation and servicing.

I also confirmed through review of the Identification and Traceability procedure MDSAP-4600, Rev. 0 and manufacturing records for OPL1020-5, Lot 2214; OPL1020-5, Lot 2225; and OPL1020-5, Lot 2224; that the manufacturer has determined the extent of traceability based on the risk posed by the device in the event the device does not meet specified requirements.

Australia (TGA):
I verified by review of the product labels for OPL1020-5, Lot 2214; OPL1020-5, Lot 2225; and OPL1020-5, Lot 2224; that the design and location of information to be provided with a medical device, including labelling and instructions for use, do comply with Essential Principle 13 and implant cards and leaflets with Essential principle 13A. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell product in Australia.

Canada (HC):
I verified through review of the Risk Management procedure MDSAP-0400, Rev. 1 and the Risk Assessment for the Powder Filler process under IMP-001, Rev. 0, that the manufacturer does maintain objective evidence that devices meet the safety and effectiveness requirements of the CMDR [CMDR 9(2)]. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell product in Canada.

I verified through review of the Medical Device License for Health Canada procedure MDSAP-4301, Rev. 1, that devices sold in Canada have labeling that does conform to Canadian English and French language requirements and contain the manufacturer's name and address, device identifier, control number (for Class III and IV devices), contents of packaging, sterility, expiry, intended use, directions for use and any special storage conditions [CMDR 21-23]. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell product in Canada.

I verified through review of Invoice 76514 (USA), Invoice 76546 (USA), and Invoice 76587 (USA), that the manufacturer maintains distribution records in respect of a device that will permit a complete and rapid withdrawal of the device from the market [CMDR 52-56]. The manufacturer is not yet registered to sell product in Canada.

United States (FDA):
I verified through review of OPL1020-5, Lot 2214; OPL1020-5, Lot 2225; and OPL1020-5, Lot 2224; that a control number is required for traceability and confirm that such control number is on or accompanies the device throughout distribution [21 CFR 820.120(e)].

I verified the above information through my interview with Andrew Valen, President.
Clause and regulation as applicable: ISO 13485:2016: 4.2.1, 4.2.3, 7.1, 7.5.8, 7.5.9.1; TG(MD)R Sch3 P1 1.4(5) (c),(d),(e) & 1.9; RDC ANVISA 1665/2022: Art. 18, Art. 19, Art. 20, Art. 63, Art. 64, Art. 84, Art. 85, Art. 86, Art. 87 CMDR 9(2), 21-23, 52-56, 66-68; MHLW MO169: 6, 7-2, 26, 47, 48; 21 CFR 820.65, 820.181.

United States (FDA):
I verified by reviewing the Labeling and Packaging Control procedure MDSAP-2700, Rev. 0, that labeling is not released for storage or use until a designated individual has examined the labeling for accuracy including, where applicable, the correct unique device identifier (UDI) or Universal Product Code (UPC), expiration date, control number, storage instructions, handling instructions, and any additional processing instructions [21 CFR 820.120(b)]. Due to the fact that the company manufactures 1-2 lots of product per year, and labels are printed as needed, there were no labels available for review other than the ones on finished product.

I confirmed through review of label storage in the Company President's office, that labeling is stored in a manner that provides proper identification and prevents mix-ups.

I verified by reviewing the Labeling and Packaging Control procedure MDSAP-2700, Rev. 0 and the manufacturing area, that labeling and packaging operations are controlled to prevent labeling mix-ups [21 CFR 820.120(c) and (d)].

I verified by reviewing the following Batch Records: OPL1020-5, Lot 2214; OPL1020-5, Lot 2225; and OPL1020-5, Lot 2224; that the label and labeling used for each production unit, lot, or batch are documented in the batch record, as well as any control numbers used [21 CFR 820.120(e), 820.184(e)].

Name of Business/Industry/Entity Correctional Medical Services, Inc.

Provide explanation below:

From November 1997 until December 2007, I was the Chief Medical Officer of a company, Correctional Medical Services, Inc., based in St. Louis, Missouri, except for two periods of time when I was on active military duty - May 2004 to May 2005, and August 2006 until December 2007. The company provided health services to inmates in prisons and jails in hundreds of locations throughout the United States. Unfortunately, prisoners are likely to file lawsuits for many reasons. In the case of health care, the most common lawsuits are those that allege violation of constitutional and civil rights, as opposed to medical liability, but there are various combinations of complaint types. I do not know how many lawsuits were brought during my tenure at the company, probably dozens. I have no records, and the company went out of existence years ago. I do not recall any situation in which any of the cases resulted in a successful judgment against the company, but there may have been some. Certainly there was never an occasion that affected me personally from the perspective of financial or other penalties. It would be difficult to identify or find all the records related to this company during this time.

5. At all times material, Defendant, LOUIS C. TRIPOLI, M.D., (hereinafter referred to as "TRIPOLI") was and is an adult individual licensed to practice medicine within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania with his principal office located at 90 West Chestnut Street, Millcraft Center, Washington, Washington County, Pennsylvania 15301. Plaintiff believes and avers that Defendant TRIPOLI at all times held himself out to Plaintiff and the public as specializing in the field of internal medicine.

6. Plaintiff believes and avers that she has suffered from juvenile-onset diabetes since the age of nine and until the present date, has experienced several complications as a result of said diabetic condition.

7. Plaintiff believes and avers that in December 1988, she began to experience pain in her arms and back with her heart beating at a rapid pace. As such, Plaintiff presented herself to a certain physician in the Washington area wherein it was determined that Plaintiff should be admitted to a certain hospital in Washington, Pennsylvania wherein a diagnosis of Paroxysmal Ventricular Tachycardia was made. Plaintiff believes and avers that several days later, she was transferred to a certain hospital in the Pittsburgh area wherein she was referred to and came under the care of Defendants FRAZIER, HART and HOPKINS.

8. Plaintiff believes and avers that on or about January 5, 1989, Defendant HART performed a coronary arteriographic study wherein a diagnosis of severe coronary atherosclerotic heart disease and mild-moderate left ventricular dysfunction was rendered.

9. Plaintiff believes and avers that as a result of the diagnostic testing performed upon her and the prescription of certain medications to determine which medication would best treat her heart condition, Plaintiff was prescribed Quinidine 300 mg. Q6H and Mexiletine 150 mg. Q8H, as well as other medications for her heart and thyroid conditions. Plaintiff believes and avers that said medications were prescribed and/or approved of by Defendants FRAZIER and HART.

10. Plaintiff believes and avers that at no time while she was an inpatient at a certain Pittsburgh-area hospital, in January 1989, was she informed by Defendants FRAZIER or HART of any risks or complications associated with Plaintiff's ingestion of Quinidine for her heart condition. Plaintiff believes and avers that at no time while under the care and treatment of Defendants FRAZIER, HART or HOPKINS, was she informed of any type of risk or complication associated with taking Quinidine for her heart condition. Plaintiff believes and avers she was informed of the risks and complications associated with the diagnostic testing performed upon her by Defendant HART but was not informed by any of the Defendants of the risks and complications associated with Quinidine.

11. Plaintiff believes and avers that as of January 1989 it was known throughout the fields of dermatology and cardiology that Quinidine, a widely-used drug in the control of ventricular arrhythmias, was associated with a diverse assortment of adverse reactions. Plaintiff believes and avers that as of January 1989, it was known within the medical community that reported reactions to Quinidine included rashes or pruritus as well as photo-sensitive Livedo Reticularis. Plaintiff believes and avers that said complications as listed above have been discussed in various medical journals which were available to the Defendants in this case.

12. Plaintiff believes and avers that subsequent to her discharge from the Pittsburgh-area hospital in January 1989, she resumed care with Defendant TRIPOLI as Defendant TRIPOLI would continue to monitor her diabetic condition, with associated complications as well as her cardiac condition.

13. Plaintiff believes and avers that in March 1989,

Plaintiff was examined by Defendant HOPKINS wherein Plaintiff's medication of Quinidine was changed to a different form of Quinidine, known as Quinidine Gluconate and in addition, Plaintiff's dosage of Quinidine was increased. Plaintiff believes and avers that at no time during said examination did Defendant HOPKINS inform or advise Plaintiff of the risks and possible complications associated with Quinidine or its derivative and as such, Plaintiff continued to take said medication without fear of risk or complication.

14. Plaintiff believes and avers that in June 1990, but prior to June 16, 1990, Plaintiff was sitting out in the sun with short pants for approximately thirty to forty-five minutes. Plaintiff then went back into her home with no apparent injury or problem with her legs at that time. Plaintiff avers that the next day when she woke up, both of her lower extremities were experiencing mild distress. Subsequently, Plaintiff began to experience streaks of black, blue and silver on her lower extremities beginning from her ankles to her thighs on both lower extremities. It was at this time that Plaintiff telephoned Defendant TRIPOLI wherein she was instructed to present herself to the Emergency Room of a certain Washington-area hospital.

15. As such, Plaintiff believes and avers that on or about June 16, 1990, she presented herself to the Emergency Room of a certain Washington-area hospital with a rash and red and blue lesions on her lower extremities. Plaintiff believes that she was discharged from the Emergency Room on said date to follow-up with a dermatologist.

16. Plaintiff believes and avers that on or about June 22, 1990, she presented herself to a certain dermatologist in the Washington, Pennsylvania area wherein she presented with Reticulated Violaceous Macular eruption with blanching centers occurring after sun exposure. Said eruptions were present over the extensor lower legs and thighs. Plaintiff believes and avers that the diagnosis at said time was Livedo Reticularis.

17. Plaintiff believes and avers that from June 22, 1990 through July 8, 1990, the rash or discoloration in her lower extremities began to change and Plaintiff's lower extremities began to ulcerate and become extremely painful. As a result of the severe pain, Plaintiff presented herself to the Emergency Room of a certain Washington-area hospital on July 8, 1990 and was admitted into said hospital at that time. Plaintiff believes and avers that at the time that during her admission at the certain Washington-area hospital, she was informed by a physician at the hospital and informed by her dermatologist that the rash and ulcerations were caused by the Quinidine she was taking and at this time, Plaintiff was informed of past cases of Quinidine induced photo-sensitive Livedo Reticularis-like eruptions.

18. Plaintiff believes and avers that during her admission of July 8, 1990 to the certain Washington-area hospital, it was decided to discontinue the dosage of Quinidine. In addition, Plaintiff continued to experience severe pain and continued skin breakdown and ulcerations of both lower extremities.

19. Plaintiff believes and avers that on July 18, 1990, she was discharged from the Washington-area hospital and referred to the certain Pittsburgh-area hospital referred to above for Hyperbaric oxygen treatments and other treatments for the skin breakdown of her lower extremities. Plaintiff believes that at the time of her discharge, the prognosis regarding her legs was undecided and uncertain.

20. Plaintiff believes and avers that she was transferred to Allegheny General Hospital for medical care and treatment which consisted of Hyperbaric oxygen therapy, debridement and prescription of antibiotics. Plaintiff was then subsequently discharged from the Pittsburgh-area hospital.

21. Plaintiff believes and avers that her condition and the ulcerations and lesions on her lower extremities got worse and as such, Plaintiff presented herself back to the Washington-area hospital on or about August 21, 1990 in mild Diabetic Ketoacidosis. However, Plaintiff believes and avers that upon her admission to the certain Washington-area hospital, Plaintiff was not placed on antibiotics until on or about September 14, 1990. Plaintiff believes and avers that Defendant TRIPOLI was her attending physician during her admission to the certain Washington-area hospital from August 21, 1990 through the date of discharge on September 26, 1990.

22. Plaintiff believes and avers that during her admission of August 21, 1990, the condition of her lower extremities continued to deteriorate and that Plaintiff was receiving no relief from her condition through the care and treatment rendered at the Washington-area hospital.

23. Plaintiff believes and avers that since she was receiving no relief from her condition through the care and treatment rendered to her at the Washington-area hospital, Plaintiff requested transfer to a hospital in the Cleveland, Ohio area wherein she was admitted on September 26, 1990 and discharged on October 24, 1990. Plaintiff believes and avers that her principal diagnosis upon admission to the Cleveland-area hospital was bilateral severe ulcerative lesions of the lower extremities and necrotizing gangrene bilateral, of both lower legs.

24. Plaintiff believes and avers that on or about September 28, 1990 she underwent an operative procedure known as a bilateral debridement of extensive necrosis of leg ulcers. Plaintiff believes that said operative procedure was performed to control the infection in her lower extremities.

25. Plaintiff believes and avers that the condition of her lower legs became resistant to therapy and, as such, since Plaintiff was thereafter informed that her only option was amputations, on or about October 4, 1990, Plaintiff underwent surgery for bilateral above-the-knee amputations. Plaintiff believes and avers that had she been transferred or referred to the Cleveland-area hospital earlier than September 26, 1990, the amputation of Plaintiff's lower extremities would not have been necessary even though her lower extremities would have never been the same as prior to June 1990.

26. As a direct and proximate result of the Defendants' negligent, careless and/or reckless conduct as more fully set forth above and below, Plaintiff has sustained the following injuries and damages all of which may be continuing in nature and character:

a. Plaintiff sustained a loss of her lower extremities through bilateral above-the-knee amputations;

b. Plaintiff had to undergo severe and excruciating pain, suffering and inconvenience as a result of the lesions or ulcerations which formed upon her lower extremities from June 16, 1990 through October 4, 1990;

c. Plaintiff has sustained severe emotional harm, trauma, distress, anxiety, embarrassment and humiliation;

d. Plaintiff has suffered an impairment to her earning capacity or potential earning capacity;

e. Plaintiff has had to be fit and has received bilateral above-the-knee prostheses thereby requiring her to expend large sums of money on said prostheses as well as incurring large amounts of medical bills as a result of the medical care and treatment she received from June 16, 1990 through the present date;

f. Plaintiff has been and will be required to undergo physical therapy in the use of her above-the-knee prostheses;

g. Plaintiff has been subjected to medications and medical care and medical treatment and may be subjected in the future to medications and medical treatment;

h. Plaintiff has sustained a substantial impairment in the performance of her daily activities and of course, Plaintiff is unable to perform most, if not all, of the activities that she was able to perform prior to June 1990;

i. Plaintiff's ability to enjoy life has been substantially impaired and will remain substantially impaired the remainder of her life;

j. Plaintiff has suffered from the appearance of the conditions of her extremities;

k. Plaintiff sustained a substantial interference with family relationships and said interference may continue in the future; and

l. Plaintiff sustained substantial pain, suffering and inconvenience as a result of the bilateral above-the-knee amputations.

COUNT I -- TORT
CATHERINE I. WILSON, Plaintiff v. JOHN E. FRAZIER II, M.D. NEIL J. HART, M.D. and JAMES T. HOPKINS, M.D., Defendants

27. The allegations set forth in Paragraphs 1 through 26 above are hereby incorporated by reference into Count I of this Complaint.

28. At all times material, Plaintiff believes and avers that these Defendants were under a duty of care to advise Plaintiff of all risks, complications or consequences with the prescription of Quinidine or its derivative, which was prescribed by the Defendants in January 1989.

29. Plaintiff believes and avers that said duty of care requires that the Defendants advise Plaintiff of all risks, complications and consequences associated with the prescription of Quinidine since said medication has been found to induce adverse reactions in patients such as Plaintiff as well as cause photo-sensitive Livedo Reticularis.

30. Plaintiff, at all times material, has the legal right to make an informed decision as to whether to take the medication of Quinidine, once she is informed of all the risks and complications associated with said drug or in fact, Plaintiff has the right to receive all information necessary for her to take the necessary precautions so that said risks and complications associated with Quinidine could be avoided.

31. As such, Defendants failed to gain the informed consent of Plaintiff when Defendants failed to advise Plaintiff of all the risks, complications and consequences with taking Quinidine or its derivative. Accordingly, Plaintiff believes and avers that Defendants committed a battery upon her as Defendants did not have the proper authority to prescribe said medication to her.

32. As a direct and proximate result of the Defendants failure to gain Plaintiff's informed consent and as a result of Defendants' battery upon Plaintiff, Plaintiff has sustained those injuries and damages as set forth in Paragraph 26 above.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff demands judgment in her favor against the Defendants in an amount in excess of $20,000.00 and in an amount in excess of the jurisdiction of the Arbitration Division of the Court, plus costs.

COUNT II -- TORT
CATHERINE I. WILSON, Plaintiff v. JOHN E. FRAZIER II, M.D. NEIL J. HART, M.D. and JAMES T. HOPKINS, M.D., Defendants

33. The allegations set forth in Paragraphs 1 through 32 above are hereby incorporated by reference into Count II of this Complaint.

34. Plaintiff believes and avers that at all times material, Defendants were under a duty to exercise reasonable care in the medical care and treatment of Plaintiff under the circumstances. In addition, Plaintiff avers that the standard of care in the medical community required that Defendants have knowledge of the known risks and complications associated with the prescription of Quinidine or its derivative to Plaintiff, especially given Plaintiff's vascular condition. In addition, Defendants were under a duty and the standards in the medical community dictate that Defendants inform Plaintiff of the known risks and complications associated with the prescription of Quinidine or its derivative at the time prescribing said medication to Plaintiff.

35. Plaintiff believes and avers that Defendants were negligent, careless and/or reckless for their conduct as set forth above and as more fully set forth in the following particulars:

a. In failing to gain Plaintiff's informed consent prior to prescribing Quinidine or its derivative;

b. In failing to know or understand the known risks and complications associated with the prescription of the drug Quinidine or its derivative;

c. In failing to perform research or in failing to read journals or periodicals which discussed or provided information to the medical community of the known risks and complications associated with Quinidine and its derivative;

d. In failing to determine whether each or any of the other Defendants informed Plaintiff of the known risks and complications associated with Quinidine or its derivative;

e. In failing to exercise the required standards of care for the care and treatment of Plaintiff under the circumstances;

f. In failing to exercise the required standards of care for physicians with Defendants' background and expertise;

g. In failing to know or to recognize the required standards of care in the medical community for the care and treatment or prescription of Quinidine or its derivative to Plaintiff under the circumstances;

h. In failing to know, understand or recognize the effect of Plaintiff's vascular condition on the known risks and complications associated with Quinidine or its derivative;

i. In otherwise failing to exercise that degree of care due and owing under the circumstances; and

j. By increasing the risk of harm to Plaintiff which actually befell her.

36. Plaintiff believes and avers that Defendants' failure to inform her of the known risks and complications associated with Quinidine or its derivative substantially increased the risk of harm that would befall Plaintiff and which actually did occur.

37. As a direct and proximate result of the Defendants' conduct, Plaintiff has sustained those injuries and damages as set forth in Paragraph 26 above.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff demands judgment in her favor against the Defendants in an amount in excess of $20,000.00 and in an amount in excess of the jurisdiction of the Arbitration Division of the Court, plus costs.

COUNT III -- TORT
CATHERINE I. WILSON, Plaintiff v. LOUIS C. TRIPOLI, M.D., Defendant

38. The allegations set forth in Paragraphs 1 through 37 above are hereby incorporated by reference into Count III of this Complaint.

39. At all times material, Defendant TRIPOLI was under a duty to exercise reasonable care in the medical care and treatment of Plaintiff under the circumstances. In addition, at all times material, Defendant TRIPOLI was under a duty to render medical care and treatment within the standards of care within the medical community.

40. Plaintiff believes and avers that Defendant TRIPOLI deviated from the acceptable standards of medical care in the community, inter alia, for failing to properly attend Plaintiff's condition as of August 21, 1990 through September 26, 1990 wherein Plaintiff was finally transferred and referred to a hospital in the Cleveland area which was properly qualified and equipped to provide Plaintiff with the required medical care and treatment for her condition.

41. Plaintiff believes and avers that Defendant TRIPOLI deviated from the acceptable standards of care in the medical community and was otherwise negligent, as set forth above and as set forth more fully in the following particulars:

a. In failing to adhere to the required standards of care in the medical community for Plaintiff under the circumstances;

b. In failing to know or realize the appropriate standards of care in the medical community for the medical care and treatment of Plaintiff under the circumstances;

c. In failing to administer adequate and proper antibiotic therapy on or about August 21, 1990;

d. In failing to know or realize that adequate and proper antibiotic therapy had not been administered on August 21, 1990;

e. In failing to refer Plaintiff or transfer Plaintiff to another hospital facility qualified and equipped to provide Plaintiff with the required medical care and treatment for her condition;

f. In permitting gangrene to set in to Plaintiff's lower extremities;

g. In failing to advise Plaintiff of the known risks and complications associated with Quinidine or its derivative;

h. In failing to exercise that degree of care due and owing to Plaintiff under the circumstances;

i. In failing to determine whether Plaintiff's cardiologists, the other Defendants in this matter, properly advised Plaintiff of the known risks and complications associated with Quinidine or its derivative;

j. In failing to treat and/or properly and adequately treat or refer Plaintiff for treatment for the infections or ulcerations of her lower extremities from August 21, 1990 through September 14, 1990;

k. In failing to timely treat and/or properly and adequately treat or timely refer Plaintiff for treatment for the infections or ulcerations of her lower extremities from August 21, 1990 through September 14, 1990;

l. By increasing the risk of harm which actually befell Plaintiff;

m. In delaying the referral or transfer of Plaintiff to another hospital facility qualified or equipped to render appropriate medical care and treatment to Plaintiff for her condition; and

n. In delaying Plaintiff's treatment or in inadequately treating Plaintiff's condition such that a worsened condition, gangrene, protracted recovery and subsequent extended care, treatment and surgery by another physician resulted.

42. Plaintiff believes and avers that Defendant TRIPOLI's conduct increased the risk of harm for injuries which Plaintiff actually sustained.

43. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's conduct, Plaintiff has sustained those injuries and damages as set forth in Paragraph 26 above.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff demands judgment in her favor against the Defendants in an amount in excess of $20,000.00 and in an amount in excess of the jurisdiction of the Arbitration Division of the Court, plus costs.

No. 99C3155.

CHARLES R. NOROLE, SR. District Judge

Before the court are: (1) the motion of Defendants, Correctional Medical Services ("CMS"), Spectrum Healthcare Services, Richard Miles, and Louis Tripoli,[1] for summary judgment on Plaintiff's claims of defamation per se [29-1]; and (2) Plaintiff's motion to strike Defendants' response to Plaintiff's Local Rule 56.1(b)(3) responsive statement of facts [45-1]. For the following reasons, Defendants' motion for summary judgment is granted and Plaintiff's motion to strike is denied as moot.

[1] Where appropriate, the court refers to these Defendants collectively as the "CMS Defendants," or simply as "Defendants." Plaintiff has dismissed Imaging Diagnostic Systems and Richard Grable from this suit.

I. BACKGROUND

The short version of this diversity case is that Plaintiff, Andrew Skolnick, is an investigative journalist who wrote or contributed to several articles that were critical of healthcare in prisons in general, and of CMS in particular. The CMS Defendants, in turn, made several written responses to these articles. Not to be outdone in this water pressure contest, Skolnick sued the CMS Defendants, claiming that their responses defamed him and interfered with his business interests. Many of the underlying facts are disputed, but the material ones are not.

From November 1987 until November 1998, Skolnick was an associate editor for the Journal of the American Medical Association ("JAMA"). Skolnick's primary job at JAMA was to write approximately twenty-four stories per year for the "Medical News and Perspectives" section of JAMA. In 1997, upon the recommendation of his editor at JAMA, Marcia Goldsmith, Skolnick was selected as a Rosalynn Carter Fellow for Mental Health Journalism. As a Rosalynn Carter Fellow, Skolnick was to investigate and submit articles about medical and mental health issues in prisons.

The CMS Defendants are engaged in the business of providing prison healthcare services. In 1998, Skolnick began investigating the practices of CMS and allegations of its use of impaired or disciplined physicians in prisons. During his investigation, Skolnick consistently identified himself to CMS as an. associate editor for JAMA and a Rosalynn Carter fellow. Skolnick claims he also told CMS he was working for other publications, but admits he did not identify any such publication. By mid-August 1998, Skolnick ended his communications with CMS.

Based on his research, Skolnick wrote two articles for JAMA: "Prison Deaths Spotlight How Boards Handle Impaired, Disciplined Physicians;" and "Critics Denounce Staffing Jails and Prisons With Physicians Convicted of Misconduct" (hereinafter the "JAMA articles"). JAMA planned to publish these articles in September 1998, but delayed publication until its October 28, 1998 issue.

In mid-August 1998, reporters William Allen and Kim Bell of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch asked Skolnick to assist them in completing a special report on prison healthcare. Using personal time, Skolnick went to St. Louis on September 12, 1998 to contribute to the report. Skolnick, along with Allen and Bell, wrote or contributed to three articles that were published in the September 27, 1998 edition of the paper: "Physicians with troubled pasts have found work behind bars;" "Two key posts in Alabama were filled by doctors with checkered histories;" and "Prisoner, doctor who treated him, both had drug arrests" (hereinafter the "Post-Dispatch articles"). The Post-Dispatch articles, which were critical of CMS, identified Skolnick as an author, special contributor, and Rosalynn Carter Fellow.

After publication of the Post-Dispatch articles, CMS became aware that JAMA was planning to publish the JAMA articles. On October 26, 1998, the chief medical officer of CMS, Louis Tripoli, wrote the following letter to the chief editor of JAMA:

> I am the Chief Medical Officer at Correctional Medical Services, Inc., the nation's leading provider of healthcare services in correctional facilities, and have been a loyal member of the AMA for my entire professional career. It has come to our attention that JAMA's October 28, 1998 edition contains articles regarding the provision of medical services by our company. If that is the case, CMS requests the opportunity to provide further input and respond to any assertions to be made regarding our company and medical practices.

We make this request for three reasons. First, we have reason to believe that much of the background "facts" and assertions recently provided to journalists regarding CMS have been provided by plaintiff lawyers adverse to CMS as part of a campaign seeking to advance their litigation and financial interest by generating unfair and negative publicity regarding CMS and its healthcare professionals, many of whom are also AMA members. We are aware that plaintiff lawyers adverse to CMS have provided information to Andrew Skolnick of JAMA. We are certain that JAMA would not wish to be used by persons with ulterior agendas as a vehicle for the publication of inaccurate assertions regarding healthcare professionals.

Second, we have reason to believe that many of the assertions regarding CMS that may be published in JAMA have resulted from an "investigation" that included the use of questionable reporting tactics. Specifically, Andrew Skolnick repeatedly used the name of JAMA and, by implication the American Medical Association's reputation, when gathering information. However, Mr. Skolnick's stories first appeared, with his byline, in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch (September 27). Mr. Skolnick never mentioned to us that he was working on behalf of the Post-Dispatch. We trust that JAMA would not condone or reward the misleading use of the AMA's name. We would like the opportunity to discuss these issues with you further prior to any publication of assertions regarding CMS business or medical practices.

> Third, our reputation as a healthcare provider and the reputations of the healthcare professionals who work for us are of central concern to us. The publication of inaccurate assertions could result in substantial personal and financial damage to the parties involved. We believe that standards of professional responsibility and courtesy between medical doctors and healthcare professionals warrant the opportunity for us to reply and respond to any purportedly negative factual assertions regarding our practices prior to publication. We also believe that the separate journalistic standards of fairness, balance and accuracy require such an opportunity.
> Accordingly, we request that prior to the publication of any assertions regarding CMS by JAMA, we be provided with an opportunity to be heard and to respond to any assertions regarding our company. We have no doubt that JAMA will provide us with that opportunity. Please feel free to call me directly with any questions. I look forward to hearing from you.

(Def.'s Local Rule 56.1 Ex.10.)

On November 3, 1998, JAMA fired Skolnick. JAMA wrote a memo stating that Skolnick was terminated, in part, for contributing to the Post-Dispatch articles without informing his supervisor. Skolnick disputes this, claiming that JAMA allows its reporters to write about medical issues for non-medical publications. Skolnick alleges that the real reason JAMA fired him was negative reaction to the Post-Dispatch articles.

On November 20, 1998, Thomas Yanucci, an attorney representing CMS, sent a twenty-one page letter about the Post-Dispatch articles to the managing editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Yanucci's letter stated, in relevant part:

IV. The Newsgathering Tactics Employed by the Reporters Cast Considerable Doubt On Their Objectivity And Fairness And Establish Malice Toward CMS.

