(f) Non-Reliance. Notes

1. The "Initial date of registration as an outsourcing facility" is the date the facility was first registered (i.e., the date FDA determined that the initial registration information submitted for the facility was complete, and the establishment fee was paid in full).

   Under section 503B(b) of the FD&C Act, after the initial registration, a facility that elects to continue to be registered with FDA as an outsourcing facility must re-register annually. A facility that elects to register (or re-register) with FDA as an outsourcing facility must pay an annual establishment fee. The "date of most recent registration as an outsourcing facility" reflects the date FDA determined the most recently submitted registration information was complete and the annual establishment fee for that fiscal year paid in full.

   Unless a previously registered outsourcing facility re-registers and pays the annual establishment fee in full during the registration period (between October 1 and December 31 of each calendar year), the facility will be removed from the list of registered outsourcing facilities on January 1 of the next calendar year.

2. Once an outsourcing facility is registered, the facility will be added to the list of facilities FDA intends to inspect according to a risk-based schedule. FDA plans to inspect outsourcing facilities within a reasonable period of time following initial registration, once it is confirmed that the facility has initiated drug production and distribution. However, the exact timing of the inspections can be affected by a number of variables, including the number of outsourcing facility registrants, other inspection priorities, and the operational status of the newly registered outsourcing facility.

   Inspections identified in this table are associated with the facility at the listed address. A company may own or operate more than one registered outsourcing facility. FDA's web page Compounding: Inspections, Recalls, and other Actions (/node/363232) may contain information about compounding facilities under the same ownership as the listed registered outsourcing facility.

   Inspections may take place over several days, weeks or longer. The date of the inspection is the date a Form FDA 483 listing the investigators' observations was issued. If no FDA Form 483 was issued, the date is the last day of the inspection.

3. A Form FDA 483 is issued when investigators observe any significant objectionable conditions. It does not constitute a final agency determination of whether any condition is in violation of the FD&C Act or any relevant regulations.
4. This table does not include State Board of Pharmacy actions, if any. To determine whether a registered outsourcing facility has been the subject of a state enforcement action, check with the State Board of Pharmacy for the state in which the facility is located. Some states post disciplinary or other actions on their web sites.
5. "Closed" means the inspection has been closed without further action. "Open" means FDA has not determined whether further action will be taken. If an action has been taken, it will be listed. Possible FDA actions include warning letter, seizure or injunction.
6. The information in this column was provided by the registered outsourcing facility at the time of registration and has not been verified by FDA. "N/A" indicates the registered outsourcing facility has not provided this information.
7. This outsourcing facility was the subject of at least one previous inspection relating to compounding that resulted in a Form FDA 483, warning letter or other action. For information about such inspections and resulting actions, visit Compounding: Inspections, Recalls, and other Actions (/node/363232).
8. A remote regulatory assessment (RRA) is an examination of an FDA-regulated establishment and/or its records, conducted remotely, to evaluate compliance with applicable FDA requirements. These assessments assist in protecting human and animal health, inform regulatory decisions and verify certain information submitted to the agency.
9. Based on inspectional findings, the inspection revealed significant issues. As a result, the outsourcing facility may have either initiated a recall on their own following conversation(s) with the FDA investigator or FDA recommended a recall at the conclusion of the inspection or both. Additionally, the outsourcing facility may have conducted multiple recalls or recalled multiple drugs.

Business Segments and Geographic Information

We segregate our operations into two reportable business segments: (i) MedSurg and Neurotechnology and (ii) Orthopaedics. In 2024 Instruments launched SurgiCount+ powered by Triton, which combines our existing sponge counting technology with artificial intelligence and quantifying blood loss software. We also launched CoPilot, which combines with our Spine Q guidance system to help surgeons plan and perform certain spinal procedures, including supporting bone resection, pedicle preparation and screw delivery.

In addition we completed the acquisition of Vertos Medical, Inc., a leader in interventional pain management solutions for chronic lower back pain caused by lumbar spinal stenosis. The acquisition of Vertos is complementary to our Interventional Spine business as we continue to focus on advanced pain procedures.

Endoscopy continued to deliver its 4K 1788 Camera platform to the market. Our 1788 Camera platform features several enhancements for a broader range of clinical applications and specialties, including urology, neurology and ear, nose and throat and can be used to visualize indocyanine green and Cytalux.

Medical launched the LIFEPAK 35 monitor/defibrillator, our next generation platform designed to optimize care with new clinical features such as the new Glasgow 30.4 algorithm, cprINSIGHT, 15-lead monitoring capabilities, and STJ Insight and mapping. LIFEPAK 35 combines a modern intuitive touch screen display and increased processing power with Bluetooth and WiFi data connectivity.

Medical also completed the acquisition of care.ai, a virtual care and ambient intelligence solutions platform. care.ai adds complementary technology that is expected to integrate seamlessly with the Vocera platform (Vocera) and Stryker's devices, providing customers with an enterprise-wide ecosystem that is intended to deliver dynamic clinical workflows and further the development of smart care facilities.

Neurovascular initiated a targeted launch of the Surpass Elite Flow Diverting Stent (FDS) in the U.S. and South Korea. Surpass Elite FDS is designed to reduce thrombin generation when compared to unmodified stents. Additionally, Neurovascular launched Surpass Evolve FDS in Japan. The Stryker FDS platform is designed to effectively treat aneurysms by redirecting blood flow away from the aneurysm to promote healing.

In 2024 we continued the full commercial launch of our Triathlon Hinge revision knee system. Triathlon Hinge received approval in August of 2023 and is now released in the U.S., Canada and New Zealand. We also continued delivering growth in total hip arthroplasty, particularly in the primary segment where Direct Anterior Reconstructive Technology and Mako Total Hip can help to reduce, if not eliminate, a surgeon's use of intraoperative fluoroscopy during direct anterior hip procedures. With the acquisition of SERF SAS, we strengthened distribution in key European markets and continue to scale differentiated solutions such as the Novae monolithic dual mobility cup engineered to deliver greater hip stability and reduce dislocation risk.

We continued to expand our global footprint of Mako SmartRobotics™ in 2024 which is now sold in more than 45 countries. To date more than one million robotic Mako Total Knees and 1.5 million robotic procedures across Total Hips, Total Knees and Partial Knees have been performed globally. Stryker's Joint Replacement division also launched the "Scan. Plan. Mako Can." direct to patient campaign, accelerating awareness of Mako technology in the U.S.

Raw Materials and Inventory

Raw materials essential to our business are generally readily available from multiple sources; however, certain of our raw materials are currently sourced from single suppliers. Substantially all products we manufacture are stocked in inventory, while certain MedSurg products are assembled to order.

Patents and Trademarks

Patents and trademarks are significant to our business to the extent that a product or an attribute of a product represents a unique design or process. Patent protection of such products restricts competitors from duplicating these unique designs and features. We seek to obtain patent protection on our products whenever appropriate for protecting our competitive advantage. On December 31, 2024 we owned approximately 5,600 United States patents and approximately 8,600 patents in other countries.

Seasonality

Our business is generally not seasonal in nature; however, the number of orthopaedic implant surgeries is typically lower in the summer months, and sales of capital equipment are generally higher in the fourth quarter.

Competition

In each of our product lines we compete with local and global companies. The development of innovative products is important to our success in all areas of our business. Competition in research involving the development and improvement of new and existing products and processes is particularly significant. The competitive environment requires substantial investments in continuing research and maintaining sales forces.

We believe our commitment to innovation, quality and service and our reputation differentiates us in the highly competitive product categories in which we operate and enables us to compete effectively. We believe that our competitive position in the future will depend to a large degree on our ability to develop new products and make improvements to existing products.

Regulation

Our businesses are subject to varying degrees of governmental regulation in the countries in which we operate, and the general trend is toward increasingly stringent regulation. We are required to comply with the unique regulatory requirements of each country in which we market and sell our products.

In the United States the Medical Device Amendments of 1976 to the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act and its subsequent amendments and the regulations issued and proposed thereunder provide for federal regulation by the United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) of the design, manufacture and marketing of medical devices, including most of our products. In addition, state licensing requirements often apply to certain of our business operations and products. On the federal level, many of our new products fall into FDA classifications that require notification submitted as a 510(k) and review by the FDA before we begin marketing them. Certain of our products require extensive clinical testing, consisting of safety and efficacy studies, followed by pre-market approval applications for specific surgical indications. Certain of our products also fall under other FDA classifications, such as drugs and Human Cells, Tissues, and Cellular and Tissue-Based Products.

The FDA's Quality System regulations set forth standards for our product design and manufacturing processes, require the maintenance of certain records and provide for inspections of our facilities by the FDA. There are also certain requirements of state, local and foreign governments that must be complied with in the manufacture and marketing of our products.

The European Union enacted the European Union Medical Device Regulation in May 2017 with an original effective date of May 2022, which imposes stricter requirements for the marketing and sale of medical devices, including in the areas of clinical evaluation requirements, quality systems, labeling and post-market surveillance. Extended transition timelines were published in 2023 which range from May 2026 through December 2028 depending on the type of device and our implementation is on track to meet these timelines.

Initiatives to limit the growth of general healthcare expenses and hospital costs are ongoing in the markets we do business. These initiatives are sponsored by government agencies, legislative bodies and the private sector and include price regulation and competitive pricing. It is not possible to predict at this time the long-term impact of such cost containment measures on our future business. In addition, business practices in the healthcare industry are scrutinized, particularly in the United States, by federal and state government agencies. Any resulting investigations and prosecutions potentially carry the risk of significant civil and criminal penalties.

Environment

We are subject to various rules and regulation in the United States and internationally related to the protection of human health and the environment. Our operations involve the use of substances regulated under environmental laws, primarily in manufacturing and sterilization processes. We believe our policies, practices and procedures are properly designed to comply, in all material respects, with applicable environmental laws and regulations. We do not expect compliance with these requirements to have a material effect on purchases of property, plant and equipment, cash flows, net earnings or competitive position.

Employees

On December 31, 2024 we had approximately 53,000 employees globally, with approximately 27,000 employees in the United States. Our talented employees are an integral reason for our standing as a global leader in medical technologies where, together with our customers, we are driven to make healthcare better. Our company values of integrity, accountability, people and performance are a key component of that mission. Our people, as one of our core values, continue to be a key focus.

Our success depends on our ability to attract the best talent. To do so, we continue to focus on creating and maintaining a great workplace. We believe in attracting the right people, maintaining and building employee engagement and developing our employees. We believe when people are able to do what they do best, they will look forward to coming to work and, in turn, will deliver great business results.

Our leadership team and Board of Directors receive regular updates on our people and culture strategy and provide feedback on our strategy and goals, including alignment to our mission and values, peer benchmarking and stakeholder feedback.

Employee Development

Our employee development is extensive and exists at all levels of the organization, including company-wide training on our Code of Conduct, job-related technical training and management and leadership training. Our development programs include on-the-job learning, coaching and mentoring, management and leadership development courses, team building and collaboration training and immersive experiences with expert partners.

We encourage all employees to establish development objectives, in partnership with their manager, to help employees gain the needed development experience to grow their careers.

Employee Engagement

An engaged workplace culture that drives performance and business outcomes is central to our mission. Listening to and learning from our employees forms the foundation of an engaging culture. More than 90% of our employees participate in our annual engagement survey, which provides a valued platform for listening and allows us to take action based on the feedback collected.

We supplement our annual engagement survey with targeted pulse surveys to gather feedback on topics relevant to the current climate.

We also provide tools and resources that enable managers and teams to act on the insights we gain from our surveys and to drive employee engagement and strong business outcomes.

Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DE&I)

An essential part of our culture is respecting each individual's strengths and values. Building on this foundation, we are focused on maintaining an inclusive, engaging work environment in keeping with our values of integrity and people. Our DE&I strategy is centered around these three commitments:

- Strengthen the diversity of our workforce
- Advance a culture of inclusion, engagement and belonging
- Maximize the power of inclusion to drive innovation and growth

We are advancing our commitments through the following actions, among others:

- Increasing access to talent through strategic partnerships and campaigns
- Growing and engaging talent with a range of opportunities to learn and develop
- Aligning our employee resource groups, which are open to all employees, to focus on creating community and belonging

Attracting and Hiring

We understand that every employee drives our success. We focus on attracting, identifying and selecting strong candidates who will be successful at Stryker and ensuring that each person we hire brings the talent, expertise and passion we need to continue to be successful.

Health and Safety

Ensuring our employees' safety is a top priority. It is a responsibility that we share throughout the company and one that has evolved to meet the needs of our workforce. Employees' safety risks vary depending on the roles they perform, so we tailor our safety efforts accordingly.

Competitive Pay and Benefits

Our compensation and benefits programs are designed to attract and retain top talent and to incentivize performance and alignment to our mission and values.

We offer market-competitive base pay and benefits to our employees in countries around the world. We regularly evaluate our compensation and benefit offerings and levels, using recognized outside consulting firms to ensure internal fairness and competitiveness in our offerings.

Most of our employees also have variable components to their compensation packages that reward employees based on individual, business unit and/or company-wide performance.

Our proxy statement provides more detail on the competitive compensation programs we offer to our executive officers.

ITEM 1A. RISK FACTORS.

This report contains statements that are not historical facts and are considered "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These statements are based on current projections about operations, industry conditions, financial condition and liquidity. Words that identify forward-looking statements include, without limitation, words such as "may," "could," "will," "should," "possible," "plan," "predict," "forecast," "potential," "anticipate," "estimate," "expect," "project," "intend," "believe," "may impact," "on track," "goal," "strategy" and words and terms of similar substance used in connection with any discussion of future operating or financial performance, an acquisition or our businesses. In addition, any statements that refer to expectations, projections or other characterizations of future events or circumstances, including any underlying assumptions, are forward-looking statements. Those statements are not guarantees and are subject to risks, uncertainties and assumptions that are difficult to predict. Therefore, actual results could differ materially and adversely from these forward-looking statements, historical experience or our present expectations. Some important factors that could cause our actual results to differ from our expectations in any forward-looking statements include:

- weakening of economic conditions, or the anticipation thereof, that could adversely affect the level of demand for our or Inari Medical, Inc.'s ("Inari") products;
- geopolitical risks, including from international conflicts, which could, among other things, lead to increased market volatility;

- pricing pressures generally, including cost-containment measures that have adversely affected and could in the future adversely affect the price of or demand for our or Inari's products;
- changes in foreign currency exchange markets;
- legislative and regulatory actions;
- unanticipated issues arising in connection with clinical studies and otherwise that affect approval of new products, including Inari products, by the FDA and foreign regulatory agencies;
- inflationary pressures;
- increased interest rates or interest rate volatility;
- supply chain disruptions;
- changes in labor markets;
- changes in coverage and reimbursement levels from third-party payors;
- changes in the competitive environment;
- breaches, failures or other disruptions of our or our vendors' or customers' information technology systems or products, including by cyber-attack, data leakage, unauthorized access or theft;
- a significant increase in product liability claims;
- the ultimate total cost with respect to recall-related and other regulatory and quality matters;
- the impact of investigative and legal proceedings and compliance risks;
- resolution of tax audits;
- changes in tax laws and regulations;
- the impact of legislation to reform the healthcare system in the United States or other countries;
- costs to comply with medical device regulations;
- changes in financial markets;
- changes in our credit ratings;
- our ability to integrate and realize the anticipated benefits of acquisitions in full or at all or within the expected timeframes, including our acquisition of Inari;
- our ability to realize any anticipated cost savings;
- potential negative impacts resulting from climate change or other environmental, social and governance and sustainability related matters;
- the impact on our operations and financial results of any public health emergency and any related policies and actions by governments or other third parties;
- uncertainties as to the timing of the tender offer for shares of Inari common stock and the subsequent merger with Inari;
- uncertainties as to how many of Inari's stockholders will tender their shares in the tender offer;
- the failure to satisfy any of the closing conditions to the acquisition of Inari, including the expiration or termination of the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act waiting period (and the risk that such governmental approval may result in the imposition of conditions that could adversely affect the expected benefits of the transaction);
- delays in consummating the acquisition of Inari or the risk that the transaction may not close at all;
- unexpected liabilities, costs, charges or expenses in connection with the acquisition of Inari;
- the effects of the proposed Inari transaction (or the announcement thereof) on the parties' relationships with employees, customers, other business partners or governmental entities; and
- other risks detailed in our filings with the SEC.

While we believe that the assumptions underlying such forward-looking statements are reasonable, there can be no assurance that future events or developments will not cause such statements to be inaccurate. All forward-looking statements contained in this report are qualified in their entirety by this cautionary statement. We expressly disclaim any intention or obligation to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statement to reflect any change in our expectations or in events, conditions or circumstances on which those expectations may be based, or that affect the likelihood that actual results will differ from those contained in the forward-looking statements.

Our operations and financial results are subject to various risks and uncertainties discussed below that could materially and adversely affect our business, cash flows, financial condition and results of operations. Additional risks and uncertainties not currently known to us or that we currently deem not to be material or that could apply to any company may also materially and adversely affect our business, cash flows, financial condition or results of operations. If any of the risks discussed below or other risks actually occur or continue to occur, our business, financial condition, operating results or cash flows could be materially adversely affected. Accordingly, you should carefully consider the following risk factors, as well as other information contained in or incorporated by reference in this report.

BUSINESS AND OPERATIONAL RISKS

We use a variety of raw materials, components, devices and third-party services in our global supply chains, production and distribution processes; significant shortages, price increases or unavailability of third-party services have in the past increased, and could in the future increase, our operating costs and could require significant capital expenditures or adversely impact the competitive position of our products: Our reliance on certain suppliers to secure raw materials, components and finished devices, and on certain third-party service providers, such as sterilization service providers, exposes us to the risk of product shortages and unanticipated increases in prices, whether due to inflationary pressure, regulatory changes, litigation exposure, geopolitical tensions or otherwise. For example, in the past we experienced limited product availability due to an electronic components shortage in certain product lines. If a similar shortage occurs in the future with respect to any raw materials or components, we may not be able to obtain them from our suppliers on a timely basis, or at all, or identify alternative suppliers. In addition, several raw materials, components, finished devices and services are procured from a sole source due to, among other things, the quality considerations, unique intellectual property considerations or constraints associated with regulatory requirements. If sole-source suppliers or service providers are unable or unwilling to deliver these materials or services as a result of financial difficulties, business disruptions, acquisition by a third party, natural disasters or otherwise, we may not be able to manufacture or have available one or more products during such period of unavailability and our business could suffer, possibly materially. In certain cases, we may not be able to establish additional or replacement suppliers for such materials or service providers for such services in a timely or cost-effective manner, often as a result of FDA and other regulations that require, among other things, validation of materials, components and services prior to their use in or with our products. In certain instances we have been unable to meet demand due to supply chain challenges, which has led to loss of sales. Although the impacts have not been material to date, an inability to meet demand due to supply chain challenges in the future could materially adversely impact our reputation, the competitive position of our products and our business. Any of the foregoing risks could have a material adverse impact on our profitability and results of operations.

In addition, in recent years, the market has experienced inflationary pressures in part due to global supply chain disruptions, labor shortages and other impacts following the COVID-19 pandemic. Inflation in the United States and in many of the countries where we conduct business has resulted in, and may in the future result in, high interest rates and increased capital, energy, shipping and labor costs, weakening or strengthening exchange rates against the United States Dollar and other similar effects. We have experienced, and may in the future experience, inflationary increases in manufacturing costs and operating expenses, as well as negative impacts from weakening or strengthening exchange rates against the United States Dollar. Although we have been able to pass certain cost increases on to our customers, we have not been able to pass along all cost increases and we cannot guarantee that we will be able to do so in the future. Inflation, high interest rates or interest rate volatility may also cause our customers to reduce or delay orders for our products and services. Any of the foregoing could have a material adverse impact on our sales, profitability and results of operations.

We are subject to pricing pressures as a result of cost containment measures in the United States and other countries and other factors, including changes in reimbursement practices and coverage policies and third-party payor cost containment measures: Initiatives to limit the growth of general healthcare expenses and hospital costs are ongoing in the markets in which we do business. These initiatives are sponsored by government agencies, legislative bodies and the private sector and include price regulation and competitive pricing. For example, China has implemented a volume-based procurement process designed to decrease prices for medical devices and other products. Pricing pressure has also increased due to continued consolidation among healthcare providers, trends toward managed care, the shift toward governments becoming the primary payers of healthcare expenses, reduction in coverage or reimbursement levels and medical procedure volumes and government laws and regulations relating to sales and promotion, reimbursement and pricing generally. Coverage policies and reimbursement levels can vary across the payer community globally, regionally, and locally, and may affect which products customers purchase, the market acceptance rate for new technologies and the prices customers are willing to pay for those products in a particular jurisdiction. Furthermore, any changes to the coverage or reimbursement landscape, or adverse decisions relating to our products by administrators of these systems could significantly reduce reimbursement for procedures using our products or result in denial of reimbursement for those products, which could adversely affect customer demand, or the price customers are willing to pay for such products. Public and private payers have challenged, and are expected to continue to challenge, prices charged for medical products and services. Such downward pricing pressures from any or all of these payers may result in an adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. We have also reduced prices for certain products due to increased competition and if we further reduce prices, we could become less profitable. In addition, due to healthcare industry consolidation in recent years, competition to provide goods and services to industry participants has become, and may continue to become, more intense, and this consolidation has produced, and may continue to produce, larger enterprises with more bargaining power. Pricing pressures related to any of the foregoing or other factors have impacted and could in the future impact our results of operations and profitability.

We operate in a highly competitive industry in which competition and the regulatory burden in the development and improvement of new and existing products is significant: The markets in which we compete are highly competitive, and a significant element of our strategy is to increase revenue growth by focusing on innovation, new product development and improvement of existing products. New business models, products and surgical procedures, as well as improvements to existing products, are introduced on an ongoing basis and our present or future products could be rendered obsolete or uneconomical by internal or external technological advances, including by our existing competitors and new market entrants, which could adversely impact demand for certain of our existing products. The success of our products and services depends on, among other things, our ability to properly identify customer needs and predict future needs; innovate and develop new technologies, services and applications at an accelerated pace; and appropriately allocate our research and development spending to products and services with higher growth. Our existing competitors and new market entrants may respond more quickly to or integrate new or emerging technologies such as robotics, artificial intelligence and machine learning in their product offerings, undertake more extensive marketing campaigns, have greater access to clinical information to support ongoing product position in the market, have greater financial, marketing and other resources or be more successful in attracting potential customers, employees and strategic partners. There can be no assurance that any products now in development, or that we may seek to develop in the future, will achieve technological feasibility, obtain regulatory approval or gain market acceptance. If we are unable to develop and launch new products, our ability to maintain or expand our market position in the markets in which we participate may be negatively impacted.

We may be unable to maintain adequate working relationships with healthcare professionals: We work with healthcare professionals in a transparent and responsible manner and seek to maintain these relationships with respected physicians and medical personnel in healthcare organizations, such as hospitals and universities, who assist in product research and development. We rely on these professionals to assist us in the development and improvement of proprietary products. If we are unable to maintain these relationships due to regulatory restrictions, hospital access restrictions for non-patients or for other reasons, our ability to develop, market and sell new and improved products could be adversely affected.

We rely on indirect distribution channels and major distributors that are independent of Stryker: In many markets we rely on indirect distribution channels to market, distribute and sell our products. These indirect channels often are the main point of contact for the healthcare professionals and healthcare organization customers who buy and use our products. Our ability to continue to market, distribute and sell our products may be at risk if the indirect channels become insolvent, choose to sell competitive products, choose to stop selling medical technology, fail to adhere to Stryker requirements or are subject to new or additional government regulation.

We are subject to risks associated with our extensive global operations: We develop, manufacture and distribute our products globally. Our global operations are subject to risks and costs related to, among other things, changes in coverage or reimbursement levels from third-party payors in the United States and other countries; changes in regulatory requirements (such as the staggered phase-in period for manufacturers to comply with the European Union Medical Device Regulation (MDR) through December 2028); differing local product preferences and product requirements; diminished protection of intellectual property in some countries; tariffs and other trade protection measures, as well as increasing localization and protectionism policies in certain jurisdictions; international trade disputes and import or export requirements; difficulty in staffing and managing foreign operations; introduction of new internal business structures and programs; political and economic instability and uncertainty; current or potential geopolitical conflicts, such as the tensions between China and Taiwan and the wars in Ukraine and the Middle East, and related sanctions and other developments; disruptions of transportation, including port closures, increased border controls or border closures or reduced transportation availability, due to military conflicts, a global pandemic of contagious diseases like COVID-19 or otherwise; increased energy or transportation costs; fluctuations in currency exchange rates and financial markets; and increased security threats to our supply chain. Many of these risks are rapidly evolving and subject to an accelerating pace of change. Our business could be adversely impacted if we are unable to successfully manage these and other risks of global operations in an increasingly volatile environment. In addition, in many countries, the laws and regulations applicable to us or our industry are evolving, and we have in certain cases become subject to divergent and conflicting laws and regulations across our operations, which has increased the risks we are subject to.

We may be unable to capitalize on previous or future acquisitions: In addition to internally developed products, we invest in new products and technologies through acquisitions. Such investments are inherently risky, and we cannot guarantee that any acquisition will be successful or will not have a material unfavorable impact on us. The risks include the activities required and resources allocated to integrate new businesses, diversion of management time that could adversely affect management's ability to focus on other projects, the inability to realize the expected benefits, savings or synergies from the acquisition, the loss of key personnel, litigation resulting from the acquisition and exposure to unexpected liabilities of acquired companies. Certain acquisitions are subject to antitrust and competition laws, and antitrust scrutiny by regulatory agencies and changes to the regulatory approval process in the United States and foreign jurisdictions may cause approvals to take longer than anticipated to obtain, not be obtained at all, or contain burdensome conditions, which may jeopardize, delay or reduce the anticipated benefits of acquisitions to us and could impede the execution of our business strategy. In addition, we cannot be certain that the businesses we acquire will become or remain profitable.