The reporters involved in the publication of the special report have employed tactics that have been repeatedly condemned by responsible media. Each of these actions is independent evidence of malice towards CMS, warranting serious reevaluation of the entire piece and proper steps going forward to guarantee fair treatment of CMS.

Failure to disclose reporter's identity. On February 27, 1998, CMS Communications Director Susan Adams received a telephone call from Andrew Skolnick. Introducing himself, Mr. Skolnick stated that he was working for the Journal of the American Medical Association ("JAMA"). Mr. Skolnick told Ms. Adams that he was working on an article for JAMA.

Based on Mr. Skolnick's representations, Ms. Adams agreed to meet Mr. Skolnick in Alabama and provide him with access to various facilities at which CMS provides healthcare services. During that meeting and tour of CMS facilities, Mr. Skolnick presented a business card identifying himself as the "Associate Editor" of JAMA. At no time did Mr. Skolnick inform Ms. Adams — or anyone else at CMS — that he was writing for or affiliated in any way with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. CMS did not learn that Mr. Skolnick was writing for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch until his articles appeared in the September 27, 1998 edition of the paper.

CMS disagrees with your assertion that Mr. Skolnick "was completely up front" with CMS because CMS was aware of the "issues" he was working on. JAMA certainly did not think that Mr. Skolnick was "up front" about its role in the preparation of the special section; it terminated Mr. Skolnick's employment shortly after his role in the special report was brought to light. Mr. Skolnick deliberately withheld the fact that — in addition to writing JAMA — he was sharing information with the Post-Dispatch reporters and contributing stories to their special report. There can be no good reason for withholding this information from CMS. Such deliberately deceptive conduct is further evidence of malice and bad faith toward CMS, the common target of Mr. Skolnick and the Post-Dispatch's journalistic efforts. There can be no justification for a reporter deliberately misleading the subject of a story.

While the editors and management at the Post-Dispatch have largely ignored CMS's concerns, other publishers have responded to CMS's concerns. During both of your meetings, Mr. Miles explained how Andrew Skolnick — a contributing author whose articles appeared in your paper "[s]pecial to the Post-Dispatch" — told CMS employees that he was working on an article for the Journal of American Medicine ("JAMA") when in fact he was writing for the Post-Dispatch. Mr. Miles pointed out the serious issues raised by a reporter misrepresenting his identity to the subject of a story. When CMS raised these issues with JAMA, it took immediate corrective action. Confronted with the same facts about Mr. Skolnick's conduct and his role in the preparation of the special report, JAMA immediately terminated his employment. The fact that JAMA — a third party that has no vested interest in defending the special report — took such decisive action validates CMS's concerns about the newsgathering process employed by the Post-Dispatch and casts serious doubt on the supervision of the reporters involved in the preparation of the special report.

By this letter, we are putting you — and the Post-Dispatch — on further notice that CMS views Mr. Skolnick's conduct as dishonest, fraudulent and deceitful. We repeat our request that the Post-Dispatch clearly instruct all of its reporters, correspondents and contributing authors to clearly identify themselves as working for the Post-Dispatch, when contacting CMS and its employees.

(Def.'s Local Rule 56.1 Ex. 14, pp. 15-16.)

On March 15, 1999, Defendant Richard Miles sent a package of materials to Jim Whittum, a judge in the Missouri Associated Press Managing Editors

News Writing Contest, in which the Post-Dispatch articles were entered. Miles' cover letter stated that the enclosed materials would demonstrate that the Post-Dispatch articles fell below the contest's journalistic standards for excellence. One of the enclosures was CMS' eighteen page response to the Post-Dispatch articles, which contained the following:

> Allegation [from the Post-Dispatch articles]: " An internationally renowned expert on forensic medicine and pathology from the University of Chicago called that report a 'whitewash' and said Moore's death was 'a homicide resulting from criminal negligence.'" (Allegation references documents in the death of Calvin Moore.)
> [CMS' response]: False . The article does not reveal that the physician cited, Dr. Robert Kirschner, was paid to be an expert witness for the plaintiff in this case. In contrast, the coroner's autopsy — which stated that the inmate's death was from natural causes — was performed by an independent state medical officer, who was NOT paid by either side to be a professional witness. The newspaper failed to mention these critical facts,
>
>
> Allegation [from the Post-Dispatch articles]: " Diseases don't respect bars. Each year in the United States, 12 million inmates return to society, bringing with them a broad range of diseases that are often infectious."
>
>
> [CMS' response]: The Post-Dispatch attempts to alarm readers by reporting that "12 million inmates return to society" each year. However, it is critical to note that, in the same article, the Post-Dispatch also reports that the nation's federal, state, and local criminal justice systems house approximately 1.7 million inmates. This contradiction evidences the Post-Dispatch's selective, arbitrary, and illogical use of facts.
>
> [CMS' summary of the Post-Dispatch articles]: The reporters' thesis is flawed, their statements are inaccurate, and the tone is sensationalistic. In short, their articles do a terrible disservice to the physicians, nurses, and other healthcare professionals who care for inmate patients in extremely difficult and challenging environments. They are dedicated and hardworking people who do not deserve to be vilified by reporters who disregard the truth in pursuit of journalistic accolades. While these healthcare professionals have been unjustly maligned, the truth is the real victim.

(Def.'s Local Rule 56.1 Ex. 12(A)(V) pp. 14, 18, 19.)

On May 12, 1999, Skolnick filed suit for tortious interference with prospective economic advantage under Illinois law. Skolnick later amended his complaint to allege that the above quoted material from the Tripoli, Yanucci, and Miles letters is defamatory per se under Illinois law. The CMS Defendants moved for summary judgment on all claims, and moved to stay discovery during the briefing. The court granted the motion to stay discovery, and limited the parties' briefing to the defamation per se claims.

Thus, the primary issue before the court is whether the three letters defamed Skolnick under Illinois law. Defendants argue that the quoted material is not defamatory per se, is capable of an innocent construction, and is non-actionable opinion. Skolnick agrees that Illinois law governs this dispute, but takes the opposite view on all other legal issues.

II. DISCUSSION

A. Motion to Strike

Local Rule 56.1 outlines the procedure for presenting facts in support of, and in opposition to, motions for summary judgment. Skolnick did not originally file a Local Rule 56.1(b)(3) response with his brief in opposition to the summary judgment motion. The court granted him leave to file an untimely 56.1(b)(3) response, in which he did not raise any additional facts. Defendants filed a response thereto, which Skolnick moves to strike.

The points Skolnick raises in his motion to strike are well taken. Defendants' response to his 56.1(b)(3) statement was unnecessary and improper. Nevertheless, the court did not consider Defendants' response in ruling on the summary judgment motion. Accordingly, Skolnick's motion to strike is denied as moot. That said, the court turns to the motion for summary judgment.

B. Standards for summary judgment

Summary judgment is permissible when "there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and . . . the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law." Fed.R.Civ.P. 56(c). Under Illinois law, the issues presented in this case, defamation per se, the innocent construction doctrine, and statements of opinion, are questions of law that are properly decided by the court. See Bryson v. News America Publications, Inc., 672 N.E.2d 1207, 1215 (Ill. 1996) (whether statement is capable of innocent construction is a question of law); Moriarty v. Greene, 732 N.E.2d 730, 740 (Ill.App.Ct. 2000) (whether statement is protected opinion is a question of law); Miller v. Danville Elks Lodge 332, 569 N.E.2d 1160, 1164 (Ill.App.Ct. 1991) (whether statement is defamatory per se is a question of law).

C. Defamation per se

The court first discusses the law of defamation, and then analyzes each of the letters. Defamation allows a person to recover for harm to his or her reputation caused by false allegations of fact. Hopewell v. Vitullo, 701 N.E.2d 99, 102 (Ill.App.Ct. 1998). "A statement is considered defamatory if it tends to cause such harm to the reputation of another that it lowers that person in the eyes of the community or deters third persons from associating with her." Bryson, 672 N.E.2d at 1214. "To prove a claim of defamation, a plaintiff must show that the defendant made a false statement concerning plaintiff, that there was an unprivileged publication of the defamatory statement to a third party by defendant, and that plaintiff was damaged." Dubinsky v. United Airlines Master Exec. Council, 708 N.E.2d 441, 446-47 (Ill.App.Ct. 1999).

"Defamatory statements may be actionable per se or actionable per quod." Id.; see also Pope v. Chronicle Publishing Co., 95 F.3d 607, 613 (7th Cir. 1996) (analyzing Illinois law). "A publication is defamatory per se if it is so obviously and naturally harmful to the person to whom it refers that a showing of special damages is unnecessary and extrinsic facts are not needed to explain it." Dubinsky, 708 N.E.2d at 447. By contrast, "[a] claim for defamation per quod requires the plaintiff to allege both extrinsic facts to establish that the statement is defamatory and special damages with particularity." Id. In this case, Skolnick is proceeding solely on a theory of defamation per se.

Illinois common law recognizes four categories of defamation per se: "(1) words that impute the commission of a criminal offense; (2) words that impute infection with a loathsome communicable disease; (3) words that impute an inability to perform or want of integrity in the discharge of duties of office or employment; or (4) words that prejudice a party, or impute a lack of ability, in his or her trade." Bryson, 672 N.E.2d at 1214-15. Skolnick focuses on the third and fourth categories, claiming that the Tripoli, Miles and Yanucci letters falsely impute that Skolnick lacks integrity as a journalist, and prejudice him in his occupation.

Illinois law recognizes several defenses to defamation liability, two of which are at issue in this case — the innocent construction doctrine and expressions of opinion.

1. Innocent Construction:

"Even if a statement falls into one of the recognized categories of words that are actionable per se, it will not be found actionable per se if it is reasonably capable of an innocent construction." Bryson, 672 N.E.2d at 1215. The innocent construction rule requires the court to interpret the alleged defamation in context and give the words their natural and obvious implications and meanings. Id. If, as so construed, "a statement `may reasonably be innocently interpreted or reasonably be interpreted as referring to someone other than the plaintiff, it cannot be actionable per se.'" Id. (quoting Chapski v. Copley Press, 442 N.E.2d 195, 199 (Ill. 1982)). There is no balancing of reasonable constructions. Dubinsky, 708 N.E.2d at 447. If a statement taken in context is reasonably capable of a non-defamatory interpretation, the court should so construe it. Id. This higher standard is necessary because of the presumption of damages in per se actions. Id.

An offshoot of the innocent construction rule is that the court should, if the context permits, limit statements about the plaintiff to a particular setting or single instance, so that the statements do not generally impugn the plaintiff's fitness for his or her chosen occupation. Anderson v. Vanden Dorpel, 667 N.E.2d 1296, 1302-03 (Ill. 1996); Dunlap v. Alcuin Montessori School, 698 N.E.2d 574, 581 (Ill.App. Ct. 1998). But, the Illinois Supreme Court has made it clear that the focus of the inquiry is on the context of the alleged defamation, rather than a simple determination of whether the defamation relates to a single instance. Costello v. Capital Cities Communication, Inc., 532 N.E.2d 790, 795-96 (Ill. 1988). A statement is actionable if, when taken in context, it generally impugns a person's fitness for his or her profession, even if the statement is limited to a particular setting or single instance.See id. (finding a statement directed to a single instance actionable because it generally impugned the plaintiff s fitness for office);compare Anderson, 667 N.E.2d at 1302-03 (finding an innocent construction for statements made in reference to the plaintiffs past performance in a single position, so that the statements did not pertain to the plaintiffs general fitness for a different employer).

2. Protected Opinion:

There is an obvious tension between freedom of speech and defamation.See e.g., Sullivan v. Conway, 157 F.3d 1092, 1098 (7th Cir. 1998) (noting how defamation suits can inhibit "the free and frank exchange of ideas, facts, and opinions. . . ."); Haynes v. Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., 8 F.3d 1222, 1224 (7th Cir. 1993) (analyzing "difficult issues at the intersection of tort law and freedom of the press."). Therein lies the irony. Skolnick, being an investigative journalist, is the last person one would expect as a plaintiff in a defamation case. His very livelihood depends on the free and frank exchange of facts and ideas. For him to wish to stifle the exchange of facts and ideas on prison healthcare is puzzling, especially where his work represents only one view of the subject, and has stimulated public debate on the topic. See Abrams v. United States, 250 U.S. 616, 630 (1919) (Holmes, J. dissenting) ("But when men have realized that time has upset many fighting faiths, they may come to believe even more than they believe the very foundations of their own conduct that the ultimate good desired is better reached by free trade in ideas — that the best test of truth is the power of the thought to get itself accepted in the competition of the market, and that truth is the only ground upon which their wishes safely can be carried out.").

Based on the first amendment to the United States constitution, Illinois law does not impose liability for expressions of opinion that may be considered defamatory per se and are incapable of an innocent construction. See Bryson, 672 N.E.2d at 1219-20 (analyzing Milkovich v. Lorain Journal Co., 497 U.S. 1, 10-23 (1990)). Illinois law on the issue of fact versus opinion largely follows federal constitutional principles. Nevertheless, the analysis begins, and in this case ends, with Illinois law rather than federal constitutional law. As Judge Easterbrook has explained, the court should examine whether state law imposes liability for defamation before venturing into the complexities of federal constitutional defenses to such liability. Underwager v. Salter, 22 F.3d 730, 733 (7th Cir. 1994) (limiting actual malice analysis to Wisconsin law); see also Wilkow v. Forbes, Inc., ___ F.3d ___, ___, 2001 WL 166709, at *3 (7th Cir. Feb. 20, 2001) (limiting fact/opinion analysis to Illinois law).

The parties do not raise the issues of whether Skolnick is a public figure or the CMS Defendants spoke on matters of public concern. See Milkovich, 497 U.S. at 22 (holding that where the plaintiff is a private figure, but the allegation of defamation is connected to a matter of public concern, liability requires some level of fault as defined in Gertz v. Robert Welch, Inc., 418 U.S. 323 (1974)); cf. Dilworth v. Dudley, 75 F.3d 307, 309 (7th Cir. 1996) (analyzing Wisconsin law, but noting that "[b]y publishing your view you invite public criticism and rebuttal; you enter voluntarily into one of the submarkets of ideas and opinions and consent therefore to the rough competition of the marketplace."). The parties do not raise these issues, so the court does not address them further.

The Illinois test to determine whether a statement is non-actionable opinion is a narrow one. Expressions of opinion are protected only when they cannot reasonably be interpreted as stating actual facts about the plaintiff. See Bryson, 672 N.E.2d at 1219-20 (discussing Milkovich, 497 U.S. at 20); see also Restatement (Second) of Torts § 566 (1977) ("A defamatory communication may consist of a statement in the form of an opinion, but a statement of this nature is actionable only if it implies the allegation of undisclosed defamatory facts as the basis for the opinion."). Illinois courts have used a couple of different tests to analyze the issue. The predominant test is based on Ollman v. Evans, 750 F.2d 970 (D.C. Cir. 1984), and consists of four factors: "(1) the precision of the statement; (2) the verifiability of the statement; (3) literary context of the statement; and (4) public and social contexts of the statement." Moriarty, 732 N.E.2d at 740 (citing cases). A slightly different three part test was announced in Hopewell, where the court stated:

> First, we consider whether the language of the statement has a precise and readily understood meaning, while bearing in mind that the first amendment protects overly loose, figurative, rhetorical, or hyperbolic language, which negates the impression that the statement actually presents facts. . . . Second, we consider whether the general tenor of the context in which the statement appears negates the impression that the statement has factual content. . . . Lastly we consider whether the statement is susceptible of being objectively verified as true or false. . . . While this approach considers the context within which the alleged defamatory statement appears, its emphasis is on whether the statement contains an objectively verifiable assertion.

Hopewell, 701 N.E.2d at 103-04 (collecting authority, internal citations omitted).

Neither of these tests is a hard and fast analysis. The emphasis is on the totality of the circumstances, and whether the statement can be reasonably interpreted as stating actual facts or objectively verified as true or false. See Wynne v. Loyola Univ. of Chicago, 741 N.E.2d 669, 676 (Ill.App.Ct. 2000) (citing Hopewell, 701 N.E.2d at 103-04); Moriarty, 732 N.E.2d at 740 (citing Ollman, 750 F.2d 970); Gardner v. Senior Living Systems, Inc., 731 N.E.2d 350, 355 (Ill.App.Ct. 2000) (citing Bryson, 672 N.E.2d at 1220); Dubinsky, 708 N.E.2d at 448; Doherty v. Kahn, 682 N.E.2d 163, 172 (Ill.App.Ct. 1997) (citing Piersall v. Sports Vision of Chicago, 595 N.E.2d 103, 107 (Ill.App.Ct. 1992)). If a statement contains objectively verifiable facts, the question of whether the facts are true or not is normally reserved for the jury. Bryson, 672 N.E.2d at 1220. But, if there's no dispute over their truth or falsity, the court can decide the issue as a matter of law. See Wynne, 741 N.E.2d at 675-76 (citing Hollymatic Corp. v. Daniels Food Equip., Inc., 39 F. Supp.2d 1115, 1118 (N.D. Ill. 1999)). To the extent a statement consists of both verifiable facts and expressions of opinion, the defamation claim fails if the facts are true. See Wynne, 741 N.E.2d at 676 (holding that summary judgment for the defendant was proper where the plaintiff admitted the underlying facts that formed the basis for the defendant's opinion); compare Moriarity, 732 N.E.2d at 740 (holding that the plaintiff stated a claim for defamation by alleging that the defendant falsely attributed an admission to the plaintiff).

It bears emphasis that one cannot avoid liability merely by couching a defamatory statement as an opinion. See Wilkow, ___ F.3d at ___, 2001 WL 166709 at *3 (citing cases). With these principles in mind, the court examines Skolnick's claims.

D. Skolnick's Allegations of Defamation:

Skolnick claims that each of the Tripoli, Miles and Yanucci letters is defamatory per se. The two common threads of Skolnick's allegations are: (1) that the letters falsely state that Skolnick misrepresented himself as working solely for JAMA when he contacted CMS; and (2) that the letters falsely state that Skolnick's reporting of facts in the Post-Dispatch articles was inaccurate. The net effect of both points, according to Skolnick, is that Defendants falsely impute that he lacks skill and integrity as a journalist.

At this point, the court addresses a curious statement in Defendants' opening brief. Defendants state: "For the purposes of this Motion only, [Defendants] are not addressing Skolnick's allegations that they intended to harm him; or that the Tripoli, Miles and Yanucci letter contain false statements." (Defs.' memo. p. 3.) Skolnick jumps on this statement as an admission that the letters contain false statements of fact, which dooms Defendants' innocent construction and opinion arguments. The court does not agree. The statement does not go as far as Skolnick claims. Indeed, Defendants argue, and Skolnick admits, that the material facts stated in the letters — Skolnick telling CMS that he worked for JAMA — are true. (See discussion infra at pp. 15-17; see also Pl.'s Local Rule 56.1(b)(3) Resp. ¶ 27.) Thus, Defendants' statement is of no moment.

1. The Yanucci Letter:

The court first addresses the Yanucci letter because it contains the harshest and most specific criticism of Skolnick. (See supra pp. 5-6 for the relevant text of the Yanucci letter.) According to Skolnick, Yanucci's letter falsely asserts that Skolnick deliberately misled CMS about where his work would appear. Thus, Skolnick argues that the following statements from Yanucci's letter are defamatory: (1) Skolnick "employed tactics that have been repeatedly condemned by responsible media," (2) Skolnick "deliberately withheld the fact that — in addition to writing for JAMA — he was sharing information with the Post-Dispatch . .

.; (3) Skolnick's "deliberately deceptive conduct is further evidence of malice and bad faith toward CMS;" (4) Skolnick "misrepresent[ed] his identity to the subject of a story;" and (5) that "CMS views Skolnick's conduct as dishonest, fraudulent and deceitful." Defendants argue, and the court agrees, that these statements are non-actionable expressions of opinion.

As a preliminary matter, the prefatory language of "CMS views" does not by itself render Yanucci's letter non-actionable. See Wilkow, ___ F.3d at ___, 2001 WL 166709 at *3. That issue aside, the primary question is whether the court can reasonably interpret Yanucci's letter as stating actual facts or objectively verify the statements, while keeping in mind that true statements of fact are not actionable. Gardner, 731 N.E.2d at 355; Hopewell, 701 N.E.2d at 103-04; Wynne, 741 N.E.2d at 675-76;Moriarity, 732 N.E.2d at 740. The Yanucci letter contains an assertion of verifiable fact, i.e., that SkolniCk identified himself as working for JAMA rather than the Post-Dispatch at the time he contacted CMS. This fact is true, and any expression of opinion based on it is not actionable. See Wynne, 741 N.E.2d at 675-76; Moriarity, 732 N.E.2d at 740. Yanucci's letter does nothing more than express CMS' displeasure with seeing Skolnick named as an author and contributor to the Post-Dispatch articles after he told CMS he worked for JAMA. CMS is entitled to form an opinion about that fact without incurring liability.See Wynne, 741 N.E.2d at 676; Moriarity, 732 N.E.2d at 739-40.

Skolnick claims he told CMS that he worked for other publications, so he argues that Yanucci's statements about Skolnick deliberately misleading CMS are false. Skolnick, however, admits he did not mention the names of any other publications to CMS. And, accepting the "other publications" statement as true does not change the outcome. Yanucci's letter is specific to the fact that Skolnick did not mention the Post-Dispatch when he was investigating CMS. Cf. Wynne, 741 N.E.2d at 675-76 (noting that "substantial truth" is a defense to defamation). The somewhat vague reference to "other publications" does not take away CMS' right to comment on the facts it knew — that Skolnick said he worked for JAMA, he did not mention the Post-Dispatch, and he contributed to the Post-Dispatch articles shortly after he ended his contact with CMS. See Wynne, 741 N.E.2d at 676; Moriarity, 732 N.E.2d at 739-40.

Moreover, the context of Yanucci's letter demonstrates that the strong language therein is mere rhetoric and hyperbole. The court must examine the language in context. Language that is loose, figurative, and exaggerated tends to be opinion rather than fact. See Gardner, 731 N.E.2d at 355 (noting that calling the plaintiff "unethical" could not be construed as stating facts, and was non-actionable opinion); Hopewell, 701 N.E.2d at 105 (noting that where a subject is controversial, harsh statements are more likely to be substanceless rhetoric). Yanucci's letter is a response to the editor of a newspaper that published articles highly critical of CMS. Skolnick identified himself to CMS as working for JAMA, and did not tell CMS that his work would also appear in the Post-Dispatch. In this context, Yanucci's statements to the effect that Skolnick was employing "tactics that have been repeatedly condemned by responsible media," misrepresented his identity, and was deliberately deceptive, dishonest, and fraudulent are rhetoric and hyperbole, not statements of fact.

2. The Tripoli Letter

The Tripoli letter is not defamatory per se. (See supra pp. 3-4 for the complete text of Tripoli's letter). Skolnick claims Tripoli's letter defames him by falsely accusing him of questionable reporting tactics and publishing inaccurate facts. The court addresses each in turn.

a. Questionable Reporting Tactics:

Tripoli's assertion of questionable reporting tactics is similar to Yanucci's letter, in that it is based on Skolnick's identification of himself to CMS as working for JAMA rather than the Post-Dispatch. The court's analysis of Yanucci's letter applies here as well, and need not be repeated. (See supra at pp. 15-17.) The underlying facts about Skolnick's identification of himself to CMS are true, and the remainder of Tripoli's comments on the subject are non-actionable opinion. (See id.) For the same reasons that Yanucci's letter was non-actionable opinion, Tripoli's assertion that Skolnick engaged in questionable reporting tactics is not actionable. (See id.)

Skolnick also argues that Tripoli's statement that Skolnick received information from plaintiffs lawyers seeking to advance their own agenda against CMS is defamatory per se because it impugns his integrity as a journalist. Under the innocent construction rule, the court should interpret the alleged defamation in context and give the words their natural and obvious implications and meanings. Bryson, 672 N.E.2d at 1215. A statement is not actionable per se when the court construes it in context and finds that it could reasonably interpret it as referring to someone other than the plaintiff. Id. Tripoli's statement that Skolnick may have been used by unnamed plaintiff's lawyers is reasonably capable of being construed as pertaining to the lawyers rather than Skolnick. Therefore, this portion of Tripoli's letter is not actionable.

b. Publication of Inaccurate Facts:

Skolnick claims that the Tripoli letter falsely states that Skolnick's reporting in the Post-Dispatch article was inaccurate. Defendants argue that these statements relate only to a particular setting, and are expressions of opinion. The court agrees on both points.

i. Particular Setting:

Illinois has done away with the rule that a statement limited to a single instance or particular selling is never actionable per se.Costello, 532 N.E.2d at 795-96. Instead, the court must examine the statement in context to determine whether the statement is truly limited to a single instance or generally impugns the plaintiffs fitness for his or her occupation. Id. Anderson, 667 N.E.2d at 1302-03. If the statement taken in context can be limited to single instance or particular setting, the court should so construe it. Anderson, 667 N.E.2d at 1302-03. In this case, Tripoli's letter plainly speaks of a particular setting, that is, Skolnick's investigation of CMS and subsequent reporting in the Post-Dispatch. The allegations that Skolnick engaged in questionable reporting tactics are limited to this setting, and there is nothing that generally impugns Skolnick's integrity as a journalist. Accordingly, Tripoli's "questionable reporting" statement is not actionable.

ii. Expression of Opinion:

Tripoli's letter is not actionable for another reason — it expresses his opinion. The court analyzes Tripoli's letter under both theOllman factors and the Hopewell test, which demonstrate that Tripoli's letter is opinion. The Ollman factors examine: "(1) the precision of the statement; (2) the verifiability of the statement; (3) literary context of the statement; and (4) public and social contexts of the statement."Moriarty, 732 N.E.2d at 740. Each of these factors indicates that Tripoli's letter expresses opinion. First, Tripoli's skepticism of the facts Skolnick reported in the Post-Dispatch articles is not precise. Indeed, there is not a single reference to any specific fact reported in the Post-Dispatch articles. Rather, Tripoli asserts generally that the Post-Dispatch articles contain inaccurate facts. As such, the firstOllman factor leans in favor of non-actionable opinion.

Second, Tripoli's assertion of inaccurate facts is not readily verifiable, which is a natural consequence of the lack of precision in Tripoli's letter. To verify Tripoli's statement would require litigation of all the facts reported in the Post-Dispatch articles. This exercise is better done in the marketplace of ideas than in a defamation action. Cf.Abrams, 250 U.S. at 630 (noting that an idea's acceptance in the market is the best test of its truth, Holmes, J. dissenting); Dilworth, 75 F.3d at 309 (discussing the criticism and rough competition of the marketplace that comes with publication); Desnick v. American Broadcasting Co., 44 F.3d 1345, 1355 (7th Cir. 1995) (criticizing "tabloid-style" investigative journalism, but noting its importance in the marketplace).

Finally, the literary, public, and social contexts of Tripoli's letter demonstrate that it is a general response to public criticism rather than a dissemination of specific falsehoods about Skolnick. See Gardner, 731 N.E.2d at 355; cf. Dilworth, 75 F.3d at 309. Such a response is an opinion. In sum, all of the Ollman factors lean in favor of finding that Tripoli's letter expresses opinion, not facts.

The Hopewell test also establishes that Tripoli's letter is opinion rather than facts. The Hopewell test analyzes: (1) whether the language is precise and readily understood, bearing in mind that overly loose, figurative, rhetorical, or hyperbolic language negates the impression that the statement actually presents facts; (2) whether the general context of the statement negates the impression that the statement has factual content; and (3) whether the statement is susceptible of being objectively verified as true or false. Hopewell, 701 N.E.2d at 103-04. Again, the Tripoli letter's allegations of inaccuracies in the Post-Dispatch articles are loose and generalized, rather than specific. The context of the letter, a response to public criticism, refutes the idea that Tripoli is stating false defamatory facts about Skolnick. See id. at 105 (noting that statements made in a public dispute are likely to be perceived as substanceless rhetoric). And, as discussed above, it is difficult to objectively verify whether Tripoli's assertion of inaccurate reporting is true or false.