We, our business partners or our third-party vendors could experience a material failure or breach of a key information technology system, network, process or site: We rely extensively on information technology (IT) systems to conduct business. In addition, we rely on networks and services, including internet sites, cloud and software-as-a-service solutions, data hosting and processing facilities and tools and other hardware, software (including open-source software) and technical applications and platforms, some of which are managed, hosted, provided and/or used by third parties or their vendors, to assist in conducting our business. Furthermore, numerous and evolving cybersecurity threats have posed, and will continue to pose, risks to the security of our IT systems, networks and product offerings, as well as the confidentiality, availability and integrity of our data. Emerging technologies such as generative artificial intelligence (AI) may be used by malicious actors to create more targeted phishing narratives, spread disinformation about us or our products or otherwise strengthen social engineering capabilities. Some of our products, services, and information technology systems contain or use open-source software which poses particular risks, including potential security vulnerabilities, licensing compliance issues and quality issues. We, our customers and third-party hosting services have experienced, and expect to continue to experience, security breaches of, unauthorized access to, and disruptions of, products or systems. While such breaches, unauthorized access and disruptions have not had a material effect on us to date, we cannot guarantee that any future breach or unauthorized access will not be material and any breach or unauthorized access could impact the use of such products and systems and the security of information stored therein. Although we have made investments and expect to continue to make investments seeking to address these threats, including monitoring of networks and systems, use of artificial intelligence, hiring of experts, employee training and security policies for employees and third-party providers, the techniques used in these attacks change frequently and may be difficult to detect for periods of time and we may face difficulties in anticipating and implementing adequate preventative measures.

When cybersecurity or other technology related incidents occur, we follow our incident response protocols and address them in accordance with applicable governmental regulations and other legal requirements. Our response to these incidents and our investments to protect our product offerings and information technology infrastructure and data may not shield us from significant losses and potential liability or prevent any future interruption or breach of our systems. Moreover, given the increasing complexity and sophistication of the techniques used by threat actors to obtain unauthorized access or disable or degrade systems, a cyberattack could occur and persist for an extended period of time before being detected, and we may not anticipate these acts or mitigate them adequately or timely, which may compound damages before the incident is discovered or remediated. The extent of a particular cyber incident and the steps that we may need to take to investigate the incident may not be immediately clear, and it may take a significant amount of time before such investigation can be completed and full and reliable information about the incident is known. New regulations may require us to disclose information about a material cybersecurity incident before it has been resolved or fully investigated. Additionally, as threats continue to evolve and increase, and as the regulatory environment and customer requirements related to information security, data collection and use, and privacy become increasingly rigorous, we may be required to devote significant additional resources to modify and enhance our security controls and to identify and remediate any security vulnerabilities, which could adversely impact our net income. In addition, a significant number of our employees working remotely has exposed us, and may continue to expose us, to greater risks related to cybersecurity and cyber-liability.

Hardware and software failures or delays in our key information technology systems, networks, processes or sites could disrupt our operations, cause the loss of confidential information or otherwise adversely impact our business. Our systems, networks, processes and sites may be vulnerable to damage, disruptions and shutdown from a variety of sources, including malfunctions in maintenance updates or security patches, design defects, the age of the technology, network failures, modernization or other initiatives, human acts and natural disasters. For example, some of our information technology systems contain legacy third-party software components for which we depend on a layered security approach to protect against exploitation, which may not be effective. Any such damage or disruptions could also compromise the security of our information systems and networks. These issues can also arise as a result of failures by, or in the software or hardware of, third parties, including networks or service providers, with whom we do business and over whom we have limited or no control. Any disruption or failure of our systems, networks, processes or sites could have a material impact on our business and operations.

If our IT systems, networks or processes are damaged or cease to function properly for any reason, the networks, service providers, hardware or software we rely upon fail to function properly, or we or one of our third-party providers suffer a loss or disclosure of our business or stakeholder information due to any number of causes ranging from catastrophic events or power outages to improper data handling or security breaches or unauthorized access and our business continuity plans do not effectively address these failures on a timely basis, we may be exposed to reputational, competitive and business harm as well as litigation and regulatory action and fines, penalties and expenses related thereto.

An inability to successfully manage the implementation of our new commercial global enterprise resource planning (ERP) system could adversely affect our operations and operating results: We are in the process of implementing a new commercial ERP system. This system will replace many of our existing operating and financial systems. The implementation is a major undertaking, both financially and from a management and personnel perspective. Any material disruptions, delays or deficiencies in the design and implementation of our new ERP system could adversely affect our ability to process orders, ship products, provide services and customer support, send invoices and track payments, fulfill contractual obligations or otherwise operate our business.

We may be unable to attract, develop and retain executives and key employees: Our sales, technical and other key personnel play an integral role in the development, marketing and selling of new and existing products. Our future performance also depends in large part on the continued services of our senior management. If we are unable to recruit, hire, develop and retain a talented, competitive workforce in our highly competitive industry, or if we are unable to plan effective succession for the future, we may not be able to meet our strategic business objectives. Inflationary pressures, labor demand and shortages and other macroeconomic factors have increased and could further increase the cost of labor and could harm our ability to recruit, hire and retain talented employees. In addition, increased unionization could negatively impact our labor costs and ability to create an engaging, connected culture, which could adversely affect our ability to recruit, hire, develop and retain a talented, competitive workforce. Further, if we are unable to maintain competitive and equitable compensation and benefit programs, including incentive programs which reward financial and operational performance, our ability to recruit, hire, engage, motivate and retain talent could be negatively affected. Additionally, if we are unable to maintain an inclusive culture that aligns our diverse workforce with our mission and values, it could adversely impact our ability to recruit, hire, develop and retain key talent. Further, our remote and hybrid work practices, ability to provide flexible and alternative work arrangements, and our practices relating to corporate responsibility may not meet the needs or expectations of our employees, including senior management or other key employees, which could negatively impact our ability to attract and retain highly skilled employees, or may harm our culture and/or decrease employee engagement, which could adversely impact our ability to recruit, hire, develop and retain a talented, competitive workforce.

Effective succession planning is also important to our long-term success. Failure to ensure effective transfer of knowledge and smooth transitions involving executives and other key employees could hinder our strategic planning and execution. Changes in our management team may be disruptive to our business, and any failure to successfully integrate key new hires or promoted employees could adversely affect our business and results of operations. The loss of the services of any of our senior management or other key personnel, or our inability to attract highly qualified senior management and other key personnel, could harm our business. Our ability to execute our business strategy could be impaired if we are unable to replace such persons timely. In addition, recent legal and regulatory changes affect our ability to enforce post-termination obligations from certain employees with respect to non-competition, non-solicitation and protection of confidential information. This may negatively impact our ability to retain employees and protect our information and relationships with customers and other third parties.

Interruption of manufacturing operations could adversely affect our business: We and our suppliers have manufacturing and supply sites all over the world. However, the manufacturing of certain of our product lines is concentrated in one or more plants or geographic regions. We have principal manufacturing and distribution facilities in the United States in Arizona, California, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, New Jersey, Puerto Rico, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Washington, and outside the United States in China, France, Germany, Ireland, Mexico, the Netherlands, Poland, Switzerland and Turkey. Damage to our facilities, to our suppliers' or service providers' facilities, or to our central distribution centers as a result of natural disasters, fires, explosions or otherwise, as well as issues in our manufacturing arising from a failure to follow specific internal protocols and procedures, compliance concerns relating to the quality systems regulation, equipment breakdown or malfunction, IT system failures or cybersecurity incidents, environmental hazard incidents or changes to environmental regulations or other factors, could adversely affect the availability of our products. In the event of an interruption in manufacturing, we may be unable to move quickly to alternate means of producing and distributing affected products to meet customer demand. In the event of a significant interruption, we may experience lengthy delays in resuming production or distribution of affected products due to the need for regulatory approvals, and we may experience loss of market share, additional expense and harm to our reputation.

Our insurance program may not be adequate to cover future losses: We maintain third-party insurance to cover our exposure to certain property and casualty losses and are self-insured for claims and expenses related to other property and casualty losses, including product liability, intellectual property infringement and enforcement, environmental, and cybersecurity and data privacy losses. We manage a portion of our exposure to self-insured losses through a wholly-owned captive insurance company. Insurance coverage limits provided by third-party insurers and/or our captive insurance company may not be sufficient to fully cover certain losses we may experience.

We have experienced, and may continue to experience, a significant and unpredictable need to adjust our operations as market demand for certain of our products has shifted and continues to shift or as may be mandated by governmental authorities: Some of our products are particularly sensitive to reductions in elective medical procedures. It is not possible to predict whether elective medical procedures will be suspended or reduced in the future and, to the extent individuals and customers are required to delay or cancel elective procedures, our business, cash flows, financial condition and results of operations could be negatively affected. Further, our customers have experienced, and may continue to experience, staffing shortages that may result in decreased demand for our products, which could negatively affect our business and financial results.

Unpredictable increases in demand for certain of our products have exceeded in the past, and could exceed in the future, our capacity to meet such demand timely, which could adversely affect our customer relationships and result in negative publicity. In this regard, the accelerated development and production of products and services to address medical and other requirements could increase the risk of regulatory enforcement actions, product defects or related claims or reputational harm, among other things.

Our use of AI and other emerging technologies could adversely impact our business and financial results: We have begun to deploy AI and other emerging technologies in various facets of our operations and we continue to explore further use cases. The rapid advancement of these technologies presents opportunities for us in research, manufacturing, commercialization, and other business endeavors, but also entails risks, including that AI-generated content, analyses, or recommendations we utilize could be deficient, that our competitors may more quickly or effectively adopt AI capabilities, or that our use of AI or other emerging technologies increases regulatory, cybersecurity and other significant risks. In addition, any disruption or failure in the AI functionality we incorporate into our business activities, products or services could adversely impact our business or result in delays or errors in our product offerings. The legal and regulatory landscape surrounding AI technologies is rapidly evolving and uncertain, including in the areas of intellectual property, cybersecurity and privacy and data protection. Compliance with new or changing laws, regulations or industry standards relating to AI may impose significant costs on us and limit our ability to effectively develop, deploy or use AI technologies. Furthermore, if we are unable to effectively manage the use of AI technologies by our employees and service providers, our confidential information, intellectual property and reputation could be put at risk. Failure to appropriately respond to this evolving landscape may result in reputational, competitive and business harm as well as litigation and regulatory action and fines, penalties and expenses related thereto.

Pandemics and public health emergencies, and the fear thereof, have in the past materially adversely affected and could in the future materially adversely affect, our operations, supply chain, manufacturing, product distribution, customers and other business activities: In connection with prior pandemics, governmental authorities and private enterprises implemented, and may in the future implement in connection with another pandemic or public health emergency (or in response to the fear thereof), measures, such as travel bans and restrictions, quarantines, shelter-in-place orders and shutdowns. Our customers, global suppliers, distributors and manufacturing facilities have in the past been, and could in the future be, materially affected by restrictive measures implemented in response to a pandemic or public health emergency, which has in the past caused and could in the future cause them to be unable to hire and retain employees, distribute or use our products or provide required services. We have as a result experienced, and could in the future experience, delays in, or the suspension of, our manufacturing operations, sales activities, research and product development activities, regulatory work streams, clinical development programs and other important commercial functions, which may result in our inability to satisfy consumer demand for our products in a timely manner or at all and which could harm our reputation, future sales and profitability. The extent of any future pandemic or public health emergency's effect on our business and industry will depend on, among other things, the severity of the disease, the successful development, distribution and acceptance of vaccines for diseases, future resurgences and/or the spread of disease variants, all of which are uncertain and difficult to predict. The COVID-19 pandemic materially impacted us, and any future pandemic or public health emergency could materially impact us and would heighten many of the other risks described in this report.

LEGAL AND REGULATORY RISKS

Current economic and political conditions make tax rules in jurisdictions subject to significant change: Our future results of operations could be affected by changes in the effective tax rate as a result of changes in tax laws, regulations and judicial rulings. We are continuing to evaluate the impact of tax reform in the countries in which we operate as new guidance is published and new regulations are adopted. In addition, further changes in the tax laws could arise, including as a result of the base erosion and profit shifting project undertaken by the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). The OECD, which represents a coalition of member countries, has put forth two proposed frameworks that revise the existing profit allocation and nexus rules (Pillar 1) and ensure a minimal level of taxation (Pillar 2), respectively. In 2022 the European Union member states agreed to implement the Inclusive Framework's global corporate minimum tax rate of 15%, and various countries within and outside the European Union have either enacted or proposed new tax laws implementing Pillar Two in 2024. The OECD continues to release additional guidance and we anticipate more countries will enact similar tax laws. Some of the new tax laws are effective in 2024 while others will be effective in future years. These tax law changes and any additional contemplated tax law changes, could increase tax expense in future periods.

We could be negatively impacted by future changes in the allocation of income to each of the income tax jurisdictions in which we operate: We operate in multiple income tax jurisdictions both in the United States and internationally. Accordingly, our management must determine the appropriate allocation of income to each jurisdiction based on current interpretations of complex income tax regulations. Income tax authorities regularly perform audits of our income tax filings. Income tax audits associated with the allocation of income and other complex issues, including inventory transfer pricing and cost sharing, product royalty and foreign branch arrangements, may require an extended period to resolve and may result in significant income tax adjustments.

The impact of healthcare reform legislation on our business remains uncertain: Several markets where we sell our products are making efforts to expand access to healthcare or health insurance coverage while decreasing costs. These efforts may have a direct or unintended negative impact on access to medical technology and could have a significant effect on our business. Both in the U.S. and internationally, governmental authorities may make legislative or administrative reforms to existing reimbursement programs, make adverse decisions relating to our products' coverage or reimbursement, or make changes to patient access to healthcare, all of which could adversely impact the demand for and usage of our products or the prices that our customers are willing to pay for them. We cannot predict what healthcare programs and regulations could ultimately be implemented at the federal or state level or the effect that any future legislation or regulation in the United States may have on our business. Similarly, we cannot predict the impact that healthcare reform legislation in other countries where we sell our products may have on our business.

We are subject to extensive governmental regulation relating to the classification, manufacturing, sterilization, licensing, labeling, marketing and sale of our products: The classification, manufacturing, sterilization, licensing, labeling, marketing and sale of our products are subject to extensive and evolving regulations and rigorous regulatory enforcement by the FDA, state governments, European Union and other governmental authorities in the United States and internationally. These governmental authorities may impose additional requirements or limits on the methods, procedures or agents we use to manufacture and sterilize our products, which could have a negative impact on our business. For example, governmental authorities in the United States and internationally have or are considering adopting regulations on the use of per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances. In addition, the process of obtaining licenses, regulatory clearances and/or approvals to market and sell our products can be costly and time consuming and the clearances and/or approvals might not be granted timely. We have ongoing responsibilities under the laws and regulations applicable to the manufacturing of products within our facilities and those contracted by third parties that are subject to periodic inspections by the FDA, state Boards of Pharmacy and other governmental authorities to determine compliance with the quality system, medical device reporting regulations and other requirements. We may also be subject to legal obligations in some countries that require disclosure or sharing of proprietary information. We incur significant costs to comply with regulations, including the MDR. If we fail to comply with applicable regulatory requirements, we may be subject to a range of sanctions, including substantial fines, warning letters that require corrective action, product seizures, recalls, import restrictions, the suspension of product manufacturing or sales, revocation of approvals, exclusion from future participation in government healthcare programs, substantial fines and criminal prosecution.

We are subject to federal, state and foreign healthcare regulations, including anti-bribery, anti-corruption, anti-kickback and false claims laws, globally and could face substantial penalties if we fail to comply with such regulations and laws: The relationships that we, and third parties that market and/or sell our products, have with healthcare professionals, such as physicians, hospitals, healthcare organizations and others, are subject to scrutiny under various state and federal laws often referred to collectively as healthcare fraud and abuse laws. In addition, the United States and foreign government regulators have increased the enforcement of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) and other anti-bribery and anti-kickback laws. We also must comply with a variety of other laws that impose extensive tracking and reporting related to all transfers of value provided to certain healthcare professionals and others. These laws and regulations are broad in scope and are subject to evolving interpretation and we have in the past been, and in the future could be, required to incur substantial costs to investigate, audit and monitor compliance or to alter our practices. Violations or alleged violations of these laws have in the past resulted and could in the future result in investigations, litigation or government proceedings, and we have been and may in the future be subject to criminal or civil penalties and sanctions, including substantial fines, imprisonment of current or former employees and exclusion from participation in governmental healthcare programs. For example, in 2013 and 2018 we settled claims brought by the SEC related to the FCPA. Pursuant to these settlements, we paid fines and penalties and retained an independent compliance consultant. We continue to implement recommendations that resulted from the independent compliance consultant's review of our commercial practices to enhance our commercial business practices. In addition, we are currently investigating whether certain business activities in certain foreign countries violated provisions of the FCPA and have been contacted by the SEC, United States Department of Justice and certain other regulatory authorities. Although we are currently unable to predict the outcome of the investigations or the potential impact, if any, on our financial statements, the impacts could potentially be significant.

We are subject to privacy, data protection and data security regulations and laws globally, and could face substantial penalties if we fail to comply with such regulations and laws: We are subject to a variety of laws and regulations globally regarding privacy, data protection, and data security, including those related to the collection, storage, handling, use, disclosure, transfer and security of personally identifiable healthcare information. For example, in the United States, privacy and security regulations under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996, including the expanded requirements under the Health Information Technology for Economic and Clinical Health Act of 2009, establish comprehensive standards with respect to the use and disclosure of protected health information (PHI), by covered entities, in addition to setting standards to protect the confidentiality, integrity and security of PHI. Regulators are also imposing new data privacy and security requirements, including new and greater monetary fines for privacy violations. For example, the European Union's General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) established rules regarding the handling of personal data. Non-compliance with the GDPR may result in monetary penalties of up to 4% of total company revenue. Various U.S. states and other governmental authorities around the world have imposed or are considering similar types of laws and regulations, data breach reporting and penalties for non-compliance and increasing security requirements. These laws and regulations are broad in scope and are subject to evolving interpretation and enforcement and we have in the past been, and in the future could be, required to incur substantial costs to monitor compliance or to alter our practices. As new privacy-related laws and regulations are implemented, the time and resources needed for us to comply with such laws and regulations, as well as our potential liability for non-compliance and reporting obligations in the case of data breaches, have increased and may further increase.

We may be adversely affected by product liability claims, unfavorable court decisions or legal settlements: We are exposed to potential product liability risks inherent in the design, manufacture and marketing of medical devices, many of which are implanted in the human body for long periods of time or indefinitely. We are currently defendants in a number of product liability matters, including those relating to our Rejuvenate and ABGII Modular-Neck hip stems, LFIT Anatomic CoCr V40 Femoral Heads and the product liability lawsuits and claims relating to Wright Medical Group N.V. (Wright) legacy hip products discussed in Note 7 to our Consolidated Financial Statements. These matters are subject to uncertainties and outcomes are not predictable. Further, the European Representative Actions Directive (the Collective Redress Directive) mandates a class action regime in each EU member state to facilitate domestic and cross-border class actions in a wide range of areas, including product liability claims with medical devices. The European Product Liability Directive was revised in 2024 and will become fully adopted into each member state's national laws by 2026. The revised Product Liability Directive and Collective Redress Directive exposes us to additional litigation risks and could result in significant legal expenses. In addition, we may incur significant legal expenses or reputational damage for product liability claims regardless of whether we are found to be liable.

Intellectual property litigation and infringement claims could cause us to incur significant expenses or prevent us from selling certain of our products: The medical device industry is characterized by extensive intellectual property litigation and, from time to time, we are the subject of claims of infringement or misappropriation. Regardless of the outcome, such claims are expensive to defend and divert management and operating personnel from other business issues. A successful claim or claims of patent or other intellectual property infringement against us could result in payment of significant monetary damages and/or royalty payments or negatively impact our ability to sell current or future products in the affected category.

Dependence on intellectual proprietary rights and failing to protect such rights or to be successful in litigation related to such rights may impact offerings in our product portfolios: Our long-term success largely depends on our ability to market technologically competitive products. If we fail to obtain or maintain adequate intellectual property protection, it could allow others to sell products that directly compete with proprietary features in our product portfolio. Also, our issued patents may be subject to claims challenging their validity and scope and raising other issues. In addition, currently pending or future patent applications may not result in issued patents and the expiration of patents may lead to a loss of exclusive rights and/or increased competition.

MARKET RISKS

We have exposure to exchange rate fluctuations on cross border transactions and translation of local currency results into United States Dollars: We report our financial results in United States Dollars and approximately 25% of our net sales are denominated in foreign currencies, including the Australian Dollar, British Pound, Canadian Dollar, Euro and Japanese Yen. Cross border transactions with external parties, financing transactions in currencies other than the United States Dollar and intercompany relationships result in increased exposure to foreign currency exchange effects. While we use derivative instruments to manage the impact of currency exchange, our hedging strategies may not be successful, and our unhedged exposures continue to be subject to currency fluctuations. In addition, the weakening or strengthening of the United States Dollar results in favorable or unfavorable translation effects when the results of our foreign locations are translated into United States Dollars. In recent years, currency exchange rates have been especially volatile, and these currency fluctuations have affected, and may continue to affect, our results of operations.

Additional capital that we may require in the future may not be available to us or may only be available to us on unfavorable terms, which could negatively affect our liquidity: Our future capital requirements will depend on many factors, including operating requirements, current and future acquisitions and the need to refinance existing debt. Our ability to issue additional debt or enter into other financing arrangements on acceptable terms could be adversely affected by our debt levels, unfavorable changes in economic conditions or uncertainties that affect the capital markets. Changes in credit ratings issued by nationally recognized credit rating agencies could also adversely affect our access to and cost of financing. Higher borrowing costs or the inability to access capital markets could adversely affect our ability to support future growth and operating requirements. In addition, we have experienced, and could in the future experience, loss of sales and profits due to delayed payments or insolvency of healthcare professionals, hospitals and other customers and suppliers facing liquidity issues due to the current macroeconomic environment, type and number of conditions being treated or for other reasons. As a result, we may be compelled to take additional measures to preserve our cash flow, including through the reduction of operating expenses or suspension of dividend payments.

ENVIRONMENTAL, SOCIAL AND GOVERNANCE RISKS

We could be negatively impacted by corporate responsibility and sustainability-related matters: Governments, investors, customers, employees and other stakeholders have been focused on corporate responsibility practices and disclosures, and expectations in this area continue to rapidly evolve, including in diverging directions. On occasion, we announce new initiatives and make disclosures, including goals, under our corporate responsibility framework. This framework is aligned with our areas of interest and applicable regulatory requirements, which include environment and sustainability, workforce-related issues, diversity, equity and inclusion and supply chain management, among others. Implementation of these initiatives involves risks and uncertainties, requires investments and depends in part on third-party performance or data that is outside our control. We cannot guarantee that we will achieve our announced corporate responsibility initiatives. The criteria by which our corporate responsibility practices are assessed may change due to the quickly evolving landscape, which could result in greater regulatory requirements or expectations of us and cause us to undertake costly initiatives to satisfy such new criteria. Moreover, the increasing attention to corporate responsibility initiatives could also result in, among other things, reduced demand for our products, reduced profits, increased investigations and litigation and an increased risk of reputational damage. If we are unable to satisfy evolving criteria, certain investors and other stakeholders may conclude that our policies and/or actions with respect to corporate responsibility matters are inadequate or undesirable. If we fail or are perceived to have failed to achieve previously announced initiatives or goals, comply with corporate responsibility laws and regulations, meet evolving expectations or accurately disclose our progress, we could face legal and regulatory proceedings and our reputation, business, financial condition and results of operations could be adversely impacted.

Physical effects of climate change or legal, regulatory or market measures intended to address climate change could adversely affect our operations and operating results: Risks associated with climate change are subject to increasing societal, regulatory and political focus in the United States and globally. Shifts in weather patterns caused by climate change have increased and are expected to further increase the frequency, severity or duration of certain adverse weather conditions and natural disasters, such as hurricanes, tornadoes, earthquakes, wildfires, droughts, extreme temperatures and flooding, which could cause more significant business and supply chain interruptions, damage to our products and facilities as well as the infrastructure of hospitals, medical care facilities and other customers, reduced workforce availability, increased costs of raw materials and components, increased liabilities and decreased revenues than what we have experienced in the past from such events. In addition, increased public concern over climate change has resulted in certain, and could result in additional, new legal or regulatory requirements designed to mitigate the effects of climate change, which could include the adoption of more stringent environmental laws and regulations or stricter enforcement of existing laws and regulations. Such developments could result in increased compliance costs and adverse impacts on raw material availability and sourcing, manufacturing operations and the distribution of our products, which could adversely affect our operations and operating results.

ITEM 1C. CYBERSECURITY.

RISK MANAGEMENT AND STRATEGY

We review cybersecurity risk as part of our overall enterprise risk management program. This ensures that cybersecurity risk management remains a top priority in our business strategy and operations.

MANAGEMENT'S ROLE IN MANAGING RISK

Primary management responsibility for assessing, monitoring and managing our cybersecurity risks rests with our chief information security officer ("CISO"). Our current CISO has over 30 years of experience in information technology including over 20 years in cybersecurity and oversees a team of cybersecurity professionals with over 140 security, risk, and compliance certifications. The CISO is regularly informed about recent developments in cybersecurity, including potential threats and innovative risk management techniques.

The CISO implements and oversees processes for the regular monitoring of our information systems. We use various tools and methodologies to manage cybersecurity risk that are tested regularly. We also monitor and evaluate our cybersecurity posture and performance on an ongoing basis through regular vulnerability scans, penetration tests and threat intelligence feeds. In addition, we engage third-party consultants to conduct annual cybersecurity assessments and to conduct audits for compliance with regulatory, Sarbanes-Oxley Act, Service Organization Control Type 2 and International Organization for Standardization standards. We also engage third parties to assess our cybersecurity maturity and risk management programs.

We use a cross-departmental approach to addressing cybersecurity risk, with our cybersecurity, product security and legal teams presenting quarterly on key topics to a committee of leaders in finance, regulatory, and corporate affairs functions. This leadership committee meets quarterly to ensure that we have input and oversight from critical stakeholders into our cybersecurity program and evolving issues.

The CISO oversees a training and awareness program for employees to take part in protecting the Company against cybersecurity risks. We have implemented annual mandatory security education to help employees understand cybersecurity risks and comply with our cybersecurity policies. Additionally, we provide frequent communications around pertinent cybersecurity topics and policies to all employees. We also provide additional cybersecurity and data protection training to employees in certain roles.

As part of our cybersecurity risk management program, we also conduct cybersecurity and privacy assessments on all third parties who integrate with Stryker's data, network, systems and products. We use a combination of internal and external tools to confirm that these third parties meet our security requirements. We leverage standard industry threat model and privacy impact assessment concepts to confirm that data minimization and adequate data protections are in place. We perform supplemental reviews as necessary, commensurate with the risk associated with each vendor.

In the event of a cybersecurity incident, we have an incident response plan that includes immediate actions to mitigate the impact and long-term strategies for remediation and prevention of future incidents. The cybersecurity and product security teams routinely practice this plan with functions across the organization. We conduct tabletop exercises with senior management, during which we practice the procedures in place to ensure that potentially material cybersecurity risks and incidents are escalated to management and the Board of Directors where applicable.

GOVERNANCE

Cybersecurity risks are overseen by the full Board of Directors and the Audit Committee. The Audit Committee is central to the Board of Directors' oversight of cybersecurity risks and bears the primary responsibility for overseeing cybersecurity risk. The Audit Committee actively participates in strategic decisions related to cybersecurity, offering guidance and approval for major cybersecurity initiatives. This involvement ensures that cybersecurity considerations are integrated into our broader strategic objectives.

Our CISO provides comprehensive updates to the Audit Committee quarterly and the full Board of Directors periodically. These briefings include a range of topics, including:

- Current cybersecurity landscape and emerging threats;
- Status of ongoing cybersecurity initiatives and strategies;
- Incident reports and learnings from any cybersecurity events;
- Metrics demonstrating company and industry-standard prevention of common threats; and
- Regulatory changes impacting cybersecurity requirements and strategy.

The Board of Directors is aware of the critical nature of managing risks associated with cybersecurity threats and is actively engaged in our cybersecurity risk management strategy.

RISKS FROM CYBERSECURITY THREATS

Although cybersecurity risks have not materially affected us, including our business strategy, results of operations or financial condition, to date, we face numerous and evolving cybersecurity threats in our business. For more information about the cybersecurity risks we face, see the risk factor entitled "We, our business partners or our third-party vendors could experience a material failure or breach of a key information technology system, network, process or site" in Item 1A. Risk Factors.

ITEM 2. PROPERTIES.

We have approximately 27 company-owned and 297 leased locations worldwide including 45 manufacturing locations. We believe that our properties are in good operating condition and adequate for the manufacture and distribution of our products.

We do not anticipate difficulty in renewing existing leases as they expire or in finding alternative facilities.

ITEM 3. LEGAL PROCEEDINGS.

We are involved in various ongoing proceedings, legal actions and claims arising in the normal course of our business, including proceedings related to product, labor, intellectual property and other matters. Refer to Note 7 to our Consolidated Financial Statements for further information.

ITEM 4. MINE SAFETY DISCLOSURES.

Not applicable.

Note: In the fourth quarter 2024 we reorganized our Spine business to align with certain updates to our internal reporting structure. The spine enabling technologies portfolio (Enabling Technologies) was reclassified to Other Orthopaedics, the interventional spine portfolio was reclassified to Neuro Cranial and the remaining Spine business was renamed to Spinal Implants. Neuro Cranial includes sales related to interventional spine of $413, $327 and $282 for 2024, 2023 and 2022. Other Orthopaedics includes sales related to Enabling Technologies of $152, $149 and $131 for 2024, 2023 and 2022. In the first quarter 2024 a product line previously included in Instruments has been reclassified to Endoscopy to align with a change in our internal reporting structure. We have reflected these changes in all historical periods presented.

Consolidated Net Sales

Consolidated net sales in 2024 increased 10.2% as reported and 10.7% in constant currency, as foreign currency exchange rates negatively impacted net sales by 0.5%. Excluding the 0.5% impact of acquisitions and divestitures, net sales in constant currency increased by 9.1% from increased unit volume and 1.1% due to higher prices. The unit volume increase was primarily due to higher shipments across all businesses.

Consolidated net sales in 2023 increased 11.1% as reported and 11.6% in constant currency, as foreign currency exchange rates negatively impacted net sales by 0.5%. Excluding the 0.1% impact of acquisitions and divestitures, net sales in constant currency increased by 10.9% from increased unit volume and 0.6% due to higher prices. The unit volume increase was due to higher shipments across all MedSurg and Neurotechnology businesses and most Orthopaedics businesses.

MedSurg and Neurotechnology Net Sales

MedSurg and Neurotechnology net sales in 2024 increased 11.1% as reported and 11.6% in constant currency, as foreign currency exchange rates negatively impacted net sales by 0.5%. Excluding the 0.4% impact of acquisitions and divestitures, net sales in constant currency increased by 9.5% from increased unit volume and 1.7% due to higher prices. The unit volume increase was due to higher shipments across all MedSurg and Neurotechnology businesses.

MedSurg and Neurotechnology net sales in 2023 increased 11.7% as reported and 12.2% in constant currency, as foreign currency exchange rates negatively impacted net sales by 0.5%. Excluding the 0.3% impact of acquisitions and divestitures, net sales in constant currency increased by 10.2% from increased unit volume and 1.7% due to higher prices. The unit volume increase was due to higher shipments across all MedSurg and Neurotechnology businesses.

Orthopaedics Net Sales

Orthopaedics net sales in 2024 increased 8.9% as reported and 9.4% in constant currency, as foreign currency exchange rates negatively impacted net sales by 0.5%. Excluding the 0.7% impact of acquisitions and divestitures, net sales in constant currency increased by 8.7% from increased unit volume. The unit volume increase was due to higher shipments across all Orthopaedics businesses.

Orthopaedics net sales in 2023 increased 10.3% as reported and 10.9% in constant currency, as foreign currency exchange rates negatively impacted net sales by 0.6%. Excluding the 0.1% impact of acquisitions and divestitures, net sales in constant currency increased by 11.9% from increased unit volume partially offset by 1.1% due to lower prices. The unit volume increase was due to higher shipments across most Orthopaedics businesses.

Gross Profit

Gross profit was $14,440, $13,058 and $11,578 in 2024, 2023, and 2022. The key components of the change were:

	Gross Profit Percent Net Sales
2022	62.8 %
Sales pricing	20 bps
Volume and mix	100 bps
Manufacturing and supply chain costs	(40) bps
Inventory stepped up to fair value	10 bps
2023	63.7 %
Sales pricing	40 bps
Volume and mix	60 bps
Manufacturing and supply chain costs	(40) bps
Inventory stepped up to fair value	(20) bps
Structural optimization and other special charges	(20) bps
2024	63.9 %

Gross profit as a percentage of net sales increased to 63.9% in 2024 from 63.7% in 2023 due to higher sales pricing and favorable volume partially offset by higher manufacturing and supply chain costs primarily due to inflationary pressures impacting fixed and variable manufacturing costs as well as higher amortization of inventory stepped up to fair value.

Gross profit as a percentage of net sales increased to 63.7% in 2023 from 62.8% in 2022 due to higher sales pricing and favorable volume offset by higher manufacturing and supply chain costs primarily due to higher raw material costs in the first six months of 2023 and supply chain inefficiencies.

While segment mix was not a significant driver of the change in gross profit as a percent of net sales between 2024, 2023 and 2022, we generally expect segment mix to have an unfavorable impact for the foreseeable future as we anticipate more rapid sales growth in our lower gross margin MedSurg and Neurotechnology segment than our Orthopaedics segment.

Research, Development and Engineering Expenses

Research, development and engineering expenses as a percentage of net sales in 2024 decreased to 6.5% from 6.8% in 2023 primarily due to lower spend on medical device regulations in the European Union.

Research, development and engineering expenses as a percentage of net sales in 2023 decreased to 6.8% from 7.9% in 2022 primarily due to increased spending for product launches, the write-off of certain intangible assets and higher spend related to the new medical device regulations in the European Union in 2022.

Selling, General and Administrative Expenses

Selling, general and administrative expenses as a percentage of net sales in 2024 decreased to 34.0% from 34.7% in 2023 primarily due to continued spend discipline and lower charges for structural optimization and certain legal matters partially offset by higher acquisition-related costs.

Selling, general and administrative expenses as a percentage of net sales in 2023 of 34.7% remained relatively flat with 34.6% in 2022 as charges of $132 related to share-based awards for Vocera employees that vested upon our acquisition in 2022 were partially offset by disciplined increases in spend and investments in 2023 to support our growth, including sales growth incentives and increased spend on travel and meetings. In addition, in 2022 we determined that certain commercial and regulatory milestones related to technology acquired in the purchase of Mobius Imaging and Cardan Robotics were no longer probable of being achieved and recorded $110 to reduce the fair value of contingent consideration.

Amortization of Intangible Assets

Amortization of intangible assets was $623, $635 and $627 in 2024, 2023 and 2022. These amounts include amortization related to intangible assets acquired in 2024 from various acquisitions, 2023 from Cerus Endovascular Limited (Cerus) and 2022 from Vocera. Refer to Notes 6 and 8 to our Consolidated Financial Statements for further information.

Goodwill and Other Impairments

In 2024 and 2022 we recorded goodwill impairment charges of $456 and $216 related to our Spine business.

In 2024 we recognized an estimated loss of $362 as a result of classifying certain assets in our Spinal Implants business as held for sale. Refer to Notes 8, 16 and 17 to our Consolidated Financial Statements for further information.

In 2024, 2023 and 2022 we recorded other impairments of $159, $36 and $54. Refer to Notes 15 and 16 to our Consolidated Financial Statements for further information.

Operating Income

Operating income was $3,689, $3,888 and $2,841 in 2024, 2023 and 2022. Operating income decreased as a percentage of sales to 16.3% in 2024 from 19.0% in 2023 and increased from 15.4% in 2022. Refer to the comments above for discussion of the primary drivers of the change.

MedSurg and Neurotechnology operating income as a percentage of net sales increased to 29.6% in 2024 from 28.5% in 2023. MedSurg and Neurotechnology operating income as a percentage of net sales increased to 28.5% in 2023 from 26.0% in 2022. Orthopaedics operating income as a percentage of net sales increased to 28.5% in 2024 from 27.2% in 2023. Orthopaedics operating income as a percentage of net sales increased to 27.2% in 2023 from 29.1% in 2022. The key components of the change were:

	Operating Income Percent Net Sales
	MedSurg and Neurotechnology	Orthopaedics
2022	26.0 %	29.1 %
Sales pricing	70 bps	(30) bps
Volume	100 bps	80 bps
Manufacturing and supply chain costs	90 bps	(220) bps
Research, development and engineering expenses	50 bps	20 bps
Selling, general and administrative expenses	(60) bps	(40) bps
2023	28.5 %	27.2 %
Sales pricing	70 bps	0 bps
Volume	40 bps	70 bps
Manufacturing and supply chain costs	(40) bps	(20) bps
Research, development and engineering expenses	0 bps	10 bps
Selling, general and administrative expenses	40 bps	70 bps
2024	29.6 %	28.5 %

The increase in MedSurg and Neurotechnology operating income as a percentage of net sales in 2024 from 2023 was primarily driven by higher unit volumes, higher prices and a decrease in selling, general and administrative expenses as a percentage of sales partially offset by higher manufacturing and supply chain costs.

The increase in MedSurg and Neurotechnology operating income as a percentage of net sales in 2023 from 2022 was primarily driven by higher unit volumes, higher prices and lower manufacturing and supply chain costs due to supply chain challenges impacting capital products in our MedSurg businesses in 2022 which improved in 2023 partially offset by higher selling, general and administrative expenses as a percentage of sales due to continued investments including sales growth incentives and a more normalized cadence of travel and meetings.

The increase in Orthopaedics operating income as a percentage of net sales for 2024 from 2023 was primarily driven by higher sales volumes and a decrease in selling, general and administrative expenses as a percentage of sales partially offset by higher manufacturing and supply chain costs.

The decrease in Orthopaedics operating income as a percentage of net sales for 2023 from 2022 was primarily driven by higher higher manufacturing and supply chain costs primarily due to increased inventory reserves partially offset by higher unit volumes.

Other Income (Expense), Net

Other income (expense), net was ($197), ($215) and ($158) in 2024, 2023 and 2022. The decrease in net expense in 2024 from 2023 was primarily due to higher interest income partially offset by lower interest expense in 2024. The increase in net expense in 2023 from 2022 was primarily due to the release of accrued interest of $50 in 2022 related to the effective settlement of the United States federal income tax audit for years 2014 through 2018. Refer to Note 11 to our Consolidated Financial Statements for further information and higher interest income in 2023.

Income Taxes

Our effective tax rate was 14.3%, 13.8% and 12.1% for 2024, 2023 and 2022. The effective income tax rate for 2024 decreased from 2023 due to the 2024 deferred tax benefit on the outside basis difference related to the anticipated sale of the Spinal Implants business partially offset by the 2023 tax effect related to transfers of intellectual property between tax jurisdictions. The effective income tax rate for 2023 increased from 2022 due to the 2022 effective settlement of the United States federal income tax audit for years 2014 through 2018 and the 2022 reversal of deferred income tax on undistributed earnings of foreign subsidiaries partially offset by the 2023 tax effect related to transfers of intellectual property between tax jurisdictions. Additionally, the effective income tax rates for 2024, 2023 and 2022 reflect the continued lower effective income tax rates as a result of our European operations and certain discrete tax items.

The Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), which represents a coalition of member countries, has put forth two proposed base erosion and profit shifting frameworks that revise the existing profit allocation and nexus rules (Pillar One) and ensure a minimal level of taxation (Pillar Two). On December 12, 2022 the European Union member states agreed to implement the Inclusive Framework's global corporate minimum tax rate of 15%, and various countries within and outside the European Union have either enacted or proposed new tax laws implementing Pillar Two in 2024. The OECD continues to release additional guidance and we anticipate more countries will enact similar tax laws. Some of the new tax laws became effective in 2024 while others will be effective in future years. These tax law changes and any additional contemplated tax law changes could increase tax expense in future periods.

Net Earnings

Net earnings for 2024 increased to $2,993 or $7.76 per diluted share from $3,165 or $8.25 per diluted share in 2023 and $2,358 or $6.17 per diluted share in 2022. Refer to the comments above for discussion of the primary drivers of the change.

Non-GAAP Financial Measures

We supplement the reporting of our financial information determined under accounting principles generally accepted in the United States (GAAP) with certain non-GAAP financial measures, including percentage sales growth in constant currency; percentage organic sales growth; adjusted gross profit; adjusted selling, general and administrative expenses; adjusted research, development and engineering expenses; adjusted operating income; adjusted other income (expense), net; adjusted income taxes; adjusted effective income tax rate; adjusted net earnings; and adjusted net earnings per diluted share (Diluted EPS). We believe these non-GAAP financial measures provide meaningful information to assist investors and shareholders in understanding our financial results and assessing our prospects for future performance. Management believes percentage sales growth in constant currency and the other adjusted measures described above are important indicators of our operations because they exclude items that may not be indicative of or are unrelated to our core operating results and provide a baseline for analyzing trends in our underlying businesses. Management uses these non-GAAP financial measures for reviewing the operating results of reportable business segments and analyzing potential future business trends in connection with our budget process and bases certain management incentive compensation on these non-GAAP financial measures. To measure percentage sales growth in constant currency, we remove the impact of changes in foreign currency exchange rates that affect the comparability and trend of sales. Percentage sales growth in constant currency is calculated by translating current and prior year results at the same foreign currency exchange rate. To measure percentage organic sales growth, we remove the impact of changes in foreign currency exchange rates, acquisitions and divestitures, which affect the comparability and trend of sales. Percentage organic sales growth is calculated by translating current year and prior year results at the same foreign currency exchange rates excluding the impact of acquisitions and divestitures. To measure earnings performance on a consistent and comparable basis, we exclude certain items that affect the comparability of operating results and the trend of earnings. The income tax effect of each adjustment was determined based on the tax effect of the jurisdiction in which the related pre-tax adjustment was recorded. These adjustments are irregular in timing and may not be indicative of our past and future performance. The following are examples of the types of adjustments that may be included in a period:

1. Acquisition and integration-related costs. Costs related to integrating recently acquired businesses (e.g., costs associated with the termination of sales relationships, employee retention and workforce reductions, manufacturing integration costs and other integration-related activities), changes in the fair value of contingent consideration, amortization of inventory stepped-up to fair value, specific costs (e.g., deal costs and costs associated with legal entity rationalization) related to the consummation of the acquisition process and legal entity rationalization and acquisition-related tax items.
2. Amortization of purchased intangible assets. Periodic amortization expense related to purchased intangible assets.
3. Structural optimization and other special charges. Costs associated with employee retention and workforce reductions, the closure or transfer of manufacturing and other facilities (e.g., site closure costs, contract termination costs and redundant employee costs during the work transfers), product line exits (primarily inventory, long-lived asset and specifically-identified intangible asset write-offs), certain long-lived and intangible asset write-offs and impairments and other charges.
4. Medical device regulations. Costs specific to updating our quality system, product labeling, asset write-offs and product remanufacturing to comply with the new medical device reporting regulations and other requirements of the European Union.
5. Recall-related matters. Changes in our best estimate of the probable loss, or the minimum of the range of probable losses when a best estimate within a range is not known, to resolve the Rejuvenate, LFIT V40, Wright legacy hip products and other product recalls.
6. Regulatory and legal matters. Changes in our best estimate of the probable loss, or the minimum of the range of probable losses when a best estimate within a range is not known, to resolve certain regulatory or other legal matters and the amount of favorable awards from settlements.

7. Tax matters. Impact of accounting for certain significant and discrete tax items.

Because non-GAAP financial measures are not standardized, it may not be possible to compare these financial measures with other companies' non-GAAP financial measures having the same or similar names. These adjusted financial measures should not be considered in isolation or as a substitute for reported sales growth, gross profit, selling, general and administrative expenses, research, development and engineering expenses, operating income, other income (expense), net, income taxes, effective income tax rate, net earnings and net earnings per diluted share, the most directly comparable GAAP financial measures. These non-GAAP financial measures are an additional way of viewing aspects of our operations when viewed with our GAAP results and the reconciliations to corresponding GAAP financial measures at the end of the discussion of Consolidated Results of Operations below. We strongly encourage investors and shareholders to review our financial statements and publicly-filed reports in their entirety and not to rely on any single financial measure.

The weighted-average diluted shares outstanding used in the calculation of adjusted net earnings per diluted share are the same as those used in the calculation of reported net earnings per diluted share for the respective period.

FINANCIAL CONDITION AND LIQUIDITY

Net cash provided by (used in):	2024	2023	2022
Operating activities	$ 4,242	$ 3,711	$ 2,624
Investing activities	(3,000)	(992)	(2,924)

Change in cash and cash equivalents	$ 681	$ 1,127	$ (1,100)

We believe our financial condition continues to be of high quality, as evidenced by our ability to generate substantial cash from operations and to readily access capital markets at competitive rates despite the current macroeconomic environment. Operating cash flow provides the primary source of cash to fund operating needs and capital expenditures. Excess operating cash is used first to fund acquisitions to complement our portfolio of businesses. Other discretionary uses include dividends and share repurchases. We supplement operating cash flow with debt to fund our activities as necessary. Our overall cash position reflects our business results and a global cash management strategy that takes into account liquidity management, economic factors and tax considerations.

Operating Activities

Cash provided by operating activities was $4,242, $3,711 and $2,624 in 2024, 2023 and 2022. The increase in 2024 was primarily due to higher cash earnings partially offset by changes in working capital. The increase in 2023 from 2022 was primarily due to higher net earnings and increased collections on accounts receivable.

Our products are sold in approximately 75 countries through company-owned subsidiaries and branches as well as third-party dealers and distributors, and include surgical equipment and surgical navigation systems; endoscopic and communications systems; patient handling, emergency medical equipment and intensive care disposable products; clinical communication and artificial intelligence-assisted virtual care platform technology; neurosurgical and neurovascular devices; implants used in joint replacement and trauma surgeries; Mako Robotic-Arm Assisted technology; spinal devices; as well as other products used in a variety of medical specialties. In 2024 Instruments launched SurgiCount+ powered by Triton, which combines our existing sponge counting technology with artificial intelligence and quantifying blood loss software. We also launched CoPilot, which combines with our Spine Q guidance system to help surgeons plan and perform certain spinal procedures, including supporting bone resection, pedicle preparation and screw delivery.

In addition we completed the acquisition of Vertos Medical, Inc., a leader in interventional pain management solutions for chronic lower back pain caused by lumbar spinal stenosis. The acquisition of Vertos is complementary to our Interventional Spine business as we continue to focus on advanced pain procedures.

Endoscopy continued to deliver its 4K 1788 Camera platform to the market. Our 1788 Camera platform features several enhancements for a broader range of clinical applications and specialties, including urology, neurology and ear, nose and throat and can be used to visualize indocyanine green and Cytalux.

Medical launched the LIFEPAK 35 monitor/defibrillator, our next generation platform designed to optimize care with new clinical features such as the new Glasgow 30.4 algorithm, cprINSIGHT, 15-lead monitoring capabilities, and STJ insight and mapping. LIFEPAK 35 combines a modern intuitive touch screen display and increased processing power with Bluetooth and WiFi data connectivity.

Medical also completed the acquisition of care.ai, a virtual care and ambient intelligence solutions platform. care.ai adds complementary technology that is expected to integrate seamlessly with the Vocera platform (Vocera) and Stryker's devices, providing customers with an enterprise-wide ecosystem that is intended to deliver dynamic clinical workflows and further the development of smart care facilities.

Neurovascular initiated a targeted launch of the Surpass Elite Flow Diverting Stent (FDS) in the U.S. and South Korea. Surpass Elite FDS is designed to reduce thrombin generation when compared to unmodified stents. Additionally, Neurovascular launched Surpass Evolve FDS in Japan. The Stryker FDS platform is designed to effectively treat aneurysms by redirecting blood flow away from the aneurysm to promote healing.

Orthopaedics

Orthopaedics products primarily include implants used in total joint replacements, such as hip, knee and shoulder, and trauma and extremities surgeries. We bring patients and physicians advanced implant designs and specialized instrumentation that make orthopaedic surgery and recovery simpler, faster and more effective. We support surgeons with the technologies, products and services they need to support each patient's clinical challenge.

We are one of four leading global competitors for joint replacement and trauma and extremities products and robotics; the other three being Zimmer, Johnson & Johnson MedTech and Smith & Nephew.

In 2024 we continued the full commercial launch of our Triathlon Hinge revision knee system. Triathlon Hinge received approval in August of 2023 and is now released in the U.S., Canada and New Zealand. We also continued delivering growth in total hip arthroplasty, particularly in the primary segment where Direct Anterior Reconstructive Technology and Mako Total Hip can help to reduce, if not eliminate, a surgeon's use of intraoperative fluoroscopy during direct anterior hip procedures. With the acquisition of SERF SAS, we strengthened distribution in key European markets and continue to scale differentiated solutions such as the Novae monolithic dual mobility cup engineered to deliver greater hip stability and reduce dislocation risk.

We continued to expand our global footprint of Mako SmartRobotics™ in 2024 which is now sold in more than 45 countries. To date more than one million robotic Mako Total Knees and 1.5 million robotic procedures across Total Hips, Total Knees and Partial Knees have been performed globally. Stryker's Joint Replacement division also launched the "Scan. Plan. Mako Can." direct to patient campaign, accelerating awareness of Mako technology in the U.S.

Our spine enabling technologies portfolio includes best in class imaging solutions, image-guided surgical technology, patient specific implants and digital health solutions supporting surgeons and their patients throughout the continuum of care.

In December 2024 we performed our first Mako Shoulder procedure using robotic-arm assistance to remove bone, prepare the glenoid surface and enable positioning and placement of the Perform Reversed Glenoid implant.

In 2024 Trauma launched Pangea, a comprehensive variable angle plating portfolio designed to optimize plate fit to bone utilizing simple, intuitive instrumentation that enhances ease of use and reproducibility. These combined solutions empower Stryker to deliver a complete portfolio across all trauma segments.

Raw Materials and Inventory

Raw materials essential to our business are generally readily available from multiple sources; however, certain of our raw materials are currently sourced from single suppliers. Substantially all products we manufacture are stocked in inventory, while certain MedSurg products are assembled to order.