In sum, both the Ollman and Hopewell tests demonstrate that Tripoli's allegations of inaccurate reporting in the Post-Dispatch articles represent his opinion on the subject rather than defamatory facts about Skolnick.

3. The Miles Letter:

The Miles letter does not defame Skolnick. (See supra pg. 7 for the relevant portions of the Miles letter.) There are three allegedly defamatory statements in the Miles letter: (1) the letter takes issue with the Post-Dispatch articles' report of a particular inmate's death, and the report of an expert who opined that the death was the result of "criminal negligence;" (2) the letter disputes the Post-Dispatch articles' report that 12 million inmates return to society each year; and (3) the letter summarizes the Post-Dispatch articles as inaccurate and sensationalistic. Skolnick also alleges that the Miles letter contains a fourth statement (to the effect that the Post-Dispatch articles were based on biased sources that could not be independently verified), but fails to specifically cite to the portion of Miles letter that contains that allegation.[2] Because the Miles letter is lengthy, and Skolnick fails to give the court any direction, the court will not waste judicial resources scouring the record to find his evidence. See Doherty v. City of Chicago, 75 F.3d 318, 324 (7th Cir. 1996); Waldridge v. American Hoechst Corp., 24 F.3d 918, 922 (7th Cir. 1994). Thus, the court only considers the three allegations of defamation outlined in this opinion. Skolnick has waived any argument on the fourth allegation.

[2] Defendants cited the portions of Miles' letter that contain the first three allegedly defamatory statements. The court relied on Defendants' citation.

Defendants argue that the three statements in the Miles letter are not defamatory as a matter of law because the first two do not mention Skolnick by name, and the third is an expression of opinion. Skolnick, on the other hand, argues: (1) that the letter contains indirect references to him, which makes it defamatory in these circumstances; and (2) that the letter's reference to the "reporters" of the Post-Dispatch articles is sufficient because Skolnick was one of the reporters. As explained below, the court finds nothing defamatory in the Miles letter.

Defamation allows recovery for harm to reputation. See Bryson, 672 N.E.2d at 1214; Hopewell, 701 N.E.2d at 102. The Miles letter simply presents another view of the facts reported in the Post-Dispatch articles, and comments on the general tenor of the articles. For example, the first allegedly defamatory statement states that one of the sources for the Post-Dispatch articles was an expert witness in litigation against CMS, and that his opinion was different from that of a coroner. The second allegedly defamatory statement takes issue with the Post-Dispatch report that 12 million inmates return to society each year by pointing out that there are only 1.7 million people incarcerated in the United States. These statements in no way harm Skolnick's reputation. Skolnick claims there is an inference that he failed to accurately report those facts, but that is too great a leap to support a claim for defamation per se. See Dubinsky, 708 N.E.2d at 447 (noting that defamation per se only exists if a statement is "so obviously and naturally harmful to the person to whom it refers that a showing of special damages is unnecessary and extrinsic facts are not needed to explain it."). Like the Tripoli letter, the first and second statements from the Miles letter are disputes of fact that are better sorted out in the marketplace than in a defamation action. Cf. Abrams, 250 U.S. at 630 (Holmes, J. dissenting); Dilworth, 75 F.3d at 309; Desnick, 44 F.3d at 1355.

The third allegation of defamation from Miles' letter is highly critical of the Post-Dispatch authors, but the statements are non-actionable opinion. Under both the Ollman and Hopewell tests, loose and rhetorical hyperbole is not actionable. See Hopewell, 701 N.E.2d at 103-04; cf. Moriarty v. Greene, 732 N.E.2d at 740. The final paragraph of Miles' letter uses such loose, rhetorical hyperbole. Miles' letter states that "the reporters' thesis is flawed, their statements are inaccurate, 1 and the tone is sensationalistic . . . [the] articles do a terrible disservice to [those] who care for inmate patients . . . [who are] . . . dedicated and hardworking people who do not deserve to be vilified by reporters who disregard the truth in pursuit of journalistic accolades. While these healthcare professionals have been unjustly maligned, the truth is the real victim." Imprecise statements such as this are not capable of verification, and cannot be construed as stating defamatory facts about Skolnick.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the court grants summary judgment in favor of Correctional Medical Services, Spectrum Healthcare Services, Richard Miles, and Louis Tripoli on Plaintiff's claims of defamation per se. The court denies Plaintiff's motion to strike as moot.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT BETWEEN STATE BOARD OF PHARMACY AND PROGRESSIVE MEDICAL, INC.

Come now Progressive Medical, Inc. ("Respondent" or "PMI") and the Missouri Board of Pharmacy ("Board" or "Petitioner") and enter into this Settlement Agreement for the purpose of resolving the question of whether Respondent's license as a drug distributor will be subject to discipline.

Pursuant to the terms of §536.060, RSMo, the parties hereto waive the right to a hearing by the Administrative Hearing Commission of the State of Missouri and, additionally, the right to a disciplinary hearing before the Board under §621.110, RSMo, and stipulate and agree that a final disposition of this matter shall be effectuated as described below.

Respondent acknowledges that it understands the various rights and privileges afforded it by law, including the right to a hearing of the charges against it; the right to appear and be represented by legal counsel; the right to have all charges against it proved upon the record by competent and substantial evidence; the right to cross-examine any witnesses appearing at the hearing against it; the right to a decision upon the record by a fair and impartial administrative hearing commissioner concerning the charges pending against it and, subsequently, the right to a disciplinary hearing before the Board at which time it may present evidence in mitigation of discipline; and the right to recover attorneys' fees incurred in defending this action against its permit. Being aware of these rights provided it by operation of law, Respondent knowingly and voluntarily waives each and every one of these rights and freely enters into this Settlement Agreement and agrees to abide by the terms of this document, as they pertain to it.

Respondent acknowledges that it has received a copy of the draft complaint to be filed with the Board, the investigative report, and other documents relied upon by the Board in determining there was cause for discipline against Respondent's permit. For the purpose of settling this dispute, Respondent stipulates that the factual allegations contained in this Settlement Agreement are true and stipulates with the Board that Respondent's license as a drug distributor, License Number DD2001007561, is subject to disciplinary action by the Board in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 621 and Chapter 338, RSMo. The parties agree that this Settlement Agreement and any statements contained herein may not be used for or constitute an admission for any purposes other than to settle the disputes between the parties.

JOINT STIPULATION OF FACTS

1. The Missouri Board of Pharmacy (the "Board"), is an agency of the State of Missouri created and established by §338.110, RSMo, for the purpose of administering and enforcing the provisions of Chapter 338, RSMo.

2. Progressive Medical, Inc., ("PMI") is located at 11085 Gravois Industrial Court, St. Louis, Missouri, and is licensed by the Board as a drug distributor under the laws of Missouri, License Number DD2001007561. PMI's license is, and was at all times relevant herein, current and active.

3. Beginning in 2003, PMI purchased pre-filled heparin syringes from Pinnacle Medical Supply, 3905 Melcer Drive, Suite 506, Rowlett, Texas ("Pinnacle") and distributed the syringes to certain of its customers.

4. On or about December 2, 2004, PMI received from the Board, via facsimile transmission, an Official Notification alerting PMI that Pinnacle, along with six (6) other distribution facilities, was not licensed in Missouri.

5. PMI understood the requirement that it only purchase and sell drugs and/or drug related devices from licensed or registered distributors.

6. In response to the Official Notification, PMI contacted Pinnacle and was advised by Pinnacle that Pinnacle was in the process of resolving all licensing issues with the State of Missouri. PMI did not contact the Board of Pharmacy or take other appropriate steps to confirm that Pinnacle was properly licensed in Missouri.

7. Thereafter, PMI continued to purchase pre-filled heparin syringes from Pinnacle.

8. In fact, Pinnacle is not, and has never been, licensed or registered by the Board to do business in the State of Missouri.

9. On January 24, 2005, PMI received a phone call from St. Louis University's health care system, SLUCare, referencing a problem with contamination of a pre-filled heparin syringe manufactured by Pinnacle and distributed by PMI. PMI claims that it immediately undertook to recall all pre-filled heparin syringes manufactured by Pinnacle and distributed by PMI. Under its recall procedure, PMI claims that it contacted by telephone, letter and fax, each customer to whom PMI had sold pre-filled heparin syringes manufactured by Pinnacle.

10. Thereafter, PMI ceased purchasing syringes or other drug-related devices from Pinnacle.

11. On or about August 3, 2005, the Board received a copy of a news article which was printed in the St. Louis Post Dispatch on August 3, 2005. The news article stated that St. Louis University's health care system, SLUCare, had filed suit, alleging that certain of its patients had become ill due to alleged contamination in syringes manufactured and distributed by Pinnacle and sold locally by PMI. It was noted in the news article that the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention linked Pinnacle's syringes to patients in St. Louis and in three other states who had become ill.

12. On or about January 18, 2006, Barbara Wood, an inspector for the Board, met with Roland Sullivan, the manager-in-charge of PMI.

13. At this meeting, Mr. Sullivan acknowledged to Ms. Wood that PMI had sold Pinnacle's pre-filled heparin syringes to hospitals and health care facilities, including SLUCare. The Board claims that Respondent had been previously warned by Inspector Wood regarding the requirement to only purchase drugs and/or drug related devices from licensed or registered distributors.

14. PMI's conduct of receiving and distributing drug related devices from an unlicensed distributor is in violation of 4 CSR 220-5.020 which states in pertinent part:

> (1) A "wholesale drug distributor" is defined in section 338.330(3), RSMo. No wholesale drug distributor with physical facilities located in the state of Missouri shall knowingly purchase or receive legend drugs and/or drug related devices from a wholesale drug distributor or pharmacy not licensed or registered by the board. Knowledge of the licensure status of a drug distributor or pharmacy includes, but is not limited to, actual or constructive knowledge. Knowledge of the license status of a drug distributor or pharmacy shall also include, but not be limited to, notification from the board by mail or electronic transmission.

15. PMI's conduct of distributing to hospitals drug related devices manufactured and sold by an unlicensed distributor is in violation of 4 CSR 220-5.030(1) which states:

> (1) Drug distributors must maintain standards of practice that will ensure that only drugs of appropriate quality will be distributed to practitioners for further compounding and dispensing to the public. These standards shall be subject to periodic reviews through the board's inspection process.

16. The employees and customers of PMI have a relationship of professional trust and confidence in PMI in that employees and customers relied on PMI to make reasonable efforts to ensure compliance with all relevant drug distribution laws and standards of practice.

17. The Board believes that PMI's conduct alleged herein violates the professional trust and confidence of PMI's employees and customers.

18. PMI should not have solely relied on the representations of Pinnacle and should have taken appropriate steps to confirm that Pinnacle was properly licensed with the State of Missouri.

19. By solely relying on the representations of Pinnacle and not independently confirming that Pinnacle was properly licensed, PMI did not assure that all state laws concerning the distribution and control of drug-related devices were complied with so that no violations occurred.

20. PMI's conduct alleged herein constitutes a violation of the drug laws and regulations of this state.

JOINT CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

21. Cause exists for Petitioner to take disciplinary action against PMI's permit under §338.055, RSMo, which states in pertinent part:

> 2. The board may cause a complaint to be filed with the administrative hearing commission as provided by chapter 621, RSMo, against any holder of any certificate of registration or authority, permit or license required by this chapter or any person who has failed to renew or has surrendered his or her certificate of registration or authority, permit or license for any one or any combination of the following causes:
> (6) Violation of, or assisting or enabling any person to violate, any provision of this chapter, or of any lawful rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this chapter;

* * *

(13) Violation of any professional trust or confidence;

* * *

(15) Violation of the drug laws or rules and regulations of this state, any other state or the federal government.

22. Cause exists for Petitioner to take disciplinary action against PMI's license under § 338.353.1, RSMo which states:

> 1. The board of pharmacy is hereby authorized and empowered, when complaints, examinations or inspection of a wholesale drug distributor or pharmacy distributor disclose to the board that a wholesale drug distributorship or pharmacy distributorship is not being operated or conducted according to such legal rules and regulations and the laws of Missouri or any other state or the federal government with respect thereto, to cause a complaint to be filed before the administrative hearing commission pursuant to chapter 621, RSMo, charging the holder of a license to operate a drug distributorship or pharmacy wholesale operation constituting grounds for discipline in accordance with section 338.055.

JOINT AGREED DISCIPLINARY ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, the parties mutually agree and stipulate that the following shall constitute the disciplinary order entered by the Board in this matter under the authority of §621.045.3, RSMo:

1. Respondent's drug distributor license number DD2001007561 shall be placed on PROBATION for a period of three (3) years. The period of probation shall constitute the disciplinary period. The terms of discipline shall be as follows:

A. Respondent shall pay all required fees for licensing to the Board and shall renew its license prior to October 31 for each licensing year.

B. Respondent shall comply with all provisions of Chapter 338, Chapter 195, and all applicable federal and state drug laws, rules and regulations and with all federal and state criminal laws. "State" here includes the State of Missouri and all other states and territories of the United States.

C. If, after disciplinary sanctions have been imposed, Respondent fails to keep its Missouri license current, the period of unlicensed status shall not be deemed or taken as any part of the time of discipline so imposed.

D. The parties to this Order/Agreement understand that the Board of Pharmacy will maintain this Order/Agreement as an open record of the Board as provided in Chapters 338, 610 and 620, RSMo.

E. Respondent shall report to the Board, on a preprinted form supplied by the Board office, once every six (6) months, beginning six (6) months after this Order/Agreement becomes effective, stating truthfully whether or not it has complied with all terms and conditions of this disciplinary order.

2. Upon the expiration of said discipline, Respondent's license as a drug distributor in Missouri shall be fully restored if all other requirements of law have been satisfied; provided, however, that in the event the Board determines that the Respondent has violated any term or condition of this Settlement Agreement, the Board may, in its discretion, after an evidentiary hearing, vacate and set aside the discipline imposed herein and may suspend, revoke, or otherwise lawfully discipline the Respondent.

3. No order shall be entered by the Board pursuant to the preceding paragraph of this Settlement Agreement without notice and an opportunity for hearing before the Board in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 536, RSMo.

4. If the Board determines that Respondent has violated a term or condition of this Settlement Agreement, which violation would also be actionable in a proceeding before the Administrative Hearing Commission or the circuit court, the Board may elect to pursue any lawful remedies or procedures afforded it and is not bound by this Settlement Agreement in its determination of appropriate legal actions concerning that violation. If any alleged violation of this Settlement Agreement occurred during the disciplinary period, the Board may choose to conduct a hearing before it either during the disciplinary period, or as soon thereafter as a hearing can be held to determine whether a violation occurred and, if so, it may impose further discipline. The Board retains jurisdiction to hold a hearing to determine if a violation of this Settlement Agreement has occurred.

5. The terms of this Settlement Agreement are contractual, legally enforceable, binding, and not merely recitals. Except as otherwise contained herein, neither this Settlement Agreement nor any of its provisions may be changed, waived, discharged, or terminated, except by an instrument in writing signed by the party against whom the enforcement of the change, waiver, discharge, or termination is sought.

6. Respondent hereby waives and releases the Board, its members and any of its employees, agents, or attorneys, including any former board members, employees, agents, and attorneys, of, or from, any liability, claim, actions, causes of action, fees, costs and expenses, and compensation, including, but not limited to, any claims for attorney's fees and expenses, including any claims pursuant to §536.087, RSMo, or any claim arising under 42 U.S.C. §1983, which may be based upon, arise out of, or relate to any of the matters raised in this litigation, or from the negotiation or execution of this Settlement Agreement. The parties acknowledge that this paragraph is severable from the remaining portions of this Settlement Agreement in that it survives in perpetuity even in the event that any court of law deems this Settlement Agreement or any portion thereof void or unenforceable.

RESPONDENT, AS EVIDENCED BY THE INITIALS ON THE APPROPRIATE LINE,

_____ REQUESTS

___MM___ DOES NOT REQUEST

THE ADMINISTRATIVE HEARING COMMISSION TO DETERMINE IF THE FACTS SET FORTH HEREIN ARE GROUNDS FOR DISCIPLINING RESPONDENT'S LICENSE TO OPERATE AS A DRUG DISTRIBUTOR.

If Respondent has requested review, Respondent and Board jointly request that the Administrative Hearing Commission determine whether the facts set forth herein are grounds for disciplining Respondent's license and issue findings of fact and conclusions of law stating that the facts agreed to by the parties are grounds for disciplining Respondent's license. Effective the date the Administrative Hearing Commission determines that the Settlement Agreement sets forth cause for disciplining Respondent=s license, the agreed upon discipline set forth herein shall go into effect.

If Respondent has not requested review by the Administrative Hearing Commission, the Settlement agreement goes into effect 15 days after the document is signed by the Board's representative.

LETTER OF ADMONISHMENT

ATTN: ALBERT BOURLA, CEO
1855 SHELBY OAKS DR N
MEMPHIS, TN 38134

RE: CI 2022 99946
OSD 4069

This LETTER OF ADMONISHMENT is being issued pursuant to Business and Professions Code section 4315 for failure to comply with the laws and regulations that govern the practice of pharmacy in California. (For exact language refer to the California Pharmacy Law and Index, located on the board's website at www.pharmacy.ca.gov, under Forms and Publications.)

The Board of Pharmacy has completed its investigation in the above referenced matter. All documentation and/or statements relating to the investigation have been accepted and included in an Investigation Report on file in this office. Facts contained in this report lead to the conclusion that the following violations of pharmacy laws or regulations have occurred:

JURISDICTION: Bus. & Prof. Code § 4315; 4161(j) - A nonresident wholesaler or non resident third-party logistics provider shall identify and notify the board of a new designated representative in charge ceases to be the designated representative in charge

Failure to Notify within 30 Days – Business and Professions Code section 4161(j) requires a nonresident wholesaler or nonresident third-party logistics provider to identify and notify the Board of a new designated representative-in-charge (DRIC) or responsible manager (RMG) within 30 days of the date that the prior DRIC or RMG ceases to be the DRIC or RMG. Specifically, on March 3, 2022 the Board received an Application for Change of Designated Representative-In-Charge from Pfizer Inc., which had been signed under penalty of perjury by a corporate officer and the new designated representative-in-charge (DRIC). The form indicated that the prior DRIC, Cynthia Jones (EXC 19073), dissociated on February 1, 2022 and that Nelson Zamora-Ramos (DRL 40641) took over as the new DRIC the following day. However, DRL Zamora-Ramos was unable to be named as DRIC because he did not hold an EXC license. Pfizer Inc.'s Application for Change of Designated Representative-In-Charge was subsequently rejected. On March 14, 2023, the Board received an Application for Change of Designated Representative-In-Charge from Pfizer Inc., which had been signed under penalty of perjury by a corporate officer and the new designated representative-in-charge (DRIC). The form indicated that the prior DRIC, Nelson Zamora-Ramos (DRL 40641), dissociated on March 1, 2023 and that Darren Nathan (EXC 23723) took over as the new DRIC the same day. Pfizer Inc. operated without a licensed DRIC for 392 days (February 2, 2022 – March 1, 2023).

If you wish to contest this Letter of Admonishment, you may do so by submitting, within 30 days of the date of service of this Letter of Admonishment, namely July 23, 2023, the attached "Request for an Office Conference" form. If an office conference is not requested, compliance with the Letter of Admonishment shall not constitute an admission of the violations described in the Letter of Admonishment.

Unless it is dismissed following an office conference or you receive other instructions from the Board in writing, Pharmacy Law requires that you maintain and have readily available for inspection a copy of this Letter of Admonishment and any written corrective action plan, if any, for at least three years from the date of issuance at the top of this letter. The Letter of Admonishment will be considered a public record for purposes of disclosure for three years from issuance. The issuance of this Letter of Admonishment does not limit the board's ability to pursue other disciplinary or administrative action under Business and Professions Code section 4315, subdivision (f).

If you have any questions regarding this Letter of Admonishment, please contact Suelynn Yee, Citation and Fine Analyst at (916) 518-3013.

LETTER OF ADMONISHMENT

ATTN: ALBERT BOURLA, CEO
1855 SHELBY OAKS DR N
MEMPHIS, TN 38134

RE: CI 2022 99946
OSD 4069

This LETTER OF ADMONISHMENT is being issued pursuant to Business and Professions Code section 4315 for failure to comply with the laws and regulations that govern the practice of pharmacy in California. (For exact language refer to the California Pharmacy Law and Index, located on the board's website at www.pharmacy.ca.gov, under Forms and Publications.)

The Board of Pharmacy has completed its investigation in the above referenced matter. All documentation and/or statements relating to the investigation have been accepted and included in an Investigation Report on file in this office. Facts contained in this report lead to the conclusion that the following violations of pharmacy laws or regulations have occurred:

JURISDICTION: Bus. & Prof. Code § 4315; 4161(j) - A nonresident wholesaler or non resident third-party logistics provider shall identify and notify the board of a new designated representative in charge ceases to be the designated representative in charge

Failure to Notify within 30 Days – Business and Professions Code section 4161(j) requires a nonresident wholesaler or nonresident third-party logistics provider to identify and notify the Board of a new designated representative-in-charge (DRIC) or responsible manager (RMG) within 30 days of the date that the prior DRIC or RMG ceases to be the DRIC or RMG. Specifically, on March 3, 2022 the Board received an Application for Change of Designated Representative-In-Charge from Pfizer Inc., which had been signed under penalty of perjury by a corporate officer and the new designated representative-in-charge (DRIC). The form indicated that the prior DRIC, Cynthia Jones (EXC 19073), dissociated on February 1, 2022 and that Nelson Zamora-Ramos (DRL 40641) took over as the new DRIC the following day. However, DRL Zamora-Ramos was unable to be named as DRIC because he did not hold an EXC license. Pfizer Inc.'s Application for Change of Designated Representative-In-Charge was subsequently rejected. On March 14, 2023, the Board received an Application for Change of Designated Representative-In-Charge from Pfizer Inc., which had been signed under penalty of perjury by a corporate officer and the new designated representative-in-charge (DRIC). The form indicated that the prior DRIC, Nelson Zamora-Ramos (DRL 40641), dissociated on March 1, 2023 and that Darren Nathan (EXC 23723) took over as the new DRIC the same day. Pfizer Inc. operated without a licensed DRIC for 392 days (February 2, 2022 – March 1, 2023).

If you wish to contest this Letter of Admonishment, you may do so by submitting, within 30 days of the date of service of this Letter of Admonishment, namely July 23, 2023, the attached "Request for an Office Conference" form. If an office conference is not requested, compliance with the Letter of Admonishment shall not constitute an admission of the violations described in the Letter of Admonishment.

Unless it is dismissed following an office conference or you receive other instructions from the Board in writing, Pharmacy Law requires that you maintain and have readily available for inspection a copy of this Letter of Admonishment and any written corrective action plan, if any, for at least three years from the date of issuance at the top of this letter. The Letter of Admonishment will be considered a public record for purposes of disclosure for three years from issuance. The issuance of this Letter of Admonishment does not limit the board's ability to pursue other disciplinary or administrative action under Business and Professions Code section 4315, subdivision (f).

If you have any questions regarding this Letter of Admonishment, please contact Suelynn Yee, Citation and Fine Analyst at (916) 518-3013.

Dear Analyst Yee,

I am writing to formally acknowledge the receipt of your Letter of Admonishment issued pursuant to Business and Professions Code section 4315 for failure to comply with the laws and regulations that govern the practice of pharmacy in California, dated June 23, 2023.

Pfizer takes this matter very seriously and strives to maintain a high level of compliance with the California Board of Pharmacy regulations going forward.

It is our understanding that I am currently the Designated Representative in Charge for the license in question and that the firm is now in compliance with Business and Professions Code § 4315; 4161(j).

A Designated Representative in Charge application for Nelson Zamora-Ramos was mailed to your office on March 9, 2023. Once his application has been approved, we will submit a request to add him as a Designated Representative in Charge for this license in addition to myself. Any assistance in processing the March 9th application will be most appreciated.

Should you have any further guidance, please do not hesitate to contact me at 901-380-6368.

Vantive US Healthcare, LLC Disclosures

There are no relevant disciplinary actions taken against the applicant corporation Vantive US Healthcare, LLC ("Vantive US") or the facility related to the license. Vantive US is a subsidiary of Baxter Healthcare Corporation, which in turn is a subsidiary of Baxter International Inc., a publicly traded company listed on the New York Stock Exchange with tens of thousands of employees world-wide. For purposes of transparency, we are providing disclosures pertaining to state disciplinary actions and charges against Baxter Healthcare Corporation. Additional information regarding specific Vantive US or Baxter Healthcare Corporation facilities (e.g., inspection history) can be found on the FDA website.

State Pharmacy License Disciplinary Actions

Utah, License # 12435996-1710, 2023

On February 17, 2023, The Utah Board of Pharmacy issued a citation for failure to timely notify the Board of the change in designated representative at the Baxter Byhalia, MS location. Baxter paid the fine and is waiting for the final signed order.

Utah, Pharmacy Class C License # 9451291-1710, 2022

On May 31, 2022, The Utah Department of Commerce issued a Citation and Order due to a failure to file a timely notification of the change in the designated representative at the Baxter - Hayward (W. Winton) location. Baxter resolved the matter and paid a reduced fine.

Idaho, Out of State Mail Service Pharmacy License # 36855MS, 2022

On March 3, 2022, The Idaho Board of Pharmacy issued an Order and Stipulation for violations stemming from an expired non-resident PIC registration. The registration has since been approved by the Board. Baxter has signed the Stipulation and paid the required fine.

Alabama, Permit #194460, 2022

On May 3, 2022, The Alabama Board of Pharmacy issued a citation for failure to notify the Board of the change in designated representative at the Baxter – Hayward (W. Winton location). Baxter resolved the matter and paid the required fine.

Georgia, Wholesaler Pharmacy License # PHWH001754, 2017

In January 2017, Baxter Healthcare Corporation (Baxter) agreed to resolve claims with the U.S. Department of Justice related to quality and manufacturing practices at Baxter's manufacturing facility in Marion, North Carolina in 2011-2012. Specifically, the government charged that between July 2011 and November 2012, Baxter did not follow cGMP requirements under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FDCA) when manufacturing certain large volume intravenous (IV) solutions. Briefly, a Baxter employee reported to plant personnel the presence of mold on HEPA filters installed in the ceiling, and Baxter continued to manufacture IV solutions while those filters remained in place. There was no evidence of any impact on the IV solutions. Copies of the settlement documents, which include a deferred prosecution agreement to resolve a single misdemeanor count of noncompliance with the FDCA, are available on the U.S. Department of Justice's website at https://www.justice.gov/opa/pr/baxter-healthcare-corporation-pay-more-18-million-resolve-criminal-and-civil-liability. The deferred prosecution agreement expired in July 2019, and the misdemeanor charge was dismissed with prejudice. This issue is unrelated to Baxter's pharmacy or wholesale activities.

Baxter disclosed this issue on a renewal application for a Georgia wholesale license for its Marion, NC facility, and in October 2017, the state of Georgia issued a disciplinary order against that license (PHWH001754) based on the disclosure.

Please note that this issue is unrelated to Baxter's pharmacy or wholesale activities.

Iowa, Nonresident Pharmacy License # 4127, 2014

The Iowa Board of Pharmacy (the "Iowa Board") issued a Stipulation for Baxter's Omaha, Nebraska pharmacy due to improperly delegating final verification of prescriptions for peritoneal dialysis solutions to a pharmacy technician. The Omaha facility is licensed in Nebraska under a Delegated Dispensing Permit, and utilized multiple quality checks, including retrospective pharmacist review, to ensure proper dispensing of peritoneal dialysis products to patients. Upon request by the Iowa Board, Baxter promptly modified its operations to ensure pharmacist verification of all orders. Baxter has signed the Stipulation and paid the required fine.

Montana, License #2152, 2010

The Montana Board of Pharmacy (the "Montana Board") issued a Stipulation for violations stemming from the failure of Baxter to notify the Montana Board in the requisite time frame of a change in the designated Person-in-Charge for the Waukegan, IL facility. Baxter has signed the Stipulation and paid the required fine.

Alabama, License #191639, 2009

The Alabama Board of Pharmacy found the Buford, GA facility was in violation of Code of Alabama (1975) Section 34-23-32. The facility continued distribution operations during the time between the valid license expired and when the expired license was renewed. Baxter Healthcare renewed the license, signed a Consent Order and paid the applicable fine.

Florida, Non-Resident Drug Manufacturer Permit No.: 26:4672, 2009

The Florida Department of Health (the "Florida Department") alleged that Baxter (Memphis, TN) sold prescription drugs to an unpermitted facility in Florida in violation of Section 499.005(15), F.S. Specifically, the Florida Department alleged that Baxter sold prescription drugs to Invivo at an unpermitted location. Baxter entered into a settlement agreement, whereby it neither admitted nor denied the allegations, and paid a fine.

Louisiana, License #3691, 2008

Louisiana Board of Wholesale Drug Distributors conducted a routine inspection of the facility operated by Baxter's third party logistics provider. Inspectors concluded Baxter (Round Lake, IL) violated Louisiana Administrative Code 46:XCI.311.D, which requires a licensee to maintain copies of current licenses for its customers who are authorized to obtain and possess legend drugs and devices. Baxter obtained customer licenses, signed a Consent Order, and paid the applicable fine.

Missouri, License #2005002668, 2005

The Missouri Board of Pharmacy (the "Missouri Board") issued a restricted drug distributor license to the facility located in Memphis, TN. The Missouri Board determined the facility violated Section 338.333.1 and 338.337.1 RSMo because the facility shipped legend drugs and/or medical devices into the state without being properly licensed. The proper license was obtained. The probationary period was successfully completed on October 21, 2007 and the restriction on the license was removed.

State Non-Disciplinary Settlements for Memphis Facility

Florida, License #s 26:506 (Memphis, TN) and 26:384 (Marion, NC), 2015

In June 2015, the Florida Department of Business and Professional Regulation (the "Department") sent Notices of Violation to Baxter alleging the shipment of prescription drugs to a Baptist Health South Florida, Inc. ("Baptist"), prior to Baptist receiving its permit to operate as a restricted prescription drug distributor – health care entity. Baxter had shipped products to the Baptist address under the valid medical license of the Medical Director, in reliance on a document evidencing the Medical Director's intent that he serve as the purchaser of the product. In August 2015, Baxter and the Department resolved this matter via a non-disciplinary settlement.

Other Actions: Dismissed Charge of Drug Law Violation

In January 2017, Baxter Healthcare Corporation (Baxter) agreed to resolve claims with the U.S. Department of Justice related to quality and manufacturing practices at Baxter's manufacturing facility in Marion, North Carolina in 2011-2012. Specifically, the government charged that between July 2011 and November 2012, Baxter did not follow cGMP requirements under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FDCA) when manufacturing certain large volume intravenous (IV) solutions. Briefly, a Baxter employee reported to plant personnel the presence of mold on HEPA filters installed in the ceiling, and Baxter continued to manufacture IV solutions while those filters remained in place. There was no evidence of any impact on the IV solutions. Copies of the settlement documents, which include a deferred prosecution agreement to resolve a single misdemeanor count of noncompliance with the FDCA, are available on the U.S. Department of Justice's website at https://www.justice.gov/opa/pr/baxter-healthcare-corporation-pay-more-18-million-resolve-criminal-and-civil-liability. The deferred prosecution agreement expired in July 2019, and the misdemeanor charge was dismissed with prejudice.

Please note that this issue is unrelated to Baxter's pharmacy or wholesale activities, or the facility that is the subject of this application.

RE: Licensing activity related to Baxter Healthcare and the legal separation of its Kidney Care business, resulting in the attached Vantive US Healthcare LLC manufacturer License Application

To whom it may concern

This letter is intended to provide you with supporting background information for the attached wholesaler application for Vantive US Healthcare LLC.

In early 2023, Baxter International Inc. publicly announced the intention to separate its Kidney Care (renal and acute therapies) business into a new, independent, publicly traded company– the name of this new company is Vantive. The final separation is planned for mid-year 2024, subject to customary closing conditions and receipt of regulatory approvals.

A new legal entity, Vantive US Healthcare LLC, has been formed as a first step in the legal separation. Vantive US Healthcare LLC is currently a subsidiary of Baxter Healthcare Corporation, which is a subsidiary of Baxter International, Inc.. Vantive US Healthcare LLC will remain an indirect subsidary of Baxter International, Inc. until the final separation of the two companies mid year 2024. However, prior to that final separation and starting on February 1, 2024, sales for the Kidney Care products will be through Vantive US Healthcare LLC.[1]

Baxter Healthcare Corporation currently sells these theraputic products, which are used in the treament of end stage kidney disease, directly to patients at home. For this reason Baxter Healthcare Corporation is currently licensed in your state as a wholesaler permit # WH03400 The activities of Vantive US Healthcare LLC will be no different than those currently occurring with the existing Baxter Healthcare Corporation wholesaler therefore there should be no distinction between the existing Baxter Healthcare Corporation license and the attached application for Vantive US Healthcare, LLC.

[1] Please note: although the site that is the subject of the attached license application is being transferred from Baxter to Vantive, the FEI number associated with the FDA Establishment Registration of this facility will remain the same on February 1, 2024.

We are providing this notification as we are requesting assistance by the state to ensure issuance of the attached license prior to February 1, 2024 in order to guarantee continuity of product supply to patients. Please contact me if there are any additional questions or concerns.

Sincerely,

LaToyia M. Martin

REGULATION OF TRADE, COMMERCE, INVESTMENTS, AND SOLICITATIONS

Chapter 499
FLORIDA DRUG AND COSMETIC ACT

View Entire Chapter

(1)(a) Except for those persons exempted from the definition of manufacturer in s. 499.003, any person who manufactures, packages, repackages, labels, or relabels a drug or device in this state must register such drug or device biennially with the department; pay a fee in accordance with the fee schedule provided by s. 499.041; and comply with this section. The registrant must list each separate and distinct drug or device at the time of registration.

(b) The department may not register any product that does not comply with the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, as amended, or Title 21 C.F.R. Registration of a product by the department does not mean that the product does in fact comply with all provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, as amended.

(2) The department may require the submission of a catalog and specimens of labels at the time of application for registration of drugs or devices packaged and prepared in compliance with the federal act, which submission constitutes a satisfactory compliance for registration of the products. With respect to all other drugs and devices, the department may require the submission of a catalog and specimens of labels at the time of application for registration, but the registration will not become effective until the department has examined and approved the label of the drug or device. This approval or denial must include written notification to the manufacturer.

(3) Except for those persons exempted from the definition of manufacturer in s. 499.003, a person may not sell any product that he or she has failed to register in conformity with this section. Such failure to register subjects such drug or device to seizure and condemnation as provided in s. 499.062, and subjects such person to the penalties and remedies provided in this part.

(4) Unless a registration is renewed, it expires 2 years after the last day of the month in which it was issued. Any product registration issued or renewed on or after July 1, 2016, shall expire on the same date as the manufacturer or repackager permit of the person seeking to register the product. If the first product registration issued to a person on or after July 1, 2016, expires less than 366 days after issuance, the fee for product registration shall be $15. If the first product registration issued to a person on or after July 1, 2016, expires more than 365 days after issuance, the fee for product registration shall be $30. The department may issue a stop-sale notice or order against a person that is subject to the requirements of this section and that fails to comply with this section within 31 days after the date the registration expires. The notice or order shall prohibit such person from selling or causing to be sold any drugs or devices covered by this part until he or she complies with the requirements of this section.

(5) A product regulated under this section which is not included in the biennial registration may not be sold until it is registered and complies with this section.

(6) The department may issue a certificate of free sale for any product that is required to be registered under this part.

(7) A product registration is valid only for the company named on the registration and located at the address on the registration. A person whose product is registered by the department under this section must notify the department before any change in the name or address of the establishment to which the product is registered. If a person whose product is registered ceases conducting business, the person must notify the department before closing the business.

(8) Notwithstanding any requirements set forth in this part, a manufacturer of medical devices that is registered with the federal Food and Drug Administration is exempt from this section and s. 499.041(6) if:

(a) The manufacturer's medical devices are approved for marketing by, or listed with the federal Food and Drug Administration in accordance with federal law for commercial distribution; or

(b) The manufacturer subcontracts with a manufacturer of medical devices to manufacture components of such devices.

(9) However, the manufacturer must submit evidence of such registration, listing, or approval with its initial application for a permit to do business in this state, as required in s. 499.01, and any changes to such information previously submitted at the time of renewal of the permit. Evidence of approval, listing, and registration by the federal Food and Drug Administration must include:

(a) For Class II devices, a copy of the premarket notification letter (510K);

(b) For Class III devices, a federal Food and Drug Administration premarket approval number;

(c) For a manufacturer who subcontracts with a manufacturer of medical devices to manufacture components of such devices, a federal Food and Drug Administration registration number; or

(d) For a manufacturer of medical devices whose devices are exempt from premarket approval by the federal Food and Drug Administration, a federal Food and Drug Administration registration number.

[1]Note.—

A. Section 11, ch. 2019-99, provides in part that "[i]mplementation of sections 2 through 10 of this act is contingent upon authorization granted under federal law, rule, or approval." Section 11, ch. 2019-99, was codified as s. 499.02851. Section 12, ch. 2019-99, provides that "[t]his act shall take effect July 1, 2019."

B. Subject to the contingency as to implementation in s. 11, ch. 2019-99, s. 8, ch. 2019-99, amends subsection (1), to read:

(1)(a) Except for those persons exempted from the definition of manufacturer in s. 499.003, any person who manufactures, packages, repackages, labels, or relabels a drug or device in this state must register such drug or device biennially with the department; pay a fee in accordance with the fee schedule provided by s. 499.041; and comply with this section. (b) The department may not register any product that does not comply with the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, as amended, or Title 21 C.F.R. Registration of a product by the department does not mean that the product does in fact comply with all provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, as amended.

(c) Registration under this section is not required for prescription drugs imported under the International Prescription Drug Importation Program established in s. 499.0285.

On May 31, 2022, The Utah Department of Commerce issued a Citation and Order due to a failure to file a timely notification of the change in the designated representative at the Baxter - Hayward (W. Winton) location. Baxter resolved the matter and paid a reduced fine.

Idaho, Out of State Mail Service Pharmacy License # 36855MS, 2022

On March 3, 2022, The Idaho Board of Pharmacy issued an Order and Stipulation for violations stemming from an expired non-resident PIC registration. The registration has since been approved by the Board. Baxter has signed the Stipulation and paid the required fine.

Alabama, Permit #194460, 2022

On May 3, 2022, The Alabama Board of Pharmacy issued a citation for failure to notify the Board of the change in designated representative at the Baxter – Hayward (W. Winton location). Baxter resolved the matter and paid the required fine.

Georgia, Wholesaler Pharmacy License # PHWH001754, 2017

In January 2017, Baxter Healthcare Corporation (Baxter) agreed to resolve claims with the U.S. Department of Justice related to quality and manufacturing practices at Baxter's manufacturing facility in Marion, North Carolina in 2011-2012. Specifically, the government charged that between July 2011 and November 2012, Baxter did not follow cGMP requirements under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FDCA) when manufacturing certain large volume intravenous (IV) solutions. Briefly, a Baxter employee reported to plant personnel the presence of mold on HEPA filters installed in the ceiling, and Baxter continued to manufacture IV solutions while those filters remained in place. There was no evidence of any impact on the IV solutions. Copies of the settlement documents, which include a deferred prosecution agreement to resolve a single misdemeanor count of noncompliance with the FDCA, are available on the U.S. Department of Justice's website at https://www.justice.gov/opa/pr/baxter-healthcare-corporation-pay-more-18-million-resolve-criminal-and-civil-liability. The deferred prosecution agreement expired in July 2019, and the misdemeanor charge was dismissed with prejudice. This issue is unrelated to Baxter's pharmacy or wholesale activities.

Baxter disclosed this issue on a renewal application for a Georgia wholesale license for its Marion, NC facility, and in October 2017, the state of Georgia issued a disciplinary order against that license (PHWH001754) based on the disclosure.

Please note that this issue is unrelated to Baxter's pharmacy or wholesale activities.

Iowa, Nonresident Pharmacy License # 4127, 2014

The Iowa Board of Pharmacy (the "Iowa Board") issued a Stipulation for Baxter's Omaha, Nebraska pharmacy due to improperly delegating final verification of prescriptions for peritoneal dialysis solutions to a pharmacy technician. The Omaha facility is licensed in Nebraska under a Delegated Dispensing Permit, and utilized multiple quality checks, including retrospective pharmacist review, to ensure proper dispensing of peritoneal dialysis products to patients. Upon request by the Iowa Board, Baxter promptly modified its operations to ensure pharmacist verification of all orders. Baxter has signed the Stipulation and paid the required fine.

Montana, License #2152, 2010

The Montana Board of Pharmacy (the "Montana Board") issued a Stipulation for violations stemming from the failure of Baxter to notify the Montana Board in the requisite time frame of a change in the designated Person-in-Charge for the Waukegan, IL facility. Baxter has signed the Stipulation and paid the required fine.

Alabama, License #191639, 2009

The Alabama Board of Pharmacy found the Buford, GA facility was in violation of Code of Alabama (1975) Section 34-23-32. The facility continued distribution operations during the time between the valid license expired and when the expired license was renewed. Baxter Healthcare renewed the license, signed a Consent Order and paid the applicable fine.

Florida, Non-Resident Drug Manufacturer Permit No.: 26:4672, 2009

The Florida Department of Health (the "Florida Department") alleged that Baxter (Memphis, TN) sold prescription drugs to an unpermitted facility in Florida in violation of Section 499.005(15), F.S. Specifically, the Florida Department alleged that Baxter sold prescription drugs to Invivo at an unpermitted location. Baxter entered into a settlement agreement, whereby it neither admitted nor denied the allegations, and paid a fine.

Louisiana, License #3691, 2008

Louisiana Board of Wholesale Drug Distributors conducted a routine inspection of the facility operated by Baxter's third party logistics provider. Inspectors concluded Baxter (Round Lake, IL) violated Louisiana Administrative Code 46:XCI.311.D, which requires a licensee to maintain copies of current licenses for its customers who are authorized to obtain and possess legend drugs and devices. Baxter obtained customer licenses, signed a Consent Order, and paid the applicable fine.

Missouri, License #2005002668, 2005

The Missouri Board of Pharmacy (the "Missouri Board") issued a restricted drug distributor license to the facility located in Memphis, TN. The Missouri Board determined the facility violated Section 338.333.1 and 338.337.1 RSMo because the facility shipped legend drugs and/or medical devices into the state without being properly licensed. The proper license was obtained. The probationary period was successfully completed on October 21, 2007 and the restriction on the license was removed.

Pending Disciplinary Action

Utah, License # 12435996-1710

On February 17, 2023, The Utah Board of Pharmacy issued a citation for failure to timely notify the Board of the change in designated representative at the Baxter Byhalia, MS location. Pending matter, waiting on the order and to pay the fine.

State Non-Disciplinary Settlements for Memphis Facility

Florida, License #s 26:506 (Memphis, TN) and 26:384 (Marion, NC), 2015

In June 2015, the Florida Department of Business and Professional Regulation (the "Department") sent Notices of Violation to Baxter alleging the shipment of prescription drugs to a Baptist Health South Florida, Inc. ("Baptist"), prior to Baptist receiving its permit to operate as a restricted prescription drug distributor – health care entity. Baxter had shipped products to the Baptist address under the valid medical license of the Medical Director, in reliance on a document evidencing the Medical Director's intent that he serve as the purchaser of the product. In August 2015, Baxter and the Department resolved this matter via a non-disciplinary settlement.

Other Actions: Dismissed Charge of Drug Law Violation

In January 2017, Baxter Healthcare Corporation (Baxter) agreed to resolve claims with the U.S. Department of Justice related to quality and manufacturing practices at Baxter's manufacturing facility in Marion, North Carolina in 2011-2012. Specifically, the government charged that between July 2011 and November 2012, Baxter did not follow cGMP requirements under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FDCA) when manufacturing certain large volume intravenous (IV) solutions. The deferred prosecution agreement expired in July 2019, and the misdemeanor charge was dismissed with prejudice.

Please note that this issue is unrelated to Baxter's pharmacy or wholesale activities, or the facility that is the subject of this application.

PART I

Item 1. Business.

Company Overview

Baxter International Inc., through its subsidiaries, provides a broad portfolio of essential healthcare products, including acute and chronic dialysis therapies; sterile intravenous (IV) solutions; infusion systems and devices; parenteral nutrition therapies; inhaled anesthetics; generic injectable pharmaceuticals; surgical hemostat and sealant products, advanced surgical equipment; smart bed systems; patient monitoring and diagnostic technologies; and respiratory health devices. These products are used by hospitals, kidney dialysis centers, nursing homes, rehabilitation centers, doctors' offices and by patients at home under physician supervision. Our global footprint and the critical nature of our products and services play a key role in expanding access to healthcare in emerging and developed countries. As of December 31, 2022, we manufactured products in over 20 countries and sold them in over 100 countries.

Baxter International Inc. was incorporated under Delaware law in 1931. As used in this report, "Baxter International" means Baxter International Inc. and "we", "our" or "us" means Baxter International and its consolidated subsidiaries, unless the context otherwise requires.

Recently Announced Strategic Actions

In January 2023, we announced the following planned strategic actions that are intended to enhance our operational effectiveness, accelerate innovation and drive additional stockholder value: (a) a proposed spinoff of our Renal Care and Acute Therapies product categories into an independent publicly traded company, (b) our development of a new operating model to simplify our operations and (c) our pursuit of strategic alternatives (including a potential sale) for our BioPharma Solutions (BPS) product category.

This proposed spinoff of our Renal Care and Acute Therapies product categories (the proposed spinoff) is currently expected to be completed during the first half of 2024, approximately 12 to 18 months from the date of the related announcement. In 2022 we generated $4.4 billion of combined net sales from our Renal Care and Acute Therapies product categories, representing approximately 29% of our consolidated net sales. We intend for the proposed spinoff to qualify as tax-free to Baxter and our shareholders for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The proposed spinoff is subject to the satisfaction of customary conditions, including final approval from our Board of Directors, the filing and effectiveness of a registration statement on Form 10, receipt of an Internal Revenue Service (IRS) ruling or related tax opinions from counsel, satisfactory completion of financing arrangements, consultations with works councils and other employee representative bodies and any necessary regulatory approvals.

To strengthen our ability to deliver on our vision to transform healthcare, we are designing a new operating model intended to simplify and streamline our operations. Once the simplified model is implemented, we expect to be a more integrated and nimble organization that can respond more effectively to changes in the macroeconomic environment, while enhancing our ability to drive innovation in our product portfolio. As part of these actions, we are working to create a more resilient supply chain and better align our manufacturing footprint and supply chain to our commercial activities. Under the new model, our business will be managed across four global business units consisting of: (1) Medical Products and Therapies, which will include our Medication Delivery, Advanced Surgery and Clinical Nutrition product categories, (2) Healthcare Systems and Technologies, which will include the Patient Support Systems, Front Line Care and Global Surgical Solutions product categories obtained in the Hillrom acquisition, (3) Pharmaceuticals, which will include our BPS product category, for which we are exploring strategic alternatives, and our Pharmaceuticals product category and (4) Kidney Care, which will include our Renal Care and Acute Therapies product categories that we are proposing to spinoff into an independent publicly traded company.
We expect to have our new organizational designs substantially finalized in the second quarter of 2023. The new operating model will have significant impacts on our systems and processes across our entire company and we expect to have those broader operational changes, including our updated management reporting framework for the new operating model, fully implemented during the second half of 2023. At that time, we expect that our reportable segments will be changed to align with the new operating model.

We are pursuing strategic alternatives (including a potential sale) for our BPS product category, which includes contract manufacturing services provided to pharmaceutical and biopharmaceutical companies. In 2022 we generated $644 million of net sales from that product category, representing approximately 4% of our consolidated net sales. A potential sale of, or other strategic transaction involving, BPS would help us further narrow our strategic focus as a company while providing an opportunity for capital deployment, including debt repayment.

Following these planned strategic actions (including completion of the proposed spinoff), we intend to emerge as a stronger hospital solutions and connected care company. As a more focused business, we expect to be better positioned to make strategic investments to accelerate our vision and to deliver differentiated value to our stakeholders with our unique combination of products, therapies and connected care platforms.

There can be no guarantees that the proposed spinoff, the simplified operating model or the sale of, or other strategic transaction involving, our BPS product category will be completed in the manner or over the timeframes described above, or at all.

Acquisition of Hillrom

On December 13, 2021, we completed our acquisition of all outstanding equity interests of Hill-Rom Holdings, Inc. (Hillrom) for a purchase price of $10.5 billion. Including the assumption of Hillrom's outstanding debt obligations, the enterprise value of the transaction was approximately $12.8 billion. Hillrom was a global medical technology leader and its products and services help enable earlier diagnosis and treatment, optimize surgical efficiency, and accelerate patient recovery while simplifying clinical communication and shifting care closer to home. Hillrom made those outcomes possible through digital and connected care solutions and collaboration tools, including smart bed systems, patient monitoring and diagnostic technologies, respiratory health devices, advanced equipment for the surgical space and more, delivering actionable, real-time insights at the point of care. In 2022 the Patient Support Systems, Front Line Care and Global Surgical Solutions product categories of our Hillrom segment collectively generated net sales of $2.9 billion. During 2022, we also recognized $2.8 billion of goodwill impairments and $332 million of indefinite-lived intangible asset impairments related to goodwill and trade name intangible assets that arose from the Hillrom acquisition. See Notes 2, 4, 5 and 17 in Item 8 of this Annual Report on Form 10-K for additional information about the Hillrom acquisition, goodwill and intangible asset impairments, Hillrom acquisition financing arrangements and Hillrom segment results, respectively.

Business Segments and Products

We currently manage our global operations based on four segments, consisting of the following geographic segments related to our legacy Baxter business: Americas (North and South America), EMEA (Europe, Middle East and Africa) and APAC (Asia-Pacific), and a global segment for our recently acquired Hillrom business. As discussed above under "Recently Announced Strategic Actions," we are designing a new operating model intended to simplify and streamline our operations and we expect that our reportable segments will be changed to align with that new operating model when it is fully implemented.

The Americas, EMEA and APAC segments provide a broad portfolio of essential healthcare products, including acute and chronic dialysis therapies; sterile IV solutions; infusion systems and devices; parenteral nutrition therapies; inhaled anesthetics; generic injectable pharmaceuticals; and surgical hemostat and sealant products. As discussed above under "Recently Announced Strategic Actions," we are pursuing the proposed spinoff of our Renal Care and Acute Therapies product categories and strategic alternatives for our BPS product category. The Hillrom segment provides digital and connected care solutions and collaboration tools, including smart bed systems, patient monitoring and diagnostic technologies, respiratory health devices and advanced equipment for the surgical space.

For financial information about our segments, see Note 17 in Item 8 of this Annual Report on Form 10-K.

Business Strategy

Our business strategy is focused on driving sustainable growth and innovation aligned with our mission to save and sustain lives and our vision to transform healthcare with a customer focus to improve patient outcomes, enhance workflow efficiency, and enable cost-effective care. Our diversified and broad portfolio of medical products that treat life-threatening acute or chronic conditions and our global presence are core components of our strategy as we work to achieve these objectives. We are focused on four strategic pillars as part of our pursuit of industry leading performance: innovation; market expansion; operational efficiency; and capital allocation.

Innovation

Our innovation strategy is focused on connected care and core therapies offerings. Connected care offerings include devices or software that can connect, communicate and/or analyze data to help transform healthcare and improve patient outcomes. Our acquisition of Hillrom has been a key driver in developing our connected care offerings, as its product portfolio includes digital and connected care solutions and collaboration tools such as smart bed systems, patient monitoring and diagnostic technologies, respiratory health devices, advanced equipment for the surgical space and more, delivering actionable, real-time insights at the point of care. Our core therapies product offerings include medical devices and consumable medical products designed to address essential patient and provider needs across the continuum of care.

As part of this strategy and consistent with our recently announced strategic initiatives, we are shifting our investments to drive innovation in product areas where we have compelling opportunities to serve patients and healthcare professionals while advancing our business. We are accelerating the pace in which we bring these advances to market to support our future growth. We are in the midst of launching several new products, geographic expansions and line extensions including in such areas as chronic and acute renal care, smart pump technology, hospital pharmaceuticals and nutritionals, surgical sealants, smart beds, respiratory vests and more. These comprise a mix of entirely new offerings, improvements on existing technologies and the expansion of current products into new geographies.

Market Expansion

The market expansion component of our strategy includes capturing revenue synergies through the integration of Hillrom, expanding our portfolio geographically, broadening our portfolio through channel expansion and increasing utilization of our products and therapies through market development activities. These initiatives include using Baxter's geographic footprint to introduce the Hillrom product portfolio into new markets, as well as expanding value-added services, increasing adoption of underpenetrated therapies and providing education and advocacy to improve access to our products.

Operational Excellence

As discussed above under "Recently Announced Strategic Actions," we are designing a new operating model intended to simplify and streamline our operations. Once the simplified model is implemented, we expect to be a more integrated and nimble organization that can respond more effectively to changes in the macroeconomic environment, while enhancing our ability to drive innovation in our product portfolio. As part of these actions, we are working to create a more resilient supply chain and better align our manufacturing footprint and supply chain to our commercial activities. We also continue to focus on increasing efficiencies through automation and digitization and we remain committed to deliver on the targeted cost synergies expected to be achieved from our acquisition of Hillrom. We intend to continue to actively manage our cost structure to help ensure that we are committing resources to the highest value uses. Such high value activities include supporting innovation, building out the portfolio, expanding patient access and accelerating growth for our stockholders.

Maintaining Disciplined and Balanced Capital Allocation

Subject to market conditions and our investment grade targets, our capital allocation strategies include the following:

- debt repayments to support our deleveraging commitments;
- active portfolio management through the identification of attractive acquisition and divestiture transactions, including our recent acquisition of Hillrom, the proposed spinoff and our pursuit of strategic alternatives (including a potential sale) for our BPS product category; and
- return capital to stockholders through dividends. We also intend to reinstate share repurchases over the longer term.

We paid down approximately $900 million of debt during 2022 and we continue to be committed to an investment grade rating, including taking actions toward achieving our 2.75x net leverage commitment. We currently expect to apply proceeds from the proposed spinoff and potential BPS divestiture toward reducing indebtedness and addressing near-term debt maturities. During this deleveraging period, we currently intend to maintain our dividend, not make any share repurchases and be highly selective with respect to any potential acquisitions.

Sales and Distribution

We have our own direct sales force and also make sales to and through independent distributors, drug wholesalers acting as sales agents and specialty pharmacy or other alternate site providers. In the United States, third parties, such as Cardinal Health, Inc., warehouse and ship a significant portion of our products through their distribution centers. These centers are generally stocked with adequate inventories to facilitate prompt customer service. Sales and distribution methods include frequent contact by sales and customer service representatives, automated communications via various electronic purchasing systems, circulation of catalogs and merchandising bulletins, direct-mail campaigns, trade publication presence and advertising.

Sales are made and products are distributed on a direct basis or through independent distributors or sales agents in more than 100 countries as of December 31, 2022.

International Operations

The majority of our revenues are generated outside of the United States and geographic expansion remains a component of our strategy (including with respect to the Hillrom business). Our international presence includes operations in Europe, the Middle East, Africa, Asia-Pacific, Latin America and Canada. We are subject to certain risks inherent in conducting business outside the United States. For more information on these risks, see the information under the captions "Risks Related to Baxter's Business —We are subject to risks associated with doing business globally" and "—Changes in foreign currency exchange rates and interest rates could have a material adverse effect on our operating results and liquidity" in Item 1A of this Annual Report on Form 10-K.