Patents and Trademarks

Patents and trademarks are significant to our business to the extent that a product or an attribute of a product represents a unique design or process. Patent protection of such products restricts competitors from duplicating these unique designs and features. We seek to obtain patent protection on our products whenever appropriate for protecting our competitive advantage. On December 31, 2024 we owned approximately 5,600 United States patents and approximately 8,600 patents in other countries.

Seasonality

Our business is generally not seasonal in nature; however, the number of orthopaedic implant surgeries is typically lower in the summer months, and sales of capital equipment are generally higher in the fourth quarter.

Competition

In each of our product lines we compete with local and global companies. The development of innovative products is important to our success in all areas of our business. Competition in research involving the development and improvement of new and existing products and processes is particularly significant. The competitive environment requires substantial investments in continuing research and maintaining sales forces.

We believe our commitment to innovation, quality and service and our reputation differentiates us in the highly competitive product categories in which we operate and enables us to compete effectively. We believe that our competitive position in the future will depend to a large degree on our ability to develop new products and make improvements to existing products.

Regulation

Our businesses are subject to varying degrees of governmental regulation in the countries in which we operate, and the general trend is toward increasingly stringent regulation. We are required to comply with the unique regulatory requirements of each country in which we market and sell our products.

In the United States the Medical Device Amendments of 1976 to the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act and its subsequent amendments and the regulations issued and proposed thereunder provide for federal regulation by the United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) of the design, manufacture and marketing of medical devices, including most of our products. In addition, state licensing requirements often apply to certain of our business operations and products. On the federal level, many of our new products fall into FDA classifications that require notification submitted as a 510(k) and review by the FDA before we begin marketing them. Certain of our products require extensive clinical testing, consisting of safety and efficacy studies, followed by pre-market approval applications for specific surgical indications. Certain of our products also fall under other FDA classifications, such as drugs and Human Cells, Tissues, and Cellular and Tissue-Based Products.

The FDA's Quality System regulations set forth standards for our product design and manufacturing processes, require the maintenance of certain records and provide for inspections of our facilities by the FDA. There are also certain requirements of state, local and foreign governments that must be complied with in the manufacture and marketing of our products.

The European Union enacted the European Union Medical Device Regulation in May 2017 with an original effective date of May 2022, which imposes stricter requirements for the marketing and sale of medical devices, including in the areas of clinical evaluation requirements, quality systems, labeling and post-market surveillance. Extended transition timelines were published in 2023 which range from May 2026 through December 2028 depending on the type of device and our implementation is on track to meet these timelines.

Initiatives to limit the growth of general healthcare expenses and hospital costs are ongoing in the markets we do business. These initiatives are sponsored by government agencies, legislative bodies and the private sector and include price regulation and competitive pricing. It is not possible to predict at this time the long-term impact of such cost containment measures on our future business. In addition, business practices in the healthcare industry are scrutinized, particularly in the United States, by federal and state government agencies. Any resulting investigations and prosecutions potentially carry the risk of significant civil and criminal penalties.

Environment

We are subject to various rules and regulation in the United States and internationally related to the protection of human health and the environment. Our operations involve the use of substances regulated under environmental laws, primarily in manufacturing and sterilization processes. We believe our policies, practices and procedures are properly designed to comply, in all material respects, with applicable environmental laws and regulations. We do not expect compliance with these requirements to have a material effect on purchases of property, plant and equipment, cash flows, net earnings or competitive position.

Employees

On December 31, 2024 we had approximately 53,000 employees globally, with approximately 27,000 employees in the United States. Our talented employees are an integral reason for our standing as a global leader in medical technologies where, together with our customers, we are driven to make healthcare better. Our company values of integrity, accountability, people and performance are a key component of that mission. Our people, as one of our core values, continue to be a key focus.

Our success depends on our ability to attract the best talent. To do so, we continue to focus on creating and maintaining a great workplace. We believe in attracting the right people, maintaining and building employee engagement and developing our employees. We believe when people are able to do what they do best, they will look forward to coming to work and, in turn, will deliver great business results.

Our leadership team and Board of Directors receive regular updates on our people and culture strategy and provide feedback on our strategy and goals, including alignment to our mission and values, peer benchmarking and stakeholder feedback.

Employee Development

Our employee development is extensive and exists at all levels of the organization, including company-wide training on our Code of Conduct, job-related technical training and management and leadership training. Our development programs include on-the-job learning, coaching and mentoring, management and leadership development courses, team building and collaboration training and immersive experiences with expert partners.

We encourage all employees to establish development objectives, in partnership with their manager, to help employees gain the needed development experience to grow their careers.

Employee Engagement

An engaged workplace culture that drives performance and business outcomes is central to our mission. Listening to and learning from our employees forms the foundation of an engaging culture. More than 90% of our employees participate in our annual engagement survey, which provides a valued platform for listening and allows us to take action based on the feedback collected.

We supplement our annual engagement survey with targeted pulse surveys to gather feedback on topics relevant to the current climate.

We also provide tools and resources that enable managers and teams to act on the insights we gain from our surveys and to drive employee engagement and strong business outcomes.

Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DE&I)

An essential part of our culture is respecting each individual's strengths and values. Building on this foundation, we are focused on maintaining an inclusive, engaging work environment in keeping with our values of integrity and people. Our DE&I strategy is centered around these three commitments:

- Strengthen the diversity of our workforce
- Advance a culture of inclusion, engagement and belonging
- Maximize the power of inclusion to drive innovation and growth

We are advancing our commitments through the following actions, among others:

- Increasing access to talent through strategic partnerships and campaigns
- Growing and engaging talent with a range of opportunities to learn and develop
- Aligning our employee resource groups, which are open to all employees, to focus on creating community and belonging

Attracting and Hiring

We understand that every employee drives our success. We focus on attracting, identifying and selecting strong candidates who will be successful at Stryker and ensuring that each person we hire brings the talent, expertise and passion we need to continue to be successful.

Health and Safety

Ensuring our employees' safety is a top priority. It is a responsibility that we share throughout the company and one that has evolved to meet the needs of our workforce. Employees' safety risks vary depending on the roles they perform, so we tailor our safety efforts accordingly.

Competitive Pay and Benefits

Our compensation and benefits programs are designed to attract and retain top talent and to incentivize performance and alignment to our mission and values.

We offer market-competitive base pay and benefits to our employees in countries around the world. We regularly evaluate our compensation and benefit offerings and levels, using recognized outside consulting firms to ensure internal fairness and competitiveness in our offerings.

Most of our employees also have variable components to their compensation packages that reward employees based on individual, business unit and/or company-wide performance.

Our proxy statement provides more detail on the competitive compensation programs we offer to our executive officers.

ITEM 1A. RISK FACTORS.

This report contains statements that are not historical facts and are considered "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These statements are based on current projections about operations, industry conditions, financial condition and liquidity. Words that identify forward-looking statements include, without limitation, words such as "may," "could," "will," "should," "possible," "plan," "predict," "forecast," "potential," "anticipate," "estimate," "expect," "project," "intend," "believe," "may impact," "on track," "goal," "strategy" and words and terms of similar substance used in connection with any discussion of future operating or financial performance, an acquisition or our businesses. In addition, any statements that refer to expectations, projections or other characterizations of future events or circumstances, including any underlying assumptions, are forward-looking statements. Those statements are not guarantees and are subject to risks, uncertainties and assumptions that are difficult to predict. Therefore, actual results could differ materially and adversely from these forward-looking statements, historical experience or our present expectations. Some important factors that could cause our actual results to differ from our expectations in any forward-looking statements include:

- weakening of economic conditions, or the anticipation thereof, that could adversely affect the level of demand for our or Inari Medical, Inc.'s ("Inari") products;
- geopolitical risks, including from international conflicts, which could, among other things, lead to increased market volatility;

- pricing pressures generally, including cost-containment measures that have adversely affected and could in the future adversely affect the price of or demand for our or Inari's products;
- changes in foreign currency exchange markets;
- legislative and regulatory actions;
- unanticipated issues arising in connection with clinical studies and otherwise that affect approval of new products, including Inari products, by the FDA and foreign regulatory agencies;
- inflationary pressures;
- increased interest rates or interest rate volatility;
- supply chain disruptions;
- changes in labor markets;
- changes in coverage and reimbursement levels from third-party payors;
- changes in the competitive environment;
- breaches, failures or other disruptions of our or our vendors' or customers' information technology systems or products, including by cyber-attack, data leakage, unauthorized access or theft;
- a significant increase in product liability claims;
- the ultimate total cost with respect to recall-related and other regulatory and quality matters;
- the impact of investigative and legal proceedings and compliance risks;
- resolution of tax audits;
- changes in tax laws and regulations;
- the impact of legislation to reform the healthcare system in the United States or other countries;
- costs to comply with medical device regulations;
- changes in financial markets;
- changes in our credit ratings;
- our ability to integrate and realize the anticipated benefits of acquisitions in full or at all or within the expected timeframes, including our acquisition of Inari;
- our ability to realize any anticipated cost savings;
- potential negative impacts resulting from climate change or other environmental, social and governance and sustainability related matters;
- the impact on our operations and financial results of any public health emergency and any related policies and actions by governments or other third parties;
- uncertainties as to the timing of the tender offer for shares of Inari common stock and the subsequent merger with Inari;
- uncertainties as to how many of Inari's stockholders will tender their shares in the tender offer;
- the failure to satisfy any of the closing conditions to the acquisition of Inari, including the expiration or termination of the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act waiting period (and the risk that such governmental approval may result in the imposition of conditions that could adversely affect the expected benefits of the transaction);
- delays in consummating the acquisition of Inari or the risk that the transaction may not close at all;
- unexpected liabilities, costs, charges or expenses in connection with the acquisition of Inari;
- the effects of the proposed Inari transaction (or the announcement thereof) on the parties' relationships with employees, customers, other business partners or governmental entities; and
- other risks detailed in our filings with the SEC.

While we believe that the assumptions underlying such forward-looking statements are reasonable, there can be no assurance that future events or developments will not cause such statements to be inaccurate. All forward-looking statements contained in this report are qualified in their entirety by this cautionary statement. We expressly disclaim any intention or obligation to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statement to reflect any change in our expectations or in events, conditions or circumstances on which those expectations may be based, or that affect the likelihood that actual results will differ from those contained in the forward-looking statements.

Our operations and financial results are subject to various risks and uncertainties discussed below that could materially and adversely affect our business, cash flows, financial condition and results of operations. Additional risks and uncertainties not currently known to us or that we currently deem not to be material or that could apply to any company may also materially and adversely affect our business, cash flows, financial condition or results of operations. If any of the risks discussed below or other risks actually occur or continue to occur, our business, financial condition, operating results or cash flows could be materially adversely affected. Accordingly, you should carefully consider the following risk factors, as well as other information contained in or incorporated by reference in this report.

BUSINESS AND OPERATIONAL RISKS

We use a variety of raw materials, components, devices and third-party services in our global supply chains, production and distribution processes; significant shortages, price increases or unavailability of third-party services have in the past increased, and could in the future increase, our operating costs and could require significant capital expenditures or adversely impact the competitive position of our products: Our reliance on certain suppliers to secure raw materials, components and finished devices, and on certain third-party service providers, such as sterilization service providers, exposes us to the risk of product shortages and unanticipated increases in prices, whether due to inflationary pressure, regulatory changes, litigation exposure, geopolitical tensions or otherwise. For example, in the past we experienced limited product availability due to an electronic components shortage in certain product lines. If a similar shortage occurs in the future with respect to any raw materials or components, we may not be able to obtain them from our suppliers on a timely basis, or at all, or identify alternative suppliers. In addition, several raw materials, components, finished devices and services are procured from a sole source due to, among other things, the quality considerations, unique intellectual property considerations or constraints associated with regulatory requirements. If sole-source suppliers or service providers are unable or unwilling to deliver these materials or services as a result of financial difficulties, business disruptions, acquisition by a third party, natural disasters or otherwise, we may not be able to manufacture or have available one or more products during such period of unavailability and our business could suffer, possibly materially. In certain cases, we may not be able to establish additional or replacement suppliers for such materials or service providers for such services in a timely or cost-effective manner, often as a result of FDA and other regulations that require, among other things, validation of materials, components and services prior to their use in or with our products. In certain instances we have been unable to meet demand due to supply chain challenges, which has led to loss of sales. Although the impacts have not been material to date, an inability to meet demand due to supply chain challenges in the future could materially adversely impact our reputation, the competitive position of our products and our business. Any of the foregoing risks could have a material adverse impact on our profitability and results of operations.

In addition, in recent years, the market has experienced inflationary pressures in part due to global supply chain disruptions, labor shortages and other impacts following the COVID-19 pandemic. Inflation in the United States and in many of the countries where we conduct business has resulted in, and may in the future result in, high interest rates and increased capital, energy, shipping and labor costs, weakening or strengthening exchange rates against the United States Dollar and other similar effects. We have experienced, and may in the future experience, inflationary increases in manufacturing costs and operating expenses, as well as negative impacts from weakening or strengthening exchange rates against the United States Dollar. Although we have been able to pass certain cost increases on to our customers, we have not been able to pass along all cost increases and we cannot guarantee that we will be able to do so in the future. Inflation, high interest rates or interest rate volatility may also cause our customers to reduce or delay orders for our products and services. Any of the foregoing could have a material adverse impact on our sales, profitability and results of operations.

We are subject to pricing pressures as a result of cost containment measures in the United States and other countries and other factors, including changes in reimbursement practices and coverage policies and third-party payor cost containment measures: Initiatives to limit the growth of general healthcare expenses and hospital costs are ongoing in the markets in which we do business. These initiatives are sponsored by government agencies, legislative bodies and the private sector and include price regulation and competitive pricing. For example, China has implemented a volume-based procurement process designed to decrease prices for medical devices and other products. Pricing pressure has also increased due to continued consolidation among healthcare providers, trends toward managed care, the shift toward governments becoming the primary payers of healthcare expenses, reduction in coverage or reimbursement levels and medical procedure volumes and government laws and regulations relating to sales and promotion, reimbursement and pricing generally. Coverage policies and reimbursement levels can vary across the payer community globally, regionally, and locally, and may affect which products customers purchase, the market acceptance rate for new technologies and the prices customers are willing to pay for those products in a particular jurisdiction. Furthermore, any changes to the coverage or reimbursement landscape, or adverse decisions relating to our products by administrators of these systems could significantly reduce reimbursement for procedures using our products or result in denial of reimbursement for those products, which could adversely affect customer demand, or the price customers are willing to pay for such products. Public and private payers have challenged, and are expected to continue to challenge, prices charged for medical products and services. Such downward pricing pressures from any or all of these payers may result in an adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. We have also reduced prices for certain products due to increased competition and if we further reduce prices, we could become less profitable. In addition, due to healthcare industry consolidation in recent years, competition to provide goods and services to industry participants has become, and may continue to become, more intense, and this consolidation has produced, and may continue to produce, larger enterprises with more bargaining power. Pricing pressures related to any of the foregoing or other factors have impacted and could in the future impact our results of operations and profitability.

We operate in a highly competitive industry in which competition and the regulatory burden in the development and improvement of new and existing products is significant: The markets in which we compete are highly competitive, and a significant element of our strategy is to increase revenue growth by focusing on innovation, new product development and improvement of existing products. New business models, products and surgical procedures, as well as improvements to existing products, are introduced on an ongoing basis and our present or future products could be rendered obsolete or uneconomical by internal or external technological advances, including by our existing competitors and new market entrants, which could adversely impact demand for certain of our existing products. The success of our products and services depends on, among other things, our ability to properly identify customer needs and predict future needs; innovate and develop new technologies, services and applications at an accelerated pace; and appropriately allocate our research and development spending to products and services with higher growth. Our existing competitors and new market entrants may respond more quickly to or integrate new or emerging technologies such as robotics, artificial intelligence and machine learning in their product offerings, undertake more extensive marketing campaigns, have greater access to clinical information to support ongoing product position in the market, have greater financial, marketing and other resources or be more successful in attracting potential customers, employees and strategic partners. There can be no assurance that any products now in development, or that we may seek to develop in the future, will achieve technological feasibility, obtain regulatory approval or gain market acceptance. If we are unable to develop and launch new products, our ability to maintain or expand our market position in the markets in which we participate may be negatively impacted.

We may be unable to maintain adequate working relationships with healthcare professionals: We work with healthcare professionals in a transparent and responsible manner and seek to maintain these relationships with respected physicians and medical personnel in healthcare organizations, such as hospitals and universities, who assist in product research and development. We rely on these professionals to assist us in the development and improvement of proprietary products. If we are unable to maintain these relationships due to regulatory restrictions, hospital access restrictions for non-patients or for other reasons, our ability to develop, market and sell new and improved products could be adversely affected.

We rely on indirect distribution channels and major distributors that are independent of Stryker: In many markets we rely on indirect distribution channels to market, distribute and sell our products. These indirect channels often are the main point of contact for the healthcare professionals and healthcare organization customers who buy and use our products. Our ability to continue to market, distribute and sell our products may be at risk if the indirect channels become insolvent, choose to sell competitive products, choose to stop selling medical technology, fail to adhere to Stryker requirements or are subject to new or additional government regulation.

We are subject to risks associated with our extensive global operations: We develop, manufacture and distribute our products globally. Our global operations are subject to risks and costs related to, among other things, changes in coverage or reimbursement levels from third-party payors in the United States and other countries; changes in regulatory requirements (such as the staggered phase-in period for manufacturers to comply with the European Union Medical Device Regulation (MDR) through December 2028); differing local product preferences and product requirements; diminished protection of intellectual property in some countries; tariffs and other trade protection measures, as well as increasing localization and protectionism policies in certain jurisdictions; international trade disputes and import or export requirements; difficulty in staffing and managing foreign operations; introduction of new internal business structures and programs; political and economic instability and uncertainty; current or potential geopolitical conflicts, such as the tensions between China and Taiwan and the wars in Ukraine and the Middle East, and related sanctions and other developments; disruptions of transportation, including port closures, increased border controls or border closures or reduced transportation availability, due to military conflicts, a global pandemic of contagious diseases like COVID-19 or otherwise; increased energy or transportation costs; fluctuations in currency exchange rates and financial markets; and increased security threats to our supply chain. Many of these risks are rapidly evolving and subject to an accelerating pace of change. Our business could be adversely impacted if we are unable to successfully manage these and other risks of global operations in an increasingly volatile environment. In addition, in many countries, the laws and regulations applicable to us or our industry are evolving, and we have in certain cases become subject to divergent and conflicting laws and regulations across our operations, which has increased the risks we are subject to.

We may be unable to capitalize on previous or future acquisitions: In addition to internally developed products, we invest in new products and technologies through acquisitions. Such investments are inherently risky, and we cannot guarantee that any acquisition will be successful or will not have a material unfavorable impact on us. The risks include the activities required and resources allocated to integrate new businesses, diversion of management time that could adversely affect management's ability to focus on other projects, the inability to realize the expected benefits, savings or synergies from the acquisition, the loss of key personnel, litigation resulting from the acquisition and exposure to unexpected liabilities of acquired companies. Certain acquisitions are subject to antitrust and competition laws, and antitrust scrutiny by regulatory agencies and changes to the regulatory approval process in the United States and foreign jurisdictions may cause approvals to take longer than anticipated to obtain, not be obtained at all, or contain burdensome conditions, which may jeopardize, delay or reduce the anticipated benefits of acquisitions to us and could impede the execution of our business strategy. In addition, we cannot be certain that the businesses we acquire will become or remain profitable.

We, our business partners or our third-party vendors could experience a material failure or breach of a key information technology system, network, process or site: We rely extensively on information technology (IT) systems to conduct business. In addition, we rely on networks and services, including internet sites, cloud and software-as-a-service solutions, data hosting and processing facilities and tools and other hardware, software (including open-source software) and technical applications and platforms, some of which are managed, hosted, provided and/or used by third parties or their vendors, to assist in conducting our business. Furthermore, numerous and evolving cybersecurity threats have posed, and will continue to pose, risks to the security of our IT systems, networks and product offerings, as well as the confidentiality, availability and integrity of our data. Emerging technologies such as generative artificial intelligence (AI) may be used by malicious actors to create more targeted phishing narratives, spread disinformation about us or our products or otherwise strengthen social engineering capabilities. Some of our products, services, and information technology systems contain or use open-source software which poses particular risks, including potential security vulnerabilities, licensing compliance issues and quality issues. We, our customers and third-party hosting services have experienced, and expect to continue to experience, security breaches of, unauthorized access to, and disruptions of, products or systems. While such breaches, unauthorized access and disruptions have not had a material effect on us to date, we cannot guarantee that any future breach or unauthorized access will not be material and any breach or unauthorized access could impact the use of such products and systems and the security of information stored therein. Although we have made investments and expect to continue to make investments seeking to address these threats, including monitoring of networks and systems, use of artificial intelligence, hiring of experts, employee training and security policies for employees and third-party providers, the techniques used in these attacks change frequently and may be difficult to detect for periods of time and we may face difficulties in anticipating and implementing adequate preventative measures.

When cybersecurity or other technology related incidents occur, we follow our incident response protocols and address them in accordance with applicable governmental regulations and other legal requirements. Our response to these incidents and our investments to protect our product offerings and information technology infrastructure and data may not shield us from significant losses and potential liability or prevent any future interruption or breach of our systems. Moreover, given the increasing complexity and sophistication of the techniques used by threat actors to obtain unauthorized access or disable or degrade systems, a cyberattack could occur and persist for an extended period of time before being detected, and we may not anticipate these acts or mitigate them adequately or timely, which may compound damages before the incident is discovered or remediated. The extent of a particular cyber incident and the steps that we may need to take to investigate the incident may not be immediately clear, and it may take a significant amount of time before such investigation can be completed and full and reliable information about the incident is known. New regulations may require us to disclose information about a material cybersecurity incident before it has been resolved or fully investigated. Additionally, as threats continue to evolve and increase, and as the regulatory environment and customer requirements related to information security, data collection and use, and privacy become increasingly rigorous, we may be required to devote significant additional resources to modify and enhance our security controls and to identify and remediate any security vulnerabilities, which could adversely impact our net income. In addition, a significant number of our employees working remotely has exposed us, and may continue to expose us, to greater risks related to cybersecurity and cyber-liability.

Hardware and software failures or delays in our key information technology systems, networks, processes or sites could disrupt our operations, cause the loss of confidential information or otherwise adversely impact our business. Our systems, networks, processes and sites may be vulnerable to damage, disruptions and shutdown from a variety of sources, including malfunctions in maintenance updates or security patches, design defects, the age of the technology, network failures, modernization or other initiatives, human acts and natural disasters. For example, some of our information technology systems contain legacy third-party software components for which we depend on a layered security approach to protect against exploitation, which may not be effective. Any such damage or disruptions could also compromise the security of our information systems and networks. These issues can also arise as a result of failures by, or in the software or hardware of, third parties, including networks or service providers, with whom we do business and over whom we have limited or no control. Any disruption or failure of our systems, networks, processes or sites could have a material impact on our business and operations.

If our IT systems, networks or processes are damaged or cease to function properly for any reason, the networks, service providers, hardware or software we rely upon fail to function properly, or we or one of our third-party providers suffer a loss or disclosure of our business or stakeholder information due to any number of causes ranging from catastrophic events or power outages to improper data handling or security breaches or unauthorized access and our business continuity plans do not effectively address these failures on a timely basis, we may be exposed to reputational, competitive and business harm as well as litigation and regulatory action and fines, penalties and expenses related thereto.

An inability to successfully manage the implementation of our new commercial global enterprise resource planning (ERP) system could adversely affect our operations and operating results: We are in the process of implementing a new commercial ERP system. This system will replace many of our existing operating and financial systems. The implementation is a major undertaking, both financially and from a management and personnel perspective. Any material disruptions, delays or deficiencies in the design and implementation of our new ERP system could adversely affect our ability to process orders, ship products, provide services and customer support, send invoices and track payments, fulfill contractual obligations or otherwise operate our business.

We may be unable to attract, develop and retain executives and key employees: Our sales, technical and other key personnel play an integral role in the development, marketing and selling of new and existing products. Our future performance also depends in large part on the continued services of our senior management. If we are unable to recruit, hire, develop and retain a talented, competitive workforce in our highly competitive industry, or if we are unable to plan effective succession for the future, we may not be able to meet our strategic business objectives. Inflationary pressures, labor demand and shortages and other macroeconomic factors have increased and could further increase the cost of labor and could harm our ability to recruit, hire and retain talented employees. In addition, increased unionization could negatively impact our labor costs and ability to create an engaging, connected culture, which could adversely affect our ability to recruit, hire, develop and retain a talented, competitive workforce. Further, if we are unable to maintain competitive and equitable compensation and benefit programs, including incentive programs which reward financial and operational performance, our ability to recruit, hire, engage, motivate and retain talent could be negatively affected. Additionally, if we are unable to maintain an inclusive culture that aligns our diverse workforce with our mission and values, it could adversely impact our ability to recruit, hire, develop and retain key talent. Further, our remote and hybrid work practices, ability to provide flexible and alternative work arrangements, and our practices relating to corporate responsibility may not meet the needs or expectations of our employees, including senior management or other key employees, which could negatively impact our ability to attract and retain highly skilled employees, or may harm our culture and/or decrease employee engagement, which could adversely impact our ability to recruit, hire, develop and retain a talented, competitive workforce.

Effective succession planning is also important to our long-term success. Failure to ensure effective transfer of knowledge and smooth transitions involving executives and other key employees could hinder our strategic planning and execution. Changes in our management team may be disruptive to our business, and any failure to successfully integrate key new hires or promoted employees could adversely affect our business and results of operations. The loss of the services of any of our senior management or other key personnel, or our inability to attract highly qualified senior management and other key personnel, could harm our business. Our ability to execute our business strategy could be impaired if we are unable to replace such persons timely. In addition, recent legal and regulatory changes affect our ability to enforce post-termination obligations from certain employees with respect to non-competition, non-solicitation and protection of confidential information. This may negatively impact our ability to retain employees and protect our information and relationships with customers and other third parties.