For financial information about our foreign and domestic revenues and segment information, see Notes 10 and 17, respectively, in Item 8 of this Annual Report on Form 10-K. For more information regarding foreign currency exchange risk, refer to the discussion under the caption entitled "Financial Instrument Market Risk" in Item 7 of this Annual Report on Form 10-K.

Contractual Arrangements

Our products are sold through contracts with customers, both within and outside the United States. Some of these contracts have terms of more than one year and place limits on our ability to increase prices. In the case of hospitals, governments and other facilities, these contracts may specify minimum quantities of a particular product or categories of products to be purchased by the customer.

In keeping with the increased emphasis on cost-effectiveness in healthcare delivery, many hospitals and other customers of medical products in the United States have joined group purchasing organizations (GPOs), or formed integrated delivery networks (IDNs), to enhance purchasing power. GPOs and IDNs negotiate pricing arrangements with manufacturers and distributors and the negotiated prices are made available to members. We have purchasing agreements with several of the major GPOs in the United States. GPOs may have agreements with more than one supplier for certain products. Accordingly, in these cases, we face competition from other suppliers even where a customer is a member of a GPO under contract with us. Purchasing power is similarly consolidated in many other countries. For example, public contracting authorities often act as the purchasing entities for the hospitals and other customers of medical products in their region and many hospitals and other customers have joined joint procurement entities and buying consortia. The result is that demand for healthcare products is increasingly concentrated across our markets globally. Additionally, our contractual pricing arrangements with GPOs, IDNs and public contracting authorities limit our ability to increase prices in order to offset raw materials or component price increases or otherwise.

Raw Materials and Component Parts

Raw materials and component parts essential to our business are purchased from numerous suppliers worldwide in the ordinary course of business. While many of these materials are generally available, we have experienced and may in the future experience shortages of supply. Additionally, certain of these materials are secured from single source suppliers or on a spot basis and not pursuant to a contractual arrangement. In recent periods, we have experienced increased costs and shortages of raw materials and component parts (including resins and electromechanical devices), which has had a negative impact on our profit margins, due to the increased costs, and on our sales for certain product categories, due to our inability to fully satisfy demand.

In an effort to manage risk associated with raw materials and component supply, we work closely with our suppliers to help ensure availability and continuity of supply while maintaining high quality and reliability. We also seek to develop new and alternative sources of supply where beneficial to our overall raw materials procurement strategy. Refer to Item 1A. Risk Factors of this Annual Report on Form 10-K for further information regarding risks related to the supply chain, raw materials and component parts.

We are not always able to recover cost increases for raw materials and component parts through customer pricing due to contractual limits, where applicable, and market forces. This circumstance occurred during 2022 and our profit margins were adversely impacted because we were unable to fully offset all such cost increases through customer pricing adjustments or other pricing actions. We seek to utilize long-term supply contracts with some suppliers to help maintain continuity of supply and manage the risk of price increases. Our ability to do so in the face of limited supply of certain raw materials and component parts and inflationary environment may be limited.

Competition and Healthcare Cost Containment

Our businesses benefit from a number of competitive advantages, including the breadth and depth of our product offerings and our strong relationships with customers, including hospitals and clinics, GPOs, IDNs, physicians and patients, many of whom self-administer home-based therapies that we supply. We also benefit from efficiencies and cost advantages resulting from shared manufacturing facilities and the technological advantages of our products.

Although no single company competes with us in all of our businesses, we face substantial competition in each of our segments from international and domestic healthcare, medical products and pharmaceutical companies and providers of all sizes, and these competitors often differ across our businesses. In addition, global and regional competitors continue to expand their manufacturing capacity and sales and marketing channels. We believe customer purchasing decisions are primarily focused on cost-effectiveness, price, service, product performance and technological innovation. There has been increasing consolidation in our customer base and by our competitors, which continues to result in pricing and market pressures.

Global efforts toward healthcare cost containment continue to exert pressure on product pricing. Governments around the world use various mechanisms to control healthcare expenditures, such as price controls, the formation of public contracting authorities, product formularies (lists of recommended or approved products), and competitive tenders which require the submission of a bid to sell products. Sales of our products are dependent, in part, on the availability of reimbursement by government agencies and healthcare programs, as well as insurance companies and other private payers. In the United States, the federal and many state governments have adopted or proposed initiatives relating to Medicaid and other health programs that may limit reimbursement or increase rebates that we and other providers are required to pay to the state. In addition to government regulation, managed care organizations in the United States, which include medical insurance companies, medical plan administrators, health-maintenance organizations, hospital and physician alliances and pharmacy benefit managers, continue to put pressure on the price and usage of healthcare products. Managed care organizations seek to contain healthcare expenditures, and their purchasing strength has been increasing due to their consolidation into fewer, larger organizations and a growing number of enrolled patients. We face similar issues outside of the United States. In Europe and Latin America, for example, the government provides healthcare at low cost to patients, and controls its expenditures by purchasing products through public tenders, collective purchasing, regulating prices, setting reference prices in public tenders or limiting reimbursement or patient access to certain products. For further discussion, refer to Item 1A of this Annual Report on Form 10-K.

Intellectual Property

Patents and other proprietary rights are essential to our business. We rely on patents, trademarks, copyrights, trade secrets, know-how and confidentiality agreements to develop, maintain and strengthen our competitive position. We own a number of patents and trademarks throughout the world and have entered into license arrangements relating to various third-party patents and technologies. Products manufactured by us are sold primarily under our own trademarks and trade names. Some products distributed by us are sold under our trade names, while others are sold under trade names owned by our suppliers or partners. Trade secret protection of unpatented confidential and proprietary information is also important to us. We maintain certain details about our processes, products and technology as trade secrets and generally require employees, consultants, and business partners to enter into confidentiality agreements. These agreements may be breached and we may not have adequate remedies for any breach. In addition, our trade secrets may otherwise become known or be independently discovered by competitors. To the extent that our employees, consultants, and business partners use intellectual property owned by others in their work for us, disputes may arise as to the rights in related or resulting know-how and inventions.

Our policy is to protect our products and technology through patents and trademarks on a worldwide basis. This protection is sought in a manner that balances the cost of such protection against obtaining the greatest value for us. We also recognize the need to promote the enforcement of our patents and trademarks and take commercially reasonable steps to enforce our patents and trademarks around the world against potential infringers, including judicial or administrative action where appropriate.

We operate in an industry susceptible to significant patent litigation. At any given time, we are involved as either a plaintiff or defendant in a number of patent infringement and other intellectual property-related actions. Such litigation can result in significant royalty or other payments or result in injunctions that can prevent the sale of products. For more information on patent and other litigation, see Note 7 in Item 8 of this Annual Report on Form 10-K.

Research and Development

Our investment in research and development (R&D), consistent with our portfolio optimization and capital allocation strategies, helps fuel our future growth and our ability to remain competitive in each of our product categories. Accordingly, we continue to focus our investment on select R&D programs to enhance future growth through clinical differentiation. Expenditures for our R&D activities were $605 million in 2022, $534 million in 2021, and $521 million in 2020. These expenditures include costs associated with R&D activities performed at our R&D centers located around the world, which include facilities in Belgium, Sweden, India, Italy, Germany, China, Japan and the United States, as well as in-licensing, milestone and reimbursement payments made to partners for R&D work performed at non-Baxter locations. As discussed above in under "Recently Announced Strategic Actions," we are designing a new operating model intended to simplify and streamline our operations. We are also working to create a more resilient supply chain and better align our manufacturing footprint and supply chain to our commercial activities. These activities may result in the consolidation of one or more R&D facilities.

For more information on our R&D activities, refer to the discussion under the caption entitled "Strategic Objectives" in Item 7 of this Annual Report on Form 10-K.

Quality Management

Our continued success depends upon the quality of our products. Quality management plays an essential role in determining and meeting customer requirements, helping to prevent defects, facilitating continuing improvement of our processes, products and services, and helping to assure the safety and efficacy of our products. Our quality system enables the design, development, manufacturing, packaging, sterilization, handling, distribution and labeling of our products to ensure that they conform to customer requirements. In order to consistently improve the effectiveness and efficiency of our quality system, various measurement, monitoring and analysis methods, such as management reviews and internal, external and vendor audits, are employed at local and central levels.

Each product that we market is required to meet specific quality standards, both in packaging and in product integrity and quality. If any of those is determined to be compromised at any time, we endeavor to take corrective and preventive actions designed to ensure compliance with regulatory requirements and to meet customer expectations. For more information on corrective actions taken by us, refer to the discussion under the caption entitled "Certain Regulatory Matters" in Item 7 of this Annual Report on Form 10-K.

Corporate Responsibility

Driven by our mission to save and sustain lives, Baxter's corporate responsibility strategy focuses on addressing the environmental, social and governance (ESG) issues that affect our patients, customers, employees, communities and other stakeholders worldwide. Our corporate responsibility approach supports our business priorities to achieve top quartile results relative to industry peers and other comparators across four dimensions: patient safety and quality, growth through innovation, best place to work and industry-leading performance. Advancing our corporate responsibility goals contributes to business, social and economic value, including attraction and retention, enhanced operational efficiency and implementation of enterprise risk management strategies, among others.

In 2021, we launched our 2030 Corporate Responsibility Commitment featuring ten strategic goals for focused action. Our Commitment is anchored by three pillars - Empower Our Patients, Protect Our Planet and Champion Our People and Communities - and bolstered by our approach to the foundational principles of Ethics and Compliance, Human Rights, Diversity, Equity and Inclusion and Privacy and Data Protection. The 2030 Corporate Responsibility Commitment and Goals highlight Baxter's corporate responsibility focus and help to further advance our ESG performance. Our progress against these goals is published annually in our Corporate Responsibility Report which is available on our website under "Our Story-Corporate Responsibility." The Corporate Responsibility Report is not incorporated by reference into this Annual Report on Form 10-K or any other document filed with the SEC.

Government Regulation

Our operations and many of the products manufactured or sold by us are subject to extensive regulation by numerous government agencies, both within and outside the United States. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) in the United States, the European Medicines Agency (EMA) in Europe, the China Food and Drug Administration (CFDA) in China and other government agencies, inside and outside of the United States, administer requirements covering the testing, safety, effectiveness, manufacturing, labeling, promotion and advertising, distribution and post-market surveillance of our products. We must obtain specific approval from FDA and non-U.S. regulatory authorities before we can market and sell most of our products in a particular country. Even after we obtain regulatory approval to market a product, the product and our manufacturing processes and quality systems are subject to continued review by FDA and other regulatory authorities globally, including additional 510(k) and other regulatory submissions, and approvals or the time needed to secure approvals are not certain. State agencies in the United States also regulate our facilities, operations, employees, products and services within their respective states. We, along with our facilities, are subject to periodic inspections and possible administrative and legal actions by FDA and other regulatory agencies inside and outside the United States. Such actions may include warning letters, product recalls or seizures, monetary sanctions, injunctions to halt the manufacture and distribution of products, civil or criminal sanctions, refusal of a government to grant approvals or licenses, restrictions on operations or withdrawal of existing approvals and licenses. As situations require, we take steps to ensure safety and efficacy of our products, such as removing products found not to meet applicable requirements from the market and improving the effectiveness of quality systems. For more information on compliance actions taken by us, refer to the discussion under the caption entitled "Certain Regulatory Matters" in Item 7 of this Annual Report on Form 10-K.

We are also subject to various laws inside and outside the United States concerning our relationships with healthcare professionals and government officials, price reporting and regulation, the promotion, sales and marketing of our products and services, the importation and exportation of products, the operation of our facilities and distribution of products. In the United States, we are subject to the oversight of FDA, Office of the Inspector General within the Department of Health and Human Services (OIG), the Center for Medicare/Medicaid Services (CMS), the Department of Justice (DOJ), Environmental Protection Agency, Department of Defense and Customs and Border Protection in addition to others. We supply products and services to healthcare providers that are reimbursed by federally funded programs such as Medicare. As a result, our activities are subject to regulation by CMS and enforcement by OIG and DOJ. In each jurisdiction outside the United States, our activities are subject to regulation by government agencies including the EMA in Europe, CFDA in China and other agencies in other jurisdictions. Many of the agencies enforcing these laws have increased their enforcement activities with respect to healthcare companies in recent years. These actions appear to be part of a general trend toward increased enforcement activity globally.

Our operations involve the use of substances regulated under environmental laws, primarily in manufacturing and sterilization processes. Our environmental policies require compliance with all applicable environmental regulations and contemplate, among other things, appropriate capital expenditures for environmental protection. For example, we made $6 million, $33 million and $10 million of capital expenditures in 2022, 2021 and 2020, respectively, related to a new ethylene oxide emissions control system at our Mountain Home, Arkansas facility that was substantially completed in 2022.

Human Capital Management

As of December 31, 2022, we employed approximately 60,000 people globally, with approximately 19,000 employees in the United States and approximately 41,000 employees outside of the United States. Our employees are our most important assets and set the foundation for our ability to achieve our strategic objectives. They contribute to our success and are instrumental in driving operational execution and our ability to deliver strong

Item 1. BUSINESS

Forward-Looking Statements

The U.S. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 provides a "safe harbor" for forward-looking statements to encourage companies to provide prospective information, so long as those statements are identified as forward-looking and are accompanied by meaningful cautionary statements identifying important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those disclosed in the statement. Certain information of a non-historical nature contained in Items 1, 2, 3 and 7 of this Form 10-K includes "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the safe harbor provisions of the U.S. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, including statements regarding future financial performance, and the objectives and expectations of management. Forward-looking statements often include words such as "believes," "expects," "anticipates," "estimates," "intends," "plans," "seeks" or words of similar meaning, or future or conditional verbs, such as "will," "should," "could" or "may." Forward-looking statements are neither historical facts nor assurances of future performance. Instead, such statements, including, but not limited to, our statements regarding business strategy, growth strategy, competitive strengths, productivity and profitability enhancement, competition, new product and service introductions and liquidity and capital resources, are based only on our current beliefs, expectations and assumptions regarding the future of our business, future plans and strategies, projections, anticipated events and trends, the economy and other future conditions, as well as on assumptions made by and information currently available to management, and involve various risks and uncertainties, some of which are beyond our control.

Because forward-looking statements relate to the future, they are subject to inherent uncertainties, risks and changes in circumstances that are difficult to predict and many of which are outside of our control. Our actual results and financial condition may differ materially from those indicated in the forward-looking statements. Therefore, you should not place undue reliance on any of these forward-looking statements. Any number of factors could affect our actual results and cause such results to differ materially from those contemplated by any forward-looking statements. Reference is made to "Risk Factors" in Item 1A and "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations" in Item 7 of this Form 10-K, for a discussion of certain factors that could cause actual operating results to differ materially from those expressed in any forward-looking statements. In light of these risks and uncertainties, there can be no assurance that the forward-looking information will in fact prove to be accurate. The order in which these factors appear should not be construed to indicate their relative importance or priority. We caution that these factors may not be exhaustive, accordingly, any forward-looking statements contained herein should not be relied upon as a prediction of actual results.

You should carefully consider these and other relevant factors and information which may be contained in this Form 10-K and in our other filings with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, or SEC, when reviewing any forward-looking statement. Investors should understand it is impossible to predict or identify all such factors or risks. As such, you should not consider the risks identified in our SEC filings, to be a complete discussion of all potential risks or uncertainties.

Any forward-looking statement made in this Form 10-K is based only on information currently available to us and speaks only as of the date on which it is made. We do not undertake any obligation to release publicly any revisions to any forward-looking statements whether written or oral, that may be made from time to time, whether as a result of new information, future developments or otherwise.

General

Patterson Companies, Inc. is a value-added specialty distributor serving the U.S. and Canadian dental supply markets and the U.S., Canadian and U.K. animal health supply markets. Patterson operates through its two strategic business units, Patterson Dental and Patterson Animal Health, offering similar products and services to different customer bases. Each business has a strong competitive position, serves a highly fragmented market that offers consolidation opportunities and offers relatively low-cost consumable supplies, which makes our value-added business proposition highly attractive to our customers. We believe that we have a strong brand identity as a value-added, full-service distributor with broad product and service offerings, having begun distributing dental supplies in 1877.

Business Overview

	Fiscal Year Ended
	April 29, 2023	April 30, 2022	April 24, 2021
Dental	$ 2,492	$ 2,516	$ 2,327
Animal Health	3,965	3,983	3,560
Corporate	14	—	25
Consolidated net sales	$ 6,471	$ 6,499	$ 5,912

Our strategically located fulfillment centers enable us to better serve our customers and increase our operating efficiency. This infrastructure, together with broad product and service offerings at competitive prices, and a strong commitment to customer service, enables us to be a single source of supply for our customers' needs. Our infrastructure also allows us to provide convenient ordering and rapid, accurate and complete order fulfillment.

Electronic commerce solutions have become an integral part of dental and animal health supply and distribution relationships. Our distribution business is characterized by rapid technological developments and intense competition. The continuing advancement of online commerce requires us to cost-effectively adapt to changing technologies, to enhance existing services and to develop and introduce a variety of new services to address the changing demands of consumers and our customers on a timely basis, particularly in response to competitive offerings. We believe that our tradition of reliable service, our name recognition and large customer base built on solid customer relationships, position us well to participate in this significant aspect of the distribution business. We continue to explore methods to improve and expand our Internet presence and capabilities, including our online commerce offerings and our use of various social media outlets.

Patterson became publicly traded in 1992 and is a corporation organized under the laws of the state of Minnesota. We are headquartered in St. Paul, Minnesota. Our principal executive offices are located at 1031 Mendota Heights Road, St. Paul, Minnesota 55120, and our telephone number is (651) 686-1600. Unless the context specifically requires otherwise, the terms the "Company," "Patterson," "we," "us" and "our" mean Patterson Companies, Inc., a Minnesota corporation, and its consolidated subsidiaries.

The Specialty Distribution Markets We Serve

We provide manufacturers with cost effective logistics and high-caliber sales professionals to access a geographically diverse customer base, which is critical to the supply chain for the markets we serve. We provide our customers with an array of value-added services, a dedicated and highly skilled sales team, and a broad selection of products through a single channel, thereby helping them efficiently manage their ordering process. Due in part to the inability of our customers to store and manage large quantities of supplies at their locations, the distribution of supplies and small equipment has been characterized by frequent, small-quantity orders, and a need for rapid, reliable and substantially-complete order fulfillment. Supplies and small equipment are generally purchased from more than one distributor, with one generally serving as the primary supplier.

We believe that consolidation within the industry will continue as distributors, particularly those with limited financial, operating and marketing resources, seek to combine with larger companies that can provide growth opportunities. This consolidation also may continue to result in distributors seeking to acquire companies that can enhance their current product and service offerings or provide opportunities to serve a broader customer base.

Dental Supply Market

The dental supply market we serve consists of geographically dispersed and highly fragmented dental practices. Customers range in size from sole practitioners to large group practices, often called Dental Service Organizations ("DSO's"). According to the American Dental Association and the Canadian Dental Association, there are approximately 203,000 dentists practicing in the U.S. and 25,000 dentists practicing in Canada. We believe the average dental practitioner purchases supplies from more than one supplier.

We believe the North American dental supply market continues to experience growth due to an increasing population, an aging population, advances in dentistry, demand for general, preventive and specialty services, increasing demand for new technologies that allow dentists to increase productivity, demand for infection control products, and insurance coverage by dental plans.

We support dental professionals through the many stock keeping units ("SKUs") that we offer, as well as through important value-added services, including equipment and technology installation and service, practice management software, electronic claims processing, financial services, and continuing education, all designed to help make a dental practice more efficient.

Animal Health Supply Market

The animal health supply market is a mix of production animal supply, which primarily serves food producing animals, consisting of beef and dairy cattle, swine and poultry and other species such as sheep and goats, and companion animal supply, which serves pets, primarily dogs, cats and horses. Similar to the dental supply market, the animal health supply market is highly fragmented and diverse. Our production animal customers include large animal veterinarians, beef producers (cow/calf, stocker and feedlots), dairy producers, poultry producers, swine producers and retail customers. Our companion animal customers are primarily small animal and equine veterinary clinics, including independently owned, corporates and groups. According to the American Veterinary Medical Association, there are more than 70,000 veterinarians in private practice in the U.S. and Canada. Furthermore, there are approximately 20,000 veterinarians in the U.K. practicing in veterinary outlets; however, we believe there has been a shift in the U.K. market toward consolidation of veterinary practices. National Veterinary Services Limited, is the market leader in the U.K. veterinary market, with the highest percentage of buying groups and corporations as customers compared to its competitors, and the highest share position in that country overall.

The global animal health supply market continues to experience growth, and we believe that trend will continue for the foreseeable future. We support our animal health customers through the distribution of biologicals, pharmaceuticals, parasiticides, supplies, including our own private label brands, and equipment. We also supply a full portfolio of technologies, software, services and solutions to all segments and channels of our broad customer base. We actively engage in the development, sale and distribution of inventory, accounting and health management systems to enhance customer operating efficiencies and assist our customers in managing risk. Within the companion animal supply market, we anticipate increasing demand for veterinary services due to the following factors: the increasing number of households with companion animals, increased pet adoption rates and increased expenditures on animal health and preventative care, an aging pet population, advancements in animal health products and diagnostic testing, and extensive marketing programs sponsored by companion animal nutrition and pharmaceutical companies.

We anticipate the macroeconomic trend of global population growth and corresponding demand for protein will be favorable to the production animal segment in the future. Likewise, the rise in disposable income, especially in developing countries will be a key driver of future growth. However; product sales in the production animal supply market are more likely to be impacted by volatility in the market such as commodity prices, changes in weather patterns, and trends in the general economy. Many factors can influence how long cattle will graze and consequently the number of days an animal is on feed during a finishing phase. Supply and demand dynamics and economic trends can shift the number of animals treated, the timing of when animals are treated, to what extent they are treated and with which products they are treated. Historically, sales in this market have been largely driven by spending on animal health products to improve productivity, weight gain and disease prevention, as well as a growing focus on health and wellness of the animals, safety, and efficiency in livestock production.

Competition

The distribution industry is highly competitive. It consists principally of national, regional and local full-service distributors. Substantially all of the products we sell are available to customers from a number of suppliers. In addition, our competitors could obtain exclusive rights from manufacturers to market particular products. Some manufacturers also sell directly to end-users, thereby eliminating or reducing our role and that of other distributors.

We compete with other distributors, as well as several manufacturers, of dental and animal health products, on the basis of price, breadth of product line, customer service and value-added products and services. To differentiate ourselves from our competition we deploy a strategy of premium customer service with multiple value-added components, a highly qualified and motivated sales force, highly-trained and experienced service technicians, an extensive breadth and mix of products and services, technology solutions allowing customers to easily access our inventory, accurate and timely delivery of product, strategic location of sales offices and fulfillment centers, and competitive pricing.

In the U.S. and Canadian dental supply market, we compete against Henry Schein, Inc., Benco Dental Supply Company, Burkhart Dental Supply and hundreds of distributors that operate on a regional or local level, or online. Also, as noted above, some manufacturers sell directly to end users. With regard to our dental practice management software, we compete against numerous offerings, including those from Henry Schein, Inc. and Carestream Dental.

In the U.S. and Canadian animal health supply market, our primary competitors are AmerisourceBergen/MWI Animal Health and Covetrus, Inc. We also compete against a number of regional and local animal health distributors, some manufacturers that sell direct to end users and several alternative channel market providers that sell through digital platforms to production animal operators, animal health product retailers and veterinarians. Additionally, major U.S. online e-commerce retailers such as Amazon and Chewy.com have become licensed as veterinary mail order pharmacies, which enables them to offer pharmacy products directly to consumers in all 50 U.S. states. In the animal health practice management market, our primary competitors are IDEXX Laboratories, Inc. and Covetrus, Inc. We face significant competition in the animal health supply market in the U.K., where we compete on the basis of price and customer service with several large competitors, including Covetrus, Inc. and AmerisourceBergen. We also compete directly with pharmaceutical companies who sell certain products or services directly to the customer.

Successful distributors are increasingly providing value-added services in addition to the products they have traditionally provided. We believe that to remain competitive we must continue to add value to the distribution channel, while removing unnecessary costs associated with product movement. Significant price reductions by our competitors could result in competitive harm. Any of these competitive pressures may materially adversely affect our operating results.

Competitive Strengths

We have more than 140 years of experience in distributing products resulting in strong awareness of the Patterson brand. Although further information regarding these competitive strengths is set forth below in the discussion of our two strategic business units, our competitive strengths include:

- Broad product and service offerings at competitive prices. We sell approximately 200,000 SKUs to our customers, including many proprietary branded products. We believe that our proprietary branded products and our competitive pricing strategy have generated a loyal customer base that is confident in our brands. Our product offerings include consumables, equipment, software and various technologies. Our value-added services include practice management software, office design, equipment installation and maintenance, and financing.

- Focus on customer relationships and exceptional customer service. Our sales and marketing efforts are designed to establish and solidify customer relationships through personal visits by field sales representatives, interaction via phone with sales representatives, web-based activities including e-commerce and frequent direct marketing, emphasizing our broad product lines, competitive prices and ease of order placement. We focus on providing our customers with exceptional order fulfillment and a streamlined ordering process.

- Cost-effective purchasing and efficient distribution. We believe that cost-effective purchasing is a key element to maintaining and enhancing our position as a competitive-pricing provider of dental and animal health products. We strive to maintain optimal inventory levels to satisfy customer demand for prompt and complete order fulfillment through our distribution of products from strategically located fulfillment centers.

Business Strategy

Our objective is to continue to expand as a leading value-added distributor of dental and animal health products and services. To accomplish this, we will apply our competitive strengths in executing the following strategies:

- Emphasizing our differentiated, value-added, full-service capabilities. We are positioned to meet virtually all of the needs of dental practitioners, veterinarians, production animal operators and animal health product retailers by providing a broad range of consumable supplies, technology, equipment, software and value-added services. We believe our knowledgeable sales representatives can create customer intimacy and loyalty by providing an informational, consultative approach to our customers, linking them to the industries we serve. Our value-added strategy is further supported by our equipment specialists who offer consultation on design, equipment requirements and financing, our service technicians who perform equipment installation, maintenance and repair services, our business development professionals who provide business tools and educational programs to our customers, and our technology advisors who provide guidance on integrating technology solutions.

- Using technology to enhance customer service. As part of our commitment to providing superior customer service, we offer our customers easy order placement. Although we offer computerized order entry systems that we believe help establish relationships with new customers and increase loyalty among existing customers, predominant platforms for ordering today include www.pattersondental.com, www.pattersonvet.com and www.animalhealthinternational.com. The use of these methods of ordering enables our sales representatives to spend more time with existing and prospective customers. Our Internet environment includes order entry, customer support for digital and our proprietary products, customer-loyalty program reports and services, and access to articles and manufacturers' product information. We also provide real-time customer and sales information to our sales force, managers and vendors via the Internet. In addition, the Patterson Technology Center ("PTC") differentiates Patterson from our competition by providing deep and thorough expertise in practice management software and other advanced equipment and technology clinical solutions. In addition to trouble-shooting through the PTC's support center, customers can access various service capabilities offered by the PTC, including electronic claims and statement processing and system back-up capabilities.

- Continuing to improve operating efficiencies. We continue to implement programs designed to improve our operating efficiencies and allow for continued sales growth. This strategy includes our continuing investment in management information systems and consolidation and leveraging of fulfillment centers and sales branches between our operating segments. In addition, we have established shared sales branch offices in several locations.

- Growing through internal expansion and acquisitions. We intend to continue to grow by hiring sales representatives, hiring and training sales professionals, opening additional locations as needed, and acquiring other companies in order to enter new, or more deeply penetrate existing, markets, gain access to additional product lines, and expand our customer base. We believe both of our operating segments are well positioned to take advantage of expected continued consolidation in our markets.

Dental Segment - Products, Services and Sources of Supply

As a full-service, value-added supplier to over 100,000 dental practices, dental laboratories, educational institutions, and community health centers, Patterson Dental provides consumable products (including infection control, restorative materials, and instruments); basic and advanced technology and dental equipment; and innovative practice optimization solutions, including practice management software, e-commerce, revenue cycle management, patient engagement solutions, and clinical and patient education. Patterson Dental sells approximately 100,000 SKUs, of which approximately 3,500 are private-label products sold under the Patterson brand. Patterson Dental also offers customers a range of related services including software and design services, maintenance and repair, and equipment financing. Net sales and operating income were $2.5 billion and $237 million in fiscal 2023, respectively.

Value-added services and other	12	11	13
	100 %	100 %	100 %

Patterson Dental obtains products from hundreds of vendors, most of which are non-exclusive. In fiscal 2023, 2022 and 2021, Patterson Dental's top ten supply vendors accounted for approximately 58%, 56% and 57% of the total cost of sales, respectively. The top vendor accounted for 24%, 24% and 25% of the total cost of sales in fiscal 2023, 2022 and 2021, respectively.

Animal Health Segment - Products, Services and Sources of Supply

Patterson Animal Health is a leading distributor of animal health products in the U.S., Canada and the U.K. We sell approximately 100,000 SKUs, of which approximately 2,000 are private-label. Products are sourced from over 2,000 manufacturers to over 50,000 customers in the highly fragmented animal health supply market. Products we distribute include pharmaceuticals, vaccines, parasiticides, diagnostics, prescription and non-prescription diets, nutritionals, consumable supplies and equipment. We offer a private label portfolio of products to veterinarians, producers, and retailers through our Aspen, First Companion and Patterson Veterinary brands. We also provide a range of value-added services to our customers. Within our companion animal supply market, our principal customers are companion-pet and equine veterinarians, veterinary clinics, public and private institutions, and shelters. In our production animal supply market, our principal customers are large animal veterinarians, production animal operators and animal health product retailers. Consumer demand for alternative means of sourcing product through digital platforms is an evolving dynamic in our industry. We provide digital home delivery solutions to allow us to evolve with the market. Net sales and operating income were $4.0 billion and $127 million in fiscal 2023, respectively.

The following table sets forth the percentage of total sales by the principal categories of products and services offered to our animal health segment customers:

	Fiscal Year Ended
	April 29, 2023	April 30, 2022	April 24, 2021
Consumable	96 %	96 %	96 %
Equipment	3	3	3
Value-added services and other	1	1	1
	100 %	100 %	100 %

Patterson Animal Health obtains products from over 2,000 vendors globally. While Patterson Animal Health makes purchases from many vendors and there is generally more than one source of supply for most of the categories of products, the concentration of business with key vendors is considerable, as consolidation has increased among manufacturers. In fiscal 2023, 2022 and 2021, Patterson Animal Health's top 10 manufacturers comprised approximately 66%, 66% and 70% of the total cost of sales, respectively, and the single largest supplier comprised approximately 24%, 23% and 20% in of the total cost of sales 2023, 2022 and 2021, respectively.

Sales, Marketing and Distribution

During fiscal 2023, we sold products or services to over 100,000 customers who made one or more purchases during the year. Our customers include dentists, laboratories, institutions, other healthcare professionals, veterinarians, other animal health professionals, production animal operators and animal health product retailers. No single customer accounted for more than 10% of sales during fiscal 2023, and we are not dependent on any single customer or geographic group of customers.

We have offices throughout the U.S. and Canada so that we can provide a presence in the market and decision-making near the customer. Patterson Animal Health also has a central office in the U.K. Our offices, or sales branches, are staffed with a complete complement of our capabilities, including sales, customer service and technical service personnel, as well as a local manager who has decision-making authority with regard to customer-related transactions and issues.

A primary component of our value-added approach is our professional sales and support organization. Due to the highly-fragmented nature of the markets we serve, we believe that our unique combination of field-based and call-center sales and support teams is critical to reaching potential customers and providing a differentiated customer experience. Our sales representatives play an indispensable and critical role in managing a practice's supply chain and in introducing new products and technologies.

In the U.S. and Canada, customer service representatives in call centers work in tandem with our sales representatives, providing a dual coverage approach for individual customers. In addition to processing orders, customer service representatives are responsible for assisting customers with ordering, informing customers of monthly promotions, and responding to general inquiries. In the U.K., our customer service team is primarily responsible for handling customer inquiries and resolving issues.

To assist our customers with their purchasing decisions, we provide a multi-touchpoint shopping experience. From print to digital, this seamless experience is inclusive of products and services information. Patterson offers online and in-print showcases of our expansive merchandise and equipment offerings, including digital imaging and computer-aided design and computer-aided manufacturing ("CAD/CAM") technologies, hand-held and similar instruments, sundries, office design, e-services, repair and support assistance, as well as financial services. We also promote select products and services through publications, including On Target and Advantage in the U.S. and Patterson Post in Canada in our Dental segment, and Insight in the U.S. and The Cube in the U.K. in our Animal Health segment. Additional direct marketing tools that we utilize include customer loyalty programs, social media, and participation in trade shows.

We believe that responsive delivery of quality supplies and equipment is key to customer satisfaction. We ship consumable supplies from our strategically located fulfillment centers in the U.S. and Canada. In the U.K., orders are accepted in a centralized fulfillment center and shipped nationwide to one of our depots located throughout the country at which pre-packed orders are sorted by route for delivery to customers. Orders for consumable supplies can be placed through our sales representatives, customer service representatives or electronically 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Rapid and accurate order fulfillment is another principal component of our value-added approach.

In order to assure the availability of our broad product lines for prompt delivery to customers, we must maintain sufficient inventories at our fulfillment centers. Purchasing of consumables and standard equipment is centralized, and our purchasing department uses a real-time perpetual inventory system to manage inventory levels. Our inventory consists mostly of consumable supply items and pharmaceutical products.

Impacts of COVID-19

The COVID-19 pandemic had a significant impact on our businesses in fiscal 2021 as we implemented cost reduction measures in response to closures and other steps taken by governmental authorities. In response, management adapted our business practices with respect to employee travel, employee work locations, and cancellation of physical participation in meetings, events and conferences. Management also took proactive steps with respect to our liquidity position. Within our Dental segment, supply chain disruptions and an increased demand for PPE initially resulted in back orders of PPE, causing substantial price increases. We had to prepay suppliers in order to obtain PPE for resale to our customers, and as manufacturing caught up to increased demand for PPE, prices dropped, impacting our margins and requiring us to write down certain inventory.

In our markets of the U.S., Canada, and the UK, restrictive measures have now been lifted and the World Health Organization declared an end to the COVID-19 pandemic. Concerns remain that our markets could see a resurgence of COVID-19 cases or the emergence of new wide-spread public health outbreaks, triggering additional impacts on our businesses. There is continued uncertainty around the duration and ultimate impact of COVID-19 and other global health concerns.

Refer to Part I, Item 1A, "Risk Factors," and Part II, Item 7, "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations," within this Annual Report for further information on the impacts to our business and results of operations, our dividends, liquidity and debt arrangements, and associated risks and uncertainties.

Geographic Information

For information on revenues and long-lived assets of our segments by geographic area, see Note 14 to the Consolidated Financial Statements.

Seasonality and Other Factors Affecting Our Business and Quarterly Results

Our business in general is not seasonal; however, there are some products that typically sell more often during the winter or summer season. In any given month, unusual weather patterns (e.g., unusually hot or cold weather) could impact the sales volumes of these products, either positively or negatively. In addition, we experience fluctuations in quarterly earnings. As a result, we may fail to meet or exceed the expectations of securities analysts and investors, which could cause our stock price to decline. Quarterly results may be materially adversely affected by a variety of factors, including:

- timing and amount of sales and marketing expenditures;
- timing of pricing changes offered by our suppliers;

- timing of the introduction of new products and services by our suppliers;
- changes in or availability of supplier contracts or rebate programs;
- supplier rebates based upon attaining certain growth goals;
- changes in the way suppliers introduce or deliver products to market;
- costs of developing new applications and services;
- our ability to correctly identify customer needs and preferences and predict future needs and preferences;
- uncertainties regarding potential significant breaches of data security or disruptions of our information technology systems;
- regulatory actions, or government regulation generally;
- loss of sales representatives;
- costs related to acquisitions and/or integrations of technologies or businesses;
- costs associated with our self-insured insurance programs;

Governmental Regulation

We strive to be compliant with the applicable laws, regulations and guidance described below, and believe we have effective compliance programs and other controls in place to ensure substantial compliance. However, compliance is not guaranteed either now or in the future, as certain laws, regulations and guidance may be subject to varying and evolving interpretations that could affect our ability to comply, as well as future changes, additions and enforcement approaches, including political changes. Additionally, our policies and procedures may not always protect us from reckless or criminal acts committed by our employees or our agents. When we discover situations of non-compliance we seek to remedy them and bring the affected area back into compliance.

President Biden's administration (the "Biden Administration") has indicated that it will be more aggressive in its pursuit of alleged violations of law, and has revoked certain guidance that would have limited governmental use of informal agency guidance to pursue potential violations, and has stated that it is more prepared to pursue individuals for corporate law violations, including an aggressive approach to anti-corruption activities. Changes to applicable laws, regulations and guidance described below, as well as related administrative or judicial interpretations, may require us to update or revise our operations, services, marketing practices, and compliance programs and controls, and may impose additional and unforeseen costs on us, pose new or previously immaterial risks to us, or may otherwise have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Federal, state and certain foreign governments have also increased enforcement activity in the health care sector, particularly in areas of fraud and abuse, anti-bribery and corruption, controlled substances handling, medical device regulations and data privacy and security standards. Our businesses are generally subject to numerous laws and regulations that could impact our financial performance. Failure to comply with such laws or regulations could be punishable by criminal or civil sanctions, which could materially adversely affect our business.

Operating, Security and Licensure Standards

Our dental and animal health supply businesses involve the distribution, importation, exportation, marketing and sale of, and third party payment for, pharmaceuticals and medical devices, and in this regard, we are subject to extensive local, state, federal and foreign governmental laws and regulations applicable to the distribution of pharmaceuticals and medical devices.

U.S. Federal Agencies

Certain of our businesses are required to register for permits and/or licenses with, and comply with operating and security standards of, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration ("FDA"), the U.S. Department of Agriculture ("USDA"), the Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA"), the Food Safety Inspection Service ("FSIS"), the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration ("DEA"), the Federal Trade Commission ("FTC"), and various state boards of pharmacy, state health departments and/or comparable state agencies as well as comparable foreign agencies, and certain accrediting bodies depending on the type of operations and location of product distribution, manufacturing or sale. These businesses include those that distribute, manufacture and/or repackage prescription pharmaceuticals and/or medical devices and/or HCT/P products, own pharmacy operations, or install, maintain or repair equipment.

FDA – the regulatory body that is responsible for the regulation of animal-health pharmaceuticals in the U.S. is the Center for Veterinary Medicine ("CVM") housed within the FDA.

- Generally, all animal-health pharmaceuticals are subject to pre-market review and must be shown to be safe, effective, and produced by a consistent method of manufacture as defined under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, as amended (the "FDC Act").
- If the drug is for food-producing animals, potential consequences for humans are also considered.
- Animal supplements generally are not required to obtain pre-market approval from the CVM, although they may be treated as food. Any substance that is added to, or is expected to become a component of, animal food must be used in accordance with food-additive regulations, unless it is generally recognized as safe, under the conditions of its intended use. Alternatively, the FDA may consider animal supplements to be drugs. The FDA has agreed to exercise enforcement discretion for such supplements if each such supplement meets certain conditions.
- Additionally, dental and medical devices we sell in the U.S. are generally classified by the FDA into a category that renders them subject to the same controls that apply to all medical devices, including regulations regarding alternation, misbranding, notification, record-keeping and good manufacturing practices.

USDA – the regulatory body in the U.S. for veterinary biologics, such as vaccines.

- The USDA's Center for Veterinary Biologics is responsible for the regulation of animal-health vaccines, including immunotherapeutics. Marketing of imported veterinary biological products in the U.S. requires a U.S. Veterinary Biological Product Permit. Veterinary biologics are subject to pre-market review and must be shown to be pure, safe, potent, and efficacious, as defined under the Virus Serum Toxin Act. The USDA requires post-licensing monitoring of these products.

EPA – the main regulatory body in the U.S. for veterinary pesticides is the EPA.

- The EPA's Office of Pesticide Programs is responsible for the regulation of pesticide products applied to animals.
- Animal-health pesticides are subject to pre-market review and must not cause "unreasonable adverse effects to man or the environment" as stated in the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act.
- Within the U.S., pesticide products that are approved by the EPA must also be approved by individual state pesticide authorities before distribution in that state. Post-approval monitoring of products is required, with reports provided to the EPA and some state regulatory agencies.

FSIS - the public health agency within the USDA.

- The FDA is authorized to determine the safety of substances (including "generally recognized as safe" substances, food additives and color additives), as well as prescribe their safe conditions of use. However, although the FDA has the responsibility for determining the safety of substances, the FSIS still retains, under the tenets of the Federal Meat Inspection Act and the Poultry Products Inspection Act and their implementing regulations, the authority to determine whether new substances and new uses of previously approved substances are suitable for use in meat and poultry products.

DEA – under the Controlled Substances Act, distributors of controlled substances are required to obtain, and renew annually, registrations for their facilities from the DEA.

- Distributors are also subject to other statutory and regulatory requirements relating to the storage, sale, marketing, handling, and distribution of such drugs, in accordance with the Controlled Substances Act and its implementing regulations, and these requirements have been subject to heightened enforcement activity in recent times.
- Distributors are subject to inspection by the DEA.

FTC – the FTC regulates advertising pursuant to its authority to prevent "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce" under the Federal Trade Commission Act.

- Advertising and promotion of animal-health products that are not subject to approval by the CVM may be challenged by the FTC, as well as by state attorneys general and by consumers under state consumer protection laws.
- The FTC will find an advertisement to be deceptive if it contains a representation or omission of fact that is likely to mislead consumers acting reasonably under the circumstances, the representation or omission is material, and if the advertiser does not possess and rely upon a reasonable basis, such as competent and reliable evidence, substantiating the claim.
- The FTC may address unfair or deceptive advertising practices through either an administrative adjudication or judicial enforcement action, including preliminary or permanent injunction.
- The FTC may also seek consumer redress from the advertiser in instances of dishonest or fraudulent conduct.

State Registrations – states may require registration of animal-drug distributors and wholesalers.

- Additional requirements may apply when the product is also a controlled substance. States work closely with the Association of American Feed Control Officials ("AAFCO") in their regulation of animal food.
- AAFCO's annual official publication contains model animal and pet-food labeling regulations that states may adopt.
- This publication is treated deferentially by the federal and state government agencies that regulate animal food. Many states require registration or licensing of animal-food distributors.
- States may also review and approve animal-food labels prior to sale of the product in their state.

We are also subject to foreign trade controls administered by certain U.S. government agencies, including the Bureau of Industry and Security within the Commerce Department, Customs and Border Protection within the Department of homeland Security and the U.S. Department of the Treasury's Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC).

The DEA, the FDA and state regulatory authorities have broad inspection and enforcement powers, including the ability to suspend or limit the distribution of products by our fulfillment centers, seize or order the recall of products and impose significant criminal, civil and administrative sanctions for violations of these laws and regulations. Foreign regulations subject us to similar foreign enforcement powers. Furthermore, compliance with legal requirements has required and may in the future require us to delay product release, sale or distribution, or institute voluntary recalls of, or other corrective action with respect to, products we sell, each of which could result in regulatory and enforcement actions, financial losses and potential reputational harm. Our customers are also subject to significant federal, state, local and foreign governmental regulation, which may affect our interactions with customers, including the design and functionality of the products we distribute.

Agencies Outside the U.S.

Since the U.K. formally left the EU on January 31, 2020, the Veterinary Medicines Directorate ("VMD") became the main regulatory body in the U.K. responsible for regulating and controlling veterinary pharmaceuticals. The U.K. and the EU reached a trade deal in December 2020, which went into effect in May 2021. The agreement includes regulatory and customs cooperation mechanisms, as well as provisions supporting open and fair competition. The Northern Ireland protocol, which is part of the trade deal, requires that VMD follow EU rules in Northern Ireland. Laws applying to the rest of the U.K. could now diverge but currently remain largely aligned.

U.S. Laws

Among the U.S. federal laws applicable to us are the Controlled Substances Act, the FDC Act, Section 361 of the Public Health Service Act, as well as laws regulating the billing of and reimbursement from government programs, such as Medicare and Medicaid, and from commercial payers. We are also subject to comparable foreign regulations.

The FDC Act, the Controlled Substances Act, their implementing regulations, and similar foreign laws generally regulate the introduction, manufacture, advertising, marketing and promotion, sampling, pricing and reimbursement, labeling, packaging, storage, handling, returning or recalling, reporting, and distribution of, and record keeping for, pharmaceuticals and medical devices shipped in interstate commerce, and states may similarly regulate such activities within the state. Furthermore, Section 361 of the Public Health Service Act, which provides authority to prevent the introduction, transmission, or spread of communicable diseases, serves as the legal basis for the FDA's regulation of human cells, tissues and cellular and tissue-based products, also known as "HCT/P products."

The federal Drug Quality and Security Act of 2013 brought about significant changes with respect to pharmaceutical supply chain requirements. Title II of this measure, known as the Drug Supply Chain Security Act ("DSCSA"), was first implemented in November 2014 and is being phased in over a period of 10 years. DSCSA is intended to build a national electronic, interoperable system by November 27, 2023, that will identify and trace certain prescription drugs as they are distributed in the U.S. The law's track and trace requirements applicable to manufacturers, wholesalers, third-party logistics providers (e.g., trading partners), repackagers and dispensers (e.g., pharmacies) of prescription drugs took effect in January 2015, and continues to be implemented. The DSCSA product tracing requirements replace the former FDA drug pedigree requirements and pre-empt certain state requirements that are inconsistent with, more stringent than, or in addition to, the DSCSA requirements.

The DSCSA also establishes certain requirements for the licensing and operation of prescription drug wholesalers and third party logistics providers ("3PLs"), and includes the eventual creation of national wholesaler and 3PL licenses in cases where states do not license such entities. The DSCSA requires that wholesalers and 3PLs distribute drugs in accordance with certain standards regarding the recordkeeping, storage and handling of prescription drugs. The DSCSA requires wholesalers and 3PLs to submit annual reports to the FDA, which include information regarding each state where the wholesaler or 3PL is licensed, the name and address of each facility and contact information. According to FDA guidance, states are pre-empted from imposing any licensing requirements that are inconsistent with, less stringent than, directly related to, or covered by the standards established by federal law in this area. Current state licensing requirements concerning wholesalers will remain in effect until the FDA issues new regulations as directed by the DSCSA.

The Food and Drug Administration Amendments Act of 2007 and the Food and Drug Administration Safety and Innovation Act of 2012 amended the FDC Act to require the FDA to promulgate regulations to implement a unique device identification ("UDI") system. The UDI rule phased in the implementation of the UDI regulations, generally beginning with the highest-risk devices (i.e., Class III medical devices) and ending with the lowest-risk devices. Most compliance dates were reached as of September 24, 2018, with a final set of requirements for low-risk devices being reached on September 24, 2022, which completed the phase in. However, in May 2021, the FDA issued an enforcement policy stating that it does not intend to object to the use of legacy identification numbers on device labels and packages for finished devices manufactured and labeled prior to September 24, 2023. The UDI regulations require "labelers" to include unique device identifiers ("UDIs"), with a content and format prescribed by the FDA and issued under a system operated by an FDA-accredited issuing agency, on the labels and packages of medical devices (including, but not limited to, certain software that qualifies as a medical device under FDA rules), and to directly mark certain devices with UDIs. The UDI regulations also require labelers to submit certain information concerning UDI-labeled devices to the FDA, much of which information is publicly available on an FDA database, the Global Unique Device Identification Database. On July 22, 2022, the FDA posted the final guidance regarding the Global Unique Device Identification Database called Unique Device Identification Policy Regarding Compliance Dates for Class I and Unclassified Devices, Direct Marketing, and Global Unique Device Identification Database Requirements for Certain Devices. The UDI regulations and subsequent FDA guidance regarding the UDI requirements provide for certain exceptions, alternatives and time extensions. For example, the UDI regulations include a general exception for Class I devices exempt from the Quality System Regulation (other than record-keeping and complaint files). Regulated labelers include entities such as device manufacturers, repackagers, reprocessors and relabelers that cause a device's label to be applied or modified, with the intent that the device will be commercially distributed without any subsequent replacement or modification of the label, and include certain of our businesses.

Under the Controlled Substances Act, as a distributor of controlled substances, we are required to obtain and renew annually registrations for our facilities from the DEA permitting us to handle controlled substances. We are also subject to other statutory and regulatory requirements relating to the storage, sale, marketing, handling and distribution of such drugs, in accordance with the Controlled Substances Act and its implementing regulations, and these requirements have been subject to heightened enforcement activity in recent times. Non-controlled substances can also become subject to these controls. For example, law enforcement agencies are pressing for xylazine, which is an FDA-approved prescription veterinary tranquilizer found in certain analgesic products we distribute, to be listed as a federal controlled substance and several states, including Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Florida, have already done so, which measures are likely to increase our cost of distributing such products. There have also been increasing efforts by various levels of government globally to regulate the pharmaceutical distribution system in order to prevent the introduction of counterfeit, adulterated or misbranded pharmaceuticals into the distribution system.

In addition, Section 301 of the National Organ Transplant Act, and a number of comparable state laws, impose civil and/or criminal penalties for the transfer of certain human tissue (for example, human bone products) for valuable consideration, while generally permitting payments for the reasonable costs incurred in procuring, processing, storing and distributing that tissue. We are also subject to foreign government regulation of such products.

Certain of our businesses are subject to various additional federal, state, local and foreign laws and regulations, including with respect to the sale, transportation, storage, handling and disposal of hazardous or potentially hazardous substances, and safe working conditions. In addition, certain of our businesses must operate in compliance with a variety of burdensome and complex billing and record keeping requirements in order to substantiate claims for payment under federal, state and commercial healthcare reimbursement programs.

Certain of our businesses also maintain contracts with governmental agencies and are subject to certain regulatory requirements specific to government contractors.

As disclosed in our prior periodic reports, our subsidiary Animal Health International was the subject of an investigation by the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Western District of Virginia, which resulted in Animal Health International pleading guilty to a strict-liability misdemeanor offense in connection with its failure to comply with federal law relating to the sales of prescription animal health products, and a total criminal fine and forfeiture of $52.8 million. In addition, Animal Health International and Patterson entered into a non-prosecution agreement for other non-compliant licensing, dispensing, distribution and related sales processes disclosed during the investigation and committed to undertake additional compliance program enhancements and provide compliance certifications through our reporting for fiscal 2023. This matter may continue to divert management's attention and cause us to suffer reputational harm. We also may be subject to other fines or penalties, equitable remedies (including but not limited to the suspension, revocation or non-renewal of licenses) and litigation. The occurrence of any of these events could adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Other Regulations

Veterinary compounding pharmacies must comply with state and federal laws that govern the relationship between pharmacies and referral sources. The U.S. Federal Anti-Kickback Statute ("AKS") imposes criminal penalties against individuals and entities that pay or receive remuneration in return for referring an individual for service paid under a federal health care program. Veterinary compounding pharmacies have historically avoided scrutiny under the AKS because no federal programs are involved in veterinary compounding funding. However, most states have enacted statutes and regulations that mirror the AKS and, in some cases, are even broader than the AKS.

Various states have enacted business and insurance regulations prohibiting referral arrangements that result in the offer or acceptance of any rebate, refund, commission, discount or other consideration as compensation or inducement for referring patients, clients or customers. These regulations often encompass all health-care related professions, including pharmacies and veterinary practices.

Additionally, the promotion of regulated animal health products is controlled by regulations in many countries. These rules generally restrict advertising and promotion to those claims and uses that have been reviewed and endorsed by the applicable agency.

Antitrust and Consumer Protection

The U.S. federal government, most U.S. states and many foreign countries have antitrust laws that prohibit certain types of conduct deemed to be anti-competitive, as well as consumer protection laws that seek to protect consumers from improper business practices. At the U.S. federal level, the Federal Trade Commission oversees enforcement of these types of laws, and states have similar government agencies. Violations of antitrust or consumer protection laws may result in various sanctions, including criminal and civil penalties. Private plaintiffs also may bring, and have brought, civil lawsuits against us in the U.S. for alleged antitrust violations, including claims for treble damages. The Biden Administration has indicated increased antitrust enforcement and has been more aggressive in enforcement actions, including investigations and challenging restrictive contractual terms that it believes harm workers and competition.

Health Care Fraud

Certain of our businesses are subject to federal and state (and similar foreign) health care fraud and abuse, referral and reimbursement laws and regulations with respect to their operations. These laws and regulations govern different interactions, including but not limited to, those:

- prohibiting improper influence of or payments to healthcare professionals and government officials;
- setting out rules for when and how to engage healthcare professionals as vendors;
- requiring price reporting;
- requiring marketing of products within regulatory approval (i.e., on label);
- regulating the import and export of products;
- affecting the operation of our facilities and our distribution of products; and
- requiring disclosure of payments to healthcare professionals and entities.

Some of these laws, referred to as "false claims laws," prohibit the submission or causing the submission of false or fraudulent claims for reimbursement to federal, state and other health care payers and programs. Other laws, referred to as "anti-kickback laws," prohibit soliciting, offering, receiving or paying remuneration in order to induce the referral of a patient or ordering, purchasing, leasing or arranging for or recommending ordering, purchasing or leasing, of items or services that are paid for by federal, state and other health care payers and programs. Several states apply their false claims and anti-kickback laws to all payers, including goods and services paid for directly by consumers. Certain additional state and federal laws, such as the federal Physician Self-Referral Law, commonly known as the "Stark Law," prohibit physicians and other health professionals from referring a patient to an entity with which the physician (or family member) has a financial relationship, for the furnishing of certain designated health services (for example, durable medical equipment and medical supplies), unless an exception applies. Violations of anti-kickback laws or the Stark Law may be enforced as violations of the federal False Claims Act.

The fraud and abuse laws and regulations have been subject to heightened enforcement activity over the past few years, and significant enforcement activity has been the result of "relators," who serve as whistleblowers by filing complaints in the name of the U.S. (and, if applicable, particular states) under applicable false claim laws. Under the federal False Claims Act, relators can be entitled to receive up to 30% of the total recoveries. Penalties under fraud and abuse laws may be severe, including treble damages and substantial civil penalties under the federal False Claims Act, as well as potential loss of licenses and the ability to participate in federal and state health care programs, criminal penalties, or imposition of a corporate integrity agreement or corporate compliance monitor which could have a material adverse effect on our business. Also, these measures may be interpreted or applied by a prosecutorial, regulatory or judicial authority in a manner that could require us to make changes in our operations or incur substantial defense and settlement expenses. Even unsuccessful challenges by regulatory authorities or private relators could result in reputational harm and the incurring of substantial costs. Most states have adopted similar state false claims laws, and these state laws have their own penalties which may be in addition to federal False Claims Act penalties, as well as other fraud and abuse laws. With respect to measures of this type, the U.S. government (among others) has expressed concerns about financial relationships between suppliers on the one

ORDER OF THE MISSOURI BOARD OF PHARMACY ISSUING ANIMAL HEALTH INTERNATIONAL, INC. A DRUG DISTRIBUTOR LICENSE SUBJECT TO PROBATION

Comes now the Missouri Board of Pharmacy ("Board") and issues its ORDER granting a PROBATED drug distributor license, license number 2013019603, to Animal Health International, Inc. ("Animal Health") pursuant to the provisions of Section 324.038, RSMo. As set forth in Section 324.038, RSMo, Animal Health may submit a written request for a hearing to the Administrative Hearing Commission seeking review of the Board's decision to issue a probated license to Animal Health. Such written request must be submitted to the Administrative Hearing Commission within thirty (30) days of issuance of this Order. The written request should be addressed to the Administrative Hearing Commission, P.O. Box 1557, Truman Building Room 640, Jefferson City, MO 65102-1557. If no written request for review is received by the Administrative Hearing Commission within the thirty (30) day period, the right to seek review of the Board's decision shall be waived.