Interruption of manufacturing operations could adversely affect our business: We and our suppliers have manufacturing and supply sites all over the world. However, the manufacturing of certain of our product lines is concentrated in one or more plants or geographic regions. We have principal manufacturing and distribution facilities in the United States in Arizona, California, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, New Jersey, Puerto Rico, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Washington, and outside the United States in China, France, Germany, Ireland, Mexico, the Netherlands, Poland, Switzerland and Turkey. Damage to our facilities, to our suppliers' or service providers' facilities, or to our central distribution centers as a result of natural disasters, fires, explosions or otherwise, as well as issues in our manufacturing arising from a failure to follow specific internal protocols and procedures, compliance concerns relating to the quality systems regulation, equipment breakdown or malfunction, IT system failures or cybersecurity incidents, environmental hazard incidents or changes to environmental regulations or other factors, could adversely affect the availability of our products. In the event of an interruption in manufacturing, we may be unable to move quickly to alternate means of producing and distributing affected products to meet customer demand. In the event of a significant interruption, we may experience lengthy delays in resuming production or distribution of affected products due to the need for regulatory approvals, and we may experience loss of market share, additional expense and harm to our reputation.

Our insurance program may not be adequate to cover future losses: We maintain third-party insurance to cover our exposure to certain property and casualty losses and are self-insured for claims and expenses related to other property and casualty losses, including product liability, intellectual property infringement and enforcement, environmental, and cybersecurity and data privacy losses. We manage a portion of our exposure to self-insured losses through a wholly-owned captive insurance company. Insurance coverage limits provided by third-party insurers and/or our captive insurance company may not be sufficient to fully cover certain losses we may experience.

We have experienced, and may continue to experience, a significant and unpredictable need to adjust our operations as market demand for certain of our products has shifted and continues to shift or as may be mandated by governmental authorities: Some of our products are particularly sensitive to reductions in elective medical procedures. It is not possible to predict whether elective medical procedures will be suspended or reduced in the future and, to the extent individuals and customers are required to delay or cancel elective procedures, our business, cash flows, financial condition and results of operations could be negatively affected. Further, our customers have experienced, and may continue to experience, staffing shortages that may result in decreased demand for our products, which could negatively affect our business and financial results.

Unpredictable increases in demand for certain of our products have exceeded in the past, and could exceed in the future, our capacity to meet such demand timely, which could adversely affect our customer relationships and result in negative publicity. In this regard, the accelerated development and production of products and services to address medical and other requirements could increase the risk of regulatory enforcement actions, product defects or related claims or reputational harm, among other things.

Our use of AI and other emerging technologies could adversely impact our business and financial results: We have begun to deploy AI and other emerging technologies in various facets of our operations and we continue to explore further use cases. The rapid advancement of these technologies presents opportunities for us in research, manufacturing, commercialization, and other business endeavors, but also entails risks, including that AI-generated content, analyses, or recommendations we utilize could be deficient, that our competitors may more quickly or effectively adopt AI capabilities, or that our use of AI or other emerging technologies increases regulatory, cybersecurity and other significant risks. In addition, any disruption or failure in the AI functionality we incorporate into our business activities, products or services could adversely impact our business or result in delays or errors in our product offerings. The legal and regulatory landscape surrounding AI technologies is rapidly evolving and uncertain, including in the areas of intellectual property, cybersecurity and privacy and data protection. Compliance with new or changing laws, regulations or industry standards relating to AI may impose significant costs on us and limit our ability to effectively develop, deploy or use AI technologies. Furthermore, if we are unable to effectively manage the use of AI technologies by our employees and service providers, our confidential information, intellectual property and reputation could be put at risk. Failure to appropriately respond to this evolving landscape may result in reputational, competitive and business harm as well as litigation and regulatory action and fines, penalties and expenses related thereto.

Pandemics and public health emergencies, and the fear thereof, have in the past materially adversely affected and could in the future materially adversely affect, our operations, supply chain, manufacturing, product distribution, customers and other business activities: In connection with prior pandemics, governmental authorities and private enterprises implemented, and may in the future implement in connection with another pandemic or public health emergency (or in response to the fear thereof), measures, such as travel bans and restrictions, quarantines, shelter-in-place orders and shutdowns. Our customers, global suppliers, distributors and manufacturing facilities have in the past been, and could in the future be, materially affected by restrictive measures implemented in response to a pandemic or public health emergency, which has in the past caused and could in the future cause them to be unable to hire and retain employees, distribute or use our products or provide required services. We have as a result experienced, and could in the future experience, delays in, or the suspension of, our manufacturing operations, sales activities, research and product development activities, regulatory work streams, clinical development programs and other important commercial functions, which may result in our inability to satisfy consumer demand for our products in a timely manner or at all and which could harm our reputation, future sales and profitability. The extent of any future pandemic or public health emergency's effect on our business and industry will depend on, among other things, the severity of the disease, the successful development, distribution and acceptance of vaccines for diseases, future resurgences and/or the spread of disease variants, all of which are uncertain and difficult to predict. The COVID-19 pandemic materially impacted us, and any future pandemic or public health emergency could materially impact us and would heighten many of the other risks described in this report.

LEGAL AND REGULATORY RISKS

Current economic and political conditions make tax rules in jurisdictions subject to significant change: Our future results of operations could be affected by changes in the effective tax rate as a result of changes in tax laws, regulations and judicial rulings. We are continuing to evaluate the impact of tax reform in the countries in which we operate as new guidance is published and new regulations are adopted. In addition, further changes in the tax laws could arise, including as a result of the base erosion and profit shifting project undertaken by the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). The OECD, which represents a coalition of member countries, has put forth two proposed frameworks that revise the existing profit allocation and nexus rules (Pillar 1) and ensure a minimal level of taxation (Pillar 2), respectively. In 2022 the European Union member states agreed to implement the Inclusive Framework's global corporate minimum tax rate of 15%, and various countries within and outside the European Union have either enacted or proposed new tax laws implementing Pillar Two in 2024. The OECD continues to release additional guidance and we anticipate more countries will enact similar tax laws. Some of the new tax laws are effective in 2024 while others will be effective in future years. These tax law changes and any additional contemplated tax law changes, could increase tax expense in future periods.

We could be negatively impacted by future changes in the allocation of income to each of the income tax jurisdictions in which we operate: We operate in multiple income tax jurisdictions both in the United States and internationally. Accordingly, our management must determine the appropriate allocation of income to each jurisdiction based on current interpretations of complex income tax regulations. Income tax authorities regularly perform audits of our income tax filings. Income tax audits associated with the allocation of income and other complex issues, including inventory transfer pricing and cost sharing, product royalty and foreign branch arrangements, may require an extended period to resolve and may result in significant income tax adjustments.

The impact of healthcare reform legislation on our business remains uncertain: Several markets where we sell our products are making efforts to expand access to healthcare or health insurance coverage while decreasing costs. These efforts may have a direct or unintended negative impact on access to medical technology and could have a significant effect on our business. Both in the U.S. and internationally, governmental authorities may make legislative or administrative reforms to existing reimbursement programs, make adverse decisions relating to our products' coverage or reimbursement, or make changes to patient access to healthcare, all of which could adversely impact the demand for and usage of our products or the prices that our customers are willing to pay for them. We cannot predict what healthcare programs and regulations could ultimately be implemented at the federal or state level or the effect that any future legislation or regulation in the United States may have on our business. Similarly, we cannot predict the impact that healthcare reform legislation in other countries where we sell our products may have on our business.

We are subject to extensive governmental regulation relating to the classification, manufacturing, sterilization, licensing, labeling, marketing and sale of our products: The classification, manufacturing, sterilization, licensing, labeling, marketing and sale of our products are subject to extensive and evolving regulations and rigorous regulatory enforcement by the FDA, state governments, European Union and other governmental authorities in the United States and internationally. These governmental authorities may impose additional requirements or limits on the methods, procedures or agents we use to manufacture and sterilize our products, which could have a negative impact on our business. For example, governmental authorities in the United States and internationally have or are considering adopting regulations on the use of per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances. In addition, the process of obtaining licenses, regulatory clearances and/or approvals to market and sell our products can be costly and time consuming and the clearances and/or approvals might not be granted timely. We have ongoing responsibilities under the laws and regulations applicable to the manufacturing of products within our facilities and those contracted by third parties that are subject to periodic inspections by the FDA, state Boards of Pharmacy and other governmental authorities to determine compliance with the quality system, medical device reporting regulations and other requirements. We may also be subject to legal obligations in some countries that require disclosure or sharing of proprietary information. We incur significant costs to comply with regulations, including the MDR. If we fail to comply with applicable regulatory requirements, we may be subject to a range of sanctions, including substantial fines, warning letters that require corrective action, product seizures, recalls, import restrictions, the suspension of product manufacturing or sales, revocation of approvals, exclusion from future participation in government healthcare programs, substantial fines and criminal prosecution.

We are subject to federal, state and foreign healthcare regulations, including anti-bribery, anti-corruption, anti-kickback and false claims laws, globally and could face substantial penalties if we fail to comply with such regulations and laws: The relationships that we, and third parties that market and/or sell our products, have with healthcare professionals, such as physicians, hospitals, healthcare organizations and others, are subject to scrutiny under various state and federal laws often referred to collectively as healthcare fraud and abuse laws. In addition, the United States and foreign government regulators have increased the enforcement of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) and other anti-bribery and anti-kickback laws. We also must comply with a variety of other laws that impose extensive tracking and reporting related to all transfers of value provided to certain healthcare professionals and others. These laws and regulations are broad in scope and are subject to evolving interpretation and we have in the past been, and in the future could be, required to incur substantial costs to investigate, audit and monitor compliance or to alter our practices. Violations or alleged violations of these laws have in the past resulted and could in the future result in investigations, litigation or government proceedings, and we have been and may in the future be subject to criminal or civil penalties and sanctions, including substantial fines, imprisonment of current or former employees and exclusion from participation in governmental healthcare programs. For example, in 2013 and 2018 we settled claims brought by the SEC related to the FCPA. Pursuant to these settlements, we paid fines and penalties and retained an independent compliance consultant. We continue to implement recommendations that resulted from the independent compliance consultant's review of our commercial practices to enhance our commercial business practices. In addition, we are currently investigating whether certain business activities in certain foreign countries violated provisions of the FCPA and have been contacted by the SEC, United States Department of Justice and certain other regulatory authorities. Although we are currently unable to predict the outcome of the investigations or the potential impact, if any, on our financial statements, the impacts could potentially be significant.

We are subject to privacy, data protection and data security regulations and laws globally, and could face substantial penalties if we fail to comply with such regulations and laws: We are subject to a variety of laws and regulations globally regarding privacy, data protection, and data security, including those related to the collection, storage, handling, use, disclosure, transfer and security of personally identifiable healthcare information. For example, in the United States, privacy and security regulations under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996, including the expanded requirements under the Health Information Technology for Economic and Clinical Health Act of 2009, establish comprehensive standards with respect to the use and disclosure of protected health information (PHI), by covered entities, in addition to setting standards to protect the confidentiality, integrity and security of PHI. Regulators are also imposing new data privacy and security requirements, including new and greater monetary fines for privacy violations. For example, the European Union's General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) established rules regarding the handling of personal data. Non-compliance with the GDPR may result in monetary penalties of up to 4% of total company revenue. Various U.S. states and other governmental authorities around the world have imposed or are considering similar types of laws and regulations, data breach reporting and penalties for non-compliance and increasing security requirements. These laws and regulations are broad in scope and are subject to evolving interpretation and enforcement and we have in the past been, and in the future could be, required to incur substantial costs to monitor compliance or to alter our practices. As new privacy-related laws and regulations are implemented, the time and resources needed for us to comply with such laws and regulations, as well as our potential liability for non-compliance and reporting obligations in the case of data breaches, have increased and may further increase.

We may be adversely affected by product liability claims, unfavorable court decisions or legal settlements: We are exposed to potential product liability risks inherent in the design, manufacture and marketing of medical devices, many of which are implanted in the human body for long periods of time or indefinitely. We are currently defendants in a number of product liability matters, including those relating to our Rejuvenate and ABGII Modular-Neck hip stems, LFIT Anatomic CoCr V40 Femoral Heads and the product liability lawsuits and claims relating to Wright Medical Group N.V. (Wright) legacy hip products discussed in Note 7 to our Consolidated Financial Statements. These matters are subject to uncertainties and outcomes are not predictable. Further, the European Representative Actions Directive (the Collective Redress Directive) mandates a class action regime in each EU member state to facilitate domestic and cross-border class actions in a wide range of areas, including product liability claims with medical devices. The European Product Liability Directive was revised in 2024 and will become fully adopted into each member state's national laws by 2026. The revised Product Liability Directive and Collective Redress Directive exposes us to additional litigation risks and could result in significant legal expenses. In addition, we may incur significant legal expenses or reputational damage for product liability claims regardless of whether we are found to be liable.

Intellectual property litigation and infringement claims could cause us to incur significant expenses or prevent us from selling certain of our products: The medical device industry is characterized by extensive intellectual property litigation and, from time to time, we are the subject of claims of infringement or misappropriation. Regardless of the outcome, such claims are expensive to defend and divert management and operating personnel from other business issues. A successful claim or claims of patent or other intellectual property infringement against us could result in payment of significant monetary damages and/or royalty payments or negatively impact our ability to sell current or future products in the affected category.

Dependence on intellectual proprietary rights and failing to protect such rights or to be successful in litigation related to such rights may impact offerings in our product portfolios: Our long-term success largely depends on our ability to market technologically competitive products. If we fail to obtain or maintain adequate intellectual property protection, it could allow others to sell products that directly compete with proprietary features in our product portfolio. Also, our issued patents may be subject to claims challenging their validity and scope and raising other issues. In addition, currently pending or future patent applications may not result in issued patents and the expiration of patents may lead to a loss of exclusive rights and/or increased competition.

MARKET RISKS

We have exposure to exchange rate fluctuations on cross border transactions and translation of local currency results into United States Dollars: We report our financial results in United States Dollars and approximately 25% of our net sales are denominated in foreign currencies, including the Australian Dollar, British Pound, Canadian Dollar, Euro and Japanese Yen. Cross border transactions with external parties, financing transactions in currencies other than the United States Dollar and intercompany relationships result in increased exposure to foreign currency exchange effects. While we use derivative instruments to manage the impact of currency exchange, our hedging strategies may not be successful, and our unhedged exposures continue to be subject to currency fluctuations. In addition, the weakening or strengthening of the United States Dollar results in favorable or unfavorable translation effects when the results of our foreign locations are translated into United States Dollars. In recent years, currency exchange rates have been especially volatile, and these currency fluctuations have affected, and may continue to affect, our results of operations.

Additional capital that we may require in the future may not be available to us or may only be available to us on unfavorable terms, which could negatively affect our liquidity: Our future capital requirements will depend on many factors, including operating requirements, current and future acquisitions and the need to refinance existing debt. Our ability to issue additional debt or enter into other financing arrangements on acceptable terms could be adversely affected by our debt levels, unfavorable changes in economic conditions or uncertainties that affect the capital markets. Changes in credit ratings issued by nationally recognized credit rating agencies could also adversely affect our access to and cost of financing. Higher borrowing costs or the inability to access capital markets could adversely affect our ability to support future growth and operating requirements. In addition, we have experienced, and could in the future experience, loss of sales and profits due to delayed payments or insolvency of healthcare professionals, hospitals and other customers and suppliers facing liquidity issues due to the current macroeconomic environment, type and number of conditions being treated or for other reasons. As a result, we may be compelled to take additional measures to preserve our cash flow, including through the reduction of operating expenses or suspension of dividend payments.

ENVIRONMENTAL, SOCIAL AND GOVERNANCE RISKS

We could be negatively impacted by corporate responsibility and sustainability-related matters: Governments, investors, customers, employees and other stakeholders have been focused on corporate responsibility practices and disclosures, and expectations in this area continue to rapidly evolve, including in diverging directions. On occasion, we announce new initiatives and make disclosures, including goals, under our corporate responsibility framework. This framework is aligned with our areas of interest and applicable regulatory requirements, which include environment and sustainability, workforce-related issues, diversity, equity and inclusion and supply chain management, among others. Implementation of these initiatives involves risks and uncertainties, requires investments and depends in part on third-party performance or data that is outside our control. We cannot guarantee that we will achieve our announced corporate responsibility initiatives. The criteria by which our corporate responsibility practices are assessed may change due to the quickly evolving landscape, which could result in greater regulatory requirements or expectations of us and cause us to undertake costly initiatives to satisfy such new criteria. Moreover, the increasing attention to corporate responsibility initiatives could also result in, among other things, reduced demand for our products, reduced profits, increased investigations and litigation and an increased risk of reputational damage. If we are unable to satisfy evolving criteria, certain investors and other stakeholders may conclude that our policies and/or actions with respect to corporate responsibility matters are inadequate or undesirable. If we fail or are perceived to have failed to achieve previously announced initiatives or goals, comply with corporate responsibility laws and regulations, meet evolving expectations or accurately disclose our progress, we could face legal and regulatory proceedings and our reputation, business, financial condition and results of operations could be adversely impacted.

Physical effects of climate change or legal, regulatory or market measures intended to address climate change could adversely affect our operations and operating results: Risks associated with climate change are subject to increasing societal, regulatory and political focus in the United States and globally. Shifts in weather patterns caused by climate change have increased and are expected to further increase the frequency, severity or duration of certain adverse weather conditions and natural disasters, such as hurricanes, tornadoes, earthquakes, wildfires, droughts, extreme temperatures and flooding, which could cause more significant business and supply chain interruptions, damage to our products and facilities as well as the infrastructure of hospitals, medical care facilities and other customers, reduced workforce availability, increased costs of raw materials and components, increased liabilities and decreased revenues than what we have experienced in the past from such events. In addition, increased public concern over climate change has resulted in certain, and could result in additional, new legal or regulatory requirements designed to mitigate the effects of climate change, which could include the adoption of more stringent environmental laws and regulations or stricter enforcement of existing laws and regulations. Such developments could result in increased compliance costs and adverse impacts on raw material availability and sourcing, manufacturing operations and the distribution of our products, which could adversely affect our operations and operating results.

ITEM 1B. UNRESOLVED STAFF COMMENTS.

None.

ITEM 1C. CYBERSECURITY.

RISK MANAGEMENT AND STRATEGY

We review cybersecurity risk as part of our overall enterprise risk management program. This ensures that cybersecurity risk management remains a top priority in our business strategy and operations.

MANAGEMENT'S ROLE IN MANAGING RISK

Primary management responsibility for assessing, monitoring and managing our cybersecurity risks rests with our chief information security officer ("CISO"). Our current CISO has over 30 years of experience in information technology including over 20 years in cybersecurity and oversees a team of cybersecurity professionals with over 140 security, risk, and compliance certifications. The CISO is regularly informed about recent developments in cybersecurity, including potential threats and innovative risk management techniques.

The CISO implements and oversees processes for the regular monitoring of our information systems. We use various tools and methodologies to manage cybersecurity risk that are tested regularly. We also monitor and evaluate our cybersecurity posture and performance on an ongoing basis through regular vulnerability scans, penetration tests and threat intelligence feeds. In addition, we engage third-party consultants to conduct annual cybersecurity assessments and to conduct audits for compliance with regulatory, Sarbanes-Oxley Act, Service Organization Control Type 2 and International Organization for Standardization standards. We also engage third parties to assess our cybersecurity maturity and risk management programs.

We use a cross-departmental approach to addressing cybersecurity risk, with our cybersecurity, product security and legal teams presenting quarterly on key topics to a committee of leaders in finance, regulatory, and corporate affairs functions. This leadership committee meets quarterly to ensure that we have input and oversight from critical stakeholders into our cybersecurity program and evolving issues.

The CISO oversees a training and awareness program for employees to take part in protecting the Company against cybersecurity risks. We have implemented annual mandatory security education to help employees understand cybersecurity risks and comply with our cybersecurity policies. Additionally, we provide frequent communications around pertinent cybersecurity topics and policies to all employees. We also provide additional cybersecurity and data protection training to employees in certain roles.

As part of our cybersecurity risk management program, we also conduct cybersecurity and privacy assessments on all third parties who integrate with Stryker's data, network, systems and products. We use a combination of internal and external tools to confirm that these third parties meet our security requirements. We leverage standard industry threat model and privacy impact assessment concepts to confirm that data minimization and adequate data protections are in place. We perform supplemental reviews as necessary, commensurate with the risk associated with each vendor.

In the event of a cybersecurity incident, we have an incident response plan that includes immediate actions to mitigate the impact and long-term strategies for remediation and prevention of future incidents. The cybersecurity and product security teams routinely practice this plan with functions across the organization. We conduct tabletop exercises with senior management, during which we practice the procedures in place to ensure that potentially material cybersecurity risks and incidents are escalated to management and the Board of Directors where applicable.

GOVERNANCE

Cybersecurity risks are overseen by the full Board of Directors and the Audit Committee. The Audit Committee is central to the Board of Directors' oversight of cybersecurity risks and bears the primary responsibility for overseeing cybersecurity risk. The Audit Committee actively participates in strategic decisions related to cybersecurity, offering guidance and approval for major cybersecurity initiatives. This involvement ensures that cybersecurity considerations are integrated into our broader strategic objectives.

Our CISO provides comprehensive updates to the Audit Committee quarterly and the full Board of Directors periodically. These briefings include a range of topics, including:

- Current cybersecurity landscape and emerging threats;
- Status of ongoing cybersecurity initiatives and strategies;
- Incident reports and learnings from any cybersecurity events;
- Metrics demonstrating company and industry-standard prevention of common threats; and
- Regulatory changes impacting cybersecurity requirements and strategy.

The Board of Directors is aware of the critical nature of managing risks associated with cybersecurity threats and is actively engaged in our cybersecurity risk management strategy.

RISKS FROM CYBERSECURITY THREATS

Although cybersecurity risks have not materially affected us, including our business strategy, results of operations or financial condition, to date, we face numerous and evolving cybersecurity threats in our business. For more information about the cybersecurity risks we face, see the risk factor entitled "We, our business partners or our third-party vendors could experience a material failure or breach of a key information technology system, network, process or site" in Item 1A. Risk Factors.

ITEM 2. PROPERTIES.

We have approximately 27 company-owned and 297 leased locations worldwide including 45 manufacturing locations. We believe that our properties are in good operating condition and adequate for the manufacture and distribution of our products.

We do not anticipate difficulty in renewing existing leases as they expire or in finding alternative facilities.

ITEM 3. LEGAL PROCEEDINGS.

We are involved in various ongoing proceedings, legal actions and claims arising in the normal course of our business, including proceedings related to product, labor, intellectual property and other matters. Refer to Note 7 to our Consolidated Financial Statements for further information.

ITEM 4. MINE SAFETY DISCLOSURES.

Not applicable.

ITEM 5. MARKET FOR THE REGISTRANT'S COMMON EQUITY, RELATED STOCKHOLDER MATTERS AND ISSUER PURCHASES OF EQUITY SECURITIES.

Our common stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol SYK.

Our Board of Directors considers payment of cash dividends at its quarterly meetings. On January 31, 2025 there were 2,510 shareholders of record of our common stock.

We did not repurchase any shares in the three months ended December 31, 2024 and the total dollar value of shares that could be acquired under our authorized repurchase program at December 31, 2024 was $1,033.

In the fourth quarter 2024 we did not issue shares of our common stock as performance incentive awards to employees. When issued, these shares are not registered under the Securities Act of 1933 based on the conclusion that the awards are not events of sale within the meaning of Section 2(a)(3) of the Act.

The following graph compares our total returns (including reinvestment of dividends) against the Standard & Poor's (S&P) 500 Index and the S&P 500 Health Care Index. The graph assumes $100 (not in millions) invested on December 31, 2019 in our common stock and each of the indices.

Note: In the fourth quarter 2024 we reorganized our Spine business to align with certain updates to our internal reporting structure. The spine enabling technologies portfolio (Enabling Technologies) was reclassified to Other Orthopaedics, the interventional spine portfolio was reclassified to Neuro Cranial and the remaining Spine business was renamed to Spinal Implants. Neuro Cranial includes sales related to interventional spine of $413, $327 and $282 for 2024, 2023 and 2022. Other Orthopaedics includes sales related to Enabling Technologies of $152, $149 and $131 for 2024, 2023 and 2022. In the first quarter 2024 a product line previously included in Instruments has been reclassified to Endoscopy to align with a change in our internal reporting structure. We have reflected these changes in all historical periods presented.

Consolidated Net Sales

Consolidated net sales in 2024 increased 10.2% as reported and 10.7% in constant currency, as foreign currency exchange rates negatively impacted net sales by 0.5%. Excluding the 0.5% impact of acquisitions and divestitures, net sales in constant currency increased by 9.1% from increased unit volume and 1.1% due to higher prices. The unit volume increase was primarily due to higher shipments across all businesses.

Consolidated net sales in 2023 increased 11.1% as reported and 11.6% in constant currency, as foreign currency exchange rates negatively impacted net sales by 0.5%. Excluding the 0.1% impact of acquisitions and divestitures, net sales in constant currency increased by 10.9% from increased unit volume and 0.6% due to higher prices. The unit volume increase was due to higher shipments across all MedSurg and Neurotechnology businesses and most Orthopaedics businesses.