The disciplinary period shall become effective immediately upon issuance of Animal Health's license as a drug distributor. Should Animal Health file a written request for review of this Order, the terms and conditions of the Order shall remain in force and effect unless and/or until such time as the Administrative Hearing Commission issues an order contrary to this Order.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The Board is an agency of the State of Missouri created and established pursuant to Section 338.110, RSMo, for the purpose of executing and enforcing provisions of Chapter 338, RSMo.

2. Animal Health filed an application for a drug distributor license with the Board on November 5, 2012. This probated drug distributor license is for the facility owned by Animal Health at 1449A N. Old Highway 40, Salina, Kansas 67401. The Board had previously issued Walco International, Inc. a drug distributor license number 2003031150, for this location.

3. Animal Health shipped legend drugs from its current location from June 11, 2011, through January 22, 2013, without being licensed to do so. Animal Health's records reflect that it delivered at least 869 orders of legend drugs within Missouri without a valid drug distributor license.

4. Based on information received by the Board, pursuant to Section 338.055, RSMo, the Board concluded Animal Health engaged in conduct which would be grounds for denying Animal Health a license, or if currently licensed by the Board, disciplinary action by the Board against its drug distributor license.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

5. Animal Health's conduct as alleged above is cause for the Board to deny Animal Health a license to be a drug distributor pursuant to Section 338.055.1 and .2, RSMo, which states in pertinent parts:

> 1. The board may refuse to issue any certificate of registration or authority, permit or license required pursuant to this chapter for one or any combination of causes stated in subsection 2 of this section. The board shall notify the applicant in writing of the reasons for the refusal and shall advise the applicant of his or her right to file a complaint with the administrative hearing commission as provided by chapter 621, RSMo.
>
> 2. The board may cause a complaint to be filed with the administrative hearing commission as provided by chapter 621, RSMo, against any holder of any certificate of registration or authority, permit or license required by this chapter or any person who has failed to renew or has surrendered his or her certificate of registration or authority, permit or license for any one or any combination of the following causes:
> (6) Violation of, or assisting or enabling any person to violate, any provision of this chapter, or of any lawful rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this chapter;

6. Section 324.038, RSMo, provides in pertinent part:

> 1. Whenever a board within the division of professional registration, including the division itself when so empowered, may refuse to issue a license for reasons which also serve as a basis for filing a complaint with the administrative hearing commission seeking disciplinary action against a holder of a license, the board, as an alternative to refusing to issue a license, may, at its discretion, issue to an applicant a license subject to probation.

7. The Board hereby issues this ORDER in lieu of denial of Animal Health's request for a drug distributor license in Missouri pursuant to Section 324.038, RSMo.

8. Pursuant to the provisions of Section 324.038, RSMo, the Board hereby issues drug distributor license number 2013019603 to Animal Health in lieu of denial of Animal Health's request for a license to practice as a drug distributor in Missouri. License number 2013019603 is issued subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein below.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing and in lieu of denying Animal Health International, Inc., a drug distributor license, the Board hereby issues Animal Health International, Inc. a license subject to PROBATION for two (2) years (hereinafter "disciplinary period"). The terms of the disciplinary period shall be:

1. Respondent shall pay all required fees for licensing to the Board and shall renew its drug distributor license prior to October 31 of each licensing year.

2. Respondent shall comply with all provisions of Chapter 338, Chapter 195, and all applicable federal and state drug laws, rules and regulations and with all federal and state criminal laws. "State" here includes the State of Missouri and all other states and territories of the United States.

3. If, after disciplinary sanctions have been imposed, the Respondent fails to keep its drug distributor license current, the period of unlicensed status shall not be deemed or taken as any part of the time of discipline so imposed.

4. Respondent shall report to the Board, on a preprinted form supplied by the Board office, once every six (6) months (due by each January 1 and July 1), beginning with whichever date occurs first after this Order/Agreement becomes effective, stating truthfully whether or not he/she has complied with all terms and conditions of his/her disciplinary order.

5. Respondent shall make a representative of the drug distributor available for personal interviews to be conducted by a member of the Board or the Board of Pharmacy staff. Said meetings will be at the Board's discretion and may occur periodically during the disciplinary period. Respondent will be notified and given sufficient time to arrange these meetings.

6. Respondent's failure to comply with any condition of discipline set forth herein constitutes a violation of this disciplinary Order.

7. The Board of Pharmacy will maintain this Order as an open record of the Board as provided in Chapters 324, 338, 610, RSMo.

8. Upon the expiration of the disciplinary period, Animal Health's license as a drug distributor shall be fully restored if all other requirements of law have been satisfied; provided, however, that in the event the Board determines that Animal Health has violated any term or condition of this Order, the Board may, in its discretion, after an evidentiary hearing, vacate and set aside the discipline imposed herein and may suspend, revoke, or otherwise lawfully discipline Animal Health 's drug distributor license.

9. No order shall be entered by the Board pursuant to the preceding paragraph of this Order without notice and an opportunity for a hearing before the Board in accordance with provisions of Chapter 536, RSMo.

10. If the Board determines that Animal Health has violated a term or condition of this Order, which violation would be actionable in a proceeding before the Administrative Hearing Commission or the Circuit Court, the Board may elect to pursue any lawful remedies or procedures afforded it and is not bound by this Order in its determination of appropriate legal actions concerning that violation.

On March 13, 2017, Animal Health International, Inc. (AHI) entered into an agreement with the Alabama Board of Pharmacy in which AHI agreed to pay a fine of $1,000 following allegations that AHI's Manchester, Iowa pharmacy had violated Alabama law by being disciplined by the Arkansas Board of Pharmacy. AHI had entered into a non-disciplinary agreement with the Arkansas Board of Pharmacy following allegations that it had not notified the Arkansas Board of a change of ownership in a timely manner and paid a non-disciplinary fine of $2,500 to the Arkansas Board. The Alabama Board made no allegations of misconduct beyond the conduct in Arkansas which led to the non-disciplinary order and fine.

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

1. The Board has jurisdiction over Respondent Outlet, its registration as an in-state wholesaler, and the subject matter of this Stipulation and Final Agency Order ("Final Agency Order") pursuant to the Pharmacists, Pharmacy Businesses, and Pharmaceuticals Act at Title 12, Article 42.5, C.R.S. 4. Respondent Outlet admits these findings and hereby waives any further proof in this proceeding before the Board regarding the following facts.

5. Respondent Outlet failed to timely submit an application to the Board detailing a change in designated representative and fee. In this case, approximately 240 days transpired between December 1, 2015, the date the previous designated representative ceased the position, and August 4, 2016, the date the application and fee were received.

6. Respondent Outlet was required to report a change of designated representative to the Board within thirty (30) days of such change.

7. Respondent Outlet admits that its conduct, as set forth above, constitutes a violation of §12-42.5-123(1)(c)(I)-(III), C.R.S., and Rules 15.01.11(b) and 15.01.14(c) and provides grounds for disciplinary action against Respondent Outlet's Colorado registration as a wholesaler.

The pendency of any suspension or disciplinary action arising out of an alleged violation of this Final Agency Order shall not affect the obligation of Respondent Outlet to comply with all terms and conditions of this Final Agency Order.

Item 1. BUSINESS

Forward-Looking Statements

The U.S. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 provides a "safe harbor" for forward-looking statements to encourage companies to provide prospective information, so long as those statements are identified as forward-looking and are accompanied by meaningful cautionary statements identifying important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those disclosed in the statement. Certain information of a non-historical nature contained in Items 1, 2, 3 and 7 of this Form 10-K includes "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the safe harbor provisions of the U.S. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, including statements regarding future financial performance, and the objectives and expectations of management. Forward-looking statements often include words such as "believes," "expects," "anticipates," "estimates," "intends," "plans," "seeks" or words of similar meaning, or future or conditional verbs, such as "will," "should," "could" or "may." Forward-looking statements are neither historical facts nor assurances of future performance. Instead, such statements, including, but not limited to, our statements regarding business strategy, growth strategy, competitive strengths, productivity and profitability enhancement, competition, new product and service introductions and liquidity and capital resources, are based only on our current beliefs, expectations and assumptions regarding the future of our business, future plans and strategies, projections, anticipated events and trends, the economy and other future conditions, as well as on assumptions made by and information currently available to management, and involve various risks and uncertainties, some of which are beyond our control.

Because forward-looking statements relate to the future, they are subject to inherent uncertainties, risks and changes in circumstances that are difficult to predict and many of which are outside of our control. Our actual results and financial condition may differ materially from those indicated in the forward-looking statements. Therefore, you should not place undue reliance on any of these forward-looking statements. Any number of factors could affect our actual results and cause such results to differ materially from those contemplated by any forward-looking statements. Reference is made to "Risk Factors" in Item 1A and "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations" in Item 7 of this Form 10-K, for a discussion of certain factors that could cause actual operating results to differ materially from those expressed in any forward-looking statements. In light of these risks and uncertainties, there can be no assurance that the forward-looking information will in fact prove to be accurate. The order in which these factors appear should not be construed to indicate their relative importance or priority. We caution that these factors may not be exhaustive, accordingly, any forward-looking statements contained herein should not be relied upon as a prediction of actual results.

You should carefully consider these and other relevant factors and information which may be contained in this Form 10-K and in our other filings with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, or SEC, when reviewing any forward-looking statement. Investors should understand it is impossible to predict or identify all such factors or risks. As such, you should not consider the risks identified in our SEC filings, to be a complete discussion of all potential risks or uncertainties.

Any forward-looking statement made in this Form 10-K is based only on information currently available to us and speaks only as of the date on which it is made. We do not undertake any obligation to release publicly any revisions to any forward-looking statements whether written or oral, that may be made from time to time, whether as a result of new information, future developments or otherwise.

General

Patterson Companies, Inc. is a value-added specialty distributor serving the U.S. and Canadian dental supply markets and the U.S., Canadian and U.K. animal health supply markets. Patterson operates through its two strategic business units, Patterson Dental and Patterson Animal Health, offering similar products and services to different customer bases. Each business has a strong competitive position, serves a highly fragmented market that offers consolidation opportunities and offers relatively low-cost consumable supplies, which makes our value-added business proposition highly attractive to our customers. We believe that we have a strong brand identity as a value-added, full-service distributor with broad product and service offerings, having begun distributing dental supplies in 1877.

Our strategically located fulfillment centers enable us to better serve our customers and increase our operating efficiency. This infrastructure, together with broad product and service offerings at competitive prices, and a strong commitment to customer service, enables us to be a single source of supply for our customers' needs. Our infrastructure also allows us to provide convenient ordering and rapid, accurate and complete order fulfillment.

Electronic commerce solutions have become an integral part of dental and animal health supply and distribution relationships. Our distribution business is characterized by rapid technological developments and intense competition. The continuing advancement of online commerce requires us to cost-effectively adapt to changing technologies, to enhance existing services and to develop and introduce a variety of new services to address the changing demands of consumers and our customers on a timely basis, particularly in response to competitive offerings. We believe that our tradition of reliable service, our name recognition and large customer base built on solid customer relationships, position us well to participate in this significant aspect of the distribution business. We continue to explore methods to improve and expand our Internet presence and capabilities, including our online commerce offerings and our use of various social media outlets.

Patterson became publicly traded in 1992 and is a corporation organized under the laws of the state of Minnesota. We are headquartered in St. Paul, Minnesota. Our principal executive offices are located at 1031 Mendota Heights Road, St. Paul, Minnesota 55120, and our telephone number is (651) 686-1600. The Specialty Distribution Markets We Serve

We provide manufacturers with cost effective logistics and high-caliber sales professionals to access a geographically diverse customer base, which is critical to the supply chain for the markets we serve. We provide our customers with an array of value-added services, a dedicated and highly skilled sales team, and a broad selection of products through a single channel, thereby helping them efficiently manage their ordering process. Due in part to the inability of our customers to store and manage large quantities of supplies at their locations, the distribution of supplies and small equipment has been characterized by frequent, small-quantity orders, and a need for rapid, reliable and substantially-complete order fulfillment. Supplies and small equipment are generally purchased from more than one distributor, with one generally serving as the primary supplier.

We believe that consolidation within the industry will continue as distributors, particularly those with limited financial, operating and marketing resources, seek to combine with larger companies that can provide growth opportunities. This consolidation also may continue to result in distributors seeking to acquire companies that can enhance their current product and service offerings or provide opportunities to serve a broader customer base.

Dental Supply Market

The dental supply market we serve consists of geographically dispersed and highly fragmented dental practices. Customers range in size from sole practitioners to large group practices, often called Dental Service Organizations ("DSO's"). According to the American Dental Association and the Canadian Dental Association, there are approximately 203,000 dentists practicing in the U.S. and 25,000 dentists practicing in Canada. We believe the average dental practitioner purchases supplies from more than one supplier.

We believe the North American dental supply market continues to experience growth due to an increasing population, an aging population, advances in dentistry, demand for general, preventive and specialty services, increasing demand for new technologies that allow dentists to increase productivity, demand for infection control products, and insurance coverage by dental plans.

We support dental professionals through the many stock keeping units ("SKUs") that we offer, as well as through important value-added services, including equipment and technology installation and service, practice management software, electronic claims processing, financial services, and continuing education, all designed to help make a dental practice more efficient.

Animal Health Supply Market

The animal health supply market is a mix of production animal supply, which primarily serves food producing animals, consisting of beef and dairy cattle, swine and poultry and other species such as sheep and goats, and companion animal supply, which serves pets, primarily dogs, cats and horses. Similar to the dental supply market, the animal health supply market is highly fragmented and diverse. Our production animal customers include large animal veterinarians, beef producers (cow/calf, stocker and feedlots), dairy producers, poultry producers, swine producers and retail customers. Our companion animal customers are primarily small animal and equine veterinary clinics, including independently owned, corporates and groups. According to the American Veterinary Medical Association, there are more than 70,000 veterinarians in private practice in the U.S. and Canada. Furthermore, there are approximately 20,000 veterinarians in the U.K. practicing in veterinary outlets; however, we believe there has been a shift in the U.K. market toward consolidation of veterinary practices. National Veterinary Services Limited, is the market leader in the U.K. veterinary market, with the highest percentage of buying groups and corporations as customers compared to its competitors, and the highest share position in that country overall.

The global animal health supply market continues to experience growth, and we believe that trend will continue for the foreseeable future. We support our animal health customers through the distribution of biologicals, pharmaceuticals, parasiticides, supplies, including our own private label brands, and equipment. We also supply a full portfolio of technologies, software, services and solutions to all segments and channels of our broad customer base. We actively engage in the development, sale and distribution of inventory, accounting and health management systems to enhance customer operating efficiencies and assist our customers in managing risk. Within the companion animal supply market, we anticipate increasing demand for veterinary services due to the following factors: the increasing number of households with companion animals, increased pet adoption rates and increased expenditures on animal health and preventative care, an aging pet population, advancements in animal health products and diagnostic testing, and extensive marketing programs sponsored by companion animal nutrition and pharmaceutical companies.

We anticipate the macroeconomic trend of global population growth and corresponding demand for protein will be favorable to the production animal segment in the future. Likewise, the rise in disposable income, especially in developing countries will be a key driver of future growth. However; product sales in the production animal supply market are more likely to be impacted by volatility in the market such as commodity prices, changes in weather patterns, and trends in the general economy. Many factors can influence how long cattle will graze and consequently the number of days an animal is on feed during a finishing phase. Supply and demand dynamics and economic trends can shift the number of animals treated, the timing of when animals are treated, to what extent they are treated and with which products they are treated. Historically, sales in this market have been largely driven by spending on animal health products to improve productivity, weight gain and disease prevention, as well as a growing focus on health and wellness of the animals, safety, and efficiency in livestock production.

Competition

The distribution industry is highly competitive. It consists principally of national, regional and local full-service distributors. Substantially all of the products we sell are available to customers from a number of suppliers. In addition, our competitors could obtain exclusive rights from manufacturers to market particular products. Some manufacturers also sell directly to end-users, thereby eliminating or reducing our role and that of other distributors.

We compete with other distributors, as well as several manufacturers, of dental and animal health products, on the basis of price, breadth of product line, customer service and value-added products and services. To differentiate ourselves from our competition we deploy a strategy of premium customer service with multiple value-added components, a highly qualified and motivated sales force, highly-trained and experienced service technicians, an extensive breadth and mix of products and services, technology solutions allowing customers to easily access our inventory, accurate and timely delivery of product, strategic location of sales offices and fulfillment centers, and competitive pricing.

In the U.S. and Canadian dental supply market, we compete against Henry Schein, Inc., Benco Dental Supply Company, Burkhart Dental Supply and hundreds of distributors that operate on a regional or local level, or online. Also, as noted above, some manufacturers sell directly to end users. With regard to our dental practice management software, we compete against numerous offerings, including those from Henry Schein, Inc. and Carestream Dental.

In the U.S. and Canadian animal health supply market, our primary competitors are AmerisourceBergen/MWI Animal Health and Covetrus, Inc. We also compete against a number of regional and local animal health distributors, some manufacturers that sell direct to end users and several alternative channel market providers that sell through digital platforms to production animal operators, animal health product retailers and veterinarians. Additionally, major U.S. online e-commerce retailers such as Amazon and Chewy.com have become licensed as veterinary mail order pharmacies, which enables them to offer pharmacy products directly to consumers in all 50 U.S. states. In the animal health practice management market, our primary competitors are IDEXX Laboratories, Inc. and Covetrus, Inc. We face significant competition in the animal health supply market in the U.K., where we compete on the basis of price and customer service with several large competitors, including Covetrus, Inc. and AmerisourceBergen. We also compete directly with pharmaceutical companies who sell certain products or services directly to the customer.

Successful distributors are increasingly providing value-added services in addition to the products they have traditionally provided. We believe that to remain competitive we must continue to add value to the distribution channel, while removing unnecessary costs associated with product movement. Significant price reductions by our competitors could result in competitive harm. Any of these competitive pressures may materially adversely affect our operating results.

Competitive Strengths

We have more than 140 years of experience in distributing products resulting in strong awareness of the Patterson brand. Although further information regarding these competitive strengths is set forth below in the discussion of our two strategic business units, our competitive strengths include:

- Broad product and service offerings at competitive prices. We sell approximately 200,000 SKUs to our customers, including many proprietary branded products. We believe that our proprietary branded products and our competitive pricing strategy have generated a loyal customer base that is confident in our brands. Our product offerings include consumables, equipment, software and various technologies. Our value-added services include practice management software, office design, equipment installation and maintenance, and financing.

- Focus on customer relationships and exceptional customer service. Our sales and marketing efforts are designed to establish and solidify customer relationships through personal visits by field sales representatives, interaction via phone with sales representatives, web-based activities including e-commerce and frequent direct marketing, emphasizing our broad product lines, competitive prices and ease of order placement. We focus on providing our customers with exceptional order fulfillment and a streamlined ordering process.

- Cost-effective purchasing and efficient distribution. We believe that cost-effective purchasing is a key element to maintaining and enhancing our position as a competitive-pricing provider of dental and animal health products. We strive to maintain optimal inventory levels to satisfy customer demand for prompt and complete order fulfillment through our distribution of products from strategically located fulfillment centers.

Business Strategy

Our objective is to continue to expand as a leading value-added distributor of dental and animal health products and services. To accomplish this, we will apply our competitive strengths in executing the following strategies:

- Emphasizing our differentiated, value-added, full-service capabilities. We are positioned to meet virtually all of the needs of dental practitioners, veterinarians, production animal operators and animal health product retailers by providing a broad range of consumable supplies, technology, equipment, software and value-added services. We believe our knowledgeable sales representatives can create customer intimacy and loyalty by providing an informational, consultative approach to our customers, linking them to the industries we serve. Our value-added strategy is further supported by our equipment specialists who offer consultation on design, equipment requirements and financing, our service technicians who perform equipment installation, maintenance and repair services, our business development professionals who provide business tools and educational programs to our customers, and our technology advisors who provide guidance on integrating technology solutions.

- Using technology to enhance customer service. As part of our commitment to providing superior customer service, we offer our customers easy order placement. Although we offer computerized order entry systems that we believe help establish relationships with new customers and increase loyalty among existing customers, predominant platforms for ordering today include www.pattersondental.com, www.pattersonvet.com and www.animalhealthinternational.com. The use of these methods of ordering enables our sales representatives to spend more time with existing and prospective customers. Our Internet environment includes order entry, customer support for digital and our proprietary products, customer-loyalty program reports and services, and access to articles and manufacturers' product information. We also provide real-time customer and sales information to our sales force, managers and vendors via the Internet. In addition, the Patterson Technology Center ("PTC") differentiates Patterson from our competition by providing deep and thorough expertise in practice management software and other advanced equipment and technology clinical solutions. In addition to trouble-shooting through the PTC's support center, customers can access various service capabilities offered by the PTC, including electronic claims and statement processing and system back-up capabilities.

- Continuing to improve operating efficiencies. We continue to implement programs designed to improve our operating efficiencies and allow for continued sales growth. This strategy includes our continuing investment in management information systems and consolidation and leveraging of fulfillment centers and sales branches between our operating segments. In addition, we have established shared sales branch offices in several locations.

- Growing through internal expansion and acquisitions. We intend to continue to grow by hiring sales representatives, hiring and training sales professionals, opening additional locations as needed, and acquiring other companies in order to enter new, or more deeply penetrate existing, markets, gain access to additional product lines, and expand our customer base. We believe both of our operating segments are well positioned to take advantage of expected continued consolidation in our markets.

Dental Segment - Products, Services and Sources of Supply

Patterson Dental, one of the two largest distributors of dental products in North America, has operations in the U.S. and Canada. As a full-service, value-added supplier to over 100,000 dental practices, dental laboratories, educational institutions, and community health centers, Patterson Dental provides consumable products (including infection control, restorative materials, and instruments); basic and advanced technology and dental equipment; and innovative practice optimization solutions, including practice management software, e-commerce, revenue cycle management, patient engagement solutions, and clinical and patient education. Patterson Dental sells approximately 100,000 SKUs, of which approximately 3,500 are private-label products sold under the Patterson brand. Patterson Dental also offers customers a range of related services including software and design services, maintenance and repair, and equipment financing. Net sales and operating income were $2.5 billion and $237 million in fiscal 2023, respectively.

The following table sets forth the percentage of total sales by the principal categories of products and services offered to our dental segment customers:

Patterson Dental obtains products from hundreds of vendors, most of which are non-exclusive. While there is generally more than one source of supply for most of the categories of products we sell, the concentration of business with key suppliers is considerable, as consolidation has increased among manufacturers. In fiscal 2023, 2022 and 2021, Patterson Dental's top ten supply vendors accounted for approximately 58%, 56% and 57% of the total cost of sales, respectively. The top vendor accounted for 24%, 24% and 25% of the total cost of sales in fiscal 2023, 2022 and 2021, respectively.

Animal Health Segment - Products, Services and Sources of Supply

Patterson Animal Health is a leading distributor of animal health products in the U.S., Canada and the U.K. We sell approximately 100,000 SKUs, of which approximately 2,000 are private-label. Products are sourced from over 2,000 manufacturers to over 50,000 customers in the highly fragmented animal health supply market. Products we distribute include pharmaceuticals, vaccines, parasiticides, diagnostics, prescription and non-prescription diets, nutritionals, consumable supplies and equipment. We offer a private label portfolio of products to veterinarians, producers, and retailers through our Aspen, First Companion and Patterson Veterinary brands. We also provide a range of value-added services to our customers. Within our companion animal supply market, our principal customers are companion-pet and equine veterinarians, veterinary clinics, public and private institutions, and shelters. In our production animal supply market, our principal customers are large animal veterinarians, production animal operators and animal health product retailers. Consumer demand for alternative means of sourcing product through digital platforms is an evolving dynamic in our industry. We provide digital home delivery solutions to allow us to evolve with the market. Net sales and operating income were $4.0 billion and $127 million in fiscal 2023, respectively.

The following table sets forth the percentage of total sales by the principal categories of products and services offered to our animal health segment customers:

	Fiscal Year Ended
	April 29, 2023	April 30, 2022	April 24, 2021
Consumable	96 %	96 %	96 %
Equipment	3	3	3
Value-added services and other	1	1	1
	100 %	100 %	100 %

Patterson Animal Health obtains products from over 2,000 vendors globally. While Patterson Animal Health makes purchases from many vendors and there is generally more than one source of supply for most of the categories of products, the concentration of business with key vendors is considerable, as consolidation has increased among manufacturers. In fiscal 2023, 2022 and 2021, Patterson Animal Health's top 10 manufacturers comprised approximately 66%, 66% and 70% of the total cost of sales, respectively, and the single largest supplier comprised approximately 24%, 23% and 20% in of the total cost of sales 2023, 2022 and 2021, respectively.

Sales, Marketing and Distribution

During fiscal 2023, we sold products or services to over 100,000 customers who made one or more purchases during the year. Our customers include dentists, laboratories, institutions, other healthcare professionals, veterinarians, other animal health professionals, production animal operators and animal health product retailers. No single customer accounted for more than 10% of sales during fiscal 2023, and we are not dependent on any single customer or geographic group of customers.

We have offices throughout the U.S. and Canada so that we can provide a presence in the market and decision-making near the customer. Patterson Animal Health also has a central office in the U.K. Our offices, or sales branches, are staffed with a complete complement of our capabilities, including sales, customer service and technical service personnel, as well as a local manager who has decision-making authority with regard to customer-related transactions and issues.

A primary component of our value-added approach is our professional sales and support organization. Due to the highly-fragmented nature of the markets we serve, we believe that our unique combination of field-based and call-center sales and support teams is critical to reaching potential customers and providing a differentiated customer experience. Our sales representatives play an indispensable and critical role in managing a practice's supply chain and in introducing new products and technologies.

In the U.S. and Canada, customer service representatives in call centers work in tandem with our sales representatives, providing a dual coverage approach for individual customers. In addition to processing orders, customer service representatives are responsible for assisting customers with ordering, informing customers of monthly promotions, and responding to general inquiries. In the U.K., our customer service team is primarily responsible for handling customer inquiries and resolving issues.

To assist our customers with their purchasing decisions, we provide a multi-touchpoint shopping experience. From print to digital, this seamless experience is inclusive of products and services information. Patterson offers online and in-print showcases of our expansive merchandise and equipment offerings, including digital imaging and computer-aided design and computer-aided manufacturing ("CAD/CAM") technologies, hand-held and similar instruments, sundries, office design, e-services, repair and support assistance, as well as financial services. We also promote select products and services through publications, including On Target and Advantage in the U.S. and Patterson Post in Canada in our Dental segment, and Insight in the U.S. and The Cube in the U.K. in our Animal Health segment. Additional direct marketing tools that we utilize include customer loyalty programs, social media, and participation in trade shows.

We believe that responsive delivery of quality supplies and equipment is key to customer satisfaction. We ship consumable supplies from our strategically located fulfillment centers in the U.S. and Canada. In the U.K., orders are accepted in a centralized fulfillment center and shipped nationwide to one of our depots located throughout the country at which pre-packed orders are sorted by route for delivery to customers. Orders for consumable supplies can be placed through our sales representatives, customer service representatives or electronically 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Rapid and accurate order fulfillment is another principal component of our value-added approach.

In order to assure the availability of our broad product lines for prompt delivery to customers, we must maintain sufficient inventories at our fulfillment centers. Purchasing of consumables and standard equipment is centralized, and our purchasing department uses a real-time perpetual inventory system to manage inventory levels. Our inventory consists mostly of consumable supply items and pharmaceutical products.

The COVID-19 pandemic had a significant impact on our businesses in fiscal 2021 as we implemented cost reduction measures in response to closures and other steps taken by governmental authorities. In response, management adapted our business practices with respect to employee travel, employee work locations, and cancellation of physical participation in meetings, events and conferences. Management also took proactive steps with respect to our liquidity position. Within our Dental segment, supply chain disruptions and an increased demand for PPE initially resulted in back orders of PPE, causing substantial price increases. We had to prepay suppliers in order to obtain PPE for resale to our customers, and as manufacturing caught up to increased demand for PPE, prices dropped, impacting our margins and requiring us to write down certain inventory.