MedSurg and Neurotechnology Net Sales

MedSurg and Neurotechnology net sales in 2024 increased 11.1% as reported and 11.6% in constant currency, as foreign currency exchange rates negatively impacted net sales by 0.5%. Excluding the 0.4% impact of acquisitions and divestitures, net sales in constant currency increased by 9.5% from increased unit volume and 1.7% due to higher prices. The unit volume increase was due to higher shipments across all MedSurg and Neurotechnology businesses.

MedSurg and Neurotechnology net sales in 2023 increased 11.7% as reported and 12.2% in constant currency, as foreign currency exchange rates negatively impacted net sales by 0.5%. Excluding the 0.3% impact of acquisitions and divestitures, net sales in constant currency increased by 10.2% from increased unit volume and 1.7% due to higher prices. The unit volume increase was due to higher shipments across all MedSurg and Neurotechnology businesses.

Orthopaedics Net Sales

Orthopaedics net sales in 2024 increased 8.9% as reported and 9.4% in constant currency, as foreign currency exchange rates negatively impacted net sales by 0.5%. Excluding the 0.7% impact of acquisitions and divestitures, net sales in constant currency increased by 8.7% from increased unit volume. The unit volume increase was due to higher shipments across all Orthopaedics businesses.

Orthopaedics net sales in 2023 increased 10.3% as reported and 10.9% in constant currency, as foreign currency exchange rates negatively impacted net sales by 0.6%. Excluding the 0.1% impact of acquisitions and divestitures, net sales in constant currency increased by 11.9% from increased unit volume partially offset by 1.1% due to lower prices. The unit volume increase was due to higher shipments across most Orthopaedics businesses.

Gross Profit

Gross profit was $14,440, $13,058 and $11,578 in 2024, 2023, and 2022. The key components of the change were:

	Gross Profit Percent Net Sales
2022	62.8 %
Sales pricing	20 bps
Volume and mix	100 bps
Manufacturing and supply chain costs	(40) bps
Inventory stepped up to fair value	10 bps
2023	63.7 %
Sales pricing	40 bps
Volume and mix	60 bps
Manufacturing and supply chain costs	(40) bps
Inventory stepped up to fair value	(20) bps
Structural optimization and other special charges	(20) bps
2024	63.9 %

Gross profit as a percentage of net sales increased to 63.9% in 2024 from 63.7% in 2023 due to higher sales pricing and favorable volume partially offset by higher manufacturing and supply chain costs primarily due to inflationary pressures impacting fixed and variable manufacturing costs as well as higher amortization of inventory stepped up to fair value.

Gross profit as a percentage of net sales increased to 63.7% in 2023 from 62.8% in 2022 due to higher sales pricing and favorable volume offset by higher manufacturing and supply chain costs primarily due to higher raw material costs in the first six months of 2023 and supply chain inefficiencies.

While segment mix was not a significant driver of the change in gross profit as a percent of net sales between 2024, 2023 and 2022, we generally expect segment mix to have an unfavorable impact for the foreseeable future as we anticipate more rapid sales growth in our lower gross margin MedSurg and Neurotechnology segment than our Orthopaedics segment.

Research, Development and Engineering Expenses

Research, development and engineering expenses as a percentage of net sales in 2024 decreased to 6.5% from 6.8% in 2023 primarily due to lower spend on medical device regulations in the European Union.

Research, development and engineering expenses as a percentage of net sales in 2023 decreased to 6.8% from 7.9% in 2022 primarily due to increased spending for product launches, the write-off of certain intangible assets and higher spend related to the new medical device regulations in the European Union in 2022.

Selling, General and Administrative Expenses

Selling, general and administrative expenses as a percentage of net sales in 2024 decreased to 34.0% from 34.7% in 2023 primarily due to continued spend discipline and lower charges for structural optimization and certain legal matters partially offset by higher acquisition-related costs.

Selling, general and administrative expenses as a percentage of net sales in 2023 of 34.7% remained relatively flat with 34.6% in 2022 as charges of $132 related to share-based awards for Vocera employees that vested upon our acquisition in 2022 were partially offset by disciplined increases in spend and investments in 2023 to support our growth, including sales growth incentives and increased spend on travel and meetings. In addition, in 2022 we determined that certain commercial and regulatory milestones related to technology acquired in the purchase of Mobius Imaging and Cardan Robotics were no longer probable of being achieved and recorded $110 to reduce the fair value of contingent consideration.

Amortization of Intangible Assets

Amortization of intangible assets was $623, $635 and $627 in 2024, 2023 and 2022. These amounts include amortization related to intangible assets acquired in 2024 from various acquisitions, 2023 from Cerus Endovascular Limited (Cerus) and 2022 from Vocera. Refer to Notes 6 and 8 to our Consolidated Financial Statements for further information.

Goodwill and Other Impairments

In 2024 and 2022 we recorded goodwill impairment charges of $456 and $216 related to our Spine business.

In 2024 we recognized an estimated loss of $362 as a result of classifying certain assets in our Spinal Implants business as held for sale. Refer to Notes 8, 16 and 17 to our Consolidated Financial Statements for further information.

In 2024, 2023 and 2022 we recorded other impairments of $159, $36 and $54. Refer to Notes 15 and 16 to our Consolidated Financial Statements for further information.

Operating Income

Operating income was $3,689, $3,888 and $2,841 in 2024, 2023 and 2022. Operating income decreased as a percentage of sales to 16.3% in 2024 from 19.0% in 2023 and increased from 15.4% in 2022. Refer to the comments above for discussion of the primary drivers of the change.

MedSurg and Neurotechnology operating income as a percentage of net sales increased to 29.6% in 2024 from 28.5% in 2023. MedSurg and Neurotechnology operating income as a percentage of net sales increased to 28.5% in 2023 from 26.0% in 2022. Orthopaedics operating income as a percentage of net sales increased to 28.5% in 2024 from 27.2% in 2023. Orthopaedics operating income as a percentage of net sales increased to 27.2% in 2023 from 29.1% in 2022. The key components of the change were:

	Operating Income Percent Net Sales
	MedSurg and Neurotechnology	Orthopaedics
2022	26.0 %	29.1 %
Sales pricing	70 bps	(30) bps
Volume	100 bps	80 bps
Manufacturing and supply chain costs	90 bps	(220) bps
Research, development and engineering expenses	50 bps	20 bps
Selling, general and administrative expenses	(60) bps	(40) bps
2023	28.5 %	27.2 %
Sales pricing	70 bps	0 bps
Volume	40 bps	70 bps
Manufacturing and supply chain costs	(40) bps	(20) bps
Research, development and engineering expenses	0 bps	10 bps
Selling, general and administrative expenses	40 bps	70 bps
2024	29.6 %	28.5 %

The increase in MedSurg and Neurotechnology operating income as a percentage of net sales in 2024 from 2023 was primarily driven by higher unit volumes, higher prices and a decrease in selling, general and administrative expenses as a percentage of sales partially offset by higher manufacturing and supply chain costs.

The increase in MedSurg and Neurotechnology operating income as a percentage of net sales in 2023 from 2022 was primarily driven by higher unit volumes, higher prices and lower manufacturing and supply chain costs due to supply chain challenges impacting capital products in our MedSurg businesses in 2022 which improved in 2023 partially offset by higher selling, general and administrative expenses as a percentage of sales due to continued investments including sales growth incentives and a more normalized cadence of travel and meetings.

The increase in Orthopaedics operating income as a percentage of net sales for 2024 from 2023 was primarily driven by higher sales volumes and a decrease in selling, general and administrative expenses as a percentage of sales partially offset by higher manufacturing and supply chain costs.

The decrease in Orthopaedics operating income as a percentage of net sales for 2023 from 2022 was primarily driven by higher higher manufacturing and supply chain costs primarily due to increased inventory reserves partially offset by higher unit volumes.

Other Income (Expense), Net

Other income (expense), net was ($197), ($215) and ($158) in 2024, 2023 and 2022. The decrease in net expense in 2024 from 2023 was primarily due to higher interest income partially offset by lower interest expense in 2024. The increase in net expense in 2023 from 2022 was primarily due to the release of accrued interest of $50 in 2022 related to the effective settlement of the United States federal income tax audit for years 2014 through 2018. Refer to Note 11 to our Consolidated Financial Statements for further information and higher interest income in 2023.

Income Taxes

Our effective tax rate was 14.3%, 13.8% and 12.1% for 2024, 2023 and 2022. The effective income tax rate for 2024 decreased from 2023 due to the 2024 deferred tax benefit on the outside basis difference related to the anticipated sale of the Spinal Implants business partially offset by the 2023 tax effect related to transfers of intellectual property between tax jurisdictions. The effective income tax rate for 2023 increased from 2022 due to the 2022 effective settlement of the United States federal income tax audit for years 2014 through 2018 and the 2022 reversal of deferred income tax on undistributed earnings of foreign subsidiaries partially offset by the 2023 tax effect related to transfers of intellectual property between tax jurisdictions. Additionally, the effective income tax rates for 2024, 2023 and 2022 reflect the continued lower effective income tax rates as a result of our European operations and certain discrete tax items.

The Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), which represents a coalition of member countries, has put forth two proposed base erosion and profit shifting frameworks that revise the existing profit allocation and nexus rules (Pillar One) and ensure a minimal level of taxation (Pillar Two). On December 12, 2022 the European Union member states agreed to implement the Inclusive Framework's global corporate minimum tax rate of 15%, and various countries within and outside the European Union have either enacted or proposed new tax laws implementing Pillar Two in 2024. The OECD continues to release additional guidance and we anticipate more countries will enact similar tax laws. Some of the new tax laws became effective in 2024 while others will be effective in future years. These tax law changes and any additional contemplated tax law changes could increase tax expense in future periods.

Net Earnings

Net earnings for 2024 increased to $2,993 or $7.76 per diluted share from $3,165 or $8.25 per diluted share in 2023 and $2,358 or $6.17 per diluted share in 2022. Refer to the comments above for discussion of the primary drivers of the change.

Non-GAAP Financial Measures

We supplement the reporting of our financial information determined under accounting principles generally accepted in the United States (GAAP) with certain non-GAAP financial measures, including percentage sales growth in constant currency; percentage organic sales growth; adjusted gross profit; adjusted selling, general and administrative expenses; adjusted research, development and engineering expenses; adjusted operating income; adjusted other income (expense), net; adjusted income taxes; adjusted effective income tax rate; adjusted net earnings; and adjusted net earnings per diluted share (Diluted EPS). We believe these non-GAAP financial measures provide meaningful information to assist investors and shareholders in understanding our financial results and assessing our prospects for future performance. Management believes percentage sales growth in constant currency and the other adjusted measures described above are important indicators of our operations because they exclude items that may not be indicative of or are unrelated to our core operating results and provide a baseline for analyzing trends in our underlying businesses. Management uses these non-GAAP financial measures for reviewing the operating results of reportable business segments and analyzing potential future business trends in connection with our budget process and bases certain management incentive compensation on these non-GAAP financial measures. To measure percentage sales growth in constant currency, we remove the impact of changes in foreign currency exchange rates that affect the comparability and trend of sales. Percentage sales growth in constant currency is calculated by translating current and prior year results at the same foreign currency exchange rate. To measure percentage organic sales growth, we remove the impact of changes in foreign currency exchange rates, acquisitions and divestitures, which affect the comparability and trend of sales. Percentage organic sales growth is calculated by translating current year and prior year results at the same foreign currency exchange rates excluding the impact of acquisitions and divestitures. To measure earnings performance on a consistent and comparable basis, we exclude certain items that affect the comparability of operating results and the trend of earnings. The income tax effect of each adjustment was determined based on the tax effect of the jurisdiction in which the related pre-tax adjustment was recorded. These adjustments are irregular in timing and may not be indicative of our past and future performance. The following are examples of the types of adjustments that may be included in a period:

1. Acquisition and integration-related costs. Costs related to integrating recently acquired businesses (e.g., costs associated with the termination of sales relationships, employee retention and workforce reductions, manufacturing integration costs and other integration-related activities), changes in the fair value of contingent consideration, amortization of inventory stepped-up to fair value, specific costs (e.g., deal costs and costs associated with legal entity rationalization) related to the consummation of the acquisition process and legal entity rationalization and acquisition-related tax items.
2. Amortization of purchased intangible assets. Periodic amortization expense related to purchased intangible assets.
3. Structural optimization and other special charges. Costs associated with employee retention and workforce reductions, the closure or transfer of manufacturing and other facilities (e.g., site closure costs, contract termination costs and redundant employee costs during the work transfers), product line exits (primarily inventory, long-lived asset and specifically-identified intangible asset write-offs), certain long-lived and intangible asset write-offs and impairments and other charges.
4. Medical device regulations. Costs specific to updating our quality system, product labeling, asset write-offs and product remanufacturing to comply with the new medical device reporting regulations and other requirements of the European Union.
5. Recall-related matters. Changes in our best estimate of the probable loss, or the minimum of the range of probable losses when a best estimate within a range is not known, to resolve the Rejuvenate, LFIT V40, Wright legacy hip products and other product recalls.
6. Regulatory and legal matters. Changes in our best estimate of the probable loss, or the minimum of the range of probable losses when a best estimate within a range is not known, to resolve certain regulatory or other legal matters and the amount of favorable awards from settlements.

7. Tax matters. Impact of accounting for certain significant and discrete tax items.

Because non-GAAP financial measures are not standardized, it may not be possible to compare these financial measures with other companies' non-GAAP financial measures having the same or similar names. These adjusted financial measures should not be considered in isolation or as a substitute for reported sales growth, gross profit, selling, general and administrative expenses, research, development and engineering expenses, operating income, other income (expense), net, income taxes, effective income tax rate, net earnings and net earnings per diluted share, the most directly comparable GAAP financial measures. These non-GAAP financial measures are an additional way of viewing aspects of our operations when viewed with our GAAP results and the reconciliations to corresponding GAAP financial measures at the end of the discussion of Consolidated Results of Operations below. We strongly encourage investors and shareholders to review our financial statements and publicly-filed reports in their entirety and not to rely on any single financial measure.

The weighted-average diluted shares outstanding used in the calculation of adjusted net earnings per diluted share are the same as those used in the calculation of reported net earnings per diluted share for the respective period.

We believe our financial condition continues to be of high quality, as evidenced by our ability to generate substantial cash from operations and to readily access capital markets at competitive rates despite the current macroeconomic environment. Operating cash flow provides the primary source of cash to fund operating needs and capital expenditures. Excess operating cash is used first to fund acquisitions to complement our portfolio of businesses. Other discretionary uses include dividends and share repurchases. We supplement operating cash flow with debt to fund our activities as necessary. Our overall cash position reflects our business results and a global cash management strategy that takes into account liquidity management, economic factors and tax considerations.

Operating Activities

Cash provided by operating activities was $4,242, $3,711 and $2,624 in 2024, 2023 and 2022. The increase in 2024 was primarily due to higher cash earnings partially offset by changes in working capital. The increase in 2023 from 2022 was primarily due to higher net earnings and increased collections on accounts receivable.

CONSENT ORDER FOR REINSTATEMENT

By agreement of the Georgia State Board of Pharmacy ("Board") and Paul Douglas Arp, Respondent, the following disposition of this matter is entered pursuant to the provisions of O.C.G.A. T. 43, Ch. 1, T. 26, Ch. 4, and T. 50, Ch. 13.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Respondent was licensed to practice pharmacy in this state on March 9, 1988.

2.

On or about January 25, 2006, Respondent admitted to an agent of the Board that while employed at CVS Pharmacy, he filled approximately 118 fraudulent controlled substance prescriptions for his friends and himself over a four-year period.

3.

On or about April 21, 2006, Respondent voluntarily surrendered his license to practice pharmacy.

4.

On or about December 5, 2006, Respondent applied for reinstatement of his license to practice pharmacy.

5.

On or about January 10, 2007, Respondent met with the Board requesting reinstatement of his license to practice pharmacy.

6.

The Respondent waives any further findings of fact with respect to this matter.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Under O.C.G.A. T. 26, Ch. 4, and T. 43, Ch. 1, the Georgia State Board of Pharmacy may impose conditions, as it deems appropriate on the reinstatement of Respondent's pharmacist license. Respondent waives any further conclusions of law with respect to this matter.

ORDER

The Board having considered the particular facts and circumstances of this case, it is hereby ordered, and the Respondent hereby agrees, as follows:

1.

Upon the effective date of this Order, the Respondent's license to practice pharmacy in the State of Georgia shall be reinstated but such license shall be placed on probation for a period of five (5) years and until discharged in accordance with paragraph (n), under the following terms and conditions of probation:

(a) SUPERVISED PRACTICE. Until further order of the Board as provided in Paragraph (b), the Respondent license to practice pharmacy shall be limited such that the Respondent shall practice pharmacy only under the direct supervision of a pharmacist acceptable to the Board and only while said pharmacist is physically present to supervise said practice. Respondent shall provide a copy of this Order to said supervisor, and shall cause said supervising pharmacist to submit monthly reports to the Board on Respondent's work performance and the number of hours actually worked. If Respondent practices pharmacy when the supervisor is not physically present, then such action shall be grounds for revocation of Respondent's license.

(b) PETITION FOR LIFTING OF SUPERVISED PRACTICE. When the Respondent has worked for at least three (3) months with a minimum of 30 hours per week, under the limitation set forth in Paragraph (a) above, the Respondent may petition the Board for termination of the limitation on practice provided in Paragraph (a) above. After the Board receives the petition and reviews the reports from Respondent's supervisor, the Board may request that the Respondent appear before the Board at a Board meeting prior to the lifting of the limitation. After the Board considers the petition and after the Respondent's appearance, if one is requested by the Board, the Board may enter an Order lifting the limitation on practice provided in Paragraph (a) above.

(c) EMPLOYER REPORTS. During the probationary period, Respondent shall provide a copy of this Consent Order to his employer and shall cause his employer to submit reports regarding his performance as a pharmacist. During the period when practice is limited as provided in Paragraph (a), the monthly reports shall satisfy the provisions of this Paragraph. If the limitation on practice is lifted in accordance with Paragraph (c), Respondent shall cause his employer to submit reports regarding his performance to the Board, by March 31st, June 30th, September 30th, and December 31st of each year, beginning with the first reporting period following the lifting of the limitation on practice.

(d) PERPETUAL INVENTORY FOR CONTROLLED SUBSTANCES. Respondent agrees that he shall maintain a perpetual running inventory of controlled substances, Schedules II through IV, in any pharmacy in which he works or is employed as a pharmacist. Said inventory must account for each and every dose of controlled substance received, stocked, dispensed or otherwise disposed of by the pharmacy. Respondent shall keep said inventory available for inspection at any reasonable time requested by the Board or its agent.

(e) NO PHARMACIST-IN-CHARGE. During the probationary period, the Respondent shall not practice as the pharmacist-in-charge. The Respondent may not petition for modification of this provision of the Consent Order until at least one year from the effective date of this Order. After the Board receives the petition, the Board may request that Respondent appear before the Board at a Board meeting prior to the lifting of the limitation. After the Board considers the petition and after the Respondent's appearance, if one is requested by the Board, the Board may enter an Order lifting the limitation in this subsection.

(f) PERSONAL REPORTS. Respondent shall submit personal reports to the Board regarding Respondent's employment, by March 31st, June 30th, September 30th, and December 31st of each year, beginning with the first reporting period following the effective date of this Order. Such reports shall include any change of personal address or employment.

(g) NO PHARMACY OWNERSHIP. During the probationary period, Respondent shall not own a pharmacy. The Respondent may not petition for a modification of such limitation until at least one (1) year from the effective date of this Order. After the Board receives the petition, the Board may request that Respondent appear before the Board at a Board meeting prior to the lifting of the limitation. After the Board considers the petition and after the Respondent's appearance, if one is requested by the Board, the Board may deny the Petition or enter an Order lifting the limitation in this paragraph. The limitation in this paragraph shall remain in effect until the Board enters an Order lifting the limitation or ending probation.

(h) NAPLEX REVIEW COURSE. Within the first two years of the probationary period, Respondent must take Pharmacy Examination Preparatory Course (NAPLEX review course). The Board must receive evidence of Respondent's compliance with this paragraph within the first two years of the probationary period identified in this Consent Order.

(i) NOTIFICATION OF CHANGE. The Respondent shall advise the Board in writing of any change in Respondent's residence and/or office address within ten (10) days of such change.

(j) PRACTICE OUTSIDE GEORGIA. In the event, the Respondent should practice outside the State of Georgia, the Respondent shall notify the Board in writing of such practice. Periods of practice outside of Georgia will not apply to the reduction of the Respondent's probationary period. The Respondent shall advise the Board of any change in Respondent's residence and/or office address.

(k) ADDRESS FOR REPORTS. All reports required under this Consent Order shall be sent to the Georgia State Board of Pharmacy, to the attention of the Executive Director, 237 Coliseum Drive, Macon, Georgia 31217.

(l) VIOLATIONS AND ADDITIONAL SANCTIONS. If the Respondent shall fail to abide by all State and Federal laws relating to drugs and/or regulating the practice of pharmacy, the Rules and Regulations of the Georgia State Board of Pharmacy, or the terms of this Consent Order and probation, or if it should appear from reports submitted to the Board that the Respondent is unable to practice pharmacy with reasonable skill and safety, the Respondent's license shall be subject to revocation, upon substantiation thereof, and the Board may determine that such revocation is permanent.

(m) PETITION FOR LIFTING OF PROBATION. Within sixty (60) days of the scheduled date of termination of probation, Respondent may petition for termination of probation by certifying under oath before a notary public that the Respondent has complied with all conditions of probation and by providing documentation supporting discharge from probation.

(n) TERMINATION/EXTENSION OF PROBATION. The Georgia State Board of Pharmacy shall review and evaluate the practice of the Respondent prior to lifting the probation. At such time, the Board shall be authorized to restore all rights and privileges incident to the license of the Respondent, unless the Board has received information that the Respondent has not complied with the terms of probation or has otherwise failed to comply with the law and rules regulating her practice as a pharmacist. Should the Board determine that reasonable cause exists for maintaining Respondent's license on a probationary status, the Board shall notify Respondent of its intent to extend the probationary period, and Respondent may respond to such notification in writing or request an appearance before the Board or its representative as in a non-contested case. In any event, this Consent Order shall remain in effect pending a final determination by the Board and notification that the probationary period has terminated.

This Consent Order shall be considered to be a public record of the Board and may be disseminated by the Board as disciplinary action.

3.

Approval of this Consent Order by the Georgia State Board of Pharmacy shall in no way be construed as condoning the Respondent's conduct and shall not be construed as a waiver of any of the lawful rights possessed by the Board. This Consent Order shall not become effective until approved by the Board and docketed by the Division Director of the Professional Licensing Boards Division, Secretary of State.

4.

Respondent acknowledges that he has read this Consent Order and that he understands its contents. Respondent understands that he has the right to an appearance in this matter, and Respondent freely, knowingly and voluntarily waives such right by entering into this Consent Order. Respondent understands that this Consent Order will not become effective until approved by the Georgia State Board of Pharmacy and docketed by the Division Director of the Professional Licensing Boards Division, Secretary of State. Respondent further understands and agrees that the Board shall have the authority to review the investigative file and all relevant evidence in considering this Consent Order. Respondent further understands that this Consent Order, once approved, shall constitute a public record that may be disseminated as a disciplinary action of the Board. If this Consent Order is not approved, it shall not constitute an admission against interest in this proceeding, or prejudice the ability of the Board to adjudicate this matter. Respondent consents to the terms and sanctions contained herein.

December 9th, 2025

Attention: Nevada State Board of pharmacy,

I am writing this explanation, which should cover all relevant material in the hopes of obtaining a new controlled substance license as I had surrendered my DEA license last year, and the controlled substance license had also been revoked as a result. I had a controlled substance license and a DEA license when I first moved here in 2021 and had it active until November 2024 during which time the license had been revoked as a cascade effect of the medical board suspending my license prior to having a hearing, after which a settlement was reached on June 6 of 2025.

Section 5:

1. I do not believe I have any actual diagnosis for substance abuse, nor have I been treated for any mental health condition. I did get arrested for a misdemeanor DUI in April of 2024 in Las Vegas, the case has since been settled with the one-year probation until October 2025. I did require an intoxalock breathalyzer device in my car, after my driver's license was suspended, but that has been successfully completed, and my driver's license is now unrestricted and active. Although no formal diagnosis of alcohol use disorder has been rendered, I have been free from drinking alcohol for 14 months now and voluntarily use sober linked device, which is monitored by the professional health monitoring program supervisor (Mark Chase) for Nevada state. I underwent substance abuse evaluation (routine for DUI by the medical board) by Mark Chase and the medical board accepted his clearance with no issues reported by him affecting my ability to perform the essential functions of my license. I have checked "no" to any impairment to carry out the duties of my license because of the PHP and evaluation by a psychiatrist both of which cleared me to return to practice. I have never had any issues with substance use or abuse that affected work and have never had an issue while working. However, I had enrolled voluntarily enrolled in PHP following the DUI and to satisfy any requirements for Nevada state to ensure compliance with the Nevada State medical Board and will remain in the PHP for 5 years.

2. I was charged and convicted of two DUI in New York in 2015. I was on probation for three years and completed that in 2019 successfully. Here in Nevada, I was arrested in December 2022, due to a domestic violence argument, where my ex-girlfriend had called the police for alleged domestic violence. However, no charges, were accepted by the police as they found them to be false and the charges were in fact denied by the police so it never to court. I have explained this to the medical board as well. There is no court documentation or otherwise as charges were not accepted but I want to disclose encounter. I have already disclosed the 2 DUI arrests in NY from 10 years ago and the resulting documentation was provided to the Board of Pharmacy almost 5 years ago. There is no change in that status, but I can provide a discharge from probation letter from the PO back in 2019. In July 2025, I was in a four-car accident with no serious injuries. I had been arrested at the scene of the crime because of not having the intoxalock in the new car that I had. However, the record had not been updated at the DMV, that was that clarified and the charges were dropped as I had already fulfilled that the requirements for that and it was an updating error on the part of the DMV. Included in this is a letter from the court to my lawyer for the DUI as well as the second arrest in the summer of this year, which was dropped due to a technicality error on the part of the DMV. The charges were dropped to a traffic misdemeanor of not keeping a safe distance while driving. I have let the medical board know about this as well and they were satisfied with the explanation and resultant disposition.

3. I have been the subject of the medical board, taking administrative action due to a former patient reporting an inappropriate relationship as well as failure to report the 2024 DUI arrest within 30 days as required by the board. I also admitted to failure to maintain proper records as alleged in the complaint, although the case is more complicated because I had been locked out of the medical records from the old practice that I had been in and was unable to complete some of the records, but I had admitted and accepted the charge as part of the agreement. The settlement agreement was reached in June 2025. I will attach a copy of the agreement from the Nevada state board of medical examiners. This included paying a fine and legal cost as well as revocation of the license, which was lifted on December 8 of 2025, and status of my license is currently on probation for five years. The terms of this probation which are included in the agreement have been attached below include being monitored by the professional health monitoring program, as well as having a female chaperone for all female patients. This also include included completing a PROBE course on ethics which I completed in September and submitted to the board, as well as 20 hours of continuing medical education which include included 10 hours of ethics as well as five hours of substance use treatment and five hours of proper prescribing practices. These have all been submitted to the medical board and they have accepted it resulting in my license suspension being lifted and my license is now currently in the probationary stage. I had an active license in NY from 2017 till 2021 but have not kept it active and when I was approached by NY to explain the events leading to the board hearing in Nevada, they were satisfied with notarized document from me saying that I was not practicing in NYS nor do I have any intention to.

I would like to provide a little more explanation regarding the primary allegation of coercing a patient into a personal relationship. The case is complicated, and I accepted the charge and subsequent measures needed in my practice, to restore my license. The complainant, i.e. former patient had been hired by a former Clinic owner whom I had worked for. This owner and physician had his Medicaid and Medicare privileges revoked for fraudulent billing, and unbeknownst to me at the time had attempted to use my license for that purpose (This had been reported and documented by the board in 2022, and this individual did face sanctions by Medicaid eventually. He also tried to set up a video camera in my office and had hired a woman who had as I found out later already tried to blackmail and or file civil lawsuit against two other previous doctors for similar accusations. Patient had asked to engage in intimate and inappropriate activities in the office, which I declined. I had then terminated care with this patient and transferred patient to another provider, but patient had not followed up. In addition, I had been locked out of the electronic health records by the owner of the clinic who had attempted to use my medical license for unauthorized billing. I admit the former patient then invited me back to her apartment a few months later. And had set up a video camera and recorded myself and her illegally using a video camera without my consent. She then reported this encounter to the medical board as well as filing a civil lawsuit after she had tried to blackmail me. She also made a false allegation that I inappropriately prescribed medications to her, but this was found to be false during the investigation. I admit that I made a gross misjudgment in having any kind of relationship outside of a professional psychiatrist and patient relationship. The patient had come to see me three times in my clinic between November and January of 2021. The civil lawsuit did not end up in court and was settled out of court with no admission of guilt and no judgment. However, I admit that I made a poor decision to engage with a former patient in any capacity, and I accept responsibility for that. As a result of the hearing with the medical board, I did admit to the Charge and agreed to have a female chaperone for the next five years present for all female patients. Currently, I have a clinical practice that is waiting for me to return to work that has two female chaperones that are registered with the medical board, and they have accepted that as a solution. I also completed a PROBE ethics course. And 10 hours of CME for ethics as well as five hours for substance use treatment and five hours for proper prescribing practices. I also admitted to failure to keep appropriate medical records, although as explained above, I had been locked out of the medical records by the owner of the clinic, but I admitted to that as part of the agreement to get my medical license active again eventually. As a result, I have agreed to have a third-party chart review company evaluate 10 to 50 percent of my charts every quarter. I believe one of the charges had also included failure to check PMP regularly so as part of the settlement agreement I have agreed to have PMP for controlled substances checked every visit and documented and this will be checked by a third part medical records evaluator.

4. My license has not been subject to any discipline for violation of pharmacy or drug laws other than my controlled substance license being suspended by the Nevada State Board of Pharmacy in November of 2024 due to the suspension of my medical license. I also surrendered my DEA license voluntarily after the medical license suspension and will be looking to file for a new number if approved.

Along with the application, I will send in a copy for the explanation of the arrest in New York from 10 years ago, which I believe the board may already possess. I will also send a copy of the settlement agreement with the medical board. I do not have any final disposition for the DUI arrest from 2024 here in Nevada since I am currently on probation with a check in with the court in March 2026 and the final check-in in October 2026, at which point my probation will be completed if successful. I expressed regret in the matter, and I hope that the Board will the steps that I have taken, and which have been approved by the medical board to be satisfactory. If there are any questions at the Board may have for further clarification, feel contact me at [redacted] or you can call me at [redacted] As someone who has struggled with alcohol use and is currently in treatment and being monitored, I understand and have empathy for people who may be affected by this illness, and if given the privilege to obtain a controlled substance license as previously obtained, I promise to practice safe and appropriate prescriptions of controlled substances and to use them judiciously and help the community address substance abuse, and misuse issues to the best of my knowledge and experience, including personal experience. Previously, I had a DEA license, as well as having the X waiver and ability to prescribe Suboxone. I had surrendered my DEA license last year with the suspension of my medical license, and I spoke with the investigator who had said that if the control substance license is successful, then he can assist me in obtaining a new DEA license as well. I appreciate the Nevada State Board of pharmacies consideration for a controlled substance license.

Dear Dr. Ali:

The Nevada State Board of Pharmacy (Board) has received notice that the Nevada State Board of Medical Examiners summarily suspended your license to practice medicine, effective October 11, 2024. Subject: Explanation

WARNING - This email originated from outside the State of Nevada. Exercise caution when opening attachments or clicking links, especially from unknown senders.

In 2022, I voluntarily relinquished my license, for administrative reason, reinstated 4/2020 (3month)

The follow codes are the violations that the clinic were sited to be in violation:

(page 73) CRF 1304.11 (a) Inventory Requirements

The overall result of miss management of the regulatory process of managing controlled substances in the office.

I was an employee of Men's T Clinic, performing duties as their clinical director and Nurse Practitioner.

Ultimately, we were cited for not being managed by the Supervising Physician/Organization and policies were not implemented to ensure that we (as a company 6 clinics) were compliant.

Over a 3 month timeline I personally changed the company's policy, trained the staff and the Supervising Physician on the proper guidelines and practice.

I worked with Agent Carmen Mann to ensure the policies were accurate and correct.

Because of my efforts and cooperation I was reinstated in 3 months from the time of the occurrence.

I have maintained my DEA License ever since, in the state of Texas and Louisiana.

I am currently in good standing in both states.

I hope this clarifies the occurrence.

If you have any questions or concerns please contact me via email or phone.

Thank you

However, on 05/10/2023 the indictment was dismissed without prejudice as the indictment failed to allege that I knowingly and intentionally acted without authorization. Date of Event/Arrest	Disposition Date	State	City	County
11/16/2023		NV	Henderson	Clark

Reason/Charge
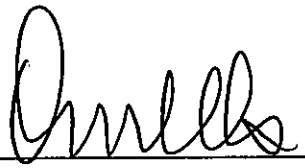
Malpractice, Failure to Maintain Proper Medical Records, Violation of Standards of Practice, Failure to exercise skill

Plaintiff/Defendant/Claimant/Respondent	Lawsuit/Arbitration/Bankruptcy



Name of Business/Industry/Entity

Provide explanation below:

Question #3: On 11/16/2023, I was served with a formal complaint from the NSBME. This complaint came after the dismissal of my indictment of charges from the federal government. The basis of the complaints was the prescribing of controlled substances by an OB/GYN. I have informed the board on several occasions that I no longer practice this style of medicine but a preventative and wellness based model consisting of functional and integrative medicine. However , on June 7, 2023, I entered into a settlement agreement with the board. The agreement called for revoking of my license which was stayed, two years of active probation with a provision for early release after 12 months, if all conditions are satisfied, a $25,000 fine, and I could not apply for my controlled substances or DEA license for one year. I was to also complete 22 hours of CME credits in Proper prescribing (which I have completed) and take the CPEP Probe Ethics course, which I am scheduled for November 13-15, 2025. I will also be petitioning the board to appear on the December 2025 agenda for early release of probation as all requirements will have been fulfilled. I will be attaching the complaints, settlement agreement, CME certificate, and my personal protection plan that I created after completion of the Proper prescribing course.

Question #4: I didn't really know how to answer this question, but as a precaution I answered yes. I didn't know if the NSBME complaints are considered as discipline for violation of pharmacy or drug laws. It has never been stated that I was being disciplined for either of these violations. If the complaints are consistent with these violations then I would refer to the answers in question 3. Again, I have taken the Proper prescriber course and created a personal protection plan, both of which I will be attaching.

As an aside, I was issued an controlled substance license on 08/04/2023 after the federal charges were dismissed. However, the DEA would not approve my application after collaborating with the NSBME to file the above complaints. I had to let the CS license expire as the DEA asked me to withdraw my application

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

DISTRICT OF NEVADA

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Plaintiff, v. ORLANDIS WELLS, MD, Defendant.	Case No. 2:19-cr-00216-ART-NJK ORDER

Before the Court is Wells' motion to dismiss (ECF No. 85) and supplemental motions to dismiss (ECF No. 108) arguing that the Indictment fails to state an offense. For the reasons set forth below, Wells' motion is granted.

I. Procedural History

Dr. Wells, a Board-Certified Physician generally authorized to prescribe controlled substances to patients, was indicted on August 21, 2019, on thirty-two counts of violating 21 § U.S.C. 841(a)(1) and (b)(1)(C). (ECF No. 1.)

On December 1, 2022 (ECF No. 85), Wells filed a motion to dismiss. The government responded. (ECF No. 89.) Wells replied. (ECF No. 96.)

On February 17, 2023, Wells and the government filed supplemental briefing (ECF Nos. 108; 109) pursuant to the Court's Minute Order, which requested the parties address two Ninth Circuit cases. (ECF No. 106.)

The Court held an oral argument on February 24, 2023 (ECF No. 111). Following oral argument, the parties submitted additional supplemental briefing. (ECF Nos. 113; 114.) This order follows.

II. Legal Standard

A defendant may challenge the sufficiency of an indictment prior to trial for failure to state an offense. FED. R. CRIM. P. 12(b)(v). It is "axiomatic" that an indictment must set forth each and every element of the offense, including implied, necessary elements, to adequately allege an offense against the United States. See United States v. Davis, 33 F.4th 1236, 1240 (9th Cir. 2022). "An indictment is sufficient if it contains the elements of the charged crime in adequate detail to inform the defendant of the charge and to enable him to plead double jeopardy." United States v. Lopez, 576 F. App'x 680, 681–82 (9th Cir. 2014) (quoting United States v. Awad, 551 F.3d 930, 935 (9th Cir. 2009)). "The failure of an indictment to detail each element of the charged offense generally constitutes a fatal defect." United States v. Keith, 605 F.2d 462, 464 (9th Cir. 1979). This is true even when an indictment "tracks the language of a statute." Id. In the end, a person "cannot be convicted on the basis of facts not found by, and perhaps not even presented to, the grand jury." Id.

"The test for sufficiency of the indictment is 'not whether it could have been framed in a more satisfactory manner, but whether it conforms to minimal constitutional standards.'" Awad, 551 F.3d at 935. When determining whether an indictment states a cognizable offense, courts are "bound by the four corners of the indictment, must accept the truth of the allegations in the indictment, and cannot consider evidence that does not appear on the face of the indictment." United States v. Kelly, 874 F.3d 1037, 1047 (9th Cir. 2017).

"[A]n indictment's complete failure to recite an essential element of the charged offense is . . . a fatal flaw requiring dismissal of the indictment." United States v. Du Bo, 186 F.3d 1177, 1179 (9th Cir. 1999); see also United States v. Qazi, 975 F.3d 989, 993 (9th Cir. 2020) (noting that an omission of an essential element is one "of at least two reasons why an indictment may fail to state an offense."). While "minor or technical deficiencies, even where the errors are related to an element of the offense charged . . . are amenable to harmless error review," a "completely missing essential element" renders an indictment constitutionally defective. Du Bo, 186 F.3d at 1180 (internal quotations and citations omitted).

III. Discussion

Wells challenges the sufficiency of the Indictment based on Ruan v. United States, 142 S. Ct. 2370 (2022), a case that was decided after Wells was indicted and altered what the Government must prove to convict a physician of violating 21 U.S.C. § 841(a)(1) and (b)(1)(C). Section 841 provides that "[e]xcept as authorized . . . it shall be unlawful for any person knowingly or intentionally . . . to manufacture, distribute, or dispense . . . a controlled substance." [add citation] A prescription is "authorized" if it is "issued for a legitimate medical purpose by an individual practitioner acting in the usual course of his [or her] professional practice." 21 C.F.R. § 1306.04(a) (2021). In Ruan, the Supreme Court held that the knowingly or intentionally mens rea applies to "except as authorized" clause.

The Supreme Court's decision in Ruan altered what the Government must prove under § 841, but it is not clear whether Ruan changed what the Government must plead. This uncertainty stems from the fact that Ruan did not squarely find that § 841's "except as authorized" clause is an element of the offense. Ruan, 142 S. Ct. at 2380. One of the ways the Government and the concurrence in Ruan argued that the "except as authorized" clause differs from a traditional element stems from the operation of 21 U.S.C. § 885, which provides that the Government does not need to anticipate or foreclose affirmative defenses. Section 885 states, "[i]t shall not be necessary for the United States to negative any exemption or exception set forth in this subchapter in any . . . indictment or other pleading or in any trial . . . ." Section 885 also establishes that "the burden of going forward with the evidence with respect to any such exemption or exception shall be upon the person claiming its benefit." Id.

The government argued in Ruan that "except as authorized" is not an element because under § 885, the "government need not refer to a lack of authorization (or any other exemption or exception) in the criminal indictment." Id. at 2379. The Court noted that "Section 885 merely absolves the Government of having to allege, in an indictment, the inapplicability of every statutory exception in each Controlled Substances Act prosecution." Id. at 2380 (emphasis added). The Court held that "even assuming that lack of authorization is unlike an element" for the purposes of § 885, "it is sufficiently like an element in respect to [scienter requirements] as to warrant similar treatment." Id. at 2379–80. The Court did not clarify how far this similar treatment extends. See id. at 2383 (Alito, J., concurring) ("How many other affirmative defenses might warrant similar treatment, the Court does not say. It leaves prosecutors, defense attorneys, and the lower courts in the dark.").

Since Ruan at least one district court has held that Ruan does require the Government to plead in the indictment that the defendant knowingly or intentionally acted in an unauthorized manner. See United States v. Spayd, 2022 WL 4220192 (D. Alaska Sept. 13, 2022); but see United States v. Spivack, et al., No. CV 22-343, 2022 WL 4091669, at *1 n.1 (E.D. Pa. Sept. 6, 2022); United States v. Siefert, et al., No. 2:21-cr-00002-DLB-CJS (E.D. Ky. Feb 24, 2021). The district court in Spayd concluded that the element added by Ruan was alleged in the superseding indictment, which alleged that Ms. Spayd, "while acting and intending to act outside the usual course of professional practice and without a legitimate medical purpose, wrote and dispensed prescriptions" for controlled substances. Id. at *3.

Before Ruan, the Ninth Circuit held that "except as authorized" is an element of the offense when a medical practitioner is criminally prosecuted under § 841.[1] In United States v. King, 587 F.2d 956 (9th Cir. 1978), the Court held that a controlled substance offense indictment against a medical practitioner must allege that the physician acted without authorization. Id. at 1548. King held that

[1] The district Court in Spayd appears to have reached its conclusion without considering, or at least discussing, the fact that the Ninth Circuit had already held that in the narrow circumstance of a medical professional charged with violating § 841, "except as authorized" is treated like an element for both indictment and trial purposes.

registered medical practitioners who dispense controlled substances cannot be presumed to do so unlawfully when the defendant is a physician duly registered with the Attorney General to dispense controlled substances. Id. at 1548. Such a presumption is irrational, and hence unconstitutional, the court explained in King, because it could not say with substantial assurance that the presumed fact of non-authorization is more likely than not to flow from the distribution by a practitioner. Id. The Ninth Circuit confirmed in United States v. Kim that the "except as authorized" element must be pled in an indictment when a doctor is indicted, as failing to do so deprives the defendant of notice. 298 F.3d 746, 750 (9th Cir. 2002) ("Assuming as we must that King is good law, its rationale applies to a physician charged with distributing an unknown quantity of a drug; the case holds that he could not be presumed to have acted beyond his authorization unless the indictment so alleged."). Nothing in Ruan calls into question that line of cases.

Because "except as authorized" is already an element in the Ninth Circuit, Ruan's holding requires that indictments of medical practitioners under § 841 allege that a medical practitioner "knowingly and intentionally" acted without authorization. This follows from the Ninth Circuit's holdings in Rehaif v. United States, 139 S. Ct. 2191 (2019) and United States v. Qazi, 975 F.3d 989, 992 (9th Cir. 2020), which addressed an analogous development in how the government was required to prove and indict the crime of felon in possession of a firearm. The federal statute in Rehaif, 18 U.S.C. § 922(g), provides that "[i]t shall be unlawful" for certain individuals to possess firearms and lists categories of individuals subject to the prohibition. A separate provision, § 924(a)(2), adds that anyone who "knowingly violates" the first provision shall be fined or imprisoned for up to 10 years. The Court held in Rehaif that to convict, the Government must show that the defendant knew he possessed a firearm and knew he had the relevant status when he possessed it. Rehaif v. United States, 139 S. Ct. 2191, 2194

(2019).

Following Rehaif, the court in Qazi required that indictments charge a defendant's knowledge of their prohibited status. The defendant in Qazi was charged with being a felon in possession of a firearm in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 922(g). Qazi, 975 F.3d at 994. Before trial, Qazi filed a "Motion to Dismiss Indictment for Failure to State Offense". Id. The government opposed Qazi's motion, arguing that the indictment tracks the language of 18 U.S.C. 922(g), sets forth the elements of the offense and clearly apprises the defendant of the charge that he must defend against. Id. The magistrate judge agreed with the government and concluded: "Here, the indictment tracks the language of 18 U.S.C. 922(g), sets forth the elements of the offense. This is sufficient." Id. While Qazi's appeal was pending, the Supreme Court recognized for the first time that the defendant's knowledge of his felon status is a required element under Section 922(g). Id. (citing Rehaif, 139 S. Ct. at 2200). Qazi's indictment did not contain this element. The court in Qazi found that the indictment neither "track[ed] the language of 18 U.S.C. 922(g)" nor "set[] forth the elements of the offense," because it did not allege that he had knowledge of his felon status. Qazi, 975 F.3d at 994. The court explained, "When the Supreme Court interprets a criminal statute in a way that narrows the scope of criminal conduct, we view the statute as always having meant what the Supreme Court now says it does." Id. at n.3.

The Indictment here does not allege that Dr. Wells knowingly and intentionally acted in an unauthorized manner. Introductory allegation 1 states that, "With limited exceptions for medical professionals, the CSA (Controlled Substance Act) makes it "unlawful for any person knowingly or intentionally . . . to manufacture, distribute, or dispense . . . a controlled substance." (ECF No. 1 at 2.) Introductory allegation 8 states in relevant part that, "in order for a prescription for a controlled substance to be valid, it 'must be for a legitimate medical purpose by an individual practitioner practicing in the usual course of his professional practice. (Id. at 4.) Introductory allegation 9 states that, "a prescription for a controlled substance issued without a legitimate medical purpose or outside of the individual practitioner's usual course of practice is not a valid prescription and the person who issues the prescription violates Title 21, United States Code, Section 841(a)(1). (Id. at 4.) The substantive counts incorporate the introductory allegations and further allege that Dr. Wells "did knowingly and intentionally distribute a mixture and substance containing a detectable amount of Schedule II controlled substance . . . without a legitimate medical purpose and outside the usual course of professional practice." (Id.)

The Court does not find persuasive the government's argument that the indictment adequately includes the mens rea added by Ruan. The government's strongest argument is that a natural reading of the Indictment leads to the conclusion that the Ruan-added mens rea modifies the verb "distribution" and the clause "without a legitimate purpose and outside the usual course of professional practice." (ECF No. 109.) There are several shortcomings, however. The government's argument omits any analysis of introductory allegation 1, which applies the mens rea only to the verbs "manufacturing", "distributing", and "dispensing." It also ignores the circumstance that that as a matter of basic grammar, adverbs modify verbs, and thus "knowingly" and "intentionally" would not naturally modify the phrase "without a legitimate purpose and outside the usual course of professional practice". Notably, the concurrence in Ruan observed that, "As a matter of elementary syntax, the adverbs "knowingly" and "intentionally" are most naturally understood to modify the verbs that follow, i.e., "manufacture," "distribute," etc. . . ." Ruan, 142 S. Ct. at 2384 (Alito, J., concurring).

Construing the Indictment as a whole and "in accord with common sense and practicality," United States v. Holden, 806 F.3d 1227, 1233 (9th Cir. 2015) (quoting United States v. Alber, 56 F.3d 1106, 1111 (9th Cir. 1995)), the new element that Ruan added was not included in the Indictment. The "knowingly and intentionally" mens rea clearly applies to the act of distribution but not to the language defining without authorization. The Indictment is therefore facially invalid. The government in another district reached the same conclusion and elected to dismiss a similar indictment based on Ruan. See United States v. Kim, No. CR-20-163-PRW (W.D. Okla. Jul. 29, 2022)("Based on this intervening Supreme Court ruling [citing Ruan], the United States has concluded that the Indictment is defective."). Here, the Indictment is defective because the Ruan-added mens rea, which is an element in the Ninth Circuit, is not sufficiently alleged.

IV. CONCLUSION

Absence of authorization, at least in the Ninth Circuit, is an element that must be alleged when indicting a medical practitioner under § 841. Ruan's holding thus requires that such indictments allege that a medical practitioner "knowingly and intentionally" acted without authorization. The indictment in this case, when read as a whole, fails to allege that Dr. Wells knowingly and intentionally acted without authorization. The Court thus dismisses the Indictment without prejudice.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that the Defendant's motion to dismiss (ECF No. 85) and supplemental motion to dismiss (ECF No. 108) are GRANTED.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Defendant's motion to exclude (ECF No. 110) is DENIED AS MOOT.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the government's motion in limine (ECF No. 112) is DENIED AS MOOT.

[1] The Investigative Committee of the Nevada State Board of Medical Examiners, at the time this formal Complaint was authorized for filing, was composed of Board members Rachakonda D. Prabhu, M.D., Ms. Sandy Peltyn and Victor M. Muro, M.D.

[2] Patient A's true identity is not disclosed herein to protect her privacy, but is disclosed in the Patient Designation served upon Respondent along with a copy of this Complaint.

4. Although Patient A had earlier encounters with Respondent at another office, it appears that her initial visit to Respondent at Hormone Centers of Nevada was on or about September 12, 2016, wherein she complained of chronic pain.

5. Patient A was already taking 30 mg of oxycodone and 350 mg of carisoprodol for approximately two (2) years. In addition, she was prescribed 5 mg methadone "as needed" and 10 mg methadone "as needed" for over one (1) year.

6. Patient A visited Respondent three (3) more times, on or about October 13, 2016, on or about November 10, 2016, and on or about December 19, 2016.

7. Respondent's documentation for each visit for Patient A was virtually identical and fails to justify the continued prescriptions for high doses of opioids, nor did he create a plan to investigate the cause of Patient A's chronic pain.

8. Respondent's documentation does not reflect that he attempted to obtain Patient A's records from previous providers.

9. Respondent's documentation does not reflect that he utilized imaging studies to determine the cause of Patient A's chronic pain.

10. Respondent's documentation does not reflect that he attempted to utilize alternative treatment (non-opioid) for Patient A's chronic pain.

11. Respondent's documentation indicates, "drug screen appropriate for meds prescribed," but test results are not included in the records for Patient A.

12. Respondent provided inadequate attention to an initial assessment to determine if opioids were clinically indicated and to determine the risks associated with their use in a particular individual with pain with regard to Patient A's medical care.

13. Respondent provided inadequate monitoring of Patient A during the utilization of medications that have the strong potential for misuse.

14. Respondent provided inadequate attention to patient education and informed consent for Patient A's medical care.

15. Respondent failed to justify dose escalation without properly counseling Patient A of the potential risks or alternative treatments.

21. As demonstrated by, but not limited to, the above-outlined facts, Respondent failed to use the reasonable care, skill or knowledge ordinarily used under similar circumstances when rendering medical services to Patient A when the records for each of Patient A's visits were nearly identical, when Respondent failed to obtain Patient A's medical records from previous providers, when Respondent failed to utilize imaging studies to determine the cause of Patient A's chronic pain, when Respondent failed to utilize alternative treatment options (non-opioid) for Patient A's chronic pain, and when Respondent failed to utilize drug screening to determine the appropriate prescriptions for Patient A.