In our markets of the U.S., Canada, and the UK, restrictive measures have now been lifted and the World Health Organization declared an end to the COVID-19 pandemic. Concerns remain that our markets could see a resurgence of COVID-19 cases or the emergence of new wide-spread public health outbreaks, triggering additional impacts on our businesses. There is continued uncertainty around the duration and ultimate impact of COVID-19 and other global health concerns.

Refer to Part I, Item 1A, "Risk Factors," and Part II, Item 7, "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations," within this Annual Report for further information on the impacts to our business and results of operations, our dividends, liquidity and debt arrangements, and associated risks and uncertainties.

Geographic Information

For information on revenues and long-lived assets of our segments by geographic area, see Note 14 to the Consolidated Financial Statements.

Seasonality and Other Factors Affecting Our Business and Quarterly Results

Our business in general is not seasonal; however, there are some products that typically sell more often during the winter or summer season. In any given month, unusual weather patterns (e.g., unusually hot or cold weather) could impact the sales volumes of these products, either positively or negatively. In addition, we experience fluctuations in quarterly earnings. As a result, we may fail to meet or exceed the expectations of securities analysts and investors, which could cause our stock price to decline. Quarterly results may be materially adversely affected by a variety of factors, including:

- timing and amount of sales and marketing expenditures;
- timing of pricing changes offered by our suppliers;

- timing of the introduction of new products and services by our suppliers;
- changes in or availability of supplier contracts or rebate programs;
- supplier rebates based upon attaining certain growth goals;
- changes in the way suppliers introduce or deliver products to market;
- costs of developing new applications and services;
- our ability to correctly identify customer needs and preferences and predict future needs and preferences;
- uncertainties regarding potential significant breaches of data security or disruptions of our information technology systems;
- regulatory actions, or government regulation generally;
- loss of sales representatives;
- costs related to acquisitions and/or integrations of technologies or businesses;
- costs associated with our self-insured insurance programs;
- general market and economic conditions, as discussed in Item 1A: Risk Factors, including pandemic, macro-economic conditions, increased fuel and energy costs, consumer confidence, as well as conditions specific to the supply and distribution industry and related industries;
- our success in establishing or maintaining business relationships;
- difficulties of manufacturers in developing and manufacturing products;
- product demand and availability, or product recalls by manufacturers;
- exposure to product liability and other claims in the event that the use of the products we sell results in injury;
- increases in shipping costs or service issues with our third-party shippers;
- fluctuations in the value of foreign currencies;
- goodwill impairment;
- changes in interest rates;
- restructuring costs;
- the adoption or repeal of legislation;
- changes in accounting principles; and
- litigation or regulatory judgments, fines, forfeitures, penalties, equitable remedies, expenses or settlements.

Governmental Regulation

We strive to be compliant with the applicable laws, regulations and guidance described below, and believe we have effective compliance programs and other controls in place to ensure substantial compliance. However, compliance is not guaranteed either now or in the future, as certain laws, regulations and guidance may be subject to varying and evolving interpretations that could affect our ability to comply, as well as future changes, additions and enforcement approaches, including political changes. Additionally, our policies and procedures may not always protect us from reckless or criminal acts committed by our employees or our agents. When we discover situations of non-compliance we seek to remedy them and bring the affected area back into compliance.

President Biden's administration (the "Biden Administration") has indicated that it will be more aggressive in its pursuit of alleged violations of law, and has revoked certain guidance that would have limited governmental use of informal agency guidance to pursue potential violations, and has stated that it is more prepared to pursue individuals for corporate law violations, including an aggressive approach to anti-corruption activities. Changes to applicable laws, regulations and guidance described below, as well as related administrative or judicial interpretations, may require us to update or revise our operations, services, marketing practices, and compliance programs and controls, and may impose additional and unforeseen costs on us, pose new or previously immaterial risks to us, or may otherwise have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Federal, state and certain foreign governments have also increased enforcement activity in the health care sector, particularly in areas of fraud and abuse, anti-bribery and corruption, controlled substances handling, medical device regulations and data privacy and security standards. Our businesses are generally subject to numerous laws and regulations that could impact our financial performance. Failure to comply with such laws or regulations could be punishable by criminal or civil sanctions, which could materially adversely affect our business.

Operating, Security and Licensure Standards

Our dental and animal health supply businesses involve the distribution, importation, exportation, marketing and sale of, and third party payment for, pharmaceuticals and medical devices, and in this regard, we are subject to extensive local, state, federal and foreign governmental laws and regulations applicable to the distribution of pharmaceuticals and medical devices.

U.S. Federal Agencies

Certain of our businesses are required to register for permits and/or licenses with, and comply with operating and security standards of, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration ("FDA"), the U.S. Department of Agriculture ("USDA"), the Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA"), the Food Safety Inspection Service ("FSIS"), the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration ("DEA"), the Federal Trade Commission ("FTC"), and various state boards of pharmacy, state health departments and/or comparable state agencies as well as comparable foreign agencies, and certain accrediting bodies depending on the type of operations and location of product distribution, manufacturing or sale. These businesses include those that distribute, manufacture and/or repackage prescription pharmaceuticals and/or medical devices and/or HCT/P products, own pharmacy operations, or install, maintain or repair equipment.

FDA – the regulatory body that is responsible for the regulation of animal-health pharmaceuticals in the U.S. is the Center for Veterinary Medicine ("CVM") housed within the FDA.

- Generally, all animal-health pharmaceuticals are subject to pre-market review and must be shown to be safe, effective, and produced by a consistent method of manufacture as defined under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, as amended (the "FDC Act").
- If the drug is for food-producing animals, potential consequences for humans are also considered.
- Animal supplements generally are not required to obtain pre-market approval from the CVM, although they may be treated as food. Any substance that is added to, or is expected to become a component of, animal food must be used in accordance with food-additive regulations, unless it is generally recognized as safe, under the conditions of its intended use. Alternatively, the FDA may consider animal supplements to be drugs. The FDA has agreed to exercise enforcement discretion for such supplements if each such supplement meets certain conditions.
- Additionally, dental and medical devices we sell in the U.S. are generally classified by the FDA into a category that renders them subject to the same controls that apply to all medical devices, including regulations regarding alternation, misbranding, notification, record-keeping and good manufacturing practices.

USDA – the regulatory body in the U.S. for veterinary biologics, such as vaccines.

- The USDA's Center for Veterinary Biologics is responsible for the regulation of animal-health vaccines, including immunotherapeutics. Marketing of imported veterinary biological products in the U.S. requires a U.S. Veterinary Biological Product Permit. Veterinary biologics are subject to pre-market review and must be shown to be pure, safe, potent, and efficacious, as defined under the Virus Serum Toxin Act. The USDA requires post-licensing monitoring of these products.

EPA – the main regulatory body in the U.S. for veterinary pesticides is the EPA.

- The EPA's Office of Pesticide Programs is responsible for the regulation of pesticide products applied to animals.
- Animal-health pesticides are subject to pre-market review and must not cause "unreasonable adverse effects to man or the environment" as stated in the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act.
- Within the U.S., pesticide products that are approved by the EPA must also be approved by individual state pesticide authorities before distribution in that state. Post-approval monitoring of products is required, with reports provided to the EPA and some state regulatory agencies.

FSIS - the public health agency within the USDA.

- The FDA is authorized to determine the safety of substances (including "generally recognized as safe" substances, food additives and color additives), as well as prescribe their safe conditions of use. However, although the FDA has the responsibility for determining the safety of substances, the FSIS still retains, under the tenets of the Federal Meat Inspection Act and the Poultry Products Inspection Act and their implementing regulations, the authority to determine whether new substances and new uses of previously approved substances are suitable for use in meat and poultry products.

DEA – under the Controlled Substances Act, distributors of controlled substances are required to obtain, and renew annually, registrations for their facilities from the DEA.

- Distributors are also subject to other statutory and regulatory requirements relating to the storage, sale, marketing, handling, and distribution of such drugs, in accordance with the Controlled Substances Act and its implementing regulations, and these requirements have been subject to heightened enforcement activity in recent times.
- Distributors are subject to inspection by the DEA.

FTC – the FTC regulates advertising pursuant to its authority to prevent "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce" under the Federal Trade Commission Act.

- Advertising and promotion of animal-health products that are not subject to approval by the CVM may be challenged by the FTC, as well as by state attorneys general and by consumers under state consumer protection laws.
- The FTC will find an advertisement to be deceptive if it contains a representation or omission of fact that is likely to mislead consumers acting reasonably under the circumstances, the representation or omission is material, and if the advertiser does not possess and rely upon a reasonable basis, such as competent and reliable evidence, substantiating the claim.
- The FTC may address unfair or deceptive advertising practices through either an administrative adjudication or judicial enforcement action, including preliminary or permanent injunction.
- The FTC may also seek consumer redress from the advertiser in instances of dishonest or fraudulent conduct.

State Registrations – states may require registration of animal-drug distributors and wholesalers.

- Additional requirements may apply when the product is also a controlled substance. States work closely with the Association of American Feed Control Officials ("AAFCO") in their regulation of animal food.
- AAFCO's annual official publication contains model animal and pet-food labeling regulations that states may adopt.
- This publication is treated deferentially by the federal and state government agencies that regulate animal food. Many states require registration or licensing of animal-food distributors.
- States may also review and approve animal-food labels prior to sale of the product in their state.

We are also subject to foreign trade controls administered by certain U.S. government agencies, including the Bureau of Industry and Security within the Commerce Department, Customs and Border Protection within the Department of homeland Security and the U.S. Department of the Treasury's Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC).

The DEA, the FDA and state regulatory authorities have broad inspection and enforcement powers, including the ability to suspend or limit the distribution of products by our fulfillment centers, seize or order the recall of products and impose significant criminal, civil and administrative sanctions for violations of these laws and regulations. Foreign regulations subject us to similar foreign enforcement powers. Furthermore, compliance with legal requirements has required and may in the future require us to delay product release, sale or distribution, or institute voluntary recalls of, or other corrective action with respect to, products we sell, each of which could result in regulatory and enforcement actions, financial losses and potential reputational harm. Our customers are also subject to significant federal, state, local and foreign governmental regulation, which may affect our interactions with customers, including the design and functionality of the products we distribute.

Agencies Outside the U.S.

Since the U.K. formally left the EU on January 31, 2020, the Veterinary Medicines Directorate ("VMD") became the main regulatory body in the U.K. responsible for regulating and controlling veterinary pharmaceuticals. The U.K. and the EU reached a trade deal in December 2020, which went into effect in May 2021. The agreement includes regulatory and customs cooperation mechanisms, as well as provisions supporting open and fair competition. The Northern Ireland protocol, which is part of the trade deal, requires that VMD follow EU rules in Northern Ireland. Laws applying to the rest of the U.K. could now diverge but currently remain largely aligned.

U.S. Laws

Among the U.S. federal laws applicable to us are the Controlled Substances Act, the FDC Act, Section 361 of the Public Health Service Act, as well as laws regulating the billing of and reimbursement from government programs, such as Medicare and Medicaid, and from commercial payers. We are also subject to comparable foreign regulations.

The FDC Act, the Controlled Substances Act, their implementing regulations, and similar foreign laws generally regulate the introduction, manufacture, advertising, marketing and promotion, sampling, pricing and reimbursement, labeling, packaging, storage, handling, returning or recalling, reporting, and distribution of, and record keeping for, pharmaceuticals and medical devices shipped in interstate commerce, and states may similarly regulate such activities within the state. Furthermore, Section 361 of the Public Health Service Act, which provides authority to prevent the introduction, transmission, or spread of communicable diseases, serves as the legal basis for the FDA's regulation of human cells, tissues and cellular and tissue-based products, also known as "HCT/P products."

The federal Drug Quality and Security Act of 2013 brought about significant changes with respect to pharmaceutical supply chain requirements. Title II of this measure, known as the Drug Supply Chain Security Act ("DSCSA"), was first implemented in November 2014 and is being phased in over a period of 10 years. DSCSA is intended to build a national electronic, interoperable system by November 27, 2023, that will identify and trace certain prescription drugs as they are distributed in the U.S. The law's track and trace requirements applicable to manufacturers, wholesalers, third-party logistics providers (e.g., trading partners), repackagers and dispensers (e.g., pharmacies) of prescription drugs took effect in January 2015, and continues to be implemented. The DSCSA product tracing requirements replace the former FDA drug pedigree requirements and pre-empt certain state requirements that are inconsistent with, more stringent than, or in addition to, the DSCSA requirements.

The DSCSA also establishes certain requirements for the licensing and operation of prescription drug wholesalers and third party logistics providers ("3PLs"), and includes the eventual creation of national wholesaler and 3PL licenses in cases where states do not license such entities. The DSCSA requires that wholesalers and 3PLs distribute drugs in accordance with certain standards regarding the recordkeeping, storage and handling of prescription drugs. The DSCSA requires wholesalers and 3PLs to submit annual reports to the FDA, which include information regarding each state where the wholesaler or 3PL is licensed, the name and address of each facility and contact information. According to FDA guidance, states are pre-empted from imposing any licensing requirements that are inconsistent with, less stringent than, directly related to, or covered by the standards established by federal law in this area. Current state licensing requirements concerning wholesalers will remain in effect until the FDA issues new regulations as directed by the DSCSA.

The Food and Drug Administration Amendments Act of 2007 and the Food and Drug Administration Safety and Innovation Act of 2012 amended the FDC Act to require the FDA to promulgate regulations to implement a unique device identification ("UDI") system. The UDI rule phased in the implementation of the UDI regulations, generally beginning with the highest-risk devices (i.e., Class III medical devices) and ending with the lowest-risk devices. Most compliance dates were reached as of September 24, 2018, with a final set of requirements for low-risk devices being reached on September 24, 2022, which completed the phase in. However, in May 2021, the FDA issued an enforcement policy stating that it does not intend to object to the use of legacy identification numbers on device labels and packages for finished devices manufactured and labeled prior to September 24, 2023. The UDI regulations require "labelers" to include unique device identifiers ("UDIs"), with a content and format prescribed by the FDA and issued under a system operated by an FDA-accredited issuing agency, on the labels and packages of medical devices (including, but not limited to, certain software that qualifies as a medical device under FDA rules), and to directly mark certain devices with UDIs. The UDI regulations also require labelers to submit certain information concerning UDI-labeled devices to the FDA, much of which information is publicly available on an FDA database, the Global Unique Device Identification Database. On July 22, 2022, the FDA posted the final guidance regarding the Global Unique Device Identification Database called Unique Device Identification Policy Regarding Compliance Dates for Class I and Unclassified Devices, Direct Marketing, and Global Unique Device Identification Database Requirements for Certain Devices. The UDI regulations and subsequent FDA guidance regarding the UDI requirements provide for certain exceptions, alternatives and time extensions. For example, the UDI regulations include a general exception for Class I devices exempt from the Quality System Regulation (other than record-keeping and complaint files). Regulated labelers include entities such as device manufacturers, repackagers, reprocessors and relabelers that cause a device's label to be applied or modified, with the intent that the device will be commercially distributed without any subsequent replacement or modification of the label, and include certain of our businesses.

Under the Controlled Substances Act, as a distributor of controlled substances, we are required to obtain and renew annually registrations for our facilities from the DEA permitting us to handle controlled substances. We are also subject to other statutory and regulatory requirements relating to the storage, sale, marketing, handling and distribution of such drugs, in accordance with the Controlled Substances Act and its implementing regulations, and these requirements have been subject to heightened enforcement activity in recent times. Non-controlled substances can also become subject to these controls. For example, law enforcement agencies are pressing for xylazine, which is an FDA-approved prescription veterinary tranquilizer found in certain analgesic products we distribute, to be listed as a federal controlled substance and several states, including Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Florida, have already done so, which measures are likely to increase our cost of distributing such products. There have also been increasing efforts by various levels of government globally to regulate the pharmaceutical distribution system in order to prevent the introduction of counterfeit, adulterated or misbranded pharmaceuticals into the distribution system.

In addition, Section 301 of the National Organ Transplant Act, and a number of comparable state laws, impose civil and/or criminal penalties for the transfer of certain human tissue (for example, human bone products) for valuable consideration, while generally permitting payments for the reasonable costs incurred in procuring, processing, storing and distributing that tissue. We are also subject to foreign government regulation of such products.

Certain of our businesses are subject to various additional federal, state, local and foreign laws and regulations, including with respect to the sale, transportation, storage, handling and disposal of hazardous or potentially hazardous substances, and safe working conditions. In addition, certain of our businesses must operate in compliance with a variety of burdensome and complex billing and record keeping requirements in order to substantiate claims for payment under federal, state and commercial healthcare reimbursement programs.

Certain of our businesses also maintain contracts with governmental agencies and are subject to certain regulatory requirements specific to government contractors.

As disclosed in our prior periodic reports, our subsidiary Animal Health International was the subject of an investigation by the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Western District of Virginia, which resulted in Animal Health International pleading guilty to a strict-liability misdemeanor offense in connection with its failure to comply with federal law relating to the sales of prescription animal health products, and a total criminal fine and forfeiture of $52.8 million. In addition, Animal Health International and Patterson entered into a non-prosecution agreement for other non-compliant licensing, dispensing, distribution and related sales processes disclosed during the investigation and committed to undertake additional compliance program enhancements and provide compliance certifications through our reporting for fiscal 2023. This matter may continue to divert management's attention and cause us to suffer reputational harm. We also may be subject to other fines or penalties, equitable remedies (including but not limited to the suspension, revocation or non-renewal of licenses) and litigation. The occurrence of any of these events could adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Other Regulations

Veterinary compounding pharmacies must comply with state and federal laws that govern the relationship between pharmacies and referral sources. The U.S. Federal Anti-Kickback Statute ("AKS") imposes criminal penalties against individuals and entities that pay or receive remuneration in return for referring an individual for service paid under a federal health care program. Veterinary compounding pharmacies have historically avoided scrutiny under the AKS because no federal programs are involved in veterinary compounding funding. However, most states have enacted statutes and regulations that mirror the AKS and, in some cases, are even broader than the AKS.

Various states have enacted business and insurance regulations prohibiting referral arrangements that result in the offer or acceptance of any rebate, refund, commission, discount or other consideration as compensation or inducement for referring patients, clients or customers. These regulations often encompass all health-care related professions, including pharmacies and veterinary practices.

Additionally, the promotion of regulated animal health products is controlled by regulations in many countries. These rules generally restrict advertising and promotion to those claims and uses that have been reviewed and endorsed by the applicable agency.

Antitrust and Consumer Protection

The U.S. federal government, most U.S. states and many foreign countries have antitrust laws that prohibit certain types of conduct deemed to be anti-competitive, as well as consumer protection laws that seek to protect consumers from improper business practices. At the U.S. federal level, the Federal Trade Commission oversees enforcement of these types of laws, and states have similar government agencies. Violations of antitrust or consumer protection laws may result in various sanctions, including criminal and civil penalties. Private plaintiffs also may bring, and have brought, civil lawsuits against us in the U.S. for alleged antitrust violations, including claims for treble damages. The Biden Administration has indicated increased antitrust enforcement and has been more aggressive in enforcement actions, including investigations and challenging restrictive contractual terms that it believes harm workers and competition.

Health Care Fraud

Certain of our businesses are subject to federal and state (and similar foreign) health care fraud and abuse, referral and reimbursement laws and regulations with respect to their operations. These laws and regulations govern different interactions, including but not limited to, those:

- prohibiting improper influence of or payments to healthcare professionals and government officials;
- setting out rules for when and how to engage healthcare professionals as vendors;
- requiring price reporting;
- requiring marketing of products within regulatory approval (i.e., on label);
- regulating the import and export of products;
- affecting the operation of our facilities and our distribution of products; and
- requiring disclosure of payments to healthcare professionals and entities.

Some of these laws, referred to as "false claims laws," prohibit the submission or causing the submission of false or fraudulent claims for reimbursement to federal, state and other health care payers and programs. Other laws, referred to as "anti-kickback laws," prohibit soliciting, offering, receiving or paying remuneration in order to induce the referral of a patient or ordering, purchasing, leasing or arranging for or recommending ordering, purchasing or leasing, of items or services that are paid for by federal, state and other health care payers and programs. Several states apply their false claims and anti-kickback laws to all payers, including goods and services paid for directly by consumers. Certain additional state and federal laws, such as the federal Physician Self-Referral Law, commonly known as the "Stark Law," prohibit physicians and other health professionals from referring a patient to an entity with which the physician (or family member) has a financial relationship, for the furnishing of certain designated health services (for example, durable medical equipment and medical supplies), unless an exception applies. Violations of anti-kickback laws or the Stark Law may be enforced as violations of the federal False Claims Act.

The fraud and abuse laws and regulations have been subject to heightened enforcement activity over the past few years, and significant enforcement activity has been the result of "relators," who serve as whistleblowers by filing complaints in the name of the U.S. (and, if applicable, particular states) under applicable false claim laws. Under the federal False Claims Act, relators can be entitled to receive up to 30% of the total recoveries. Penalties under fraud and abuse laws may be severe, including treble damages and substantial civil penalties under the federal False Claims Act, as well as potential loss of licenses and the ability to participate in federal and state health care programs, criminal penalties, or imposition of a corporate integrity agreement or corporate compliance monitor which could have a material adverse effect on our business. Also, these measures may be interpreted or applied by a prosecutorial, regulatory or judicial authority in a manner that could require us to make changes in our operations or incur substantial defense and settlement expenses. Even unsuccessful challenges by regulatory authorities or private relators could result in reputational harm and the incurring of substantial costs. Most states have adopted similar state false claims laws, and these state laws have their own penalties which may be in addition to federal False Claims Act penalties, as well as other fraud and abuse laws. With respect to measures of this type, the U.S. government (among others) has expressed concerns about financial relationships between suppliers on the one

ORDER OF THE MISSOURI BOARD OF PHARMACY ISSUING ANIMAL HEALTH INTERNATIONAL, INC. A DRUG DISTRIBUTOR LICENSE SUBJECT TO PROBATION

Comes now the Missouri Board of Pharmacy ("Board") and issues its ORDER granting a PROBATED drug distributor license, license number 2013019603, to Animal Health International, Inc. ("Animal Health") pursuant to the provisions of Section 324.038, RSMo. As set forth in Section 324.038, RSMo, Animal Health may submit a written request for a hearing to the Administrative Hearing Commission seeking review of the Board's decision to issue a probated license to Animal Health. Such written request must be submitted to the Administrative Hearing Commission within thirty (30) days of issuance of this Order. The written request should be addressed to the Administrative Hearing Commission, P.O. Box 1557, Truman Building Room 640, Jefferson City, MO 65102-1557. If no written request for review is received by the Administrative Hearing Commission within the thirty (30) day period, the right to seek review of the Board's decision shall be waived.

The disciplinary period shall become effective immediately upon issuance of Animal Health's license as a drug distributor. Should Animal Health file a written request for review of this Order, the terms and conditions of the Order shall remain in force and effect unless and/or until such time as the Administrative Hearing Commission issues an order contrary to this Order.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The Board is an agency of the State of Missouri created and established pursuant to Section 338.110, RSMo, for the purpose of executing and enforcing provisions of Chapter 338, RSMo.

2. Animal Health filed an application for a drug distributor license with the Board on November 5, 2012. This probated drug distributor license is for the facility owned by Animal Health at 1449A N. Old Highway 40, Salina, Kansas 67401. The Board had previously issued Walco International, Inc. a drug distributor license number 2003031150, for this location.

3. Animal Health shipped legend drugs from its current location from June 11, 2011, through January 22, 2013, without being licensed to do so. Animal Health's records reflect that it delivered at least 869 orders of legend drugs within Missouri without a valid drug distributor license.

4. Based on information received by the Board, pursuant to Section 338.055, RSMo, the Board concluded Animal Health engaged in conduct which would be grounds for denying Animal Health a license, or if currently licensed by the Board, disciplinary action by the Board against its drug distributor license.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

5. Animal Health's conduct as alleged above is cause for the Board to deny Animal Health a license to be a drug distributor pursuant to Section 338.055.1 and .2, RSMo, which states in pertinent parts:

> 1. The board may refuse to issue any certificate of registration or authority, permit or license required pursuant to this chapter for one or any combination of causes stated in subsection 2 of this section. The board shall notify the applicant in writing of the reasons for the refusal and shall advise the applicant of his or her right to file a complaint with the administrative hearing commission as provided by chapter 621, RSMo.
>
> 2. The board may cause a complaint to be filed with the administrative hearing commission as provided by chapter 621, RSMo, against any holder of any certificate of registration or authority, permit or license required by this chapter or any person who has failed to renew or has surrendered his or her certificate of registration or authority, permit or license for any one or any combination of the following causes:
> (6) Violation of, or assisting or enabling any person to violate, any provision of this chapter, or of any lawful rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this chapter;

6. Section 324.038, RSMo, provides in pertinent part:

> 1. Whenever a board within the division of professional registration, including the division itself when so empowered, may refuse to issue a license for reasons which also serve as a basis for filing a complaint with the administrative hearing commission seeking disciplinary action against a holder of a license, the board, as an alternative to refusing to issue a license, may, at its discretion, issue to an applicant a license subject to probation.

7. The Board hereby issues this ORDER in lieu of denial of Animal Health's request for a drug distributor license in Missouri pursuant to Section 324.038, RSMo.

8. Pursuant to the provisions of Section 324.038, RSMo, the Board hereby issues drug distributor license number 2013019603 to Animal Health in lieu of denial of Animal Health's request for a license to practice as a drug distributor in Missouri. License number 2013019603 is issued subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein below.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing and in lieu of denying Animal Health International, Inc., a drug distributor license, the Board hereby issues Animal Health International, Inc. a license subject to PROBATION for two (2) years (hereinafter "disciplinary period"). The terms of the disciplinary period shall be:

1. Respondent shall pay all required fees for licensing to the Board and shall renew its drug distributor license prior to October 31 of each licensing year.

2. Respondent shall comply with all provisions of Chapter 338, Chapter 195, and all applicable federal and state drug laws, rules and regulations and with all federal and state criminal laws. "State" here includes the State of Missouri and all other states and territories of the United States.

3. If, after disciplinary sanctions have been imposed, the Respondent fails to keep its drug distributor license current, the period of unlicensed status shall not be deemed or taken as any part of the time of discipline so imposed.

4. Respondent shall report to the Board, on a preprinted form supplied by the Board office, once every six (6) months (due by each January 1 and July 1), beginning with whichever date occurs first after this Order/Agreement becomes effective, stating truthfully whether or not he/she has complied with all terms and conditions of his/her disciplinary order.

5. Respondent shall make a representative of the drug distributor available for personal interviews to be conducted by a member of the Board or the Board of Pharmacy staff. Said meetings will be at the Board's discretion and may occur periodically during the disciplinary period. Respondent will be notified and given sufficient time to arrange these meetings.

6. Respondent's failure to comply with any condition of discipline set forth herein constitutes a violation of this disciplinary Order.

7. The Board of Pharmacy will maintain this Order as an open record of the Board as provided in Chapters 324, 338, 610, RSMo.

8. Upon the expiration of the disciplinary period, Animal Health's license as a drug distributor shall be fully restored if all other requirements of law have been satisfied; provided, however, that in the event the Board determines that Animal Health has violated any term or condition of this Order, the Board may, in its discretion, after an evidentiary hearing, vacate and set aside the discipline imposed herein and may suspend, revoke, or otherwise lawfully discipline Animal Health 's drug distributor license.

9. No order shall be entered by the Board pursuant to the preceding paragraph of this Order without notice and an opportunity for a hearing before the Board in accordance with provisions of Chapter 536, RSMo.

10. If the Board determines that Animal Health has violated a term or condition of this Order, which violation would be actionable in a proceeding before the Administrative Hearing Commission or the Circuit Court, the Board may elect to pursue any lawful remedies or procedures afforded it and is not bound by this Order in its determination of appropriate legal actions concerning that violation.

AHI had entered into a non-disciplinary agreement with the Arkansas Board of Pharmacy following allegations that it had not notified the Arkansas Board of a change of ownership in a timely manner and paid a non-disciplinary fine of $2,500 to the Arkansas Board.