22. By reason of the foregoing, Respondent is subject to discipline by the Board as provided in NRS 630.352.

31. As demonstrated by, but not limited to, the above-outlined facts, Respondent wrote prescriptions to Patient A for opioid analgesics to treat chronic pain in a manner that deviated from the Model Policy when the records for each of Patient A's visits were nearly identical, when Respondent failed to obtain Patient A's medical records from previous providers, failed to utilize imaging studies to determine the cause of Patient A's chronic pain, failed to utilize alternative treatment (non-opioid) for Patient A's chronic pain, and failed to utilize drug screening to determine the appropriate prescriptions for Patient A.

36. Respondent did not "prescribe controlled substances only for a legitimate medical purpose," making these prescriptions unlawful pursuant to NRS 630.306(1)(c).

37. By reason of the foregoing, Respondent is subject to discipline by the Board as provided in NRS 630.352.

PATIENT B

38. Patient B[3] was a forty-one (41) year old male at the time of the events at issue.

53. As demonstrated by, but not limited to, the above-outlined facts, Respondent failed to use the reasonable care, skill or knowledge ordinarily used under similar circumstances when rendering medical services to Patient B when the records for both of Patient B's visits were identical, when Respondent obtained one (1) previous MRI from Patient B's medical records from previous providers, failed to utilize alternative treatment (non-opioid) for Patient B's chronic pain, and failed to utilize drug screening to determine the appropriate prescriptions for Patient B.

Respondent's deviations include but are not limited to when the records for both of Patient B's visits were identical, when Respondent failed to obtain all but one (an MRI) of Patient B's medical records from previous providers, when Respondent failed to utilize alternative treatment (non-opioid) for Patient B's chronic pain, and when Respondent failed to utilize drug screening to determine the appropriate prescriptions for Patient B.

64. By reason of the foregoing, Respondent is subject to discipline by the Board as provided in NRS 630.352.

74. Respondent's documentation for each visit is identical, fail to justify continued prescriptions for high doses of opioids, and they are identical to Patient A's notes.

75. Patient C's physical examination is identical to Patient A's.

76. A urine drug screen dated November 17, 2016, documented negative results for all substances tested including oxycodone, which should have alerted Respondent to potential misuse of oxycodone by Patient C.

77. Respondent's subsequent progress note dated December 15, 2016, failed to mention the negative test results, and in the alternative stated, "drug screen appropriate for meds prescribed." Respondent then prescribed an additional 30 mg oxycodone during this same visit.

78. Respondent's documentation does not reflect that he attempted to obtain Patient C's records from previous providers.

7. Respondent understands and agrees that this Agreement, by and between Respondent and the IC, is not with the Board, and that the IC will present this Agreement to the Board for consideration in open session at a duly noticed and scheduled meeting. Respondent further understands and agrees that if the Board approves this Agreement, then the terms and conditions enumerated below shall be binding and enforceable upon him and the Board.

B. TERMS & CONDITIONS

NOW, THEREFORE, in order to resolve the matters addressed herein, i.e., the matters with regard to the Complaints, Respondent and the IC hereby agree to the following terms and conditions:

1. Jurisdiction. Respondent is, and at all times relevant to the Complaints has been, a physician licensed to practice medicine in Nevada subject to the jurisdiction of the Board as set forth in the Medical Practice Act.

2. Representation by Counsel/Knowing, Willing and Intelligent Agreement. Respondent acknowledges he is represented by counsel and wishes to resolve the matters addressed herein with said counsel. Respondent agrees that if representation by counsel in this matter materially changes prior to entering into this Agreement and for the duration of this Agreement, that counsel for the IC will be timely notified of the material change. Respondent agrees that he knowingly, willingly and intelligently enters into this Agreement after deciding to have a full consultation with and upon the advice of legal counsel.

3. Waiver of Rights. In connection with this Agreement, and the associated terms and conditions, Respondent knowingly, willingly and intelligently waives all rights in connection with this administrative matter. Respondent hereby knowingly, willingly and intelligently waives all rights arising under the United States Constitution, the Nevada Constitution, the Medical Practice Act, the OML, the APA, and any other legal rights that may be available to him or that

Respondent agrees to settle and resolve the allegations of the Complaints as set out by this Agreement, without hearings or any further proceedings and without the right to judicial review.

4. Acknowledgement of Reasonable Basis to Proceed. As of the time of entering into this Settlement Agreement, the allegations of the Complaints remain unproven. The IC acknowledges Respondent is not admitting that the IC's claims/counts as alleged in the Complaints have merit and Respondent is agreeing to resolve this matter to avoid the costs of hearings and potential subsequent litigation. Respondent asserts if this matter were to proceed to hearing, he has evidence, witnesses, expert witness(es) and defenses to the counts/claims alleged in the Complaints, but for the purposes of resolving these matters and for no other purpose, Respondent waives the presentation of evidence, witnesses, expert witnesses, and defenses in order to effectuate this Agreement.

NRS 630.364(2)(a). Respondent agrees to release the State of Nevada, the Board, and each of its members, staff, counsel, investigators, experts, peer reviewers, committees, panels, hearing officers, consultants and agents from any and all manner of actions, causes of action, suits, debts, judgments, executions, claims and demands whatsoever, known and unknown, in law or equity, that Respondent ever had, now has, may have or claim to have, against any or all of the persons, government agencies or entities named in this paragraph arising out of, or by reason of, these investigations, this Agreement or the administration of the cases referenced herein.

resolution of these Complaints. In the course of seeking Board acceptance, approval and adoption of this Agreement, counsel for the IC may communicate directly with the Board staff and the adjudicating members of the Board.

Respondent acknowledges that such contacts and communications may be made or conducted ex-parte, without notice or opportunity to be heard on his part until the public Board meeting where this Agreement is discussed, and that such contacts and communications may include, but may not be limited to, matters concerning this Agreement, the Complaints and any and all information of every nature whatsoever related to these matters. 9. Effect of Rejection of Agreement by Board. In the event the Board does not accept, approve and adopt this Agreement, this Agreement shall be null, void and of no force and effect except as to the following agreement regarding adjudications: (1) Respondent agrees that, notwithstanding rejection of this Agreement by the Board, nothing contained in this Agreement and nothing that occurs pursuant to efforts of the IC to seek the Board's acceptance of this Agreement shall disqualify any member of the adjudicating panel of the Board from considering these Complaints and from participating in disciplinary proceedings against Respondent, including adjudication of the cases; and (2) Respondent further agrees that he shall not seek to disqualify any such member absent evidence of bad faith.

10. Binding Effect. If approved by the Board, Respondent understands that this Agreement is a binding and enforceable contract upon Respondent and the Board.

11. Forum Selection Clause. The parties agree that in the event either party is required to seek enforcement of this Agreement in district court, the party's consent to such jurisdiction and agree that exclusive jurisdiction shall be in the Second Judicial District Court, State of Nevada, Washoe County.

12. Attorneys' Fees and Costs. The parties agree that in the event an action is commenced in district court to enforce any provision of this Agreement, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover reasonable attorneys' fees and costs.

13. Failure to Comply with Terms. Should Respondent fail to comply with any term or condition of this Agreement once the Agreement has been accepted, approved and adopted by the Board, the IC shall be authorized to immediately suspend Respondent's license to practice medicine in Nevada pending an Order to Show Cause Hearing, which will be duly noticed. Failure to comply with the terms of this Agreement, including failure to pay any fines, costs, expenses or fees owed to the Board, is a failure to comply with an order of the Board, which may result in additional disciplinary action being taken against Respondent. Schedules of Controlled Substances: Placement of N-Pyrrolidino Metonitazene and N-Pyrrolidino Protonitazene in Schedule I AGENCY: Drug Enforcement Administration, Department of Justice.

ACTION: Final amendment; final order.

SUMMARY: With the issuance of this final order, the Administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration is permanently placing 2-(4-methoxybenzyl)-5-nitro-1-(2-(pyrrolidin-1-yl)ethyl)-1*H*-benzimidazole (other names: N-pyrrolidino metonitazene or metonitazepyne) and 5-nitro-2-(4-propoxybenzyl)-1-(2-(pyrrolidin-1-yl)ethyl)-1*H*-benzimidazole (other names: N-pyrrolidino protonitazene or protonitazepyne), including their isomers, esters, ethers, salts, and salts of isomers, esters, and ethers whenever the existence of such isomers, esters, ethers, and salts are possible within the specific chemical designation, in schedule I under the Controlled Substances Act. This action is being taken, in part, to enable the United States to meet its obligations under the 1961 Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs. This action imposes permanent regulatory controls and administrative, civil, and criminal sanctions applicable to schedule I controlled substances on persons who handle (manufacture, distribute, import, export, engage in research or conduct instructional activities with or possess), or handle N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Legal Authority

The United States is a party to the United Nations Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs, Mar. 30, 1961, 18 U.S.T. 1407, 520 U.N.T.S. 151 (Single Convention), as amended by the 1972 Protocol. Article 3, paragraph 7 of the Single Convention requires that if the Commission on Narcotic Drugs adds a substance to one of the schedules of such Convention, and the United States receives notification of such scheduling decision from the Secretary-General of the United Nations, the United States, as a signatory Member State, is obligated to control the substance under its national drug control legislation. Under 21 U.S.C. 811(d)(1) of the Controlled Substances Act (CSA), if control of a substance is required ''by United States obligations under international treaties, conventions, or protocols in effect on October 27, 1970,'' the Attorney General must issue an order controlling such drug under the schedule she deems most appropriate to carry out such obligations, without regard to the findings required by 21 U.S.C. 811(a) or 812(b), and without regard to the procedures prescribed by 21 U.S.C. 811(a) and (b). The Attorney General has delegated scheduling authority under 21 U.S.C. 811 to the Administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration.[1]

Background

On November 21, 2024, the Director-General of the World Health Organization recommended to the Secretary-General that N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene be placed in Schedule I of the Single Convention, as these substances have pharmacological effects similar to other opioid drugs that are controlled in Schedule I of the Single Convention. On June 9, 2025, the Secretariat of the United Nations informed the United States government, by letter, that the Commission voted to place N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene in Schedule I of the Single Convention during its 68th session on March 12, 2025 (CND Mar 68/2 and 68/1).

On August 15, 2025, DEA issued a temporary scheduling order, placing N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene temporarily in schedule I of the CSA.[2] That order for N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene (codified at 21 CFR 1308.11(h)(77) and (78)) was based on the Administrator's finding that the temporary scheduling of these substances was necessary to avoid an imminent hazard to public safety.[3]

N-Pyrrolidino Metonitazene and N-Pyrrolidino Protonitazene

Benzimidazole-opioids, commonly referred to as ''nitazenes,'' emerged on the recreational drug market in 2019. This class of substances shares a similar pharmacological profile with fentanyl, morphine, and other mu-opioid receptor agonists. In 2023, N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene emerged on the illicit opioid drug market. The abuse of N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene has been associated with adverse events to include their identification in toxicology cases in the United States. Several substances belonging to the benzimidazole-opioid drug class have been controlled in the United States, and as a class of drug in China, Canada, and the United Kingdom.

Law enforcement reports demonstrate that N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene are being illicitly distributed and abused. According to the National Forensic Laboratory Information System (NFLIS-Drug)[4] database, which collects drug identification results from drug cases submitted to and analyzed by Federal, State and local forensic laboratories, there have been 284 reports for N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene between January 2022 and August 2025 (query date: August 13, 2025). Specifically, there have been 253 encounters of N-pyrrolidino protonitazene from 22 States and 31 encounters of N-pyrrolidino metonitazene from 10 States. Benzimidazole-opioids have been identified in counterfeit prescription tablets in the United States. A report from the Expert Committee on Drug Dependence Critical Review on N-pyrrolidino protonitazene indicate this substance has been sold online as ''China White'' heroin.[5]

[4] NFLIS-Drug represents an important resource in monitoring illicit drug trafficking, including the diversion of legally manufactured pharmaceuticals into illegal markets. NFLIS-Drug is a comprehensive information system that includes data from forensic laboratories that handle more than 96 percent of an estimated 1 million distinct annual federal, state, and local drug analysis cases. NFLIS-Drug includes drug chemistry results from completed analyses only. While NFLIS-Drug data are not direct evidence of abuse, these can lead to an inference that a drug has been diverted and abused. See Schedules of Controlled Substances: Placement of Carisoprodol Into Schedule IV, 76 FR 77330, 77332 (Dec. 12, 2011).

N-Pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene have no currently accepted medical use in treatment in the United States. The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) advised DEA, by letter dated June 11, 2025, that based on a review by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), there were no investigational new drug applications (IND) or approved new drug applications (NDA) for N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene in the United States. Since this letter, HHS has not advised DEA of any new IND or NDA for these substances. Because N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene are not formulated or available for clinical use as approved medicinal products, all current use of these substances by individuals is based on their own initiative, rather than on the basis of medical advice from a practitioner licensed by law to administer such drugs.

Consistent with 21 U.S.C. 811(d)(1), DEA concludes that N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene have no currently accepted medical use in treatment in the United States[6] and are most appropriately placed permanently in schedule I of the CSA, the same schedule in which they temporarily reside. Because control is required under the Single Convention, DEA will not be initiating regular rulemaking proceedings to permanently schedule N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene pursuant to 21 U.S.C.811(a).

Conclusion

In order to meet the United States' obligation under the Single Convention and because N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene have no currently accepted medical use in treatment in the United States, the Administrator has determined that N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene including their isomers, esters, ethers, salts, and salts of isomers, esters, and ethers, whenever the existence of such isomers, esters, and salts are possible within the specific existence of such isomers, esters, ethers, and salts are possible within the specific chemical designation, should be placed permanently in schedule I of the CSA.

Requirements for Handling

As discussed above, N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene have been temporarily controlled in schedule I of the CSA since August 15, 2025. Upon the effective date of this final order, N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene will be permanently subject to the CSA's schedule I regulatory controls and administrative, civil, and criminal sanctions applicable to the manufacture, distribution, dispensing, importing, exporting, engagement in research or conduct of instructional activities with, and possession of, schedule I controlled substances, including the following:

1. Registration. Any person who handles (manufactures, distributes, reverse distributes, imports, exports, engages in research or conducts instructional activities or chemical analysis with, or possesses), or who desires to handle, N-pyrrolidino metonitazene or N-pyrrolidino protonitazene must be registered with DEA to conduct such activities pursuant to 21 U.S.C. 822, 823, 957, and 958, and in accordance with 21 CFR parts 1301 and 1312. Retail sales of schedule I controlled substances to the general public are not allowed under the CSA. Possession of any quantity of these substances in a manner not authorized by the CSA is unlawful and those in possession of any quantity of these substances may be subject to prosecution pursuant to the CSA.

2. Disposal of stocks. N-Pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene must be disposed of in accordance with 21 CFR part 1317, in addition to all other applicable federal, state, local, and tribal laws.

3. Security. N-Pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene are subject to schedule I security requirements and must be handled and stored pursuant to 21 U.S.C. 821, 823, and in accordance with 21 CFR 1301.71 through 1301.76. Non-practitioners handling N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene must comply with the screening requirements of 21 CFR 1301.90 through 1301.93.

4. Labeling and packaging. All labels, labeling, and packaging for commercial containers of N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene must comply with 21 U.S.C. 825 and 958(e) and be in accordance with 21 CFR part 1302.

5. Quota. Generally, only registered manufacturers are permitted to manufacture N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene in accordance with a quota assigned pursuant to 21 U.S.C. 826, and in accordance with 21 CFR part 1303.

6. Inventory. Any person registered with DEA to handle N-pyrrolidino metonitazene or N-pyrrolidino protonitazene must have an initial inventory of all stocks of controlled substances (including these substances) on hand on the date the registrant first engages in the handling of controlled substances pursuant to 21 U.S.C. 827 and 958(e), and in accordance with 21 CFR 1304.03, 1304.04, and 1304.11.

After the initial inventory, every DEA registrant must take a new inventory of all stocks of controlled substances (including N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene) on hand every two years pursuant to 21 U.S.C. 827 and 958(e) and in accordance [5] 47th Expert Committee on Drug Dependence Critical Review on N-pyrrolidino protonitazene and N-pyrrolidino metonitazene. 14–18 October 2024.

[6] There is no evidence suggesting that N-pyrrolidino metonitazene or N-pyrrolidino protonitazene have a currently accepted medical use in treatment in the United States. To determine whether a drug or other substance has a currently accepted medical use, DEA has traditionally applied a five-part test to a drug or substance that has not been approved by the FDA: (1) the drug's chemistry must be known and reproducible; (2) there must be adequate safety studies; (3) there must be adequate and well-controlled studies proving efficacy; (4) the drug must be accepted by qualified experts; and (5) the scientific evidence must be widely available. See Marijuana Scheduling Petition; Denial of Petition; Remand, 57 FR 10499 (Mar. 26, 1992), pet. for rev. denied, Alliance for Cannabis Therapeutics v. Drug Enforcement Admin., 15 F.3d 1131, 1135 (D.C. Cir. 1994). DEA applied the traditional five-part test and concluded the test was not satisfied. In a recent published letter in a different context, HHS applied an additional two-part test to determine currently accepted medical use for substances that do not satisfy the five-part test: (1) whether there exists widespread, current experience with medical use of the substance by licensed health care providers operating in accordance with implemented jurisdiction-authorized programs, where medical use is recognized by entities that regulate the practice of medicine, and, if so, (2) whether there exists some credible scientific support for at least one of the medical conditions for which part (1) is satisfied. On April 11, 2024, the Department of Justice's Office of Legal Counsel (OLC) issued an opinion, which, among other things, concluded that HHS's two-part test would be sufficient to establish that a drug has a currently accepted medical use. Office of Legal Counsel, Memorandum for Merrick B. Garland Attorney General Re: Questions Related to the Potential Rescheduling of Marijuana at 3 (April 11, 2024). For purposes of this scheduling order, there is no evidence that health care providers have widespread experience with medical use of N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene or that the use of N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene are recognized by entities that regulate the practice of medicine, so the two-part test also is not satisfied. By letter dated June 11, 2025, DEA has been advised by HHS that there are currently no approved new drug applications or investigational new drug applications for N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene. Additionally, HHS communicated no objections to the temporary placement of N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene into schedule I of the CSA.

with 21 CFR 1304.03, 1304.04, and 1304.11.

7. Records and Reports. Every DEA registrant must maintain records and submit reports with respect to N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene pursuant to 21 U.S.C. 827 and 958(e), and in accordance with 21 CFR 1301.74(b) and (c), 1301.76(b), and 1307.11 and parts 1304, 1312, and 1317. Manufacturers and distributors must submit reports regarding N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene to the Automation of Reports and Consolidated Order System pursuant to 21 U.S.C. 827 and in accordance with 21 CFR parts 1304 and 1312.

8. Order Forms. Every DEA registrant who distributes N-pyrrolidino metonitazene or N-pyrrolidino protonitazene must continue to comply with order form requirements pursuant to 21 U.S.C. 828 and in accordance with 21 CFR part 1305.

9. Importation and Exportation. All importation and exportation of N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene must continue to comply with 21 U.S.C. 952, 953, 957, and 958, and in accordance with 21 CFR part 1312.

10. Liability. Any activity involving N-pyrrolidino metonitazene or N-pyrrolidino protonitazene not authorized by, or in violation of the CSA or its implementing regulations, is unlawful, and may subject the person to administrative, civil, and/or criminal sanctions.

Regulatory Analyses

Executive Orders 12866, 13563, 14192, and 14294

This action is not a significant regulatory action as defined by Executive Order (E.O.) 12866 (Regulatory Planning and Review) and the principles reaffirmed in E.O. 13563 (Improving Regulation and Regulatory Review). DEA scheduling actions are not subject to E.O. 14192, Unleashing Prosperity Through Deregulations, or E.O. 14294, Fighting Overcriminalization in Federal Regulations. This action makes no change in the status quo, as N-pyrrolidino metonitazene and N-pyrrolidino protonitazene are already listed as schedule I controlled substances.

Executive Order 12988, Civil Justice Reform

This action meets the applicable standards set forth in sections 3(a) and 3(b)(2) of E.O. 12988 to eliminate drafting errors and ambiguity, minimize litigation, provide a clear legal standard for affected conduct, and promote simplification and burden reduction.

Executive Order 13132, Federalism

This action does not have federalism implications warranting the application of E.O. 13132. This action does not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government.

Executive Order 13175, Consultation and Coordination With Indian Tribal Governments

This action does not have tribal implications warranting the application of E.O. 13175. It does not have substantial direct effects on one or more Indian tribes, on the relationship between the Federal government and Indian tribes, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities between the Federal government and Indian tribes.

Administrative Procedure Act

The CSA provides for an expedited scheduling action where control is required by the United States' obligations under international treaties, conventions, or protocols.[7] If control is required pursuant to such international treaty, convention, or protocol, the Attorney General, as delegated to the Administrator, must issue an order controlling such drug under the schedule he deems most appropriate to carry out such obligations, and ''without regard to'' the findings and rulemaking procedures otherwise required for scheduling actions in 21 U.S.C. 811(a) and (b). Id.

In accordance with 21 U.S.C. 811(d)(1), scheduling actions for drugs that are required to be controlled by the United States' obligations under international treaties, conventions, or protocols in effect on October 27, 1970, shall be issued by order, as opposed to scheduling by rule pursuant to 21 U.S.C. 811(a). Therefore, DEA believes that the notice-and-comment requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (APA), 5 U.S.C. 553, do not apply to this scheduling action.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) (5 U.S.C. 601–612) applies to rules that are subject to notice and comment under the APA or any other law. As explained above, the CSA exempts this final order from notice and comment. Consequently, the RFA does not apply to this action.

Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

This action does not impose a new collection of information requirement under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995.[8] Also, this action does not impose new or modify existing recordkeeping or reporting requirements on State or local governments, individuals, businesses, or organizations. However, this action does require compliance with the following existing Office of Management and Budget (OMB) collections: 1117–0003, 1117–0004, 1117–0006, 1117–0008, 1117–0009, 1117–0010, 1117–0012, 1117–0014, 1117–0021, 1117–0023, 1117–0029, and 1117–0056. An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995

On the basis of information contained in the ''Regulatory Flexibility Act'' section above, DEA has determined pursuant to the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA) of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.) that this final rule would not result in any Federal mandate that may result ''in the expenditure by State, local, and tribal governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of $100,000,000 or more (adjusted annually for inflation) in any 1 year . . . .'' Therefore, neither a Small Government Agency Plan nor any other action is required under UMRA of 1995.

Congressional Review Act

This order is not a major rule as defined by the Congressional Review Act (CRA), 5 U.S.C. 804. However, DEA is submitting reports under the CRA to both Houses of Congress and to the Comptroller General.

33 CFR Parts 100 and 165

[Docket No. USCG–2023–0590]

2023 Quarterly Listings; Fourth Quarter; Safety Zones, Security Zones, and Special Local Regulations

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DHS.

ACTION: Notification of expired temporary rules issued.

SUMMARY: This document provides notification of substantive rules issued by the Coast Guard that were made temporarily effective but expired before they could be published in the Federal Register. This document lists temporary safety zones, security zones, and special local regulations, all of limited duration and for which timely publication in the Federal Register was not possible. This document also announces notifications of enforcement for existing reoccurring regulations that we issued but were unable to be published before the enforcement period ended.

DATES: This document lists temporary Coast Guard rules and notifications of enforcement that became effective, primarily between October 2023 and December 2023, and expired before they could be published in the Federal Register.

ADDRESSES: Temporary rules listed in this document may be viewed online, under their respective docket numbers, at http://www.regulations.gov.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For questions on this document contact Ambar Ali, Office of Regulations and Administrative Law, email HQS-SMB-CG-LRA-Admin@uscg.mil, telephone (202) 372–3862.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Coast Guard District Commanders and Captains of the Port (COTP) must be immediately responsive to the safety and security needs within their jurisdiction; therefore, District Commanders and COTPs have been delegated the authority to issue certain local regulations. Safety zones may be established for safety or environmental purposes. A safety zone may be stationary and described by fixed limits, or it may be described as a zone around a vessel in motion. Security zones limit access to prevent injury or damage to vessels, ports, or waterfront facilities. Special local regulations are issued to enhance the safety of participants and spectators at regattas and other marine events.

Timely publication of these rules in the Federal Register may be precluded when a rule responds to an emergency, or when an event occurs without sufficient advance notice. The affected public is, however, often informed of these rules through Local Notices to Mariners, press releases, and other means. Moreover, actual notification is provided by Coast Guard patrol vessels enforcing the restrictions imposed by the rule. Timely publication of notifications of enforcement of reoccurring regulations may be precluded when the event occurs with short notice or other agency procedural restraints.

Because Federal Register publication was not possible before the end of the effective period, mariners would have been notified of the contents of these safety zones, security zones, special local regulations, regulated navigation areas or drawbridge operation regulations by Coast Guard officials prior to any enforcement action. However, the Coast Guard, by law, must publish in the Federal Register notice of substantive rules adopted. To meet this obligation without imposing undue expense on the public, the Coast Guard periodically publishes a list of these temporary safety zones, security zones, special local regulations, regulated navigation areas and drawbridge operation regulations. Permanent rules are not included in this list because they are published in their entirety in the Federal Register. Temporary rules are also published in their entirety if sufficient time is available to do so before they are placed in effect or terminated. In some of our reoccurring regulations, we say we will publish a notice of enforcement as one of the means of notifying the public. We use this notification to announce those notifications of enforcement that we issued and will post them to their dockets.

The following unpublished rules were placed in effect temporarily during the period between October 2023 and December 2023. To view copies of these rules, visit www.regulations.gov and search by the docket number indicated in the following table.
